Air Officials At Moscow Without Information Concerning Flier's Location; Mattern Lost In Take-off From Khabrovsk, Siberia, June 15; No Reports Received From Him Before Today

Moscow, July 7.—(AP)—James Mattern, American flier, is safe in Anadir in the Chukotka peninsula of Siberia, according to a telegraph message received here direct from Mattern himself.

Mattern's telegram said: "Safe at Anadir, Chukotka, Siberia. Jimmie Mattern."

The message was sent from the town of Vocharova at 11 p. m. July 5, and was received here in mid-afternoon today.

The American flier's message gave no details of his situation and air force officials were without information of him.

New York, July 7.—(AP)—James Mattern, round-the-world flier, reported found today at Anadir, Siberia, has been unreported since June 15, when he left Khabrovsk, on a hop to Nome, Alaska.

Mattern started his flight around the world from Floyd Bennett Field on the morning of June 3.

Cleveland —(AP)—An ancient automobile, built in 1900 once given to leading parades and taking part in important affairs of a glorious past, still manages to chug puff and run.

It is the famous automobile of Tom L. Johnson, famous mayor of Cleveland and the inspiration of liberals in this country in his time.

Johnson used the automobile to dash on one political meeting to another, and to make fast trips from one conference to another. It is owned by Ira Hellman, who received it in a roundabout way from Johnson's brother.

THREE STATES PREPARE FOR DRY LAW VOTE

Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee Will Vote On Repeal Issue In July

Montgomery, Ala., July 7.—(AP)—The contest-over prohibition has moved into the deep south where three states will vote on the question soon and repealists are raising the old issue of state's rights.

Concentrated campaigns are under way in Alabama and Arkansas which vote on July 18 and in Tennessee which holds its election on July 20.

Repealists believe victory in Alabama or Arkansas would presage speedy repeal and have a pronounced effect on Tennessee. Prohibitionists want to hold this traditionally dry territory of the south. Both sides express hope.

Sixteen states have thus far voted for repeal. Twenty others have to follow suit to assure repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Representatives John McDuffie and W. O. Oliver of Alabama are urging Democrats to support the party platform by forging for repeal and the return of state's rights.

State Church Studied By Vatican In Nazi Plan

By ANDRUE BERDING

Vatican City.—(AP)—What the Vatican considers difficult aspects of the church situation in Germany have had a fresh airing here in connection with the visit of Franz von Papen, vice-chancellor of the reich.

Guaranteed comment from official sources indicated in advance of von Papen's meeting with Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state, that the Roman Catholic authorities were in no hurry to reach definite terms for a concordat between the Vatican and the federal government in Berlin.

The church it was said preferred to await the outcome of efforts to end independent political activities of German Catholics and also to bring the Protestant churches under Nazi control.

FRUGALITY MARKS CITY GOVERNMENT

Aldermen Run Government Considerably Below Curtailed Budget Figures

The City of Greenville not only met all of its obligations last year but operated under the total figures set forth in the budget, it was revealed in a digest of expenditures of the past year presented to the Board of Aldermen last night by J. O. Duvall, city clerk.

The amount provided in the budget was $66,561.80 and the total amount spent in the operation of the various departments of government was $64,947.14 or a saving of $1,614.66.

The budget did not carry the purchase of an automobile and several other items but they were paid out of the budget estimate at a cost of $3,000, which makes the actual saving $4,614.66.

Members of the board read the digest of their activities with considerable interest and various department heads congratulated one another upon their ability to save in the face of sharply decreased appropriations as provided by the budget compared with previous years.

Following a report of Alderman Boyd, member of a committee named to make recommendations regarding the strength of the police department the board decided to retain the department intact with all members drawing the same pay as last year with exception of Policeman Woolen and Whichard who received slight salary boosts.

Officer Brewer was again chosen assistant chief of police. George Clark was re-elected chief at the initial sitting.

London Conference Agrees To Ban Tariff And Quotas

Facts On Government Cotton Control Plan

There still seems to be some misunderstanding as to just how the percentage of cotton signed up by a land owner, or landlord (or tenant farmer) is to be plowed up. The question is frequently asked, if a landlord had a number of tenants and signed up to plow up 30 per cent of his cotton crop would he plow up 30 per cent of each tenant's crop, or could he plow up 30 per cent of his entire acreage. This can be answered as follows: The landlord or land owner or whoever is in charge of the lands may upon signing up to destroy a certain percentage of his cotton crop on the farm, say 30 per cent, destroy 30 per cent of each tenant's crop, or he may destroy the whole crop of any one or more tenants, just so he destroys 30 per cent as agreed to by him.

