POST HALF WAY ON TRIP AROUND THE WORLD

American Flier 16 Hours Ahead Of His Old Time

NOW HEADED FOR IRKTUSK IN SIBERIA

Oklahoman Flying From Novosibirsk to Irktusk Faces Good Weather Remainder Of Trip; Will Get Some Rest at Irktusk And Then Prepare For Trans-Oceanic Flight

Moscow, July 18—(AP)—Wiley Post, continuing his solo flight around the world, passed over Krasnovarsk at 11:50 a. m. today (Moscow Time) 3:50 a. m. (EST). The American aviator was flying from Novosibirsk to Irktusk, Siberia. At Krasnovarsk he had completed almost half of his flight.

Novosibirsk, Siberia, July 18—(AP)—Well a head of the time he made a similar distance in 1931. Wiley Post raced for Irktusk today just two hours and 35 minutes after his 1,618 mile flight from Moscow.

The doughty American round the world flier swooped down on the Novosibirsk field at 27 a. m., 10:27 p. m. (EST) and then tired almost to the point of exhaustion on took off again at 9:07 a. m. 1:02 a. m. (EST) with the intention of getting some badly needed rest at Irktusk.

He had left the Soviet capital at 5:12 Monday, 9:12 a. m., (EST) and arrived here 13 hours and 15 minutes after leaving New York.

The Oklahoman had planned to fly directly to Khabarovsk, Siberia, his scheduled jumping off place for the trans-oceanic jaunt but bad weather which dogged his footsteps almost all of the way from the Ural Mountains to Novosibirsk, and caused him to land twice before reaching the latter point forced him to decide to spend the night at Irktusk rather than try to go on to Khabarovsk. Weather reports given him during his brief pause here told of extremely favorable flying conditions all the way to Khabarovsk.

He was 16 hours and 57 minutes ahead of the time he and Harold (Gatty) took off for a like distance when he left for the pair stayed 9 hours and 13 minutes on their world flight two years ago. At this point he had completed about half of his world journey.

BOOST PAY OF MILL WORKERS

Government Seeks To Raise Wages And Shorten Hours Of Southern Laborers

Atlanta, July 18—(AP)—The pulse of the southern textile industry was quickened today to increase pay and payrolls under the new code of operation today but paradoxically there were centers in which regulations meant at least temporary decrease in employment.

Approximately 1,200 unemployed mill workers were added to the payroll of the Bibb Manufacturing Company in five Georgia mills and the number was expected to be increased to 1,500 by the end of the week.

The Bibb Company expects to add a total of 3,000 or 3,500 new employees to its mills.

ROTES PLAN PLENTY WORK

Program For This Year One of the Most Ambitious Of Recent Years

Bright prospects for success of this year's work were unfolded by Rotarians at the regular meeting of the club last night.

Given the floor for brief talks, chairman of the various committees to serve this year told of some of the things they proposed to accomplish and if they get through just half of them their efforts will be highly successful.

K. W. Gebb, who was inducted as president at a previous meeting, presided, and expressed appreciation of the enthusiasm shown by the committee heads, declaring he felt sure they would do everything possible to make the program successful.

The talks covered virtually every phase of club activity from providing for gastronomic cravings of the outstanding eater to carrying relief to underprivileged children. They were a revelation of what an organization can try to do when its members are sufficiently enthusiastic and the year promises to hold forth great achievement.

The program was in charge of Dr. Herbert ReBarker, chairman of the program committee, who after hearing the reports of the committee members offered to give them all aid at his command in making every proposal possible.

The singing of club songs was in charge of W. W. Lee, assisted at the piano by Mrs. R. A. Tyson, Jr., club pianist.

TWO STATES TAKE STAND ON REPEAL ISSUE

Arkansas and Alabama Voting Today In Fight on Prohibition Question

(By The Associated Press)
Repeal forces racing to reach their goal before Christmas, strove to round the half way post in the south today while prohibition forces sought to send them sprawling.

Arkansas and Alabama through voting both today decided their stand on the proposal to mark the 18th amendment from the constitution.

Tonight the foes of national prohibition will know whether they have gained these two southern states for repeal.

Sixteen states have voted to ratify repeal up to today. Thirty-six are necessary to change the constitution.

Before the week is over 20 states containing 49 per cent of the population in the United States will have recorded their will on the problem. Tennessee votes Thursday and Oregon Friday.

