FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ASKS BILLION DOLLAR LOAN

Mattern Begins Fifth 'Lap' Of His Globe Trip

FLIER HEADS FOR ANOTHER SIBERIAN STOP

Globe Girdler Flying High And Fast As He was Sighted Over None-Sibirsk; Says he Will "Beat 'em Yet". Good Weather in Offing For the Latest Jump

Novo-Sibirsk, Siberia, June 7.—(AP)—Jimmy Mattern was sighted here at 4:10 a. m. today (Moscow time) 8:10 p. m. (EST) Tuesday. He was flying high and fast toward Chita, Siberia. His destination is the fifth lap of his round the world flight. This town is about 400 miles due east of Omsk, Siberia, from where he hopped off at 1:10 a. m. (Moscow time), 6:50 p. m. (EST) Tuesday.

His average speed was about 130 miles an hour. Chita is about 1,300 miles east of Novo-Sibirsk.

Day was breaking when the American took off from Omsk just three days, one hour and forty minutes from New York.

Before him on the fifth leg of his lone journey was good weather with slight headwinds, a clear sky and good visibility.

"I'll beat 'em yet," he exclaimed, referring to Post and Gatty, the trail blazers who passed over Omsk three days, two hours and nine minutes after their departure from New York.

DEATH CLAIMS CYRUS CURTIS

Noted Publisher Succumbs to Year's Illness at Philadelphia

Philadelphia, June 7.—(AP)—Cyrus H. K. Curtis, noted publisher and philanthropist, who began his career as a newsboy, died today at his home in suburban Wynonae after illness of more than a year.

He would have been 83 years old June 18.

Death came to him at 1:10 a. m., climaxed a fight he had waged since last Friday, the day his condition became critical. With him at the last were his only daughter, Mrs. Mary Louise Bok, and other members of the family.

One of the world's foremost publishers, Curtis was stricken with a heart attack in May last year while on his yacht near New York. Rushed to this city, he entered a hospital. His wife took a room in the same institution to be near him and died five days later from a heart ailment.

Funeral services will be held at the Curtis home on Friday afternoon and burial will be in West Laurel cemetery here.

Friends were requested not to send flowers.

With a capital of three cents, he started his business career as a newsboy at the age of 12 and his subsequent success, an end in American business, brought him to the chairmanship of the board of the Curtis Publishing Company, publishers of the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal and the Country Gentleman.

He was also president of the Curtis-Martin Newsprint, Inc., which publishes the Philadelphia Public Ledger and Evening Leader, New York Evening Post and owned the Philadelphia Financier Company, publishers of the Enquirer.

Of the more than 1,000 bills introduced at the most recent legislative session in Nebraska, only 162 were enacted into law.

JAIL MAN IN FORGERY CASE

Bert Carroll Returned Here After Failure To Appear For Trial

Bert Carroll of Washington, D. C. who several months ago was indicted by the grand jury here on three separate counts of forgery, was lodged in jail here yesterday to await the next sitting of criminal court in August.

Carroll was arrested in Washington City and returned here because of his failure to appear for hearing at the April term of Superior court to answer to the charges of passing bad checks off on local business houses.

When the bills of indictment were issued last October he was released under bond of $1,000, but the bond was automatically forfeited by his failure to appear for trial.

County authorities notified W. S. Crowley of Raleigh, bondsman, of Carroll's failure to show up for trial. Crowley immediately got busy and had the accused man returned here and turned over to county officers.

Unless he can make other arrangements for bond the prisoner will remain in jail here to await the next sitting of criminal court in August.

Carroll arrived in Greenville last summer and posed as an employer of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad. He made a deposit in a local bank, exhausted it, and then was alleged to have begun to issue checks on different banks in Washington City.

Checks ranging all the way from $11.50 to $68 were alleged to have been given local firms in three separate instances, and when it was found the man did not have deposits in the banks on which the checks were drawn, he was taken into custody.

