UNITED STATES CALLS FOR WAR DEBT PAYMENT

Britain To Make Debt Statement Early Next Week

LOOKS AS IF FRANCE WILL NOT PAY AGAIN

NINE KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN NEW JERSEY

Votes of Confidence On Foreign Policies Of Dalladier Taken To Mean France Will Default June 15 Installment; Premier Mentions a 11 Other Problems But Stays of The Debt Question

Death Toll Expected To be Increased in Search of Debris Today

Washington, June 10—(AP)—Notification that war debts will be due next Thursday sped through diplomatic channels today to capitals already abuzz with the question of paying or defaulting.

North Arlington, N. J., June 10—(AP)—Nine persons were known to be dead today and perhaps 75 injured by a terrific explosion which tore a celluloid plant asunder, fired seven houses and shot sheets of flames to increase the danger of bathers.

London, June 10—(AP)—An announcement affecting the British war debts to the United States will be made next Tuesday by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

As darkness descended, men and women splashed about in the water. Suddenly, an eye-witness said there was a roar and flames 100 feet high burst from a shower. New sheets of fire shot outward. Shrieks of people in hoses nearby mingled with the screams of bathers as the flames struck them.

Paris, June 10—(AP)—Two parliamentary votes of confidence in the foreign policy of Premier Daladier's government made it increasingly plain today that France intends again to default on the war debt payments to the United States.

North Arlington, N. J., June 10—(AP)—John Queen, Bergen county prosecutor and detectives investigating the celluloid plant explosion which caused nine deaths early today announced that a preliminary probe of the disaster had produced evidence of incendiarism and that two Elizabeth, N. J. men were sought as material witnesses.

British Educators Organize To Back Academic Liberty

Hemby Infant Buried Today

London—(AP)—Spurred into being by the dismissal of professors and teachers in Germany, an "Academic Assistance Council" has been formed here.

The two-months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hemby died yesterday afternoon at 5:15 at the home of the parents in the Beaver Dam community.

Backed by leading men and women in Britain's educational life, it is asking funds to assist those who "on grounds of religion, political opinion or race are unable to carry on their work in their own countries."

Funeral services were conducted from the home this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and burial was made in the Hemby cemetery near the home.

"We ask for means," the council states in its first appeal, "to prevent the waste of exceptional abilities exceptionally trained."

Two Spaniards, Captain Marino Barberan and Lt. Joaquin Collar, were over the Atlantic on the flight to Havana, Cuba after leaving Seville, Spain at 11:45 (EST) Friday.

PUBLICITY FOR INCOME TAXES IS NOW SOUGHT

Senate Passes Measure as Amendment To Industrial Control Bill

Washington, June 10—(AP)—The senate investigation of J. P. Morgan and Company is over for the present but developing today was a train of consequences which will seriously affect the country's income tax payers.

Publicity of all tax returns was voted by the senate last night in an amendment to the industrial control bill and there was every indication that this removal of secrecy would be made law.

A drive to prevent losses showing in stock sales designed to evade or reduce income tax payments was announced by Guy Heverling, the new commissioner of internal revenue.

Both were direct results of the Morgan inquiry and disclosures in the banking committee's previous inquiries.

The Morgan partners paid no income tax in 1931 and 1932 and had none in 1930 because of losses which they suffered from shrinkage in values.

Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, in moving for adoption of the publicity amendment had asked: "Does anyone suppose that these evasions which have been revealed ever have taken place if the tax payers had known as he sat down to make out their returns that it was to become a matter of public record?"

SUMMER TERM BEGINS JUNE 13

Class Work At East Carolina Teachers College Commences Wednesday

Students were expected to begin arriving here over the week-end for the opening of summer school at East Carolina Teachers college Tuesday morning, June 13.

Regular class work will actually get underway Wednesday morning. Classes will be conducted on the five day a week basis this summer, but periods will be prolonged so that work will cover the usual scope of six days.

The regular term closed last Monday with the commencement address and delivery of diplomas to graduates.

Although it had not been definitely determined how many students would be enrolled for the summer term, prospects were bright for a successful season.