Arkansas and Alabama were the first southern states to ballot on the dry law and both sides felt the battle was fraught with signs of progress. Prohibition forces expressed confidence that if some of the southern states held fast to prohibition they could put the final test over until next year and thus better the chance of saving the 18th amendment.

TWO NEGROES HELD IN DURHAM HOMICIDE

The case probably will go direct to the grand jury, which convened here yesterday.

Rogers readily admitted firing the shot which struck Blackwood, the sheriff said, but insisted he believed he was shooting at a dog.

John Bowers and Corriher engaged in a fist fight following an altercation and Corriher was badly beaten about the face. CUT SCHOOL DISTRICTS IN PITT COUNTY

Eleven Districts Instead of Eighteen to Serve County Next Session

A sharp reduction of school districts in Pitt county has been made by the state school commission under provisions of the new school legislation. It was revealed today in a report submitted to the board of education by Leroy Martin, executive secretary of the state commission.

PITT BUDGET SHARPLY CUT PITT PLACED ON HONOR ROLL

Taxpayers to Save $82,400 as Result of Reductions During New Year

A saving of $82,400 will be made by the tax payers of Pitt county during the present fiscal year under the economy program adopted by the board of County Commissioners and revealed in the tentative budget made public today.

The budget carries total appropriations of $234,900 this year as compared with $317,300 for the previous year, which makes the saving $82,400.

The saving was effected through the state taking over the operation of the eight months school term and economies in administration of the county government. $68,500 will be saved from schools alone and $15,900 will come from economies in other branches of the administration.

The only increased appropriation contained in the budget go to the County Home and poor fund, general relief and debt service funds.

The County Home and poor fund and other relief activities was placed at $18,658 against $16,285 for last year. The debt service fund was increased from $195,861 last year to $211,300 this year.

The health department was reduced from $13,030 last year to $8,400 this year. This cut was caused largely by withdrawal of outside aid. The efficiency of the department will not be impaired.

The county school fund including appropriations not adequately provided for by the state, was placed at $13,500 compared with $15,200 last year.

The decrease in the budget was made in the face of a $11,000,000 reduction in valuations brought about by the 33 1-3 per cent horizontal reduction as provided by the last session of the legislature. The total for real and personal property valuations this year was estimated at $27,000,000 compared with $38,000,000 for the previous year.

The budget will remain on display at the courthouse several days in addition to being reproduced in the columns of the various newspapers of the county so that the citizenship may see what the commissioners plan to do this year. After remaining on display for the full time as prescribed by law the commissioners will then adopt it.

Farmers were instructed by the Secretary not to begin plowing up their cotton until they had been individually notified by the government.

BALBO SEES WORLD FAIR

Italian General Escapes His Admirers And Visits Fair Early Today

Chicago, July 18—(AP)—General Italo Balbo saw the world fair at close range today and without the usual crowd of admirers who have dogged his footsteps since his arrival at the head of the Italian air expedition.

Slipping away from a society event which had been planned in his honor, the general gathered a half dozen men and donned a dark business suit and a slouch hat with brim low over his eyes, visited the fair ground early today.

County Sixth In Cotton Reduction Control Campaign In This State

Pitt county won the distinction of being put on the honor roll in the federal cotton-reduction control campaign which closed last week. It was made known by information furnished by the state department today.

The county ranked sixth among counties by the other cotton producing counties of the state, it was revealed.

E. F. Arnold, director of the farm department and head of the cotton drive of this county, in making known the standing of the county stated that Pitt county's acreage was 4,1918 acres, or the equivalent of about 3,000 bales.

Although the quota provided by the government was 6,100 acres, the average estimate per acre in this county placed the number of bales fifty per cent above government requirement of 2,033 bales.

Due to an error Pitt county was not included in the honor roll carried by state papers this morning but the correction was made by state headquarters in time for afternoon editions.

Mr. Arnold again expressed appreciation of the fine work done by committees in this county and said the success of the campaign was due largely to their efforts.

Farmers will be instructed this week when to begin plowing up their cotton. The information was being sent out from Washington to state headquarters and from there to farm agents who in turn will notify committees so that they may convey the information to grow up.

Farmers were instructed by the Secretary not to begin plowing up their cotton until they had been individually notified by the government.

Bread's Higher—What's Pushing It? Well, So's Wheat, Says The Bakers

New York—(AP)—Figuring on the cost of the staff of life—bread—is a difficult task, especially for the purpose of comparing costs in two periods.

Recent rises in retail bread prices already have directed attention to the problem, important to housewives and to experts at Washington, watchful lest the increases become excessive.

