

ROOSEVELT CONFERS WITH JAPANESE DELEGATION

President Will Attempt To Swing Nippon Nation In Favor Of Disarmament

ALL NATIONS WATCH EFFECT OF THE TALKS

Chief Executive Hope to Swerve Japan From Further Conflict With Friendly Diplomacy; Officials Have Already Expressed Opposition to Roosevelt Views; Results Expected to be Reflected at Geneva.

Washington, May 24—(AP)—The Roosevelt leadership today aimed full in fluence to the bringing of peace in the Far East eliminating Japanese objection to the reduction of arms.

With friendly diplomacy, the president turned to face delegation of officials whose chief already has expressed disagreement to the Roosevelt definition of an aggressor nation as one whose troops are found beyond boundaries contrary to treaties.

The arrival of the group headed by Foreign Minister Kikujiro Ishii for a series of White House conferences followed close to the president's appeal for non-aggression and the cropping of offensive armaments and declaration of the new American policy of close co-operation with other nations to insure peace.

The outcome of the Roosevelt conference was watched not only for the possible effect on the long strife in Manchuria and China but for the result which might be reflected at the disarmament conference at Geneva.

PREPARE FOR LEAGUE HERE

Local Ball Club To Get Down To Practice Beginning Of Next Week

A meeting of the Greenville baseball club of the Coastal Plain League was held last night to receive a report of activities from Milton Harrington, who was recently elected manager of the local club.

The club also received leases and contracts from the league and these were approved and signed.

Another meeting will be held Thursday night to receive a report of the canvassing committee seeking funds for the club, and indications were that a sufficient amount would be reported to place a fast team on the field.

Commenting on what had been done looking to the development of the local team, Harrington said that gray crimson-trimmed uniforms had already been ordered and were expected to be here in the next several days. He stated the prospects for a fast team were very bright with four of the players being selected from the college, semi-pro group in this city.

If everything turns out as expected, the manager said practice would actually get under way at Third street school grounds the beginning of next week and will continue daily until the league opens June 7. Two practice games were on tap for the latter part of next week and the following week.

CHECK UP ON WALKER HERE

Statement by Former Mayor of New York Causes Much Interest Locally

A statement by Jimmy Walker, former mayor of New York City, made during his honeymoon trip in Vichy, France, came in for so much comment here yesterday that the Chamber of Commerce asked Eddie Brietz chief of the Associated Press Bureau at Charlotte, what Jimmy really meant.

The equivocal comment was made by the former mayor while he was being welcomed to France by the Mayor of Vichy. It was picked up by the news reel men and reproduced on the screen at State Theatre here Monday night and last night.

It came after the Frenchman had had his say. Jimmy told the mayor he had been drinking water from a spring there which turned the bottles brown on the inside. He wondered if the fluid did the same thing to his insides as it did to the bottle. If so, he stated he planned to return to North Carolina and join the "majority".

Several persons in the audience were unable to determine what the New Yorker meant. They became so interested they went to the theater and asked manager Walker to reproduce the news reel for their benefit.

In the course of a telephone conversation with Eddie Brietz at Charlotte R. L. Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, asked if the Associated Press knew what former mayor Walker meant in his reference to North Carolina while in France.

Brietz, Powell said, stated North Carolina since its overwhelming victory for Reynolds, a wet, had been referred to as "the big majority", and that was what Jimmy actually meant, especially in view of his reported consideration of settling at Pinehurst.

MAYOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION FOR "POPPY DAY" HERE

Saturday, May 27, was designated as "Poppy Day" in Greenville in a proclamation issued today by Mayor R. C. Flanagan. The proclamation called upon all citizens of the city to observe the day by wearing the American Legion and Auxiliary poppy in memory of the World War dead. The proclamation stated: "Whereas, in the great crisis of the World War the young men of Greenville offered their services to our country with an exalted spirit of patriotism, numbers of them sacrificing their lives in that service; and Whereas, the same exalted spirit of patriotism is needed today for the service of our country in its peace-time difficulties; Therefore, I, R. C. Flanagan, Mayor of the City of Greenville, N. C., urge all citizens to recall the memory of their high patriotic service by the wearing of the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary memorial poppy on Saturday, May 27. To that purpose, I do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 27, Poppy Day in the City of Greenville. R. C. FLANAGAN, Mayor

START DRIVE TO REPEAL PROHIBITION

Administration Begins Fight to Create Money For Public Work Campaign

Washington, May 24—(AP)—A full-fledged drive by the administration was under way today to repeal the prohibition law.

The New York vote and prospects of eliminating the new taxes for public works financing through the revenue from liquor sales combined to spur the Roosevelt forces to action.

