

DIVULGE NEW LIST OF 'FAVORED' BANK CUSTOMERS

Prominent Men Included In Third List Announced In Congressional Inquiry

Secretary Woodin and General Pershing Again Included Among Those Favored in Stock Deals; United Corporation Stock Sold at $25 Below Market Price; Senator McAdoo Again Cited

Washington, May 31—(AP)—Senate investigators into the J. P. Morgan and Company today obtained a third list of favored customers of the rich firm, this one persons allowed to buy stock in the United Corporation, a utilities stock holding corporation dominated by Morgan at $25 below the market price.

Again the name of John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential candidate, now counsel for Morgan, and of General John Pershing were included as they had been in the two previous lists.

Other names were the late George Baker, John J. Rascoe, Norman Davis, Secretary Woodin of the treasury department, Senator William McAdoo, R. B. Mellon, William Mitchell, Richard Whitney and Frank Polk.

Senate investigators were informed that Morgan and Company had obtained option warrants from the United Corporation stock holding organization which it dominates before there was a law authorizing the issuance of such options.

Ferdinand Pecora, the instant questioner as counsel for the committee, made the statement while George Howard was testifying as president of the United Corporation.

Budget Director Takes Committee Sessions Easily

Washington—(AP)—Appearances before congressional committees often are regarded pretty much as bad dreams by those in the administration. The going sometimes is rough.

President Roosevelt, however, has three men in his official family whom he can send to the hill at almost any time with confidence that they will be able to stand up against almost anything sent their way.

One is young Lewis Douglas, director of the budget. Then there is Cordell Hull, secretary of state. And Claude Swanson, secretary of the navy.

Douglas went before the ways and means committee of the House the other day to explain the administration's industrial recovery bill.

Douglas, who served three terms in the House from Arizona before the President picked him for the intricate job of cutting down on governmental expenses, visibly impressed those 25 gentlemen who have the reputation of being about as "hardboiled" a group as there is on the hill.

He talked their language, because he has served alongside them in the House. He seemed to know what they were interested in having brought out more clearly and anticipated their questions.

One was reminded of the days when Ogden Mills appeared before ways and means. Mills too, is a former member of the House and could match wits and words with the best of them.

Mills' appearance before a congressional committee always was the signal for a good show. He could argue and wrangle with the committee members as if he were the inquisitor instead of the witness. Some of the stormiest, yet most delightful committee sessions ever held in the capitol centered around the youthful Mr. Mills.

It isn't always easy. When Pat Hurley was secretary of war in the Hoover administration he became so infuriated at a committee session that he got up and stalked out of the room.

Cordell Hull, Roosevelt's secretary of state, has long experience in the House back of him, as well as a turn in the Senate. If there are any appearances to be made on reciprocal tariff agreements, the secretary is ready. He has served on both ways and means of the House and the finance committee of the Senate.

LORD DERBY'S HORSE WINS BRITISH DERBY

Annual Running of Race at Epsom Downs Witnessed by King and Queen

Epsom Downs, England, May 31—(AP)—Lord Derby's "Hyperion" won the second choice at 100 to 11 today won the 150th running of the English Derby before a crowd of 250,000 including the king and queen.

"King Solomon," carrying the silks of Sir Cunliffe Owen, was second and Victor Emmanuel's American-owned "Stamens," third Tuesday.

"Hyperion" ridden by Tom Weston, gave Lord Derby his third victory in the event founded by his ancestors in 1870. The last time he won was in 1924.

"Scarlete Tiger," owned by Lord Durham, was fourth.

"Hyperion" finished four lengths ahead of "King Solomon." Another horse named "Stamens" from "King Solomon" was quoted seven to one in the betting and the American owned horse at 20 to 1.

COURT PUSHES ITS WORK HERE

Compromise Actions Mark Tuesday's Session of Civil Superior Court

The hearing of one case and compromise of the remainder of the day's calendar marked yesterday's session of the civil term of Superior court.

Court continued to delve into the calendar of forty or more cases to date and indications were that bulk of the actions would be completed when the term is concluded the latter part of the week.

Smith Douglas's judgment of Norfolk was awarded judgment of $247 against F. P. Cox and the North Carolina Cotton Growers Association yesterday.

The company supplied Cox while his crop was being raised. He pooled his cotton with the association and drew $247 which he failed to apply to his debt. The company filed suit against the association but the jury held that Cox was liable for the sum.

Seven or eight cases were compromised and one was continued until next term. The continued case was that of the First National Bank of Ayden against the American Casualty Company.

Over 75 cases were disposed of in the session last week through the non-suit route and it was expected others would go the same way this week in case plaintiffs show no disposition to bring the cases to trial. Judge Grady has done everything in his power to relieve the congestion of the civil docket and scores of cases which have been hanging fire for years have been non-suited during the last several months.

NORFOLK MAN FREED IN TRAFFIC FATALITY

Manteo, May 31—(AP)—The case of A. T. Taylor, of Norfolk, Va., charged with murder in connection with the death of Cigler Gordon, killed when his motorcycle was struck by Taylor's car near Nags Head last summer, was non-suited in Dare county superior court today.

Gordon's companion on the motorcycle, C. K. Forbes, died a month after the accident from injuries received. A coroner's jury at the time held Taylor blameless, but he later was indicted.

WOMAN FACES DEATH CHAIR

Negress to be Executed at Raleigh June 30; First to Die In State

Raleigh, May 31—(AP)—For the first time in 17 years "death row" at state prison here housed a woman prisoner condemned to die in the electric chair.

