SET UP BODY TO ADMINISTER PUBLIC FUNDS

Sec. Ickes Says Efficient Organization is Being Arranged to Spend $3,300,000 For Construction Activities; State Administrators to Handle County and City Funds

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's public works board today informed the nation that "We are proceeding as rapidly as possible to set flowing the $3,300,000 apportioned for construction activity by Congress.

An official statement said: "An efficient organization to carry out the program for which the funds were provided in the initial recovery bill is being set up."

Secretary Ickes, chairman of the cabinet board, will be in charge while beneath him will be the public works administration. Colonel Donald Sawyer, the present temporary administrator, today moved his headquarters into the Interior Department building and found the interests of applicants for jobs and projects in his anteroom.

Puts Bounty On Porpoises

Rome.—(AP)—Because increasing schools of porpoises have been ruining fishermen's nets and driving food fish from the banks, the Italian government has offered a bounty of $250 for each carcass of the gracefully sportive creatures.

CHECKING UP ON CONGRESS

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE Washington.—(AP)—A gigantic business pulmotor, probably the most massive machine ever built by any government for constructive purposes, has been fashioned by Congress under the direction of the Roosevelt administration. Some cogs in this machine are already functioning. By fall its designers expect it to be hitting on all of its big cylinders, pumping new life into the business structure with the expenditure of billions of dollars on employment-giving construction and for relief of the debt-ridden in city, village and farm.

REVIVAL IN FULL SWING

Large Crowd Hears Evangelist Tyson at Free Will Baptist Church Here.

Evangelist Tyson, in his discourse last evening, took his text from Romans 8:1—"There is therefore now no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus." The key word of this passage, around which he clustered his remarks, was condemnation. He introduced his subject by emphatically stating the importance of the word condemnation. He declared that courthouses and places of imprisonment are erected as a result of so many people being condemned.

There is a people who is not condemned—it is that group who is "in Christ Jesus." This group walk not after the flesh but after the spirit. The man out of Christ is condemned because he has not believed on the only forgotten Son. He declared that Christ acted as the high priest in pleading the cause of the righteous to God. The sinner or the man out of Christ will stand before God in the judgment day "condemned" having no one to plead his cause.

Then if we are to appear unconquered before the judgment bar of God in that final day, we must accept Jesus Christ as our personal Savior who died on Calvary Cross that we might have life and that we might have it more abundantly.

ADD SCHOOL DISTRICT TO GREENVILLE

Williams School Made Part of The Greenville Unit Here This Week.

At a joint meeting of the County School Board and Board of Trustees of the Greenville Graded Schools, presided over by Mr. T. B. Attmore, representative of the State School Commission of this district Mr. Attmore recommended to the school boards that the Williams School district, on the eastern side of the present Greenville Graded School district, be added to the Greenville Graded School district and become part of the Greenville Graded School district.

It was brought out at the meeting that there is no space in the Greenville School buildings at the present time for any additional children in grades one through seven. Mr. Attmore firmly requested the two boards to transfer the Williams School district to Greenville School district on the condition that the Williams School be maintained as a part of the Greenville School system in the present Williams School house.

This matter was discussed with the two boards at length by Mr. Attmore and the two boards, recognizing the strength of Mr. Attmore's recommendation accepts his recommendation. Therefore, the Williams School district this year will be operated under the jurisdiction of the administration of the Greenville Graded School unit, rather than under the County Administrative unit. The Williams School had a teaching force of two teachers last year, and the State School Commission will place two teachers in this school again for the coming year.

The Greenville School district with an enrollment of three thousand and one hundred children has been recognized as an administrative unit separate from the county organization with Junius H. Rose as superintendent of the unit.

