MacDONALD SAYS CONFERENCE WILL NOT QUIT

U. S. Commodity Prices Still Rise

HEAD TOWARD GOAL SET BY ROOSEVELT

Price Situation Outstrips Gradual Depreciation of The Dollar; Goal of President is 1926, The Height of Prosperity In America; Federal Board Sees Gains in Several Fields

Washington, June 23. (AP) - American commodity prices have outstripped the fall of the dollar and are pointing for President Roosevelt's goal of a level high enough to bring the country some prosperity.

For the first time since the stock market and the commodity prices started their climb and official analysis has indicated that the trend between the two price rises and the dollar's depreciation as a reference to the gold standard abandonment.

The Federal Reserve Board's monthly review was sent out today with the statement that by the end of May - just before the latest dollar began - the dollar was down 15 per cent in terms of the French franc.

The British pound had lost ten per cent, the smallest in some time. Six basic commodities, the board said, had by the end of May jumped 60 per cent since February. One-half of the price rise corresponded to the general world rise and the remaining 30 per cent represents the dollar depreciation plus the actual commodity rise.

There is still a way to go to reach the 1926 average, which is regarded as Roosevelt's goal and pending which the dollar stabilization plans are being held off. The Department of Labor placed June 17 index for all commodities at 64.5 against 100 for 1926.

REVIVAL HERE DRAWS CROWD

Evangelist Tyson Delivers Forceful Sermons at Free Will Baptist Church

On last evening Evangelist Tyson brought a most soul stirring message from the subject - "Showing Our Friendship for Jesus". For a text the familiar passage - "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you" - John 15:14 was used.

These words were spoken directly to the disciples by Christ. In the very beginning of the message, Evangelist Tyson set forth the idea that there are but few things to be prized more highly than true friendship. True friendship affords much enlightenment to those between whom it exists, because the innermost secrets of the soul are related. As well as being enlightening, true friendship is expensive. To illustrate this fact, the story of David and Jonathan; and the story of Ruth was related.

When friendship is present, there are evidences of it. The evidences of friendship are: (1) protection (2) unity or cooperation, and (3) love. Wherever the spirit of friendship abides, a spirit of willingness to protect, to cooperate and to love is found. Christ commands that a person do three things in order to be His friend: (1) to be a messenger for Him, (2) to work for Him, (3) to watch for His return. Upon every one rests the responsibility of proclaiming His message to all known parts of the world. A friend of Christ not only must labor but love is going to return some day. As a result true friends of Christ are watching and waiting patiently for His coming and will be ready to welcome His return.

In conclusion, can you be recognized as a friend of Jesus? If you can, you may be looking up to Him as a Savior of all mankind.

ARNOLD MADE COTTON HEAD

Farm Agent Named Production Control Administrator For Pitt County

County Agent E. F. Arnold, in addition to his many other duties as County Agricultural Agent, has been designated as county administrator of the production control work under the new administration act.

Plans for the production control of cotton, have been organized and will be put in full force during the week of June 26.

G. M. Britt and T. L. Carr, Vocational teachers from Fountain and Stokes, and C. C. Hilton, field representative of the Cotton Association are cooperating with the county agent in conducting the campaign next week.

It is hoped that the farmers will join wholeheartedly in the Cotton Reduction Campaign of Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, to retire ten million acres of cotton from production through leases to the Secretary. North Carolina is being asked to retire 363,000 acres of cotton from production. Pitt County's pro rata part will be not less than 5000 acres and not more than 8000 acres.

Arrangements will be made whereby any farmer who attends any of the community meetings which have been announced for the next week may sign an agreement with the Secretary to lease cotton to be put out of production or farmers who are unable to attend these meetings may call at the county agent's office and fill in same.

In addition to these opportunities for the farmers to sign, some forty to fifty farmers will canvass the county in an effort to reach every farmer who grows cotton for the purpose of giving him an opportunity to participate in the liberal cash offers for the growing crop and cotton options as set forth by the Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace.