EXPECT CROWD AT SERVICES

Increased Attendance Looked For at United Service Sunday Evening

The second of the series of united services conducted on the courthouse lawn during the summer months will be held Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of Memorial Baptist church, will deliver the sermon.

The first service was conducted last Sunday evening. It was held in the courthouse instead of on the lawn because of rain during the afternoon hours that wet benches and the grass and made the open air service inadvisable. Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Church of Christ, was the speaker.

In view of the fact that opening services were well attended it was expected a large crowd would be on hand to participate in the second one.

Virtually all denominations of the city are taking part in the union services and hope has been expressed by members of the Ministerial Association, sponsors, that members of all churches would make an effort to be on hand each Sunday evening and help swell attendance to new records.

Members of the choirs of various churches comprise the union service choir and give impetus to congregational singing directed by Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Late News Flashes

Predicts N. C. To Go Wet.

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley, back in Washington after a visit to North Carolina, predicted today the southern state will vote wet by 75-0 majority in the repeal referendum set for November 7.

"I am amazed at the reaction by repealists for rejection of prohibition," Farley said.

The postmaster general in addressing a Greensboro and High Point yesterday reiterated his plea for repeal of the 18th amendment in southern states. Farley also expressed belief that the 18th amendment will be repealed by the end of the year.

Alabama and Arkansas both vote on the repeal resolution on July 18 and Tennessee on July 20.

VOTE AFTER CONTROVERSY BREAKS ANEW

Although Beaten On This Point by French Opposition, American Delegates Hope to Reverse Decision; Gold Bloc Countries Flatly Refuse To Talk Tariffs; Says Stabilization Action Makes It Taboo

London, July 7.—(AP)—France-American controversy broke anew today in the private session of the committee on commercial policy of the world economic conference which decided by a 8 to 7 vote that tariff and quotas should not be dealt with by the parity.

Although beaten on this point temporarily the American delegation was hopeful of reversing the decision in the bureau of steering committee of the conference to which the committee report will be submitted.

The gold bloc countries led by France flatly refused to talk tariff arguing that this subject involved monetary questions which were taboo because of President Roosevelt's stand against currency stabilization.

Senator Couzen's speech was understood to be intended as an answer to George Bonnet, French finance minister, who said in an address today that it was impossible for the conference to consider any monetary matters pending stabilization of currency.

The delegate from Michigan declared the findings of employment for the jobless would solve many problems. Recalling that America maintained the gold standard for a time while other countries abandoned it, he said "We found no fault with others or made no complaints."

NO SYMPATHY IF FARMERS FALL DOWN

Several times we have called attention of the cotton growers to the opportunity that is now being offered them by the government to help themselves through a reduced acreage and higher prices together with the fact the government will pay the farmers for every acre taken from production now. So far over 600 growers in this county have signed the reduction contract and it is to be hoped that the number will be many times larger before the period for the sign-up is closed.

Under the heading "Nobody Ever Sympathized With the Dog That Got the Ducking," the News and Observer says:

There was once a dog with a piece of meat in his mouth who came to a stream and saw there the reflection of a dog with a piece of meat in his mouth. He snapped at the meat held by the reflected dog in the stream and in so doing dropped that which he had in his mouth and got only a ducking for his pains.

And then there are cotton farmers in 1933 who are looking at 10-cent cotton on the cotton exchange at a time when they themselves have no cotton at all to sell. They will not have any cotton to sell until the cotton now growing in their fields is ready for picking and ginning and goes to market. In the meantime, the government is offering them money to reduce acreage to save themselves from the strong probability of six-cent cotton if all the cotton planted in the South is allowed to go to market.

Ten-cent cotton today so far as the majority of Southern cotton planters is concerned is no more than a reflection in a stream. For them it is absolutely without reality. For them no cotton prices before ginning time will have any reality at all. To throw away the offered benevolence of the government is to grab at the reflection and let the reality go. And the probability is that if Southern farmers do with unenlightened selfishness turn down the government's offer they will find that they will get, as the dog got the ducking, six-cent cotton come September.

To state the case in terms of present fact rather than old fable, consumers of cotton all over the country have been required by law to finance the effort by the government to help the Southern cotton farmer help himself. With this national financing contributed by all the people behind him, the cotton farmer of the South has been given the privilege by the government of selling a part of his growing crop to the government for destruction in order that another great cotton crop may not be added to the cotton surplus which would bring to the South another tragic year of six-cent cotton.