The majority of faculty members were already on the scene and others were expected to be here in time for the beginning of regular class work Tuesday morning.

LONDON TALKS MONEY ISSUES

Exchange Control Discussed as Economic Conference Prepares To Open

London, June 10—(AP)—Monetary and exchange control problems came to the fore today in preparation for the world economic conference.

With the arrival of American banking, financial, economic official and expert, the keenest interest was aroused in world financial quarters over the possible solution of what London quarters called the American "enigma" the American monetary policy.

A drop this week in the dollar exchange has re-emphasized the vital complication in world financial affairs of the stabilization of the dollar.

Defacto stabilization is being strongly urged as the prime object of the conference which opens Monday with representatives from 67 nations scheduled to attend.

Oliver M. Warpaga, assistant to the director of the treasury, who with three other experts, George Harrison and J. Crain, of the New York Federal Reserve board, and James Warburg, official advisor to the American delegation, who arrived yesterday, has said that currency stabilization is more a matter of stabilization of international confidence than international agreement.

IDENTIFY BODY OF DEAD MAN

Man Drowned in Pilsburg, Ontario, Said to be James O'Reilly of Canada

The body of a man drowned at Pilsburg, Ontario, has been definitely identified as that of James O'Reilly of Route two, Delhi, Ontario, it was revealed in a message received today by Chief of Police George Clark from the chief of police of the Canadian town.

The body, which remained unidentified for several days, was believed to be that of a man from this section in view of the fact that he was wearing a ring of the Greenville High school.

Informed of the incident in a message the first of the week, authorities here conducted an investigation, including checking of the city school records without result. The Canadian authorities were notified of the futility of the search here and immediately wired back that identity had been established.

It was expected that contact with relatives of the dead man would reveal how he came in possession of the ring from the local high school.

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY AND ATTACKING MOTHER

Washington, N. C., June 10—Mossie Chauncey was arrested by officers from Sheriff William Rumbley's office Wednesday charged with robbing and assaulting his mother, Mrs. Florence Chauncey, of $240 on June 6. The arrest was made at his home near Blounts Creek, on a warrant signed by his mother.

Chauncey now is confined in the county jail.

It was reported that the young man, because of the fact that his family was unable to control him, had been sent to a reform school.

500 GALLON STILL IS CAPTURED BY OFFICERS

Washington, N. C., June 10—A five hundred gallon capacity steam rig still, located in the Aggie Run section near Latham's Cross Roads, by Deputies Bryan Marslander and Ed Hoyt, was destroyed by the officers late Wednesday.

START DRIVE ON FLIES HERE

Health Department Warns Against Unusual Prevalence of Pests This Season

Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, warned the public today against the prevalence of an unprecedented number of flies in various parts of the county, and asked that homes be properly screened as a protective measure.

Attention was also called to the necessity of sanitary fly-proof toilets.

Before empty cans are consigned to garbage cans they should be thoroughly washed out so they will not prove an attraction to flies, the health official stated. He also recommended that garbage cans be properly covered and the entire premises kept clean and free of materials from which flies might feed.

Dr. McGeachy announced that arrangements had been made where by approved pit privies may be built at greatly reduced cost. He expressed the hope people throughout the county would avail themselves of this opportunity and thus help control such diseases as typhoid fever, hookworm etc.

The health officer called attention to the annual immunization campaign against typhoid fever. He said a number of communities had made requests for clinics since announcement of the campaign several days ago and hope was expressed that many others would make similar requests. If a sufficient number of people of any community will express a desire for a clinic the health workers will be glad to meet them at any point in the county, it was stated.

CLUB GIVES SUPPORT TO PUBLIC POOL

Kiwanians Endorse Swimming Pool Movement; Entertain Ball Players

A public swimming pool for the city was endorsed by Kiwanians last night as they entertained members of the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain League.

The swimming pool question was brought up by President E. L. Hillman who presented a petition bearing the signatures of local doctors, asking that the club take part in the movement to provide a safe place for the people of the city to swim during the summer months.

