LONDON CONFERENCE ON THE VERGE OF COLLAPSE

American Gro... Thinks Partial Disbandment Is Proper Step To Be Taken

SAYS CONFAB CAN NOT BE KEPT MOVING

Opinion Follows Message From President Roosevelt, Flatly Declaring Against Dollar Stabilization; Americans Deny Rumor of Proposal From Washington For Keeping Things Moving

London, July 5—(AP)—An exchange of messages between the United States delegation and President Roosevelt resulted this afternoon in expression of the opinion in some important American quarters that it would be best for the world economic conference to be partially disbanded.

The American quarters after consideration of further communication from Washington voiced the expression it would be impossible to keep the parley going at this time.

The Superior gold bloc has been advocating adjournment since the receipt of President Roosevelt's message flatly declaring against dollar stabilization.

A section of the American group said that the best that can be done will be to continue the bureau steering committee as a permanent body.

The Americans denied the rumor that the American President has proposed any view or scheme to rescue the conference.

The steering committee after meeting yesterday evening to consider a proposal by Hendrex Colien, Dutch premier for dispersing the gathering adjourned until tomorrow morning when question of the program is to be dealt with.

24 FORESTERS HIT THE TRAIL FOR HOME

Wilson, July 4—Twenty-four Wilsonians—seven white and eight colored at the Civilian Conservation Camp on Belle Island—after receiving their first "camp money", $5 hit the trail for home, whether with or without leave is not known here.

One of the white boys says "Belle Island may be a good refuge for wild ducks, geese, swans and other members of the feathered tribe. It's hell on earth for mankind. The whole island is infested with rattlesnakes, sandflies, red bugs, mosquitoes and other pests that make life miserable.

One of the Negro foresters over-hearing the above reason given replied "Ah's home on furlough, Ah is, and when mah time's up Ah'm gwine back. Mah contract with Uncle Sam calls for six months service. What's de sense in signing if you ain't gwine ter make good; you may think there's no string tied to you—des wait and see, dats all, white boy."

HORN BUTTON STICKS WOULD-BE THIEF FLEES

Kinston, July 5—Richard Parker, Jr., is still in possession of his automobile because a horn button stuck when a thief started to drive off in it. Continuous blowing of the horn at an early morning hour awakened Parker. The car was parked in the street before his home. The button was in an unusual place, beside the brake, clutch and the pedals. The thief probably thought it started the car. He stepped on it hard. It jammed. The horn honked its warning and the thief leaped out and fled.

YARN MILLS TO ADD HUNDRED WORKERS

Kinston, July 5—The Chesterfield Yarn Co., operating the old Caswell cotton mills here, plan to add approximately 100 workers to the operating force within a week or 10 days. The company will employ about 450 persons after the textile code goes into effect, it was estimated today. It is rushed with orders.

SCORES DIE IN 4TH OF JULY CELEBRATION

America Paid Greater Price Than She Did In Initial Battle Of Revolution

(By The Associated Press) America paid a greater price in loss of lives in its annual celebration of Independence than it did in the initial skirmishes of the Revolutionary war, it was revealed by a survey which showed, however, a sharp decrease in fireworks fatalities.

A total of at least 185 men, women and children perished during the holiday compared with a total loss of 7 men at Lexington and 93 at Concord in April of 1775 when the forces of the original Colonies clashed with those of King George Third.

In addition there were hundreds of cases of injured, New York alone reported 670 treated in hospitals for fireworks injuries. Fatalities, however, totaled seven compared with ten in 1932.

Many Industries Will Profit From Highway Program

Washington, July 5—(AP)—A dozen-odd industries are expected by the public works administration to benefit from building of $400,000,000 worth of highways.

The industries enumerated include steel, cement, explosive, gravel, crushed stone, fuels, oils, sand, power, asphalt, grit and wire. Around 12,000,000 tons of freight

PROBLEMS BESETTING CAPITAL DURING ROOSEVELT VACATION CLOUD OFFICIAL ATMOSPHERE

By BYRON PRICE With the conciliatory touch of President Roosevelt missing, many complications and confusions beset Washington, while the vacation ship Amberjack II was making its leisurely way up the New England coast. Doubtless this was due partly to the natural difficulties of putting on foot epochal undertakings, and partly to the fact that the government has grown accustomed to quick action in the White House and felt keenly its temporary lack. No disposition was apparent to complain because the President was taking a few days of quiet, after all

JAIL BREAK IS NIPPED IN THE BUD HERE

Jail Attendant Prevents Wholesale Delivery At County Bastille

A wholesale delivery of negro prisoners confined in the Pitt county jail was "nipped in the bud" Monday night with discovery of the plot about time the jailbirds were preparing to make their exit. It was stated at the sheriff's office today.

The discovery was made by a jail attendant who immediately gave the alarm and halted the apparently victorious march of the prisoners to safety.

By the use of a hacksaw and crowbar eleven negroes sawed a hole under the door to the lavatory large enough to crawl through and then had just about completed sawing through the lock in the hall door leading to liberty when the attendant walked up and dashed their hopes to earth.

Most of the defendants were being held for minor offenses and were awaiting action in the next session of county court. Some were also being held for Superior court in August.

How the prisoners gained possession of the crowbar and hacksaw was unknown to officers. Several times in recent years such implements have been sneaked into the jail but officers in the majority of cases discovered the plots in time to prevent escape. About two years ago, however, several men sawed their way to safety.

