STEINHARDT SENT OVER TO STUDY RUSSIA

Action Follows Approval of $4,000,000 Loan To Advance And Finance Sale of Cotton to Russia; Announcement of the Mission of Minister To Sweden Made From the White House

Washington, July 6—(AP)—The United States is going to make an official study of the problem involved in recognition of Soviet Russia. Today Lawrence Steinhardt, minister to Sweden, started to Europe for that study. The announcement of his mission was made at the White House. Steinhardt held that it added force to the argument that America's friendly relations might bring official recognition of the land of communists. Just a few days ago the Reconstruction Corporation's quasi-federal agency, with the approval of President Roosevelt, announced loans of around $4,000,000 to advance and finance the sale of cotton in Russia.

PROBE DEATH OF S. C. NEGRO

State Constables Take Part in Probe of Slaying of Black Near Clinton

Clinton, S. C., July 6—(AP)—State constables joined local authorities in an investigation today of the slaying of Norris Denby, 35-year-old negro described by Governor Blackwood as a "murder and not a lynching." Some 12 hours after being taken from a small town jail by four unknown white men, the negro's body was found in a church yard, seven miles from here. After a coroner's jury was empaneled and viewed the body an inquest was postponed until next week as officers sought additional evidence.

Game Of Diplomacy Marks London Confab

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)
Will the much-advertised London economic negotiation turn out, after all, to be only "another conference," writing nothing in the book of history but great quantities of high-sounding, empty words? Many indications point in that direction. The dispatches from London speak wearily of "crisis" and "collapse." In Washington a note of pessimism runs strongly through the "off the record" hints of public men. Yet it never is safe in such matters to jump at conclusions. The very uniformity of the outward show of pessimism at Washington is, to some, a matter of suspicion. The attitude is notably in contrast with the usual "Pollyanna" predictions that each new conference heralds the millennium; there must be a reason for it somewhere. The one perfectly patent thing is that a very deep game of diplomacy is in progress—so deep that it would be a very brave man who

Women Will Fight Repeal

Milwaukee, Wis., July 6—(AP)—The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union faced a new year today determined to fight to the last block repeal of the 18th Amendment and prepared even to go to the length of supporting a new political party to advance the dry cause.

HOPE TO END COTTON DRIVE BY SATURDAY

Every Ounce of Power Used in Federal Reduction Campaign In Pitt

Every ounce of power was being used today to conclude the Federal cotton production control campaign in this county by the end of the week. This information was given out this morning at the office of E. F. Arnold, farm director, who is in charge of the campaign in this county. Forty-odd growers had been assigned the task of visiting farmers who have not signed the remainder of the week, and Mr. Arnold was hopeful that 6,000 quota for this county would be reached by nightfall Saturday. Four hundred contracts had been signed when workers resumed operations this morning, and in view of the fact that some of the largest growers had not added their signatures to the contracts, led campaign workers to believe their goal would be achieved by Saturday. The contracts so far signed ranged all the way from one acre to one hundred acres. Mr. Arnold said, T. Nicholas McLawhorn, of Swift Creek, goes the honor of signing for the greatest number of acres. His contract calls for 100 acres. R. L. Davis, of Farmville, takes second place having signed to plow up 64 acres in this county. Mr. Davis owns considerable property in Greene county also, and it was stated he had signed to plow up considerable cotton in that area. Mr. Arnold said some of the largest farm operators of the county had been out of the city since receipt of the contract blanks the first of the week but were expected to return in time to add their signatures by the end of the week. If the campaign momentum continues, the farm director believes from 700 to 1,000 blanks will be signed by Saturday which will probably give Pitt county the required number of acres. Farmers will be paid around $12 and acre and given 6 cents a pound option on all cotton plowed up under the government plan to take at least three million bales of the staple out of cultivation this year. The plan was inaugurated for the purpose of relieving the congested market and thereby boosting the price situation. Farmers who have not signed were urged by Mr. Arnold to get in touch with the field workers this week and do their part in the federal campaign to improve the economic situation of the growers of the south land.