Federal statistics show that the cost of the ingredients of bread increased about 1.35 cents between February and July. Wheat plus the processing tax, moved up about 1.33 cents, sugar from 08 to 10, malt from .05 to .06, and substitute from 11 to 15 dried milk from 15 to 20. Yeast and salt were unchanged.

'Makings' Cost One-Third
The cost of these ingredients, according to a study by the Federal Trade Commission, represented about a third of the cost of a loaf selling at about 2.358 cents. The wholesale baker's profit was 1.279 cents.

Labor costs, while they have risen somewhat do not tend to advance considerably because of the mechanical efficiency of the modern baker.

One of them said if necessary he could run his plant with 8 men, one for each baking station—that is, at the machines where the bread is mixed, moulded, baked, wrapped and so on.

If bread consumption were increased costs might even decline a little, he said, because greater production could be effected with few extra men.

TAG DAY HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Junior Woman's Club to Raise Money For the Local Ball Club Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be "Tag Day" in Greenville and young women of the Junior Woman's club will be busy selling tags to raise money for the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain League.

The money-raising campaign was announced last week and since that time club members have been active getting things lined up to help take the local club off the red side of the financial ledger.

"Tag Day" comes at a time when Greenville is tied for the top with Snow Hill and a large crowd was expected to be on hand tomorrow afternoon at Third Street school grounds to see the locals try to establish a firmer hold on the top.

Each tag will admit the buyer to tomorrow's game so everybody will get full value for his money. Everybody was urged to buy liberally and help put the club on financial easy street the remainder of the season.

Needed Life Preservers.

Portland, Ore.—(AP)—Seven seaborne Japanese "sailors" ranging in age from 4 to 12 years were taken from a raft on the Willamette river near here by a police harbor patrol whose captain decreed the indefinite postponement of the projected voyage on the technical grounds the home made raft was improperly supplied with life preservers.

ROOSEVELT SICK AGAIN

President Leaves Recovery Program to Aides Owing to Confinement

Washington, July 18—(AP)—President Roosevelt left his recovery council today the preparation of any general codes for higher wages and working hours as he was confined again to his room by a slight indisposition.

Arrangements were made for a second session of the administration advisory group composed of members of the cabinet and chief administrators of the major recovery laws.

They are divided on the necessity for immediate forced action by the federal government to start business and industry at once.

Hugh Johnson, industrial administrator, apparently had ready a far reaching proposal to bring about increases in wages and shorter hours in labor immediately.

BIG FOUR AT WORK TO CUT DOWN WHEAT

Plan to Limit Exports From Danubian Countries For Next Two Years. Seek Aid of Russia in Big Four Program; Silver Committee Called to Meet on Important Question

London, July 18—(AP)—Progress in negotiations for limiting wheat exports was counterbalanced today by a fresh set back in conversations in regulating the use of silver as the London Economic conference patterned toward a close.

The "Big Four" wheat producing nations, Argentina, United States, Australia and Canada, were said by the chief American wheat delegates to have reached an agreement with four Danubian countries whereby exports from the latter countries will be held at 54,000,000 bushels this year and 50,000,000 next year.

Subsequently, the "Big Four" representatives prepared to resume negotiations with European importers with a view to getting the countries to abandon some of the import restrictions on wheat.

The silver committee was called to convene after a recess of several days.

MORTGAGE HOLDERS AGREE TO EXCHANGE

Richmond, July 18—The first three mortgage-holders who have been asked by homeowners seeking relief at the Home Loan Bank to exchange mortgage notes for home loan bonds have agreed readily to do so. John J. Wicker, Jr., Home Loan Bank administrator, said today.

Success of the Home Loan Bank plan depends on the willingness of the mortgage holder to accept the bonds in lieu of his mortgage notes.

Mr. Wicker states that mortgage-holders in general have expressed their desire to cooperate with the plan. The first three of the 1,500 applications for relief received at the local bank have passed the preliminary stage. The note-holders are Negroes in each case of the three, and one of the same is occupied by a white family.

Each tag will admit the buyer to tomorrow's game so everybody will get full value for his money. Everybody was urged to buy liberally and help put the club on financial easy street the remainder of the season.

Pitt County taxpayers will feel some measure of relief when they receive their tax bills for this year and find them to be considerably lower. According to the tentative budget published today, the taxpayers will be relieved not only of the amount made possible by the state taking over the operation of the schools but by $15,000 in addition to this sum made possible by further economies in the county government.