The attempted jail delivery followed closely behind the sensational escape of "Railroad" Ray, member of a band of robbers held in jail here, who obtained possession of a key to the main vault and walked out to freedom Sunday afternoon. So far nothing had been obtained as to his whereabouts but officers were still after him and hoped to be able to land him behind the bars again in the near future.

HIT BY BALL, WOMAN HURT

Mrs. Bunting Injured When Struck by a Foul Ball Here Yesterday

Mrs. "Chick" Bunting, wife of the second baseman of the Ayden baseball club was painfully injured when hit by a foul ball in the final game of the Greenville-Ayden double-header yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Bunting was reported to have lost three teeth when the sphere fouled by an Ayden batsman, hit her in the mouth.

She was among several hundred people watching the game from the bleachers when the batsman fouled a drive into the stand. Mrs. Bunting who was not looking was hit in the face in spite of attempts of spectators to stop the ball.

She was reported as getting along nicely today, today although suffering considerable discomfort from badly bruised lips and dental attention.

Winston-Salem, July 5—(AP)—Roy R. Lawrence, president of the North Carolina Federation of Labor, today announced the organization would meet in Charlotte August 14-16.

Elimination of Mid-Summer Recession In Trade is Predicted Today

New York, July 5—(AP)—Standard Statistic Company said today that a continuation of the upward business trend during the remainder of the year was probable. "The usual mid-summer recession" it was stated "will be moderate or entirely eliminated in many lines because of the latest buying. "By the close of the year business in most of the essential industries will compare favorably with levels in the early stages of depression. "Indications now point emphatically to a broad scale industrial expansion during the last half of 1933

COOL WEATHER PUTS DAMPER ON JULY 4TH

Watering Places Fought by Local People; Two Ball Games Feature Day Here

People in this section of the state celebrated their independence in heavier clothing than usual yesterday by reason of the unseasonable temperatures that sent the mercury to the lowest July stage in a number of years.

Hundreds of people who had planned to make annual pilgrimage to seashore had to abandon plans at the last minute when the weather man sent offerings that would have been more appropriate in November. The cool wave started the day before and numbers who had already gone to the beach either returned home during the morning, or remained behind cottage doors in the hope that sunshine would come and dispel the gloom and chill temperatures holding sway over the inland as well as at beaches.

Had it not been for a double-header ball game between Greenville and Ayden clubs of the Coast Plain league Pitt county people would have gone without entertainment in view of the abandonment of the old custom of shooting fireworks to let the world know about independent feelings.

The largest crowd to attend a ball game this season visited Third Street school grounds and saw Greenville take the final game of a double bill from Ayden. The morning game at Ayden was also largely attended. Lots of verbal fireworks were exploded at the two contests but citizens of both towns felt like patting one another on the back.

SAY UPSWING IN BUSINESS TO CONTINUE

Washington, July 5—(AP)—President Roosevelt today issued an executive order continuing the 15 percent cut in pay of federal employees.

The slash was first made effective under the economy bill to extend until June 30, the close of the fiscal year with President Roosevelt authorized to continue it if justified by living costs.

The order said that living costs for the first six months of the year was 130.2 as compared to 171 for the base period, the six months ending June 30, 1928.

The pay checks today were ordered to stay in effect until the first of the year.

President Uses All Force To Push Domestic Recovery Campaign In This Country

Roosevelt Seeks To Keep Confab Going

Today at the London Conference: In American quarters at London it was said that it might be best partially to disband the world economic conference as it seemed impossible to keep the parley going at this time.

The delegation exchanged communications with President Roosevelt at Washington in an effort to discover means for saving the conclave from collapse.

The President, it was said in Washington, has directed Secretary of State Hull and his colleagues to do everything possible to keep the conference going.

European gold bloc countries were still awaiting some move from Washington which might justify them in remaining at London for discussion of economic problems.

INSTALL COBB AS ROTE HEAD

Other Club Officers To be Installed at Forthcoming Meeting Here

K. W. Cobb was installed as president of the Greenville Rotary club at the regular weekly meeting of the organization Monday evening. He succeeds Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of Memorial Baptist church, who served for the usual period of one year.

Other officers elected at a previous session will be installed in the near future.

The induction of the new Rotary head was witnessed by members of the club and a few visitors and was very impressive. The retiring president made the installation address in which he expressed appreciation of the fine spirit of co-operation accorded him throughout the year.

He declared he felt sure the progress registered by the organization would not have been possible without the inclination of the membership to pull together in adversity as it did in prosperity.

The incoming president praised the work of Mr. Fleischmann and declared he would do everything in his power to uphold the fine traditions of the organization, as well as try to perpetuate the fine spirit of fellowship and service as displayed by the retiring leader.

Following the installation ceremony, Mr. Cobb, delegate from the local club to the international convention recently held in Boston, gave a brief description of the gathering, declaring it one of the greatest in history.

He said the convention was so large and filled with so many activities that to give a detailed account in the short time allotted him would be impossible. He declared it was expressive of the spirit of fellowship existing between the membership in all parts of the world and showed to what extent Rotary is working to bring together the people of all nations into close contact with one another.

A committee composed of Howard McGinnis, A. W. Fleischmann and J. C. Gaskins was named to prepare a budget for the new year.

The new president has been active in club work for a number of years having served on important committees as well as filling the place of president during the illness of Mr. Fleischmann last year. He is a tobaccoist and well known in this part of the state.