BROWN HELD FOR ROBBERY

CONVICT SHOT AT POLK CAMP

Glen Frye Killed by Two Guards in Escape Attempt at Prison Camp

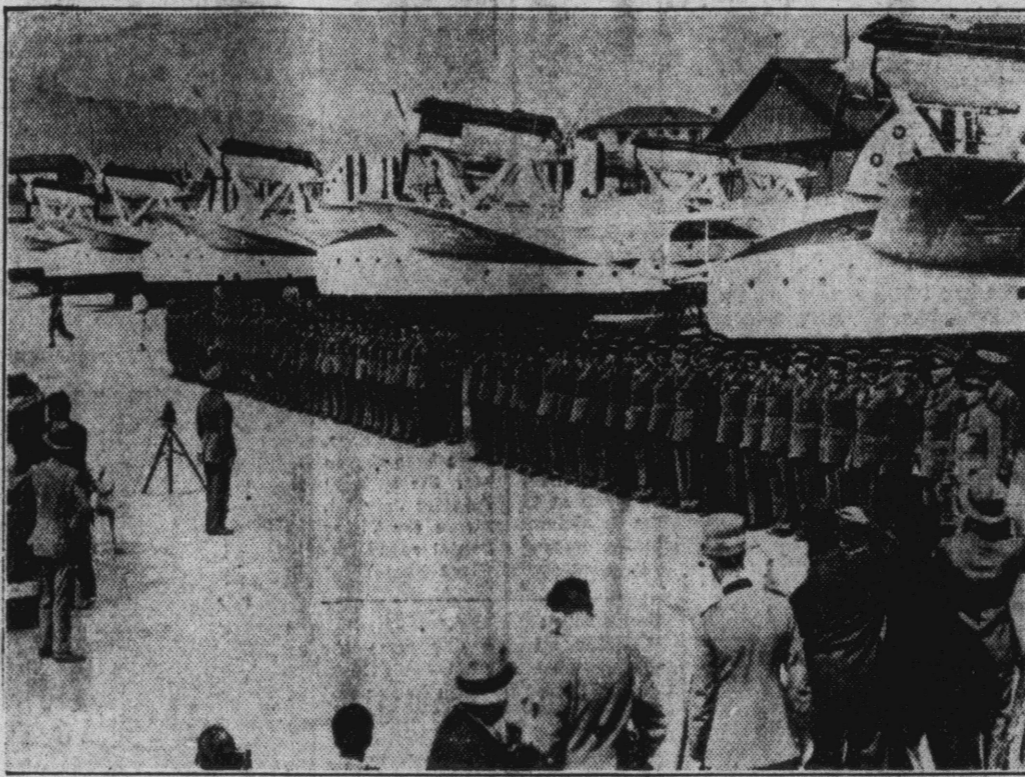

Raleigh, June 22.—(AP)—Glenn Frye, convict sent to state prison from Guilford county, was shot and killed early today at the Polk prison camp near here, when he tried to escape.

Frye was one of a squad of prisoners being taken out to work but he alone tried to get away, officials of central prison said. He was shot in the back and about the hip line by two guards, and died almost instantly. The prisoner was about 21 years of age. He entered prison in January of this year to serve five to seven years for robbery. He also had two previous convictions against his record.

Frye was the third prisoner killed in escape attempts in two weeks, two men having lost their lives in breaks at Caledonia in Halifax county.

Leonard Swafford, Athens, Tenn., was unharmed when lightning killed two miles between which he stood.

Fries Egg On Hot Streets of Wayne Capital

Goldsboro, June 22.—(AP)—Goldsboro's official thermometer went to 105 but citizens on the streets didn't believe it. Frank Giles placed a thermometer on the pavement and watched it rise to 127. Then W. H. Rice wondered if an egg would fry on the same spot. It did.