Federal Board Approves Establishment Of Home Loan Bank In Greenville

WARREN WIRES DECISION HERE

Congressman Says Decision To Locate Federal Institution Here Given Confirmation By Home Loan Board Today

All doubts existing about the location of a branch of the Federal Home Loan bank in Greenville was dissipated today in a telephone message to the Daily Reflector from Congressman Lindsay Warren stating the Home Loan board had approved the location of the bank here.

Mr. Warren stated he had received a message from William F. Stephenson, chairman of the Home Loan board, stating, "Location of branch of Home Loan corporation at Greenville today confirmed and approved by the board."

Mr. Warren wired the newspaper several days ago that the bank would be located here and only awaited the formality of approval by the Home Loan board.

Statements from other sources that the bank "probably" would be located here caused much speculation as to the outcome of the board's action, but the previous statement of the congressman that the bank would come here is borne out in final decision in the matter.

The bank is one of four to be located in this state for refinancing mortgages on small homes. It will have assets of around $25,000,000, and its officers will be selected within the next several days.

Final action of the board will be received with interest throughout this section of the state to be served by the institution in view of the fact it will provide relief for thousands of people who have been finding it difficult to keep up payments on their homes and many face losing them if they are not given succor by the government.

The main office of the Home Loan bank in this state will be located at Salisbury and it was expected announcement regarding personnel of the local office would be made known within the next several days when actual work looking to establishment of quarters will get under way.

DENTAL CLINIC IS BUSY PLACE

Scores of Children Taking Advantage Of Free Services at School Here

The dental clinic which opened at the Third Street school grounds at the first of the week is getting just about all it can do for some time to come. In fact, it was said the clinic had enough appointments at this time to keep it busy through the month of July.

The clinic is being conducted by the State Board of Health in connection with the County Department of Health. Dr. E. A. Underwood of the State Board of Health is in charge of the work.

The clinic is for children whose parents have been receiving aid from the various relief agencies of the community, and demand for work has been much greater than was at first expected. Examinations and work are being done by Dr. Underwood, as quickly as possible so that many children may be taken care of during the four weeks the clinic is in progress. Many of the children receiving dental attention also had their tonsils and adenoids removed at the series of clinics conducted several weeks ago. The health campaign was expected to improve the youngsters to such extent that they will be in much better condition for school work in the future.

CHAMBERLAIN IS ATTACKED IN THE HOUSE

Labor Member Says People Believe Roosevelt But Not British Leader

London, June 23. (AP) - Joseph C. Wedgwood, labor member, stirred the House of Commons today by telling Neville Chamberlain to his face that the people of Britain would rather have President Roosevelt for a chancellor than Neville Chamberlain.

Cries of no, no, no, from government branches answered the labor member's statement. Later Robert Boothby, of conservative, joined in the criticism of Chamberlain.

STORM CLAIMS MUCH DAMAGE AROUND AYDEN

One Killed, Another Injured by Lightning And a Third Drowns in Creek

Had and wind storm sweeping over a four mile area in the Ayden community yesterday afternoon claimed the life of one person, injured another and did considerable damage to farm crops, it was revealed by information reaching the city today.

It was also stated that a negro youth whose name could not be determined lost his life when he was seized by the cramps while swimming in a creek near Ayden an hour or so before the storm.

John Burney colored was killed instantly by lightning when he and several other colored people employed in relief work sought safety from the storm behind a haystack in the Pierce community, about two miles from Ayden. Richard Blount colored, was reported to have been painfully injured by the same bolt.

STRIKE GROWS AT ROCK HILL

Night Workers at South Carolina Mill Join Walkout of Day Workers

Rock Hill, S. C., June 23. (AP) - The night shift of the Rock Hill Printing and Finishing Company struck early today and a few hours later the day force failed to return to work.