The petition stressed the loss of life resulting from swimming in Tar river, and asked that some effort be made to re-open Westbrook swimming pool.

The club promised to support the project in every way possible and named a committee composed of K. T. Futrell, Dr. M. B. Massey and B. B. Sugg to confer with the Rotary Club and other organizations interested in making a swimming pool possible.

Although the baseball club was late in arriving on account of the extra inning game in Snow Hill, they appeared on the scene in time to hear J. B. James, local attorney and rated as the best third baseman the University of North Carolina ever had, declare the same qualifications that produce victory in athletics also contribute to success in all other phases of life.

Introduced by W. A. Darden as one of the many ball players who have gone out in life and won special recognition in their chosen field of endeavor, the speaker warned against dissension in athletic clubs and told them to listen to their manager regardless of what they thought. He asserted that teamwork is one of the prime requisites of the game, and that this combined with close attention to signals, was bound to bring results.

He told the club, headed by President Herman Duncan and Manager Milton Harrington to play their best all the time, remembering that they represented the town and the people living in the town (Continued On Page Four)

ARREST MAN WITH LIQUOR

Sollie Jones Jailed Here After Officers Find 5 Gallons of Booze In Home

He was arrested by county officers at his home in the Alpine section of Belvoir township and brought to Greenville and confined in jail following his inability to provide bond. Officers said they found five gallons of whiskey in the building. Jones will be given hearing in the regular session of county court here next Tuesday.

Officers attempted to arrest a negro in the act of robbing a West Durham store. Reed was shot four times in the body and was placed under guard at a hospital. Coroner A. S. Campbell said the negro has slight chance to recover. The negro was captured by a posse in a growth of vines near Duke University power plant.

Arrest Negro Killer

Durham, June 10—(AP)—Police arrested John Reade, negro, they described as an Eastern North Carolina desperado, here today and said he confessed slaying Rowland Gill, Durham detective.

Gill was shot down in a gun battle today when he and two other officers attempted to arrest a negro in the act of robbing a West Durham store. Reed was shot four times in the body and was placed under guard at a hospital. Coroner A. S. Campbell said the negro has slight chance to recover. The negro was captured by a posse in a growth of vines near Duke University power plant.

PLAN SERVICES FOR SUMMER

Churches To Combine In Open Air Program Here During July and August

Plans were completed in the meeting of the Greenville Ministerial Association Thursday for the Sunday evening services of July and August, to be held at the court house lawn, as they were held last year.

Excellent audiences enjoyed these services last year, and it is the hope of the ministers of the city that similar fine results will be obtained this year.

Arrangements are being completed for placing the seats in position, and for the lighting of this portion of the lawn. It is expected that the music will be in charge of capable leaders, and it is hoped that the congregational singing of the old gospel hymns will mean much to all who participate in these services.

The following schedule of speakers has been arranged:

- July 2—Rev. W. A. Ryan.
- July 9—Rev. A. W. Fleischmann.
- July 16—Rev. R. F. Pittman.
- July 23—Rev. W. S. Harden.
- July 30—Rev. A. W. Fleischmann.
- Aug. 6—Rev. E. L. Hillman.
- Aug. 13—Rev. W. A. Lillycrop.
- Aug. 20—Rev. R. F. Pittman.
- Aug. 27—Rev. W. A. Lillycrop.

Under President Roosevelt's pressure for closing before the London conference begins Monday, in quick succession both the house and senate yesterday had stamped approval on the $2,000,000 home mortgage railroad, gas and electric tax raising bill and sent all three to the White House for Mr. Roosevelt's signature.

This tax measure is estimated to raise $135,000,000 toward balancing the budget and gives the president power to reduce first class postage from three to two cents besides itself cutting rates from three to two cents.

There will be no evening service, Mr. Brooks will speak on the subject, "Judah—Not Iscariot."

Mr. Brooks is spending the summer months with his parents here and occupied the pulpit of Memorial Baptist Church two months last summer during the illness of Rev. A. W. Fleischmann. He is a forceful speaker and a large crowd was expected to hear him tomorrow.

