Cotton Spinning Sets New Record In United States

MOST ACTION REFLECTED IN COTTON AREAS

Both North and South Carolina Hang up New Records by Operating Well Over 2,000,000 Spindles During Month Of June; South Carolina Leads All States

Washington, July 21. (AP)—United States cotton spinning operations reached a new high record of activity in June.

They operated at 129.1 per cent of capacity on a single shift basis. This was a sharp advance over activity in May which was 112.3 per cent.

June activity was more than double the same thirty day period in 1932, according to the monthly report of the Census Bureau today.

Activity in June, 1932, was 57.6 per cent of capacity. Based on an activity of 8.96 hours per day the average number of spindles operated during June was 39,917,775.

Many of the mills run at capacity around the clock with 25,340,504 spindles active during the month. They set up a new record by operating an aggregate of 9,299,175,023 spindle hours during the month or 301 hour average for each spindle in place.

Cotton growing states showed the most activity. They had 18,976,226 spindles in place, of which 27,593,128 were active in the month whirling an aggregate of 7,046,039,942 spindle hours or an average of 369 hours for each spindle in place.

Both North and South Carolina set up new records by each operating well over 2,000,000 spindle hours during the month, with South Carolina leading all states.

BATTERY HERE TO GO TO CAMP

Military Unit to be Accompanied by Commander J. Herbert Waldrop

J. Herbert Waldrop, who was recently placed in command of the local unit of North Carolina National Guard, announced today that the artillerymen were training for annual encampment on August 15.

He said the battery was working hard to establish a new record when they go to camp and that they were putting in plenty of training to accomplish this purpose.

The battery for the last several years has won recognition in various fields of activity and last year drew the approbation of some of the ranking officers in the state encampment.

Commander Waldrop, who Wednesday received notice from Major General J. Van B. Metts that he had been placed in command of the battery, will accompany the boys to camp. Mr. Waldrop was placed in command of the artillerymen after Captain J. C. Lanier, the former commander, accepted a job in the tobacco marketing division of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Mr. Waldrop is a veteran of the world war and has been active in development of the military unit here for a number of years. He also has taken a prominent part in activities of the American Legion.

Having served as a lieutenant in the world war, Mr. Waldrop is eminently fitted for the post to which he has been named and continued development of the local unit was anticipated.

STATE PRESS ENDS MEETING

Newspaper Writers End Dare Meeting Following Election Of Officers

Manteo, July 21. (AP)—Election of officers early this afternoon was to bring to a close the three-day annual convention of the North Carolina Press Association.

At a general meeting in the Dare county court house this morning the effect of the national industrial code will have on newspaper enterprises was discussed, with A. E. Gordon explaining the effect on job printing and J. L. Horne, Jr., of Rocky Mount, discussing the act from the newspaper angle.

The business session for the election of officers followed.

The convention was to wind up with a coast guard demonstration.

Harpburgs Plan For New Triune Monarchy

The Hague, Holland. (AP)—Otto of Hapsburg, 20-year-old heir of the royal house which used to rule the Austro-Hungarian empire, again has been projected into the European spotlight.

Emissaries of his widowed mother, the ex-Empress Zita, have been visiting various European capitals and family sources hint that their plans for an Austro-Hungarian-Croatian empire, with the youthful archduke on the throne as Otto I, are going forward.

Hapsburg intimates assert that four capitals would not consider such a development a misfortune. In this category they list Rome, Vatican City, Paris and London.

They hold further that four other countries, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Poland and Yugoslavia, would acquiesce provided that proper economic compensations are offered.

Expect German Protest

The same sources expect opposition from Germany because of the Nazi hope of one day seeing Germans of Austria united with the Reich. They also predict protests from Hungary where Admiral Nicholas Horthy rules a kingless monarchy as regent with Julius Goemboes as his premier. In this connection they cite recent visits by Goemboes to Berlin and Vienna.