With 900 operatives idle the operation of all machinery was stopped. The plant is Rock Hill's largest industry.

Bleaching, coloring and dying are done at the mill.

No demands were made immediately by the strikers and it was not known whether the day force failed to report for duty because of sympathy for the night shift or whether they were barred from entering the mill. The action brought the total number of strikers here to 1,100.

PUSH FIGHT ON TYPHOID HERE

New Clinics to be Organized Next Week; Make Effort to Retain Colored Nurse

A relentless fight against typhoid fever continued in Pitt county today under direction of Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, and indications apparently pointed to less fever this year than in some time.

The department was planning to organize clinics in several communities next week, and persons desiring clinics in their sections have been asked to get in touch with the public health workers and let their desire be known.

It was believed that more people were vaccinated for typhoid in this county last year than any other county of the state, and consequently it will be from two to three years before the health workers will have to go over those districts again. The battle has been so extensive the last several years that it is impossible for the department to keep a definite check on some of the remote communities, and hence the request that people desiring clinics let their wishes be known.

Nine cases of typhoid had been reported here up to July 1 last year. So far, health department records show that only five have been recorded. The drop in ravages of the disease has been reported.

British Denounce Japanese Tactics In Textile Trade

By OSCAR LEIDING London. (AP) - Japanese trade competition has drawn the fire of the Federation of British Industries. A special committee, composed of industrialists representing the principal trade affected by the competition, has concluded a broad investigation and submitted a report to the board of trade.

Charge Reckless Sales "The depreciation of the yen during the past year" the committee charged, "has been deliberately used to embark on a reckless national sales policy, with disastrous results to British and other traders in various markets of the world."

It seems impossible to doubt that the difference in wages, labor conditions and standard of living making it impossible for the East and West to compete on equal terms in articles in whose cost wages form a substantial part.

Dealing with the cotton textile industry, the report states that Japan has found in the surplus girl population of the agrarian district "an almost illimitable supply of labor, docile and possessed of manual dexterity."

Find Hour Equals Day Direct wages of male workers in the cotton piece goods industry were reported to be barely one-third of British rates and barely one-fourth in the case of female workers.

In silk and rayon, it is stated, a British male operative receives more for one hour's work than his Japanese "opposite number" gets for a whole day.

"The growth of the Japanese rayon industry has been phenomenally rapid," the report continues. "Six years ago her production for the year was 5,500,000 pounds or four per cent of the world's total output, and she stood ninth in the list of producing countries. In 1932 her production was 64,000,000 pounds, or 13 per cent of the world's output."

President of World Conference Asserts Disturbing Situation Has Been Removed; Believes They are Getting Somewhere; Monetary Issues Centered on Action Of American Delegation

London, June 23. (AP) - Prime Minister Ramsay Mac Donald, president of the world economic conference declared in a statement today that the conference was not going to adjourn but was continuing its work. "I'm re-entering the third week with a very buoyant and hopeful heart," he said.

London, June 23. (AP) - Prime Minister Ramsay Mac Donald after several contacts today with delegates to the world economic conference was quoted as saying that the previously disturbing situation had been removed and that continued progress was being made.

In the meantime eight committees were struggling with the giant task the subject being an effort to draw up a permanent monetary standard. Groups wrestling with this vital problem concentrated wholly on the American position.

High British quarters made no effort to conceal their serious concern over the continued gyrations of the dollar and with America's inability to stabilize. At this juncture the British made it clear that they were in sympathy with the position of the United States.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull and James M. Cox held a prolonged discussion during the morning. Mr. Hull and the British Prime Minister put their gray heads together over cups of coffee in the lounge.

Finance Minister George Bonnet of France and Premier Henry Collin of the Netherlands, representatives of the gold standard countries, were gloomy over the lack of dollar stabilization but Bonnet before leaving for France for the week-end flatly denied reports that the continental gold countries must join the United States and Great Britain in suspending the yellow metal standard.