Sarah Black, 28 year-old-negress, convicted of slaying of her husband in Wilson county, faces death on June 30.

Notice of appeal to the Supreme court was served in Superior court at Wilson but the plea has not been perfected so far as Warden Honeycutt of the prison knows.

The woman contends that Robert Collins shot her husband to death but at the trial Collins testified he shot Black once and that Sarah finished the job. Collins was convicted of part in the shooting and sent to prison while the woman was sentenced to die.

Sarah says she is innocent of the crime.

Should the sentence of the Wilson court be carried out she will become the first woman to be electrocuted in state prison, although some 125 men have died in the chair since it was installed in 1910.

The last condemned woman on death row, Ida Ball Warren, of Winston-Salem, whose death sentence was commuted by late Governor Locke Craig in 1910.

Files in Bankruptcy

New Bern, May 31—James W. Brothers, a farmer of near Le Grange in Lenoir county, has filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in Federal court here, listing liabilities at $11,513.43 and assets of $550.

George Green, clerk of court says that it is the first bankruptcy suit filed here since April 22. There has not been a bankruptcy case filed by a Craven county person since February 15, this being considered an indication of improving times.

IRISH POTATO CROP COMMENCES TO MOVE

Elizabeth City, May 31—First potato shipments from Elizabeth City and Old Trap, Camden county, moved Monday. Prices are ranging between $2.75 and $3 on the New York market and this is expected to yield a profit to growers in this section. Digging is being delayed in many cases because of a good rain, Saturday which is expected to raise the quality.

UPHOLDS TOLL PHONE RATES IN GRADY CASE

Official of Telephone Company Says Jurist Used Different Classes of Service

Toll charges on telephone calls made by Judge Henry A. Grady here last week to his home in Clinton were upheld by J. R. Porter, of Tarboro executive vice-president of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, operators of the local office, in a letter filed with the Corporation Commission at Raleigh today. A copy was also sent to Judge Grady.

The controversy was precipitated the latter part of last week when Judge Grady, indignant over the difference in the cost of the two calls, wrote the manager of the local office and filed a copy with the Corporation Commission at Raleigh.

The first call taxed the judge 65 cents and the last 85 cents. Each call required less than three minutes one having been made in the day and the other at night.

Porter said a check-up of the calls showed the judge had used different classes of service, hence the variation in the toll charges.

Judge Grady, expressing his displeasure over the varying charges, declared, "I have always loved to contribute to eleemosynary and purely charitable organizations but at the same time I do strenuously object to be held up and robbed in daylight."

The telephone company read the Grady letter in the papers and made a check-up which, according to the letter to Corporation Commission—showed that the judge had used different classes of service. That he did so unwittingly, the telephone officials indicated a proneness to believe.

The first call from the judge at Greenville to Mrs. Grady at home in Clinton cost 55 cents plus 10 cents federal tax, which Mr. Porter explained was the correct charge for a station-to-station call—that is a call for a number without requiring the telephone company to get a particular individual on the wire. The second call went through as a telephone-to-person call—that is the telephone company records show the Judge asked to speak to Mrs. Grady.

BIG 'FAG' HAUL IS MADE HERE

Robbers Obtain $300 Worth of Cigarettes At Bilbro and Duncan Store

Thieves entered the Bilbro and Duncan Wholesale house last night and made away with cigarettes valued at $300, it was revealed by police this morning.

The robbery was discovered by passersby this morning about 5 o'clock and police immediately started an investigation although without a single clue to work upon.

The thieves gained entrance to the building by breaking the lock on the front door. They are presumed to have placed the stolen goods in an automobile and sped away.

A check up of the stock failed to reveal anything else missing. Cash registers and safe were un molested, indicating that the robbers were desirous of obtaining cigarettes and nothing else.

Police were reluctant to discuss the robbery other than to give out bare facts concerning the affair, but an investigation was started which it was indicated might bring results in a comparatively short time.

KANSAS JAIL WARDEN GIVEN HIS FREEDOM

Five Other Hostages Taken in Kansas City Prison Break Reported Safe

Lansing, Kan., May 31—(AP)—Eleven convicts, including three killers were at large today but six hostages they took in a Memorial Day escape from Kansas State Penitentiary here were safe.

Warden Kirk Jralther, who leaves office today and two guards were released last night in the hill country of northeast Oklahoma by six of the fleeing prisoners and returned here at 7:15.

Three women whose car was commandeered by the other five prisoners reported today they were safe at Pleasanton, Kansas, about 100 miles south of Lansing near the Kansas-Missouri border.

A telephone call from Miss Louisa Wood to her father, M. J. Wood, who had waited anxiously for word from her, his wife and a girl whom since they were thrust from his car about noon Tuesday was the first news he had received from them.

The girl whom is Miss Clovis Wears, 17 whose home is in Higgins Texas but who attends high school in Kansas City.

Miss Wood said the men did not harm them and drove on after releasing them last night near the farm of George New, two and a half miles west of Pleasanton.

The father left Kansas City immediately for Pleasanton on hearing of their safety. They were in custody of the convicts ten hours.

Warden Prather credited his safety and that of his companions to a bottle of whiskey the convicts drank after a zigzag journey through Kansas.

The drink mellowed the, said the warden, but he feared for his life even up to the time three three hostages were ejected from the car near Welch, Okla.

Persons Kan., May 31—(AP)—Otto L. Durkee, 42, night watchman at Chetopa, Kan., was shot and instantly killed early today by an unknown assailant.

