SCORES INJURED IN RIOTING IN NEW YORK CITY

Mob Battles Police When Hittles Official Lands At The Battery In Manhattan

TWO ATTACKS ARE MADE ON POLICEMEN

Women Take Part in Riot Condemning Nazi "Murder and Terror Regime"; Police Engage in Hand To Hand Combat With Rioters as They Are Assaulted With Brickbats and Bottles; Four Policemen Injured in Melee

New York, May 25—(AP)—Rioting broke out today at the North German line pier in Brooklyn in connection with the arrival in America of Hans Wiedemann, representative of Adolf Hitler's government at the forthcoming world fair exposition at Chicago.

A crowd of 1,000 men and women anti-Hitlerites awaiting the arrival of the Nazi official became enraged when it was learned that Wiedemann and the aids accompanying him had been transferred from the liner Columbia to a tug and taken to the Battery in Manhattan.

Displaying banners condemning the Nazi "murder and terror regime" the crowd turned on the fifty uniformed police and thirty plainclothesmen throwing brickbats and bottles at them.

Police engaged in hand to hand combat with the rioters and after the struggle arrested 15 men and women, the latter wearing red hats. The prisoners were locked up in a garage near the pier.

Rioting broke out afresh with imprisonment of 13. With police standing guard in front of the garage door, the crowd again charged them. Reserves were called in a short time later and additional police arrived on foot, horseback and in automobiles.

Order was restored only after police drew their pistols and leveled them at the crowd. During the melee more than a score were injured including four policemen one of whom suffered a fractured right arm.

REPORT TRUCE IN NORTH CHINA

Japanese Forces Reported to Have Halted Fighting in War Territory

Peiping, May 25—(AP)—Indications accumulated today that a truce had been reached in north China fighting although both the Chinese and Japanese were reluctant to admit it in discussing the situation.

Definite information was received that the Japanese advance had been halted while Chinese forces were withdrawing to a line cutting across north China which was understood to be one of the main points of the reputed armistice agreement.

TWO CURRITUCK WOMEN EXILED FROM COUNTY

Currituck, May 25—Mrs. Ella Baker Ferebee and her daughter, Mrs. Orion Denby, both of near Sligo, were found guilty of possession and sale of intoxicating liquor when they were arraigned before Recorder J. A. Summerell. Each was sentenced to six months in jail, sentence to be suspended upon payment of costs and banishment from Currituck county for a period of two years.

The evidence for the state was offered by four negroes, some of whom had previously been tried for drunkenness. The negroes testified to having bought liquor from the women.

Both defendants noted appeals to the sentence and furnished bond.

A fitting start was given the commencement exercises on Sunday morning when a forceful sermon was preached by Dr. Charles E. Brewer at the high school auditorium.

Miss Virginia Bell Cooper's music class gave their recital on Friday night previous to commencement week.

CROPS LOOK FINE IN THIS PART STATE

Eastern Carolina Producing the Largest Food Supply in History

The finest crops in years. This is the consensus of opinion of people who have visited the various sections of Eastern Carolina during the last several days.

Greenville men returning from a visit over the vast area of fertile lands of this part of the state declared farmers are growing more actual food crops than any other period in history.

This not only applies to the general run of farm crops but to gardens. Hardly a farmer can be found without a garden these days. They have planted liberally of the things tending to provide their tables with palatable dishes during the summer and fall and numbers are planning to can surplus food stuffs to take care of them during the winter months.

Community gardens inaugurated through the Welfare department are numerous enough to take care of the demands of the poor during the summer, and if present plans carry the surplus will be canned and stored away by the general relief committee for the demands of the poor next winter.

It is the first time in the history of this part of the state that people have exhibited such active interest in providing themselves with the necessities of life and if the crops pan out as they are expected Eastern Carolina will have plenty to eat next winter even if they don't have any money.

In the old days when money crops were selling at top prices the majority of farmers abandoned the planting of food crops and purchased their supplies from supply.

FOUR KILLED IN WIND STORM

Property Damage of $1,000,000 Reported in the Philadelphia Area

Philadelphia, May 25—(AP)—Battered by the tornadoic fury of its worst electrical storm in history, the Philadelphia area counted its dead at four today with property damage of near $1,000,000.

Philadelphia bore the brunt of the storm which reached an 82 mile gale from the northwest late yesterday afternoon, unroofing homes and schools, blowing down hundreds of trees and breaking thousands of windows in homes and stores.

One woman was killed by lightning as she mopped rain from the porch of her home. Another was frightened to death in Camden N. J., a man died in the collapse of a Fairmont park pavilion and a Chester county farmer was killed in his automobile.

Hodges Kills Two Alligators Near New Bern

Greenville fishermen have temporarily quit fishing and gone to killing alligators.