YOUTH BREAKS ARM IN FALL

Thad Nobles, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Nobles, who reside several miles northwest of Greenville, was confined in the hospital here today suffering from a broken arm.

The young man in some unknown way, tripped and fell while playing on a cart load of watermelons at his home. He was immediately rushed to the hospital for medical attention.

R. A. TYSON LAID TO REST

Final Rites For Pioneer Business Man Held Here Yesterday Afternoon

Funeral services for Richard Albert Tyson, 77, organizer of the first bank in Pitt county, were conducted from his late home yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock and burial was made in the Cherry Hill cemetery.

The final rites were conducted by Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of Memorial Baptist church.

A large crowd of sorrowing friends and relatives attended the funeral and a great mass of flowers told of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Mr. Tyson died Monday at noon after critical illness of a week. He had been in failing health for several months and little hope was held out for his recovery when his condition took a turn for the worse.

Born on a plantation in the Farmville community, Mr. Tyson moved to Greenville during his young manhood.

PITT BUDGET TO BE SLASHED DURING 1933

Taxpayers Expected To Be Saved $50,000 As Result Of Economy Of Board

In spite of the fact that they are faced with a $12,000,000 reduction in valuation for the 1933-34 fiscal year, the Board of County Commissioners today had turned their attention to saving taxpayers $50,000 during the year, it was stated at the office of John Coward, county auditor.

The saving was announced after the commissioners met here Monday to go over a tentative budget for the new year and to discuss ways and means for slicing the general expenses of government during the new year.

Although the budget was not definitely accepted, the commissioners were to meet here during the latter part of the month to okay it. They will also decide on the tax rate at that time.

The saving will be effected, Mr. Coward said, through reducing operating expenses about 15 per cent and the state taking over the operation of schools, with exception of maintenance and vocational training. The debt service probably will be increased about per cent.

The pronounced slump in valuations is the result of the 33.13 per cent horizontal reduction recently made by the county in compliance with action of the last session of the General Assembly. It is the largest drop in valuations in many a year and the commissioners have been forced to take some unusual steps in the operation of government to make up for the shortage.

The estimated total valuation this year is $26,000,000 as compared with $38,000,000 for the previous year, or a drop of $12,000,000.

The budget was the only thing discussed with exception of usual routine business.

RUSH WORK AFTER RETURN FROM OUTING

Cabinet Officer Called to White House to Study Economic Situation; Delegation At London Wired to Keep Things Moving if Possible; Fresh Information Awaited

Washington, July 5—(AP)—President Roosevelt today lifted every ounce of force behind the domestic recovery campaign after messaging the American delegation to stand for continuance of the London conference.

Back in the White House from more than two weeks on the open seas, the president immediately studied reports from London and requests for fresh instructions.

Before going to bed last night he dispatched a message telling the delegation to use every means to keep the deadlocked parley going.

There was no intimation at the White House of any modification in his plan against immediate stabilization of currencies.

Cabinet officers got called to report today to the president.

HEARING ON TAXING OF LAND BANK CONTINUED

Elizabeth City, July 5—(AP)—A hearing before Federal Judge J. M. Meekins on a temporary injunction obtained by the Atlantic Joint Stock Land Bank to restrain the Wake County Board of Commissioners from assessing and collecting taxes on the capital stock was continued today until July 24.

A. D. MacLean, counsel for the bank, set forth the bank's contentions and W. L. Spencer of the county's counsel stated that in absence of county Attorney J. W. Bunn by reason of a referee's hearing in Raleigh he was not ready to present the county's case.

DALTON TO PRESIDE AT HIGH POINT EXERCISES

High Point, July 5—James A. Farley, postmaster general of the United States, will head the list of notables coming to High Point Thursday for the afternoon dedication of this city's new Federal building, a project into which Uncle Sam has poured $420,000.

The exercises here, over which Carter Dalton will preside, will follow a similar service at Greensboro and will open with a luncheon at the Sheraton Hotel in honor of Mr. Farley and the other distinguished guests of the city for the occasion.

DURHAM HAS GOOD GAIN IN BANK DEPOSITS

Durham, July 4—Durham was one of only six cities in the fifth federal reserve district which showed increases in bank deposits for the five-week period ending June 15, reserve headquarters in Richmond have announced.

Durham showed an increase of 24.3 per cent, being topped only by Greenville, S. C., with 35.5 per cent. Twenty-three cities showed an average decrease of 11.7 per cent, a decline of $112,715,000 during the period.

Other cities reporting increases were Winston-Salem 17.2 per cent; Charlotte 10.4 per cent; Danville, Va., 8 per cent; and Charleston, W. Va., 3 per cent.

Durham debits for the period ending June 15 were $21,834,000; loans for the period ending May 10, 1933 were $20,159,000; and for the period ending June 15, 1932, were $17,199,000.

Rain Helps Crops

Tarboro, July 5—With recent heavy rains, filling the earth with moisture, all crops are showing marked improvement in all parts of the county. During the dry spell some farmers found it necessary to cure some of their tobacco in order to save it.

SYNOPSIS: The fact that she has met the light-minded Bernie Boyd in the big London hotel where she is staying with her mother and step-father makes George Bancroft think all the more of Bernie's husband Nicholas. For before Nicholas left for Germany and an operation that may cure the scarred face that has ended his career as a movie star, he let George know that he cares for her. George obtains for Nelly Foster a job as maid to Bernie; she also has learned Nicholas' address in Germany and sits down to write him a letter.