The Hapsburg intimates point also to visits, recent or planned, of various royal personages to certain capitals. They connect to their cause a trip to Vienna of Alfonso XIII, ex-king of Spain, husband of a British princess and head of another Hapsburg branch. They cite further a recently announced call by Alfonso upon Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania.

Zita's Brother Active

In Belgrade, capital of Yugoslavia Prince Sixtus of Parma, brother of Zita, has been visiting King Alexander. Reports have it that he has been trying to convince King Alexander that it would be to the latter's advantage to grant autonomy of Croatia, even though that province might vote to join Austria and Hungary with Otto as ruler.

Alexander, in turn, is reported to have sent his brother-in-law, Duke Anton of Hapsburg, an uncle of Otto to Croatia Duke Anton's father was popular among the Croats in pre-war days and now the son, say the reports, has been told to find out how their relations with their present king might be affected if they (Continued On Page Three)

TENNESSEE VOTES WET

State Becomes the 19th to Favor Repeal Of The 18th Amendment

(By Associated Press) Tennessee became today the nineteenth state to approve repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, as Oregon proceeded to ballot on the problem.

Repealists continued to hold an advantage of approximately 10,000 as additional precincts were reported.

The margin of victory for anti-prohibitionists in Tennessee was smaller than in any of the other states which have held popular elections on the constitutional change.

In Oregon today leaders of the repeal movement predicted a two to one victory. Drys seemed agreed they had no more than a fighting chance.

COTTON SHOW HELD BY NASHVILLE WOMEN

Nashville, July 21.—The cotton show sponsored by the Baptist Women's Missionary Society which took place here Tuesday night attracted a large number of participants and spectators. There were seven groups in which women and children wearing cotton entered, and prizes to the models winning in these entries were furnished by local merchants. Another feature of the show was the giving away of several cakes. The musical program for the occasion was provided by the Nashville band and other home talent.

SEEK RAY IN BANK ROBBERY

Man Who Escaped From County Jail Here Involved at Battleboro

M. P. (Railroad) Ray, who recently escaped from the county jail here, was believed to be one of three men who held up the Planters National Bank at Battleboro yesterday and escaped with over $5,000 of the bank's funds.

Officers here as well as in other parts of the state were taking part in the widespread effort to apprehend Ray, former Piedmont league ball player, Paul Edwards and Jimmy Hill, two others believed to have taken part in the bank robbery.

Edwards is the alleged ringleader of a band of freight car and wholesale house robberies staged in this section the last several months and was being sought by police on larceny charges. Ray was also connected with the band.

When Ray was arrested he was brought to Greenville and placed in jail to await hearing in Superior court.

Several weeks ago he obtained a key to the main vault of the jail and walked out. His escape was not discovered until sometime later. Sheriff Whitehurst was out of the city at the time and found his prisoner had taken leave without notice during his absence.

Ray was being held in connection with the robbery of Duncan and Gilbro's store here in which cigarettes valued at $300 were taken. Part of the loot was recovered.

The cashier of the robbed bank identified Ray and Hill as two of the men who staged the robbery by photographs furnished by police.

SEEK FEDERAL HELP IN THIS PART OF STATE

Eastern Chamber After Public Works Money; Sales Tax Talked at Meet Here

Scores of business men from this immediate section of the state received considerable information on the North Carolina sales tax and functions of the federal public works act as recently passed by congress at the regional meeting of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce at the Friendly Dining Room here last night.

In addition, they adopted resolutions presented by J. A. Jones of Kinston, the East Carolina quality for the spending of federal public construction funds for improvement of projects in this part of the country. The resolutions also provided that the organization be represented at Washington so that the best interest of the section may be served in this connection.

The projects mentioned were at Cape Lookout, port terminal at Morehead City, the building of a national park and construction of a highway along the coast connecting with the road at Elizabeth City. Other improvements not mentioned were stressed.

The speakers of the evening were John Dawson, of Kinston, former chairman of the State Board of Elections, who spoke on the Federal Recovery program, and Harry MacMullan, director general of the State sales tax, who told of the workings of the tax which became effective July 1.

