BANK AT BATTLEBORO, N. C. ROBBED OF $5,000

Four Armed Men Scoop Up Funds And Flee In Car

CASHIER IS MADE TO LIE ON THE FLOOR

AWAIT BLANKS FOR STARTING COTTON PLOWS

Citizens Standing Outside the Institution Unaware of Two Minute Robbery; Unmasked Men Force Cashier to Lie on the Floor While They Obtain All Cash in Sight

Special Permits to be Issued Growers For Plowing up Cotton Acreage

E. F. Arnold has been advised by the head of the cotton production control drive in this state not to do anything about plowing up cotton farmers agreed to take out of cultivation in this county until permit blanks have been received.

Battleboro, N. C., July 20.—(AP)—Four bandits, each unmasked and carrying pistols, held up the Planters National Bank here today and escaped with approximately $5,000.

The robbery was executed in less than two minutes and the quartet fled in a small sedan carrying a North Carolina license tag.

Citizens outside the bank did not realize the institution had been robbed and the license number was not obtained.

Pitt county growers agreed to take around 3,000 bales out of production this year which is considerably more from the bale standpoint than the government required, although acreage was slightly under the goal.

James Daughtridge, cashier, said the men forced him to lie down on the floor while they scooped up all cash from the cash drawer and part of the bank's funds from the safe.

Farmers have been permitted to go ahead with the planting of food crops between cotton rows. The extra crop, however, will not be allowed to be placed on the market and must be consumed at home.

Daughtridge said the men entered the bank and immediately announced their intention, displaying pistols and forcing him to the floor.

The honor was well deserved, Mr. Arnold said, by reason of the fine work done by committeemen in every township of the county.

Police on notification of the robbery sent out word to watch all roads. Citizens who saw the bandit car drive away paid little attention to it and did not know which direction it took.

Mr. Arnold said he expected to receive the first batch of special permit blanks tomorrow and as soon as growers obtain these it was understood they would be permitted to begin plowing up the acreage they agreed to take out of cultivation.

He said the bandits were strangers and he did not recognize any of them. He said the amount was approximately $5,000. A check of the exact amount was not made immediately. The bank here is a branch of the Planters National Bank of Rocky Mount, 18 miles away.

Pitt county ranks as sixth in the state campaign, that honor having been revealed by the state reduction office following a check-up of returns from the various cotton producing counties of the state.

Recent Levine died, apparently without relatives. Little was known of his past life, and investigation of his effect and affairs after death brought a post card to light through which Fayetteville hopes to ascertain whether he has living relatives. Unless relations are discovered who can establish their relationship with the deceased, the property will go to the State University.

The card bearing the likeness of a Jewish priest, indicated that the deceased years ago was a resident of Durham where he worked among the Jewish people in the capacity of assistant rabbi. The card bears the name "Rev. J. Levinson," with 111 Proctor Street being shown as his street address.

GEN. BALBO ON VISIT TO WASHINGTON

Italian Air Ministry Head to Pay Visit to President Roosevelt Today

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—General Italo Balbo, leader of the Italian air armada that flew across the Atlantic to visit the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, arrived in Washington today for a visit to President Roosevelt.

Smiling broadly as he stepped from the sleek navy plane that brought him to Washington from New York, General Balbo was greeted by Lieut. Col. B. K. Youns, commander of Bolling Field, where the Italian airman landed.

Far up the field, artillery boomed forth with a 19 gun salute. The United States Navy band played the Italian national anthem as Balbo walked with Youns from the planes to the review stand.

There he was greeted by high governmental dignitaries including Secretaries Swanson and Roper, Italian Ambassador Rossi and a large group from the diplomatic corps gathered to do him honor.

After a brief exchange of greetings, Balbo and his party reviewed the guard of honor presented by the army and departed for a downtown hotel to rest before plunging into a round of functions.

SLIGHT SUM CONTRIBUTED ON TAG DAY

Only $26.00 Donated By the Public in Drive to Bolster Baseball Club

Tag day, launched here yesterday to raise funds for the local baseball club, was described today as running short of expectations. Club officials reported that only $26.00 was raised by young women taking part in the drive.