Rex Hodges, who returned today from a fishing trip at Cherry Point on Neuse river below New Bern brought along a five-foot alligator he killed in Hancock Creek in the Cherry Point vicinity.

The water weighed thirty pounds, and while not so much to look upon from the standpoint of pith-creed, probably would have proven a man in the water.

Hodges said he saw the alligator stick his head out of the water while he was fishing. In few seconds the "rator had a load of shot in his cranium and was hauled into the boat and returned to Greenville where his hide will be preserved for posterity.

Young Hodges said they killed an alligator of similar size the day before. He stated that Ray Waters, another Greenville youth, killed two in the Cherry Point community last week.

Creeks in the territory were described as infested with alligators, and fishermen who penetrate such streams always keep a weather eye open to see that they don't provide food for these denizens of the deep.

TO CONSIDER SCHOOL LAW

County Board of Education to Meet Today to go Over New Legislation

The Pitt County Board of Education will meet in the office of Donald Conley, director of public instruction, this afternoon at 5 o'clock to consider the eight months' school law passed by the last General Assembly.

The new legislation calls for reorganization of every school system in the state as well as redistricting of all schools and members of the school board were desirous of familiarizing themselves with provisions of the bill before actually going into the reorganization program.

These also the school heads are faced with the necessity of weeding out numbers of unsafe trucks in order to more completely throw a protection around hundreds of children in the various districts of the county.

The last session of the six months grand jury called attention of the school authorities to the unsafe condition of numbers of trucks and recommended that some action be taken to improve the situation.

It is the idea of the board to re-allocate all worn out trucks to take care of the various districts next term, and it was probable that consolidation and redistricting might result in the demand for less trucks.

Copies of the recent school legislation were in the hands of all members of the board today and when they go to the meeting this afternoon the majority will be well informed concerning the law and this was expected to expedite reorganization plans.

The director of public instruction here expressed himself as well pleased with the term which closed the last two weeks and indicated that progress was maintained in all schools in spite of the cut in appropriations made by the legislature two years ago, and which was further increased by the legislature which closed last week.

TWO WOMEN STRUCK DOWN BY GUNMEN

Innocent Bystanders Hit by Slugs on Streets of New York Yesterday

New York, May 25—(AP)—Gang women struck down two innocent women today in a skirmish that broadened into a shrieking panic.

The women, one of whom may die, were dropped in the street by slugs from guns when two carloads of hoodlums racing south to the White Light area poured a volley into their car.

The target car spitting gunfire careened around a corner and crashed into an iron fence. Two men, trailing blood, were seen to tumble from the car and run away.

The shattered car, the tonneau ripped and blood stained, was registered in the name of Oscar Frozen but at the Bronx house he was not known.

Sadie Fortine, who is 45 years of age, was walking along Broadway near 81st street when a slug struck her in the back. At the Knickerbocker hospital doctors found her condition critical. Irene Saxe, 21 dropped with a bullet wound in her shoulder.

Walter McDonald, of Cornell, N. Y., had stopped to look at some shoes in a display window when the running battle roared by. A slug grazed his head, knocked him down but he was not badly hurt.

GUARD WINS DAMAGE SUIT

Currituck Man Awarded $2,000 For Sending of Fake Message In This City

A jury in the civil term of Superior court today awarded $2,000 damages to J. E. Guard, of Currituck county, against the Postal Telegraph Company, Jack Russell and Arthur Elks, for the alleged sending of a "fake" message through the local office of the company three years ago which resulted in the moral downfall of Miss Martha Guard, daughter of the plaintiff.

The case, one of the most important of this term of court, was received by the jury yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The jurors were permitted to go home last night but were instructed by Judge Henry Grady to return to their deliberations this morning. The verdict was returned about the noon hour.

It provided that Russell and Elks pay to the plaintiff the sum of $800 each and that the Postal Telegraph Company should pay $400 making a total of $2,000.

The alleged message was transmitted through the Greenville office in August, 1930, bearing the date line of Poplar Branch, Currituck county, and containing the name of Mr. Guard. It authorized the college authorities to permit Miss Guard, a summer school student to absent herself from school the week-end of August 11.

Miss Guard was alleged to have assisted Elks in preparation of the telegram. In company with the two men and another girl she was alleged to have gone to Morehead City to spend the week-end.

