SENATE ADOPTS "EXEMPTION" TO THE SALES TAX

Revenue Bill Again Sent Back To First Reading Second Reading Monday

ARTICLES OF FOOD STUFF GO TAX FREE

Flour, Meat, Sugar And Other Articles Exempted Under Amendment Adopted This Morning; Expected to Clip $1,000,000 From Revenue Bill; House Passes Four Measures in Brief Session

Raleigh, N. C., April 29.—(AP)—On an unanimous roll call vote the Senate today adopted a new "exemption" amendment for the three percent general sales tax in the biennial revenue bill and again sent the act back to its first reading.

With Senate passage apparently assured, the revenue bill act will come up for second reading Monday. The new exemptions were agreed upon by Senate and House leaders in a conference with A. J. Maxwell, Commissioner of Revenue.

Flour, meat, sugar, salt, coffee, lard, lard substitute, molasses and milk will be allowed to be sold tax free where the selling merchant has accurate bookkeeping. If the exemptions are taken advantage of to the fullest extent it will cut some $1,000,000 annually from the general sales tax, but the accurate bookkeeping requirements will not be that much.

Senator Hill, of Durham; Francis, of Haywood; Blackstock, of Buncombe, and Rankin joined in offering the amendment. The compromise replaced the Hill amendment setting a flat exemption of $1,200 on persons selling necessary foods and allowing a 10 percent rebate on all sales above $1,200 and the Blackstock amendment specially exempted certain articles of food.

The unanimous favorable vote was the first solid roll call on any section of the Revenue Act this session, and is a rare legislative occurrence on taxation measures.

Raleigh, N. C., April 29.—(AP)—Twenty members of the House met today for a ten minute local bill session, received nine new measures and disposed of four of them.

The three Wake County Representatives, Aycock, Womble and Douglas, introduced a bill to prohibit the sale of beer within the corporate limits of Wake Forest or within one mile of the city limits.

Paris.—(AP)—Princess Dora Ruspoli wears a cotton raincoat in bad weather. It is a simple model of beige ribbed waterproof cotton, designed with a little Eton collar and fastened with six burnished copper cartridges.

Washington.—(AP)—Madame Andre de Laboulaye, wife of the French Ambassador to the United States, wears a Worth evening frock of black crepe satin designed with a vee shaped decollete and a draped hipline caught at one side by a circle of brilliants.

Laurence A. Steinhardt of New York was nominated by President Roosevelt to be minister to Sweden.

CONGRESS IS NEARING CLOSE

Three More Bills Will Complete Far Reaching Program of Pres. Roosevelt

Washington, D. C., April 29.—(AP)—The introduction of three more bills will virtually complete the administration program for the busiest special session since war-time.

The three proposals were designed to help railroads, give the President broad powers over tariff and provide for expansion of public works to increase employment.

They will probably go to Congress in the order named since railroads are leading the way, Monday or Tuesday.

Both Houses were in adjournment today for the week-end holiday.

Rep. Briggs Dies Suddenly at Capital

Washington, D. C., April 29.—(AP)—Clay Stone Briggs, 56, of Texas died suddenly at his apartment in Washington today.

Briggs was Representative of the Seventh Texas District.

He came to Congress in 1919 and had served continuously since. He had previously been judge of the District Court of the Tenth Judicial District.

"A patrol wagon was an unthought-of luxury," he says. "We used a cart, a wheelbarrow or carried our prisoners in those days."

COMMUNITY FAIR OPENS HERE MONDAY

Exposition to be Thrown Open by Mayor Flanagan at Eight O'clock

The doors of the Community Fair and Spring Festival will open Monday night, May 1, at 7:30 p. m., and promptly at 8 o'clock Mayor R. C. Flanagan will officially open the Community Fair.

Mrs. Mebane will appear in the costume in which she was presented to the Court of St. James. Mrs. Mebane will tell how she was presented and will show the formalities by which she was received by the King.

