CIVIL COURT GETS OFF TO GOOD START

First Day's Calendar Of Minor Cases Quickly Disposed of Here

While the hearing of one case consumed practically the entire day of civil court here yesterday, the whole docket for the day was disposed of, ten of the cases being settled out of court before and only having to go through the process of entering judgment in same.

The case that took so much of the court's time yesterday was a suit brought by C. T. King against J. B. Smith and H. L. Ormond as a result of the three-cornered accident sometime ago on one of our city streets, in which King's car, parked next to the curb, suffered most of the damage.

Two cases continued included one of Blount versus Byrum and one of L. W. Tucker versus Sam Short.

Mrs. Ruth J. Holmes was granted absolute divorce from B. O. Holmes and was given complete custody of her two children.

Cases settled out of court included Society of Christ vs. T. & H. Chevrolet Co.; two cases of Gurney P. Hood, Commissioner of Banks against M. D. Pate and others; T. & H. Chevrolet Co. vs. C. H. Twiddy; Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co. vs. W. H. Dail and wife; Gray & Dudley Co. vs. J. S. Hardware Co.; Winston vs. W. N. and G. L. Stancill; Chattanooga Medicine Co. vs. J. L. Brown; J. F. Barwick, administrator, vs. Grand Chapter Order of Eastern Star. A non-suit was taken in the case of Dr. William H. Drewry against Mrs. Bettie Cox.

When this morning's session was called there were 83 many requests for continuance that Judge Moore recessed court until tomorrow after hearing a negro divorce case in which Beatrice Clark was granted a divorce from Thad Clark.

GOVERNMENT GRANTED REVIEW OF DUKE CASE

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today granted the Commissioner of Internal Revenue a review of a case against the executors of the estate of the late James B. Duke of Somerville, N. J., seeking to recover additional Federal $9,600,000.

These taxes were assessed on two trusts established by Duke who died in 1925, for the benefits of his daughter, Doris Duke, naming himself trustee, with authority to dispose of the trust property within his discretion.

The government took the position the two trusts were intended to take effect at Duke's death, and were taxable under the Revenue Act of 1924. The Board of Tax Appeals and the Third Circuit Court of Appeals decided against the government.

WORK ON FARM RELIEF BILL NEARING END

Congressional Action On Administration Measures Moving Forward

Washington D. C., May 9.—(AP)—Decisive steps toward final Congressional action on a quartet of vital administration proposals, including the farm relief-inflation bill, were taken in the House today while the Senate took a recess.

Armed with rules of procedure designed to block Republican moves to stem the progress of the legislation from its even flow, Democratic leaders called the House together an hour earlier to jam the bill through. The Democrats were ruffled by the delay caused yesterday by the farm relief-inflation bill by a Republican raised technicality. So they obtained the privilege of legislative status of right-of-way for final Congressional action on this $500,000,000 Wagner-Lewis basin development measure to conference.

In addition, the leadership moved to speed the securities bill approved in principle by the Senate yesterday to conference. The Senate after two hours' debate, passed its own measure as a substitute for the Rayburn securities bill approved by the House Friday.

Quake Barometer?

Yucalpa.—(AP)—That underground water levels may have some value as barometers of earthquakes is suggested by the action of the water in a well-owned by an irrigation company here. The chart of the well maintained for several years seems to indicate the water rises a few hours before a quake; drops at the time of the quake and then gradually rises again to a point a few inches above the original level.

STRAWBERRY GROWERS TO SELL CO-OPERATIVELY

Newton, May 9.—Strawberry growers of the Claremont community in Catawba county have formed a marketing association and will pool their entire crop this year and sell under a cooperative agreement, reports County Agent T. L. Robinson. Each grower has already bought a rubber stamp carrying his name and address which will be stamped on each basket of berries sold from that farm. Any produce found defective will be replaced or the money refunded to the purchaser, Robinson says.