Upon the basis of this reduction campaign, speculators have forced the price of cotton to above 10 cents. This means that the speculators are betting that the reduction plan will succeed and that, with its success for the first time in years cotton will bring decent prices when it comes to market. It is obvious, however, as the price went up with the announcement of the plan that it will come tumbling back down if the plan should fail.

Ten-cent cotton today is a matter of only theoretical interest to the majority of Southern cotton planters. Most of them have no cotton to sell. They will have no cotton to sell until the present crop is picked and ginned. What the price will be at that time depends upon how much of the cotton growing in the cotton fields today is allowed to go to market. If farm-

SYNOPSIS: George Bancroft has had to tell Clifford Asher that she cannot marry him because she loves another man. The other man is Nicholas Boyd, and Nicholas is in Germany trying to have removed the scar that has ruined his career as a film star. What is worse, he is married. On her way home from the dance where Clifford proposed, George finds a scrap of newspaper with the headlines "Movie Star Dies Suddenly." She is horrified, until finally Bishop, her stepfather, finds a paper, and she learns it is not Nicholas. She suddenly realizes Bishop's underlying kindness.

Chapter 35 THE WRONG BOX

He was staring straight in front of him, his mouth set in lines of pain; then he said slowly:

"We're both in the wrong box, George, you and I, but we might help each other by being friends, don't you think?"

"She did not speak, and he went on:

"When your mother wanted you to come here, I thought it would be a great nuisance. I'm not used to young people about me. Perhaps you will think it odd if I tell you that you've brought the only bit of sunshine I've had in my life for a great many years. We haven't spoken together much, you and I, but I took his arm away. 'I should like to help you if I can.'"

He waited a moment and then asked, "Who's name was it you were afraid of reading in the paper just now?"

And George told him, "Nicholas Boyd's."

"The husband of—the woman here?" he asked.

"Yes."

"How did you know him, George?" he asked, and suddenly she found herself telling him—pouring out the thing which for so long she had been forced to keep to herself.

"And does he care for you?" he asked when she had ended.

"No," George gave a little shaky laugh. "I'd give anything in the world if he did," she added in a broken whisper.

"There was a little silence. 'And this woman, this Bernie Boyd,' Bishop asked.

"I don't think she loves him," George said. "I don't know why, but somehow I don't think she does, or she would be with him now, wouldn't she?"

"A woman like that could not love anyone but herself," Bishop said. He stood up and began roaming restlessly round the room in the way that always made George think of a lion shut up in a cage. He came back to her at length, a tall gaunt figure in his dressing gown, his hands thrust into the pockets.

"Is your mind set at rest now?" he asked.

"You mean because it wasn't his name in the paper?"

"Yes."

George sighed tragically. "If it had been I think I should have died."

"People do not die so easily," he answered.

Impulsively she stretched a hand to him, laying it on his arm.

"I never knew you could be so kind," she said.

"Kind!" he laughed rather grimly. "I suppose everyone is kind to one person once in a lifetime," he answered, and then "You won't cry any more if I leave you?"

"I'll try not to."

"Goodnight, then."

George stood up. "I need not say you not to tell—Evelyn," she said timidly.

"No," he said. "I do not betray confidences."

He went away without another word or look at her, and George went on with her undressing.

The following morning George went down to the studio to see Bernie Boyd making a picture.

Evelyn had asked for and received the invitation, and she was indignantly proud of the fact.

"Miss Boyd does not as a rule allow strangers to see her," so she told George. "But in my case she has made an exception, so you must behave and keep very quiet so as not to disturb anyone."

George thought she was far more likely to keep quiet than her mother was; Evelyn loved talking and airing her views.

"Bishop is coming with us," her mother said discontentedly. "I don't know why, but he pretends to be interested. Of course it's only pretence; nothing really interests him except making money."

George's lips moved to say something, but she closed them again, realizing that it would never do for her to attempt to defend her stepfather.

gratefully, but to her surprise he frowned.

"I dislike that expression," he said rather curtly, and then, "Don't begin copying your mother, George."

"I'm sorry," she said helplessly, and then she smiled.

"I told you last night we were both in the wrong box," he said. Bernie came up to them at that moment; she was smiling and apparently very pleased with herself. She spoke to George and asked if she were enjoying herself.

"Yes, thank you," George said, and then, "Are you?" she asked. Bernie laughed. "Does anyone enjoy work, I wonder?" she said.

She laid a very much whitened hand on Bishop's coat sleeve. "So kind of you to come," she murmured in quite a different tone of voice.

You can't feel well and strong unless your liver furnishes your stomach and bowels plenty of fresh bile every day. Without bile food doesn't digest properly—it just ferments and decays—constipation, gas, sour stomach, headaches and nervousness follow.