Our county ranked well up in the list of the counties of the state in its measure of co-operation in the government plan to cut cotton acreage. While the maximum number of acres was not signed up in this county the number of bales to be removed from production based upon last year's yield is about 50 per cent of that requested by the government. We congratulate Pitt county farmers for the wisdom they have shown in taking advantage of this government plan and we likewise wish to thank those who aided in the campaign for the fine piece of work they have done.

A New Serial by Ruby M. Ayne

SYNOPSIS: Georgie Bancroft goes to Nicholas Boyd's flat to ask why he is leaving London without telling her, as he had promised to do. Bernie Boyd, Nicholas' wife, comes in, makes a terrific scene, and is ordered out by Nicholas. Nicholas explains that in spite of his love for her he must go away, because Bernie will not divorce him. Georgie tells Nicholas that she will remain his, come what may.

Chapter 44

EVELYN SPEAKS

In spite of everything Georgie slept soundly that night; she seemed to drift into blissful unconsciousness as soon as her head touched the pillow, and it was late in the morning when she awoke. The sun was shining outside, sending long golden fingers poking inquisitively through the undrawn curtains, and she lay for a moment watching them sleepily, before she remembered.

It was another day, and Nicholas had gone. The midnight train had carried him out of her life, perhaps forever. She lay motionless for some time with a terrible sense of loss, then suddenly she remembered that there was still his letter.

It was like a last link between them that still held, and while it held she could not quite despair. She rang the bell, and when the maid came she asked for tea. "And please will you see if there are any letters?"

Then she slipped out of bed and drew back the curtains. It was a lovely morning, and a faint new hope crept into her heart. Things were never so hopeless when the sun shone. Or were they worse?

It was terrible to be alone on a grey, rainy day, but perhaps it was harder when the sun was shining, and the world was a beautiful place in which to be happy.

She looked at herself in the mirror; her face was quite colorless and her eyes showed signs of tears, and Georgie was conscious of a faint disappointment. Surely she ought to have grown beautiful since Nicholas kissed her?

She thought of Bernie, and then resolutely she thrust the thought aside; she would not permit any ugly memories to spoil her brief happiness of last night.

The maid came back with the tea tray and two letters. Georgie pounced upon them feverishly, but one was a bill and the other which she threw aside was addressed in Clifford Asher's writing.

Nothing from Nicholas. But he had told her he had written. "Are you sure there were only these two?" she asked.

"Yes, Miss." The little cold feeling was creeping round Georgie's heart again; that letter would have meant so much to her, and if after all it never came—

But it would come, of course it would! She drank her tea and was dressing slowly when Evelyn arrived.

"Oh, so you are awake," she said. "Do you know what the time is?" Georgie had forgotten about time. It had ceased to matter since last night.

"It's half-past-eleven," her mother said tartly. "A girl of your age ought not to want so much sleep. Why are you looking so washed out?"

"I had a headache. I told you," Georgie said. Evelyn came further into the room.

"Yes, I know you told me that you had a headache," she said. "And I certainly left you in bed before I went to the theater last night, but when Bishop and I came home, your bed was empty, and you were out. Where did you go?"

"To see a friend," Georgie said. "What friend may I ask?" "Nobody you know."

"That means you do not intend to tell me. Well, as it happens I already know," Evelyn said. There was a sharp silence, then Georgie spoke.

"Well, if you know, you need not have asked me." She saw the hot color rise to her mother's face.

"There is no need to add impertinence to untruths," Evelyn said. "And I imagine that since I brought you to London your whole life has been a tissue of untruths now I know what I know. How long have you known this—this Nicholas Boyd, may I ask?"

Georgie caught her breath. Was she to be thrust back again into the ugliness of unspeakable things? She waited in positive agony for her mother's next words.

They came quickly. "I might have known that you would abuse my kindness, and disgrace me. Compromising yourself with a common film man, and a forgotten one at that. After the trouble I have taken to introduce you to decent people, to run after a creature of that description. Heaven only knows what Bishop will say."

Georgie almost laughed; it seemed funny to drag Bishop in when he and Bernie— Evelyn went on again.

"I received a letter from the man's wife this morning, complaining of your friendliness with her husband. She tells me that you have been in the habit of visiting his flat. Is that so?"

"Yes." "And you can stand there and admit it?" Evelyn stormed. "Have you taken leave of your senses, or is this influence of the life from

The WORLD of STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES

Turkey's latest issue, a charity set for child welfare, is nothing to get excited about, from the aesthetic point of view. The design picture two husky babies holding up a star printed in red, in which appears a crescent.