INDUSTRIAL BILL FACING FINAL ACTION

Tax Measures For Operating New Legislation Also Comes Up For Hearing in 14 Hour Session; Roosevelt Pressing For Closing Before Opening of London Conference

Washington, June 10—(AP)—Adjournment tonight was the goal as congress moved to complete in just one session the monumental emergency program of President Roosevelt's great legislative efforts for peace time.

In the sweltering summer heat, the senate and house were called together early facing at least 14 hours of work before the three months term could be ended at midnight.

The senate passage late last night of the $3,300,000,000 public works control bill and the agreement of the house democratic leaders to the executive compromise proposal for veteran cuts had made final adjournment possible but there was such a maze of procedure to untangle, that unusual unanimity was required in both the senate and house, unless the close was delayed to Monday.

Headlining the task today were: Conference agreement on the much amended industrial bill; house approval of its leaders acceptance of the sub-committee compromise on veterans allowances to be followed by an agreement with the senate on the whole bill; passage by both senate and house of the list of eleven-hour appropriations to operate the new government machinery created by the session; approval of the senate of a score of presidential nominations big and little.

Countless smaller jobs also waited clearing up.

INCOME TAX SECRECY

The Senate last night voted to open income tax returns to the public in the future, which is as it should be. Had not these returns been clothed with such secrecy in the past the evasion of taxes now being brought to light by the Senate investigating committee would not have been possible.

Discussing the income tax secrecy question, Editor and Publisher says:

Invariably, as night follows day, interference with the orderly process of publication of the facts concerning government leaders to public abuse. The income tax scandals in high places that are rocking the nation in 1933 trace back to the suppression of income tax reports in 1925 when, almost by unanimous consent, Congress retroceded through a repealer which totally ignored constitutional rights and sealed income tax returns as if they were the most precious and sacred of all public documents.

At that time Editor and Publisher said: "It is obvious that secrecy in regard to tax payments is dangerous because of the great temptation it offers to weak individuals to profit through corrupt methods. Secrecy is an encouragement to fraud. Every experienced newspaperman knows there are individuals some powerful, who, under a blanket of secrecy, would go good old Uncle Sam to rags and tatters, if they could get away with it. The American people have a right to know all about the public business."

That was familiar doctrine, but the majority of newspapermen as well as legislators, seemed convinced there was something inherently wrong in publication of income tax returns, though the same implication of invasion of privacy did not run against public returns on real estate, personal property or other forms of taxation. The whole argument was absurd.

For eight years the shutters have been tightly closed on the revenue offices where income taxes are received. Secrecy has had a fair test. In view of the astounding developments in the bank investigation, who will now be bold enough to champion this unnatural suppression? The inequalities of the income tax law was never realized by the people until they learned who did not pay income taxes, and why.

DEFEAT PROPOSAL TO LOWER LIGHT RATES

Smithfield, June 9—The motion to effect a saving of $1,500 in the water and light department of the town of Smithfield was defeated by the board of town commissioners here at their monthly meeting. A. M. Lyon, superintendent of the department, informed the board that a saving of $3,000 yearly is possible in his department, and is was upon this statement that a motion was made to cut the appropriation for the coming year by $1,500. Mr. Lyon also stated that the proposed lesser appropriation would probably not be needed for operation expenses for the coming year. This saving of $1,500 would have been sufficient to reduce the light rate 1 percent. The commissioners voting against a reduced rate stated that the saving to be made needed for other purposes.

A New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Boyd, cheated of his place as a Hollywood star by a heroic rescue which had left him maimed for life, settles in his native England. His wife Bernice Boyd has deserted him; on the boat returning to England he has been forced to accept the kindly attentions of George Bancroft, returning from a visit with her mother in New York. But he dismisses her regardless of the hurt—and now she is thrilled to find him in her home village.

Chapter 12 THE TEARS COME

George got back home to find her uncle, looking a little yellow about the eyes, wrapped in an old dressing-gown and sitting by a fire which he had insisted on having lit in his study.

