ROOSEVELT BOLSTERS WORLD ECONOMIC PARLEY

Over 400 People Find Employment In Leaf Factory

STEMMING OF BRIGHT LEAF BEGINS HERE

Greenville Tobacco Company Stemming Plant Resumes Operation; Above 400 Persons Put to Work And Number Expected to be Increased; Company Completes Installing Sprinkling System and New Redrying Machine

Tobacco Town snapped out of the lethargy of the last several months with the resumption of operation today of the stemming plant of the Greenville Tobacco Company.

Officials of the organization announced this morning that over four hundred employees were put back to work and this number was expected to be increased from time to time especially when the season actually gets under way in this part of the state.

Other stemming departments of the various factories here were expected to get back to work in the near future with the opening of the East Carolina Co.

latter part of August and thousands of people, who have been finding the road back to economic recovery rather precipitous will find themselves on payrolls with money jingling merrily in their pockets.

The opening of the tobacco market is always the sign for improvement of business in this section of the state, and with President Roosevelt taking unprecedented steps for higher wages and better prices for products this year was expected to be better than in many past years.

The price to be paid for the golden leaf is still a matter of conjecture, but with cotton practically doubling in price the last two or three months and other commodities climbing steadily, an improvement in the tobacco situation most certainly is presaged, if climbing prices in the other lines may be taken as an index to the general situation.

Resumption of operation of the stemming plant today gave new heart to the entire city, and along all principal streets it was the principal topic of conversation as some tried to figure out in dollars and cents how much it would mean to the citizenship generally.

With the boom of industry in the stemming plant, company officials announced completion of the sprinkling system and installation of a new redrying machine. This improvement will tend to speed up operation of the entire plant, enabling the handling of more tobacco than in past years.

RECOVERY ACT SEEN AS HOPE OF COUNTRY

High Point, July 27.—In the National Industrial Recovery Act lies the hope of the future declared J. T. Ryan, secretary-treasurer of the Southern Furniture Manufacturers' Association who this week submitted to Washington the proposed core of fair competition for the national furniture industry, declared in an address before the Civitan Club yesterday.

"It will prevent greed from destroying industry and keep manufacturers from using wiles as a weapon of competition," Mr. Ryan declared in his discussion of the radical departure in the way of social legislation for this country.

ULM'S FLIGHT IN SETBACK

Five Persons Injured As Trans-Atlantic Plane Wrecks Near Dublin

(By The Associated Press) A projected flight from Ireland to North America came to grief at least temporarily today when Charles Ulm's plane sank in the sand at Fortmarnock airfield near Dublin shortly before its scheduled take-off.

Five persons were injured when the machine lifted and then sank in the sand.

Captain Ulm, an Australian aviator, and companions had left Sydney on July 21 en planed to make an over-sea hop on the first lap of their world flight.

Captain Ulm's Balbo's squadron of seaplanes rested at Shoal Harbor under orders to leave for Ireland today.

Jimmie Mattern, American round the world flier, whose flight was interrupted when he was forced down in Siberia, reached Haxleton, B. C. last night and planned to continue to Edmonton where a private plane will be offered him to fly to New York.

Jim and Amy Morrison continued to improve from injuries incurred when their trans-Atlantic flight from Pendine, Wales, ended in a crash-upt in Connecticut Saturday.

Wiley Post, round the world record holder, was congratulated by President Roosevelt in Washington following a New York official reception.

COTTON MILL HERE BEGINS DOUBLE SHIFT

Wages Raised and Force Doubled in Effort to Aid Recovery Program

The Greenville Cotton Mill today was humming with increased activity in an effort to co-operate with President Roosevelt's move to increase wages, shorten working hours, re-employ workers and bring back a return of prosperity to America.

M. R. Long, president of the concern, announced the mill was operating by the code recently adopted by the textile industry of the United States, and that they had practically doubled the number of employees the last several days.

In addition to this, he stated the minimum wage scale of $12 for a forty hour week had been adopted in accordance with the textile code, and that the mill was working two shifts to keep step with the employment move.

The mill previously had employed around 150 workers, Mr. Long said, but approximately 300 workers were now employed on both shifts.