NAME COTTON CONTROL MEN

Committees of All Townships to Meet Here Friday to Receive Instructions

Cotton production control committees have been set up in every township in the county and will assemble at the court house Friday, June 23, at two o'clock for the purpose of receiving definite instructions to guide them in carrying out Secretary Wallace's campaign to control cotton production and reduce the present surplus of this commodity. Farmers have been named on these committees as follows:

- Ayden township: O. W. Jolly, J. D. Cannon, F. M. Kilpatrick. Bethel township: F. C. Martin, J. V. Taylor, W. C. Whitehurst. Belvoir township: T. E. Parker, Solomon Scott, J. T. Dupree. Beaver Dam township: R. E. Willoughby, Mark Smith, Mack Smith. Carolina township: C. G. Little, L. O. Whitehurst, A. L. Woolard. Chicod township: R. L. Little (other committees will be announced later). Falkland: J. C. Parker, C. H. Mayo, G. H. Pittman. Other committees will be announced later. Fountain: R. F. Tugwell, W. E. Smith, J. W. Riddick. In addition to the township committees, there will be a county advisory committee composed of J. E. Winslow, Greenville, chairman; John T. Thorne, Farmville; and F. C. Martin, Bethel. The farmers of the county seem to be thoroughly sold on the fairness of the proposition that is being made by the government and are ready and anxious to participate in the movement to reduce the amount of cotton that may be put on the market next fall.

Three Men Are Killed As Two Trucks Collide In Vicinity Of Lucama

Wilson, June 22.—(AP)—Three men were killed and a fourth was expected to die of injuries suffered in a head-on collision of two large trucks near Lucama, nine miles from here this morning.

The dead were identified as Frank Brockington and Marion Truluck, both of Olania, S. C., who were in a South Carolina truck going south without a load, and Herman Waldron of Lumberton, driving a truck going north loaded with empty beer cases. Vick Graves of Monroe, working on the truck driven by Waldron and owned by H. G. Nash Grocery Company, of Monroe, was so seriously burned that physicians said he would die during the day.

A third occupant of the South Carolina truck, which was apparently returning from a trip north where it delivered a truck load of produce, carried a hitch-hiker named James Johnson, who was thrown clear off the highway when the trucks crashed. Riding in the back of the truck, Johnson said he was picked up in New Jersey yesterday and was asleep when the accident occurred. It was feared at first that Johnson suffered a broken neck, but an examination revealed only slight bruises. The Wilson fire department was called to the scene of the crash and it was evident the trucks had met at a high speed. Indications were that the South Carolina vehicle had swerved across the highway and crashed into the one headed north. Brockington and Truluck were believed to have been killed at once, it was stated after an examination. Their bodies were turned as the cab of their truck became ignited. The North Carolina truck caught fire first and Waldron was burned to death pinned beneath the steering wheel in the wrecked cab of his trucks. Graves' clothing caught fire and was burned practically all over his body.

Hull Presents Resolution To London Confab

J. R. TURNAGE RESIGNS AS LEAGUE HEAD

G. V. Smith of Greenville Named as Successor to Ayden Man

On account of pressing business matters, J. R. Turnage of Ayden, has resigned the presidency of the Coastal Plain League, it was announced yesterday.

The resignation was made known at a meeting of the league directors the night before, and G. V. Smith, vice-president of the circuit was elevated to the presidency.

Mr. Turnage said his action was caused by business which required him to be out of the city a considerable part of the time, and he felt like he would not be able to give affairs of the league the attention desired. J. B. Eure, president of the Ayden club, was named to the vice-presidency. Other matters of the league will be considered by the board of directors at a meeting in the near future, it was stated.

NEGRO KILLER JAILED HERE

Jasper Redick Returned From Washington To Face Murder Trial

Jasper Redick, colored, was returned to Greenville yesterday from Washington City to face trial for the alleged slaying of Dave Gorham also colored, in an altercation during a card game last December. Redick escaped and no word was received of his whereabouts until officers discovered he was in Washington and instructed authorities of the capital city to take the negro into custody.

The negro was returned in custody of Chief of Police George Clark who went to Washington this day before, after obtaining requisition papers from the Governor of North Carolina for the return of Redick. The District of Columbia honored the papers without delay, and the negro was turned over to the officer to be brought back here for trial. Redick will probably face preliminary hearing at Saturday morning's session of police court. He will then be remanded to jail to await hearing at the August term of superior court.