Postmaster-General Farley, the chairman of the Democratic national committee, is the spearhead of the repeal campaign from the capital.

He announced last night that he will ask every Democratic worker in the last election to turn to repeal.

Farley, who neither drinks nor smokes carried the campaign into New York last week when he employed the Democratic forces which brought victory to Roosevelt. "The Democratic party pledged itself to repeal," said Farley.

"Roosevelt endorsed it. The proposition has been put up to the others. We should work for it and we will. It means a new sort of revenue that will eliminate the new levy about to be imposed for new jobs".

The announcement was regarded as improving the prospects that the 36 states necessary for ratification might be in line by next March 15 when the new income taxes now proposed would become effective.

So far six states have signed the ratification for repeal.

They are Michigan, Wisconsin, Wyoming, New Jersey, Rhode Island and New York.

The repeal amendment was submitted to the states by the last session of congress.

IDENTIFY MAN IN KIDNAPING

T. B. Hyde Held as One of Two Men Engaged in High Point Robbery

Durham, May 24—(AP)—T. B. Hyde, of High Point, was held in jail here today "positively" identified by H. E. Molsinger, secretary-treasurer of the Knitwell Hosiery mill, as one of the men who kidnaped and then robbed him of the company's $100 payroll here May 13.

Hyde was arrested in High Point yesterday and brought here where Molsinger said he was one of the men.

Meanwhile, search continued for a second man today while E. S. Sanders also of High Point was being held for investigation. Sanders was formerly employed by the hosiery company.

CLUB TO VISIT IN SNOW HILL

Good-will Meeting To Be Held In Green County Town Next Friday

Greenville Kiwanians will journey over to Snow Hill Friday evening for the first out-of-the-county meeting in a year. The program will be of a good-will character and over forty guests of the Snow Hill community have been invited to take part in the meeting.

The gathering will be held in the Snow Hill community house and the program will be in charge of B. B. Sugg and W. H. Woolard.

The time of the meeting has been set for 6:30 which is slightly earlier than the usual time for out-of-town meetings, but this was found necessary on account of commencement exercises of Snow Hill schools at 8 o'clock.

Members of the club were looking forward with interest to the meeting and it was indicated that attendance probably would be large.

The Kiwanians recently held a meeting in Grimesland in which numbers of prominent citizens of the community took part. The out-of-town meetings are held with the view of bringing the other towns in closer touch with Greenville, which has forged to the front as the leading town in this section of the state not only as a tobacco selling center but as a trade center.

DIES FROM INJURIES IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

Statesville, May 24—J. C. McFalls, 50, textile worker of Granite Falls who was injured Sunday afternoon when his car left the Charlotte highway near the southern limits of Statesville and was demolished, died yesterday at the H. P. Long Hospital, where he was taken immediately after the wreck. It was learned that Mr. McFalls was paralyzed on the left side and hospital physicians expressed belief that he suffered an attack while driving alone, and this probably accounted for his automobile leaving the road and plunging into a fill.

DRAWS PRISON TERM FOR SLAYING WIFE

Washington, N. C., May 24—A one week's term of civil and criminal court convened in Hyde Monday, Judge M. V. Barnhill presiding. The principal case to be tried was disposed of today. Kelly Whitaker, Negro, shot and fatally wounded his wife, Iredell Whitaker, on Easter Sunday night following an altercation. She was brought to Taylor's hospital and died 13 days later. Her arm was shot off and bullets went through her chest. Whitaker was sentenced to not less than 15 years and not more than 20.

ASKS DAMAGE FOR ALLEGED FAKE MESSAGE

Currituck Man Seeks $25,000 Against the Postal Telegraph Company Here

An action seeking $25,000 damage against the Postal Telegraph Company was in progress in the civil term of Superior court here today with indications that the jury would return a decision during the afternoon. Named in the complaint also are Jack Russell and Arthur Elks.

The plaintiff is J. E. Guard, of Old Trap, Currituck county, father of Martha Guard former student of East Carolina Teachers college, who became a mother after several alleged week-end parties resulting from fake telegrams sent through the local office of the Postal Telegraph Company.

The case was filed here about three years ago but was continued to permit new pleadings.

Court began hearing yesterday morning and argument was begun this morning with indications the jury would return a verdict sometime during the afternoon hours.

Guard alleges that Arthur Elks and Jack Russell, former residents of Greenville, assisted by his daughter, filed telegrams bearing his name in the local telegraph company, authorizing authorities at the college to let his daughter go out during the week-ends.

It is also alleged that the two young men rode around the country with her, and that afterward the young woman became a mother. When the case first came to the attention of college authorities the young woman was dismissed. She was later reinstated, however, but was forced to leave a second time it was said to become a mother. The birth certificate was produced as evidence in the introduction of testimony here yesterday.

