ASKS WORLD TO JOIN AMERICAN TARIFF TRUCE

MacDonald Seeks To Get Fifty Other Nations To Iron Out Tariff Trouble

EIGHT GREAT POWERS HAVE NOW ACTED

London, May 13—AP—Forty nations were called upon today to join the immediate tariff truce now accepted by eight major countries. Prime Minister MacDonald, chairman of the World Economic Conference, is seeking universal adherence to the American proposal by presenting an agreement reached here yesterday to all countries invited to the conference.

SEEK TO HOLD CREDIT BANK IN THIS STATE

Washington, D. C., May 13.—Representative Poul, of North Carolina, has filed vigorous protest with Henry Morgenthau, Jr., chairman of the Farm Board, against any move by the new farm credit administration to move the regional agricultural bank from Raleigh.

The section on the truce addressed to other nations says: "The said governments agree and finally urge all other governments participating in the conference to agree that they will not before June 12, nor during proceedings of the conference, adopt any new initiative which might increase the number of difficulties now arresting international commerce."

There have been reports that under the new plan a regional credit division is to be created in several other States with headquarters at Columbia and branches at Raleigh, Macon and Orlando, Fla. There also has been talk that the regional banks might be set up at later dates and a new system inaugurated to take care of crop loans to farmers.

The eight originating government—United States, Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Germany, Norway and Belgium—were conceded technical and minor reservations without the sacrifice of any principle in the American plan.

Pou said the farm credit administration would become effective May 27 under executive order, and thus far Morgenthau had not made known his intentions with regard to the Raleigh institution. Representative Poul, of South Carolina, has made demands that the bank be moved to Columbia, S. C.

PITT COLORED SCHOOLS END

Final exercises of colored rural schools of Pitt County were held this week, being concluded at the County Training School at Grimesland yesterday with an industrial art exhibit.

G. R. Whitefield, supervisor of colored schools, said today the annual showing of the various schools in the art show was exceptionally fine and indicated the students had been doing some real work during the year.

WAR DEBTS POP UP AGAIN

Washington, D. C., May 13.—(AP)—The delicate question of war debts was given fresh study by the administration today along with another problem of whether provision of the Army and Navy and fighting planes could be included in the public works program about to go to Congress.

Mr. de Laboulaye, who was said to have sought an interview with Mr. Roosevelt, was understood to have outlined the latest French overtures. The Paris government had taken the position to guarantee on postponement of the June 15 payment must precede submission of the defaulted December 15 payment. But Mr. Roosevelt said in reply that neither he nor the Ambassador would discuss the plan.

Willie Saunders Tanoran, Calif., rider, celebrated his last week as an apprentice jockey by bringing in four winners and a third place runner in one day, out of seven mounts accepted.

BROWN SPEAKS TO CLUBMEN

Former U. N. C. Athletic Star Tells Kiwanis of Value of Athletics

Billy Brown, former University of North Carolina athletic star, was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club here last night. He spoke on the subject of "Athletics," and showed what an important part this phase of education is playing in the life of the young people of the present generation.

In the absence of President E. L. Hillman, G. V. Smith presided over the session and the program was the session of Charlie Five, A. A. E. Wagner and Charlie Parsons. Barry Bostic, assisted by Mrs. Dink James, was in charge of the song program.

Two Junior Kiwanians, selected from high school students body because of their scholastic achievements, were presented to the club. They were Graham Gully and Frank Wooten, Jr., who will serve for the usual period of two months. They succeed James Savage and Wilbur Mayo, who surrendered their Kiwanis emblems to Donald Conley, who in turn presented them to the Youthful Kiwanians.

Rev. W. H. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian church, spoke briefly to the incoming Junior Kiwanians telling them of some of the things for which the club stands and urging them to strive to live up to the high objectives.

The matter of selecting delegates to the Los Angeles convention June 25-27 was left to the board of directors.

J. F. Harrington expressed appreciation of the club for the splendid service rendered by the Woman's club in providing for the various meetings.

Quartets composed of Donald Conley, Dink James, George Woodward and B. B. Suggs, and W. H. Ryan, Grady Bell, Berry Bostic and Ed Batchelor took part in a song fest but so much discord was registered the judges decided the awarding of a prize should await further consideration.

NEW STADIUM DEDICATED AT GRIMESLAND

Nearly Two Thousand People Attend Home Coming Celebration of Pitt Town

Between fifteen hundred and two thousand people attended the Home coming celebration and dedication of the new athletic field at Grimesland yesterday and enjoyed a program that will live long in the memory of the community.

The formal turning over of the new stadium, erected by public subscription and Reconstruction Corporation funds allotted to this county, was marked by brief talks of local citizens.

Mayor Buck after expressing appreciation of the hearty support of the community in making the stadium possible, presented J. L. Outlaw who told of the value of advertisements to the success of the undertaking.

The Washington high school band provided music for the occasion. It was estimated that around one thousand people attended the game, overflowing the grandstands and bleachers with many finding vantage points along the sidelines.

While legalized beer has been the cynosure of all eyes the last several weeks, the maker of illicit whiskey again forged back into the limelight in Pitt county this week with the capture of a still in the Alpine section.