ASKS POLICY TOWARD ALL TRADE ISSUES

Movement Made to Offset Burning Stabilization Question; American Quarters Reiterate U. S. Cannot Stabilize Currency at This Time; Await More Favorable Time

London, June 22.—(AP)—An American attempt to force the world economic conference to declare its policy regarding trade barriers of every description was initiated today by Secretary Hull, as a resolution introduced before the economic commission.

The resolution took cognizance of trade quotas, exchange regulations and other restrictive and discriminating measures. Asked by The Associated Press what specific measure was contemplated, Hull, the leader of the American delegation, said "To get rid of them all."

Hull said he would have included terms of the resolution in his first outline of the general policy to the conference but thought it better to wait until a more reasonable time which he said he believed had arrived. Hull's move, it is understood in American quarters is to be an effort to bring an end to the stabilization fight which has been threatening the life of the conference and to give the assemblage something concrete to work on apart from the burning issue.

American sources this morning reiterated that the United States can not stabilize currency at this time despite pressure from the European bloc. The American theory is that there is ample material on which to work pending such a time as some form of stabilization is possible.

Defer Meeting Of The Tobacco Board of Trade

The meeting of the Tobacco Board of Trade scheduled for Friday night has been postponed until next Tuesday, it was announced today by W. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales. Mr. Cobb stated that the postponement resulted from R. M. Garrett, president of the board, being out of the city. The purpose of the meeting is to outline plans for the operation of the Greenville market during the forthcoming season, and indications are that the session will be one of the most important of the year.

TWIN CITY FACTORIES NOTE GAINS IN ORDERS

Winston Salem, June 22.—(AP)—An increase in furniture manufacturing plants' business here, in some cases a 15 per cent rise in two weeks was noted today as various workers—recently laid-off—continued to be called back to work. The B. F. Huntley branch of the Simmons Bed Company said night shifts had been added in some departments while the Unique and People companies reported a lively pickup in trade.

Late News Flashes

Mitchell Acquitted. New York, June 22.—(AP)—Charles E. Mitchell was acquitted today on all counts in the indictment which charged him with income tax evasion. The jury which had heard the government charges that Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, had cheated the government in 1929 and 1930 of more than $850,000 in income taxes, took the case at 11:30 (EST) yesterday. It returned a verdict little more than 24 hours later. These charges against Mitchell who for many years was one of the most powerful figures in the banking world, were that he had illegally failed to report a payment of $66,667 from the National City Company. At last the weather man has promised us a little rain. Now if he will make good his promise it will be most gratefully received hereabouts.

Chairman Farley's praise of Congressman Lindsay C. Warren for the whole-hearted support he gave the administration in the recently adjourned special session of Congress meets with the approval of Mr. Warren's friends throughout the district and has caused favorable comment from the press.

Expressing it briefly, the Elizabeth City Advance says a lot in these few words: "Thus Congressman Warren emerges from the New Deal session of Congress stronger at home and at Washington than ever."

The decreased fire loss in this state for March, April and May compared with the same three months of last year is most encouraging and reflects credit upon our state. The loss for the three months is nearly half a million dollars less than for the same period last year. No doubt the efforts toward cleaner cities and removal of fire hazards is partly responsible for this decrease. Among the twenty-three cities of the state reporting no fire loss for the month of May are Farmville and Ayden, and we extend our congratulations to our neighboring towns for this fine record.

OLD LURE

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
On every hand today one may hear frequently repeated: "I wish I had some money to buy stocks." The explosion of 1929 and the subsequent lean years have meant little. The same desire to get something for nothing has not abated. It is as strong as ever. If an ill wind hits the market, the stocks that have climbed laboriously to their present heights since March would go tumbling down again. The same people who pray now for a little money to buy would be left holding the sacks, lumps led to the shearing pen. But the process of shearing them is never fatal, and they come back, the same fervor burning in their eyes, eager to plunge, eager to get something for nothing.