The second shift began work yesterday, and last night the mill was lighted up and machines were humming, keeping step with the nationwide effort to decrease idleness and get things back to normal.

Asked if he intended employing more workers, Mr. Long, replied that "darned if he knew right now," owing to the rapid changes of the last few days. He declared, however, that everything would be done to relieve the unemployment situation as much as possible and to help the working man put the wolf, which has been hanging around his door barking like a lion for two years or more on a long, long run.

COTTON HAY IS ADDED TO STOCKS DIET LIST

Greensboro July 27.—(AP)—Cotton hay was added to the stock diet on Ellis P. Lupton's Brogden township plantation today.

He baled the cotton cut from 30 acres destroyed under the reduction campaign.

"I am moving it just like I would any other hay," Lupton said "raking it up and baling it, taking care not to let it stay in the sun over one day. Under shelter it will keep all right."

"Cows and mules like it and it will cut the feed bill."

TWO ARE ARRESTED IN ROBBERY ATTEMPT

Greensboro, July 27.—Authorities were tipped off last night that a robbery of the White Oak department store was planned and when Troy McPherson, Paul Lane and Roy Kennedy approached the store at 3 a. m. three deputy sheriffs were in waiting. The robbers threw a chair through a window and as they retreated to see if any alarm was given to the officers.

"Prosperity Fly" Makes Debut Here

The "prosperity fly" made its appearance in Greenville today, but whether he was a harbinger of real economic prosperity remains to be seen.

A fly about the size of six ordinary flies appeared in the front window of the Daily Reflector office this morning. He was pinned out to S. L. Bridgman, advertising manager of the paper, who was sitting nearby.

"What kind of fly is that?" Mr. Bridgman was asked. "Without hesitating a moment he replied, "A prosperity fly."

If other things increase in proportion to the overgrowth of this country is on the path of a wave of prosperity that will cause people to entirely forget Herbert Hoover's "round the corner" prosperity ballyhoo that turned out to be ballyhoo and nothing else.

SPEED PLANS FOR JOBLESS

Public Works Boards Told to Recommend Sound Public Improvements

Washington, July 27.—(AP)—Instructions to act quickly in recommending sound and useful public works providing for a maximum of employment went today to 48 states advisory boards from Secretary Ickes.

Just named by President Roosevelt, the 145 board members hastened to organize for preparation of state public works programs which may be submitted quickly to the regional headquarters.

"Although appointed to represent states they are all agents of the federal government," Ickes told his advisory board.

"They are to view the public works program in its broadest national aspects. That not every application for public work can be granted is obvious. It will be the function of the board to weed out those without merit. Only the best should be recommended to Washington for approval."

Each state board has three members except Texas which has four. The state board of North Carolina is Dr. Herman Bailey, of Chapel Hill, John Devane, of Fayetteville, and Frank Page of Raleigh.

He will receive application blanks in a few days and actual work in preparation of data for loans will get under way.

President Rips Labels Of Failure Set By Speakers In Final Plenary Meet

Late News Flashes From Over World

Kidnaper Given Death Penalty Kansas City, July 27.—(AP)—Walter McGee, confessed leader of the gang that kidnaped Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of City Manager H. S. McElroy, and collected $30,000, ransom, was assessed the death penalty today by a criminal court jury.

Formal sentence will be passed later by Judge Allen C. Southern. The case was the first in which the extreme penalty has been given in the nation's crusade against kidnapers.

It is one of the few in history to bring the death sentence where victims of the kidnaping were unharmed.

The jury deliberated three quarters of an hour last night and reached a verdict 8:00 am after resuming work this morning.

McGee was charged with leading a gang which, last May, abducted Miss McElroy, held her prisoner in a basement 29 hours and released her after payment of $30,000 ransom.

Michael W. O'Hern, assistant prosecutor, in summing up the case told the jury "The nation is watching this courtroom. It has been in the grip of a deplorable kidnaping violence, its citizens are looking upon you twelve men to set the proper punishment for this heinous offense. As soon as a message is sent from this room that a jury has said a man shall hang by the neck until he is dead, you will have taken the biggest step to stop this wave of kidnaping."