G. V. Smith, prominent Greenville tobaccoist and former President of the Eastern Chamber, pinch-hit in the place of Raymond Turnage of Ayden, who was not able to attend on account of pressing business engagement. Mr. Smith told of some of the achievements of the organization during the 11 years of service. In addition to this the speaker urged support of President Roosevelt in his attempt to bring a return of prosperity, declaring he had done more in this direction during his short stay in office than had been done in many previous years.

Jud-e Guy Elliot, of Kinston, president of the organization, presided and N. G. Bartlett, secretary, made announcements dealing with activities of the evening.

Following invocation by Dr. R. S. McGeachy, supper was served. Mayor R. C. Flanagan extended the visitors a cordial welcome. lauded President Roosevelt and said it was in this spirit of good will and confidence that Greenville welcomed the visitors.

Jesse Jones, of Kinston, responded in the place of Judge Clayton Moore, of Williamston, who was unable to be present. He praised the progress of the people of this community and said they were setting a splendid pace in the general plan to bring a return of better times.

Speaking in the place of Col. J. W. Harrelson, director of Conservation and Development of the State department at Raleigh, who was unable to attend, Mr. Dawson, described the legislation as a "sympathetic attempt of the government to improve the unemployment situation while at the same time making necessary improvements."

He said the act applied to any public works, especially municipalities, counties and states, and that they should be able to obtain as much as 30 per cent of construction costs of such projects.

Mr. MacMullan told of the state taking over operation of schools and roads without increasing property tax and said this made it necessary to raise funds from other sources. He described the sales tax purely as an emergency measure to save the credit of the state.

It is a tax paid by the consuming public, he asserted, and not by the merchants as some suppose.

Discussing various features of the legislation, he stated a merchant may charge what he likes for his goods but it is unlawful for him to advertise he will absorb the sales tax. Men who absorb the tax will be taken care of by other merchants.

Mr. MacMullan smilingly asserted. He said many of the larger merchants of the state had approved the tax and were giving wholehearted co-operation to its administration. The tax provides for three per cent on retail sales and 1-25 of one per cent on wholesales.

Included in exemptions of the act he said are cotton and tobacco, although resales of tobacco, that is from other than the producer, carries the 1-25 of one per cent tax. Other things included in exemption were lard, flour, meat, sugar, molasses and coffee, gasoline consumption (Continued On Page Three)

JIMMIE HILL QUESTIONED IN BANK ROBBERY

Smithfield Cafe Operator in Custody of Detective in Battleboro Holdup

Smithfield, July 21.—(AP)—James "Jimmie" Hill, operator of a cafe here, was questioned last night concerning the robbery yesterday of the Planters National Bank at Battleboro, although he was not in jail here today.

Sheriff R. U. Barber said he believed Hill was in the custody of Chief of Detectives Long of the A. C. L. Railroad.

Hill was said to have been identified by five persons as one of the three bandits who robbed the Battleboro bank of more than $5,000 yesterday morning.

Reports which could not be verified were that Long and his prisoner, Hill, were searching the countryside in this section for two other men alleged to have been participants in the bank robbery, M. P. "Railroad" Ray and Paul Edwards.

Sheriff Barber said that Long was "sticking around" with Hill last night and thought the cafe operator was under arrest today. Hill was reported to have been out of town yesterday until early last night.

PARIS PARLIAMENT CLINGS TO POWERS

Paris.—(AP)—The French parliament has just seen what looked to some apprehensive politicians as the approach of centralized executive power, and has slammed the door against it.

It killed in committee a bill which would have given the cabinet full power to impose, raise or lower tariffs.

Daladier Denies Charge

Objection to the measure, which was introduced on behalf of Premier Edouard Daladier, was expressed in the argument that the bill might lead to increasing assumption of legislative power by the executive branch, making an opening for a possible future dictator.

As a consequence Daladier gave formal assurance that he seeks none of parliament's authority. But he also warned the law-makers that he would call them from vacation early in October, much sooner than they had expected.