DEFENDANTS ARE GIVEN UNLAWFUL SENTENCES

Winston Salem, June 22—(AP)—In 68 persons in municipal court here for drunkenness have been receiving heavier sentences than the law allows, and old statute revealed today. The law prohibits the sentencing of persons convicted of drunkenness to more than ten days on the county roads and a fine of more than $15. But for years they have been given 30 days on the roads and fined more than $15.

William Church, clerk of court and Dennis G. Brummitt, State attorney general, both said the old law is still in effect and that previous sentences have been in error.

By the World FORGOT

A New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Boyd, a movie star whose career has been cut short by an accident which mars his face, has been touched by the devotion of young George Bancroft. At last he calls on her just as word comes of the death of the housekeeper who serves George and her hard-drinking uncle. Partly out of pity, he has consented to walk with Georgia; now he tells her he suddenly has come into a large legacy and is going to Germany for an operation that will do away with his scar. He reminds her she is to have lunch next day with a young man in London.

Chapter 22
GEORGIE CONFESSES
"Oh, that!" Georgie swarlowed a little lump that would keep rising in her throat. "I'd forgotten that," she said helplessly, and then—"I won't go if you don't want me to."
He made no answer, and she said with a note of resentment in her voice: "But I suppose you don't care whether I go or not."
"Of course you must go; you don't have much enjoyment."
The little lump was rising again in her throat.

"It won't be enjoyment," she said. "Of course it will," he insisted. "It's good for you to be with young people. I am very glad your other friend is coming for the week-end. Nelly do you call her?"

She felt as if she were burning with shame.

"I've put her off," Georgie said quickly. "I didn't really want her; at least—she's all right of course, but if she was here I knew I couldn't go for a walk with you, and so I wrote and put her off."
Nicholas moved suddenly, rising slowly to his feet.

"There's something else I have to say to you, Georgie."
"Yes?" She looked up at him, her eyes heavy with nameless trouble.

"It's about these walks. I think this must be the last."
Her lips moved, but no words came, and he went on rather clumsily.

"I shall have a great deal to do after today, getting ready to go away. It's been very enjoyable seeing you like this, but now—she interrupted quickly.

"It's because your wife is coming home?"
"It's nothing to do with my wife, and she won't be here for another fortnight at least. It's for no reason except the one I've given you that I shall be busy."

There was a long silence, then Georgie said quietly:
"Very well."
He avoided looking at her. "I'm sorry, Georgie," he said.

"I didn't know friendships only lasted a week," she said in a trembling voice.
"That's unkind," he answered. "And untrue."

Georgie felt as if something in her brain suddenly caught fire and burst into flame.
"It's an excuse," she said shrilly. "That's what it is, just an excuse. You don't like being seen with me, I'm not pretty enough or interesting enough. You can't be so busy that just an hour every day is too much to spare. I know you didn't want to be friends with me really—you were just sorry that day Lovelock died. Now you've had enough of it, and it's a good chance to send me about my business. Your wife's coming home, and I know she's smart and pretty. You'd be ashamed for her to know you'd been friends with me. I'm always the one that's left out of everything!"

Nicholas said gently: "Don't be a silly little girl, Georgie."
"Silly little girl—yes, that's all you think I am," she broke out passionately. "Well, I'm not. Clifford doesn't think so—he likes me if you don't. Nelly was right, what she said about men—that they're all horrid, really. But I did think you were different." She added, her voice breaking on a sob and then passionately: "Oh, why don't you say something?"

"Anything I can say will only make you dislike me more," Boyd said stiffly. "Let's go home, shall we?"
Her bewildered anger and pain burst into fresh flame.

"Yes, go home. Get rid of me as quickly as you can," she taunted messages "on the hill".

On the opening day came the emergency banking bill. (This measure was passed by both houses and signed by the President before the day was over).

On the next day, March 10, the economy measure, calling for drastic reductions in governmental expenditures landed in the lap of the house.

Then a week-end intervened, but three days later, on the morning of March 14, came that most surprising of all measures, the beer bill.

All In Twenty Days
The echo of the President's demand for beer hardly had subsided before the far-reaching farm bill reached the house on March 16.