Could The World Live Without The U. S.?

By FRANK I. WELLES
Washington — (AP)—How well could the rest of the world get along without the United States? The economic sees that question linked to the consideration of the commercial advantages accruing to foreign nations that buy American goods. Leading American commodities the world would have difficulty in doing without and their 1932 volume and value are:

Product	Value
Meat Products, Animal Oils and Fats	$ 54,732,000
Canned Fruits and Vegetables	290,150,000 lbs. 19,887,000
Apples	5,640,000 bbls. 22,417,000
Raw Tobacco	411,159,000 65,902,000
Raw Cotton	4,803,000,000 lbs. 345,165,000
Sawed Timber, Boards, Planks, Etc.	1,132,000,000 b. ft. 26,195,000
Petroleum and Products	85,787,000 bbls. 170,639,000
Motion Picture Films	274,984,000 lin. ft. 6,317,000
Agricultural Machinery	18,064 implements 3,881,000
Motor Vehicles	71,401 in number 35,322,000

From the domestic standpoint, dwindling exports since 1920 and the anxiety of the London economic conference over international trade barriers has raised the question of this country's future place in commerce. Charts by the department of agriculture show that in 1932 there were only 15 cargo ships en route to Europe for every 20 before the war and every 77 during the 1920 peak. It was said at the department of commerce that last year's volume and items of export probably represented the lowest point to which foreign nations could cut their American purchases without making expensive substitutes or paying higher prices elsewhere. Elimination of the gold clause in contracts and depreciation of the dollar to a purchasing power more in line with foreign exchange has made American products cheaper in terms of international currencies. Increased exports were aimed at in the devaluation. Artificial manipulation of trade, economists hold, has walled up want in most important countries and burdensome surpluses in exporting countries. Germany, once a chief market for American lard has a virtual embargo on the product because of an import tax approximating $10 per hundredweight. The idea is to protect the German producer, but trade reports say the country is short of supplies, paying comparatively prohibitory prices or using substitutes. When Liverpool was flooded with 60-cent wheat, continental Europeans were paying around $150 a bushel for their native product and the United States went out of the market. (Continued on page six)

ALDERMEN TO FIX SALARIES

Election of City Employees to be Considered at Meeting Tonight

Fixing of salaries for the new year and election of city employees will mark the first meeting of the new fiscal year of the Board of Aldermen tonight. The board at a special meeting the first of the month installed members who won out in the last city election, and re-elected heads of the various departments of government. Fire and police employees were to come up for consideration tonight and indications were that the two departments would remain intact. The city wound up the old year with a slate clean from a financial standpoint, having lived within the budget and met all obligations during the year. The new budget will not come up for consideration tonight but will probably be taken up at a special session sometime next week or the following week. Economy, which held sway last year will be to the forefront in all deliberations this year. Mayor Flanagan said when he took the oath of office the first of the week, and pressure will again be brought to see that the city again lives within the budget lines.

BANK SHOWS LARGE GAINS

Deposits of Greenville Banking and Trust Co., Increased 43 Per Cent in Year

Happy days are here again! At least, this is reflected in the statement of the Greenville Banking and Trust Company issued for publication today showing a 43 per cent increase in deposits during the past year. The bank, which operates four branches in this immediate section of the state, had deposits of $924,992.34 at the call period June 30, 1932. This had increased to $1,327,342.98 at the call June 30, 1933. The increase ranks among the highest of the state and shows to what extent Greenville has been forging ahead while other sections were talking about hard times. The branches of the local bank are located at Belhaven, Snow Hill, Bethel and Greenville. People who have been talking about prosperity being around the corner for so long, may be assured that it has made the turn and is bounding blithely along the path to all sections of the country, on the basis of the local bank statement and the pick up in business and industry in other parts of the nation.