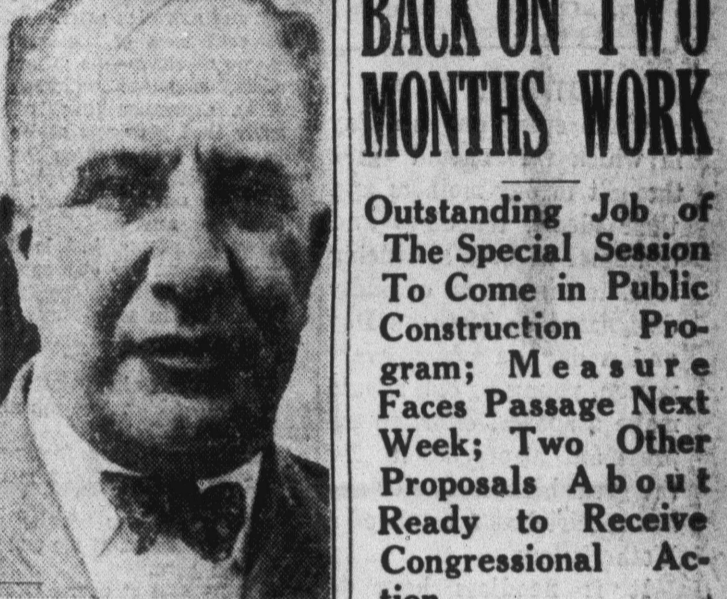

The still of the copper variety and one of the finest used in the distillation of illicit beverage in this community, was not in operation but the operators were assembling supplies in preparation for firing up when the officers stepped in and blasted their plans.

The capture was made by Constable J. B. Bland of Belvoir township. The worm was brought to this city and placed in the confiscated cell at the county jail but several barrels of beer were destroyed along with other things used in the distillation of the illicit liquid.

This was the first important capture made by county officers the last several days, but many others were expected to follow during the summer months.

Congress Prepares To Close Eventful Session In The Next Four Weeks

War Declared

Washington, D. C., May 13.—(AP)—With Congress enjoying a week-end rest, leaders took stock today of the two record-making months of activity and planned a drive to close shop in another four weeks.

Behind was probably the outstanding job of the special session—the farm relief mortgage and inflation law. Ahead was a dwindling list of administration measures topped by President Roosevelt's $3,500,000,000 special construction program with its special features for industrial co-operation.

Since it will contain taxes for interest and amortization proposals the bill was originated in the House where it will be handled swiftly by the powerful Ways and Means Committee.

The signing yesterday of the administration $50,000,000 relief bill marked another milestone in the administration's effort which already put banking economy and forest camp laws on the statute books.

Two others—Federal securities and regulation and development of Tennessee River valley—were almost ready to go to the White House.

Both were in conference stage at the Capitol and conferees hoped to reach a Muscle Shoals agreement today.

Two Interstate Commerce Commission Committees in each branch were busy on the emergency railroad bill, but were encountering some strenuous objections from labor sources.

Passed by the House and now before the Senate Appropriations Committee, was the half billion dollar supply bill for independent executive agencies including the veterans' administration. It covered also a sweeping new economy power for President Roosevelt.

COUNTY MUST DEFAULT, CAN'T COLLECT TAXES

Lillington, N. C., May 13.—It seems that Harnett County must default in its bond obligations. For all the years past in which this county has had outstanding obligations in the form of bonds, notes, installments, and interest, it has not defaulted, but instead has placed time to cover payments when they became due. Often this has caused the tax collector and auditor to scout for funds; sometimes it has meant borrowing money to pay back borrowed money or the interest thereon; but always the obligations, of whatever nature, have been met.

ROWAN GIVEN RACE RIGHTS

Raleigh, N. C., May 13.—(AP)—The House today suspended its rules and passed a bill to legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse racing tracks in Rowan County subject to action of the voters.

Legislature Permits Betting on Horse Races in Another N. C. County

Representative Murphy of Rowan, introduced the measure explaining it was similar to the bill already enacted for McDowell and Pasquotank Counties. The proposal must have the approval of the voters before it can become law.

RUSSELL TO SPEAK HERE

DUKE DEAN OF RELIGION TO DELIVER SERMON AT HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

The sermon will be preceded and followed by an impressive musical program by students of the high school department of music.

NAB STILL IN BELVOIR AREA

Copper Distilling Plant Taken by County Officers in Alpine Community

While legalized beer has been the cynosure of all eyes the last several weeks, the maker of illicit whiskey again forged back into the limelight in Pitt county this week with the capture of a still in the Alpine section.

Outstanding Job of The Special Session To Come in Public Construction Program; Measure Faces Passage Next Week; Two Other Proposals About Ready to Receive Congressional Action

MOTHER'S DAY

While every day is a day in which we should give thought to our mothers and their ideals, teachings and examples of ever sacrificing love, tomorrow is officially designated as Mother's Day

It is needless here to undertake the review of what any mother has meant to her children, for words cannot truly paint such a beautiful picture. Tomorrow is Mother's Day. If you are still fortunate enough that she is among the living spend tomorrow with her, if possible, and if you cannot be with her, be sure you get in touch with her that she may know that you still think of her and love her.