Chapter 32
LOVE LETTER

George had never written a love letter in her life, and she did not know that she was writing one now as she carefully dipped her pen in the ink and began her letter to Nicholas Boyd with the very circumspect words "Dear Mr. Boyd."

"Perhaps he would understand that in her heart she was really saying "Darling Nicholas," she thought hopefully as she held her charming head a little on one side and stared down at the words.

"Never show your true feelings to a man," Evelyn had said. "And if you want to be happy, never love a man as well as he loves you."

George sighed and went on with her task.

"I thought perhaps you would write to me. As you haven't, I am writing a little note to say that I hope you are quite well. Mrs. Boyd is staying in this hotel, and I think she is beautiful. She was very nice to me, too, when Evelyn introduced us. They came over on the same ship, you know. I did not tell her I knew you as I was not sure if you would like me to."

"Germany seems a long way off, and if you feel a little lonely, perhaps this letter will cheer you up. I think about you a great deal, and wonder how you are. I suppose I am having a good time. I go about a great deal to dinners and lunch parties and theatres; I haven't been to the pictures at all since you went away."

"I've got lots of new frocks and I am much better looking than I used to be, though Evelyn says it is the clothes and not me at all."

"Tonight I am going to a dance with Clifford Asher, the man I told you about. He is very kind and I think he rather likes me, but I don't care for him at all; not in that way. I suppose it sounds unkind, but I don't mean to be."

"When are you coming back? If you would just send a post-card and give me some idea, I should be very pleased. I hope you will not be tired of reading this letter; perhaps I had better stop, but I wanted you to know that I haven't changed because you are so far away. Love from Robin."

And presently she added yet another message.

"P. P. S.—I've got a new evening dress, a red one like the one you liked on the boat."

Yes, she had chosen it as nearly as possible the same color as the one Nicholas had remarked about; she would wear it when he came home, if she saw him.

And then hard on that thought came the sudden terrifying knowledge that she might never see him again.

Perhaps, she thought, he never wants to see me again. For certainly she could not recall even one instance where Nicholas had taken the initiative in their relationship; always it had been she who made the advances, and he who hung back.

George supposed that making those advances would be classed by Evelyn as "conduct unbecoming a lady." Well, perhaps it was, but still she did not regret her actions. She would do exactly the same things over again, for deep inside her she realized that her course had been as much dictated (at least at first) by pity as by anything else. Nicholas had so determinedly refused to see the brighter side of his future.

"Keep your face to the sunshine and the shadows will fall behind you." The words floated into her mind with vague comfort; words which she had once seen written on an old sundial in the vicarage garden at home. George was not on visiting terms at the vicarage, but she had once gone there with Mrs. Spears when that lady had been officiating at the refreshment stall at a bazaar.

George liked the words; she smiled suddenly, lifting her eyes to the sunshine out in the wind-swept street, a strange little feeling of peace and happiness stealing into her heart.

She would keep her face steadily always to the sunshine and then no harm could come to Nicholas; she almost felt as if the magic bridge between herself and Germany were completed.

The door opened suddenly behind her and Evelyn came in.

He made a helpless gesture with his hands. "It's such a noise. I can't talk to you."

"It's quiet enough here. What do you want to tell me? Is anything the matter?"

He turned his head to her again his eyes angry.

"Yes," he said. "I love you, and I know you don't care a hang about me that's what's the matter."

George stared at him, and her heart beats quickened.

"You mean... you want to marry me?" she asked.

"Yes."

He moved his chair a little nearer to her round the table.

"I know you don't care for me; but you like me a little, don't you?"

"I like you a great deal."

"Then couldn't you? I mean, won't you?"

"I don't love you," George said.

"I know, but lots of girls marry fellows and get to love them afterwards."

There was a little silence, then George said:

"Not if they love someone else—do they?"

"Yes."

There was an uncertain note in her voice.

Clifford laughed harshly.

"Do you love someone else?"

"Yes."

"Someone who won't marry you?"

"He can't. He's married."

"I don't think so," George said truthfully, and the more firmly. "No I'm quite sure he wouldn't."

"And you're going on all your life hankering after a fellow who doesn't care for you?"

"It's not hankering," George said. "I'm quite happy; at least I think I am."

"Do I know him?"

"No."

"Do you ever see him?"

"I haven't, not for a long time. At least it seemed a long time," she added wistfully.

"And you're content to go on, hoping that some day he will change his mind?"

"I don't think about it like that." Clifford laid his hand over hers.

"Look here," he said "I think I understand you. You live in the clouds—and dream. Aren't you dreaming now about this fellow?—Just imagining that you love him? You must want a home of your own, and a husband. All girls do. It'll be good to you, George. You must know that and I'm not badly off."

"If you were it wouldn't matter, if I loved you," George said.

He gave a little exclamation of pain.

"You never know a man till you've lived with him," Clifford said almost roughly. "You can't know me or how good I'd be to you until you try, getting engaged to me and see how we get on. Lots of girls experiment like that, and I think it's only fair they should. If you find you don't like me—"

"But I do like you."

She listened to him apathetically with a feeling of tears in her heart.

Why should the wrong voice always say such beautiful things? "Do you mind if we go soon? I can't stick this any longer."

"We'll go as soon as you like," George said. She was feeling very miserable; it was bad enough to be unhappy herself, but to know that someone else was unhappy on her account made things a thousand times harder, especially someone who had been a kind friend.