Five or six different aliases were used by the man in attempting to accomplish his purpose. (Continued on Page Three)

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, today denied reports that he had a personal representative in North Carolina working for repeal of the 18th amendment.

His statement read: "There is no truth in reports from North Carolina to the effect that I have a personal representative or representatives in that state for repeal of the 18th amendment."

LIGHT DOCKET IN COURT HERE

Dozen-odd cases given hearing in County Court here yesterday

A dozen-odd cases were disposed of in the regular session of county court here yesterday. It was the first sitting in two weeks owing to the two week term of Superior court which adjourned last Friday.

All of the cases given attention were of a minor nature and work was completed by 4 o'clock. The docket was the lightest facing the court in sometime, especially after a lay-off of two weeks.

Convicted of assault with a deadly weapon, Charles Williams, colored, was given six months on the road.

Letha Avery appealed to Superior court after receiving 90 days on the roads in two separate charges of stealing chickens.

Sentence was suspended in the case of Chesterfield Peyton and Elbert Robinson, colored, charged with gambling.

Primus Cobb was sentenced to six months on the roads for assault with a deadly weapon.

Lonnie Mills, sentenced to 90 days on the roads on a charge of stealing chickens, appealed to Superior court.

John Hopkins, colored, was given four months following his conviction on a larceny charge.

Luther Lewis, convicted of driving drunk received four months on the roads.

Judgment was suspended in the case of Mack Paul, charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

HALF HOLIDAY BEGINS TODAY

Opening of League Main Source of Attraction for Pleasure Seekers

Stores, business houses and public buildings of the city today began observance of the Wednesday half holiday to be observed throughout the summer months.

The closing movement, not only extended to virtually all stores and business houses, but included the postoffice, courthouse and library.

Although many diversions will be the center of attraction during the summer, the main source of interest today was the ball game between Greenville and Ayden at Third street stadium formally setting the Coastal Plain League in motion.

With fitting exercises preceding the game, it was expected several hundred people would be on hand to see the leaguers get away to a start in what promises to be a season filled with close competition among the four participating towns and cities.

Those who had charge of issuing the petition for the summer closing were hearty in their praise of the splendid spirit exhibited by local merchants. The half holiday, it was said, would mean much to the general health of the scores of people employed in various business houses of the city and should enable them to prepare themselves to cope with the fall rush of business in a more efficient manner.

Late News Flashes

Debate On Measures. Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Debate on two important administration measures was started in Congress today while President Roosevelt and House leaders drove to reach a settlement of the controversy over war veterans compensation.

The Senate took up the industrial recovery bill a few minutes after Republicans had decided to press for adoption of a one and a half percent sales tax to finance the cost of the present huge bond issue.

On the other side the House again tackled the once rejected legislation asked by President Roosevelt which would allow him to name a non-resident as governor of the territory of Hawaii.

Members of the House Democratic steering committee conferred with the President at the White House on veterans benefits with the President insisting that if the Connally amendment increasing outlays to the former soldiers was voted by the House, new taxes must be raised.

Later Speaker Rainey and Representative Byrnes, the floor leader said indications were that the majority of the House were not willing to accept the President's compromise regulation and wanted a broader amendment.

Rainey told reporters that if Congress voted to increase veterans expenditures and adjourn without raising taxes the President would call another extra session.

BOMB WRECKS BRICE HOME AT GASTONIA

Windows and Doors Blown in by Explosive Attached to Automobile

Gastonia, June 7.—(AP)—The uptown home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Brice was damaged today by an explosion believed to have resulted from a dynamite bomb.

Windows and doors were blown in and the Brice's automobile was wrecked.

The detonation was heard by neighbors for blocks. J. C. Elliott, chief of police, said he had found a dynamite fuse at the scene of the blast.

He said dynamite had been placed under the hood of the car which belonged to Mrs. Brice. She formerly operated a beauty parlor here. The machine was parked in the street about 20 feet from the front of the home, he said.