ALUMNAE DAY HERE JUNE 3

Classmates of Teachers College to Hold Annual Gathering Here

Saturday, June 3, is Alumnae Day at East Carolina Teachers College and many will come from all parts of the state and from other states to meet with classmates and friends and to take part in plans the Alumnae have for contributing to the reputation and needs of their alma mater.

Mrs. John Thompson, acting president of the association, will preside over both the business meeting and the program. The two classes that are the guests of the college, and the chief ones to have reunions are the ten-year class and the one-year class. Mrs. Mabel Thomas Turner, of Raleigh, representative of the group of five in the four-year class of 1923, the second to receive the A.B. degree, and Mrs. Maggie Baker of Spring Hope, who was president of the normal class of 1923, will both appear on the program.

The luncheon at 1 o'clock will be served in the two dining rooms, with the alumnae from the beginning through 1931 in the new dining hall and the class of 1932 and the graduates of this year in the old dining hall.

In the afternoon several classes will hold their reunions. The class of 1923 expects to have a large representation in the Y Hut. Many of the class of 1923 which made plans to meet on its fifth anniversary, will be on hand.

ARRANGE FOR DIAMOND WORK

Baseball Club Directors Adopt Resolutions at Meeting Last Night

The Board of Directors of the Greenville Baseball club met last night at the Chamber of Commerce and passed a number of important resolutions.

The directors voted to urge the parties soliciting funds to finance the team to make a strenuous effort to complete their canvass by Friday night. Those who the canvassers have called upon have contributed very generously but the solicitors have not been able to see the majority of baseball fans.

Twelve uniforms have been ordered. Since the order has been mailed in two additional firms have expressed their desire to furnish a uniform and it has been necessary to order two additional uniforms.

No cars will be allowed to park behind the third street school building.

Richard Williams was suggested as ticket seller and Grover Whitehurst as ticket collector.

W. K. Beckett was elected umpire for both the games at home and abroad. C. B. Rowlett was appointed to announce the names of the players as he goes to bat the first time and the name of the firm that contributed the uniform.

Manager Harrington was present at the meeting and stated that he was satisfied with the way the team was lining up. Several positions on the team are going to be hotly contested for before the season opens next Wednesday. The players are out their fighting every day and the one that shows up the best will be in the line up when the umpire calls "play ball" at 4:00 P. M. Wednesday June 7.

ASKS A RECEIVER FOR SANFORD COTTON MILL

Letters received from her husband indicate that the ravages from the earthquake were rapidly repaired and things soon began to look almost normal.

TRUCE SEEKS MILITARY IN WALL SECTION

Zone Established South of Great Wall Which Chinese Troops May Not Enter; Truce Designed To Give Sorely Pressed Population Breathing Spell From Hostilities

Shanghai, May 31—(AP)—A formal armistice in the North China warfare was signed today by military representatives of China and Japan at Tangku.

The truce provides first for the militarization of the area bounded by the Great Wall on the north, the Peiping-Mukden railway on the east and the Peiping-Suiyuan railway on the west; second for the dissolution of the Chinese volunteer corps in the area; third for the restitution of the trial tariff between Peiping and Shantung.

Nanking, May 31—(AP)—The Sino-Japanese agreement signed today at Tangku which establishes a zone south of the Great Wall which Chinese troops may not enter is designed to give a breathing space to the sorely tried troops and dis-tress of the North China population.

Wang Ching-wei, national government premier, explained.

Premier Wang declared the agreement was purely military and does not effect the national territorial rights or the international position.

Germans Stres Tariff Woes As London Conference Nears

Berlin—(AP)—The world economic conference in London will be regarded as a success by Germany, according to authoritative information here, if it lowers trade barriers, stabilizes currencies, removes restrictions upon the exchange of monies between countries and thus points the way to relieving unemployment.

Work in this country of more than 5,000,000 jobless, is the pressing need of the common man.

To reduce unemployment, Germany will argue that artificial tariff barriers erected since the world war must fall on all sides, so that normal intercourse can again take place.

It will further be necessary that international regulation be effected for reducing the interest rate on capital borrowed before the big economic depression set in.

Also it will be necessary to effect some sort of international stabilization of currencies, so that the producers in countries with stable currencies may be relieved of uncertainty in calculating their prices as compared with those of fluctuating currencies.

Gold, Germany will argue, is still the best standard.

North and South American interests in the German delegation's proposals probably will center in crop reduction and consolidation of Germany's short term loans into longer term credits.

By showing up her tariff walls Germany has almost succeeded in stopping agricultural imports from the western hemisphere.

In exchange for reductions in crop acreages, with the attendant increase in world prices, the government, it is believed, would be willing to reduce its agricultural tariffs.

Optimism, formerly rather elusive concerning the London gathering, seems to have come from hiding since President Roosevelt's preliminary meetings.

DO YOU ADVERTISE?

It is natural to presume that the bankers of the country are keeping their ears close to the ground for business trends and conditions and that they likewise have given careful study to those things that tend to keep the wheels of business turning.

"No business man in town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business mentioned somewhere in its columns. This applies to all kinds of business—general stores, dry goods, groceries, furniture dealers, mechanics, professional men, druggists; in fact, all classes of business men. This does not mean that they should have a whole of half, or even a quarter page advertisement in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, if you do not use more than a two-line space.

DUPLIN CANNING WORK GOES FORWARD BRISKLY

Kenansville, May 31.—Duplin county's joint welfare and home agents' canning project is going forward in full swing. Loads of jars and sugar are leaving the welfare department's storehouse. The various canning centers are veritable hives of industry. Canning leaders are rounding up the needy in their community and teaching them to can. Little cabins that were base of food last winter other than that furnished by the welfare department are fragrant with the odor of preserved strawberries and vegetables.