ANOTHER DAY COMING

The legislative record of 1933 is about written, and throughout the State there is a growing feeling of revolt. Selfish interests have shown their hand rather boldly during the closing days of the long grind, and their control has become so complete that there is no longer any great effort made to keep the public from seeing behind the scenes, as was so artfully done throughout the early weeks when service to the common people was loudly proclaimed as the burning desire of all the assemblymen.

Legislators from this area where almost everybody has fought the imposition of a general sales tax and pleaded for retention of local control of the schools, have been strangely unconcerned about public opinion. They have gone on the theory that the people will soon forget and party loyalty can be depended upon to line the voters up in 1934 when another State campaign rolls around.

The Record is of the opinion that this sales tax levy is something designed to cause folks to remember and that the manner in which an arrogant band of Raleigh bureaucrats has treated the public schools will add to the popular indignation as the months rolls along. The Greensboro News puts the proposition well in the following language: "Thinking North Carolinians do not have to be told about the forces behind the threatened destruction of their school system, particularly as applied to the extended terms which the city systems desire. It is not the burdened farmers who are involved. City home-owners who would benefit to small extent, are not a consequential party to the raising as they are school patrons. Really interests with extensive holdings, corporations, railroads, power, tobacco, etc., constitute the group determined to get out from under, despite the substantial amount of which they have been relieved, at the expense of the school system, its patrons and its pupils. Legislators can hardly believe that they are putting such a destructive program over on the people of North Carolina under the

The White Cockatoo by Mignon G. Eberhart

SYNOPSIS: Three murders have shattered the peace of a small hotel in Southern France; three murders, all unsolved. They are connected, at least in the minds of Jim Sundean and the detective David Lorn, with an attempt to secure the token by means of which Sue Tally must identify herself to her brother Francis, and thus secure half her father's huge fortune. Then, expected by no one, Francis Tally arrives.

Chapter 36

NEW COMPLICATIONS

I was on my feet. I was barely conscious of Lorn standing just behind me. Sue was standing, too, looking white and incredulous, and even her lips looked pale and stiff. Her eyes were wide and fastened on the newcomer's face as if in frantic effort to recall it.

"Francis," she said in a whisper. He was fairly tall, moderately slender, and blond with grayish eyes. He wasn't altogether handsome, for his features were a little too fine for a man, and his mouth was not firm. He wore gold-rimmed spectacles, which gave him a pedantic look, and he was muffled up in coats and gloves and a woolen scarf.

"Ah," he said at once. "How do you do, Lorn?" "How do you do," Lorn said in an unexcited way, quite as if he'd known all along that brother Francis was about to turn up.

"Everything going well?" asked Francis Tally easily. Lorn's eyebrows lifted a fraction of an inch. "Not exactly well," he said. "Still, Miss Tally is quite safe."

"This," said Sue, "is Mr. Sundean." Francis Tally looked sharply at me. "Sundean?" said he. "He has been very kind," said Sue stiffly, as if words were extremely difficult. And exactly then Marianne, in the dining-room, sounded the clattering bell which announced lunch.

"I'll tell you after lunch." He looked puzzled and I think would have questioned further, but Grethe's silky intervened. "You'll want to wash before lunch," she said, smiling pleasantly into his eyes. "I'll show you to a room. We are—temporarily without a porter."

"Lorn coughed. I realized that for the first time in my knowledge he seemed to be what in another man I should have called thoroughly disconcerted. He said: "Er—Mr. Tally—you'd better—see the police first."

"I don't know. But I doubt if they'll let you stay here." "Luckily for you, I wanted to add, Madame Grethe forestalled me. She said graciously: "Oh, nonsense, Monsieur Lorn. Leave it to me. I will see that it is all settled with the police. Your room, monsieur!"

elled, his expression exactly as animated as that of a chair. "Did you know he was coming?" I asked quickly. He did not look offended at my implication that he was concealing that important bit of knowledge from Sue and from me—a knowledge that, if he had had, in fairness he ought to have shared.

"In the meantime we may as well go to lunch. After all, one must eat." It was a strained and dreadful meal. Not even the food was good, for Paul's hysterical nerves had apparently had their outlet in burning too wildly or not at all. The hors d'ouvres were flat and tasteless, the fish crisp, and the only thing entirely edible was the cheese.

ends with the proper pair in each other's arms, and a job for the man who needed one badly. Dr. Cronin's book begins with a disgusted, indeed disgraced, doctor aboard a ship for the Canaries and in the last stages of drinking himself into the gutter. In addition to the love of his life, the ship bears material for a first grade floating "Grand Hotel."

So also with Ben Ames Williams, whose story of "Pascal's Mill" is, however, not exactly a new meter for him. The book contains material for a first grade novel, where only the beginning told. As it is, "Pascal's Mill" reads more like an expanded short story. The entire history of the little group at the isolated and properly spooky old mill is concluded, in a few pages, so that the climax must be puffed out a good deal to fill even so short a book.