The telegraph company vigorously denied knowledge of the filing of such telegrams here and refused to assume responsibility for them.

FLIER KILLED AT ASHEVILLE

Claude Marshall meets Death in Flight Over Air Field at Black Mountain

Asheville, May 24—(AP)—Claude Marshall, 23, Asheville aviator was instantly killed when his plane crashed at Black Mountain, near here today.

Marshall was alone at the time. He was taking a turn several hundred feet above the landing field when the ship turned on its back and went into an inverted spin.

The pilot was unable to pull it out and the plane nose-dived to the field.

The plane was demolished and the motor buried several feet in the ground.

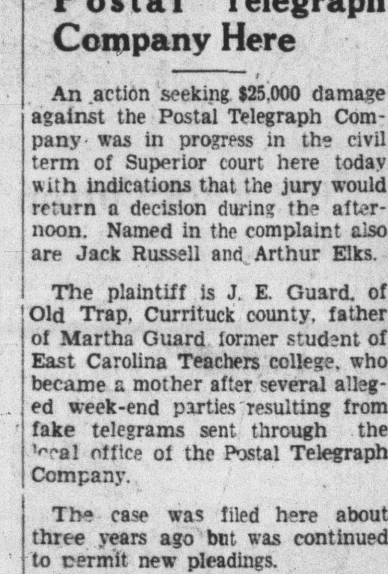

Marshall had gone to the airport to take an early morning flight before the sun rose. He crashed about 7 o'clock. The plane was a Bird biplane and was owned by Bob Turner, who formerly operated the Asheville-Hendersonville airport. Marshall was a mechanic for Turner who at the present is not employed.

The approximately $150,000 remaining will be sent to the men in the forest to be spent as they desire. Purchase of tobacco and other incidentals and a few necessities, relief directors say will place the remainder of the money in trade channels.

The majority of the youths are in their late teens and early twenties. None are married but they have been selected because their home folks are in more financial stress than the rest of the community. Experienced woodmen regardless of their age or whether they are married are to go with them to help them make a success of the federal program.

PUSH TONSIL CLINIC WORK

Health Workers Conducting Third of Series of Clinics Here Today

Work in tonsil clinics here was being pushed forward rapidly this week with indications that the total number of children operated upon would go well above the four hundred mark when the campaign is concluded.

After holding clinics in virtually all large school districts of the county, health workers centered their activities in Greenville last Friday when 24 children received attention at the clinic at Third Street school.

The second of the clinics was held yesterday and the third today. About twenty children were operated on yesterday with indications the same number would receive attention today. The last of the clinics will be held Friday when a similar number of children probably will get attention.

Children from four of the small school districts were also receiving attention here this week. The schools closed before the health workers were able to visit them for examinations and patrons were told recently to bring their children here and that they would be taken care of.

The campaign is being conducted by the Department of Health assisted by the Welfare Department. The work is being paid for with Reconstruction corporation funds.

FATALLY INJURED AS AUTOMOBILE TURTLES

Shelby, May 24—Demos Young, 20 year old textile worker, died in the hospital here Monday morning at 6 o'clock of injuries received in an automobile wreck near the Shelby limits Sunday afternoon. He suffered internal injuries as the car in which he was riding turned over twice on the Hopper Park Hill.

Late News Flashes

Morgan Paid Tax In England. Washington, May 24—(AP)—J. P. Morgan testified today to the Senate investigating committee that although he made no income taxes in this country in 1931 and 1932 he did pay such a tax in England. The financier upon returning to the stand at the opening of the afternoon session of the inquiry into his banking operations was examined closely by Ferdinand Pecora. The Morgan partners were shown to have paid $1,000,000 income tax for 1929 and some $48,000 in 1930, and none since. Pursuing the matter while a ripple of excitement stirred the crowd that again packed the large room, Pecora inquired as to whether the banker in the last two years had paid an income levy to any foreign nation. "I think so, in England," Morgan replied. "Which year?" "Each year," Morgan said. (Continued on Page Four)

N. Y. BANKER IDENTIFIES LIST OF SIXTY

Charles G. Dawes and Others Listed as Directors and Officials Of the Bank Obtained Loans; President Of New York Stock Exchange Also Named at Second Day of Questioning of Financier.

Washington, May 24—(AP)—A list of about sixty bank officials and directors who have been extended loans by J. P. Morgan and Company in recent years, including Norman Davis, adviser of the American delegation to the Geneva Arms conference, was placed before the Senate investigating committee while Morgan underwent a second day of questioning. Almost at once on taking the stand in front of another capacity crowd the financier identified the list. It was made public despite objections of such action made yesterday by John Davis, counsel for Morgan.