A New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

SYNOPSIS: Bernie Boyd has come home from a party to find Nicholas, her husband, in the depths of despair. Injured while rescuing a girl from a frightened horse, he has been told by the motion picture company whose star he has been that his scarred face and limp ends his usefulness in the films. His only course is to retire to a little village in his native England—and Bernie declares she cannot live in England. They quarrel and at last Bernie locks herself in her room. The knowledge that Bernie winces at the sight of his battered face is salt upon Nicholas' wounds.

Chapter Three TOSSED ASIDE

At last Nicholas felt peacefulness closing about him, and then when the first rosy streak of sunlight lit the greyness, he turned and flung himself down on the bed and slept heavily.

When he awoke the door between his room and his wife's was standing wide open.

He lay for a little while looking at it; somehow he knew instinctively that the room beyond was empty. She had left him a note, and she had left her wedding ring lying on it.

I can't come with you, Nick, and I don't think you want me to, so I'm going away. Don't worry about me, but you won't say I should be all right. It's no use saying I'm sorry—you won't believe me.

BERNIE.

She had taken everything of value that he had given her, and she had left behind her wedding ring.

The window was wide open to the morning sunshine, and Nicholas lifted his arm and flung the ring into the street.

He thought again of the English country-side very much as a man dying of thirst in the desert will think of water.

If there was a boat home he would go by it. There was nothing to keep him in a country that had no more use for him; the thought put new life into him.

Twenty-four hours later he was watching New York fade into the sunshine behind him.

There had been nobody to see him off. He had registered under his own name but even that had not seemed to arouse much curiosity, so quickly was he fading from memory.

He stood staring out over the sea, at the receding skyscrapers and the status of Liberty which was growing every moment in perspective more like a dumpy wagon.

When he could no longer distinguish her in the misty distance he turned and went down to his cabin.

The steward was there, unstrapping his luggage. Nicholas frowned.

"All right, leave it," he said shortly.

The man stood up. "Anything I can do for you, Sir—?"

"Yes, leave me alone."

How tired he was. He sat down on the side of the bed and stared down at his lame leg. The doctors had told him he was lucky not to have lost it.

Overhead and all around was noise and bustle—voices calling, the thud of heavy luggage. Nicholas felt himself to be far removed from it all. He was traveling on this boat because there was no other way to go home, but he was something apart—the world had passed him by.

Someone knocked at his cabin door; he heard it but he gave no sign, and the knock was repeated.

Nicholas frowned—"Who is it?"

The door opened timidly till it was wide enough to show the slim figure of a girl who stood there with a bunch of flowers in her hand.

When she saw Nicholas, she smiled, and there was no trace of horror, or even of pity in the smile, although she must have seen the thing that made Bernie wince and turn away.

Nicholas did not move, and she came a step further, holding out the flowers.

"Do you mind? I thought you would like them," she said.

He made no offer to take them, and she laid them down on the little table between them.

He stared out over the water.

Damn the girl! Was there no way of making her see that she was unwelcome?

She nodded, her eyes serious.

"I know. It made me cry when I heard," she said.

But there was nothing in her eyes but wistful interest.

Nicholas tried again.

"Your friends will be wondering where you are," he said meaningly.

She laughed at that. "I haven't any friends on the boat. I'm traveling alone."

"I prefer traveling alone," he said shortly.

For a moment she stared at him uncomprehendingly, then she said slowly, "Do you mean that you don't want to talk to me?"

"That is exactly what I have been trying to convey."

"Oh—" For a moment she looked hurt, then she smiled again. "I'm sorry. I expect you're tired. I didn't mean to bother you."

As the girl turned to go, Nicholas picked up her roses and without a glance at them, flung them through the open port.

Italian Gold Hoard Found

While razing a house in Rome workmen discovered a hoard of gold weighing 34 pounds, gold rings of the nineteenth century, gold-mounted medallions of the eighteenth century, and a strange assortment of coins of the Roman emperors. The hoarder took the trouble of wrapping up some of the coins in a newspaper dated 1888 and on investigation it has been found that an antiquary named Martinetti lived in this house in that year. No further record of the man has been found but students are continuing their investigation to learn why he mixed ancient and modern gold in the same hiding place.

The Law And The Racketeers

The law's grip, tightening upon racketeers, has made their operations more hazardous and less profitable. In Chicago, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney is directing a reform of so-called "outlaw"

By NOEL THORNTON New York—(AP)—Racketeers, composing brigand organizations, which extort an annual toll estimated in billions from legitimate business in this country, have fallen into sudden chaos.

Frightened by sweeping attacks from federal and state prosecutors and attempting to stave off bankruptcy threatened by a depression in illegal liquor traffic, gang leaders are branching into new fields in a frenzied effort to continue the flow of easy money into their pockets.

As the rackets change in character so the racket leaders are giving way to new regimes.

The throne of Al Capone in Chicago is reputed to have been taken over by Murray Humphreys.

With the slaying of Larry Fay and many of his cohorts the "conspiracy to coerce" business in New York has been carried on by younger leaders, typical of whom is the former bantamweight champion Charley Phil Rosenberg. He has just received a three-year sentence for racketeering tactics in the Bronx poultry markets.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings has ordered an inquiry into evidence of racketeering in New York's fish market and trucking industries. These two businesses and the poultry and milk dealers are said to be the chief contributors to the annual bill of more than $300,000,000 which the State Crime Commission estimates this city pays yearly to gangsters.