Nevertheless the federation of miner's unions in the coal fields of northern France, adopted a resolution promising to defend themselves by all means, including a general strike, against "attempts of fascist domination."

Winnie Mae Damaged in Landing at Flat After Flier Loses Way Over Bering Sea; Plans Arranged For Take off Early Today on Trip To America; Repairs Slightly Delayed

Flat, Alaska, July 21.—(AP)—A girdingnew propeller for Wiley Post world girdling flier in the Winnie Mae, was finally installed early today after being rushed from Fairbanks and on completion of repairs Post set the time for his take off at 4:30 a. m. (9:30 a. m. EST).

Flat, Alaska, July 21.—(AP)—Refreshed by five or six hours sleep, Wiley Post, American round the world flier, was back at the air field at midnight to watch repairs being made on the damaged Winnie Mae, and said that if possible he wanted to get away by 1:30 Fairbanks time, or 6:30 a. m. (EST).

When that hour arrived Post had returned to his cot in the hangar and was catching a few last winks of sleep and his take off was temporarily delayed.

Post expressed opinion he would still break that record of 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes which he and Harold Gatty set in their 1931 globe circling flight, if his ship is repaired sufficiently for him to get away this morning. He hopped off from New York at 4:10 a. m., Saturday, July 15.

BACK FROM TAX SCHOOL

T. T. Hollingsworth Assigned as Sales Tax Representative In Pitt County

T. T. Hollingsworth has returned from Chapel Hill where he attended a school of instruction for employes of the sales tax division of the State Department of Revenue.

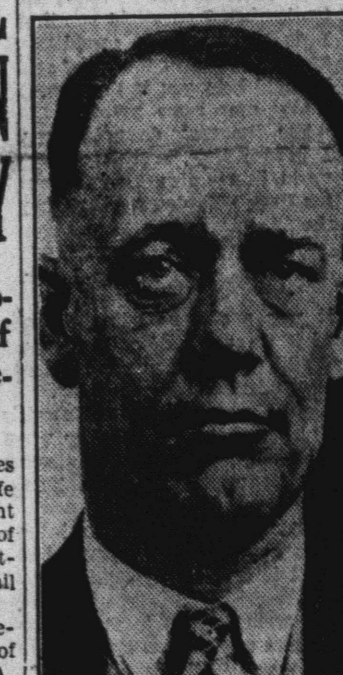

Mr. Hollingsworth was recently appointed to the sales tax department and has been assigned to work in Pitt county.

He said the school of instruction dealt largely with information dealing with administration of the three per cent sales tax passed by the last General Assembly and that department employes received much valuable data in connection with their activities.

Mr. Hollingsworth announced his temporary headquarters would be in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce on the second floor of H. A. White & Sons, on Evans street.

He stated he would confine his attention during the remainder of the month to collection of registration fees from various merchants of the county. This fee is $1 for retail merchants and $12.50 every six months for wholesale dealers. Every merchant is required to register with the sales tax division of the revenue department so that officials may keep in direct touch and provide them with any information which they may desire.

Beginning the first of the month, Mr. Hollingsworth will begin actual collection of the sales tax on the basis of the new schedule which A. J. Maxwell, director of the Department of Revenue, will make known Sunday. The schedule covers every branch of business and takes (Continued On Page Three)

With prospects for a good fall now ahead of us, it is gratifying to note the optimism on the part of our people and the hearty spirit of co-operation that seems to prevail between our tobacco market, our merchants and the individuals of our city generally. Any community will move forward just to the extent that its citizens carry it and basing our opinion upon the united efforts of our citizens Greenville is preparing to make the most of the coming prosperity.

Indications now are that the complete organization of the branches of the Federal Home Loan Corporation will be completed within a very short time and the bank here will get into operation. The coming of this institution is not only an honor for Greenville but most important of all is that it will offer an opportunity to home owners now in financial straits to save their homes. This aid for the home owners is just another part of the "New Deal" that our government is giving to our people.