The names on it also include: Charles G. Dawes, Harvey D. Gillson, Mortimer Buckner, C. E. Mitchell, Seward Prose, Miron Taylor and Pehard Whitney, president of the stock exchange.

Called to the stand Morgan took the same seat, he occupied yesterday near the middle of the long committee table.

John Davis, white-haired former Democratic presidential candidate and now Morgan's counsel, opened the hearing by addressing Morgan. "You were asked yesterday whether your firm had made any loans to individual officers of commercial banks."

Morgan nodded. The counsel then recited that the committee had decided to put the list on record.

Craft Infant Passes Away; Burial Today

Dennis Craft, five-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Craft who reside on the Falkland road several miles from Greenville, died this morning at 1:15 following a week's illness. A twin brother of the child died last Friday.

Funeral services were conducted from the Craft home this afternoon at 2 o'clock by Nathan Brooks of the Baptist Church, and burial was made in the Craft cemetery near Winterville.

Surviving are the parents and five brothers and sisters, Leroy, Richard, Alfred, Martha and Helen.

TEN-CENT JUDGMENT PLACED ON RECORD

Smithfield, May 24—Probably the smallest judgment ever docketed here is now on the records in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court. It is in the principal sum of ten cents and was docketed at a cost of forty-five cents. The original amount sued for was $180.00, but $180 of the amount had expired by the three years statute of limitations on open accounts. Attorneys were employed by both plaintiff and defendant.

GEOLOGISTS TAKE TO AIR TO STUDY ROCK STRATA. San Angelo, Tex.—(AP)—To gain a bird's-eye view of rock formations of special interest, members of the West Texas Geological Society's field party took to the air. A plane carried them in an elliptical course over a highly folded and faulted area. Four members of the party were taken aloft at a time in a cabin ship. Flying at 2,000 feet for 30 minutes, they could see an estimated 800 square miles of terrain.

FIFTY POOR LITTLE RICH MEN

(News and Observer)

So J. P. Morgan, the mighty, paid no income tax for 1930, none for 1931 and none for 1932. The 20 partners of the private banking house have paid no income tax for the past two years.

There were other revelations in the first appearance of the head of the world-famous and world-famous House of Morgan before the Senate Committee in Washington. The committee counsel brought from Mr. Morgan himself a list of the business enterprises in the country in which the Morgan firm holds directorates. It required 16 minutes for the reading. There were other glimpses into the operations of the private banking house.

But the overwhelming majority of Americans who dig down into their little savings to pay the income taxes the government levies against their meager salaries, who have already been warned that they may soon expect an increase in the rate of their taxes to support a governmental project of re-employment, will ponder most deeply the Morgan exemption, the reasons therefor, and the means whereby the happy privilege was secured.

Mr. Morgan, carefully written Associated Press and United Press dispatches agreed, was a cheerful witness. Only when counsel for the committee pressed for the truth of his income tax payments did his urbanity forsake him. He appeared, according to news dispatches, "slightly annoyed."

Just where Mr. Peacor, the committee counsel, is headed in the revelations which apparently he is prepared to make, appears uncertain. He has already delivered a staggering blow at the income tax law as written and as administered.

There is reassuring aspect of the situation. That is the very appearance of Morgan and his partners before the committee. That means an administrative willingness and even determination to know the truth and the whole truth about big business, and it infers a like willingness and determination to attack the evils of our economic structure at their roots.

The White Cockatoo by Mignon G. Eberhart

SYNOPSIS: As a sequel to three murders and a wilder have occurred and I, the author, find someone hiding in the wardrobe of Sue Tally's room. But the person escapes leaving the situation as before—with Sue holding off Francis Tally, her brother, by sheer courage in his demand that she produce the token which will identify her beyond question, and establish her right to share the father's huge estate. Searches the storerooms of the French Hotel in which the tragedies have occurred, and finds there an elderman recently used. He returns to the used part of the hotel.

Chapter 45

The Token Again Paul's white cap was bending over a steaming kettle. For a moment the chef didn't see me, as I was still in the little passage outside the kitchen and outside the area of light. I think, however, as I turned away he caught just a glimpse of the motion, for I heard behind me a kind of howl, something dropped and clattered and there was a sound of hissing steam.

It was not at all difficult to get into the priest's room. I would have liked learning more about the missing token from Sue before I searched that room, but as it developed it was not necessary, and I wanted, of course, to take advantage of the opportunity at once. For I found the token.

Although it was in a large degree accident that I found it. I had approached the heavy window curtains, and was drawing them back to get more light in the room when one of my fingers slid something through the thick chenille cords of the enormous tassel hanging from the red rope that controlled the curtains. And in slipping ran upon something that was not soft chenille and was not tassel.