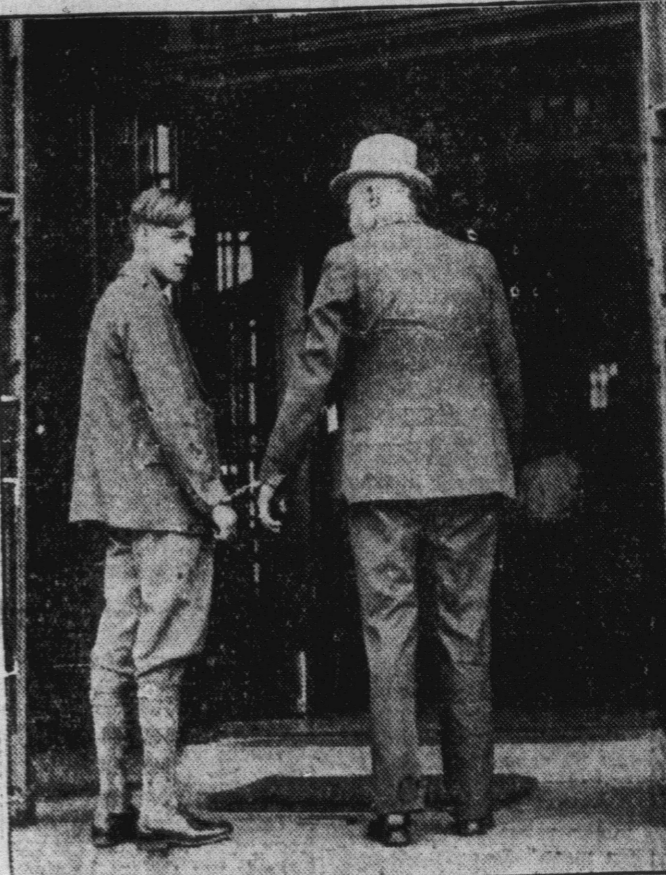

Mr. Guard came to the city during the interim and found his daughter absent. College officials showed him the telegram bearing his signature, and he immediately started an investigation which resulted in locating the young woman.

Miss Elks was sent home after the episode but she was later readmitted to the school. She was later forced to leave, however it was stated, to become a mother.

Although suit was filed immediately afterward, hearing of the case was held up on account of new pleadings.

The plaintiff was suing for $25,000 for the loss of respect and mental and physical impairment of his daughter.

Late News Flashes

Morgan Investigation. Washington, May 25—(AP)—The late Calvin Coolidge and a long list of celebrities were named to Senate investigators today as purchasers of stock from J. P. Morgan and Company at bargain prices.

Mention of the former President's name as a special buyer of Standard Brands, Inc. stocks in the summer of 1929, a few months after he left the White House, caused an audible stillness in the throng that had been kept on edge by previous disclosures.

Other names included William Woodin, no secretary of the treasury, John Davis, Norman Davis, ambassador at large in Europe, John Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and many others whose names are widely known.

Just before the beginning of the day's first session J. P. Morgan, head of the firm, took the stand voluntarily to explain that the reason he paid income taxes in England and not the United States for 1931 and 1932 was a difference in the laws.

TELLS SENATE PROBERS OF HIS ACTIVITIES

George Whitney on Stand at Opening of Investigation Into Operations Of Private Bank in New York; California Senator on "Favored Customer" List of The Bank; Was Listed For 500 Shares of Stock

Washington, May 25—(AP)—Senator McAdoo, Democrat of California, told the senate banking committee today he had lost $3,500 on three investments he made through J. P. Morgan and Company.

George Whitney, Morgan partner was on the stand when the hearing of the banking company was resumed.

In the presence of Morgan and shortly after Whitney had begun his testimony opening the fourth day of the investigation into the celebrated private bank, the California senator took the first public notice of his name being on the "favored customer" list presented in evidence yesterday.

McAdoo was down as having taken 500 shares of Allegheny Corporation stock at $20 a share through the special opportunity given by Morgan at a time several years back when the stock was going at $35 to $37 on the public market.

APPEALS FOR 'SIN' BATTLE

Presbyterian Moderator at Montreal Calls For Support of The Church

Montreal, May 25—(AP)—An appeal for church militants to combat sin was made by the Rev. William Crowe of St. Louis, retiring moderator, in the opening sermon of the 73rd General assembly of the Presbyterian church of the U. S. which convened here today.

Lay and clerical members from 17 states comprising the Southern division were here for the session and to elect a moderator to succeed Dr. Crowe.

"Sin," he declared, "destroyed every government that was in evidence 200 years ago and its seeds are bringing forth evil fruitage in the governments of today.

"What are we reading in the papers today?" he asked.

"The unrest of nations, the hate and fear of mutual distrust that shakes the hearts of people, the appalling crime and degeneration of life, the desperate situation of the vast multitudes of people, the apparent futility of all our efforts to make the world a place of justice, peace, love and hope fulfilled."

Asserting that the church is based solely on the Bible, Dr. Crowe said:

"I say the church of Jesus Christ is turning its back on the opportunity of all ages. With Christ as its head and with the world before its feet, the church is turning a deaf ear to the commission pronounced from the mountain top of Galilee. There is no substitute for the Doctrine of Christ."