He waited five days until March 21 before sending up a message recommending the creation of the civilian conservation corps—the legislation that put the unemployed into the national forests.

And then, to round out the month on March 29 the bill regulating the sale of securities was dispatched.

Twenty days—six high significant legislative proposals.
That's an example of the speed shown during the special session. And the house, although a bit erogy, acted on each one with haste and hurried it along to the senate.

Why shouldn't I say nice things about Luckies?

I must confess that I enjoy smoking more and more. Maybe it's because I started with a cigarette that suits me right. Luckies are so very mild. I like the fine taste of their tobaccos—and because I'm so sensitive to personal daintiness—for, after all, my cigarette touches my lips—I particularly welcome the added assurance of purity which "Toasting" affords. Whenever I hear comments about cigarettes—I always say, "But Luckies are different." And then I would say some nice things about "Toasting". To hear me you'd think that I discovered "Toasting"—but that's just my way. I like to root for things that please me. And certainly—"Luckies Please!"

COMBINE BLACK WITH WHITE IT'S ALL THE RAGE IN PARIS

A summer coat of heavy white crepe worn over a black crepe frock having a jabot and lower sleeves of white accordion-pleated organdie is Vera Borea's contribution to the black and white vogue. Horns of plenty fasten the coat

By RITA FERRIS
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)
Paris—(AP)—"Black and white" is the refrain of the latest fashion song.

Mid-season showings in fashion houses displayed scores of costumes in the striking combination. White coats and black frocks, white hats, gloves and collars with black dresses and white costumes with black trims are all seen.

The white coat with the black frock is one of the most effective combinations of the season. Long displays an afternoon of black satin printed in white leaves with a three-quarter length coat of white satin, while the black shows a tea-time frock, having a crepe sleeve white silk pique bodice and black silk pique skirt, topped by a long coat of white silk pique.

White accessories with black frocks are seen at smart luncheons and teas. At a recent luncheon given at the Bagdad one chic guest wore a little black maroon suit with a sailor hat and blouse of crisp white cotton lace, while another appeared in a black maroon dress accented by pilgrim collar, a high torque and gauntlet gloves of white pique.
The evening mode has likewise taken to black and white, many black crepe frocks being worn with little caps of white organdie or jacket of crisp white pique.
Navy blue and white form a combination almost equally popular.

He is working, he says, to make money, as always.

Not belligerent about Hollywood, but outspoken when his views are asked, Fenton not only talks but acts independence. For several years he has been walking away from movie offers, to take rough-and-ready sea voyages or to see the world in other ways.

"I think everybody in Hollywood ought to get away once in a while he says. "There's too much luxury, too much softness, everything is too easy. It's healthy to go places where you don't have hot running water, to mix with real people in workaday life.

Taking His Prescription
Fenton's "mixing with real people" has included working as deck hand on an Italian boat for $18 a month.

A feeling that "Man must have been intended to do some real work" has motivated much of his seeking after rough jobs.

"Unless he's doing it for a while just to make money, as I believe most of them are", he says, "I can't imagine a man making a profession of putting this much on his face and making a fool of himself looking romantic!"

Aside from those sentiments, Fenton likes to act, although he's not an enthusiastic as to the chance for expression in films.
Future travels of the Fentons, he hopes, can be arranged amicably with Ann's studio "Ann" he concedes, "has a right to her career."

CAPITAL STOCK TAX

The bureau of Internal Revenue has issued the following statement with respect to the recent law providing for a capital stock tax.

Section 215 (a) of the National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 16, 1933, imposes upon every domestic corporation for each year ending June 30 with respect to carrying on or doing business for any part of such year, and excise tax of $1 for each $1,000 of the adjusted declared value of its capital stock. This act likewise imposes a similar tax upon every foreign corporation carrying on or doing business in the United States.

The law provides that returns covering capital stock tax for the first year ending June 30 must be filed under oath with collector of internal revenue on or before July 31, 1933, unless an extension of time is granted by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The capital stock tax is imposed upon every corporation in respect of the year ending June 30, 1933, if it carried on or did business during any part of the period from the date of the enactment of the act to June 30, 1933, both dates inclusive.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any store.