I worked very cautiously, there in the gathering darkness, pulling at the thing carefully to extract it from the large bell-shaped tassel. It was a jadedly triangular piece of paper—a thin piece with small print. And the instant my eyes fell on the print I knew I had found Sue's token. It was a torn half of the chapter about love in first Corinthians.

As I glanced at the page I saw a word here, a word there, that made suddenly bits of old and familiar phrases and automatically finished themselves in my mind—"with the tongues of men and"—"tinkling cymbal"—"understand all my terms," and toward the bottom, "face to face" now I know in part—"and the greatest of these . . ."

That was why Sue had said what she'd said. Had said it so flatly, with such an affect of casualness, while she'd watched Francis so carefully.

And—it recurred to me with significant force—Francis had not finished her quotation. Had looked faintly puzzled and baffled. Had, so far as I could see, failed entirely to catch its meaning.

The token itself surprised me, for somehow I had expected it to be some kind of jewelry—I don't know why. It was, however, remarkably efficacious—simple, easily hidden and preserved, and practically impossible for anyone who discovered its secret to duplicate owing to the necessity for duplicating not only the edition of the Bible from which the leaf had been torn, but the jagged edge where it was torn and with whose words the matching half in Francis's possession must exactly coincide.

But I had no time, then to speculate. For the implications of Francis's refusal to recognize Sue's one offer at compromise were important. He had either failed to recognize it purposely, not desiring to do so, thus tacitly conceding Sue's claim in the presence of witnesses. Or—he had not known it for what it was.

My back had been foolishly, turned to the door. I don't know whether it was some sound or rustle or whether it was only that strange age-old instinct that tells us when eyes are watching us. At any rate, I was suddenly aware of it, and I whirled and clutched for Lorn's in the way of a discharge of public duty and responsibility more wholesome than the Morgan investigation and its related inquiries since the late Senator Walsh of Wyoming, spread before the nation the ramifications of fraud and corruption now remembered as the scandal of Teapot Dome.

Washington Daybook

Washington—President Roosevelt's selection of James M. Cox of Ohio as a member of the American delegation to the London economic conference again shows him loyal to an old friend.

Cox and Roosevelt were democratic running mates in the 1920 race for the presidency and vice presidency, respectively. Roosevelt is staking much on the success of the London conference. His conversations in Washington with world leaders followed by his plea to all nations for peace and good will is evidence of that. If would seem, therefore, that the President's one-time associate has been given a task of the greatest importance.

One of Roosevelt's first appointments to high position was that of Josephus Daniels as ambassador to Mexico. Daniels was secretary of the navy when Roosevelt was assistant secretary.

An Eye On Silver The choice of Senator Pittman as a member of the delegation came as no surprise to Washington observers. Not only is the Nevada senator among the President's closest legislative advisers, but the fact that he is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and president pro tempore of the senate also virtually assured him of a place on the delegation.

There's another factor in the selection of Pittman as well, and a very important one. Silver seems destined to have a position of great prominence in the discussions at London. Pittman is a recognized authority on the question in the senate.

Across Party Lines As observers awaited announcement of the choice of the republican senator on the delegation, the gossip favored McNary of Oregon from the start.

The last republican senator to attend a world conference representing this country was Reed of Pennsylvania. Reed's views on tariffs, however, another subject due for exhaustive discussion at London, worked against him.

McNary, on the other hand, is a westerner and holds views on tariffs different from Reed's. The cooperation he has given the democrats as minority leader of the senate while the President endeavored to get his emergency program through congress also was pointed to by some as an important consideration in his favor.

CHAIN OF STATE FORESTS IS URGED IN TENNESSEE

Nashville, Tenn.—(AP)—A chain of state forests of 10,000 acres each and averaging 20 to 30 miles apart is being proposed in Tennessee by State Forester James O. Hazard.

The legislature has empowered Gov. Hill McAllister to create state forests where there are suitable areas of state-owned lands, where sufficient acreage has reverted to the state for non-payment of taxes and where other lands are suitable for forest purposes.

Hazard is urging counties to cooperate in the program which is expected to tie in with the national reforestation program now going forward in the Tennessee valley.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—It's good news to younger players of Hollywood when "big" pictures about youth are planned.

Perhaps it's just the law of averages at work, but seldom does a youth cycle arise without producing some new star or featured player whose career is immeasurably furthered by one choice role.

Hollywood, designedly or otherwise, look to its "youth" pictures for new talent for the future. Youngsters who draw only bits or minor roles in the average parlor drama get their chance to shine in such films as are built around youth.