He said the Brices were awake at the time and that immediately after the blast Brice called police.

Chief Elliott quoted Brice as saying "I know of no reason for the blast."

The officer said he had no clues to the guilty parties but that "I have an idea we will have success in our investigation today. He would not amplify the statement."

J. C. LANIER SPEAKER TO TOBACCO MEN

Local Attorney Chief Speaker At Session Of Eastern Warehousemen Here

"The tax goblin will get you if you don't watch out," Capt. J. C. Lanier, Greenville attorney told tobacco warehousemen of this part of the state attending the annual meeting of the East Carolina Tobacco Warehousemen's Association here today at the County Club.

The statement came as the speaker attempted to impress upon the tobaccoists the importance of organizing to prevent legislative confiscation.

"It would be my idea to have your association form a steering committee with ample backing to look out for legislative matters and tax problems to the end that you get a fair consideration at the hands of law making bodies of our state and nation," the speaker asserted.

The tobaccoists were welcomed to the city by Mayor R. C. Flanagan who declared the municipality was always glad to have as its guests such a distinguished gathering of men representing the most important industry in this part of the state. W. E. Fenner, prominent tobaccoist of Rocky Mount, responded.

The visitors were treated to a delightful barbecue dinner at the noon hour after which a business session, marked by the election of officers, was held. The session was adjourned at 3:30 to permit members to attend the opening game of the Coastal Plain league between Ayden and Greenville.

Introduced by Capt. W. S. Moye as a man well acquainted with the tobacco business, Capt. Lanier spoke on the subject of "Application of Business Principals to Tobacco Warehousing."

Declaring the tobacco warehouse business stood on the threshold of a new era, the speaker attempted to point out to the warehousemen some of the most glaring leaks in their business.

He deplored the mad race to sell the most pounds of tobacco, and asked "What profit you if you sell the most tobacco and spend all your profits selling it?"

He urged the elimination of the trucking evil and rebates to large farmers. He also mentioned the loss of weight which is charged against the warehouse by the buying interest. He asserted that there is no moral reason why any warehouse should be compelled to pay for loss of weight in any basket of tobacco (Continued on Page Four)

WOODIN WANTS SMALL FOLKS FOR PARTNERS

Government Reserves Right to Accept Subscriptions of $10,000 Or Less; Financing To be Done including Paying Off Matured Certificates and Interest on Public Debts Due on June 1.

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—The Treasury called on the public today to lend the government a $1,000,000,000 to launch the big recovery work program and to meet current financial needs.

The invitation for funds was directed especially to small holders who Secretary Woodin wants in as partners of the government.

To favor these he announced he was reserving the right to accept subscriptions of $10,000 or less even though they may require more than the total of the securities offered.

Bids were called for on $500,000,000 or thereabouts for five year 2-7-8 securities. The proceeds will go largely to public works. In addition there was offered $400,000,000 or thereabouts in nine months 3-3-4 per cent certificates.

Customarily, issues are over-subscribed and the $1,000,000,000 figure was expected to be reached with ease.

Financing to be done with the new funds include paying off $374,000,000 of matured certificates and $104,000,000 interest on public debts due June 15.

The issues will bring the Roosevelt administration securities sales to $2,372,000,000 since March when the treasury sold $800,000,000 worth and in April added $72,000,000.

SEEK FACTS ON DROWNED MAN

Ontario Authorities Ask For Data On Man Believed to Be From Greenville

An unidentified man, believed to be from Greenville, N. C., was drowned at Pilsbourn, Ontario, June 7, according to information contained in a telegram received here today by Chief of Police George Clark.

The telegram, bearing a description of the victim, was sent by Chief of Police Reynolds of the Canadian town, and officers here were attempting to identify the man.

The reason the Canadian authorities wired to this city was because a Greenville high school ring was found on the little finger of the left hand of the drowned man.