Each night promptly at 10 o'clock a dance will be started. Music will be furnished by Jimmie Barber and his orchestra. On Monday night Mrs. Mebane and M. K. Blount will lead the grand march, followed by a large number to Greenville's leading citizens.

Miss Clara Moyer chairman of the dance committee, has appointed the following chaperones: Col. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, Mrs. Myra Ficklen, Mayor and Mrs. R. C. Flanagan, Mrs. W. L. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ferguson, Mrs. W. I. Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Herderson, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Fleming, Mrs. J. L. Little, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. BEGIN ISSUING BEER LICENSES

County and City Authorities Take Steps to Grant Licenses to Beer Dealers

With the sale of legalized beer and wines becoming effective in North Carolina Sunday at midnight, persons desiring to sell the beverages were busying themselves today in preparation for beginning sale Monday.

With numbers of applications before them, members of the Board of Aldermen met this morning to go over the beer legislation and to fully acquaint themselves with its provisions before passing on the applicants.

The Board of County Commissioners at a meeting several days ago, authorized Tax Collector Preston Pierce to proceed with the issuance of county licenses when prospective dealers present their licenses from incorporated towns and cities.

CLUBMEN HOLD FARM NIGHT AT GRIMESLAND

Splendid Program Marks Celebration of Agricultural Night Last Night

Prominent business men, growers and members of the public school faculty of Grimesland were guests of the Greenville Kiwanis Club at a meeting held in the Grimesland High School last night in observance of annual agricultural night by the club.

This was the second time the club had met in the progressive farm center during the past two years and the meeting resolved itself into one of the best of the organization has had in many a year.

When the main speaker failed to appear, Rev. W. A. Byan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church of Greenville, was asked to do a quick piece of pinch hitting, and he did it in a way that proved highly pleasing in spite of his admission that he didn't know anything about farming.

He couldn't understand why farmers insist on planting large money crops when warnings have been issued from every high authority in the land declaring over-production would mean disaster to a market already glutted with a bursting point.

He expressed belief that co-operatives would help control the price situation for farm products in spite of the fact that there has always been a strong disinclination on the part of growers not to organize and pull together.

In the absence of Rev. E. L. Hillman, president of the club G. V. Smith presided over the meeting, the program being in charge of Mr. Smith Clayton Hilton, and Charlie Harvey.

Nations Of World Prepare For Celebration May Day

GREENVILLE WINS HONORS IN MUSIC TILT

High School Students Capture Six First And Six Second Places

Music students of Greenville high school covered themselves with glory at the state-wide music contest concluded in Greensboro yesterday, according to information reaching the city today.

The school captured six first places and six second places in the various contests for Class B schools and won high honors in other instances.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, spoke at the final day of the contest, making a plea that teachers and parents be given an opportunity to say more about what is taught in the various schools.

He stressed the possibilities in music and said Greenville would retain the music department as long as this was possible.

Over 2,500 children from all sections of the state participated in the contest conducted in the Aycock auditorium at the Woman's College. The contest lasted two days and the final session saw Wade R. Brown present awards to the various schools.

First place was captured by the girls' glee club and by James Dees in the baritone solo class.

Greenville also tied for first place with the following towns in other fields: Boys' glee club, China Grove, Roanoke Rapids, Berry Hill.

Mixed Chorus: Lenoir and China Grove. Bass solo: Lumberton, China Grove, Roanoke Rapids, Canton, Crossnore, Hope Valley. Greenville was represented by James Savage.

Girls' Trio: Spring Hope, Lenoir, Lumberton. Greenville also tied with the following towns for second place: Boys' quartet: Roanoke Rapids, Berry Hill, Remseur, Four Oaks, Old Town, Lumberton.

Mixed quartet: Lumberton, Berry Hill, Waynesville, Old Town, China Grove, Lenoir. Boys' unchanged voices: Fairmont, Proximity, Mangum, Wakeleton, Harvey Deal represented Greenville.

Alto solo: Spring Hope, Fayetteville, Spencer. Greenville was represented by Helen Phelps. Tenor solo: Campen, Pow Creek. Greenville was represented by D. T. Beaman.