Break For Youngsters

"Flaming Youth" spurred Colleen Moore to fame, and Children of Divorce was a silent picture of the same era which did a lot for Clara Bow, Gary Cooper and other principals.

In talkies "All Quiet on the Western Front" is the classic example. It took Lew Ayres and suddenly made him a star. "Are These Our Children?" revealed Eric Linden, and "The Age of Consent" presented the screen with Dorothy Wilson.

Since "All Quiet" Ayres has played many roles, has been married and divorced has "grown up". There is room for a "new generation" of post-adolescent actors. That perennial cry for "new talent new faces" you know—not necessarily to be rushed into prominence today but to be prepared for tomorrow, when today's favorites have had their allotted "five-year span" of life on the screen.

So They Pass

Cecil B. DeMille puts it: "The reigning favorites of today will give way to newer and younger faces in a very few years. These stars of tomorrow will not be picked out of nowhere when the time comes, but they will be the boy actors of today."

Suiting action to word, DeMille is giving Paul Adams (born Peter Samish) a leading role in "The Day and Age," and another principal is Ben Alexander, former child actor who with Ayres had an assignment in "All Quiet." Leading lady in the film is Mari Colman, stage actress hitherto unknown to pictures.

James Cagney's "The Mayor of Hell" produced Frankie Darro as potential string timber, and Frankie draws top billing in "Wild Boys of the Road."

The pictures these two films of youth will inspire—unless Hollywood has changed it ways—should give the directors opportunity to pick their stars of tomorrow.

The WORLD of STAMPS

but the designs pictured to the belief that it has something to do with mariners. The values and designs—looking almost like carefully executed water colors—are: 10 aur plus 10 aur, sepia, a storm-tossed vessel, a life-line rigged between it and a station on the shore; 20A plus 20A, light orange, children on a headland near the sea; 35A plus 25c A, light blue, same as 10A; 50A plus 25A, light green, bent old man standing on a beach upon which a boat rests and gazing over the sea.

Closely following reports of Martinique's new set comes word that another French colony, Middle Congo in west equatorial Africa, has issued a set of 22 postage values and 11 postage dues.

Like Martinique's the new Middle Congo stamps are printed in varied hues, and some of them on colored paper.

Postage values—1, 2, 4, 5, 10, 15, 20, 25 and 30 centime, the Mindouli viaduct; 40, 45, 50, 65, 75 and 90c and 1 and 1.50 franc, the Pasteur Institute at Brazzaville, the colony's capital; 2, 3, 5, 10 and 20 fr., the government house at Brazzaville.

The most attractive design, showing a native near the shore of a lake, appears on the postage due values—5, 10, 20, 25, 30, 45, 50 and 60c and 1, 2 and 3 fr.

Shower For Miss Fleming.

Miss Florence Taft was a charming hostess yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. B. Massey, honoring Miss Mamie Ruth Fleming, bride-elect of June.

The home was lovely with profusions of early summer flowers carrying out a green and yellow color note. Six tables were placed in this attractive setting for bridge. Miss Fleming, the honor guest, found at her place a miniature bride's bouquet.

Concluding the game, high score prize, dusting powder, was presented to Mrs. Ray Tyson. Miss Florence Overton, also a June bride-elect, was given dainty lingerie.

The surprise of the afternoon came when Miss Fleming was directed to the dining room, where a beautifully decorated package in the center of the table was found to hold a miscellaneous shower of lovely gifts.

The hostess, assisted by Miss Leila Higgs, Miss Laura Smith Fleming, Mrs. Garland Woodard and Mrs. Bryce Sigmon, served a tempting frozen salad course with iced tea.

Out of town guests were Miss Frances Slink, Greensboro; Miss Nellie Stewart, Washington; Mrs. John Stanton, Mrs. F. L. Blount and Miss Camille Station, Bethel.

WOODWARD—SMITH

The following invitations have been received by friends in this city: Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey E. Smith request the honour of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Sara Stella

MOREADITH—LANE

Raleigh, May 21.—Miss Josephine Lane of Fountain, and Lester Arthur Moreadith, of Raleigh, were united in marriage yesterday at high noon at the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. P. E. French, on Everett avenue.

Dr. J. Randall Farris, pastor of the Hillier Memorial Church, officiated in the presence of a group of friends and relatives of the couple.

For the ceremony, the home was decorated with an abundance of spring flowers. The improvised altar was banked with pines, Dorothy Perkins roses and daisies. Tall standards hold burning white tapers were placed on either side of the altar.

The wedding music was played by Miss Anderson, who used the conventional wedding marches as professional and recessional, just prior to the ceremony, Miss Hayes sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning."