Chapter 23 THE LETTER

George went to London to meet Clifford Asher with the full determination that she was not going to enjoy herself.

Her head ached a little and her eyes were red with crying.

By the morning post she had received a letter from her mother.

"Bishop—" so her mother wrote "is ill, or imagines that he is. He insists that he must see a specialist, a German specialist, and so we are coming to London for a week or two, and then going on to Berlin. I should have thought there were plenty of good doctors out here, but Bishop is so obstinate (what man is not?) and so we are sailing next week. We shall be staying in London, of course, but you must come and see me."

So Bishop was ill! George felt sorry. Not that the big, red-faced man with the loud voice had ever troubled to be nice to her, but it seemed pathetic somehow, to think of anyone so vigorous as he always appeared to be, having to go so far as Germany to get cured.

She broke the news to her uncle with great misgiving. "Mother's coming home," was her brief announcement.

"Home!" Edward Bancroft glared at her. "What the devil is she coming for anyway?"

"Bishop is ill," George said.

"I'm not surprised." There was infinite satisfaction in her uncle's voice. "My own brother was the first fool she killed off, and now she's found a second. Well, she can't come here and you can tell her so."

George smiled as she thought of her mother's extreme daintiness and love of luxury; she could hardly imagine her in a house where there was very little comfort, and most indifferent cooking.

"She doesn't want to come here," she murmured.

Bancroft frowned. "And why not I should like to know?" he demanded. "It's this house good enough for her? Aren't I good enough?"

"It's quite good enough," George said politely.

Bancroft drew the cork from a fresh bottle of whisky with a loud bang.

"Humph! Well, what's the matter with Bishop anyway?"

"I don't know; he's going to Germany to see a specialist."

Bancroft snorted. "Germany, indeed!" he growled. "People are like a lot of sheep; one leads and they all follow. I hear that that fellow Boyd is off on the same track; going to get his face put right or something. Twaddle!"

Edward Bancroft went on, satisfied that he had found a topic after his own heart.

"They're all the same, these film fellows. Popinjay! They're not men at all; if they were they wouldn't curl their hair and wear corsets."

"He doesn't curl his hair or wear corsets," George said hotly, then broke off in confusion, conscious of her uncle's suspicious eyes.

"Oh! and how do you know?" he demanded.

"I don't know, at least he doesn't look as if he does, and he got his face hurt by doing a very heroic thing."

"Pooh! Press stunt," Bancroft declared. "I daresay if the truth's known he got his jaw broken in a brawl; you can't tell me!"

George turned away; her face was burning with anger, and she was afraid to trust herself to say any more. Edward Bancroft might know a great deal about brawls, but he certainly knew nothing about Nicholas Boyd. She went upstairs and dressed to go to the station. It was a bore, she decided, having to meet a man in whom one was were a matter of no importance. "Well, we've all got to do, and it's no use arguing. Life's made up of partings, isn't it? you'll find that out for yourself soon enough if you haven't found it out already."

She sounded quite cheerful about it, and a faint admiration crept in to George's heart. It was rather wonderful to be able to talk about death and partings so easily.

"And I'm losing Mr. Boyd," Mrs. Spears went on. "And I don't mind admitting that I'm sorry. He never gives any trouble, and he makes the place interesting. The business in the bar has doubled since he came; wonderful how anxious people are to catch a glimpse of a film star, even if he is one of the has-beens."

"He isn't a has-been," George said quickly; her color rose. "Nobody will ever take his place; he'll always be remembered."

Mrs. Spears raised her darkened brows.

"Well now!" she said. She looked at the girl and smiled. "Ah, it's a fine thing to be young and full of romance," she said tolerantly. "I was the same when I was your age. I remember waiting for hours outside the stage door just to see George Alexander come out. And that's a good many years ago," she added. "Ah well, it's all to the good if you can make an ideal of a man, they let you down soon enough."