SPORT SEANTS

It may be the reason why their championship is the only major British golf title yet to be won by an American competitor, but it seems, nevertheless, that our feminine rivals in the old country take their tournament game too seriously.

Joyce Wethered, it will be recalled, retired from competition at least twice because she insisted the strain and commotion of a championship was too great. Now Enid Wilson, as an aftermath to her third victory in the British women's championship, has come forward with the statement that "competitive golf is insular, selfish and not worth while" that she plans to retire after this championship this year.

Consequently there is a merry debate on in England again and some criticism of Miss Wilson's attitude, particularly by blond, smiling Diana Fishwick, a familiar player on both sides of the ocean, who says in rebuttal:

"I find it (tournament golf) well worth while and thoroughly enjoy the tight matches if I am not overtired. Mental strain is there, of course, but its extent depends largely upon the player's mental attitude to the occasion.

"If she tells it is a matter of life or death and to lose is a tragedy then her sense of proportion is distorted and the strain must be tremendous. If she is content to do her best and cheerfully lose when outgulfed the strain should not be heavy if limited to a reasonable period."

'Slaves To The Game'
Apparently British women take their golf much more seriously than their masculine compatriots. I seem to recall Gene Sarzen telling me this spring that the trouble with the Britons was they didn't concerntrate enough on their game, that they lacked the tournament temperament characteristic of Americans, the "will to win" and that jolly sort of thing.

Yet American women take the sport thoroughly at their leisure and experience, while Miss Wilson, the British champion, writes:

"Golf champions . . . must be slaves to the game to attain success . . . The conditions under which modern competitive golf is played are exacting.

'Blow The Players'
"I have been struck by the business-like attitude which has crept into the game. Only those who have survived to the end of a major championship are capable of realizing the tremendous strain which is imposed on the players. One must be trained as fine as any athlete, for physical endurance is indispensable.

"Then there is the gallery . . . One of those following, rather, running ahead, at an important match, who was asked by a steward to stand still and give the players a chance, replied: 'Blow the players; I have come to see some golf'."

"I am convinced that winning a championship is a whole-time business . . . that young players must devote the best years of their lives and submit to slavery to succeed . . . The tutored souls reflected in the faces one sees at a championship are sufficient to prevent any right-minded person from ever desiring to handle a golf club."

Greenville Wins Extra Inning Game From Snow Hill And Regains Lead

While Kinston was taking Ayden's scalp, the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain league trimmed Snow Hill at Third street school grounds yesterday afternoon by the score of 6-5 and regained the top rung in the race for league honors.

It made twice the locals have knocked Ayden from the top after having been pushed off themselves as many times by Ayden. In fact, this business of the holding the top of the standing of clubs column is becoming somewhat of a see-saw affair with both Greenville and Ayden doing all the going up and down and with Snow Hill and Kinston vying with one another to see who can stay out of the cellar.

Fans will be given one of the early season headlines here Friday when Ayden invades the Greenville camp in the hope of knocking the local club into a cocked hat. Only a half game margin has separated these two clubs for the last two or three weeks, and if one or the other doesn't show signs of weakening well, somebody is going to have to be treated for a severe attack of neurasthenia, heable-jeebles, delirium tremens, or something.

The same yesterday was of the breath-taking variety and the locals had to go ten innings before they could get the winning run over the rubber.

"Lefty" Dean, a recent acquisition of the local club hurled one of the finest games seen here this season, and by getting two hits, the second bringing in the run that gave him a hard-earned victory. The south paw, although allowing the visitors ten safe bingles made fourteen batsmen whiff the come in an effort to connect at crucial stages.

J. Shirley brother of the famous "Mule" Shirley, former big leaguer playing first sack for Snow Hill, did the mound work for the visitors, allowing thirteen bingles. He accounted for only one strikeout.