His analysis of South America is scarcely flattering—perhaps trenchant is the word. Even less flattering is his opinion of the influence of the United States down there, particularly its financial influence. The country is, he finds, in that state where those who have need only to await rising values to have more, and its economic outlook is badly discolored by that fact.

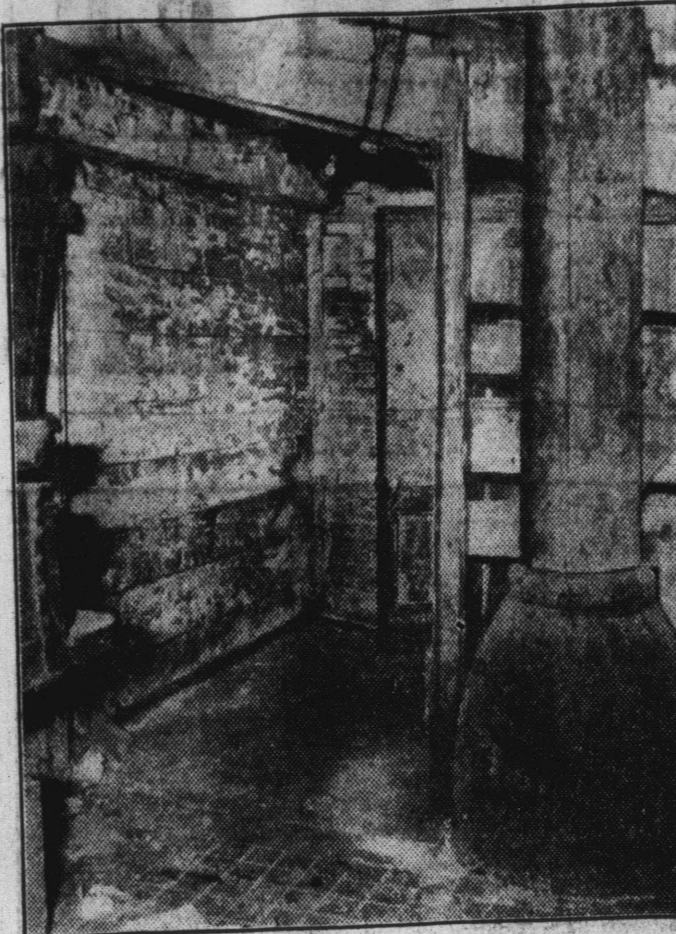

By HERBERT PLUMMER Washington, D. C.—Perhaps none of President Roosevelt's selections for high office in his administration created greater interest among Washington political observers than that of George Peek to direct the new farm relief plan.

POLITICS

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.)

President Roosevelt's effort to swing American business into line behind the administration's recovery program appears to be entering its most important phase.

Day by day it becomes plainer that the President is fully determined to see certain changes effected in the conduct of industry. It is no secret that the things proposed appear to some industrial leaders to be far too sweeping.

The next few weeks should bring this situation to a definite issue, one way or the other. If business itself shows a disposition to revise its practices, it will have administrative co-operation. If it does not, a history-making struggle over restrictive legislation is entirely possible.

The things he has in mind have been outlined in general terms by Mr. Roosevelt. He objects to speculation with other people's money, to the sort of unrestrained competition which produces perennial surpluses, and to debased wage scales and lowered standards of labor.

Those who oppose his ideas denounce as radical and socialistic any attempt to prescribe in detail how business shall conduct its daily life, how much it shall produce, or at what cost in terms of wages.

It is in accord with Mr. Roosevelt's customary witness of thought that he is prepared to give industry an opportunity to make voluntarily the corrections he considers necessary.

Washington, D. C.—Perhaps none of President Roosevelt's selections for high office in his administration created greater interest among Washington political observers than that of George Peek to direct the new farm relief plan.

utility 'the birch rod in the cupboard' to be taken out and used only when the child gets beyond the point where a mere scolding does any good.

What's the Rod? That special "birch rod" does the President now have in reserve, should business fail to take voluntary action?

That is a question Mr. Roosevelt never has answered directly, but many industrialists, particularly those who fear inflation, doubtless read with interest one sentence in the address of May 7 to the American people.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION URGES COOPERATION OF VARIOUS ORGANIZATIONS

The Greenville Ministerial Association desires to call the attention of the other organizations of the city to the fact that Wednesday evening is regarded as a definite time for the mid-week service of the local churches, and that we would sincerely appreciate the cooperation of such organizations in the effort to keep all other engagements on other evenings than this night.

It will help very materially if this be done, and for this cooperation the local ministers will be very grateful.

We would also call the attention of the merchants to our desire that in the event of their permitting their employees a mid-week half-holiday during part of this summer that another day other than Wednesday be chosen.

"WILD MARY" SUDIK WELL SPOUTS STILL MORE OIL

OKLAHOMA CITY.—(AP)—Oklahoma City's "Wild Mary" Sudik oil well, celebrated for its ramage three years ago when for eleven days it defied man's efforts to control its tremendous flow of black gold, is still going strong.

While other wells in the field have declined sharply in production, as shown by recent tests, "Wild Mary" registered an increase of 44 per cent with a potential production of 8,507 barrels a day.

Production of the field is limited under proration regulations.

To Can May Peas.