ELIMINATING HIGHWAY DANGER

(New Bern Sun-Journal) If North Carolina's new billboard tax succeeds in eliminating some of the signs from North Carolina's roads it will have proven itself a safety measure and one for the beautification of the highways as well as a source of revenue to the state.

Col. Frederick S. Greene, superintendent of public works of the State of New York, is quoted by the editorial writer of the Newspaper Enterprise Association as saying that the billboard districts the attention of the speeding motorist on country highways and thereby causes traffic accidents. "If a sign does not attract attention, thereby distracting the driver from his business of handling his motor car, it fails in its purpose," he adds. "In my opinion, the more important objection to the billboard is that it does cause accidents rather than that it mars the scenic beauty of the roadside."

Arthur Newton Pack, president of the American Nature Association, heads a motorcade which is making an auto-photographic trip across the American continent. He is an active campaigner against billboard advertising. "As we travel across the continent," he says, "we are impressed with the extent to which Americans have allowed roadsides to be ruined by unsightly billboards. If the pleasure and safety of travel by automobile are to be preserved, rural billboards must come down."

DANDY COUPLE OBJECTS OF SEARCH

Lexington, July 21.—L. O. The husband was working in Thomasville but neighbors responded to distress cries of the children and began an investigation.

By the World FORGOT

BISHOP'S LETTER

Chapter 47 By the morning post there were two letters for George—one from Clifford Asher, telling her that he had called at the hotel again only to find she had gone, upbraided her for not telling him and pleaded once more that she would give him a chance to show how much he cared.

George sighed as she laid it aside and took up the second letter. It bore the stamp of the hotel she had just left and was addressed in writing she did not know. Before she read it, she turned to the end to discover the signature, and a little shiver of apprehension went through her as she read it: Bishop Letter.

Why had he written to her? Perhaps Evelyn had insisted that he should, in order to add his upbraiding for the things she was supposed to have done. For the first time George recalled the ugly words her mother had used to her about divorce, it seemed queer that until now they had almost entirely escaped her memory.

Dear George: I am not blaming you for going away without saying goodbye to me, but I cannot resist saying that perhaps some day you may realize that I spoke the truth when I once told you that I do not betray a confidence, and that I meant it when I said I would help you if the oppor-tunity ever came my way.

For the rest, do not worry. I believe that in this strange world things always come right for those who deserve that they should.

Yours, Bishop Letter.

It was a strange letter, George read it through half a dozen times and still felt that she could not entirely understand his meaning. Had he guessed what her thoughts had been that last morning when she broke away from his kindness? If so he must have been hurt—cruelly hurt.

She seemed again to see Bishop's lined face and patient eyes, and her own were suddenly dimmed by tears. "I'll write to him," George told herself. "I'll write him and tell him I'm sorry. He'll understand."

Killick, the wealthy director who had brought her to England, was beside him, a spare alert man with an eternal frown, which was deeper than usual now as he spoke to Bishop in quick, irritable tones. "Montague's rotten. He'll ruin the picture. We want a man like Nicholas Boyd. There's a fortune waiting for a man with his face and figure and personality. Why he wanted to go and smash himself up beats me. Film stars can't afford to play the hero in real life, and anyway, the girl wasn't worth a curse; there are thousands like her at the door of this studio every day."

"You knew Nicholas Boyd?" Bishop asked. "Knew him! Should think I did. He hated me though, jealous of his wife." Killick laughed sneeringly. "I should say he had some cause to be jealous; but he knows now that if he'd had any sense he'd have given me a bonus to take her off his hands and a vote of thanks too."

Bishop ganced down at the furry wrap across his arm; it was like Bernie herself—pretty, but entirely negligible. "What sort of a man was Boyd?" he asked after a moment. Killick shrugged his shoulders. "Englishman," he said briefly. "A white man, you'd call him I expect. Decent enough fellow, too decent in some ways. I don't owe him any grudge. He's down and out all right, poor devil."