In Chicago, State's Attorney T. J. Courtney is beginning a reform of all "outlaw" unions in an effort to eliminate the $180,000,000 which the Chicago Employers Association estimates will go into the hands of gangsters of that city this year.

Federal authorities have moved in full force into New Jersey to examine evidence that many 3.2 beer breweries are controlled by "public enemies."

The situation has reached the attention of Congress, with Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York introducing a resolution before the commerce committee to inquire into racketeering in beer, milk and other fields, recommending legislation to eradicate the evil.

Detroit has an inquiry under way following reports that rum runners are trying to move in on the legal beer business, but officials report that the city is more free of gangdom influence than it has been in six years. Detroit authorities, among whom was Prosecutor Harry S. Toy gave the racketeer machine a severe setback when they obtained convictions to break up the notorious Purple Gang three years ago.

Federal authorities have been and are achieving results with their four way attack against "public enemies" for income tax evasion.

unions to stop the flow of millions into the hands of gangsters there. In New York, Charley Phil Rosenberg has been sentenced to the penitentiary on charges of racketeerwidnaping crimes, interstate commerce violations and abuses of the 3.2 beer law.

The chief income of racketeers until this year was derived from illegal traffic in beer and spirits. The Wickersham report estimated that gangsters were receiving between 2 and 3 billion dollars a year from this source.

When the depression stopped much of this illegal liquor income, there came an increase of reports of racketeers in other fields, such as kidnaping and extortion from industries and coercion of labor organizations to levy dues on individual workers.

Prosecutors found themselves up against a terrific problem in attempting to forestall this new and growing form of racketeering. With their mobs of bombers, acid tossers, strong arm sluggers and machine gunners the gang leaders employed weapons of strikes, boycotts and violence to frighten their victims into submission.

State Attorney General John J. Bennett made a public appeal for help, saying, "If I can get the support of victimized business men I feel perfectly sure we can end the whole business of racketeering."

In several instances lately victims have been persuaded to come forward and give evidence. Harassed by threats and financially unable to any longer pay tribute to racketeers, their indignation is overcoming their fear so that more and more they are cooperating with prosecutors.

ing in poultry. Al Capone, listed as Chicago's "public enemy No. 1," is now in federal prison. Larry Fay, whose name has been linked with alleged rackets in New York, has been slain. Murray Humphreys is reported to have succeeded toward and give evidence. Harassed by threats and financially unable to any longer pay tribute to racketeers, their indignation is overcoming their fear so that more and more they are cooperating with prosecutors.

chic behavior must be schooled into us, and it is this early training that determines how successful we shall be in living out adult life. Babies need exercise and crying is a splendid one for them. Let the baby cry and teach it that nothing is gained by crying for it. Some children cry for things they don't need and really should not have. The child's personality is very real and like unto the soil—it is ready for planting and from it may grow weeds or beautiful flowers. It is a serious mistake to tell fairy-stories to the delicate mind of the child. It would seem that parents could take the trouble to use facts of real life and of real people and make these facts interesting and attractive to largely given to fantasy and preoccupied with imagination.

The child's imagination does not need developing, but instead it needs to be properly educated to cold facts curbed and disciplined.

We meet on every highway of life—neurotics, and the most of their trouble is trying to dodge the realities of life. They have trouble with everybody and with everything they meet, and often these poor afflicted ones suffer most bitterly from nervous and psychic disorders. A neurotic person dies a thousand times

Kentucky Man Tells Why He Prefers Black-Draught

"I have tried other medicines, but haven't found any of them that has given me the satisfaction that I have found in taking Black-Draught," writes Mr. W. N. Futrell, of Hickory, Ky. "About three years ago, I began suffering from constipation that made me feel dull, tired and worn-out. I did not feel like I could keep going. I tried remedies but not anything that gave me the satisfaction that Black-Draught has given me. My children have said the same thing. I am truly glad to recommend it to others, for it is a good medicine for constipation."

"20 miles to the gallon!" "22!" "24!" "Sometimes as high as 25 or 26." Those are Chevrolet owners speaking. And they're indulging in some good old-fashioned boasting over the gasoline habits of their new Chevrolets. Yes—gallons certainly do s-t-r-e-t-c-h a long way in a Chevrolet Six—farther, in fact, than in the tank of any other full-size car. And the same thing holds true of oil. Put five quarts in the Chevrolet crankcase and the chances are those same five quarts will still be there when you change your oil again. For, as millions of miles have proved, the new Chevrolet Six certainly is a world-beater for economy. You'll save on fuel—and on upkeep, too. And on repairs. And on depreciation. CRUSHED BY FALLING TREE, FATALLY HURT

Albemarle, May 31—Comer Burleyson, 40-year-old white man of this city, died at Yadkin Hospital Monday afternoon as the result of injuries sustained in a rather unusual accident Saturday afternoon.

Burleyson had driven his car, a Chevrolet roadster into the entrance of the Efrid ball park, when a gigantic oak tree blew down during the course of a wind and rain storm and fell directly across the car, pinning Burleyson between the top of the car and the steering wheel. His head was badly injured, as were his chest and back.

I always wash my hands with mild soap in lukewarm water, for I find they are softer and whiter when not exposed to extremes of temperature. After they have been dried carefully I massage them with a lemon cream. Three times a week I soak the finger tips for five minutes in warm olive oil. This keeps the nails strong and the cuticle about them free from hang-nails.

College Annual Dedicated To Local People

Friendly international relations is the theme which runs through the 1933 Tecocan which will be distributed to students at East Carolina Teachers College within the next few days. Previews of advance copies of the college annual show it was carefully planned and beautifully executed.