FARLEY LAUDS PUBLIC MEN OF N. CAROLINA

Postmaster General Paints State as Pioneer of Southern States at Greensboro

Greensboro, July 6—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley, delivering the principal address at the dedication of Greensboro's new federal building today, lauded North Carolina as a "pioneer of southern states." He paid high tribute to the state's "outstanding public officials and citizens, and reiterated his firm stand for prohibition repeal. The Chairman of the Democratic National committee had arrived only a few hours earlier by train to be welcomed by hundreds of citizens and dignitaries. This is his first visit to the state as a speaker. Mr. Farley congratulated Greensboro on "its great record of progress and as a manufacturing center" and pointed to the state as a "pioneer in the southern states in the manufacture of cotton, and said, "I want to congratulate and express my appreciation of your outstanding public officials and citizens who aided in the nomination and election of President Roosevelt and who have given him their support in his effort to rescue the nation from the plight of the depression we have experienced so severely for the last four years." Speaking of prohibition, Mr. Farley reiterated that he is for the repeal of the 18th Amendment. "The president is for repeal and the national party's platform declared for repeal of that amendment. It is my firm belief that repeal will decrease the evil of drinking." He said that the special session of congress was compelled to levy new taxes of $20,000,000 to provide interest charges on bonds to be issued under the national industrial recovery and public works act and that the indicated revenue to the government resulting from the repeal of the 18th Amendment would not be less than $800,000,000 annually.

In connection with the death of one man and the brutal beating of another.

R. L. PATTON NAMED TO HEAD DRY FORCES

Randolph was elected vice-chairman and Eugene Denton was named secretary-treasurer. Approximately 50 persons participated in the meeting, which was under sponsorship of the Burke County Pastor's Association. Speeches were made by M. R. Hillford of Asheville, and George Burnett of Greensboro.

APPOINTED RECEIVER FOR RAGAN BUSINESS

Greensboro, July 6—Tom Gold Jr., High Point attorney, was today named permanent receiver for the affairs of R. R. Ragan, High Point, said to have once been worth $2,000,000 or more. Gold's appointment was made by Judge H. Hoyle Sink, after Gold had made a report as temporary receiver showing Ragan's affairs badly involved. Among other liabilities he is endorser on $314,000 in paper of the Mutual Investment Company, now in bankruptcy. The receiver gave $15,000 bond.

WILL ENTER AT MOUTH OF RIO GRANDE

Caribbean Disturbance Expected to be Accompanied by Terrific Wind; Falling Barometric Pressure Gives Warning Of Storm's Approach; Storm Believed to be Following Course of Two Days Ago

Washington, July 6—(AP)—Falling barometric pressure at Brownsville, Texas, was interpreted by the weather bureau this morning as indicating the tropical disturbance moving in the Caribbean sea not more than six hours from the lower Texas coast. Apparently in the absence of reports from vessels or other data due to the contrary, the season's first Caribbean storm was following a course it set a day or two ago, officials said, and will come in at the mouth of the Rio Grande near Brownsville. It was expected to be accompanied by winds of hurricane force near the center and over a wide area.

THREE FACE KIDNAP TRIAL

Two Men and Woman to be Given Hearing For Attempt to Fleece Lindbergh

Roanoke, Va., July 6—(AP)—A hearing for two men and a woman arrested here last February in connection with an attempt to extort $50,000 from Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was set for this afternoon before United States Commissioner Charles Fox, Jr. Norman Harvey and his wife, Elsie and Joe Brant were arrested by police who lay a trap to catch the extortionists who threatened to kidnap Lindbergh's second child if they were not paid the money. All three are under bond awaiting hearing.

MILL MEN TO MEET AND CONSIDER CODE

Charlotte, July 6—(AP)—Two meetings of cotton textile manufacturers of the South for discussion of the code recently presented under the National Industrial Recovery Act have been called. W. M. McLaurine, secretary and treasurer of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, announced today. Meetings will be held in Atlanta, July 11 and here on July 12. Manufacturers are expected to attend the meeting closest to them. The conferences were called by T. M. Merchant of Greenville, S. C., president of the association.