In the morning he was always cold, but in the evening he declared that the place was a hot-house and that he could not breathe.

There was a drawing-room at The Hollies, but nobody ever used it. Mrs. Lovelock kept it clean and opened the windows periodically but it always smelt musty and unused. "Like a grave," George thought, though she had not the least idea what a grave was like.

Sometimes she went into it, and looked around. The furniture was old-fashioned without being antique and was evidently a woman's choice that there had never been any women in his life. "Not if I know it!"

George did not altogether believe yes; she had a vague idea that who ever had chosen that drawing-room furniture with its spindle-leg chairs and aggravating china cabinet had once been very much in Edward Bancroft's life.

Once she had ventured to fill some vases with flowers and put them in the drawing-room, but her uncle had found them and thrown them out.

"Why the devil do you want to make the place look like a church-yard?" he had demanded.

George thought it was like a churchyard anyway, but she had not transgressed again.

She would have passed her uncle's door now, but he called to her.

He was like that; if she went to see him unasked, as a rule he told her to get out, and if she avoided him, he wanted to know what he had done to be shunned like the plague.

"Here you are, only come home yesterday from gadding about half over the world, and not a word to say. Where have you been I should like to know?"

"Out for a walk."

"Out for a walk! Out for a walk! he echoed testily. "I didn't ask what you'd been doing. I asked where you'd been. Can't you give me a straight answer?"

"I went to see Mrs. Spears."

She waited a little anxiously for some reference to Nicholas Boyd, but her uncle had forgotten about his existence.

"You don't want to make a friend of that woman," he said.

"You do," George answered.

"What I do and what you do are two different things" he declared.

"Or they ought to be. Isn't there anyone else you can go-and see, with out wasting time with that woman?"

George said nothing; she had heard, if all before and knew how very little it meant.

"The house is as cold as ice," he went on; he kicked at the fire with his slippers. "Why the devil Lovelock can't keep decent fires beats me. I pay enough for coal Heaven knows."

"I'll put some more on," George said, but when she moved to do so he stopped her.

"No, you needn't. I'm going out directly."

"Have you had any breakfast?" "Breakfast!" he glared at her again. "Do I look as if I wanted any breakfast?"

George checked a smile. "No," she said.

"Then don't ask idiotic questions," he snorted.

He shivered and sat down in the armchair.

"What do you propose to do with yourself now you're back?" he asked after a moment.

The girl shook her head. "The same as before I suppose," she said. "And that isn't very much," she added a trifle wistfully.

"I didn't expect you'd come back," he said gruffly.

Her eyes widened a little. "Didn't you want me to come back?" she asked quickly.

Didn't anybody want her? She knew that even her mother had been quite glad when the time came for her departure.

"Nobody considers what I want or what I don't want," Edward Bancroft answered. "I suppose you came back because it suited you."

"I came back because there wasn't anywhere else for me to go," George said.

"Didn't your mother ask you to stay?" he demanded.

"No."

He laughed hoarsely. "She wouldn't. She was always a selfish woman; all women are selfish."

Chic Suits For Warm Days Gain Freshness By Filmy Fabrics And Trim Tailored Lines

This summer suit of crisp white linen by Worth is accented with a scarf of red, black and white crinkled ribbon. Buttons are white crystal and belt links are barred with red and black. The black milan sailor hat is accented by a red and white band.

Paris—(AP)—"Say it with a suit" is one fashion rule for summer smartness. For hot days in town or cool days in the country dressmakers offer scores of tailored models designed to retain their freshness no matter what the weather.

Uncrushable linen and shantung are the favorite fabrics for these hot weather suits. Most of them are cut on trimly tailored lines with broadened shoulders on the jackets and slender simple skirts.

Their blouses vary all the way from fishnet linen made on lines as simple as a sweater to pastel-tinted organdie with a frilled jabot in front.

Stone beige, stone grey, navy blue, blue-green, leaf green and brown are the colors most often chosen for the suits; while blouses often appear in such striking hues as blotting paper pink, coral, daffodil, yellow and vari-colored prints and stripes.