They said goodnight to their hostess, George pleading a headache.

"I haven't really got one," she told Clifford as they went out to his car. "But it seemed unkind to leave without some real reason."

"She probably that that it was just an excuse to get away with me," he answered unkindly.

"I don't mind what she thinks," George said serenely.

They drove away in silence. It was a cold clear night with a pale moon which looked as if someone had unkindly given it a punch on the cheek. George looked at it and remembered that the same moon was shining down on Germany and on the hospital where Nicholas Boyd lay. Was he in much pain?

She clasped her hand closely together, telling herself that she ought to be there with him. What was it he had once said to her? "Someone who, perhaps quite unintentionally, lays a gentle hand on your soul."

The memory of these words was like something warm wrapped around her, and for a moment she closed her eyes.

Clifford spoke suddenly.

"I suppose I shan't be seeing you again."

"Oh why not?"

"You don't want me."

George wished she could say "yes I do" and really mean it. It would be wonderful if she could return this man's love, to want him and to have him for her own, but she knew it was not possible.

"Can't we still be friends?" she pleaded.

He laughed mirthlessly.

"All girls say that when they turn a chap down."

He pulled the car about into a garage.

"I've got to get some gasoline."

He left her banging the door behind him as he got out.

It made George remember Edward Bancroft; he was so fond of banging doors, and he banged them so eloquently.

She smiled faintly, looking backwards at her life with him.

Would she ever go back to it? And if so, would she mind very much?

Clifford was talking to the garage man; she watched him with far away eyes.

He was good to look at, strong reliable; surely some day he would meet a girl who would care for him as he deserved?

Just now he looked unhappy. There was a frowning line of pain between his kind eyes, a line which she had unwittingly brought there.

ently postponed, but meantime the discussion had become so public that the General found it desirable to issue a statement saying all was harmonious.

Naturally, the officials in charge of this project are themselves somewhat vague in their minds about some of the details.

As the first hearings got under way on the tariff code, both labor and capital seemed to sense suddenly what powerful precedents might be created, and the atmosphere became very tense.

Meantime, the situation as to the London economic conference could hardly have been more confused than it was. The state department stood on the sidelines while the special envoys rushed between the Amberjack and London, and Bernard Baruch appeared in Washington with some sort of commission extraordinary.

Meantime, too, patronage (which only the President could dispense) was causing Postmaster General Farley more and more trouble, with some of the democrats in congress almost frantic in their demands for jobs for constituents. The farm administration ran into new difficulties, and the public works program was swamped with requests.

A tremor of deep human tragedy ran through the ranks of government workers generally as the economy measures began to sweep from the payroll hundreds who could not get employment elsewhere.

"Not in 50 years," said the Washington Evening Star, "has there been so much uncertainty and anxiety on the part of government employes."

In The Backwash

Out of it all came new rumors of impending Cabinet resignations. Hull, Woodin, Cummings and others, it was whispered, would get out soon. But none of these reports carried much conviction; the report most widely believed was that the most widely believed was that they be serene again on the Potomac.

FARM REAL ESTATE VALUES

Farm real estate in North Carolina is worth 86 per cent as much as it was during the period from 1912-1914. The average for all the states is 73 per cent of the value twenty years ago.

If we go back to 1920 we find farm real estate values in North Carolina at 223 compared with an index of 100 for the period of 1912-1914. The index was higher in only one other state. In other words land values in North Carolina rose much more rapidly during the World War period than for the Nation as a whole. Also there has been a greater relative decline in farm real estate values in North Carolina than for the Nation as a whole. The following table gives the index of farm real estate values for North Carolina taking the years 1912 to 1914 as 100:

Year	Index	Year	Index
1929	223	1920	165
1925	187	1930	158

New England is the only area where the present value of farm real estate averages higher than twenty years ago. The average index for the six New England states is 105.

The areas that have suffered the more severe declines in farm real estate values are the East North Central and West North Central states, the region from Ohio to North Dakota and south to Kansas and Missouri. This is the region that has suffered the largest declines in farm income.

The Southern states experienced rapid inflation in land values during the World War, and have experienced severe declines since 1920. However, the index today is above the national average and, except for South Carolina and Georgia which have suffered severe reverses, the index for the Southern states is considerably above the national average.—(University News Letter).

She looked away from him with a conscience-stricken feeling.

The street seemed very deserted; a dog rummaged about in the opposite gutter for a bone, and a woman had just come out of a little shop where tobacco and newspapers and sweets were sold, and was standing looking up at the moon.

George wondered if her thoughts were sad too; if somewhere in the world there was somebody she would like to have been with and was not allowed to by Life, or Fate, or whatever power it was that ordained things.

The little shop looked peaceful enough with its drawn blinds and dime light shining through the crack and yet it was impossible to tell what sorrow and tragedy lived behind its walls.

She was in a mood to notice details. Idly she picked up a scrap of paper lying on the seat beside her; a torn fragment from what was probably the afternoon paper.

She looked at it with vague interest, then suddenly she caught her breath with a sharp sound of pain.

Clifford glanced at her as he returned to the car.

"What's the matter?" he asked struck by the intensity of her gaze.

George did not answer him. She felt as if the world and all solid things had floated away from her, leaving her giddy and agonized, with only the words she had read on the scrap of paper blazoned before her in letters of fire.