"Did George Alexander let you down?" George asked interestedly; she had never heard of George Alexander.

Mrs. Spears laughed.

The morning sunshine shone on the good woman's dyed hair and heavy make-up, making her look grotesque (almost like a clown, George thought) and then was ashamed; what did it matter how one looked if one's heart was in the right place?

"And where have you been hiding all this time?" Mrs. Spears asked in her hearty voice. "I was wondering if someone had run off with you. It must be weeks since we met."

"It's not very long," George said uncomfortably, and she gave her hat a little tug, bringing it further down over her eyes and the ugly bruise which had not yet faded. She had deliberately kept out of the way of Mrs. Spears because she had known how impossible it would be to explain that bruise away.

"So you've lost Lovelock," Mrs. Spears went on affably, as if it

Europe's Prettiest

"Bless your heart, I was only one of hundreds of sentimental girls who adored him," she said cheerfully. "I got over it, and you'll do the same. Nice as Mr. Boyd's always been to me, I expect he's a devil to live with if the truth's known; anyway his wife doesn't seem to worry much about him, does she?"

It was on the tip of George's tongue to say, "but she's coming home," then she stopped; it was no business of Mrs. Spears.

"They're all the same, these famous men," Mrs. Spears went on with a great feeling of superiority. "They've all got the knack of making you feel you're the only woman in the world; you'll do, if there's nobody else handy, and then—well, you can't tell me anything about men."

"I don't want to," George said almost resentfully; she gave her hat another jerk down over her eyes. "Well, I just go. I've got to catch a train."

It was beyond George to understand it all; her thoughts broke, and she began to run, as she saw the train puffing slowly into the station.

A SURE THING

All doubt as to the establishment of a branch of the Federal Home Loan Corporation here was dispelled this morning by announcement from Congressman Lindsay C. Warren that the board today approved the selection of this city as the location of the bank. As we have previously stated in this column, the establishment of this federal institution here is a great honor to our city and we have Congressman Warren to thank for his efforts in our behalf.

Without even letting close friends here know that he was trying to get this institution for Greenville until it had been approved by the chairman of the board, for fear of any publicity until a final decision had been reached, Mr. Warren spent much time and effort on the matter and secured the institution for Greenville over efforts of others to get it for some of the other Eastern Carolina towns.

We are sure that our people are appreciative of Congressman Warren's interest and efforts in behalf of our city.

MITCHELL GOES FREE.

When men like Charles E. Mitchell are let go free after it is apparent that they have by manipulation chiselled the government out of thousands of dollars taxes, is it any wonder that the little taxpayer feels that he is not getting a square deal.

While we do not countenance anything that has been done by the racketeer, Al Capone, it does seem that so far as the income tax violations are concerned, he was a piker compared to Mitchell and some of the others, yet Al is in the pen for his and Mitchell goes free. Unfortunately for Al he was a racketeer and public opinion was against him making it easier to convict him on the tax evasions. On the other hand, Mitchell was one of the country's big and powerful bankers with a reputation, with almost anything in the and while his tax evasions were much greater than Capone's the judge and the jury just couldn't see to sending the big banker to the pen.

To us it appears just another case in which the rich and powerful can get away with almost anything in the courts.

WANT ADS PAY "ADS" IN THE REFLECTOR PAY

Let's Take A Look At The Higher Priced Cars---Compare Them With THE NEW FORD V-8

CADILLAC V-8: A GENERAL MOTORS PRODUCT IN ITS HIGHEST-PRICED BRACKET

To quote directly from literature in our office:

"For nineteen years, the Cadillac Motor Car Company has held to the V-type principle of engine design. The superiorities of this type have advanced through thirteen successive models.

"The V-type design is basically, exceedingly simple. Because the cylinders can be placed side by side in two banks of equal number, a V-type is shorter. This permits roomier bodies. The shortness of the engine permits a short crankshaft—with resulting reduction of vibration. It permits shorter and more direct fuel passages; a less complex cooling system within the engine; shorter and less circuitous oil lines; and a more efficient crankcase ventilating system. The result is Economy in maintenance, as well as high efficiency and extremely long life.