OUR TELEPHONE RATES

With hearing set for several of the telephone companies to investigate the rate structure we have seen no mention of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, operators of the telephone system in this county and section. So far as we know, there has been no petition for a hearing on the local situation, but it is our opinion that such an investigation would be well worth while. Whether or not the local company is making money or whether or not the rates are too high we have not the facts upon which to base a reasonable opinion, but in view of the kicks we have heard hereabouts over the additional charge of 50 cents for the new (French type) desk phones evidently there is a feeling by many that the telephone company has used this new telephone as a means of putting on a rate increase at little or no additional cost to themselves. In view of this opinion we feel that there should be an investigation of the matter. If it be true that the telephone company by reason of greater cost is forced to charge additional for the new telephone, then the official investigation and certification of this fact would be a decided advantage to the telephone company in putting a stop to rumors and complaints that tend to breed dissatisfaction among the subscribers. If on the other hand, it is found that the charge is not a just one, then it should be removed for the benefit of the telephone subscribers.

In view of the fact that this additional charge varies among the different localities in the state it seems to us that it warrants investigation along with that of the complete rate structure.

MAKING ADVERTISING PAY (Aztec, N. M., Independent-Review) The most common question put to an editor is: "Do you believe advertising pays?" To answer in the affirmative is only natural for any editor. His bread and butter is derived from the income received for advertising space. But to enter into detail in an effort to convince the inquirer is an act that is noble in purpose. So many items stand directly in the path of an effort to explain the point to decision that is convincing. Under the circumstances action, instead of words, must be the factor contributing to the positive proof of the affirmative answer.

Advertising is an investment in a business. It is an art that requires considerable thought and study because of the many different forms in which it can be used. The outstanding form of advertising is that of using the columns of a newspaper as a medium of reaching in to the homes of buyers and prospective customers. No other form of advertising is as sure-shot and permanent as a well-written and displayed advertisement on the page of a newspaper. Message in a newspaper is as permanent as the home, for it lingers in the home after oth-

The White Cockatoo by Mignon G. Eberhart

Chapter 46 WHO IS "FRANCIS?" "What do you—Go on," said Lorn crankily. "It's very simple. You see, when Tally came to consult me he'd just slipped on a wet street in traffic and got involved somehow with a taxicab and flying glass. It wasn't serious, he told me, but his face was heavily bandaged. That was, of course, fully six months ago. And I've not seen him since."

"Where was that meeting?" "In New York." "Was he the same general build as this man?" "Of course," said Lorn impatiently. "Do you think I haven't tried every test? I'm willing to admit that he may have deliberately got himself up to give me no definite way of identifying him again. But whatever was the purpose, the fact remains that I can't tell whether this man is Francis Tally or not."

"But this man recognized you. Spoke first. Called you by name." The scorn in Lorn's gaze made itself felt though he was still in the shadow. "Have you failed to consider a possible connection between the Lovschiem and this man? Of their informing him carefully of everything they have managed to discover? In case—of course—he is actually not Francis Tally?"

"No—" I said slowly. "No—I've not failed to do that." Several things returned to me. Grethe's sudden activity after that period of curiously patient, cat-like waiting; the way she'd looked at the newcomer when he floundered; the way his eyes had sought hers there in the lounge—had it been for guidance? Briefly I told Lorn of the time-table Lovschiem had tried to conceal; he too, he agreed, had noted the curious effect the man called Francis Tally gave of looking to Grethe for help.

"The thing to do," said Lorn, "as I see it, is simply to sit tight until the Paris detectives come. They'll make an end to things in a hurry." "But, Miss Tally—" I said. "We'll advise her to hang on to her token, take no chances, and wait for the detectives. In the meantime—" He paused, and then continued: "I may as well tell you, Sumdean, that I think I know what the motive power is."

"You mean," I cried excitedly, forcing him for once to a definite statement, "the murderer?" "Don't ask me any more now, Sumdean. And I must go. Tell Miss Tally what I've told you, will you?" We walked together to the stairway. He went down, met Mrs. Byng and Sue on the landing, crossed the lounge and entered the lobby. At the desk Lorn paused and spoke to Lovschiem. Yet—of course, that did not mean that Lovschiem was, after all, the murderer.

I turned to meet Sue and Mrs. Byng. "I suppose," Mrs. Byng was shouting, "that we must eat dinner in this den of perdition. But don't worry darling." She moved ahead of us in the narrow corridor, walking with a strange stiffness and lack of freedom brought on probably by her entangling garments. Sue dropped back a little with me, and under the continued boom of Mrs. Byng's voice I asked to see Francis's letter again. "Envelope and all," I said. "As soon as possible."