INSTANTLY KILLED AS CAR LEAVES HIGHWAY

Marshall, July 6—(AP)—Mrs. W. L. Goodwin, of Morganton, was instantly killed near Laurel River yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding ran off the road and turned over twice. Winford, two-year old son of Mrs. Goodwin sustained a fractured skull and is in a serious condition in a hospital here. His three small sisters were bruised and cut. Mr. Goodwin, who was driving the machine, said the car ran off the highway when he took his eyes from the road to move one of the children. He was not injured. The body of Mrs. Goodwin will be sent to Lenoir City, Tenn., from which place the party left this morning. (Continued on page six)

Late News Flashes

Conference Will Continue.
London, July 6—(AP)—The world economic conference will continue but monetary and tariff matters will be excluded, the steering committee of the parley decided this evening. The decision came after a furious battle and was a victory for Cordell Hull, American secretary of state, who on instructions from President Roosevelt had stoutly insisted that the conclave must continue in attempts to solve world problems. France and other members of the European gold block advocated formal conclusions for the major activities of the conference. The morning session of the steering committee lasted three hours and a half but was unable to arrive at a decision. The evening session, however, was comparatively brief, ending in tri- (Continued on page six)

IT'S THE FARMER'S ONLY CHANCE

Ever since the government plan to pay the farmers for reduction of their cotton acreage and give them options on cotton at six cents per pound in lieu of estimated yield removed from production, we have been urging our farmers to take advantage of the offer to the limit. It seems to us that this is the one plan under which the farmer can raise the price of his product by cutting his production and at the same time get paid extra money for cutting down, yet there are some who fail to grasp the real worth of the offer and want to hold to their crop hoping that the other fellow will cut and they will profit by a full crop at an increased price. Just this morning three farmers were discussing the cotton situation in front of the court house here and one of them remarked that his crop was too pretty to plow any of it up, therefore he was not going to sign the government contract. If farmers with this idea in mind would just stop to think a little they would realize the folly of such an attitude for if all the farmers did likewise there would be no crop reduction with the result that the price of cotton would probably be below the cost of production and everybody would lose. Unless a sufficient number of farmers sign the contract the government will not go ahead with the plan and again the farmer will be left with a bag to hold. The wise farmer will take advantage of this opportunity to help himself by signing up at once.

THE SALES TAX MUDDLE

Since Saturday our folks have been paying a sales tax despite their protests, but the bad part of it is that there seems to be no uniform scale by which the charge is made and the tax on some purchases has run as high as 20 per cent to cover the state three per cent sales tax. Saturday and Sunday there were complaints that some of the filling stations were charging one cent tax on each five cents drink or a rate of 20 cents on the dollar. Others were said to be charging nothing on sales of single drinks but making a charge of one cent on each two drinks or 10 per cent. At the chain stores where cigarettes were selling for a dime there was no mention

A New Serial by Ruby M. Ayres

SYNOPSIS: George Bancroft has had his first proposal, and it is from Clifford Asher. But she must tell him that she loves Nicholas Boyd, formerly a film star, and now in Germany in an effort to have removed the scar that has cost him his career. Chagrined, Clifford drives her home. But he stops for gasoline, and George finds a scrap of newspaper in the seat bearing the words "Movie Star Dies Suddenly." She thinks at once of Nicholas, horrified.

Chapter 34 GEORGE'S FRIGHT

For one terrible moment George could not move or speak. She searched the scrap of paper, but only the headline was readable. When Clifford Asher laid a hand on her arm, she came to herself with a little gasp.

"I want an evening paper. Please get me an evening paper," she said in a voiceless whisper.

"A paper—but I can't at this time of night."

She seemed to have grown old all at once, and even her lips were white.

"What's the matter?" he urged again, for she was trying to get out of the car.

"They may have one in the shop over there." Before he could prevent her, she had darted across the road, the long skirt of her white dress fluttering round her.