TWO ROBBERIES SAME NIGHT AT SPRING HOPE

Spring Hope, May 9.—Sedman Store Company's branch here was robbed last night for the third time in 12 months. A large safe was moved from the building to a spot one block away. The thieves used two automobiles in their operations. A quantity of cigarettes, tobacco and snuff, amounting to approximately $50 in value was stolen. The robbers were frightened away by M. B. Taylor, a nearby resident.

Fairview Service Store, on the edge of Spring Hope, was entered at approximately the same time and a safe was also carried away, together with a quantity of tobacco.

Most frequent violations of air commerce regulations in the first quarter of 1933 were in acrobatics and low flying.

SEA FIGHT THREATENS GOLD HUNT

Rival Crews Seeking Sunken Treasure Ask Protection of Coast Guard

Norfolk, Va., May 9.—(AP)—A threat of a fight at sea between rival treasure hunters today caused the coast guard to maintain careful watch over the two expeditions seeking the treasure of the sunken Ward liner Merida. Wireless messages from both expeditions sought to bring the coast guard patrol boat to the scene about sixty miles off the coast.

"Am over the wreck of Merida. Am threatened by interlopers, advise," read a message from Capt. H. L. Bowdoin, on the tug Salvor, flagship of one of the expeditions.

Shortly afterward came a message from 'Hall', presumably sent by Captain John L. Hall, with Klass Everts, commanding the other expedition aboard the tug Theresa. "Send cutter at once; 34 miles south by east Winter quarter," this message read. "Having trouble over our position. We were anchored in position over Merida, with our boys out. S. S. Salvor came in and placed its boys and anchored inside our buoys, causing trouble."

The nature of the trouble as not stated. The coast guard dispatched a boat to the scene, but will take no action except in event of actual fighting breaks out between the two parties, authorities said.

Confederate Memorial Day Be Observed

Confederate Memorial Day, May 10, will be observed here tomorrow with a special program at the college sponsored by the local Chapter U. D. C., followed by a parade and decoration of Confederate graves.

Business houses are urged to display the Confederate flag before their places tomorrow in honor of those heroes of the sixties who still survive and in memory of those who have passed on.

SEES MANY DIVORCES AS FORM OF POLYGAMY

Durham, May 9.—"Much of the present day divorce business and remarriage is but little less than a disguised form of polygamy, wearing the robes of social respectability, sanctioned by many persons who are willing to marry indistinctly any divorced parties who may present themselves with a license issued by the city or county in which they live," Rev. J. T. Riddick, pastor of the Watts Street Baptist Church, asserted in his discussion of "Is Marriage a Failure?" Sunday morning.

A check of elevator travel to the observation tower of the courthouse at Miami, Fla., for one week showed 8,121 passengers.

Late News Flashes

Today In The Legislature.

Revised May 9.—(AP)—The conference report on the biennial revenue bill faced a possible test today when Lt. Gov. A. H. Graham, presiding officer of the Senate, ruled that the report included new matter and therefore was open for amendment. The Senate was considering adoption of the report already approved by the House when Senator Wayne of Guilford asked if it could not be amended from the floor as it omitted provision for the merchants passing sales tax on the consumers.

The lieutenant governor ruled that amendments were in order as the conference committee had exceeded its authority. There was no announcement as to whether an amendment would be offered but if material change is made in the report in the Senate it will preclude any possibility of legislative judgment; this week.

While adjournment also hung in the balance awaiting House action on the biennial school machinery bill the law division of the Legislature spent two hours on its local (Continued on Page Four)

JAPS CONTINUE DRIVE AGAINST THE CHINESE

Heavy Fighting Reported Today in Area South of Great Wall

Tokyo, May 9.—(AP)—Sweeping through the city of Peking, Major-General Teizo Hiraga's 28th Japanese Infantry Brigade today assaulted the Chinese positions at Changli, in northeastern China below the Great Wall, and a bitter fight is in progress there a Japanese source reports. Farther west Kunzō Matsuda smashed two Chinese resistance centers with the 11th Infantry Brigade and approached Anshang with the intention to cut off the Chinese retreat from Changli.