"Put up your hands." It was impossible to obey. In fact and in spite of that ominous cold touch on my neck, I believe I was too numb with shock to lift my hands. Then slowly I turned. The girl backed away so that she still held me in range of that small pistol. The girl was not Sue Tally—or rather she was not the girl I knew as Sue Tally. For when I said slowly: "Who are you?" she replied: "I am Sue Tally. I've told you twice to put up your hands. This gun is loaded and I'm a good shot."

"I stood there looking at her. She was of the same general height and build as Sue, but lacked Sue's fineness of wrist and ankle and delicacy of proportion. She was fair, too, and wore her hair like Sue's. She was even dressed in a black velvet coat, like Sue's. But she did not resemble Sue in the least. A general written description of her height, weight and coloring might have applied to them both, but they were not at all alike."

"Then a horrified question crashed upon me. Where was Sue? What had happened? Where had she gone? "You don't want to shoot me," I said. "It won't do you any good. There are too many gendarmes in the place for you to escape."

"Where have they been keeping you all this time? Hasn't it grown a little tiresome, dodging the police and hiding here and there?" "She bit her lip. I thought suddenly that there was something at the same time shrewd and stupid about her face. "So you are Sue Tally," I said thoughtfully. "I had suspected your presence for some time. Can't we sit down and talk this over more amicably?"

"So it was she in the storeroom; I had not expected that, even though I had guessed that she was about somewhere, waiting to carry out her role in the conspiracy. "In the storeroom," I repeated sympathetically. "You poor girl. It must have been most uncomfortable. The smoke from your cigarettes drifted up to me one night."

"Oh, it wasn't difficult to stay out of people's way. Anyway, at a distance I look rather like—this other girl. I had this coat made like hers on purpose. Of course, I've not been in the hotel all the time. I've been staying at Paul's—the cook's house." "Oh, so you've been staying at Paul's?" I thought the girl had been bored and dull; she was probably not averse to talking to someone. Her hand did not waver with the pistol, but she was looking rather approvingly at me. "The Lovschiem's haven't been treating you very well, have they?"

"No," she flashed. "They forget how important I am to them—" She checked herself quickly, but it was too late. "I've seen you before, you know." "When?" she said incredulously. "Looking from the third-story window—I suppose you were lodged there then—the night of the first murder."

POLITICS

By BYRON PRICE One easily-overlooked feature of the rapidly-moving events at Washington is the purely temporary and experimental character of most of the changes made since March 4 under the leadership of President Roosevelt.

So much has been happening that the country has come to look on the new order as an established fact, and to speak of the "Roosevelt program" as something now nearing completion. No conception could be further from the truth. As a matter of accuracy Mr. Roosevelt scarcely has made more than a beginning toward the permanent changes he has in mind to put the nation on a new track.

He has been dealing all along with emergencies, or at least with what he regards as emergencies. He is occupied now in patchwork, rather than in altering the basis pattern of national life. He is administering restoratives, and the larger problem of bringing the patient through the process of recuperation remains for the future.

Temporary Measures The temporary character of the banking, farm, and public works legislation proposed by the administration is apparent. The inflationary authorization voted by congress was plainly labeled momentary expedient. The taxes now proposed are to carry a provision for their own cancellation when the need disappears.

It may be said that the securities bill and the proposal for regulation of industry have enduring features, yet Mr. Roosevelt explicitly describes these measures as of emergency character when he recommended them to congress, and there seems to be no feeling in administration quarters that they will provide permanent solutions.

It is evident that the President and his advisers hope by the temporary and experimental means to accomplish two things. They hope the stimulus provided will start an upward spiral of economic activity, bringing the country back within the course of the next few months to a condition near normal. Incidentally many administration officials think that hope is showing definite signs of fulfillment.

Secondly, they hope the period of transition and experimentation will teach them some lessons which will be of great value when the time comes for permanent legislation. Watching and Learning The effect of this purpose on current legislative proceedings is increasingly apparent. There is no question, for instance, that Mr. Roosevelt expects in his term to accomplish a sweeping permanent revision of the banking laws.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER Washington—The republicans hope someday to regain control of congress. It may be that they are looking to that time with an idea of giving the democrats some of the medicine that is their own lot now.

There are rumblings of discontent from the republican side and from others not wholly in accord with the forceful methods the democratic leadership is using to put its projects across. Objectors say that the famed republican triumvirate of Longworth, Tilson and Snell exercised no such authority in the house as that now wielded by Speaker Henry Rainey and floor leader Byrnes.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon long has been pointed out as the republican speaker who ruled in his day as a czar, but now, some contend his reign appears almost benevolent compared with Rainey's. For Rainey has at his command that all-powerful legislative weapon known as the special rule—that vehicle which enables him to bring a piece of legislation before the house at any time with debate limited to a minimum and the right to amend completely shut off.