It is time for the canning program of 1933. Strawberries and May peas are in good condition and should be canned at once.

Use the following directions for canning peas:

Use No. 2 cans or pint jars when canning peas as it is very difficult to sterilize them in larger containers.

Peas should be freshly gathered, and it is essential that they be graded. Shaking peas through wire netting of different sizes will grade them nicely.

After grading peas, place small peas in muslin sack and blanch for 3 minutes. Large or ordel peas must be blanched 5 minutes.

Pack peas in No. 2 can, fill with brine, and add 1 teaspoonful sugar. Exhaust 3 minutes and process one hour and 15 minutes. For older peas process 11-2 hours.

Peas must be processed the same length of time on each of three successive days.

A steam pressure canner is best when canning peas.

When canning peas in glass, process pint jars of tender peas 11-2 hours. Process pint jars of older peas 2 hours on each of 3 successive days. Process No. 2 cans 45 minutes at 10 lbs. and jars 50 minutes at 10 lbs. when using preserve cooker.

Strawberries. To can strawberries so they will not rise to the top of the jar, follow this recipe:

Strawberries for canning should be ripe but not ever-soft. Very soft berries are better saved for jam. Rinse the berries according to general instructions to remove any sand and hull them. Place in a shallow pan to prevent crushing cover with hot syrup made by using four parts of sugar to one of water. Simmer for 5 to 8 minutes. Remove from the fire and allow the berries to remain in the syrup overnight. Fill the jars, adding a little hot water if there is not enough syrup left to cover the berries. Process for 10 minutes in a water bath or re-heat berries, fill jars, partly seal and process in water bath for 5 minutes.

Strawberry Jam.

Pick over berries and remove the hulls. Weigh berries and for every pound of fruit allow 3-4 pound of sugar. Place berries in preserver kettle and mash fruit as it heats. Bring fruit to boiling point, stirring frequently and crushing any berries which still remain whole. Add sugar to the fruit and boil together until thick (not over 20 min.) stirring to prevent burning. Pack into clean hot sterilized jars and seal immediately.

Council Meeting.

There will be a called meeting of the Woman's Council in the Home Demonstration office Friday, May 19, at 4 p. m. It will be important that every club be represented as several things will come up that will be voted upon and we must know the wishes of your club.

Home Demonstration Schedule.

Diplomat Who Breeds Race Horses Sent by Brazil To See Pres.

Rio De Janeiro.—(AP)—Brazil's leading breeder of race horses and one of its veteran diplomats has been sent to talk world economics and money with President Roosevelt.

Joaquim Francisco de Assis Brasil is in his middle seventies. He has been serving his country off and on for forty years but every time he tries to retire to his estate in Rio Grande do Sul, they find a new mission for him and drag him away from his beloved life in the country.

"Frank solidarity with the United States" will be Brazil's attitude in the conferences. After Dr. Assis Brasil has expressed this idea in Washington and suggested a reciprocal trade agreement, he will go to London as a special envoy to repay the visit which the Prince of Wales made to this republic in 1931.

Senor Assis Brasil was ambassador to the United States in the early years of the century. He speaks English fluently.

In both capitals he will have important tasks. Brazil realizes it must give the United States some favors to balance America's liking for Brazilian coffee, the purchases of which alone total about three times the value of Brazilian imports from the United States.

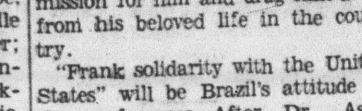

Concessions such as reduced tariffs on American products, thawing of frozen credits held here by Americans and a better break exchange may be Brazilian trading points.

In England the reverse situation will be met so Dr. Assis Brasil will try to better the position of his country's fruits and frozen meats, hit by the Ottawa agreement.

Apples Prevent Robbery.

Fayetteville, N. C.—(AP)—This time a sack of apples kept the robber away instead of the doctor. Dr. W. Townsend, Fayetteville manufacturer, was walking along a street with a sack of apples. A would-be bandit appeared in the darkness and ordered him to put up his hands. Townsend swung his apple-sack at the bandit's head. The bandit ducked and fled.

ABOUT NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES New York.—(AP)—There's something touching in the way decency blooms and retains its flower in the darkest parts of a great city—where it seems that environment would be too overwhelming to fight. One of the most unusual families I have come across in New York operates an establishment in a west side section where the men scratch matches on the backs of their necks; an establishment where the most sordid type of humanity goes to quench its thirst. The father, of course, is proprietor and big boss. His meek little wife and a handsome young daughter are his assistants. They have a little wire-haired dog that stays in the place, which they care for with whole-hearted concern. The tough element that congregates there evidently has been taught to respect the women. Order is maintained more rigidly than in some of the Broadway places, where nice people are said to go. One night on an exploratory tour I branched off from Hell's Kitchen and dropped in the place. I was much impressed watching the daughter as she waited on some sleek young men, who might easily have been mistaken for gangsters. It was the first time I had seen her, and I ventured to ask one of the sleek young men who she was and how she happened to be there. "That's my sister," he said.

A bit later I had occasion to think it fortunate that I had established the young man's identity with this unusual family. A couple of water-front rough-necks got the idea they had been offended by the sleek young men. I happened to overhear their back-room "pow-wow." This pair had "gats."