Don't be misled. Calomel, salts, bile, mineral waters, laxative pills, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

Doll Party At Library. Twenty-eight dolls registered for the party at Sheppard Memorial Library Thursday morning. "Raggedy Ann" brought by Mary Sue Moore, was the most popular one present. The children and four adult visitors enjoyed the doll stories told by Miss Catherine Gross. She reviewed for them three new books, "The Secret of Live Dolls," "The Story of Live Dolls," and "More About Live Dolls."

The books were taken out for home reading and will be much in demand for several weeks. Due to the large attendance at the party, juniors took out more books on Thursday than adults. At the close of the hour Billy Tucker and Ralph Cox Parkerson brought in a tray filled with flowers and lollipops which were served to all present. Much of the success of the story hour is due to the careful planning of Miss Mary Shaw Robeson who is club leader for the summer. These children and others are invited to come next Thursday morning from 9:30 to 10:30.

The highlight of the afternoon was a talk by Mrs. J. B. Spillman which was thoroughly enjoyed by the members. We always welcome Mrs. Spillman in our midst and give her a hearty invitation to come again whenever she can.

Our subject for the afternoon was "color." Miss Nice, with color charts and flowers demonstrated the most appropriate colors for different types of women. She urged the club women to be careful in their choice of colors and try to get colors that would be the most becoming for their special type.

Mrs. Thurman Page, our president, presided over the business session. We have sold a dozen brooms since last meeting and we instructed our treasurer to place an order for some right away, as some of them are already sold.

Mrs. Leon Tyson led some rounds and songs after which the hostesses served delicious cream and cake. Thirty women enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Evans and her daughter and we are looking forward to the time when we can meet there again.

FRUGALITY MARKS CITY GOVERNMENT. (Continued from page One) of the board the first of the month as were other departmental heads.

After considering all unfinished business the board turned its attention to problems of the new year but nothing definite will be done until the budget has been prepared and properly digested.

Displaying displeasure over the failure of pool room operators to pay their last year's privilege license tax, the aldermen instructed Chief Clark to close all such places at once. The order was immediately carried out and a short time after it was executed one or two of the operators appeared before the board and settled their taxes.

The aldermen said in view of the fact that such places were operating under special privilege license, the operators should not be permitted to lag in their payments and should be prodded until settlement had been made.

The clerk was instructed to relieve city firemen of their poll tax, which is a customary function in view of the fine services which the fire laddies render the city each year.

The report from the clerk's office showed that the city paid all of its obligations during the past year and had a cash balance of $8,500 to its credit. The saving permitted the government to go over into the new year in a position to meet emergencies and prepare against eventualities.

Reports of the various department were of a gratifying nature and received approval of the board. This was particularly so of the annual statement of George Gardner, chief of the fire department which listed the city's fire loss at $217,833. There was a total of 24 fires.

The bulk of this sum, the report pointed out, was involved in the destruction by fire of the Banner warehouse, which alone totaled $180,000.

The value of the property affected by the fires was listed as $1,230,340. The report received much favorable comment from the board and the fire department was congratulated upon its effort to make the city safe from conflagrations.

STATE CHURCH STUDIED BY VATICAN IN NAZI PLAN. (Continued from page One) stated that the chief bishop of Protestant Germany would have 28 other bishops under him, that the union that is being worked out will be intensely national and that persons of Jewish blood will be excluded, even though they have been Christians for generations.

They have been told also that Germans who wish to marry persons of other nationalities would be excluded and that the state church would not sanction such unions.

Church Revenue at Stake. There is also the question of church tax revenue provided at present in Prussia, Baden and Bavaria under the Vatican's concordants with those states. It is understood here that this revenue would be superseded by a national "kultur tax" of far broader application.

Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state, is keeping the pope well informed of the situation. He was nuncio to Germany for many years and concluded the concordat with Prussia. Archbishop Cesare Orsenigo, present apostolic nuncio, has forwarded a mass of information from Berlin.

FACTS ON GOVERNMENT COTTON CONTROL PLAN. (Continued from page One) erment for sometime and now that the present administration in pursuance to the New Deal, has undertaken to boost the price of cotton, the present cotton destruction program, that the only fair thing that the southern cotton farmer can do, not only in fairness to the governmental agencies, but to himself and his fellow man, is to accept the proposition and destroy as near 50 per cent of his cotton crop as possible. He will not lose any money, because of the fact he is to receive $12.00 per acre to reach acre destroyed, and in addition to that sum of money, is to be given an option on as much lint cotton as his farm usually produced per acre, on the basis of six cents per pound. At the present time cotton is selling for approximately ten cents per pound, thus giving the farmer a net of four cents per pound on cotton, and he has not had the expense of picking, ginning, hauling, etc., consequently he is ahead of the game, with the prospects of better price for what cotton he has not destroyed.