A correspondent of Rengo (Japanese) News Agency said that several hours of bitter fighting preceded the capture of Tsienan, another town in the area, by Major-General Yoshiaki Takata's 36th Infantry Brigade. Six hundred Chinese corpses were found at Tsienan, the Rengo correspondent said, and the Japanese lost two dead and nine wounded.

Says Democratic Majority Is Not Always a Comfort

By HERBERT PLUMMER Washington, D. C.—On March 4 this year, just a few minutes before Jack Garner left the house where he had served for thirty years to preside over the Senate, he made a little speech of farewell.

It wasn't very long, but he made one statement which seems almost prophetic now. Turning to Bert Snell, the Republican leader and his friend, he said:

"In some ways it is to be regretted that in the incoming Seventy-third Congress, you will not have quite as large a following as you have had in this one.

"The best proportion for the House is a majority of fifty or sixty on one side."

"Cactus" Jack's implication apparently was that his Democratic brethren, with such a preponderant majority, would sometimes find that their big majority would be anything but a comfort.

And that's what has happened from time to time.

There are just too many Democrats in the House to make for smooth sailing all the time.

Thus you see a man like Jeff Busby, of Mississippi, serving his sixth term, carrying on a one-man revolt that has the effect of delaying progress.

Busby's complaint is that the time permitted for debate on the various bills is unequally divided. In other words he argues, why should the Republicans, numbering around 117, have as much time given them as the Democrats who number about 313?

The leaders try to placate him, but fail. He brings into play a powerful weapon—making the point of no quorum. It takes thirty minutes or more to call the roll of the House.

Then there's the instance when the Democratic leaders had made plans to tighten up the rules of the House by abolishing the 145-rule, providing that 145 signatures to a petition could force a vote on legislation, and substitute for it the so-called 215-rule.

A rump caucus of Democrats opposed to the change was called. It wasn't long before word came from the high command that there would be no attempt at the present to change the rule.

There have been other instances, all of which have impressed the Democratic leaders that while, as partisans, it was a fine and beautiful thing to gather as many of the brethren into the fold as they did last November, making them stand hitched is another thing.

Believe Missing Negro Drowned

Believing that Lorenzo Grady, colored, drowned when he fell from his small boat in the river here Sunday, search continued today in an effort to locate his body. Lorenzo, who was somewhere in his forties, was very fond of fishing and spent much of his time on the river. He was known to have gone out in his boat Sunday in a somewhat intoxicated condition, and when he did not return Sunday night, search was started for him.

Yesterday morning his hat was found floating on the water just below the boat landing and his boat was located at the big rock just a short distance below the city.

Despite the search in which drags were being used, the body had not been located this morning.

Fire Damages Negro Dwelling

Fire this morning did considerable damage to a negro dwelling house on Center Street. The fire had gained considerable headway by the time the firemen arrived on the scene and had burned through two rooms before it was under control.

The house was the property of Mrs. Hortense F. Moyer and the loss was said to have been partially covered by insurance. Fannie Hardee, negro occupant of the house, suffered severe burns on the hands attempting to extinguish the flames when the fire was discovered.

French Ambassador Ordered to Continue Negotiations at Washington

London, May 9.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald announced in the House of Commons today that there was every prospect for reaching an agreement between Great Britain and the United States as to the advisability of an immediate tariff truce.

"There have been further exchanges of views with the United States Government," the Prime Minister said, "and I am now in position to say that subject to settlement of the actual word and while protecting the essential positions of both governments there is every prospect of reaching an agreement between them as to the advisability of an immediate tariff truce."

Mr. MacDonald said the truce would not prevent a continuation of work which Britain now had begun and was developing in accordance with announcements already made in the House. This reference to work before the Commons evidently was allusion to British trade negotiations recently made or announced as pending.

The Prime Minister also touched on the war debt issue saying that "our aim must be for permanent settlement," declaring that June 15, the due date of the next installment would be an awkward middle.

Paris, May 9.—(AP)—Andre de Laboulaye, French Ambassador at Washington, was entrusted with further debt negotiations by the cabinet today which confirmed yesterday's decision against paying the defaulted $19,000,000 interest, unless a moratorium on the payment due June 15 is certain or there is an equivalent development.