The WORLD of STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES

Do lands bordering the South China sea and the Gulf of Siam have the advantages of airmail? Perhaps most persons would be inclined to answer "no" picturing life in those remote countries as slow-moving, indolent, keyed to the speed of a not so fast native boat.

But stamp collectors now know the answer is "yes" for Indo-China, compromise several French possessions, is issuing a series of 14 airmail stamps, ranging in value from 1 cent to 10 piastres.

Unfortunately for those who like to collect distant scenes, the design picture only a monoplane. Previous issues, however, have depicted natives at work and at rest, temples and ruins.

A 7-Billion Issue

About 7,000,000,000 2-cent stamps will be issued by the United States during July, the post office department estimates, as the result of orders for the denomination caused by the return to the 2-cent rate for local postage.

The 2-cent Arbor day stamp and the 2-cent George Washington bicentennial stamps and envelopes are being used to fill the first orders. And the presses are busy turning out additional stamps of the 1933 issue, showing the head of the first President.

"Mourning Stamps"

Because the use of black-edged envelopes and notepaper is not customary in Finland, the postal authorities are selling "mourning stamps" to enable letter writers to show that they are in mourning.

The stamps are black with a white flower in the center and cost one cent each. Ordinary stamps of the usual value must also be stuck on the envelope.

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTES

My reason for liking Luckies is strictly personal

After all—since I smoke quite a number of cigarettes each day—don't you think it's just as well that I lean in the right direction? Perhaps you'd call my reason for liking "Toasting" the assurance of purity it gives me—for Luckies come in rather close personal contact with me, you know. Just knowing that each puff of Lucky smoke I draw in is pure—it makes the pleasure of fragrant toasted tobacco that much greater. Certainly, purity never hurt anyone! And besides—"Luckies Please!"

Put Your Liver To Work—Make This Test

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes your stomach and bowels plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile food doesn't digest properly—it just ferments and decays—constipation, gas, sour stomach, headaches and nervousness follow.

Don't be misled. Calomel, salts, pills, mineral waters, laxative pills, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile, Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of their effect—you feel stronger, healthier, happier—life and color return to faded eyes and cheeks—appetite and digestion improve rapidly.

Only 60c for a full 80-day treatment. At your druggist, or write G. F. Wills, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Vacancies Announced by Marines

A limited number of applicants will be selected for enlistment in the United States Marine Corps at the recruiting office, Post Office Bldg., Savannah, Ga., during the month of July.

The Marine Corps maintains high standards of educational and physical qualifications of those who are selected for enlistment. Only young men of good moral character are accepted for enlistment whose educational qualifications are equivalent to those of a graduate of a high school.

Many Marines are selected for sea duty on board battleships and cruisers and are given splendid opportunity for travel. During an enlistment one will travel thousands of miles and will visit many strange and interesting lands.

Reedy Branch News

Considering the extremely hot weather our attendance was splendid at Sunday School. We went over 100 Sunday. We are proud to see so many people becoming interested and hope to see it continue growing from time to time. Please let's not stop but put forth every effort. If each member will bring some one along with them we can enlarge our work greatly and have a Sunday school to be proud of, also after the contest closes the third Sunday in August. May we strive hard to hold every member, we can if we try by speaking words of encouragement and cheer. Those who failed to hear Mrs. Spillman certainly missed something worth while. Her subject was based upon True Leadership.

Immanuel Baptist Church. There will be prayer services at Immanuel Baptist Church this evening at eight o'clock, conducted by W. O. Bilbro. The public is cordially invited.

giving Joshua as a splendid character to follow that we might become better leaders today. I am sure every one can say he talks with thorough enjoyment and we all give her a hearty welcome to be with us again.

We had our pastor, Rev. J. C. Moye and family Sunday. He preached a splendid sermon on Being a Christian. The life will show for itself. He tried hard to impress upon each one to do little things that will count much in the end, especially if we know of a weak brother to try in some way to help encourage him and place a strong arm of protection around him, to lead him gently through the dark days to the light again. It is those things that people should wake up and take an inventory once in a while to see just where they are standing. Many mothers fail to do their most important duty, the nation depends on them, and where are we standing today? Rev. Moye said some looked upon mothers as having a difficult place to fill, often deprived of pleasure. But the beautiful thought that God would in the end bless them. We should thank Him any carry our burdens with a smile and gather real joy and pleasure out of life, rather than looking upon life with a frown. Then after living a Christian life we can look forward to the great reward.

Rev. J. C. Moye's a splendid preacher. Come and hear him for yourself. He brings his good wife and little girls who add so much to the service by bringing us messages in song. We greatly enjoy having them. We invite all who will to be with us during our morning service.

Mrs. Frank James attended the picnic at Public Landing Friday given by the Methodist and Episcopal Sunday schools of Winterville.

Miss Louise Jackson of Grifton, is visiting her cousin Mrs. Charlie Little.

Mrs. Lloyd Mills who has been ill the past week is much better at this time.

The New Ford V-8 Stands Out When Compared With High-Priced Cars For Beauty, Power, Smoothness, and Roadability—and With the Low-Priced Field For Economy of Operation

The model 40 Ford V-8 responds with powerful smoothness to the constant demands for terrific speed. Compare it at 25 miles per hour, 40 miles, 50 miles or 80 miles per hour. YOU WILL FIND THAT NO OTHER AUTOMOBILE USES LESS OIL OR GASOLINE AND REQUIRES AS LITTLE MECHANICAL ATTENTION

Make No Compromise Demand the Best !!!