The orchestra also won second place. The Girls' Glee Club was considered so good by the judges that they were placed on the program in the grand concert, the high-light of the closing session last night.

The young singers were accompanied to Greensboro by Mr. Rose and Mrs. Luther Herring in addition to the directors of the department of music.

MRS. VALLEE NAMED IN LOVE SUIT

FIND STILL IN OLD MANSION

Largest Still Ever Taken in New York Found in Old Belmont Home

Hampstead, Long Island (N. Y., April 29.—(AP)—Through the portals of the old Belmont mansion, which once opened to receive society's blue-blood, eight Federal agents passed today.

They came out with eight prisoners and with the announcement they had captured the largest still ever taken in New York.

They found that the 27-room mansion, once owned by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, social dictator at the end of the century, had been converted into a huge distillery. Its distinctive rooms housed a still filled to turn out 5,000 gallons of molasses alcohol daily running into a nineteen-barrel vat set on the floor.

The eight-prisoners, the agents announced, were employees of a leading distillery.

The old Belmont home occupies two square miles of wooded land. The house itself sets back 1,000 feet from the road and is further secluded by a grove.

Earlier in the night in another section of the property, the agents had captured a 500-gallon still and three operators.

Food study classes enrolled 22,089 women and 12,280 girls through-organized farm clubs in North Carolina during 1932.

KIDNAPPED MAN ROBBED

High Point Grocer Carried Over Five States Before Being Released

Yemassee, S. C., April 29.—(AP)—A story of being kidnaped, robbed of $400 and made to drive his automobile through four Southern States at the point of a gun for five days, was told here today by H. G. Connally, retail grocer of High Point, whose kidnapers released him a few hours before.

Connally, who operates two stores in the North Carolina city, told his story to officers and then left by automobile for his home.

He said he was held up in High Point Monday morning, robbed of the money he intended taking to a bank for deposit and made to drive through North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, then back to within twenty miles of Yemassee where he was released early today.

He did not know who his captors were. Connally said he had just come from a public utilities office in High Point Monday morning at 8:30 after paying a bill when two men approached him and asked for a ride.

"I told them," Connally said, "that I merely was going to the bank to make a deposit and did not give them a lift."

"Then one of them said 'Yes, like hell you are going to give us a ride,' and one of them stuck a gun in my side. They forced me to drive around High Point several times, and in the meantime took the $400 I was going to deposit in the bank."

Revolt in Oriente. Havana, April 29.—(AP)—Information received today said a revolt had broken out in the Oriente province.

Disorders were reported in the town of Sango, San Luis and Bonoiaco. Two soldiers were reported to have been killed in Bonoiaco.

MOSCOW TO BE RUN CLOSE RACE MONDAY

Hitler Government Appropriates Celebration in Germany; United States and Other Countries Prepare For Communist Parades; Police Take Only Slight Precautions

(By The Associated Press) The capital of Communism—Moscow—will run into as swift competition as it ever encountered in seeking to set the pace Monday for the international celebration of May Day.

Dictatorial regimes in Austria and Germany have forbidden demonstrations by Communists or other elements which in past years made the event in Berlin a big one.

While Moscow has its flags unfurled for a parade of its armies, cities of Germany will honor labor in strikingly nationalistic style.

The Hitler government has appropriated the day as its own. In the United States and other countries Communists are preparing for a gala holiday with the governments taking only ordinary precautions for peace.

Chile had given its president authority to suppress Communist agitators. Argentina has forbidden the appearance of red flags or Communist emblems.

SUNDAY FULL DAY AT CHURCH

Two Sermons To Mark Series of Services at Memorial Baptist Church

Tomorrow will be a full day at Memorial Baptist Church when two sermons will be delivered by Rev. Louis S. Gaines, of Raleigh, who opened the series of the revival services here last Monday night.

Both morning and evening services will also be marked by impressive congregational singing and special music by the choir.