Lou Brown and R. Dean led the batting attack for Greenville each accounting for three safeties. Dean's two singles, however registered a majority of his team's runs.

Nelms, with four hits out of five trips to the platter, grabbed batting honors for the visitors, but he was run a close race by Duke, who got three out of four trials.

The box score follows:

Several bills attack the money situation directly. Generally under the supervision of Secretary William H. Woodin, of the treasury department, these bills permit use of $3,000,000,000 in special currency to retire government bonds, the expenditure of $3,000,000,000 by the Federal Reserve Banks in the open market for government bonds, the authority to reduce the gold content of the dollar by 50 per cent, or to fix a ratio between gold and silver. Other similar legislation gives the secretary power to hurry the opening of closed banks, removes the gold payment clause from all bonds, and permits the acceptance of silver in payment of war debts.

Among the relief measures were bills: granting $50,000,000 to the states for unemployment relief, the reforestation act to give employment quickly to some 250,000 men, and the measure furthering the gigantic Muscle Shoals plan to create a new industrial and agricultural area in the Tennessee Valley. Another bill attempts to protect the investor in securities by requiring fuller information from the seller. Still another bill sets a nationwide system of unemployment exchanges.

CHECKING UP ON CONGRESS

the banishment of economic distress.

Every major piece of emergency legislation is designed to bring about an increase in employment, a rise in wages and in price levels and restoration of the purchasing power of the farmer and wage earner—twin keys to increased business volume.

Spearhead of the nation-wide attack on the depression is the National Industrial Recovery bill, which will be directed by Col. Hugh M. Johnson. This bill is a two-edged sword, providing for the expenditure of $3,000,000,000 for public works on the one hand, and the coordination of industrial effort on the other by joining business units in trade associations for cooperative endeavor. The purpose of the bill is to increase wages, stop cut-throat competition, revive industry with huge government expenditures.

The second major portion of the legislative program is the farm relief bill, designed to raise the prices of farm products by cutting down production where surpluses exist. George N. Peek will administer this bill. Another farm bill provides for the reduction or refunding of farm mortgages by transferring mortgages held by individuals to the government or by direct loans of cash to the farmer.

Similar in intent to the farm mortgage bill, is a home mortgage bill which sets up a federal corporation to take over home mortgages in exchange for government bonds, or to lend money to home owners to pay off mortgages in part.

Balancing the budget is encompassed in legislation greatly reducing expenditures to war veterans and in reorganizing governmental departments. Lewis M. Douglas, director of the budget, is the principal agent in attacking both items.

Another important law is the railroad act, providing first, for the coordination of transportation facilities, and second, for aid to railroads in reorganizing their financial structures. Joseph B. Eastman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, as coordinator, will supervise the program.

Judge Horton held that the evidence "greatly preponderates in favor of the defendant."

In his opinion, Judge Horton said "as heretofore stated, the law made clear that the defendant should not be convicted without corroboration where the testimony of the prosecution trial bears on its face the indication of reliability of improbability, and particularly when it is contradicted by other evidence."

IT'S HIGH TIME FOR GASOLINE ADVERTISING TO COME DOWN TO EARTH

THE STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY, as leader of the industry, is helping to bring it down—to put gasoline advertising on a sensible basis. You cannot clothe yourself—or buy food for yourself—or run a car—on exaggerated advertising claims or misleading ratings of gasoline efficiency. But, if you believe the nonsense that seems to be the fashion in today's gasoline advertising, you can surely let yourself in for disappointment—and waste your money. We guarantee smoother performance. And remember, this guarantee comes from the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the world's largest oil organization. From a company which has pioneered in new developments and is fully aware of the importance of such a guarantee from a company which is the industry's recognized leader. This company stands squarely back of Essolene as a great advance over gasoline—a new goal for all gasolines to attain. We urge you to try it once—when your tank is cleared of other fuels. Do this—judge Essolene for yourself with no exaggerated claims and descriptions to confuse you, and we will rest our case on your decision. Essolene is sold at all Esso Stations and Dealers from Maine to Louisiana.