FOR SAFETY: Steel constructed bodies completely insulated for body noise.

X-Type frame (for rigidity and safety under all conditions.

Power to go and brakes that will stop 186 square inches braking surface).

Safety Glass in windshield in standard models, safety glass all around in Deluxe models.

FOR COMFORT: 112-inch wheelbase and the short V-8 engine gives the same body base and inside body dimensions as any car of 118-inch wheelbase. The New Ford V-8 is large enough yet not BIG.

Examine the upholstery and seat backs and springs. Houdaille Automatic, double acting, self-adjusting shock absorbers together with the new designed transverse spring take all the bumps out of the road.

FOR ECONOMY: No Car operates for less cost to the owner and the high gasoline mileage of the New Ford V-8 is amazing. Its low use (no consumption) of oil is insignificant. The V-type principle of building an eight has proven its worth in low maintenance costs.

FOR PERFORMANCE: In the New Ford V-8 you have a motor that actually develops 75 horse power, gives you speeds from 2 or 3 miles per hour to well above 80 in high gear, and from a standing start in second to approximately 60 miles per hour. You have to drive the new Ford to appreciate its marvelous performance. Smoothness that only an eight can give, and acceleration that can not be equaled in any car on the American market. The new Ford ratio of approximately 34 pounds of weight to each horsepower gives you performance others may strive for but never attain. Nothing less than eight cylinders can give this performance.

FOR APPEARANCE: Look the New Ford V-8 over and compare it with any car for Beauty, Lines and Modern Style. See the New Ford V-8.

There is left on the American Market but two manufacturers of importance who persist in the manufacture of a SIX, all others have changed to an EIGHT—WHY??

Build Up that Skinny Child!

Enrich His Impoverished Blood

Sickly, weak, underweight children are usually lacking in rich, red blood. When blood becomes poor, a child becomes run down. Already weak, he loses appetite, which makes him still weaker. Take no chances on a child gaining strength by himself. Start giving him Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic right away. This famous tonic contains both iron and red blood while quinine tends to purify the blood. In other words, you get two effects in Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

Put your child on this time-proven tonic for a few days and see the difference it makes in him. Good appetite, lots of pep and energy and red roses in his cheeks. Children like Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic and take it eagerly. It is absolutely harmless and has been a reliable family medicine for half a century. Get a bottle today at any store.

GRIMESLAND SPLITS FOURTH OF JULY BILL

Grimesland and Belhaven split fifty-fifty in a Fourth of July double header played at Grimesland and Belhaven in the morning and afternoon. Large crowds attended both games.

Grimesland lost to Belhaven, 3-2 in the morning game at Belhaven, and won in the afternoon at Grimesland to the tune of 9 to 5.

Two errors cost Grimesland the morning game when they came with men on the paths. Simmons featured with the stick for Belhaven accounting for a home run.

Hudson and Fuller were the batteries for Belhaven in the morning and Lindsay and Bullock for Grimesland.

In the afternoon Fleming and Lindsay starred with the stick for Grimesland, each accounting for circuit drives. Two men were on the paths when Lindsay drove the ball over the fence.

Page and Butler formed the battery for Belhaven in the afternoon and Anderelli and Bullock for Grimesland.

Greenville And Ayden Split Double Bill With Locals Still Leading

Fourth of July games failed to change the status of any of the Coastal Plain League clubs and Greenville today continued to hold a half game lead of the standing of clubs column.

Greenville and Ayden, who for the last several weeks have been taking turns in leading the race, broke even in the holiday double bill and Snow Hill and Kinston did the same.

Yesterday morning Ayden trounced Greenville 6-0 at Ayden and Snow Hill trimmed Kinston 12-7 at Snow Hill. In the afternoon Greenville trounced Ayden 13-2 while Kinston took Snow Hill in tow 19-1.

The games between Ayden and Greenville provided holiday crowds with the finest pitching exhibitions probably ever seen on the two diamonds. Flythe held Greenville to three widely scattered hits in the morning game, and Dean held Ayden to the same number in the afternoon. Flythe was credited with 9 strikeouts and Dean 11.

By all rights Lefty Dean should have let Ayden down with nine goosings, but a series of errors by his teammates in the fourth enabled the visitors to chalk up their only runs of the game. The three hits were so widely scattered they failed to play any part in the scoring.

Quiet and inactive during the morning hours, Greenville "murderers' row" got busy in the afternoon and accounted for a total of 17 safeties, several of which counted for doubles, triples and home runs.

Lang, fleet-footed second baseman, was credited with the circuit clout, the ball landing in deep center and bouncing into the bleachers where the fielder made a frantic attempt to recover it as Lang raced home, sending a runner or so ahead of him.

Briggs and Johnson pitched for Ayden, the former being sent to the showers in the second frame when Greenville renewed the batting attack started in the first frame.

The locals virtually put the game on ice in the first frame by a terrific batting attack that netted 7 markers. They scored another in the second, two in the fifth, one in the sixth and three in the eighth.

In addition to pitching air-tight ball throughout the game, Dean more than did his part at bat. Out of five trips to the plate he accounted for four hits—a triple, two

Stock Market

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Financial markets returned from their Fourth of July celebration today in a rather subdued spirit attended by realizing in most departments.

While stocks and staples generally weathered the cashing in procedure with equanimity there were some noticeable gaps at times in the price ranges of shares and grains.