The telegram follows: "Man found wearing Greenville high school ring on the small finger of left hand. Age about 30 to 35. Height five feet and five inches. Five gold teeth in the upper jaw and four in the lower. Initial 'G' on leather belt buckle. Advice if known to you and of disposition of body."

NATIONAL ADVERTISING REPRESENTATIVES E. F. Clark, Co., Inc., New York, Chicago, Indianapolis, Philadelphia, Kansas City

Greenville is host today to the tobacco warehousemen of Eastern North Carolina. The tobacco industry is the greatest of all sources of livelihood of this section and it is always a pleasure for us to have these representatives of the selling end of the industry gather in convention here.

Total reports so far show that more than $43,000 was spent for lobbying before the recently adjourned General Assembly in this state and no doubt all the reports are not yet in. It is significant, however, that of all the lobbyists recorded there was no one listed as representing the masses of the common people of the state. This failure to be represented by paid lobbyists probably is the reason that the masses must now pay a sales tax on the necessities of life while the special interests that could employ lobbyists for the most part, received tax reductions.

Because of the shorter working hours for women enacted by the last session of the legislature limiting the hours of service to ten hours in a single day, the stores in some of the North Carolina cities have adopted a later opening and an earlier closing on Saturdays in order to avoid changing crews of clerks during the working day. Under this plan the stores are opening at nine o'clock in the morning, giving an hour each for lunch and supper and closing at nine o'clock at night, or 8:30 in the morning and closing at 8:30 at night. For a while this earlier closing might prove an inconvenience to the usual late shoppers but it is our belief that it is but a matter of educating the public to moving up their shopping an hour and certainly we believe such a plan would prove much better for all concerned. By adopting such a schedule here the merchants could avoid having to change crews during the course of the day's business and the ladies working in the stores would not have to be penalized in their pay envelopes to take care of the substitutes who must fill their places for the remainder of the day under the plan now in effect.

THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE (Industrial News Review)

An air of intense and almost unrelieved gloom surrounds the forthcoming World Economic Conference. American delegates, for the most part, have hope without expectation. Too many of the great European nations seem determined to pursue a relentless policy of economic isolation and the inevitable

By the World FORGOT A New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

SYNOPSIS: "Georgie" Bancroft, returning from a visit to her mother and wealthy stepfather in New York, finds Nicholas Boyd, her girlhood hero, aboard the England-bound ship. Two months before Boyd had been at the top of the movie world. But a heroic rescue has left him with a maimed face, a limp, and no contract. Bernice Boyd, his wife, has remained in New York, unable to face obscurity with Nicholas in his native England. Georgie has forced Nicholas to talk to her at every opportunity. Now she has searched through the luggage to find the address on his trunk—and it reads only "London."

Chapter Nine "THAT'S THAT"

It seemed to Georgie, therefore, that the chances of finding Nicholas Boyd would be small, even supposing she set about trying to find him, and Georgie seldom went to London. Her uncle hated it, possibly because he had spent all his wild rackets youth there and most of his money.

He seldom moved out of the village where they lived now, unless it was to see his lawyer about his will. He often saw his lawyer with regard to his will, because Georgie knew he changed his mind about it once a month on the average. Once he had informed her that Mrs. Lovelock was to have every penny, but that was when he had been very drunk. As a rule he hated Mrs. Lovelock and was always telling Georgie that he meant to sack her, only when it came to the point he could never find the pluck.

Yes, people were funny; even Nicholas Boyd was afraid of something, and that was why he would not tell her where he was going, and why he would not say he would see her again. He was afraid of life; Georgie realized it with sudden infinite pity; how dreadful for a big man like he was to be afraid of life, just because his face was scarred, and he was no longer so handsome as the world had known him.

Georgie went up on deck and looked at the sea. It was cold and grey and angry; the spray lashed her face and the wind blew her hair into disorder.