"With the V-type design scientific crankshaft, compensation, becomes possible. The weight and push of opposed piston and connecting rod assemblies are cancelled by an equal and contrary action of compensating weights. Thus, almost unbelievable smoothness is secured—at all speeds, from the slowest crawl to a wide open throttle.

"That the V-type is the engine of the future is attested by its adoption to the foremost power plants in the air and on the water, as well as on the land, etc.

LET'S SEE WHAT BUICK SAYS ABOUT A RIGID CHASSIS, ETC.

To quote directly from literature in our office:

(Note: This feature covers an entire page in their literature.)

FRAME AND TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE

"The illustration on the right gives an excellent view of the new X-type cross member frame of the new Buick, X-type cross members with reinforcing members extending along the side rails to the front cross members are used on all models. This construction, in addition to giving added rigidity to the chassis also permits lowering of the car several inches. A very important feature.

"Another important feature in the Buick chassis is the famous TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE which transmits the driving torque from the rear axle to the frame and serves to keep the rear axle and wheels in perfect alignment. This gives the Buick EXTRA steadiness and roadability at all speeds."

IF THE ABOVE FEATURES WERE NOT GOOD WOULD GENERAL MOTORS HAVE THEM ON THEIR HIGH-PRICED CARS AND NOT ON THE CHEAPER MODELS?

The above quotations from the literature of the highest-priced cars made by General Motors is on file at our office and we would be glad to compare the above and many other features of Buick, Cadillac and LaSalle with the New FORD V-8.

THIS IS THE DAY OF THE EIGHT—BUILT IN THE MODERN MANNER—Made with 1933 improvements and additions. Built to give trouble-free service. You will find no "gadgets" on Cadillac or Buick, neither do you find them on the New FORD V-8.

If You Feel Gloomy And Tired--Test This

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile food doesn't digest properly—it just stagnates and decays—constipation, gas, sour stomach, headaches and nervousness follow.

Don't be misled. Calomel, salts, laxative pills, cathartics, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargol Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

Unless you have tried Sargol Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of their effect—

You feel stronger, healthier, happier—life and color return to faded eyes and cheeks—appetite and digestion improve rapidly.

I am truly glad to recommend it to others, for it is a good medicine for constipation."

AYDEN PLAYS LOCALS TODAY

Any and all Eastern suspicion to the contrary, the University of California at Los Angeles is not trying to "steal" the muffled thunder of the classic Poughkeepsie Regatta by seizing this year's golden opportunity to put on a national intercollegiate crew race, on the Olympic course at Long Beach, with Cornell, Harvard and Yale meeting the new triumvirate of east rowing.

If the Eastern powers, of their own free will and accord, decide not to conduct the Poughkeepsie Regatta, why in effect, pin the blame or cast suspicious eyes at west coast rowing interest and enterprise, asks Ben Person, director of Athletic news at U. C. L. A.

"We readily understand how the east, with an admirable pride in the Hudson classic," he writes, "can misinterpret our motives. In fact there was a thought conceivably had, but no one believed that anyone would do so. The fact that they have makes people here feel like ambulance chasers.

"The circumstances may be damning—but such evidence often leads to unjust conclusions. It is unfortunate that people have drawn up a verdict because of two happenings which coincide and nothing else brought up about the same time and in just this peculiar sequence.

Seven Years Ago

"The facts are these: Major Goodsell, U. C. L. A. crew coach, thought of a western race of the type we intend to have; when he first came to this country, seven years ago. University athletic officials began the serious business of putting these plans into some sort of reality when U. C. L. A. first considered adding crew to its athletic program last year.

"Stephen W. Cunningham, U. C. L. A. graduate manager, talked the matter over with William J. Birmingham, Harvard's director of athletics, when the latter was here for the Olympic Games last summer.