Richieu, I believe it was, said the pen is mightier than the sword. On this occasion the word proved mightier than the "gat." I managed to dissuade the ruffled hoodlums from effecting their plan to avenge their dignity.

There's a place near Tenth avenue, in the early Forties, where I thought I might pick up an item for your edification. "Who are you?" was the greeting at the door. I professed friendship, but, no matter how eloquently I talked, there was insistence that I reveal my business. Finally I said: "Well, I'm a newspaper man." "We don't read newspapers," was the retort, and gam! the door was slammed shut.

Bernice West, young sculptor, is the wife of Dr. Charles Murray Graz, bone specialist—and what he knows about skeletons has been a tremendous help to her in modeling life-size figures. Walter O'Keefe got his start singing in church socials. Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon, stopping over here enroute to Europe, had their infant guarded by a small army of strong-armed men. "We've received no kidnapping threat," said Bebe, "but we're taking no chances."

Iowa Public Water Sources Best Iowa City, Iowa.—(AP)—Public water supplies in Iowa surpass private ones by an average of about 20 per cent, reports a state university expert. Sixty-one per cent of the private deep wells of the state were found satisfactory as against 73 per cent of the public ones.

Anyone returning from, say, a three months' visit to the South Pole...

The Red Sox announce they have obtained Pitcher Floyd Brown and Catcher Rick Ferrell from the St. Louis Browns...

It's been more years than Boston fans care to remember since they feasted their weary orbs on a morsel like that...

In recent years the Sox owners, handicapped by a lack of cash resources, have been constant traders and sellers...

Eddie won't be rushed. Now that Business Manager Eddie Collins has started dispensing a few samples from Owner Bob Yawkey's millions...

Collins isn't in any great hurry and won't be rushed. This is the first important deal he has sealed since he and the enthusiastic young Yawkey look over the reins...

When he does make a deal, you may be pretty certain he is getting precisely what the Sox need most. He will collect very little dead wood...

While Brown isn't a world-beater, he is recognized as a capable south-paw, smart and cool in the "clutch-es." His addition rounds out a splendid pitching staff that includes Ivy Andrews, Henry Johnson, Lefty Weiland, Bob Kline and Dusty Rhodes...

Rick Ferrell, brother of Wes of the Indians, is a hard-hitting young catcher who will prove a potent factor in the team's attack.

Collins' next move probably will be to obtain a shortstop who packs some authority at the plate. Given that and another outfielder who can hit consistently around .330, the Sox will be on the high-road to reclaiming a lot of their lost glory.

Biggest Coaching School. From my friend Pete Cawthorn, coach at Texas Technological College at Lubbock, comes word that Tech's coaching school, last year the largest in the country in point of attendance, will be bigger and better than ever this summer.

It will run two weeks from July 31 and its list of instructors includes such outstanding mentors as Andy Kerr of Colgate, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, Noble Kizer of Purdue, Harry Kipke of Michigan, "Clipper" Smith of Santa Clara and "Rip" Miller of the Navy.

Wilson High Trims Locals to Tune 11-1

Wilson defeated Greenville 11-1 in a high school baseball game here yesterday.

Taylor, Wilson hurler, was in great form and nary a local reached third until the seventh when Hodges' double brought in Greenville's run. Walslow, catcher, featured for the winners, getting four hits. Roger Taylor, Smith and Gibbs formed the Greenville battery.

Local Golfers Trim Tarboro In Tournament

Greenville golfers ran off with the big end of the score in an East Carolina Golf Association tournament game on the country club links yesterday.

Tom Smoot led the scoring for the locals chalking up 38-36-74 to grab honors from his teammates. Edmondson did the stellar work for the visiting club with a card of 39-40-70.

The game was one of the contests started several weeks ago to pick the winner of the various clubs comprising the association and the outcome of the Greenville match was watched with more than passing interest from all parts of the circuit.

The visitors were served lunch at the noon hour. Greenville players made an exceptionally fine average during the play, records revealed today. A total of 80.5 was established for the entire game.

Greenville will journey to Kinston next Wednesday to take on the team of that place. The game promises to be hard fought, and golfers here were getting in trim preparing to make a showing similar to that exhibited against Tarboro.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Hollywood—(AP)—A not-so-silent Garbo is back in a land of celluloid that acclaimed her its queen not so long ago.

But the old place has changed. Queen of all she surveyed when she left eight months ago, Greta comes back to a town in which many things have been happening. Many of these events have had no effect upon her personally, because she was among the missing during all the excitement.

What she would have said had she, like other stars, been asked to contribute half her earnings to her studio, or exactly what form her famous silence would have taken, must remain one of the innumerable Garbo mysteries.

Affecting her more personally, now that she is back, is the fact that, cinematically speaking, eight months is a long, long time to be away.

During that time the lot that Garbo ruled has nurtured a new pet in the person of Helen Hayes, whose films have been successful and who does not "tank she go home" at regular intervals.

And other lots have not been idle in unearthing new talent for a bid at the Garbo crown, these including such actresses as Dorothea Wieck and Katherine Hepburn.