The Ambassador will also continue other discussions started by Edouard Herriot, special envoy, on his recent trip to Washington. Herriot, it was learned, definitely recommended immediate payment of the debt interest defaulted last December but the cabinet presided over by President Albert LeBrun, rejected his proposal. Herriot's friends expect him to lead an active fight in the Chamber against the government's views.

JAPANESE WOO MONGOLS AS PROPS OF MANCHUKUO

Changchun, Manchuria.—(AP)—In order to win support of the large Mongolian population in Jehol, recently wrested from China and added to the fledgling state of Manchukuo, the Japanese and Manchukuo authorities invited seven Mongol princes to confer here.

The princes were brought by Japanese airplanes from Jehol City and were welcomed by Henry Pi-Yi, Manchukuo's chief executive, and General Nobuyoshi Moto, Japanese plenipotentiary in Manchuria.

Speeches, banquets, receptions and teas followed. The Japanese and Manchukuo spokesmen pleaded for friendlier relations among the Manchus, Mongols and Japanese.

MORE PLAYTIME IS URGED BY COLLEGE CAMP EXPERT

Clemson College, S. C.—(AP)—If people knew the proper use of their leisure time there would be less crowded conditions in State hospitals and nerve sanitariums, says T. P. Vaughan, camp and recreation specialist of Clemson College.

Every person, young and old, should have some special form of amusement, he says, which carries the mind from the daily routine. He recommends athletic recreation for youth, and that every school should have recreational work for each student rather than for a few, which he says is the condition in some institutions.

Vaughan says most people must be taught how to enjoy their leisure time.

LEADER OF DOMINICANS SANCTIONS PILGRIMS' TRIP

New York.—(AP)—Approval of the first of the holy year pilgrimages to Rome planned by the Third Order of St. Dominic Rosary Mission Society in the United States, a lay group, has been received from the master-general of the Dominican fathers, the Most Rev. Martin G. Gillet, at Rome.

Several hundred Catholics are expected to form the group, which will sail from here on July 5. Besides making the prescribed visits to the Roman basilicas and being received by Pope Pius, the pilgrims will journey to Lourdes and the cities where St. Dominic, founder of the order, established branches, especially Bologna, his burial place.

The South Carolina State Treasury collected enough cash during the bank holidays to meet current needs.

IS IT FALSE ECONOMY?

There is a divided opinion in the legislature over the matter of permitting the special districts to vote for an extension of the school term to nine months, and what the outcome will be is as yet undecided.

THE VETERANS BECOME AMERICAN CITIZENS AGAIN

There will be no "bonus march" on Washington this month. There will be no rioting, no disorder.

Recognizing the constitutional right of the veterans to assemble and petition for redress of grievances, President Roosevelt will send them in every way. He will treat them as honored citizens, and not like the last administration—as "Communists and persons with criminal tendencies."

The President's brilliant stroke cannot be praised too highly. His decision took courage. The veterans will complain against his action in cutting pensions and disability compensation.

But apparently he prefers embarrassment for himself rather than mistreatment of men who have served their country. "Thank God," said Hoover last year, "we have a government in Washington that knows how to handle a mob."

The White Cockatoo by Mignon G. Eberhart

SYNOPSIS: Jim Sundean and the detective, David Lorn, have convinced themselves that an attempt to secure the token by means of which Sue really must improve her right to a share of her father's millions lies at the bottom of the two murders and two attempts on Sundean's life that have shattered the peace of a small French hotel.

Chapter 32

BLACK SHADOW

It was perhaps the maid, on a legitimate errand. It could only be Marianne or the priest or Lorn; all others were accounted for.

A little back toward the north corridor again was the small niche where I'd seen Lorn and Sue talking that first day of his arrival. I quietly retraced my steps toward it.

The place was silent and deserted; the red carpet looked dim and faded in the half light; the heavy curtain near me smelled of dust.

I scarcely shifted my eyes from the spot where, if the door opened, it must swing outward. It opened only a little first, as if to permit a reconnoitering glance along the corridor, then more fully.