Little Talmadge Stokes, nephew of the bride, was the ring-bearer and carried the ring in a lily.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Stokes of Ayden, who as dame of honor, wore a frock of pink crepe with white accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of sweetpeas.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Leon Lane. She was becomingly attired in a frock of blue crepe with which she wore white accessories. Her flowers were pink roses and valley lilies.

Immediately following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served in the dining room of the home for members of the bridal party and wedding guests.

After a wedding trip to Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Moreadith will be at home in Raleigh.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lane of Fountain. She received her education at East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville.

Mr. Moreadith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Moreadith of Raleigh. He attended North Carolina State College and is now connected with the Gulf Refining Company here.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding included: Miss Anderson, Miss Hayes and Miss Knox of Greenville; Mrs. Webb of Pinetops, sister of the bride; George W. Lane, Miss Christine and Notoma Lane of Fountain, father and sisters of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor of Farmville, brother and sister of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Basden and children, Billy and Lionel, of Durham.

MRS. JOHNSON DIES AT ROSE HILL

Mrs. Mary O. Johnson died at her home in Rose Hill on Thursday, May 18th. Funeral services were conducted on Friday. The floral tribute was large and beautiful. Mrs. Johnson was the mother of Dr. Virginia O. Johnson, formerly of Greenville.

"OH, PROFESSOR" TO BE PRESENTED HERE THURSDAY EVENING

At 8:15 tomorrow night the curtain will rise on that delightful musical comedy "Oh, Professor," which is being presented by the Presbyterian Ladies Auxiliary at the high school auditorium. The story of "Oh, Professor" is one typical of the lighter side of college life at an American university.

The scene is the living room of a fraternity house and the time is the day and night of the biggest dance of the season.

When the story opens we find everybody in the frat house anticipating a most delightful time, with the possible exception of Steve Crandall. Steve is the champion track man on the campus but has a terrible inferiority complex as far as girls are concerned. In fact, he claims to get most of his track practice running away from girls.

Bob Davis, a college boy very popular with girls, has persuaded Steve to invite his childhood friend Helen to the dance. In the meantime Bob has written to his kid brother Dave to dress as a Spanish dancer and come to the dance just for a good joke on the rest of the college.

Miss Martha Scoville is said to be charming as Helen Bainbridge. Withers Harvey appears as Bob Davis and Bancroft Moseley has the excellent comedy role of Dave Davis.

Steve decided that the best solution of the whole problem will be for him to take Dave to the dance and let Bob take Helen. Complications develop however, when it is found that Bob's sister Wilhelmina instead of his brother, Dave, has come to the dance as a Spanish actress. Steve takes the beautiful Wilhelmina to the dance and make violent love to her for the benefit of the rest of the boys, believing all the time that she is only Dave doing a very clever female impersonation.

In the second act Dave really arrives in a costume identical to Wilhelmina's and many delightful mixups occur. The title role of the show, that of Prof. Bangs is ably carried by Rev. W. A. Ryan of the Christian Church. Mrs. Milton White plays opposite him as Mrs. Bumbard and the widowed college matron who is desperately in love with the professor. "Oh Professor" furnishes two hours of hilarious comedy situation. All ends happily with Steve cured of his bashfulness and in love with a real girl. Bob and Helen engaged and Mrs. Bumbard has at last won the man of her choice.

Other important characters in the show are Chink, played by Drury Settle, Avanelle, played by Frances Clark, and the policeman played by Arthur Corey. Miss Elizabeth Madrin appears in the leading role of Wilhelmina Davis.

College Boys—Bob Eason, Bancroft Moseley, George Willard, James Dees.

College Girls—Zelle Foley, Eliza.

Thedford's Black-Draught Relieves Bilious Condition

"I find Thedford's Black-Draught a great relief for headache, constipation and biliousness," writes Mrs. L. B. Crippen, of Pulaski, Ill. "When I get bilious, I feel tired and sluggish, have a bad taste in my mouth and am in distress in my stomach. For these ailments, I take a dose of Black-Draught every other night until relieved."

By helping to cleanse the bowels of indigested food and waste matter, Black-Draught brings relief to many sufferers.

When constipation is the background for a digestive upset, get busy with Thedford's Black-Draught to restore elimination. Only 1¢ or less a dose.

Tips on CONTRACT

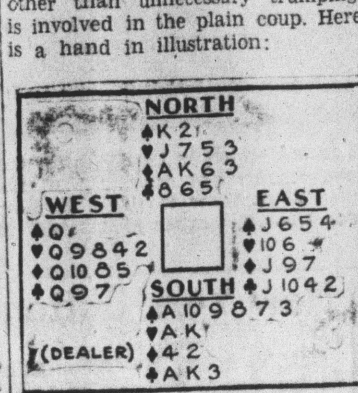

OVER-RUFF COUP

(By Tom O'Neil)

Trumps bunched in the hand of one adversary which cannot be dropped or captured by finesse can be taken at times by compelling that adversary to ruff and then overruffing.