The Tecocan is dedicated to "The People of Greenville, the little city in which our vision of international affairs has been broadened and associations so pleasant have been made." The dedication page bears a picture of Shepard Memorial Library in colors.

The editor-in-chief, Miss Loree Cagle of Beaufort; and the business manager, Miss Frances Harvey of Greenville, chose as sponsors their mothers, Mrs. J. C. Cagle and Mrs. E. W. Harvey, respectively. Assistant editors for the publication were Misses Kathryn Hines, business manager of the 1934 Tecocan, Pansy Lanier, Ellen Baker, Doris Mae Jones, Hula B. Leach, and Margaret Rogers. The faculty advisers were Miss Kathryn Holtsclaw, M. L. Wright and M. K. Fort.

For the first time four-color process work was used in a number of the scenes. The superlatives are pictured in the dress of other lands and are in color. Division pages also appear in colors.

How's Your Health

CALCIUM IN THE DIET
Prof. H. C. Sherman, as long ago as 1911, called attention to the fact that the average American dietary is deficient in calcium.

Twenty-two years later he again states that "probably a larger proportion of the ordinary dietaries, both of adults and of children, can be improved by enrichment in calcium than in any one chemical element."

In substantiation of his statement there are the results of a study made of the dietary histories of more than 4,000 patients in the New York Hospital. Only two out of the 4,000 showed an adequate intake of calcium.

Professor Sherman took a number of rats thriving on what is considered an adequate uniform diet. He added to this diet milk and vitamin G.

He noted that in these rats there was a more rapid and efficient growth, a lower death rate, a higher vitality at all ages, and an increase of 10 per cent in the average longevity of adults.

There was a greater extension of the prime of life among these animals, in that maturity was expedited and senility was deferred.

Dr. Alice B. Benheim of Cornell University, writing recently on "Calcium Need and Calcium Utilization," suggests that the long-lived Bulgarians of Mechnikoff fame, who were thought to owe their longevity to the bacillus adophilus may perhaps owe their long life to their diet, which, being composed of sour milk and sour cabbage, provides sufficient calcium, under conditions promoting proper absorption.

While Sherman's experiments were conducted with animals (rats) and while it is not possible ordinarily to apply the results of animal experimentation directly and in full measure to humans, nevertheless the results gained in these experiments are so prominent that it is safe to draw from them the general conclusion that an adequate supply of calcium is essential to good health.

HELPS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Instead of telling your child to stop what he is doing, suggest something else which he would like to do instead. When he has picked up an article you don't want him to have hold out to him something else which will engage his interest before you try to get him to relinquish what he holds. In this way you will get through the day with as few "don't's" as possible.

To clean kitchen walls and woodwork thinly coated by grease from stove fumes, use a gallon of warm soap suds to which a tablespoon of kerosene has been added. Wash a small space at a time and then rinse with warm water and wipe dry at once. A sponge or soft cloth is suggested to use for washing and a soft lintless cloth for wiping. If the housewife goes over the kitchen once a month in this way, she will save much time, as the dirt is easily removed.

Slice fairly thick pieces of oranges and lemons, put whole cloves around the slices and maraschino cherries in the center. Here's something good to eat and colorful too.

If you'll remove the cork from your glue bottle and put a piece of candle in its place the glue will not stick beyond all reason—nor will it get dry.

It is a two-piece suit designed with a hi-length belted jacket having long strait sleeves. The striped cotton blouse which accompanies it is finished with a scarf trying in a bow under the chin.

Plan to arrange candles and table center pieces so that they will not interfere with the vision of the guests. Low bowls are best to use for holding flowers.

Rinse with quantities of warm water boiled rice, macaroni or noodles, as this will prevent the undesired stickiness.

During the summer months store cooked and uncooked cereals in tightly covered jars. Regular fruit jars will do.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood — It seems there were clouds, beautifully massed and feathered clouds, as well as thunder over Mexico.

The clouds are prominent in the picture which takes its title from the figurative thunder that led to revolution and president-day industrial progress in Mexico as depicted by the Russian director, Sergei M. Eisenstein.

Silent except for musical accompaniment, "Thunder Over Mexico," is introduced with flashes suggesting the origin and ancient grandeur of the natives and then proceeds to relate its story of peon oppression.

Peon Tragedy
The story is of Sebastian, a peon working in the fields, and his betrothed, Maria. They must have the master's approval of their marriage. Maria is attacked by one of the master's guests, and when Sebastian attempts reprisal he is punished.

He then leads a small band of peons in escape. They are pursued and in the fighting the master's daughter is killed. Sebastian and two other peons surviving are taken prisoners and condemned to the punishment of the horses, a brutal death.

Then there is revolution, suggested but not screened, and modern Mexico appears in an epilogue.

Cinema art fans are acclaiming the film for its spectacular photography, and for its narrative technique. There is a dissenting group however, circulating a "manifesto" protesting the picture as a "fragmentary and entirely conventional version of Eisenstein's original majestic conception" and insisting that only Eisenstein could properly assemble his own film.

This version was edited in Hollywood, and a Hollywood firm is releasing it.

George Raft walked out on his studio rather than appear in "The Story of Temple Drake," but it seems likely that Jack LaRue, who replaced him, will profit by the assignment.

The picture proved to be a modified version of the sensational William Faulkner novel, although it remained sinister and less along conventional lines than the average movie.

The character played by LaRue—and this was the one that Raft balked at accepting—turned out somewhat whitewashed, though menacing in a milder way than that characterizing the original in the book.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINS
New York — Since the warm weather period began, street bands and curb singers have been blossoming out in unprecedented numbers. As if New York didn't have enough noise without them!