In the specimen we have seen the printing of the star was so imperfect that the two lower points seemed to have been chipped off. The values are 1, 3, and 15 krustur and 20 paradr.

Commemorative

Austria, however, comes forward with a neatly designed and printed stamp to commemorate the international philatelic exhibition at Vienna. The design, showing a stage-coach passing two foot travelers, was taken from a painting by Mortiz von Schwind, a Vienna-born German artist. It is printed in blue.

The stamp was sold at double its face value, 50 groschen, plus the price of admission to the exhibition.

Unofficial Airmail

A special three-penny airmail stamp has been issued by the Great Western railway of England, which operates an airmail service between Birmingham and Plymouth. The issue is reported to have been sanctioned by the British postal authorities, but is not, of course, an official one.

New Watermark

The new swastika emblem will be used henceforth as the watermark of all German stamps, although existing postage supplies, bearing a waffle-shaped mark, must first be used.

Canadian Overprint

The Canadian post office department announces that in honor of the world's grain conference, to be held at Regina, Canada, this summer, it will overprint a quantity of the 20c red pictorial originally issued in December 1930.

PATIENTS CAN GET EYEFUL AND A TOOTH FILLED

Columbus, Ohio — (AP) — The shouts and screams that sometimes filled the offices of one Columbus dentist when schoolboy patients called, are ancient history now, thanks to the movies.

Youngsters need scant coaxing to climb into his chair, Dr. S. M. Hunkicker found, when assured Charlie Chaplin, "Our Gang," or "Felix the Cat" will perform from the small screen in front of them, while the dentist dericks out a tooth.

An assistant operates a small motion picture projector while the dentist does his stuff. The screen is set just in front of the dental chair.

Children are not the only ones who like movies with their dentistry, Dr. Hunkicker has found.

THOUSANDS FINDING FARM EMPLOYMENT

Kinston, July 17—Thousands of persons are finding employment on farms in this part of the eastern tobacco belt as curing progresses. Growers are housing a fairly large crop. Most of the workers are Negroes. Wages are low, as low as 50 cents a day on some farms. In some places they reach 60 or 70 cents or more. Cotton growers in the tide-water district report "hands" demanding $1 to $1.25. Long hours are the rule. Orders have worked as many as 14 hours a day.

DISMANTLING OF CARS IS BEGUN AT SPENCER

Spencer, July 18.—The work of dismantling and buying 23,000 obsolete freight cars on lines of the Southern Railway System began at Spencer yesterday. Kaplan and Company, a Chicago salvage concern, established temporary offices in Spencer yesterday to supervise the burning of more than 2,000 of the bad order cars here. The force of men sent to Spencer from Princeton, Ind., is equipped with all sorts of machinery for wrecking the use, less rolling stock which has seen its day of service. It is said large numbers of the cars will be burned on specially built tracks each night and that the iron parts will be allowed to cool off so as to be loaded on gondola cars for shipment north the next day. It is estimated that it will require four months to salvage the old cars at this place.

My Beauty Hint

By CECELA PARKER (Screen Actress)

The first thing I do upon returning from work on location is to cleanse my face. Otherwise my complexion would be mddy.

First I use theatrical cold cream then warm water and soap, finishing off with ice water or ice cubes. I suggest the same procedure for any girl who spends much time in the open.

AYDEN WILL APPEAR HERE WEDNESDAY

If the rain does not interfere there probably will be a change of complexion in the Coastal Plain league with the first games of the week being played at Greenville and Kinston tomorrow.

The schedule calls for Ayden at Greenville and Snow Hill at Kinston on that date, and with Greenville and Snow Hill fighting hard to hold the league lead and with Kinston and Ayden striving still harder to get out of the lower position, the contests were expected to be marked by some mighty fine playing.

Snow Hill apparently had things going their way until last Saturday when Greenville defeated Ayden and Kinston tore down Mule Shirley's gang on their own home ground, but the change enabled Greenville to get on even terms with Snow Hill for the top position and improved Kinston's prospects for getting out of the cellar.

The race for the top has been tight as Dick's hat band all season with no club being able to get a single game lead for the position. The race has been conducted mainly by Greenville and Ayden but Snow Hill stepped in about two weeks ago and threatened to grab the honors. However, the licking administered by Kinston last Saturday and Greenville's victory over Ayden tied up the race for the top and fans everywhere will be watching Wednesday's games to see how the tables will turn.