The total amount raised for the local ball club through the sale of tags here yesterday had not been determined today but it was believed the club treasury was given quite a boost.

Tags admitting purchasers to yesterday's game between Ayden and Greenville were sold by members of the Junior Woman's Club but they permitted holders to see only an inning and a half of the game which was broken up by rain.

The tags were good for only yesterday's game and will not entitle holders to any other contest this season. In fact, money paid for them was considered a direct contribution and admittance to the game was granted to help swell the crowd at the ball game.

Tag day was inaugurated to help the ball club get off the red side of the ledger but whether that objective was achieved could not be determined today because a complete check up of committee activities had not been made.

However, the outcome of the sale was expected to be made known by tomorrow. Officials of the club expressed appreciation of the tag purchases made by supporters.

Tennessee is the third southern state to ballot on the question. Arkansas having voted Tuesday to wipe national prohibition from the constitution.

Oregon votes tomorrow. Seventeen other states have decided to hold elections before November 7, while repeals expressed confidence the other states will take similar action and before Christmas prohibition will be a thing of the past.

WARREN SAYS POST BEGINS ROOSEVELT IS FLIGHT OVER FOR 'FREEDOM'

Congressman Tells Press Representative is Revolutionary

Manteo, July 20.—(AP)—Reviewing the anti-depression legislation enacted during the first days of the Roosevelt administration, Congressman Lindsay C. Warren of the First North Carolina District described the President as a "successful revolutionist" in addressing the North Carolina Press Association here last night.

American Round The World Flier Now Over 13 Hours Ahead of Record

Moscow, July 20.—(AP)—Wiley Post began the long and arduous trans-Pacific hop of his world flight today when 15 hours and 16 minutes ahead of the record he wants to beat, he hopped off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for Alaska.

"Franklin Delano Roosevelt, my friends, is a revolutionist," Warren said. "He is the leader of the most far-sweeping, all-inclusive revolution man has had in this country since the father of our country himself, gave us freedom from foreign oppression."

His haste eclipsed the speed of communication facilities for a few hours and news of his take off from Rukhobovo and arrival at the jumping off place was lacking.

"This man is giving us a new freedom—freedom from fear, freedom from hunger, freedom from inaction, freedom from poverty, and he is a successful revolutionist in his fight for the freedom of his people."

His relentless pace even in the face of almost complete exhaustion was occasioned by his intense desire to better the mark he made in 1931 with Harold Gatty over much the same route.

Congressman Warren, an administration leader in the House, called the national recovery act designed to put 15,000,000 people back to work "the President's do or die offensive attack against the depression."

He and Gatty were 129 hours and 34 minutes out of New York when they started the trans-oceanic hop from Khabarovsk. Post alone had an elapsed time at that point of only 113 hours and 48 minutes.

Successful administration of this act, the speaker said, "will provide a decent living widely spread among our 120,000,000 people."

"From today it has the right. And from today the slacker industry is in a most real way a public enemy. It is also a challenge to labor. It is labor's Magna Carta—its new charter of rights long sought but hitherto denied.

500 WORKERS TAKE PART IN NEW WALKOUT

Total Number on Strike Increased to Approximately 6,000; Carolina Garment Company and High Point Overall Company Involved In Today's Strike; Strikers Marking Time Awaiting Developments

High Point, July 20.—(AP)—Employees of the Carolina Garment Company and the High Point Overall Company went on strike here today demanding a 25 per cent increase in wages.

The two companies employed about 600 workers. H. P. Hudson is president of both concerns. The new strike brought the total number of workers on strike here to about 6,000.

Last Monday about 6,000 workers in various hosiery mills and furniture factories struck, but since then an agreement has been reached with a return of some 500 furniture workers to their jobs.

Strike leaders revealed that the management of the Carolina Garment Company and High Point Overall Company offered a 15 per cent increase when strikers made their demands last night but the offer was refused.

Meanwhile workers and officials of the other plants where strikes are in progress, apparently marked time.

TOWN OF LEICESTER ECONOMY-MINDED

Leicester, July 20.—(AP)—Leicester, this farming community 12 miles from Asheville, has no mayor, aldermen, police department, jail or city taxes.