It was Father Robart, of course. He did not see me, and I remembered that Lorn had said and did not intercept him as I longed to do.

He was walking swiftly, silently, his head bent and his red beard flaming. Afterwards I tried to think whether he'd carried anything in his hands, but I could not be sure.

My notes fell into brown flakes.

Then he slipped around the corridor of the intersecting passage which led to his own room, and I emerged.

There had been something terribly furtive about him. I wished Lorn had been with me and realized suddenly that there was what amounted to convincing evidence against the priest.

Lorn arrived perhaps two hours later, and I told him of the convincing evidence against the priest, but otherwise he was not much affected.

"You think I'm slow and too cautious," he finally said. "Well, that's true; but I'm inclined to think my mistakes would hurt you more than anyone else."

"I'm not worrying about myself, but I don't want that devil to get his hands on Miss Tally!" Lorn's eyebrows went up a little.

"He won't," he said quietly. "Immediately after dinner we'll have Miss Tally go to her room, lock the door, and one of us can guard her door while the other goes to the police. Does that suit you?"

"Yes," I said, not liking the impression he gave of indulging a childish notion of my own. "I'll watch her door," I added stubbornly.

"That's good," said Lorn dryly. "Then I'd better inform the police. Let me see—just what shall I tell them? That Father Robart arranged a false alibi; that you saw him leave Miss Tally's room surreptitiously in spite of his papers and claims being under investigation by the police, that he is not what he seems, being, in fact, no priest at all."

Thus it was something of a shock when the priest did not appear at dinner. When we discovered that he was not in the lounge, not in his own room, not anywhere about the hotel.

With Sue safe in her room and promising to remain there we went together to the courtyard and told the police stationed there.

The priest's coat and hat were gone from his room, but nothing else. The obvious inference was that he had managed to escape—possibly he had no one knew, for the police said no one had passed that way, and Paul, in the kitchen, with another policeman was equally sure he'd not gone that way.

He had glided past me in the corridor and turned the corner and vanished from the haunts of men.

For I was the last one to have seen him—or at least the last who admitted seeing him—which fact did not improve my standing with the police. But with his escape, naturally, the tide of suspicion turned strongly his way, and it was not even necessary to tell the police of the reasons for my own suspicions regarding the man.

Altogether it was near midnight before things settled down. Lorn and I finished talking—a talk that was easier enough but that went in circles of baffled surmise and could come to no out-and-out conclusions

Dr. Frank Speaks At Library.

The present depression will go and prosperity return without solving the problem farmers today are facing was the thesis stated by Dr. A. D. Frank in his talk at the Sheppard Memorial Library, Monday night, May 8, on "The Situation in Agriculture."

Dr. Frank, after an appreciative introduction by Dr. Lucile Turner, president of the local branch of the A. A. U. W., spoke of the many schemes advanced for farm relief, and stated his belief that no one of them would do more than give a measure of temporary relief and that the farmer alone can solve the problem permanently.

The speaker argued that the fundamental difficulty is really the debt and over-production and that it is not taxes.

Pointing out briefly as proof that credit has been too easy the $4,000,000 mortgages on American farms in 1930, and saying that he thought the farmer would straighten out this thing himself, the speaker went on to discuss over-production.

Over-production has come about, he said, in two ways: First, by a real increase in production through the use of machinery and scientific farming; second, by a decrease in the amount of farm products consumed.

In support of the idea of decreased consumption Dr. Frank gave statistics to show that 85 per cent of our corn and 80 per cent of our barley are fed to livestock, and that in the fifteen years between 1915 and 1930 the number of horses and mules in this country has decreased by 8,500,000. He pointed out also that artificial silk has largely replaced cotton, and thus decreased the need for it.

To get out of this state of permanent over-production, said Dr. Frank, the farmers must organize and do one of three things—limit production, stimulate consumption, or control the market for his produce.

This is the last of a series of three talks which Dr. Frank has given on present day social and economic planning at the request of the A. A. U. W. The other two were on "How To Relieve Or Prevent Depression," and "A Plan For Preventing War."

'An Hour of Music' At College.