The service last night was sponsored by the Sunday School, B. Y. P. U. and other organizations of the church and a good crowd was in attendance. A pronounced increase in attendance has been reflected each day and the church was expected to be packed to capacity at both services Sunday.

The revival will continue through next week and will be marked by sermons of great power in addition to special selections by the choir. Rev. A. W. Fleischmann pastor of the church, is directing the singing.

Last night Mr. Gaines preached an intensely interesting sermon on "The Cross of Christ—God's Remedy For Sin." It was one of the most compelling messages of the revival and formed a fitting climax to the song service.

Using as his text, Galatians 3:14, "But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world." Mr. Gaines called attention first of all to the various aspects of the Cross of Christ. He spoke of its ignominy and shame and how Christ "endured the Cross despising the shame" because of the "joy set before Him." He could see above and beyond the Cross to the multitude of the redeemed,—for God had promised to make Him "the first-born among many brethren." Some day He would "see of the travail of his soul and be satisfied." "The Cross of Christ," continued Mr. Gaines, "is spoken of in Scripture as 'The Accursed Tree.' Christ was made to be accursed for our sakes. 'He who knew no sin was made to be sin for us that He might bring us to God.' He bore the cross that rested upon humanity. To the high-minded, aesthetic Greek the cross of Christ (Continued on Page Four)

Late News Flashes

Des Moines, April 29.—(AP)—Iowa officials moved today to punish those responsible for disorders by farmers who attacked a judge at LeMars and rioted at Denison where about a dozen farmers were injured when from 300 to 500 militant farmers fought with State agents and deputies in an attempt to prevent mortgage foreclosure sales.

The sales were postponed until today, and National Guardsmen were rushed to Denison yesterday just as they were to LeMars where previously a mob dragged Judge Charles C. Bradley from his bench and mistreated him when he refused to take oath not to sign any more foreclosure decrees.

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Bennett of Canada announced today an understanding on the purpose of economic improvement. The president and prime minister stated they had agreed to begin a search for means to increase the exchange of commodities between the two countries. They declared it imperative that as soon as practicable an international monetary standard will be restored. Improvement of silver prices are under consideration.

THE BEER PROBLEM

On Monday morning the sale of beer will become legal in North Carolina, and what the result will be, of course, is problematical. There are in this state two distinct lines of thought on the matter one believing that the sale of beer will cut down the present extent of bootlegging and whiskey drinking, while the other expresses a belief that the effect of beer will be just the opposite and will tend to bring about worse conditions than we have had under prohibition.

While we have our own doubts that this legalization of beer will bring about any improvements of conditions in North Carolina we are still hopeful that we will have no worse situation as a result of beer. We do feel, however, that those who are depending on great profits or those who expect the state to gain large tax revenues from the beer source are in for a disappointment, for we do not believe that the consumption in this state will come up to expectations.

However, as we have mentioned in this column many times before, the situation furnishes a new challenge to our churches and christian people in their homes and the schools, for renewed efforts in the temperance movement for the protection of the present and coming generations.

DON'T RISK THE LIVES OF THE CHILDREN

Discussing another section of the Grand Jury report today, we take up that phase of the report dealing with the condition of school buses in the county and commend the jury for its thorough study of this problem and its action is urging that immediate steps be taken to provide greater safety for the transportation of our children to and from school. According to the report only half of the 107 school buses in operation in this county have been in operation four years and under, while the other fifty odd buses have seen service for periods ranging from five to more than thirteen years. So far our county has been most fortunate in that we have experienced a minimum of serious school bus accidents, but with such equipment as we have we cannot expect our luck to last forever and unless steps are taken to see to it that we have adequate and safe buses for the school children we are certainly in for some sad experience. The lives of our children are far too precious for us to

The White Cockatoo by Mignon G. Eberhart

SYNOPSIS: Sue Tally, Jim Sundean and the detective David Lorn have decided that the murder of the Russian, the attempt on Sundean's life, and the attempted abduction of Sue all are part of a plot to secure the token by means of which Sue must prove title to her share of her father's millions. But they are unable to find a clue to the identity of the murderer. Marcel, porter in the little French hotel which is the scene of the tragedy, suddenly volunteers to tell Sundean what he knows.