Old residents say the town was incorporated in 1858 to permit legal sale of liquor and to give citizens the right to appoint peace officers and build a jail.

Although the incorporation has never been dissolved, Leicester is no longer, legally speaking, a town. Citizens dropped its officials when they found the town would have to pay the cost of a highway built through the "city limits."

WATERMELON CROP IS SHORT IN CHOWAN

Edenton, July 20.—Chowan county's watermelon crop is short this year, although a good many melons are being marketed this week.

The waterfront is a busy scene with boats loading melons for many markets. The only trouble is that there are not enough melons and some of the boats are having to wait.

The dry weather caused all the trouble, but it is predicted now that recent rains will bring about a fine new harvest of melons. Meanwhile, the demand for the famous Chowan melons is good and the supply is not adequate.

LAND BANK ANNOUNCES NEW INTEREST RATES

Columbia, July 20.—Announcement is made by the Federal Land Bank of Columbia, lending in the states of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, that interest rates on new loans made through national farm loan associations will be reduced to 5 per cent and loans made directly by the bank to 5.1-4 per cent. This is a reduction from the previous rates of 6 per cent on loans through national farm loan associations and 6.1-2 per cent on direct loans. The new rates are now identical with those prevailing in all other Federal Land Bank districts.

Now is the time to begin planning for that fall and winter garden as a part of the live-at-home plan. With the summer gardens now reaching their peak of production an effort should be made to can just as much of the surplus as possible for winter needs and then the supplementing of this by the fall and winter garden will prove a big help to our people. Let's see to it that Pitt County produces just as much of what it needs as possible in order that we can keep some of the money from our tobacco and cotton crops at home instead of sending it to other parts of the country to pay for things that we can and should produce ourselves. Only in this way can we hope to reach a state of financial independence in this agricultural section.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

(Greensboro Record)
Leaders among American business men have again demonstrated their well-grounded faith in newspaper advertising as being the surest way to reach and to sell the consuming public.
The bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, in figures just announced, shows that newspapers received 59 per cent of the total advertising appropriations of 432 national advertisers in 1932, and continued as the preferred advertising medium of 19 of the principal trade organizations in the United States.
Strikingly illustrative of the newspapers' pulling and selling power is the fact that they got 82 per cent of the automobile advertisements, 74 per cent of the gasoline ads, 92 per cent of the railroads' ads and 87 per cent of the shoe and clothing advertisements.
Newspapers may modestly point with pride to these figures, for they are, indeed, excellent testimonial to the efficacy of printers' ink.

WAYNE COUNTY CANS FOR NEED OF WINTER

Goldsboro, July 20—Vegetables are being canned at various points in Wayne county under direction of Mrs. John Spicer, of Goldsboro, to provide soup for school children of the county next winter, and to provide food for the unemployed.
With the assistance of a corps of workers, on Tuesday and Friday of each week, Mrs. Spicer cans vegetables from the city's community garden of 40 acres in the kitchen of the Goldsboro High school. Peas, butterbeans, string beans, shelled beans, lima beans, okra, and soup mixture, are among the vegetables from the community garden. These are for needy Goldsboro families next winter. These families are now receiving fresh vegetables from the garden.
Canning is being done at Fremont, Pikeville, Brogden, Belfast, Rosewood and other communities in the county for use in their respective schools for needy children during the coming winter. In some of the schools soup is provided for all the children. These vegetables are being donated by people of the communities.