"An Hour of Music," the music recital given by the E. C. T. C. ensemble late Sunday evening, was a fitting climax to music week. The appreciative audience was composed of the music lovers of both the town and the college.

Mrs. Ruth Penberg, soprano, and Miss Edith Morton, cornetist, appeared on the program. Miss Lois Gorrell, of the piano department of the college, is the leader of the ensemble. She and Sam Quinerly play first violin; Miss Lois Grigsby and Alma Browning play second violin; Mrs. Carl Adams plays the flute; Miss Mary Shaw Robeson plays the cello; Miss Dora Meade was at the piano.

Sam Quinerly played a violin solo, "Nachstück" by Shumann. Mrs. Penberg sang two solos, "Dawn," by Curran, and "I Hear a Lark At Dawning" by Kriens. Miss Edith Morton's cornet solo, with the ensemble was "The Beautiful Blue Danube," by Strauss, the last number on the program. The opening number was Mozart's "Ave Verum Corpus." The ensemble played a group of negro spirituals that greatly pleased the audience. These were "Steal Away," "Deep River," and "Swing Low." The other two numbers by the ensemble were "Gavotte" by Martina and Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words."

The violin ensemble, though small in number and with a yearly change in personnel, has had an interesting part in the music life of the college in the ten years of its existence.

USE OF THE TERM 'WAR BETWEEN THE STATES' NOT 'CIVIL WAR'

(By Mrs. John Huske Anderson, Raleigh, N. C., Historical General, (United Daughters of the Confederacy)

A war was waged from 1861 to '65 between the United States of America and the Confederate States of America. These were the official titles of the contending parties.

It was the War Between the States because twenty non-seceding states made war upon the eleven seceding states to force them back into the Union of States. It was a war between two organized governments, the southern states fighting to repel invasion, to protect their rights as granted by the Constitution of the United States of America to each state which ratified that Constitution.

It was not a Civil War, as it was not fought between two parties within the same government, as was the case of the Civil War in England.

It was not a War of Secession, for the southern states seceded without a thought of war. The right of a state to secede had never been questioned. In 1833 John Quincy Adams of Massachusetts, spoke of secession, which had been threatened by some northern as well as other states, in the following words, "Whenever the time comes for seceding it were better for the people of these Dis-United States to part in friendship from each other than to be held together by restraint."

It was not a War of Rebellion, for Sovereign, Independent States, co-equal, cannot rebel against each other. When the eleven cotton states seceded they set up an independent government of their own, with no declaration nor intent of war. They did not fight to overthrow the Federal government, but to set up a government of their own.

The principles for which the southern states were standing had been definitely declared in the constitution convention that framed the United States Constitution. Judge William Rawls of Pennsylvania, one of America's most able authorities on the Constitution, had defined his "Views of the U. S. Constitution," which text book was studied at West Point. We quote partly: "If the states are interfered with, they may wholly withdraw from the Union, and their secession depends on the will of their people. The Union was formed by voluntary agreement of states, and the Federal government would have no means of maintaining its claim against secession, either by force or by right." Many authorities might be given to show the right of a state to decide its own destiny. However, by the arbitrament of the sword and superior force, after the surrender of 1865, secession was decided to be unconstitutional.

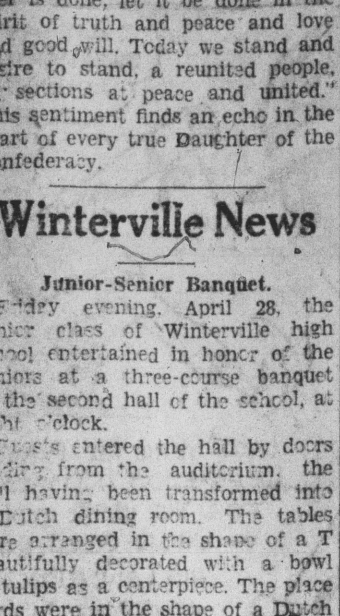

From that learned historian and Confederate soldier, Capt. S. A. Ashe of North Carolina, we find a war time reference to the conflict of 1861 to '65, in a case of the Supreme Court of the United States, Vol. 67, page 673. The Court says: "We have shown that a war such as is now being waged between Northern and Southern States is properly conducted." It goes on to state that "several of these States have combined to form a new Confederacy." So here the highest tribunal of the United States refers (during this war itself) to it as "a war between the States." The very term which should be continued in use, as historically correct. In England's declaration of neutrality she recognized that this war was being fought between two governments, not between two parties of the same state.