"We hope that our true intentions can be brought out; namely a desire to stimulate interest in crew and provide an event to supplement the national rowing program. No one wants the event to overshadow or replace any other. The west, with only three institutions rowing, wants more rowing.

No Commercial Venture
"The only way to provide it is to bring eastern crews here as guests. Fortunately such a thing has been made possible and will continue to be made possible whether or not it makes money. The local regatta was not conceived as a commercial venture, either by the university or the sponsors of the race.

"The primary move was to bring our visitors—in this case Yale, Harvard and Cornell—here, to show them as much hospitality as is possible and to add another good chapter to the national rowing program.

"May I ask you to help us head off these mistaken impressions which seem to have taken a pretty firm root in the east?"

It may be considered as good as done, here and now, with a salute to U. C. L. A. and a welcome to its splendid contribution to rowing this year, especially at a time when the sport seemed hampered by lack of fortitude and vision in the East.

GRIMESLAND WINS AGAIN

Grimesland, which has won enough ball games already this summer to cause its fans to gloat for the next several years, took Plymouth in tow yesterday afternoon at Grimesland by the score of 7 to 5.

The victory was another for the mighty Androll, who had the visitors literally eating out of his hands when a single might have boosted their score considerably.

For Grimesland, Mizelle, Satterthwaite and Lewis did the heavy stick work. Lewis accounted for 4 double and triple, Mizelle for a double and single and Satterthwaite two singles.

Van Horn and Rogers walked away with batting honors for the visitors, the former being credited with a circuit drive, a double and single. Brown registered two singles.

The batteries for Plymouth was Van Horn and Rogers; for Grimesland Androll, Satterthwaite and Bunting.

Bunn Hearn's ball club of Wilson will appear at Grimesland Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

AYDEN PLAYS LOCALS TODAY

Ayden, which so far this season has been successful in knocking Greenville league leading aspirations into a cocked hat, came here this afternoon to attempt to repeat the two previous performances.

So far this season Greenville and Ayden have held the limelight in a see-saw race for the top position with Kingston and Snow Hill fighting to see which can keep out of the cellar.

With Greenville leading the league by half a game, having regained the top by defeating Snow Hill Wednesday and by Ayden losing to Kingston, fans were looking for a spectacular battle here this afternoon.

Greenville was better prepared to show stout resistance today because of the acquisition of three pitchers during the last week. Each of the hurlers are classed as the best seen in action here this season and were expected to play an important part in the club holding the top.

Tomorrow the local club will go to Snow Hill where they will again have to fight hard to keep the Greene county lads from giving them a sound thrashing in revenge for the defeat which they suffered here Wednesday.

Cats Defeat Cubs During First Game

Wildcats and Cubs have taken Greenville by storm. Not the real jungle animals, to be sure, but two baseball organizations bearing animal cognomens.

The two clubs, composed of youths of the city who want to make hot days hotter during the summer, have organized a league and will meet one another each week until somebody is eaten alive.

The league season officially swung open Monday when the Cats trimmed the Bruins 13 to 11 on the lawn of J. S. Ficklen's home where all games will be played.

The Bears have ten pitchers on the payroll and the Cubs have only one, yet he proved a master of many exciting situations in the open line game.

The lineup follows:
Cubs: Abeyounis, p; Abeyounis, c; Stoneham, 1b; Harris, 2b; Wilson, ss; Wilson, 3b; Harris, lf; "Jimmy" cf; Clar, rf.

Wildcats: Flanagan, p; Wilson, c; Eilen, 1b; Scales, 2b; Warren, ss; Horne, 3b; Goodall, lf; Ficklen, cf; Ficklen, rf.

disease has been very pronounced in recent years and it is due to the free vaccinations given by the health workers and the intensive educational campaign put on each year.