Chapter 46 REAL NEWS

There was a sound at the back door, and Mrs. Drill hurried in. "Well, I never," she began. "You could have knocked me down with a feather when Scarlet told me you'd come home. Well, I never." "There wasn't time to let you know," Georgie said; her spirits rose at sight of the woman's kindly face. "I've just made some tea if you'd like some, but there's no need for you to stay, I can see to myself."
"Tea's always welcome," Mrs. Drill said and fetched another cup. "Well, and what do you think of the news, Miss Georgie?"
"You mean about the house?"
"Yes, and about your uncle. I'll bet you was surprised."
"What about my uncle?" Georgie asked blankly.
Mrs. Drill stared at her. "You don't mean that he hasn't told you?" she asked. "Well, I never. I should have thought it would have been the first thing he would have said, but perhaps he don't like to, him a gentleman born anyway as you might say."
"What are you talking about?" Georgie asked impatiently. "He told me he was going to sell the house if he could, and that he was going to live at the Bear's Head. But if there's anything else—"
"Live at the Bear's Head is right enough," Mrs. Drill said with deep satisfaction. "Of course he's going to live at the Bear's Head seeing that he's going to marry Mrs. Spears."
"Marry Mrs. Spears!" Georgie laughed. "I don't believe you," she light, and the sound of the radio. Georgie loved music, but tonight even the cheery lilt of a jazz tune deepened the ache in her heart.

Georgie pushed open the glass-paneled door which was proudly marked "Hotel Entrance," and came face to face with Mrs. Spears.

For a moment they looked at one another silently, then Mrs. Spears said helplessly, "Well, I never. Come right in. I was just thinking about you."

"I only came back this afternoon," Georgie said.

"So I hear," Mrs. Spears looked a little nervous, which must have been an unusual experience for her, as she led the way to her own private room.

"Take a seat," she said affably. "And tell me all the things you've been doing in London."

"There isn't much to tell," Georgie said. "And I came to say—to ask—" she floundered helplessly.

Mrs. Spears rushed into the breach.

"To ask if it's true that I'm going to live at the Bear's Head?"

"I expect you're surprised. I'm a bit surprised myself to tell you the truth, but there, I'm lonely and so's he, so when he said why not be lonely together. I said Right-off and there it was."

She patted her golden hair complacently. "You needn't be afraid that I won't look after him," she added.

"I'm not," Georgie said. "I'm only afraid that living here, he will drink himself to death."

Mrs. Spears laughed.

"Well, that's something you need never be afraid of," she said confidently. "I'm mistress here and he knows it, and what I say goes. Let me tell you, my dear, he'll be more sober living in this house than he's been for years, and if you come back in a month's time you won't know him and that's a fact."

"And seeing you—" Mrs. Spears went on, "makes me think of that Mr. Boyd I had here before you went away. You don't ever hear anything of him I suppose?"

"Do you?" Georgie asked.

"Well, I hear a bit now and then but you can't believe half you hear and that's a fact. They said his operation was a failure, poor man."

"What about a little drink just to celebrate the occasion? Just you and me together?"

"Yes," Georgie said.

"Half a bottle of the best Bubbly," Mrs. Spears said heartily. "I don't suppose you're exactly delighted to have me for an aunt, but there's nobody I'd rather have for a niece than you, Miss Georgie, and that's a fact." And as she passed Georgie on her way out to the bar

KIDNAPED BANKER HOME AGAIN

DR. MESEVER 83, GETS MANY FELICITATIONS

Tarboro, July 20—Dr. Charles F. Mesever, president emeritus of Shaw University, Raleigh who is spending the summer at his home in Squirrel Island, Main, celebrated his 83rd birthday on July 15th. On this occasion he received 87 letters of congratulations and good wishes from his Tarboro friends.
Dr. Mesever spent last winter here and expects to return here to make his home next winter.

said firmly. "I can't believe you," she amended her words. "Why Mrs. Spears doesn't even like Uncle Edward."

"Ah, that's what she told you I expect," Mrs. Drill said knowingly. "But she don't tell everything to you or to anyone else. She's one of the deep ones. She's going to marry him alright, and a fine step up it is for her. They're going to be married next week in London. Every one in the village knows about it, Miss Georgie. Most of 'em think that you, Ma knew, too, seeing that she took you away all in a hurry like. I couldn't believe my ears when I heard that you'd come home again."