Every loyal member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy should be on the alert to tactfully and courteously endeavor to have the "War Between the States" used instead of "Civil War," for its correctness is absolutely important to a truthful presentation of history. Many writers and historians of note are now recognizing the truth of this term and adopting it. If the thinking public is brought face to face with the facts, the correct name would be more generally used.

Only recently radio announcers of our national systems, have expressed their willingness to cooperate with the U. D. C. in this effort to "keep history straight."

Winterville News

Junior-Senior Banquet. Friday evening, April 28, the junior class of Winterville high school entertained in honor of the seniors at a three-course banquet in the second hall of the school, at eight o'clock.

Guests entered the hall by doors leading from the auditorium, the hall having been transformed into a Dutch dining room. The tables were arranged in the shape of a T beautifully decorated with a bowl of tulips as a centerpiece. The place cards were in the shape of a Dutch slipper, when opened revealed the menu and program. Mint holders were made in the shape of windmills. The tables were lighted with candles down the center of the tables. At each end of the hall were pine trees. The hall was decorated in rainbow colors which are the senior class colors.

Between courses of the banquet an attractive program was held with David Harris as toastmaster. After the welcome to the guests by David Harris, Lurline Bland gave a toast to the senior class to which Russell Rollins, president of the seniors, responded. Following the class song, Clarice McLawhorne gave a toast to the school, to which Principal C. D. Ward responded. A witch then entered and delighted everyone by giving an interesting prophecy for each senior, after which Ben Harris gave a toast to the future.

"Auld Lang Syne" was sung and then the guests were directed to the auditorium where Marion Cox, Gertrude McLawhorne, Mary Worthington and Ernestine McLawhorne members of the freshmen class, gave a Dutch dance which was enjoyed immensely.

The honor guests present were: members of the high school faculty, Misses Yetta Brock, Mary Alice Beaman, Virginia Taylor and Wylette Culbreth; J. W. Fletcher, C. D. Ward, principal of the school; Supt. of Public School D. H. Conley of Greenville; Mrs. Roy T. Cox junior class grade-mother, and Mrs. M. T. Spier, senior class grade-mother.

FARM NOTES

Farmers' Market House. A new driveway and walkway are being built on the old model school grounds for the convenience of the folks who visit the farmers' market house each Tuesday and Saturday. There will also be a door cut in the market house, giving an entrance from the north side. This, with the general improvement on the ground planned for, will add to the attractiveness of the market house arrangement.

Two Bids Does It

The original forcing bid of two solved the problem. North offered two hearts. East naturally passed to await developments. South bid two spades. West passed. North offered three diamonds. East maintained silence and South bid four diamonds. That was information enough for North. With South's diamond raise indicating he had at least three to an honor or four small-North leaped to six hearts, the contract.

Grand Slam Dangerous

A grand slam bid by North was tempting, but surely would have been dangerous. Transpose the East and West hands a bit so that East had four diamonds and West none, and it would have been a good play by East to open a diamond, in view of the bidding of diamonds by North and supported by South. West would have ruffed and East would have made a heart trick.

SPORT SLANTS

Philadelphia baseball fans, as we anticipated, have manifested their agitation over the passing of Aloysius Simmons, the celebrated cloutier, from the home grounds of the Athletics, along with two other leading cogs in Mr. Mack's one-time championship aggregation. But there's some reverse English on it.

July may tell a different story. September, no doubt, will do so, anyway, but meanwhile the plight of the A's cannot be blamed on the conditions which forced the club to sell Aloysius for upwards of $50,000 in cash, gold standard style.