Copper and alcoholic beverages on the whole gave the best performance with several specialties out of the plodding parade. There was little buoyancy in any group. Wheat, corn and rye had their ups and downs but showed a steady tendency in some early relaxes. The dollar slumped. Copper was up, National distillers advanced seven point before realizing. Gains of reactions to nearly a point were shown by Anaconda, Kennecott, and American smelting.

Allied Chemical dropped about four points while U. S. Steel, Columbian, Carboon, American Telephone, Case, American Can, Westinghouse and a number of others were off one to two points.

Figures of Charles (Pop) Foster, Mc Larnin's manager, Pop is there to "look after my boy Jimmy".

Rather an asset to the ranks of listanias title holders—Old Pop Foster with his high pitched voice, and quiet unassuming Jimmy McLarnin.

Jimmy McLarnin, the world's new waterweight champion, is greatly disturbed, notes Paul Zimmerman, one of our eagle-eyed coast scouts.

It isn't the question of a guarantee if and when he makes the first defense of the fistic crown and he doesn't seem to be particularly worried as to who his opponent might be.

The twenty-five-year-old Irish youth from Vancouver, B. C., is troubled over his game of golf.

"I always have difficulty with my shots after I've trained for a fight," bemoaned the genial Jimmy.

"It's my wrists. When you fight you have to keep your wrists rigid or a bone is apt to snap and then you can't loosen them up like you should for golf shots.

Jimmy also believes the natural let-down after the prolonged period of mental strain has something to do with his golf game going to pieces around him.

Forgets Fighting

Golf is a serious business with McLarnin. On the course he is non-committal about fighting. He'd just as soon not mix pleasure with his vocation, although his natural courtship prompts him to tolerate talk of boxing and fights.

He'd much rather enter a discussion of what makes for hooks on the fairways than hooks in the ring, and admits both bother him no end.

Right now, while promoters the country over are discussing title matches for him, McLarnin is very busy on the golf courses of Southern California, trying to get down to his usual scores in the low eighties and high seventies.

"Let Pop" worry about the matches," grinned Jimmy the other day when he was caught in the act of "dissipation" to the extent of ice cream and a glass of milk before a tour of the links.

"It's great to forget about training and diet and all that sort of thing," he confided, as he dipped deep into the ice cream. "You can eat anything you want."

Jimmy apparently didn't want the cookies that came with the frozen cream.

Fistiana's Gain

On the course he is an ideal partner, sympathizing with others over unfortunate lies and ill directed shots and apologizing for his own mistakes.

New York Cotton

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady unchanged to 16 points advance on higher Liverpool cables and a further decline in the dollar but met realizing.

Profit taking on the opening advance was prompted by news of the tropical storm moving toward the Louisiana coast.

After selling out to 10.75 at the start October broke 10.52 or 9 points below Monday's close but offerings were taken by trade and commission house buying at the decline and the market was fairly steady at the end of the first half hour.

October was still seeling around 10.53 and the general list was about 5 to 10 net lower.

Futures closed barely steady 17 to 22 slower. Spots quiet middling 10.25.

Confab Nears End

London, July 5.—(AP)—The world economic conference will virtually be wound up tomorrow, according to highest authorities barring some eleventh hour developments.

The steering committee of the conference meets tomorrow to consider a proposal for adjournment or recess made by Henry Collin, the Dutch prime minister, and sader of the gold block countries. Even the American delegation tonight agreed that a recess was desirable.

While expectation for dispersion of the great conclave was becoming uncertain Cordell Hull prepared a statement explaining why the American position and showed it to Ramsay MacDonald, chairman of the conference.

Greensboro, July 5.—(AP)—A lone bandit held up T. T. McIver cashier of the Colonial Ice Company on a downtown street here today, for a 1 him at the pistol point to drive his car several blocks and then fled with $2,000, the cashier was taking to a bank.

McIver said the man stepped into his car, put the pistol next to his leg and told him to drive on.

The cashier said he was afraid to look around and did not know whether the bandit was white or colored.

After driving several blocks the man shoved the cashier from the car and fled.

Quinn-Miller & Company, Greenville, N. C.

Gentlemen:

We have yours of the 1st with reference to your order on file, which has not been acknowledged on account of the condition of the textile industry and the very unsatisfactory condition of labor, which, no doubt, you are familiar with.

We find, however, that we can accept the first three items as per formal acknowledgement attached, but as the Mohair mills are refusing to fill certain orders, on account of labor conditions, this makes it impossible for us to maintain our old prices, in fact, we withdrew our line from the market two weeks ago, until prices become more settled. Just as soon as conditions are more satisfactory, we shall be glad to have your business on any of our line. Shipment of the three pieces will be forwarded the latter part of this week or the first of next, provided it is satisfactory with you to ship these three pieces and leave off the No. 205 suite covered by the same order. Self-addressed stamped envelope enclosed for your convenience in confirming this part of the order, but please be advised that there will be a sharp advance on future shipments of any and all our line. Material and labor have been advancing so fast recently that we are not in position to say just what this advance will be, but trust that you will visit our space during the High Point Market and give us a chance to show you our entire line and give our very best prices.

Regretting these conditions and awaiting to hear from you, we are,

Yours very truly,
KEY CITY FURNITURE COMPANY,
By J. C. Caudill.

P. S.—This is not the last advance, these will come from time to time. Maybe in another week. BUY NOW. We will offer you authority on merchandise, which we trust you will appreciate.