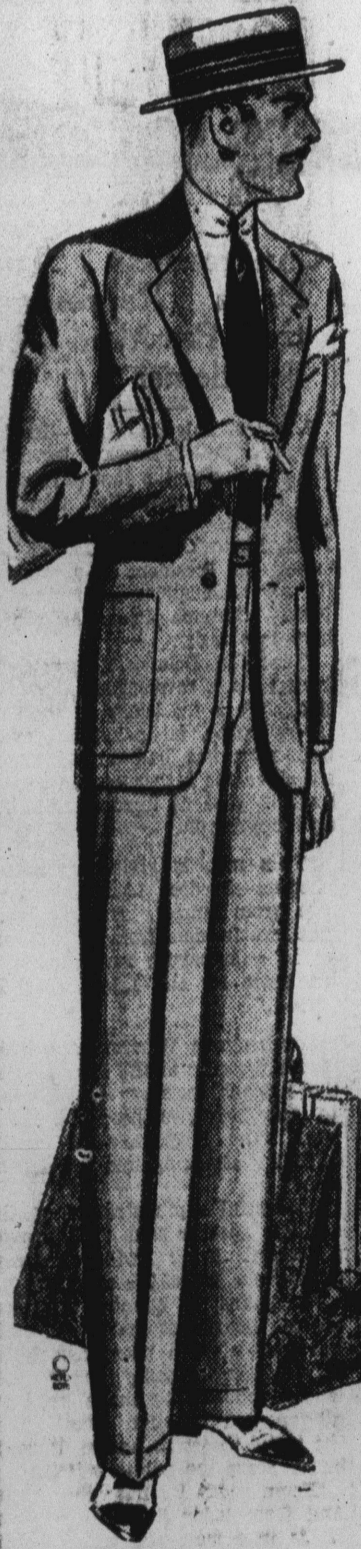

"Come home!" Georgie laughed, wondering if there was anyone in the world more homeless than she.

Later on in the evening, having first made sure that her uncle was asleep in his study, Georgie walked down to the Bear's Head. The village seemed silent and deserted, but as she walked she seemed to hear a slow, limping footstep behind her and once she turned her head quickly, almost expecting to see Nicholas Boyd's tall figure outlined against the dark sky.

If only—if only! She hurried on, trying vainly to outstrip the longing which she knew must go with her to the end of her life. It seemed hard that she must be one of the faithful sort, she thought wistfully; other girls whom she had known in London laughed and talked about the number of their love affairs as if it was quite natural to have half a dozen.

CHURCHGOERS GIVEN FREE "PICK UP" BUS SERVICE

Marion, Ohio, July 20.—(AP)—A new service to churchgoers is being tried out here by an open air church begun this year in Marion's parks by the Marion Federation of Labor.

It is free bus service to the churchgoers. The city's bus lines have agreed to run buses which will pick up the outdoor worshippers in four sections of the city and take them to the services free of charge.

The church was begun by the labor federation, local merchants and city officials for those whose lack of "Sunday clothes" had been keeping them away from church.

NAMES LINKED IN NEW ROMANCE

Rumor has Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President, in a new romance with Ruth Goggins of Fort Worth, Tex. Both, however, have denied any matrimonial intentions. Young Roosevelt recently was divorced in Minden, Nev., from the former Elizabeth Donner, Philadelphia society girl. (Associated Press Photos)

New Books

By JOHN SELBY

New York—It is a little unfair to speak of Harvey Ferguson's "Rio Grande" as history, for that word still calls up a somewhat unpromising picture of tomes with uncut leaves, full of rhetorical phrasology.

Yet "Rio Grande" is history, the history of the Rio Grande valley in New Mexico. It should be accurate history, too, with the accuracy of a native; Mr. Ferguson was born in the valley, which he nevertheless is able to see objectively. The story is told in a series of episodes, such colorful episodes as that of the negro, Estevan, who swept up from Mexico City with a handful of men and a priest duty-bound to convert the natives and stake out the land for the King of Spain. Estevan soon left the priest

SIMPLE REFRESHMENTS MAKE OUTDOOR PARTIES DIFFERENT. Informal parties, with refreshments prepared out of doors or in the garage or recreation room, are winning favor. Scrambled eggs fried eggs and ham, hamburgers or baked beans, with coffee, as salad and dessert make a suitable menu. Sandwiches, buttered biscuits, muffins or rolls can also be served. If an outdoor fire or a fire place is available the guests can toast meat squares, filled buns or sandwiches.