He rushed away again to enter into a fierce argument with Bernie, who was stamping her foot on the borderline of tears. Bishop hunched his shoulders in distaste and turned away, the fluffy cloak slipping unheeded to the floor. "What a life," he muttered, and he thought suddenly of George's brown eyes and sensitive face. George put her head round the kitchen door and looked at Mrs. Drill with wistful eyes.

"Would you like to go to the pictures?" she asked. Mrs. Drill looked up from a paper backed novel. "Pictures! What pictures, miss?" she asked blankly.

"The films," George explained. "We can get the half past two bus to Redham; there's a nice picture house there." Mrs. Drill hesitated. "I don't know that I will Miss George, thank you all the same. I've got a bit of rheumatism, and sitting in those hot places don't help matters, thank you all the same."

George smiled and sighed together; she was so tired of her own company that she had been driven to solicit Mrs. Drill's cheery companionship rather than be left any longer to her own thoughts. She had been home nearly a week now, the longest week she had ever experienced, and in three days time Edward Bancroft and Mrs. Spears were to be married.

Nobody had offered to buy the Hollies, nobody had even been to look over it although Bancroft had gone to the expense of having a board posted beside the gate, bearing the legend "this desirable residence for sale."

He had told George that she might stay on as long as the house was not sold. "Or for a few weeks," he had added, mindful of the fact that the house might never be sold, and George had agreed, not knowing what else to do.

She had not heard a word from Evelyn, and Bishop had not replied to her shy, apologetic letter. Apparently they had both done with her.

Nothing Stops Him Those who have known Mr. Roosevelt for years marvel at his ability to get so completely away from the things that engage his attention. It requires a certain daring to leave the White House for a vacation cruise as he did this last time with the London economic conference in session and the vast relief agencies at home just being set up.

How Ford Owners May Save Money And Keep Their Cars In Excellent Running Condition Ford has reduced the operating cost for Ford owners of Model A, B and V8 cars of 1928 through 1933 by making it possible for owners to have installed complete Factory built motor assembly at very low cost. Model A and B (4 cyl) $38.50 plus freight Model 18 and 40 (8 cyl) $41.00 plus freight Note: Freight is approximately $2.00 No other car on the American market provides such and unusual opportunity. The above service on the average low price car would cost you $100.00 or more. This is another policy of economy which FORD has made available to lower your operating cost per mile. Truly it pays to own and operate FORD cars and trucks. Regardless of the mileage or number of years in service this exchange is available at all times. Investigate this modern way of reducing the cost of car ownership and operation. FORD leads in the field of economy John Flanagan Buggy Co.

Tardieu Advocates Decrees

What agitation there is in France for a stronger executive authority armed with decree laws, comes from the right republicans of ex-Premier Andre Tardieu. He is a brisk, assertive politician of the successful American business executive type.

The creed of his group has been expressed by his lieutenant, Paul Reynaud.

"I believe it is necessary to modify the constitution," he said. "Having borrowed the English parliamentary machine, we were wrong in doing away with the brake. The right to dissolve parliament should belong solely to the chief of state."

Opponents of the Tardieu bloc argue that social conditions in France do not permit the establishment of a dictatorial regime. Said one spokesman:

"The great middle class of France lacks an equivalent in Germany where it is ruined, and in Italy, where it never existed. It constitutes a society animated by the little bourgeois' spirit—individualistic possessive and resistant to collective discipline."

All producers are exempt from the tax unless they should operate a store and make sales through that medium. Repossessed articles on which tax was paid in the original sale, are not subject to taxation.

He stated every merchant must pay $1.00 to register with the tax department so that he may have direct connection with the sales tax division. Wholesale houses are required to pay $12.50 every six months. He stated that merchants were not required to pay on credit sales until they had received their money.

Speaking of the effort of the department to simplify application of the tax, he said Mr. Maxwell, who was on the program here but was not able to attend, would promulgate a new schedule from Raleigh Sunday. The one schedule will cover the other three or four methods for collecting the tax which have been in vogue the last several weeks.

L. S. Bland of the auditing department of the sales tax division, told of the registration fees and the effort being made to keep in direct touch with the merchants and to assist them in every way possible.