The declarer has to shorten his trumps to the same number as those held by the adversary toward the end of the hand. This is in order that the declarer shall not have to lead trumps, thereby permitting the adversary to make a trick that he otherwise would not.

The shortening process involves trumping good tricks at times. In such cases the play is known as the grand coup. The same principle, other than unnecessary trumping, is involved in the plain coup. Here is a hand in illustration:

Mrs. Florence Osborn dealt the hand and bid a spade. West passed. North offered two diamonds. East passed. South said three spades. North then helped the spades to four and South went to little slam.

A glance at all the cards and one might think that the declarer must lose a spade and a club. But the hand can be made against any defense. As Mrs. Osborn handled the situation, toward the end of the hand West won a trick with the club queen, and then whatever was led East had to trump and the declarer overtrumped.

West opened the fourth heart, the ace in the South hand taking the trick. A low spade, led up to the king, dropped the queen. The declarer then knew the probabilities were that East had three spades to the nabe and since only one spade was left in the North hand, East must make the spade knave unless there was a coup situation.

The only finesse possible was taken against the jack. The king of hearts was played, followed by a lead to the king of diamonds. A heart in the North hand was ruffed South, a diamond led to the ace and a diamond from dummy ruffed by declarer.

The ace and king of clubs were played, with the three spot following. West took the trick. East now held only the jack and six of spades—South had the ace-ten.

Whichever trump East ruffed with, South overruffed and then caught East's last trump with the last trump in the South hand. Here was the climatic situation:

NORTH: H-J; D-6; C-8. WEST: H-Q; D-Q; C-Q. SOUTH: S-A 10; C-3. EAST: S-J-6; C-J.

It happens that the hand can be made also by a squeeze play. If after finessing ace against the spade knave South lets East win a trump trick and then plays out all the trumps, West will be squeezed so that North will take a trick either with the knave of hearts or the diamond six.

But the coup is the safer play. The success of the squeeze depends on West's holdings. How the adverse non-trumps be is immaterial in the coup method.

Springtime. When all the frost and the snow are gone...

Then through the woods and down the hill. Past the meadow and the mill...

And in the orchard, green and bright. Blossoms as though bloomed in a single night...

First comes the gayest of all flowers. March winds and April showers...

When every bird from the south opens a singing little mouth...

Blue-bird, dear robin and brown thrush. Then through the woodlands 'tis hush...

For 'tis springtime. March, April, May and June. Isn't spring a very long moon?

Spring the happiest season of the year. Is gone. Then summer is here...

'Twas springtime. The Seventh Grade Class of 1933...

We're the seventh grade of P. H. S. in 1933...

And from the grammar grades are glad to be free...

We have studied hard through the years of the past...

So good-bye classmates, and our dear friends...

We'll face our work till the world ends...

Our 1933 Class. The seventh grade class of 1933...

We've studied hard, haven't we? To graduate from the seventh...

And hope in four more years, that we may graduate from the eighth...

Seventh Grade Class Poem. Here we stand for all to see...

We were working our body and soul. And kept on till we reached this goal...

Today on high everywhere to be seen. Floating in the sky are crimson and green...

To carry our diplomas, we feel as fine as milk. White paper, crimson and green...

We feel very big and really grand. To carry these diplomas in our hand...

Our song has a tune so sweet. Commencement day we are glad to greet...

On the campus long and wide. We've sat together, side by side...

We've had good teachers through the year of the past. We are hoping this will forever last...

We're the seventh of Pactolus High School. And have always tried to obey all rules...

We're now in the seventh grade. Ho! Ho! Ho! But up to the eighth, we must go!

Seventh Grade Of 1933. We have passed in 1933. Our teachers, we know thee...

They have been good guides. The grades we did not hide...

We have graduated today. We know not in what way. Hope to the eighth grade we will go...

All marching in a row. We have done our best. All have passed the test...

If we had failed? We would have wailed. We graduate beneath the red and white...

We've graduated hoping to have done right. All have studied hard through the year...

Now closing time is here. We graduate today from the seventh...

Hoping in your years to graduate from the eighth. Tonight we say good-bye...

But it almost makes us cry. The Seventh Grade Of 1933...

We were little beginners but happy with delight. And tossed into our beds my eight at night...

That was our mother's strictest rule. To keep our minds happy and content for school...

And that we are now ready and gladly feel free. To say good-bye seventh grade of nineteen thirty-three...