Like A Juggernaut That's a reason that bills have been rushed through the house this special session so rapidly. The steam roller has crushed everything that stood in its path. Leaders say the country is facing an emergency and remedies must be swiftly applied if they are to do any good.

But the republicans are finding comfort in anticipating a day of reckoning, such as that which has come in the past. "Uncle Joe" Cannon was hauled down from his mighty place in an open revolt back in 1910. And in 1930 one of the first things the democrats did when they came in control of the house was to liberalize the rule which the republicans had forced on the house.

A Battle—Maby The regular session of congress next winter may see the beginning of the fight. And it would be a non-partisan effort. Republicans would be expected to join because they are now in the minority. And there is evidence that there would be some democrats in the ranks. But the important thing is that the democrats now are setting precedents which may be used against them later if the republicans so choose.

Good Health Depends On Mineral Balance

Lee's Mineral Compound With Vitamins Builds Bodily Strength and Vigor by Supplying Needed Minerals and Vitamins

In the light of recent scientific discoveries, leading Physicians and Health authorities agree that the human race could be practically free from most ailments, and could live to a ripe old age if the system could be regularly supplied with a sufficient quantity of the essential Minerals and Vitamins. Fortunately for humanity, science has found a way to prevent most of these conditions. After years of careful search and experimentation, a new remarkable formula has been perfected. This preparation, known as LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND is a scientific combination of the eleven most essential Mineral Elements of the human body combined with Vitamins. It is not, in any sense, a patent medicine, but is more in the nature of a FOOD VITAMINIZER. By supplying the system with the necessary Minerals and Vitamins, it aids nature in quickly balancing the Mineral content of the body so that good health naturally follows.

DEFICIENCY OF MINERALS The process of refining modern foods, bleaching of flour, rice, sugar, etc., together with improper cooking takes out of our foods the very things that God intended we should have. ACIDITY DESTROYS HEALTH As the Mineral content of the body is lowered, slowly but surely the acid content of the system is increased until it finally reaches the point where the organs of assimilation and elimination cannot perform their natural functions. Our powers of resistance are lowered. Disease germs creep into the blood. The system becomes clogged with impurities. Various aches and pains appear, and before we realize what is taking place, we are on the very verge of a physical breakdown.

BRINGS QUICK RELIEF Stomach disorders, such as indigestion, hyperacidity, "heart-burn," gas, and bloating soon yield to this amazing natural compound. Constipation and head-tendant ills, such as nervousness, neuralgias, biliousness, bad breath and yellow skin, soon give way to a feeling of renewed strength and vigor.

MAKE THIS 10 DAY TEST Convince Yourself! Stop dosing yourself with "patent medicines," harsh purgatives, oils and cathartics for just 10 days. Go to your nearest Druggist and secure a bottle of LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND. Take it regularly, and watch the results. You'll be amazed at the feeling of renewed strength and vigor that soon appears. No opiates or alcohol to "boost you up" but a natural method of restoring health and energy.

For Sale by Warren Drug Store, Greenville, and other good dealers everywhere or, send $1.25 to Lee's Laboratories, 167 Forsyth St., S. W., Atlanta, Ga., for large bottle postage paid.

Edna Earl and her mother, Mrs. W. S. Corbett, were invited to the home of Mrs. Lang, where a delicious supper was served at 6:30.

After supper they were taken to the high school by Mr. Wootard, mail carrier of Farmville. There Edna Earl took part in the program which was greatly enjoyed by everyone.

She played several selections on the piano. She also took part in the dances.

MISS OVERTON AND MISS FLEMING HONORED. Miss Florence Overton and Miss Mamie Ruth Fleming, brides-elect of June, were honored yesterday when Mrs. D. M. Clark was hostess at a bridge luncheon.

Lovely summer flowers in pastel shades made an attractive setting for the bridge tables. Mrs. Jesse Moye, making high score, was presented a luncheon set. The honor guests, Misses Overton and Fleming, were remembered with bronze book ends.

A tempting barbecue luncheon was served. For the dessert course, the guests were invited into the dining room where Mrs. J. B. James and Miss Margaret Fleming served cream and crushed strawberries. The table was covered with a cloth of lace with sweet peas, surrounded by a miniature wedding party. Each guest was asked to cut the cake.

The luncheon yesterday was one of the most attractive of the many pre-nuptial affairs honoring these two popular brides-elect.

Mrs. R. A. Fountain Jr., of Fountain, a sister of Miss Overton, was a guest.

Wear His Flower On Poppy Day. His fixed bayonet was pointed toward the enemy. His steel helmet was tilted down over determined eyes. An unseen machine gun sprayed his path with death, but he went forward for America.

In a poppy studded wheat field he fell. They buried him after the wave of battle had swept by, and poppies sprang up around his grave. His victorious comrades, returning to America, brought memories and the poppy.