Chapter 24 THE SHOT

"First," Marcel said—"he would not be hurried, and I thought he had rehearsed the whole telling of his tale, and his bright eyes were sparkling—"first, the towels.

"There were used towels in an unused room the morning after the murder. There was also a round—" he described it with his lively little hands—"hollow on the elderdown as if someone had sat there for a moment. I ask you—who was that?" I started to speak and checked myself for fear he would stop if I interrupted.

"Then," he held up two fingers. "Second, Father Robart was not sick during the night. I was not with him. I permit the police to think I was with him. But what would you?"

"He, a holy father, to ask such a small favor of me and me refuse. Never! And for the police—" He shrugged his shoulders in a manner which left little doubt as to the opinion he held of the police.

"Then, third—" He paused and then went on slowly: "It is of Miss Tally, and you will know what to do. There is danger. Danger of the graves."

Afterward it seemed to me I had been faintly conscious of some sort of murmuring sound, but I actually heard only the words coming from the little porter's mouth.

"Third," he said, "I saw that night—" And then it happened.

Thought I didn't know at once what had happened. I was only conscious of a sharply spitting sound and a smell, and of Marcel's face, which sagged and was surprised and held wide black eyes and an open mouth. Both his hands went to his back and he tried to speak and moaned and fell forward against me.

I caught him. He'd been shot. There was no one in the lounge—no one on the galleries, no one anywhere.

panting, his red beard agitated, and Lorn, breathless, was hurrying through the lobby and was at my side, and the little maid, Marianne, was kneeling and sobbing, and the center of it all was the small white-aproned figure sprawling in the frivolous wicker chair.

In all the commotion and hubbub and torrents of French and Marianne's sobs, it was Lorn who remained fairly cool, and I'm sure it was Lorn who kept them from dragging me immediately to jail. I don't know what he said, though I guessed, from the way he pointed at my shoulder, and the blood that was soaking my coat, and the lack of powder-burns.

One of the policemen had picked up the gun and was holding it gingerly by the tips of his fingers when Lorn suddenly turned toward me. "Have you touched the gun?" he barked sharply. He was, under fire, like another man, quick, sharp, decisive, his eyes no longer dull.

"No." That much I was of. "Whoever was in the elevator threw it on the floor?"

"In the elevator? What do you mean? Tell me quickly. And one of the policemen ran upstairs to the elevator. The two remaining still held me tightly, as if that were the only thing they understood must be done. And just then Sue perceived my wounded shoulder (she'd been stooping over Marianne, and there were tears on her white face when she turned). She came swiftly to me and put her hands on my arms and said something quickly to the police, and I thought pleadingly. But they would not relinquish their hold.

I was beginning by that time to feel a little giddy and sick. Lorn said: "Leave it to me. I may be able to get you off. Your fingerprints can't be on the revolver, and there are no powder burns, so you couldn't have done it yourself. Your being wounded may help."

It must have been only a few moments before policemen arrived, and all at once policemen were searching the hotel, and I was being questioned at length.

It developed there were no fingerprints to be found on the revolver at all. Thus it argued that the murderer had worn gloves. It was at this point that I and my clothes and the lobby and the lounge and finally even the elevator were thoroughly searched for gloves, and to my great relief no gloves were found.

They seemed to be talking of it heatedly when the doctor arrived. He examined the little huddle on the chair first and very swiftly; ordered Marianne to a chair in the corner, where she sat sobbing helplessly while the slender body of the little porter was carried away. Then at Sue's request he turned his attention toward me.

Sue helped him; I remember the set look about her white face and the darkness of her eyes and the firm touch of her fingers. I think she was relieved at the doctor's muttered comments; and I'm sure I felt better when she said it would be painful and I had lost a lot of blood but that there was no reason why it should not heal perfectly.

"What have they decided to do?" I asked her, glancing toward the police.

"I don't know," she said. "You see the police ran to the door of the lobby and caught you apparently escaping. They both launched themselves at you."