"Stranger's Return"

Pril Strong is back again with another Iowa story quite as clever as "State Fair". This one he calls "Stranger's Return", the stranger being a girl whose father had left the family farm in Iowa and never gone back. The girl goes back, stirs up a shocking amount of intrigue, permits her grandfather to die happy and disrupts the life of a young married man on a neighboring farm. Mr. Strong makes Iowa marvelously interesting; moreover, he has a gift for creating characters who exist, capable of gorging pie as well as of juggling the filmy fabric of love.

These Are With Us

For the literary week offers "Quaker Militant," the first full-length biography of John Greenleaf Whittier in 30 years, in which Albert Mordell tries with apparent success to round out his subject by emphasis on his strenuous activity as an abolitionist and his inexplicable attractiveness for woman writers.

For the air-minded, there is the adventurous life story of Birger Johnson, the flyer, told pleasantly if not brilliantly by Henry Wysham Lanier; for the lover of mysteries there are two of importance; Anthony Wynne's "Death Out of the Night" and R. A. J. Walling's "Prove It Mr. Toolefree" both nice examples of the work of practical writers.

And thus who still hanker after a novel will perhaps be interested by Elizabeth Cambridge's "Hostages to Fortune" a slow-going day-by-day chronicle of life in Oxfordshire that has its moments of brightness.

DON'T MAKE OVER CHILD BEFORE TEATIME VISITORS

If you allow your children to come in for grown-up afternoon tea don't make them the center of attraction. It is embarrassing for them and for the outside visitors. Have them speak nicely to the visitors and then partake of some toothsome bit of refreshment. Do not discuss them before visitors. Children have a vague feeling that this is distasteful.

A PRESERVING TIP

To keep preserves from spoiling, after filling the jars and allowing them to become cool, try covering with olive oil. Nor need you be afraid that the oil will permeate the jelly, for oil and sweet water, which is the basis of a jelly, will not mix. Then cover your jars with ordinary covers and you can use at any time.

HOUSEKEEPING HINTS

When making sandwiches soften the butter by creaming with a fork and then add a little cream. This will make the butter spread easily. Use firm fresh fruit for jelly making, and underripe in preference to over ripe. The property in fruit which causes it to jelly is more abundant in under ripe than over ripe fruit.

Pork Consumption Increases.

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—The American people now are eating approximately 8 per cent more pork and lard per person than they did in the pre-war period, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

TO PEOPLE WHO WANT SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

There are some things we refuse to do to sell a car. We like sales, but fair-dealing and the confidence of our customers are desirable, too. For one thing, we refuse to poison anyone's mind against another make of car. We know what our car is and what it will do, and we are ready to tell you about that. But to imply defects in another car is not our business.

We have done our utmost to encourage intelligent buying of motor cars by showing purchasers how to protect their own interests. All that a good producer asks is a customer who knows quality when he sees it. An intelligent purchaser will speedily conclude that only a bad product requires bad sales methods.

We refuse, also, to adopt the role of tricky trader—that is, pretending to offer you a larger trade-in allowance, and taking it away from you in some other way. Ford trade-in values are high, but we do not make fictitious allowances in order to get a sale which may be otherwise disadvantageous to the buyer. Our dealers take used cars upon a system of values, not by haggling or barter.

In this world no one gets something for nothing, although there are many ways of making people think that they do. The sure way to get value for value is, first, by being yourself willing to deal on that basis, and second, by dealing with a concern that has no other policy.

We refuse to keep dinning in your ears that the Ford V-8 is the best, most economical, lowest-priced car. That is claimed for several cars. Obviously it cannot be true of all. There comes a point where claims and adjectives and all advertising hysteria disappears in its own fog. Personally, I prefer facts.

We say the new Ford V-8 is the best car we have made.

We say that our 8-cylinder car is as economical to operate as any lower number of cylinders.

We say that we have always been known as the makers of good cars and that the many good, well-balanced qualities of our present car places it at the head of our line to date.

Anyone wishing to do business with us on these principles will find our word and the quality of our product to be A-1. What we say about economy, operation and durability will stand good anywhere.