On Saturday, May 27, the men of the American Legion will ask us to wear a poppy. The women of the American Legion Auxiliary will offer us poppies on the streets and will give us an opportunity to aid the war disabled, the widows, and the fatherless children. Can there be a person in Greenville in whom the pulse of patriotism beats so low that he will refuse? He who can so soon forget the patriotic sacrifices of the past is a person from whom friends and country can expect little or no service today or in the future.

TAFT-FLEMING

Mr. and Mrs. Van Calvin Fleming request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Mamie Ruth to Mr. William Holston Taft on Thursday, the eighth of June, Nineteen hundred and thirty-three at eight o'clock in the evening Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Greenville, North Carolina. No invitation sent in Greenville.

Garden Party for Miss Fleming. Miss Virginia Perkins and Miss Jane Hadley were joint hostesses at a lovely garden party yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Hadley on Evans street, complimenting Miss Mamie Ruth Fleming, bride-elect of June.

The garden at the rear of the home was a profusion of summer flowers. Especially attractive was the pergola under which the receiving line stood. This was covered with ferns, rambler roses and numerous flowers. In the center of the pergola was a huge wedding bell.

Misses Charlotte and Marjorie Perkins showed the guests to the receiving line under the pergola. In the receiving line were Miss Jane Hadley, Miss Virginia Perkins, Miss Mamie Ruth Fleming, Miss Jean Harvey of Grifton, Mrs. J. W. Perkins and Mrs. Van Fleming.

Four tables were placed in this attractive setting for bridge. Concluding the game, high score prize, a string of beads, was presented to Miss Mary Lou White. For low score, Miss Jean Harvey was presented a dainty handkerchief. Miss Fleming, the honor guest, was presented a compact. A beautiful nosegay was placed at the honoree's table.

Out-of-town guests, Miss Nellie Stewart of Washington, and Miss Jean Harvey of Grifton, were remembered with dainty handkerchiefs.

The hostesses assisted by Misses Charlotte and Marjorie Perkins and Mrs. George F. Hadley, served a delectable salad course.

Mr. and Mrs. Huster Honored. Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Huster were honored at a brilliant reception last evening when Mrs. Hattie White was hostess at her home on Fourth street.

Profusions of pink sweet peas and blue larkspur were artistically arrayed thru out the attractive home. On arrival guests were given a cordial welcome by Mr. and Mrs. Julian J. White.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. White introduced the many guests to the receiving line. Receiving with Mrs. White were Mr. and Mrs. Huster, Mr. and Mrs. Blair Stephens and Mrs. R. H. Stephens of Goldsboro, Miss Mamie Ruth Fleming and Joe Taft.

From the receiving line the guests were directed to the receiving line by Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Crisp and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White.

From a beautifully appointed table, covered with a cloth of lace and centered with a bowl of pink sweet peas and blue larkspur, Misses Kathryn Tyson, Marjorie Savage, Mattie Moye Gaylord and Marian Tyson served an ice course with mints and salted nuts.

was in charge of Mrs. W. E. Hooker, who presented as guest speaker Mrs. James Ficklen, who has recently returned from a trip to the Orient. She gave the club one of the most delightful programs of the year.

In her own enthusiastic manner, Mrs. Ficklen told of life in the East as few of us know it, describing vividly the shrines and temples, the various forms of worship, customs and traditions of not only the general class of people in Japan and China, but of those in highest social circles. One particularly interesting feature of her talk was the comparison of Japan and China. The first a clean, well kept city, its people robust, sturdy, well-nourished, well-clad and most polite in manner. The latter dirty, run down, the people emaciated, poorly clad, uncouth and most discouraged.

Most interesting were the descriptions of the dinners and entertainments given Mr. and Mrs. Ficklen—the white mice preserved in honey, raw fish, bulb sprouts being among the delicacies served them.

During the social hour which followed her talk, Mrs. Ficklen most graciously answered the many questions asked her by interested hearers, thus giving the club an additional pleasure.

Other guests for the afternoon were Mrs. John Staton of Bethel, and Mrs. J. B. Spilman. Having just returned from Washington, where she interviewed Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, and Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, assistant secretary of the treasury, Mrs. Spilman was much enthused over women in politics.

After enjoying the delicious ice course served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. F. J. Forbes, the club adjourned for the summer months.

Auction Sale Of Furniture Draws Crowds. Tremendous crowds attended the auction sale which started at Quinn Miller and Company's store on fifth street yesterday afternoon and indications were that the sale would draw people from a radius of many miles from day to day in the future.

High class furniture and rugs are being offered the shoppers of the community at two sales daily, the first at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the second at 3 o'clock in the evening.

The offerings consist of the best the store has in stock and embraces everything for the home in the furnishing line.