The woman whom she had noticed before was turning to go indoors again when George spoke to her breathlessly.

"Oh, please, have you got an evening paper?"

The woman turned round and stared.

"No, they're all sold," she said.

"Oh—but haven't you got one—just any paper will do?"

"I'm sorry, but I haven't one left."

Clifford had joined them now, and he took George's arm in a firm grasp.

"What in the world is the matter?" he asked again blankly.

"Nothing," she said.

She stood for a moment staring before her, then she turned and went back with him to the car.

"I just wanted an evening paper," she said almost stupidly.

Clifford laughed rather constrainedly.

"You're a funny kid," Asher said. "You gave me quite a shock. Arnet you well?"

"Yes, quite well," she said with lips that felt as if they were cut in ice.

"Movie Star Dies Suddenly." She said suddenly. "Can't you drive faster?"

"Are you so anxious to be rid of me?"

"I want to get home."

Somewhere in the hotel there would surely be a paper.

"If you're not well," Asher began diffidently, but she cut him short.

"I'm quite well. I'm just tired."

It seemed an eternity until they reached the hotel.

"When shall I see you again?" Asher asked.

"I don't know; I'll write," she was out of the car without his assistance.

"Thank you for taking me," she said dully. "Good night," and she had gone before he could speak.

George fled across the lounge to a porter who was aimlessly staring at a notice pinned to the reception desk.

"Oh, please, have you got an evening paper?"

He turned. "No, Miss; perhaps there's one in the writing room."

She went with him, shaking in every limb.

"Funny," he said, "there don't seem to be one tonight."

George fled away without answering, up the wide stairs to her mother's sitting room.

It was in darkness and she switched on the light with a shaking hand. There must be one somewhere. There simply must.

But for once the sitting room was almost painfully tidy.

She searched everywhere, and then stood still, her hands clasped together, her lips apart.

"Movie Star Dies Suddenly."

She turned and went slowly to her room, slipping out of her pretty frock and leaving it lying in a disregarded heap on the floor.

If Nicholas was dead—well he was beyond her reach forever. She felt as if someone had struck her a crushing blow.

George did not hear the door's quiet opening till someone touched her on the shoulder.

"George, what is the matter?"

She started up, her face drawn and disfigured, her tragic eyes raised to Bishop's tired face. He was wrapped in a dressing gown and his grey hair was all ruffled.

"I heard you crying. I heard you from my room," he said. "What is it? Why do you cry like that?"

There was a reluctant kindness in his voice that reached George's heart through all her misery.

She said with quivering lips: "Have you got an evening paper?"

"A paper—there's one in my room, but why—?" he broke off for a moment, looking at her steadily. Then he said:

"I'll fetch it for you."

George sat huddled up, shivering in every limb. She almost cried out to him to come back, not to tell her the thing which she knew must break her heart, but her lips were too stiff, and she just sat there staring at the open door till presently he returned.

He laid the paper beside her on the bed, but she did not touch it.

"Who is it that's dead?" she asked faintly. "You look and see for me—someone—a famous film star."

Bishop stooped and took the paper in his hand.

"Someone named Paulne Fragnard. It was a car accident in California. Did you know her?"

"No."

There was a little silence, and Bishop laid the paper down again. George leaned her head in her hands; she felt faint. Then Bishop said: "Tell me about it, George. I may be able to help. She tried to say, "You can't, nobody can," only she could not control her lips, then suddenly she knew that he was sitting beside her and that his arm was around her shaking body. "Poor child," he said. "Perhaps we're both lonely." George caught her breath, and for a moment her whirling thoughts steeled. Lonely! This man who seemed to have everything he wanted in the world? She took her hands from before her face and turned to look at him.