None of these considerations, however, is sufficient to impair the avid interest that seems to attend the legend known as Garbo. Her movements, well publicized despite or because of her efforts to go incognito, have been about as usual since she returned to Hollywood.

That is to say, she disappeared from view. She was not to be found with the friends who met her in San Diego. She was not at the studio—how should her studio know where she was? Her manager? Now that gives rise to a question: Did he teach Garbo to be elusive, or did Garbo teach him?

Garbo talked in San Diego when she stepped off the ship, and there was at once the conjecture that the long silence was broken for good and all. It may be true, but Hollywood will have to be shown.

Around The World

HUGE TOBACCO BONUS BOOMS AUSTRALIAN CROP. Canberra—(AP)—A price of 27 pence a pound, 400 per cent above the world average, has been guaranteed Australian tobacco growers by the federal government.

The step was taken despite rapid increase in production and in returns to planters. Official figures show that last year, in the single season, the output jumped from 2,000,000 to 10,000,000 pounds, the crop selling for well over $5,000,000.

Poland and Soviet Friendly. Warsaw—(AP)—Following an increase in trade between Poland and the Soviet Union, attempts are being made at a rapprochement in other fields. An exposition of Russian paintings is on view here, and Polish artists are preparing pictures, engravings and book bindings for showing in Moscow.

MILK SPREE NO EXCUSE FOR DECREYING PORTUGAL. Lisbon—(AP)—An excuse that he was "inflamed by milk" was given by Jorge Teixeira when charged in court with rushing up to a policeman and shouting: "Long live the republic! Down with the idiotic dictatorship which has been doing nothing for seven years!"

He told the court he had been drinking heavily in a dairy but a fine of $50 and loss of civil rights for two years was imposed. Rubber Trees Idle. Batavia, Dutch East Indies—(AP)—Nearly a fifth of the rubber acreage in the Dutch East Indies was out of tap at the last count. The figures showed 185,000 acres idle, being 18.5 per cent of the tappable area.

"Green Shirts" in Brazil. Sao Paulo, Brazil—(AP)—A fascist party has sprung up here under the leadership of Plinio Salgado, a writer. It has adopted the Italian fascist militia flag, but its members wear green, not black, shirts.

Spain Bars Private Cemeteries. Madrid—(AP)—The government has decreed that foreigners in the future may not establish private cemeteries for particular nationalities or creeds. Instead all Spanish burial plots will be secularized so that any religious rite may be performed in them.

WALES RED FACED AFTER SEEING SELF ON FILM. London—(AP)—"It's embarrassing to see a picture all about one's self," said the Prince of Wales, after viewing the film "The Prince of Wales," which will be shown publicly on June 22, the eve of his birthday.

The picture was prepared from paraxels for the prologue. This will be followed by 6,250 feet of film—taking an hour to show. The picture was prepared from 65,000 feet of film, 15,000 of which came from the prince's private collection.

Renew Pre-War Parleys. Basel, Switzerland—(AP)—For the first time since the war an international conference on anthropology and ethnology will be held in 1934, probably in London. The decision to organize the gathering was taken here by several leaders in the science.

DETHRONED RULER FULFILLS BOYHOOD DREAM IN AFRICA. Nairobi, East Africa—(AP)—King Gertrud of Bulgaria, who lost his throne because of his country's defeat in the world war, is living in a little hotel room here. "I have come here," he said, "as a scientist and traveler. I love the peace of Uganda and Kenya in this harassed world."

From childhood, he said, he had read books about African explorers and he had always wanted to tread their paths. Selling was principally in the industrial and utility shares. Pressure on rail was moderate.

Czechs Reduce Unemployment. Prague—(AP)—Jobless Czechoslovakians to the number of 42,000 found work in March, thus reducing the country's unemployed from 920,000 to 878,000.

BEAUTY HINTS. By MARJORIE GATESON (Screen Actress). First cleanse the face thoroughly with your favorite cream, then remove the cream with tissue and then smooth on some rich tissue cream. Pat and massage that thoroughly into the skin.

When the tissue cream is removed spread honey on your face, then tap the skin rapidly with the finger tips. When your face is tingling and rosy, remove the honey with lukewarm water and apply ice to close the pores.

Stock Market. New York, May 13—(AP)—Financial market encountered a flurry of week-end selling today as they did last Saturday and many leading shares lost one to three points in trading. Transfers were 2,569,000 shares for the two hours session.

While most business continued favorable a reaction was shown in the weekly carloading report tended to accelerate profit taking as traders felt that business improvement might be approaching a seasonal spree. Nevertheless week-end reports indicated further expansion of steel products. Uncertainty surrounded the disarmament conference with France again prepared to occupy the Rhineland also tended to prompt a lightening of long commitments in shares on the theory the success of the forthcoming conference might be depended upon results of the disarmament parley.

Selling was principally in the industrial and utility shares. Pressure on rail was moderate. (Continued From Page One) Senate put the school bill through second reading. It does not have to go back to the House but since the report contains a material change in the bill as it originally passed in the Senate it has to have three readings on separate days.