Upon the basis of the reduction campaign, speculators have boosted the price of cotton to above 10 cents. This can mean only one thing, that the speculators are betting that the reduction program is going to be a success, and for the first time in years cotton will bring a fair and decent price when placed upon the market. It is very apparent, however, that as the prices went up with the announcement of the reduction program, that the failure of the program will most necessarily bring the price of cotton tumbling down to maybe 5 or 6 cents.

With this in view, the only assurance of a decent price for cotton that the cotton farmer has, lies in the success of the present reduction or destruction program or plan.

SOUTH SEAS FIRST PLANES LINKS ISLES IN FIJI GROUP

Sydney, Australia.—(AP)—Several airplanes which will be used as passenger, mail and freight carriers in the Fiji islands have been completed here.

They will afford a daily air service between the principal islands of the group, the first of its kind in the Pacific.

Men who know the Fijians say the natives will like the new machines, because promise of a ride in an airplane is one of the things which will make them work. To enjoy the thrill of a flight they will toil like fury for a month.

If the inter-island service proves profitable, similar lines will be established in other groups.

CUBIAN SILKWORMS SPIN COCOONS AS RIVALRY OF ORIENT

Havana.—(AP)—That silk some day may come from Cuba instead of the orient is the hope of Miss Carmen de Gorivar, an employee of the Cuban department of agriculture.

With Dr. Donato del Castillo, an Havana business man, she has spent 12 years experimenting with silkworm culture and now has 15,000 grubs spinning cocoons at her home in San Miguel street. The partners also have 40,000 mulberry trees ready to plant.

From egg to cocoon takes from 31 to 33 days in Cuba, Miss Goriva said. She added she is enthusiastic over the possibility of adding an industry to this country's resources.

Worms of ten different species are being used in the experiments, the list including Chinese White, Japanese Whites, Japanese Greens, Kan Kows, Serra Morenas, Perugias, Bagdads, Salas, Black Butterflies and Yellow Golds.

The ten grams of eggs used will produce about 45 pounds of cocoons, it is estimated, which should sell for $1.50 a pound. This return more than covers the cost of the eggs, mulberry leaves and labor, the experiment assert.

CRAVEN LADS FALL BEFORE LOCAL CLUB

The powerful New Bern Battery team fell before Greenville leaguers at Third Street athletic field yesterday afternoon by the score of 8-7. The defeat came after the Craven county lads the day before had trimmed the local club to the tune of 2 to 1.

The Coastal Plain league resumed its regular schedule today with Kinston playing in Greenville and Snow Hill at Ayden. Both games were being watched with interest from the four towns of the circuit by reason of the tight race for top position. By winning a play off game the day before, Snow Hill knocked Ayden from second place and tied Greenville for the honor of first place. Both the leaders will make extra effort to capture today's games and the outcome will mean a pronounced change in the standing of clubs.

Free hitting featured the contest with New Bern here yesterday. Both clubs batted the apple around the lot until it was almost impossible to keep the cover on, but when the roar of battle had ceased Greenville was far enough in advance to claim honors of the day.

Harrington did mound duty for his own team until the last two or three innings when he sent Simon in to hold the visitors in check while his heavy artillery got to work and piled up enough runs to clinch the game.

"Lefty" Dean, Greenville hurler, who played another position yesterday again led with the stick with four singles. He obtained the same number in the fourth of July nightcap with Ayden to practically win his own game. Miller and Poole obtained three safeties each.

For the visitors Kennel, with a homer and triple, while E. Perbee accounted for two singles. New Bern was held to a total of nine hits while the locals battered Marcon, Kennel and Fuller for fifteen.

Will Discuss Outlook For Business Here

An all Eastern Carolina business conference will be held in Greenville Thursday night, July 20, at 7:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, Inc., to discuss the general outlook and to take such steps as may be advisable for getting the most from the newly passed legislation for Eastern Carolina.

"We are entering up an entirely new era," President Guy Elliott said, "but in order to get what is ours from the New Deal, we will have to exert some effort," he concluded.

It is the purpose of the sectional organization officials in calling this conference to get a definite plan of procedure adopted for going after the new advantages that are being offered every section of the United States. The meeting will be in the form of a Dutch supper and will be open to the general public.

The principal speaker will be announced within a few days. President Guy Elliott will preside over the meeting. Reservations for plates should be made to Secretary N. G. Bartlett, Kinston, N. C.