Shrunken Indian Head Exhibited At Whale Show

A shrunken Indian head discovered in Ecuador was on display at the whale exhibit at the Norfolk Southern depot today. Captain Lewis Nichols, commander of a whaling fleet, who is in charge of the exhibit, said the head had been shrunken to the size of a man's fist and was exhibited through a microscope. Another important display is a flea, called Red Grange, because he kicks a football, will be offered at the whale exhibit, Captain Nichols said. The flea also does a fancy bit of wire-walking that has proven a source of much admiration in the many places where shown. People visiting the whale exhibit may see both the Indian head and flea for the asking.

SENTENCED TO DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Raeferd, April 27—Judge N. A. Sinclair of Fayetteville, sentenced James Johnson, negro, to die in the electric chair at state prison on July 7, just a year and three days after he shot through a window and killed his sweetheart. A jury was selected from a venire of 40 men summoned, and the trial began Tuesday afternoon at 2:30.

In 26 hours the jury had been chosen, evidence heard, argument and charge to the jury delivered, and the verdict returned. Johnson acknowledged his guilt.

G. B. Rowland of the local bar, was appointed by Judge Sinclair to defend the accused man, and made a record for himself as a pleader.

Entertain At Bridge.

Mrs. George Gardner and Mrs. N. W. Harris were joint hostesses at a beautiful bridge party at the club house back of Third street school on Thursday evening.

The ten tables were arranged in an attractive setting of multi-colored sweet peas, roses and other spring flowers.

After several spirited progressions of contract were enjoyed, a delightful ice course was served.

When the scores were counted it was found that Mrs. Dink James and Mrs. John Clark won high and low score, respectively. Each of these guests was the recipient of a beautiful potted plant.

Everyone spent a very enjoyable evening.

Leave For Winston-Salem.

Mrs. J. B. James and Mrs. L. C. Skinner left today for Winston-Salem to attend May Day at Salem College.

SENIORS GIVE PLAY AT CHAPEL EXERCISES
"Miss Civilization," a one-act comedy by Richard Harding Davis was presented by the senior class at the chapel exercises at the college on Friday morning. Miss Ethel Parker of Woodland as "Miss Civilization" acted her part with skill. The three burglars who were caught by her when they were in the act of robbing her home were: Miss Margaret Murchison of Greensboro; Miss Bertha Walston of Stantonsburg, and Miss Ruby Taylor of Snow Hill. Other characters in the play were enacted by Miss Beatrice Stalls of Robersonville, as the chief of police, and Misses Vivian Hellen of Vanceboro, and Carolyn Spencer of Swan Quarter, as her assistants.

Lecture Next Thursday Evening.
On account of the Exposition, the talk on "A Plan for Preventing War" scheduled to be given by Dr. A. D. Frank at the Sheppard Memorial Library on next Monday night has been postponed to Thursday night at 7:30 at the same place.

It is thought this will allow those who want to hear Dr. Frank to attend the Exposition later.
The interesting talk given last Monday is expected to draw a good audience for this coming lecture.

GARDEN CLUB ANNOUNCES ENTRIES FOR FLOWER SHOW

The Garden Club has completed plans for its first Spring Flower Show. The show will be a feature of the Community Fair to be held at Star warehouse the week of May 1st to 6th. Collegians Fall Before Old Rival

The Presbyterian Junior College tumbled hits and took a fast game from East Carolina Teachers College yesterday afternoon at College Park by the score of 2 to 1.

Savage, centerfielder, and Williamson, shortstop, shared honors with two honors each and Williamson scored winning run in the eighth inning, when Savage hit a two-bagger for his only hit of the game.

Burgess pitched the entire game for the Presbyterians and allowed the locals only six scattered hits. He received splendid support by his teammates.

was a piece of impertinent foolishness. Such an ugly symbol of bloody death could never invest itself with meaning for the intellectual Greek. To the self-complacent and self-righteous Jew the Cross of Christ was a mighty stumbling-block. With veiled eyes the Jews of Christ's day could not see in the meek and lowly Jesus the mighty Messiah whom God had promised. But unto all the redeemed in all generations the Cross of Christ is "the power of God and the wisdom of God."