Some say that such itinerant musicians lend "color" and "atmosphere" to a city. Well, maybe so in limited doses. And maybe when one is in the mood for such things, a blatant band, playing all out of tune is amusing. But right now the streets and sidewalks are so littered up with fellows making terrible noises with their vocal cords and horns that they are nothing but a nuisance.

Among chief offenders are the megaphone singers whose adonoidal bellowing can be heard for blocks. But usually it's the bands which get around so early in the morning, breaking into one's beauty sleep.

Musicians aren't supposed to play on the streets without a license from the city, but you know how those things go. Many of them just don't bother about licensing formality.

It's nothing uncommon to see some one toss a coin from an apartment window—not so the musicians will be encouraged to continue playing—but so they will restore the peace and quiet of the block by moving on.

Yes, sir, it's a gosh awful "racket"—in more ways than one.

Animal Films Fading?

An executive in one of the movie company home offices, taking his life in his own hands, admits—right after his company has taken over an animal thriller for distribution—that the public is just about glutted on the wild animal angle.

The picture handled by this company has some excellent shots of unglorified rough stuff which would have had audiences on the edges of their chairs if shown a little while back.

The saving grace of this particular feature is a supplementary romance in the lives of simple natives who live on the fringe of the beautiful jungle. So says my informant, his company will advertise it as a "story of primitive love," leaving audiences to spread interest in the animal sequences by word of mouth advertising—if there is any interest.

N A Aid For -ctors' Pets

A charitable gesture by one of the town's veterinarians, Dr. Robert M. Miller, is good news to hard-up actors who will go hungry themselves if necessary to make sure that their pets are well fed. He offers free treatment to any sick dogs, cats and other small animals owned by members of Actors' Equity who can't afford to pay.

Some of those animal acts which used to open and close vaudeville bills have been held together by trainers too fond of their charges to get rid of them. The plight of a few of these has been most pathetic. Trained dogs have gone hungry, shunted about from one temporary shelter to another, while their owners have suffered even more.

Now there is a movement afoot to stage a gigantic benefit show, the proceeds to go to the relief of the vaudeville animals acts which haven't any more vaudeville bookings to make their future bright.

WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE MOTOR CAR

There is some doubt that people care to hear very much about what goes on under the hoods of their cars.

The driver knows that "driving qualities" are not accidental; they are put there. How the manufacturer creates or evolves those results may not interest him. He judges entirely by the results he gets in driving.

Well, it is not essential to talk "shop"; let us talk Results. Smoothness. Drive the Ford V-8 and you will find that the engine runs with surpassing smoothness, due to its design and the extra precise methods of its manufacture.

Power. There it is, 75 horsepower (we could say 80) at the drive-shaft for the driver's use. With less weight to pull around, the mettle of this car—its life-like response—is rather remarkable.

Economy. Our V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gasoline than any car we have made. Mileage is partly a matter of individual driving, but under average conditions the Ford V-8 does 17 to 20 miles a gallon. Of course, car economy is not only a matter of fuel. Ford V-8 has that too, but it is also economical in the complete sense—initial cost, operation, maintenance.

Appearance. This is woman's contribution. The motor car must not only be useful, but also good-looking. View the Ford V-8 and you will not need our comment on its fine appearance.

Comfort. This also is woman's concern. In 30 years she changed the motor car from a wagon to a coach. Comfort is a quality made up of numerous ingredients. There is no comfort without a quiet, smooth-running engine. We have all the other ingredients too,—color, good taste, quality, ease, safety, roominess and convenience.

NEW PLAYERS JOIN LEAGUE OUTFIT HERE

Two new players arrived in Greenville yesterday afternoon to try for berths on the local club of the Coastal Plain League. Manager Milton Harrington announced today.

They are B. C. Poole and Henry Winslow, both of Raleigh. Poole is an outfielder and Winslow a pitcher. Both have been playing semi-professional ball in the Raleigh area this season and hope to be able to find a place with the locals.

Fourteen men are going through workouts every afternoon at 3:30 and more were to arrive from day to day to show their skill to the managers. So far there are four hurlers in camp, but still others are expected to show up for service during the latter part of the week.

With the league opening June 7 the weeding out process was expected to get under way and the first of next week and the regular team definitely whittled into form.

Manager Harrington declared the showing of the fourteen men already on the field was gratifying and indicated Greenville would be able to put a fairly strong team into the field at the outset.

The league allows one professional for each club, but Greenville will place an all semi-pro outfit on the diamond during the early part of the season with the probability that a professional may be added later in the season.

Another exhibition game was being planned for the first of next week so the regulars may be able to get in proper trim for the opening league game on the 7th.

Activity was reported in the other three towns of the league and indications were that all would be ready to provide plenty of competition when the umpire calls "play ball" opening day.

MANY TAKE PART IN UDKE SPORTS PLAY

Durham, May 31—(AP)—Seventy one percent of the undergraduate men students of Duke university took part in the 13-sports program of the department of intramural athletics during the present scholastic year.

The figures of this department, which is a separate division from the departments of physical education and of intercollegiate athletics, reveal that there were 2,404 entrants estimated to be 1,000 different students. The men undergraduates at Duke number 1,452.

The combined figures of the three departments of the athletic system at Duke—intramurals, physical education and intercollegiate athletics—show that practically every undergraduate male student participated in some form of sports activity during the year.

The greater share of the intramural entries this year are junior and senior students, which is in accordance with the ultimate aim of the department since the two upper classes finish their required physical education work the first two years. While a number of the first and second year students also took part in intramurals, there were 850 enrolled in physical education, which figures are not included with the intramural department.