A navy blue shantung suit is worn with a tucked-in blouse of blotting paper pink shantung. A gray linen suit having a jacket with padded upper sleeves to accent the shoulders is shown with a short-sleeved blouse of coral linen, and a blue green line model with pointed shoulders has a blouse of vari-colored striped linen crepe.

Many novel accessory touches appear on these hot weather suits. Jackets are fastened with small copper clips or wooden bars thrust through a loop of fabric, belts are closed with clasps of coin design and necklines are accented by scarfs varying from narrow little ribbon bandings to bright fishnet triangles made of yarn.

TO HOLD OPEN-AIR SERVICE TOMORROW EVENING

The Christian Endeavor Society of Eighth Street Christian Church will hold an open-air service at the lake on the college campus tomorrow at 6:45 p. m. The service is built on the theme: "The Reality of God in Nature and in Man." The worship period will center about the first part of the theme and there will be several brief talks about the second part. Robt. Sus Fleming is chairman of the devotional committee.

On Sunday morning at eleven o'clock there will be a special service for young people with a message addressed particularly to the group leaving Monday morning for Bonclarken to attend the Young People's Conference for North and South Carolina, June 12-18. While the message is designed to prepare the young people for the experiences of the coming week, it will deal in a more general way with some of the conditions which must be met as young and old go through life. It is also designed to acquaint the older people with the purpose and significance of this conference method of training the youth of the church for places of leadership in the kingdom of God. Those who will attend the conference are: Victoria Jackson, Nannie Rowlett, Mildred Wilson, Louise Briley, Elsie Windham, Ruby Stocks, James Carr, Jr., Robert S. Fleming, Robert Moye and Mrs. Wm. A. Ryan, who is a member of the conference faculty. The service at eleven o'clock and the open-air service at 6:45 mark the formal closing of the young people's services for the summer.

Send Flowers To Sick Here

Florists of the city today were observing National "shut-in week" sponsored by the American Association of Florists with the idea of sending cheer to those who are permanently disabled or confined to their beds by illness at this time. The florist is making arrangements to send flowers to the sick today and tomorrow and organization having the names of those confined by illness were advised to notify the florists of same. Persons who have flowers they wish to contribute to the cause are urged to get busy, determined the names of the sick and help make shut-in week the success desired.

Mrs. Taylor Entertains

Ayden, June 10.—Tuesday afternoon Mrs. P. R. Taylor entertained her club, the Merry Matrons, and special guests at six tables of rook. After several progressions Mrs. W. W. Salsbury was given a potted plant for high score for the club, and Mrs. Helen Dixon was given a similar prize for guests. Mrs. J. C. Andrews and Mrs. Butler Prescott were given coffee jars as second high awards. The hostess served a delicious frozen salad to the following guests: Mesdames W. W. Salsbury, J. C. Andrews, Lloyd Turnage, Esther Quinerly, W. C. Cannon, M. B. Prescott, Leon Cannon, J. B. Eure, Guy Evans, J. D. Cannon, Robert Johnson, M. C. Phillips, Radford Holton, S. G. Worthington, Joe Whitaker, Hubert Worthington, Rodney Prescott, Hubert McGilchon, Misses Lena Dawson, Annie Prescott, Nora Lee Baker, Virginia Bell Cooper, Ruby Garris and Helen Dixon.

Gift To Library

The Round Table Club has given to Sheppard Memorial Library ten new books which they have been reading during the past winter. Nine of them are popular novels which are much in demand now. One non-fiction, Potomac Landing by Paul Wilcoxon, is an excellent book. It is a story of the tidewater Potomac, a tale of many elements which are woven into the romance and splendor of American history.

equipment were set up and fifty quarts of beans were canned the same day. This cannery is being supervised by Mrs. Taylor, who is in the office of the city hall. Equipment is being set up for the Greenville cannery at the commissary. In a few days the cans and jars will be here and work will begin. Mrs. Mabel Randolph will supervise this plant. Ayden will soon have their plant equipped also.