The only thing rarer than the well known day in May or June seems to be the infield combination of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Coming east for the first time, it took the field with the 1931 world series outfield hero, Martin, on third; the former king of second basemen, Frisch, at shortstop; a former manager and seven-time batting champion, Hornsby, at second base; and an ex-utility man, Collins, on first.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES
New York.—That slender blond you've seen in some of the recent advertisements in Hazel Grace, a Newark beauty... Her husband also models... Right now she's one of the attractions in a Broadway night club... No one seems to get more hearty fun out of a good story than Walter Damrosch... The carousel horses in Central Park have got a gay coat of paint after all this time... And that's a new deal... Francis A. Jamieson, the Trenton Associated Press correspondent who won the Pulitzer prize, finds in the morbid realities that his work brings him sometimes... He reads Walter Scott in wholesale doses... Albert Spalding, violinist, is the son of the founder of the sporting goods business... Every few days I pass a Madison Avenue shop that specializes in fresh terrapin... Finally I stopped in to buy some, and have been off the gold standard ever since... Mrs. Frances Rockefeller King, whose business is to supply parties with any sort of entertainment from a magician to an elephant act, is a relative of the big money Rockefeller... A vaudeville headliner who drew $1,500 a week a couple of years ago, is dancing in a basement night club for $50 now... The brother-in-law of Heywood Brown (Richard Hale) and the wife of William Rose Benet (Lora Baxter) opened on Broadway in "The Comic Artist"... The dignified George Arliss is one of the most conspicuous of actors when he ventures on the street... Because of his monacle... And that unmistakable walk...

Models Save Money

The Models' Guild, which enlists so many of the pretty things you see in the ads, moved next-door on West Forty-seventh, saved $175 a month rent and got 400 feet more floor space... An example of New York under bidding... Eleanor Powell, who is just about as high in tap dancing these days, has one of the few straight boyish bobs with bangs (a la Mrs. Jimmie (Betty Compton) Walker) still in existence... Pedestrians have taken a little heart from the news that James S. Bolan, new police commissioner, walks for his exercise... Maybe he will shake a finger at the taxis if they try to run him down...

Beer Helps "Antiques"

Antique dealers, who haven't been doing much dealing in anything in recent seasons, now catch some trade with their window displays of beer steins... From a couple of inches to several feet tall... George Burns and Gracie Allen have been married seven years... Because they don't talk that way off-stage... Bert Lahr's mania is golf... And he's one of those comics who can't

The WORLD OF STAMPS

By QINTON JAMES
Having adopted a new monetary unit, Persia is issuing stamps to conform. In the new currency, which is based on the decimal system, 100 dinar equal one rial. To date the following stamp values expressed in these terms have been received in this country: 1r, red and gray; 2r, light blue and brown; 1.20r, gray and red; 5r, brown and orange; 5d, light brown; 10d, blue and 15d, gray. The four lower values show a front view of Riazah Khan, the ruler, and the three others a side view.

New York May 9.—(AP)—The stock market was disinclined today to pursue the downward course it took in late trading yesterday. The list was hesitant and trading dull in a fortnight, but the trend turned upward as the day wore on despite a sag in some of the commodities.

Hollywood Sites

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood, Calif.—Spring brings its usual crop of assorted beauty contests, this year's being varied a little by that in a new film, will be men. There's an old story about beauty contests and what they prove that isn't easily topped. This selection to which it refers, sponsored by a now defunct movie company and a Broadway revue, was made from photographs of the entrants.

This One Flopped

A committee of artists waded through stacks of portraits and eventually narrowed the contest to two girls. The girl they selected proved to be a small-town beauty who, besides being not so pretty as her picture, was too frightened by New York to do any acting even if she had had it in her—and that was doubtful.

Collects Military Medals

Cincinnati, O.—(AP)—Collecting military medals, awarded as the badge of valor and often representing great human sacrifice, is one of the hobbies of Major James Murphy, junior instructor for the 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, here. Among medals he bought in pawnshops are the Mons Star, French Croix de Guerre, Belgian Croix de Guerre, Italian War Cross, Legion of Honor, and German Iron Cross.