Not entirely without some foundation, but nevertheless of somewhat surprising lengths, has the impression gained ground that the greatest of baseball boxmen within the past half dozen years, Robert Moses Grove, has been a soft touch for the New York Yankees.

I have debated this subject before on behalf of the celebrated left hander and am quite willing to do so again in reply to this inquiry from Joe Gotsler, sports editor of the Paterson (N. J.) Evening News, to-wit:

"Did Lefty Grove ever pitch a full game against the Yankees and when?"

The answer is that Grove has pitched no less than ten full games against the Yankees within the past half dozen seasons, give or take a few bad breaks here and there, and that he has more than held his own against the buffeting of the Yankees slingers, led by Ruth and Gehrig.

He beat them last June 10 by a score of 9 to 5 over the full route and gained another decision over the champions for this year's record in a relief role. He also wild-pitched a game away at the Yankee stadium.

Lost Six in '28

It is true that Grove has not always worked his regular turn against the Yankees, who have knocked the celebrated pitcher out of the box on a number of occasions with a complete lack of respect.

The idea that Lefty was "soft" for the New Yorkers developed away back in 1928, however, when he lost six games to the Yankees and won only one. It was persisted, despite the fact Connie Mack's ace hurler has kept the upper hand ever since. In fact that was the only year in seven, including the record of 1933 to date, in which Grove failed to capture a majority of his games against the Yankees.

He won three and lost one in 1927, 1929 and 1931; won three and lost two last year. In 1930 the books show only one decision and no defeats for Grove against the Yankees, which helped to strengthen the conviction Mack was not exposing his southpaw to unnecessary punishment from the maulers of Manhattan.

Who's Done Any Better?

In 1931, his greatest year, Grove pitched and won only one full game against the Yankees, on May 25. He captured another as a relief pitcher and was credited with a third victory after being knocked out of the box in the sixth by Gehrig's home run with the bases full. This game was noteworthy in that Grove fanned eight of the first ten Yankees to face him. But in the last game of the season the Yankees "put the slug" on Lefty.

He pitched and won full games on May 22 and June 2, 1932, beside finishing and winning the last half of a 16-inning battle June 2 against the champions. He was twice out-pitched and beaten by Lefty Gomez the same year.

There are some unimpressive spots in Grove's all-time record against the Yankees, but he has won 16 and lost 11 against them over a seven-year period—over half the defeats coming in one season—and it seems safe to say no other American League hurler has done as well against Murders' Row, the Bronx.

BING'S MAD

"Bing" Miller, third baseman of the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain league, was the most provoked man in town yesterday and the provocation was still hanging over today after a good night's sleep.

Bing, who has the credit of making less errors probably than any player in the league, was yesterday credited with seven errors in the columns of this paper, when as a matter of fact he has made only one bobble for the entire playing period.

For the sake of the scorekeeper's scalp, the writer would like to say the mistake was a typographical error, one of those things which occur quite frequently in the best organized families.

In addition to holding the fielding record, "Bing", former Wake Forest star, is rapping the old apple to all parts of the lot as he strives to get one over the fence again with the bases loaded. Heres hoping third base will continue the remainder of the season with only one error to its credit.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO PUT A DRY FLY WHERE YOU WANT IT EVERY TIME

● ABOVE—ARTHUR J. NEU, of East Orange, N. J., pulls in a nice one! Few men know the importance of healthy nerves better than Art Neu does. He is national champion in dry-fly casting for accuracy. Just as a stunt, Mr. Neu has frequently flicked the ash off a friend's cigarette with a fly at 35 feet!

● RIGHT—A DAY'S SPORT is more enjoyable with plenty of Camels along, because you can smoke all you want—and still be ready for more when evening comes! Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves...never tire your taste! Camels are better for steady smoking. It is more fun to know!

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

ARTHUR J. NEU, champion fly-caster, says:

"Dry-fly fishing is a delicate art that takes the best a man's got in steadiness of hand and eye. To win the championship in accuracy at casting a dry fly, I had to have healthy nerves. And yet I smoke steadily—all I want to—without disturbing my nerves. That's because I prefer Camels. There is no question but that they are milder. And their rich, inviting flavor seems to say, 'Have another.'"

Turn to Camels. Like Mr. Neu you will find that Camels are milder...that their flavor suits your taste...that steady smoking never jangles your nerves. So begin today!

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. The more you smoke them, the more you'll like them. Costlier tobaccos do taste better.