Colored Folks Canning. F.M.A. wife of Denis Dupree, colored farm agent of Pitt county, has been employed to help with relief canning among the colored people. Last week she visited a number of homes and talked with 88 persons regarding canning for the year. She is helping them with garden suggestions and getting them interested in canning. These vegetable gardens are not quite ready to can but berries are being preserved.

Stokes Club Meetings. Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer of the Greenville high school faculty, visited the Stokes Home Demonstration Club Thursday afternoon and read the story "The Three Things" by Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews. Her reading was very much enjoyed. Mrs. J. H. Jackson of Winterville, also visited the Stokes Club.

Red Oak Club Meeting. The Red Oak Club meeting was held last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. H. H. May. Due to being busy with relief canning at Farmville, the home agent was unable to be present but club members held their own meetings. Other clubs will hold their own meetings next week while the agent is busy with the 4-H camp.

4-H Camp. The annual 4-H Camp for girls of Beaufort, Martin and Pitt counties will be held at Neuse Forest next week. We expect to leave Greenville (via Ricks' Transfer) on Tuesday morning at 9:30. We expect to be back to Greenville by 5 p. m., Friday.

Seeing Through My Windshield (By ETHEL NICE, H. D. A.) Program For 6th Families. Last night about one hundred club women and their families enjoyed a picnic supper at the lake on the campus at the college.

After eating supper and visiting a while, went immediately to the auditorium in the Austin building. Twenty dresses were modeled in the Cotton Dress Review, and it was with difficulty that the judges reached a final decision as to the winners. The judges were: Miss Willie N. Hunter, clothing specialist at State College; Miss Violet Alexander, Home demonstration agent of Beaufort county; and Miss Lora Sloop, home demonstration agent of Martin county. The following persons received honorable mention: Mrs. R. L. Little, a street dress; Mrs. J. A. Hinson, a two-piece suit made of fertilizer bags; Evelyn Aline Carroll, a child's dress; Mildred Rouse, a child's dress; and Mrs. Max McGilchon, afternoon dress. The champion dress was made by Mrs. Rubelle Vandiford, who won the wrist watch presented by Blount-Harvey Company. Mrs. Vandiford modeled a sport dress of black and white cotton. She is the president of the Bell Arthur 4-H Club. The second best dress was made by Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker. It was a two-piece suit made of square bags at a cost of five cents (per thread). Mrs. Tucker bleached the bags with soap and water and used buttons she had used before. The two winning costumes were striking in appearance, the workmanship was good and they were inexpensive cotton dresses. Mrs. Tucker received a 39-piece set of china from the Blount-Harvey Company.

Mrs. McKimmon Speaks. After the style show last evening, Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, state leader of home demonstration, spoke on "Family Relations." Her message was very well received and even though the temperature was quite high she held the interest of all present, including the children. It has been two years since Mrs. McKimmon's last visit and we were very much pleased to have her with us.

Relief Canning. Falkland Home Demonstration Club did the first relief canning of the season last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Hassell Mayo. Green beans were canned from the Falkland community garden.

The bowling alley of Farmville was transformed into a community cannery last Wednesday. A pressure cooker, stove, table and other

LOCALS PLAY SNOW HILL TO A 7 TO 7 TIE

Greenville and Snow Hill baseball clubs played a 7-7 tie game at Snow Hill yesterday afternoon in the second game of the series. Bob Forbes, who on Wednesday pitched such a fine exhibition of ball against Ayden started the pitching for Greenville. He was relieved in the fifth frame by Taylor. Forbes was hit for a total of 8 hits, while Taylor allowed only one hit. Snow Hill also found it necessary to use two hurlers. Jab Shirley started in the box and was relieved by Walston in the seventh frame after being hit for a total of 8 hits. Walston allowed three hits.