Mr. Gaines then proceeded to point out three great truths about the Cross. As to its design the Cross is a sign of God's mighty hatred of sin and the sign-manual of His sublime and compassionate love for the sinner. The Cross turns the light of God's hatred upon the awful fact of sin. The message of the Cross is a message of redeeming love. That message reveals the power and dominion of sin. The saving power of God is in that message. The world may speak of it as "the gospel of grace," but we hear the saved sing of "the precious blood of Jesus Christ shed for the remission of sins."

As we gaze upon Calvary's Accursed Tree we learn the mighty eye-opening lesson that we conquer by submission. Our Saviour conquered Satan, sin and death and hell by submitting Himself to the death of the Cross. More than nineteen hundred years ago the victory of Calvary and Arimathea was won for you and me. Have we appropriated that victory. The way of salvation is at hand; it is ours to walk in it by faith. Jesus made an atonement on the Cross, and we may hypenize the term to read:

At-One-Ment. He was "at-one" with the Father, in perfect sympathy with Him, and His obedience was perfect. God so loved the world that He gave—Jesus so loved the world that He came. He was, therefore, at-one with God in His compassion for a lost world. Then too, Jesus was "at-one" with mankind, for He was tempted in all points like as we are tempted. He came to let us understand that God understands us. And when He hung betwixt heaven and earth He made an "At-One-Ment" through which heaven and earth were brought together in eternal fellowship. Will we find grace to enter into this eternal Atonement of Christ tonight?

And finally, what is the challenge or command of the Cross? It is this: Be thou crucified! The Cross may be cast in gold or silver and used as a personal adornment, but, my friends, the Cross of Christ is an ugly, grisly, bloody thing. It is the instrument of death. We cannot escape that awful fact, the Cross is an horrible, terrible instrument of destruction. Hear the words of the Apostle: "By the Cross the world is crucified unto me and I unto the world." Have you been crucified with Christ? That is the question. Are your sins nailed to the Cross? Is the world dead to you through crucifixion? Are you dead to the world through the Cross? That is the challenge—that is the command of the Cross of Christ?

GREENVILLE WINS HONORS IN MUSIC TILT

(Continued from page one) representative of The Daily Reflector from Raleigh this morning, Mr. Rose said Greenville won more different events than any other school present, and outclassed all previous years in participation in the State contest.

Seventy-three members of the high school student body participated in the contest. They were under direction of Miss Ona Shandler, director of public school music, and E. T. Robeson, director of the band and orchestra.

Greenville won high honors in the district elimination contest held here sometime ago, and came in for a considerable amount of praise from the judges. The schools also captured high honors in the contest last year.

CLUBMEN MOLD FORM NIGHT AT GRIMESLAND

Miss Alma Marks, an attractive member of the faculty of Grimesland schools, with assistance of young women of the town, presented a number of dance and song numbers. Some of the dancers and singers were attired in charming pajamas and the way the boys who had been accustomed to seeing gowns and night-shirts all their lives craned their necks for an unobstructed view would have caused pandemonium among the girls back home.

A solo dance number by Miss Mildred Galloway, who represented an escaped lunatic, produced considerable applause.

A quartet number was rendered by Miss Marks, Mrs. Irene Hinton, C. B. Rowlett and A. A. Elwanger. The "Frog Song" was rendered by Betty Bostic, A. A. Elwanger and Joe Taft. Misses Dorcas Jackson and Jennie Newby appeared in a duet number.

C. B. Rowlett and Bennett Moseley were awarded prizes for skill in handling jig-saw puzzles distributed by Mrs. L. A. Porter. Mrs. Lewis presented the prize to Mr. Moseley with appropriate remarks.

Singing was led by C. B. Rowlett with Miss Nancy Ecklin at the piano. A delightful supper was served by ladies of the town.