The Senate this afternoon passed by unanimous roll call vote a bill requiring that the North Carolina three per cent general sales tax be passed on to the consumer under regulations to be made by the commissioner of revenue. The proposal would make it mandatory that the levy be passed on by the merchant.

After passing the bill the Senate inserted in its records a letter from Willard Dowell, secretary of the N. C. Merchants Association, saying that the legislation would in all probability present a court contest by organized merchants. Handits Get Payroll. Durham, May 13—(AP)—Two unmasked handits held up Homer T. Motinger, treasurer of the Knitwell Hosiery Mills today, forced him to drive his car several miles east of the city and then robbed him of the mill's $1,100 payroll. The handits escaped.

The holdup took place a block from the mill as Motinger was returning from an uptown bank with the money. Wallace To Talk Relief. Typical Senators From Illinois

By HERBERT PLUMMER. Washington, D. C.—If a vote were taken as to which State's representatives in the Senate looked more like the Senators of popular and traditional conception, Illinois would have a good chance to win.

There's perhaps no other pair in that whole body of ninety-six different personalities that come nearer to looking the part of the holes they play than James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich.

The sartorial splendor of Senator Lewis is one of the most talked of things when the Senate as a whole is under discussion. Standing out on the floor because of his whiskers and his meticulous dress quite often he is the first Senator to be singled out by visitors to the gallery and "located" by means of the charts handled them as they enter.

His grand manner, flowery speech and deep resonant voice make a deep impression on the gallery and visitors usually remember him once they have seen him and heard him. A Modern Roman. Illinois' junior Senator is a personality entirely different from Lewis. He came over from the House at the beginning of the present session of Congress and hasn't had time as yet to become so well-known.

But he looks the part of a Senator. Someone recently described him as follows: "If a toga were draped around his ample form and a band tied around the benign head of Bill Dieterich, he would be the counterpart of a Roman senator."

Not since the days when the late Senator Overman of North Carolina—he of the silvery head, flowing cope with a scarlet lining, and broad-brimmed black hat—has there been a Senator "on the hill" whom observers have likened to the old Romans. While younger, Dieterich looks very much like Senator Overman. He has the same silvery hair. The substantial build and kindly, yet firm, expression are very similar.

Silence His Rule. Dieterich prefers to let the others do the talking on the floor. Even outside, he is cautious in what he says and is partial to the role of listener. During the entire time he sat in the House as a member of the seventy-second Congress he made only 20 speeches, and they were short and confined to one page.

There's only one subject that he will dwell on at any length and that is his historical research. He knows history and delights in taking long motor tours to points of historical interest. A friend who accompanied him on a recent trip to the home of George Washington at Mount Vernon reported that there wasn't a brick or blade of grass there that he didn't know something about.

Smithfield, N. C., May 13—Henry Griffiths, a young colored man who lives in Clayton, has just been bonded over to Superior Court without the privilege of bail. Henry Griffiths and Margolis Griffiths were throwing rocks at each other on Sunday afternoon, April 16, when Laura Horton, colored, came around the corner of a house to remonstrate with them, she was struck in the forehead by a rock thrown by Henry Griffiths. At first it was not thought that she was seriously injured, but she continued to grow worse and died on May 3.

Blond hair tends to become streaked and ratty-looking. My suggestion is a rinse which never fails to keep my hair looking glossy and truly blond. Take the juice of two lemons and mix in eight drops of peroxide. Use this mixture in the final rinse each time you shampoo your hair. I have found that the small quantity of peroxide in this rinse is not harmful.

Pulitzer Award For A. P.'s Jamieson Honors Reporters. New York—(AP)—A prematurely buried young man of 28, usually quiet and reserved in manner, but lightning-quick in his response when the news is hot in the air—that is Francis Jamieson, Associated Press correspondent at Trenton, N. J., who has been awarded the Pulitzer prize for the best piece of reportorial work in 1932.

The honor was bestowed in recognition of Jamieson's work in covering the Lindbergh kidnapping case, the tragic climax to which he was the first to report when he flashed the news of the finding of the child's body. Became Correspondent at 17. Jamieson has been a legislative correspondent at the New Jersey State House since his graduation from Trenton High School at 17.

When The Associated Press opened a bureau at the State House in July, 1929 Jamieson became a member of the staff on the strength of his showing as a news reporter. Eighteen months later he became head of the bureau. He is married, and during the kidnapping case his wife, formerly Charlotte Wiggins, of Scarsdale, N. Y., was a "newspaper widow," while Jamieson put in day after day, night after night catching up the countless threads of the baffling case.

Has One Daughter. The Lindbergh story was still prominent in the news on the morning of May 19, when Jamieson's child was born. He got to his home in Trenton at 2 a. m., just in time to arrange for his wife's transfer to the hospital. The child is a daughter, Joan Ellen. Jamieson's next major assignment took him to the Democratic and Republican national conventions, as a member of The Associated Press general staff.

When news reached him of his designation as the Pulitzer prize winner, Jamieson's mother lay critically ill in a Trenton hospital. Studios in Appearance. In appearance he is slender, of medium height, and of personable. Glasses and gray hair give him a studious appearance. As for the gray hair, Jamieson says that didn't come from any of the grind or excitement to which newspaper men are subjected.