Soon they would be able to see the "white cliffs of old England," as people poetically called it. Georgie was conscious of a thrill. She had been happy in America, but she was glad to be going home. Her mother had said that she never wanted to see England again, but then her mother was such a shocking sailor, and never got out of her cabin from the time the ship left one port until it arrived at another.

She had talked to Georgie seriously about getting married. "Doesn't your uncle take you about and see that you meet eligible men?" she enquired. Georgie had giggled at the thought. Her uncle never took her about anywhere, and she was glad result will be more embargoes, higher tariffs, further declines in already vanishing world trade. This same isolationist spirit menaces the success of the arms conference at Geneva.

The United States will throw its entire influence on the side of disarmament, world peace, stimulated trade between nations and agreements for lowering and equalizing tariffs. Failing success in its efforts, it is prepared to embark on economic war with the rest of the nations, as a matter of self defense. It will work out a program designed to provide us with commercial independence so far as the rest of the world is concerned, and create a more self-contained national economy. The administration definitely does not want this—but it is, indirectly, warning the other powers that if they refuse to cooperate, no course is left but American isolation.

Great hope for conference success is the influence of Mr. Roosevelt. Rumors, as yet neither denied nor affirmed, are prevalent that he will go to London, make a speech and return. Strength to the rumors is given by the preparation of a navy light cruiser for a long, non-military trip, at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. This ship can cross the Atlantic in record time—if President Roosevelt is on board, the world will see another dramatic and potentially helpful gesture in interest of world unity.

A factor that is also important to world trade, is future action of the American government in controlling the dollar abroad. This will be attempted in the near future—means of doing it have not been definitely decided upon. It will probably take the form of a dollar stabilization program which, in effect, will resemble the much-discussed, little-understood British Equalization Fund. The British Fund is part of the government's budget, and was recently increased from 150,000,000 to 350,000,000 pounds. The British government's monetary policy is, briefly: Maintenance of the internal price level, as distinct from the value of the pound abroad; continuance and, if possible, expansion of trade, and the checking of wide and sudden fluctuations in the exchange value of the pound. The Fund is used for these purposes—by keeping the pound down, in relation to the dollar, while the price level remains unchanged within England, an obvious trade advantage is obtained. The American government believes, as do most commentators, that some action by this country must be taken if an explosion in foreign exchange, with consequent trade disruption, is to be prevented.

A Washington Daybook

Washington — Senator Glass of Virginia must think a great deal these days as the Morgan investigation goes along its way, of what might have been if the committee line-up had been just a little different when the democrats came into control on March 4.

The Virginia senator had what might be called a preferred claim to the chairmanship of the banking and currency committee, which is conducting the hearing. He is a recognized senate authority on the subject of banking. An author of the federal reserve system, one-time secretary of the treasury he has had his hands in almost all banking legislation enacted in recent times by congress.

When the democrats began parceling out committee assignments at the beginning of the present special session, there was only one man ahead of Glass on the banking and currency committee.

Fletcher, however, was the ranking member of another important committee—that of commerce. Before, when the democrats were in control, he had served as chairman of that committee. Gossip has it that at the time Fletcher offered to stand aside and let Glass have the chairmanship of banking and currency if he wanted it. Glass declined and handed a surprise to everybody by taking for himself the chairmanship of the appropriations committee.

The very interesting question now arises as to what would be happening at the present time in the senate's investigation of the house of Morgan had Glass become chairman of the banking and currency committee?

Glass is, of course a member of the committee. But he is not the chairman. The chairman of such a committee is a man wielding real authority. His decisions prevail unless overruled by the committee itself. Appeals from rulings are always possible but unless one is taken the chair's word is law.

Senator Glass has shown on several occasions that the conduct of the Morgan investigation is not to his liking. He has described it as a "circus" and has been open in his criticism of the way the counsel has handled the different witnesses.

These clashes with Ferdinand Pecora, committee investigator, have at times been stormy. It might have been a different story if Glass had taken the chairmanship of this committee last March and was running the show now.