STELLA WILLINS says: "I just couldn't type at top speed and do it accurately if I hadn't learned how to keep my nerves healthy. I am a woman who enjoys smoking. I prefer Camels, as I never tire of them no matter how steadily I smoke. They are delightfully mild. And they don't make my nerves ragged. # SNOW HILL TIES LOCALS FOR THE TOP

The nip and tuck race between Greenville and Ayden for the top of the Coastal Plain League was interrupted yesterday when the Snow Hill club defeated Kingston in the play-off of a postponed game, knocking Ayden from second place and tied Greenville for honor of the top position.

Snow Hill and Kingston have been jangling a spectacular battle to stay out of the cellar all season, but by winning consistently the last several days, the Greene county club shoved Ayden into third place and Kingston to the bottom when they trimmed the Lenoir county boys yesterday. The score was 8 to 6.

The race will continue with renewed fury Friday with Kingston playing Greenville on the local diamond and Snow Hill appearing at Ayden.

Newsom started for Snow Hill in the Kingston game yesterday by hitting a circuit drive with one man on while the score was standing at 6 all. He did the pinch-hitting stunt and, unlike most of the men sent in for such purposes, came through with the goods.

Greenville played an exhibition game at New Bern yesterday afternoon and lost 2 to 1 in a game freight with much excitement.

Wheeler, New Bern pitcher, was responsible for both of New Bern's scores, hitting a home run in the last stanza to win his own game. Taylor pitched superb ball for the visiting team, but inability of his teammates to hit at opportune moments, resulted in his downfall.

SPORTS

Al Ubricksen probably didn't have the slightest idea he would stir up an argument among his friends when he suggested in a signed feature story for The Associated Press, that Washington, Ala. California and Harvard would finish in that order in the finals of the intercollegiate eight oared regatta at Long Beach on July 8.

All Washington Huskies should win the big race, but as one old grad to another, may we not suggest to him that he not under-rate the Cornell crew that Jim Wray is taking west with the Ells and the Crimston to represent the old rowing "Big Three" of the East?

In the first place, alas, while winner of all its early season races at the so-called "sprint" distance, up to two miles, did not dominate them. The Ells were lucky to beat Pennsylvania and they were pressed by a Cornell varsity crew that developed slowly. Harvard will be good, but hardly formidable with six "jayvee" oarsmen and to freshmen making up the Crimston entry for the Pacific Coast races.

Meanwhile Wray has quietly put together a first-rate sprint combination at Ithaca. He has had plenty of time to do some experimenting, with a definite objective in mind. In short, he has a crew that will do close to 6:30 for the 2000 meters and give any of its rivals a race from start to finish.

Young And Healthy
Those who like to argue over the relative strength or ability of the sexes in golf may consider this item from the dispatches of the British Press Association:

"A mighty drive of three hundred and ten yards by Miss Meg Farquhar, the only woman competitor created a sensation in the Scottish Professional Championship on the Moray course here today. At the ninth hole Miss Farquhar's tee shot reached the green, a terrific hit for a girl of twenty-one, and the spectators gave her a cheer.

"Miss Farquhar is the daughter of a Moray Firth owner of a herring drifter, and her appearance suggests that she is strong and hardy, with the fresh complexion of the Scottish fisher lassie.

Collegiate
The Yankees may not be definitely committed to a policy of uplifting the educational standards of the big leagues, but they have made rapid strides this year in enlisting college talents under their far-flung banners.

They signed Yale's star pitcher, Johnny Broaca after engaging Charlie Devens of Harvard and assigning him to the Newark Bears for a year's seasoning. Jimmy Hitchcock, Auburn's All-American halfback and baseball shortstop, is the latest to cast his lot with the Yankee forces.

Columbia Loun Gehrig is, of course the chief example of what a college degree can do for a ball-player with the Yankees. The headquarters roll also includes Joe Sewell of the University of Alabama Sewells and Dr. Eddie Farrell, the Pennsylvania dental alumnus. Over in Newark, Red Rolfe of Dartmouth is being groomed to take his place some day in the Yankee infield. Southern California was represented for a time by Jesse Hill, but this broad-jumper is now with St. Paul.