Claude Chamberlain, of Kinston, Lt. Gov. of this Kiwanis district, was recognized, and told of the district meeting to be held in Morehead City August 25. Members of the local Kiwanis club were guest of the business men.

NASH COUNTY REDUCTION IS BENEATH THE QUOTA

Nashville, July 21—Farmers in Nash county this year will produce approximately 14,862 acres of cotton out of the original acreage of 21,287 in the county.

The figures were given out by H. G. Wharton, Nash county farm agent, who has been in charge of the cotton acreage reduction campaign in the county. Final tabulations, he says, are expected to bring the number of farmers agreeing for destruction of cotton acreage to 1,800 with the total number of acres to be destroyed about 425, a number considerably under the goal set for 10,000.

For the destruction of this cotton there will be paid to the farmers in Nash an amount of $84,648.16 in cash advance payments and options on 3,484 bales of government owned cotton will be mailed out to the growers next week.

A yield of 118 bushels of oats to the acre on a 21-acre field was reported by Joe Berry, Chickasha, Okla., farmer.

Charles Cobb Wins Medal At Duke University

Charles Cobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Cobb, and former outstanding football player of Greenville high school, has returned home after completing a course at Duke University summer school.

In addition to completing his studies in a highly satisfactory manner, young Cobb came back with a medal which he won in national competition in playground baseball. He was a member of the Duke team which stayed in the race until all national competitors were eliminated.

Every member of the team, Charles stated, received a decoration like the one presented him.

Charles will begin his first year at Duke in the fall and his friends here who followed his career in high school athletics are expecting him to find a prominent place at Duke.

HAPSBURGS PLAN FOR NEW TRIUNE MONARCHY

Italy's support is counted upon the Hapsburg intimates say, because Otto, upon a restored throne, would be a match for 18-year-old Princess Maria of avoy, youngest daughter of the king of Italy. They claim that the Vatican would give its benediction to a union between the two royal Catholic families.

Princess Maria's sister is queen of Bulgaria. With another Italian queen in the Balkans, the argument runs, the policy of Mussolini regarding extension of influence in the Balkans would be strengthened.

An additional piece of Hapsburg logic is that an Austro-Hungarian-Croatian empire with a Savoy queen would not be likely to open up the question of the South Tyrol, awarded to Italy after dismemberment of the old dual monarchy.

The Hapsburg adherents claim that the possibility of fresh arguments over that province in case of "anschluss" between Hitlerite Germany and a Nazi Austria, is one of the impelling influences in Mussolini's cordiality toward the anti-Nazi regime of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in Vienna.

Early Success Predicted

The Hapsburgs are reported as ready to offer far-reaching economic advantages to the Polish, Czechoslovakian, Rumanian and Yugoslavian neighbors of the proposed new monarchy. They mention a customs union and say it would be of mutual advantage to the industrial and agricultural states within such a combination.

Some of Otto's supporters are so confident that all is going well that they predict it is only a question of weeks before he is proclaimed ruler.

NEW HANOVER REPORTS CASH BALANCE DECLINE

Wilmington, July 21—A decline of $5,966.89 in the cash balance of New Hanover county during the fiscal year ending June 30 was reported to the board of commissioners yesterday afternoon by County Auditor J. A. Orrell, in submitting his annual report.

The fact that the county has been able to operate for the year without a large deficit drew favorable comment from members of the board. Commissioner Frank M. Ross declared he believed that in view of business conditions during the past year, no governmental unit in the state could show so good a statement.

Commissioner J. H. Hinton declared it a "splendid report."

ALDERMEN DISAPPROVE OF SUNDAY BASEBALL

New Bern, July 21—City Aldermen in a special session Tuesday night declined to legalize Sunday baseball here or submit the question to a vote of the people. However another hearing on the matter may be allowed at a later date. Rev. R. E. McClure, Presbyterian pastor and president of the local ministerial association, stating that he represented the unanimous opinion of five of the local eight white ministers, the other three being out of the city, spoke forcefully against legalizing the Sunday sport.