Dr. McGeachy said venereal work among the colored people had been reduced sharply by the loss of the colored nurse June 15. Her services had been paid for by the Rosenwald fund and U. S. Public Health Service, but this appropriation has been cut out.

Effort is under way to re-employ the nurse in view of the fine work she has done in an educational way, greatly relieving the danger of colored nurses transmitting diseases to white children. If possible the health department will try to retain her through state and local funds.

ety, giving hail over a small area and a heavy shower of rain in others. But over the entire four mile district the storm was reported to have caused much damage to trees and buildings.

The storm apparently did the most damage west of Ayden where tobacco and other crops were reported to have suffered extensively. Farms operated by Blainey Summerell, R. A. Cannon, Jerome McLawhorn, Clearance Whitehurst and others were damaged from 25 to 50 percent. The loss was confined largely to tobacco.

Although rain was reported from Grimesland to Washington and sections in the east of the county, the parched territory around Greenville both to the north and West continued to bake under the sun's blistering rays today. Cooling breezes from the storm in the adjacent community brought some relief last night.

Although it was impossible to estimate the extent of the loss to crops in this county, it was known that it would reach into thousands of dollars in tobacco alone. Tobacco, already being housed and cured in some communities, has suffered much loss in weight and many fields have been parched to such extent that growers will get little from their production.

With the weather man holding out promise of showers today and Saturday, sections which were not visited by rain yesterday were hoping for liberal portions today or tomorrow.

Tomorrow the local club will go to Snow Hill where they will again have to fight hard to keep the Greene county lads from giving them a sound thrashing in revenge for the defeat which they suffered here Wednesday.

To Launch Fight.

Winston Salem, June 23.—(AP)—The Twin City Sentinel said today it had learned from authoritative sources that a movement to organize the merchants of North Carolina into a political unit to fight the sales tax will be launched at the State Merchants Association convention here next week.

It was reliably reported, this paper said, that a resolution will be presented to the state association asking for the organization of a political body of merchants embracing the 4,000 members of the association and the estimated 16,000 additional merchants not members.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM BURNING HOUSE

Windsor, June 23.—Mrs. Carrie Davenport Morris barely escaped with her life when her home, a two-story frame building, burned to the ground between midnight and 3 o'clock Wednesday morning. Mrs. Morris, her son, James, and a colored girl, the only occupants of the house, all were sleeping upstairs.

James awoke after the fire on the first floor had made its way to the staircase. He escaped by means of the porch roof, gave the alarm, and by means of a ladder and with the help of a neighbor, saved his mother and the colored girl.

People gathered from all over town and the hose was played on the house which kept the fire from spreading, but too late to save the house and contents.

Mrs. Morris owned quite a bit of antique furniture and a conservatory estimate would place the loss at $10,000. There was some insurance.

Stock Market

New York, June 23.—(AP)—An atmosphere of indecision prevailed in financial markets today prices of stocks and staples rolled around in an extremely narrow range.

Gains of fractions of a point or more were recorded by shares of Allied Chemical DuPont, Case, National distillers, American Smelting, Chrysler, Woolworth, American Can, Bethlehem Steel and Lackawana. American can ran up about two points at one time and quickly sank to around opening lows.

American Telephone was without much support and dropped a point. U. S. Steel sagged a trifle as did Western Union and some of the oils. Transfers in late dealings approximated 3,000,000 shares.

GETS THIRTY YEARS FOR KILLING HIS WIFE

Lumberton, June 23.—A jury in Robeson Superior Court late yesterday found Cicero Mitchell, 34-year-old Raynham Indian, guilty of murder in the second degree, and Judge W. A. Devin sentenced him to 30 years in state's prison.

Taking the stand in his own defense, Mitchell testified that on the day of the killing, his wife braided to him about being unfaithful, threatened him, hit him twice with an auto axle and as he grabbed it she got a gun. He then struck her with the axle he said. The woman was horribly beaten, the skull being fractured seven times.