ANDROLI IS STAR IN 7-1 BALL VICTORY

Brilliant pitching and batting by Androl enabled Grimesland to take Morehead City into camp at Grimes land yesterday afternoon by the score of 7-1. It was revealed by reports from Grimesland today.

In addition to letting the visitors down with only four scattered hits, Androl banded out a home run in the fifth frame with two men on the paths to increase the lead registered by timely hitting of his teammates.

In addition to this splendid work with the willow, Androl had fifteen strikeouts to his credit. He proved master of every situation and probably would have held the visitors scoreless had not three errors been chalked up against his team.

While Androl was taking the whole show, Davis, hurling for Morehead City, pitched a good game, allowing 7 hits, which well bunched, resulted in almost as many runs.

The game was witnessed by a fairly large crowd.

Behaven will visit Grimesland Friday and Wilson Saturday. These two games were being looked forward to with interest by Grimesland people and the largest crowds of the season were expected to be on hand to see the powerful team continue adding scalps to its already long string.

N. C. TO GET ROAD MONEY

State Will Receive $9,805,308 From Federal Public Works Legislation

North Carolina will receive $9,805,308 of the $400,000,000 for highway and related projects provided in the $3,000,000,000 Federal public works program passed by the United States House of Representatives and now pending in the Senate.

This statement was made today by C. W. Roberts, president of the Carolina Motor Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association, on the basis of an analysis of the Public Works Bill by its National Headquarters.

The A. A. club executive pointed out that while three-fourths of the total of $400,000,000 or $300,000,000 will be appropriated to the states in accordance with previous Federal Aid allotments, the remaining one-fourth or $100,000,000 will be distributed on a basis of population.

"With the Public Works Bill being speeded through Congress," he said, "there is every indication that it will be finally passed by both Houses and approved by the President within the next ten days. The measure stipulates that the funds will be available to the states on July 1, 1933, and remain available until expended."

Mr. Roberts pointed out that the funds granted to the states may be used for roads on the Federal Aid system, for extensions through municipalities, and for secondary of feeder routes and related projects.

"Among the projects for which the funds may be used," he continued, "are the elimination of traffic hazards, such as the separation of grades at crossings, reconstruction of existing railroad grade crossings, relocation of highway to avoid railroad crossing, the widening of narrow bridges and roadways, the replacement of unsafe bridges, the construction of footpaths, and the construction of belt routes around urban centers to facilitate traffic and avoid congestion.

"The secondary of feeder routes as covered in the bill, must be recommended by the State Highway Departments and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture."

He added that the funds as provided in the Public Works Bill, are an additional emergency appropriation over and above Federal Aid allotments heretofore available and need not be matched by the states.

Local 'Graders' Win 19-1 From Robersonville

The Greenville Seventh Grade team journeyed over to Robersonville and defeated the Seventh Grade team of that city 19 to 1 in a one-sided contest. Howard Hodges again pitched for Greenville and gave a splendid performance.

The Robersonville team will come to Greenville, tomorrow, Thursday June 8, for a return game. The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Supt. J. H. Rose intends to have a number of games this summer for the boys of the town in an effort to provide some sort of activity for the boys in order to keep them off the streets and out of the swimming in dangerous Tar River.

LANIER SPEAKS TO TOBACCO MEN

between the time it leaves the warehouse and is weighed in the factory.

He then discussed stolen tobacco and the banking side of the warehouse business and especially the custom of charging warehouse 1-10 of 1 percent for cashing checks. He said the checks cashing item alone cost the five large markets of the belt in excess of $50,000 a season. He urged that a revision be made to cut down cost.

Speaking of the item which he asserted "Has busted more warehouses than all others combined" he called attention to the pernicious system of loaning money to people who are not entitled to credit. He also discouraged lending of money to the "fly by night" speculator, and declared it was up to the warehousemen to formulate plans to do away with these undesirable things.