L. A. Stroud, manager of the concern, stated he was highly gratified with the interest manifested by the public during the two opening sales yesterday. He urged people to take advantage of the splendid bargains offered from day to day while the sale is in progress.

The sale will continue twice daily until further notice, it was said, and the public is invited to visit the store and see the splendid values on the auction block.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS. Hollywood—in this unreel parade. Some of the things that made the twenties less gay than they're supposed to have been add nothing to the gaiety of directors.

A crowd scene, especially, is cluttered with Victorian difficulties in costume and properties that were the last word in smartness and convenience in the closing decade of the last century. In this age, what a nuisance.

Such Fun! Stephen Roberts had a crowd to handle in the street-fair scenes of "One Sunday Afternoon." It was a gay crowd, milling through the fair ground with its flamboyant side-shows, its horse-drawn merry-go-round, its candy vendors and barkers.

The scene apparently required a deal of head-scratching in the studio.

Children swarmed the place in quaint little dresses and suits; women in the last gasp of the modish about; men in pancake hats and natty suits, some wearing linen dusters, promenaded through the hurly-burly.

Everything was exactly right, technically perfect. The horses, too suited the period. But the nag that hauled an atmosphere couple in a buggy past the carnival gate balked. All the careful planning of that scene, the carefully "natural" movements of the crowd, the placing of groups here and there, had gone for naught—at least as far as that horse was concerned.

SPORT SLANTS

For my own personal file, I would have liked a copy of Bill Terry's reaction when he saw in the public print that the Cardinals had sent big Paul Derringer to Cincinnati in their recent exchange of players.

It just happens that the Giants' youthful pilot spent the greater part of the late winter and early spring trying to lay hands on a pitcher of Derringer's calibre. He particularly paid court to Sam Breadon, of the Red Birds, and all he ever got from Sam was a busy signal.

Bill first wanted Dizzy Dean, which was a most laudable ambition, if nothing else. Then he suggested Tex Carleton, the Derringer, then most any good; healthy pitcher the Cards could spare. Unfortunately, there wasn't a thing Breadon could do for his old pal, Bill.

With Derringer on the firing line taking turns with Carl Hubbell, Freddie Fitzsimmons and the two youngsters, Parmelee and Schumacher, the Giants would be able to show the rest of the National League some fancy pitching seven days of most any week.

While on the subject of pitching incidentally, it may be pointed out that Donie Bush has gathered himself a very presentable collection of flingers at Cincinnati. In Derringer, Red Lucas, St. Johnson, Bob Smith and Benny Frey the Reds have a staff that, on paper, at least compare favorably with the best of them.

If Morrissey can fill the departed Leo Durocher's shoes at shortstop and such sluggers as Chick Hafey, Jim Bottomley and Ernie Lombardi get their batting eyes clicking in unison this summer, the Reds could create a lot of fun in John Heydler's league.

One of the most interesting items gathered by the intelligence department concerns Lefty Grove, the renowned speedballer from the hill country.

At the writing, Grove has done no better than break even in six engagements, and anyone who has followed the box scores the last five or six weeks knows that isn't at all like the A's southpaw. Why, two seasons ago, the real hot weather had passed and a blanket was beginning to feel comfortable before Lefty lost his third game.

At that time, the report is that Lefty's fast ball isn't quite what it used to be. The batters, we gather, are beginning to see it before it even reaches the plate.

Somehow it's a little difficult to believe the Lonaconing Lefty already is beginning to get frayed around the edges. He's built to last a lifetime on the mound, tall and lean and wiry as a rawhide whip. He's never known what a sore arm felt like.

There's just a possibility that Grove's poor start hasn't been entirely his own fault. The A's short-stopping has been pretty ragged and uncertain most of the spring and there's nothing will sap a pitcher's confidence quicker.

Along with other crops tobacco is looking good, in all parts of the county. The blue mold which struck at many plant beds during the spring was not sufficiently destructive to produce a direct shortage of plants and farmers are cultivating their crops at full steam ahead.

The leaf is about three weeks ahead of the usual time and if nothing happens to retard growth the crop was expected to be at least three weeks earlier this year than it was last year.

Says Her Husband Lost 16 Pounds In 4 Weeks

"I have never found a medicine that 'peps' you up like Kruschen Salts and better still, leaves you 'pepped up.' I take it two or three times a week—not to reduce but merely to feel good and clean. My husband took it to reduce, he lost 16 pounds in 4 weeks." Mrs. E. A. Ferris, Washington, D. C. (December 29, 1932).

To lose fat and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness and feel spirited and youthful take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at Pitt Drug Co., or any drugstore in the world, but be sure and get Kruschen Salts the SAFE way to reduce wide hips, prominent front and double chin and again feel the joy of living—money back if dissatisfied after the first jar.—(Adv.)