Snow Hill was the first to cross the home plate. They made two runs in the first inning gathering a total of four hits. They also made another run in the third frame after Mule Shirley had hit a three bagger and came home on a long fly by Fulghum. The third inning was also a big one for Greenville. They gathered a total of three hits for three runs to tie the score. Bostel triple in this frame brought in two runs, with Rogers single, Forbes walk and Miller also getting a hit to bring in one tally. Snow Hill put two more runs across in the fifth inning and then Greenville also placed two runners across the plate, knotting the tie. Greenville managed to place one run across in the sixth frame and another in the eighth frame with the aid of a walk and an error and the timely hitting of Gardner, who pinched hit for V. Peele. Peele knotted the score again and then there was no more scoring until the end of the game which was called in the tenth on account of darkness.

For Greenville Bostic was the outstanding hitter getting two triples out of five times at bat and bringing in three runs. Bostic also displayed fine work in the field and made beautiful catches in the third and ninth frame. Poole also showed up well at the bat getting a double and a single out of four trips to the plate.

For Snow Hill Mule Shirley was the outstanding hitter getting three hits out of five trips to the plate. Snow Hill made the only double play of the game in the tenth frame and was from short to second to first.

GRIMESLAND WINS AGAIN

Grimesland, playing fast ball behind the hurling of Hardison and Androll, continued their winning streak by defeating Belhaven at Grimesland yesterday afternoon by the score of 6 to 4.

Cobb and Fields held the spotlight, each being credited with a home run. The two bingles resulted in three runs one runner having been on base.

Simmons did the heavy stick work for the visitors, getting a home run with one man on the paths and a single.

Grimesland obtained eleven hits against Belhaven six.

Hardison got into hot water in the sixth frame and was relieved by Androll.

Wilson was playing in Grimesland this afternoon.

AYDEN WINS SLUGGEST

Ayden, June 9—With Manager Faustet Johnson and Pitcher Snooz Morris setting the batting pace, Ayden clouted a 13-10 win over Kinston here today. Johnson got four hits and drew a walk in five batting turns. Morris tripled, doubled and hit for the circuit on his first three times up.

RE-ELECT TWO OFFICE HEADS

The re-election of the two departmental heads fills two of the most important posts of the county government in view of the extensive work which has been handled by the two departments the last several years.

In addition to its regular work of providing for the indigent population of the county, the Welfare Department has been charged with responsibility of directing general relief activities throughout the county the last three or four years and also distributed funds the Reconstruction Corporation allotted to this county. It was also required to direct activities in connection with providing recruits for forest conservation camps inaugurated by the federal government in an effort to relieve unemployment.

The Health Department has just completed the most extensive tonal and adenoid clinic the county ever held in which over four hundred children were operated upon. It is now beginning the annual fight against typhoid fever after having set a record for the state in the number of persons vaccinated last year.

The commissioners were to have met last Monday but the meeting was deferred on account of the absence of J. N. Williams, member of the board, who was out of the city.

WELDON WILL PLAY LOCALS HERE MONDAY

Officials of the local club of the Coastal Plain league announced today that arrangements had been made for Weldon to play an exhibition game with the local league club here Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

This will be one of many exhibition games to be played by the leagues between the circuit schedule this season and it was hoped a large crowd would be on hand to see the club stacks up against some of the strongest clubs from various sections of this part of the state.

"Big Boy" Winston, former Piedmont league pitcher, who joined the local club the first of the season, will be on the mound against Weldon. He has been ruled as ineligible by the league and is not able to participate as a pitcher in scheduled games, but has been retained to hurl special contests.

When it comes to speed and ability to swat the old apple, "Big Boy" is in a class by himself. He hurried for Raleigh against the formidable New Bern club yesterday, and blasted out a circuit drive to give his club the only score of the game in addition to two singles.

The remainder of the fast fielding hard-hitting Greenville club will be seen in action against Weldon, and people who enjoy this kind of playing were urged to go to Third Street School grounds and see the boys in action.

CLUB GIVES SUPPORT TO SWIMMING POOL

"Know that you as good as the other fellow," he said, "and you will find that you are."

"When you think you can't hit a certain pitcher, you can't, but know that you can and you will find yourself living up to your way of thinking."

Endurance, courage, sacrifice, grit and judgment are essentials in sports, the speaker concluded, and the same qualifications count largely in other fields of endeavor.