Several of the 23 fraternities on the campus had a 100 percent representation in intramurals and engaged in hotly-contested campaigns for the various championship trophies.

The intramural figures: fall tennis, 66 singles, 16 pair, doubles; spring tennis, 188 singles, 57 pair, doubles; mass tennis, 290; basketball 220; free throw contest, 75; volleyball, 80; touch football, 258; "Grass Cutter" regulation football league, 100; fall track, 250; spring track 105; swimming, 80; boxing, 57; wrestling, 43; golf, 20; handball, 16; horseshoes, 128 singles, 40 doubles; playground ball, 350; water polo, 30.

GRIMESLAND WINS DOUBLE BALL MENU

Grimesland won both games of a double header from Belhaven yesterday at Belhaven by the score of 6-5 and 4-2.

The games were the highlight of the formal dedication of the new athletic field which was also featured by a fish and barbecue dinner. Several hundred people attended.

Page, pitching for Grimesland in the first game struck out 9 and Whisnat, hurling for Belhaven, fanned 11. They walked one each.

Cobb and Webb did the heavy stick work for Grimesland in the opening game by getting a home run each. Simmons carried off honors for Belhaven with a circuit clout.

Androlla did the mound work for Grimesland in the second game and had a dozen strikeouts to his credit. Dick Cherry fanned 12 for Belhaven and issued three free passes to the visiting hurler one.

In the eighth inning of the second game the score stood 1-0 in favor of Belhaven when Fleming, after singling, scored on Webb's two-bagger. In the ninth frame Grimesland clinched the game by hitting around for four hits and three runs. Belhaven scored one more in the final frame.

Grimesland has one of the strongest teams in this section of the state and will go over to Kinston tomorrow to test their strength. They will take on New Bern on the new Grimesland field Saturday.

Defends Bank Stock Sales.
Washington, May 31—(AP)—Upon presentation of the list of persons to make individual bargain purchases George Whitney, partner of the Morgan bank this afternoon defended the practice to distribute the risk of underwriting.

As to the list of customers selected for the sales of stock, Whitney said, creation of this was on the theory of distributing risk "we did not consider proper to be carried by us as a banking house."

Whitney testified there was no public issuance of the stock at the time it was sold to the special class.

Previous evidence showed that sales were recorded as of Jan. 21, 1929, when it was listed on the Philadelphia exchange at $99, Morgan sold it at $75.

The sales occurred when Woodin and McAdoo were not in official life. Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin recently denounced the sales in the

New York, May 31—(AP)—Hopeful that the world economic conference in London will not last more than 8 weeks but convinced that international agreement should result from it no matter how long it takes, the vanguard of the American delegation sailed today.

Negro Held In Kidnapping.
Greenville, S. C., May 31—(AP)—An unnamed negro was held here today as a suspect in an attack on a 11-year-old girl of Greenville who was strangled and abandoned in a city park last night.

The child was reported by her family today to be all right.

Except for being strangled, she was not harmed, they said. She was able to give a limited description of the man whom she said caught her near the park.

She said she had little chance to see him as he caught her from the back. The girl was discovered by Shelton Belk of Greenville, as he was walking through the park with his wife and Mrs. Russell Petty. They heard a gasping sound and Belk investigated.

The girl was lying in a honeysuckle vine and was barely conscious with a string around her neck.

LIVER SUFFERERS Stir Up Lazy Liver-Bile and Purify Your System WITHOUT TAKING CALOMEL
RESULTS Guaranteed or Money Back!

Chase away that pale, yellow look on your face, the thick, bad taste in your mouth, that nasty foul breath, that indigestion, gas-bloating and belching in your stomach, those dizzy headaches and drowsy feelings from a lazy liver. Not with laxatives or physics like candy, chewing gum, salts, herb powders, or mineral waters—but with dangerous calomel—because they don't "touch" the liver, and until your liver pours at least a quart of bile into your bowels daily, you are not going to feel tip-top. Sargol Soft Mass Pills contain the only recognized ingredients that stir-up your liver bile. Thousands of former sufferers know how grand they work. Ask for Sargol Soft Mass Pills. Take no substitute. Money back unless they give you heaps of satisfaction—and quick relief.

Only the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey dares challenge with a new Motor Fuel that

Guarantees SMOOTHER PERFORMANCE

IN ANNOUNCING ESSOLENE, which will be on sale June 2nd, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey makes the above guarantee with a full understanding of the importance of such a statement by this company. The public is accustomed to fantastic and exaggerated claims in gasoline advertising. It has heard of so many "Super" gasolines—seen so many words piled upon words about "anti-knock" properties, "mileage," "quick-starting," etc., that all such descriptions have, quite properly, come to mean nothing. As leader of the industry for more than half a century, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey recognizes a double responsibility to the public. First, the responsibility to pioneer in improvements and new developments—no matter how great the expense. Second, never to lend its name to a product until that product has proved its worth.

and the validity of every statement made about it. Such is the position we take about Essolene. We stand squarely behind it as a great motor fuel improvement. Automobile engines have improved rapidly in the last few years. Gasoline improvement has not kept pace. Essolene was developed in the Standard Oil Research Laboratories with present motor problems and future motor trends in mind. The result is a fuel in advance of the times, basically superior to all regular priced and, with few exceptions, all premium priced gasolines. Try Essolene on June 2nd. Compare it in any car, with the performance of any gasoline you have ever used. Essolene will speak for itself. You can supply the superlatives. Essolene will be sold at regular gasoline price and is Colored Orange to Prevent Substitution