BEGIN ISSUING BEER LICENSES

Fifteen or more applicants faced the aldermen when they met this morning, one of them from a wholesaler and the others from retail dealers. It was indicated the majority of these would probably receive favorable consideration.

Farmville set the pace for the entire county in the issuance of licenses when the tax collector was instructed to go ahead with the granting of licenses yesterday. Similar action was to be taken in the majority of towns throughout the county today so that dealers will be in readiness to dispense of the foamy fluid when the clock strikes the midnight hour Sunday.

It was impossible to say how the advent of legalized beer would be celebrated, but it was expected Greenville probably would be among towns to witness a few late parties by those desiring to get the first sip of the lawful beverage.

Regulatory features of the beer measure were passed by the Legislature the middle of the week. These set forth where and by whom the liquid may be sold, showing that anyone 21 years of age who has never been convicted of a felony and who can prove a good character and has never been guilty of violation of prohibition laws, may offer beer and wine for sale. It also provides that all places of business a mile from the corporate limits of a city must pay both city and county license fees.

New York Cotton

New York April 29.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened firm, 19 to 23 points higher on active general buying, passage of the farm bill by the Senate, firm Liverpool cables and higher foreign advances.

The opening advanced on heavy realizing from commission houses. This caused momentary hesitation, but the higher opening of the grain market and firmness of stocks encouraged additional buying and bet to 8.15. May sold at 7.62, or 23 points higher.

July advanced to 7.80 and December resumed their climb. Futures closed 39 to 42 points higher; spots quiet; middling 7.90.

Stock Market

New York April 29.—(AP)—Senate acceptance of the inflation-agricultural bill set the signal for a fresh frenzy of buying in the Stock Exchange today sending many issues up one to four points and more than five points in the highest trading in many months.

The market closed buoyantly with a turnover of the two-hour session of some 2,850,000 shares. Trader who had put out short lines in expectation of a sharp technical reaction were severely squeezed in the new uprush and a wide assortment of issues reached the best level for the year or longer. Price averages were boosted to the highest levels since last September. American Can jumped several points in what looked like a short squeeze. Issues up three points or more included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Tobacco, Corn Products, Case, Western Union, U. S. Steel.

Reduce Electric Rates

Raleigh, N. C., April 29.—(AP)—Reduced gas rates for year-round residents of Wrightsville Beach and Harbor Island and seasonal reductions in street railway fares for commuters from Winter Park, Wrightsville Beach and Seagate to Wilmington was announced today by the State Corporation Commission. The Tidewater Power Company submitted new rates and the Commission approved them.

Tulle and Organdie Swirl In Paris' Social Butterfly Mode

By RITA FERRIS (Associated Press Fashion Editor) Paris.—(AP)—Airy frivolous frocks for social butterflies appear in the mode launched by Chanel this spring and seen at some of the season's gay affairs.

Gowns of crisp tulle and sheer organdie with rilly shoulder lines and skirts which billow about the wearer's heels are displayed as debutantes' party frocks. One of the smartest gowns designed for spring dances is made of many yards of black tulle with a close-fitting hipline, a full swirling skirt and shouder pieces of fluted black tulle faced with the same net in shell pink.

Another is designed of sheer white organdie with a butterfly bow poised at the hipline, while a third frock of fine beige linen with tiny iridescent paillettes woven into the surface is fashioned along the same lines. But tulle and organdie do not monopolize the style scene. Little satin suits with tailored skirts and jackets accompanied by formal blouses appear as the de rigeur for the tea-time hour. A tailored white satin model with a belted jacket is worn with a little white satin hat having a rolled brim, and a trim black satin model appears with a flat crowned black satin salter.

For street wear there are numerous ensembles combining light-colored wool coats with dark printed crepe frocks, as a white wool coat designed along semi-fitted lines and having a lining of black crepe printed with beige figures and worn with a frock of the same dark printed crepe.

One of the smartest costumes for hot days combines a suit of black shantung printed in white circle patterns with a blouse, gloves and hat of white pique.