Seek Support of Roosevelt Raleigh, July 27.—(AP)—Governor E. B. Ewing today requested the people of North Carolina to take steps for an effective cooperation with the president in his effort toward rehabilitation of the nation and recovery of the industrial prosperity.

The Governor issued a proclamation that the president's blanket industrial code was being mailed to all parts of the country today and urged the people to confirm so far as possible in both letter and spirit with suggestions which it contained.

Capone, July 27.—(AP)—A blanket indictment charging Al Capone, Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, Aaron Shapiro and 20 other defendants on conspiracy charges, including bombing and window smashing, was returned by a Cook county grand jury today. The indictments were regarded as the state's first formal attack on racketeering and the violence it has brought into legitimate industries in Chicago.

Dr. Squires formerly was arbiter of the cleaning and dyeing industry and is now engaged in similar work in the Pennsylvania hosiery trade.

Capone was a leader in the cooperative marketing movement in (Continued On Page Four)

BICYCLE RAGE STRIKES HERE

Learned College Professors Engage in Sport of Days of Long Ago

Bicycling, which practically disappeared except in the realm of youth with the coming of automotive transportation, has made its advent in Greenville again.

And, lo and behold, it has appeared in the most unexpected of places—East Carolina Teachers College—and among the faculty, at that.

Probably the most pronounced exponent of this latest art, or science, whichever you prefer, is Dr. Carl Adams, head of the college department of psychology.

Dr. Adams, as pedestrians along Fifth street already have observed, is becoming quite adept in the scientific operation of a bicycle, and Mrs. Adams is not bad at the job herself.

Others have taken a fancy to this form of sport and may be seen pedalling along various streets of the city.

The art about bicycling is being able to ride one and the science is the ability to stay on after you get started.

Mrs. D. J. Whichard, Jr., who wheeled her way into bicycle riding circles a few days ago, said today she could operate and stay on all right but "stopping the darned thing" was the part she had not been able to master.

Prof. Ralph Deal, who got his start in life behind a hard-boiled farm mule, is far too interested in new style automobiles to mount a bicycle, but in view of the fact that he always falls for novelties; he is expected to join the bicycle parade in the near future. And, listen, boys, you don't want to miss this test of Ralph's skill. There's a vast difference in temperament of bicycles, mules and automobiles.

The vogue really had its inception in the mind of Miss Eva Hodges, of the high school music faculty. She has set a pace others have found it difficult to follow. She knows the temperamental idiosyncrasies of her bicycle, and that's where others fail, especially those who cannot differentiate between the art and science of the thing.

LAUDS WORK OF CONCLAVE UP TO PRESENT

Secretary Hull, Speaking For American Delegation, Declares Conference Has Not Been a Failure; President's Message Puts Conference in Better Spirit; To Take Recess After Today's Session

London, July 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt in a dramatic message to Prime Minister MacDonald, of Britain today ripped the labels of failure from the world economic conference which many delegates were busily affixing by the speeches at the final plenary session.

The presidential note which Secretary of State Hull read for the assembled delegates, came as a climax to a morning of speeches most of which were critical.

Secretary of State Hull made the principal speech for the American delegation at the afternoon session of the conference.

He seconded President Roosevelt's tribute to the world economic parley, viewing the gathering of international statesmen as a step in progress for world recovery. When he concluded the loudest applause of the day came from the audience.

Mr. Hull emphasized that there were only two ways of settling difficulties, by negotiations in conference or by forces of war.

"Who can say," he asked, "that this conference which has not killed a single man, has been a failure?"

Far from the bickering and squabbling of London the last six weeks, President Roosevelt gave the delegates a perspective of the work they have done and told of the results.

"Results are not always measured in terms of formal agreements," he said.

"With an interchange of views comes a better understanding by the nations of problems of other countries," he said, adding that he does not regard the world congress as a failure.

The president's message enabled the congress to adjourn for lunch in better spirit instead of under the atmosphere of continued criticism which speaker after speaker voiced in the morning session.

The delegates like school boys released after a severe lecture and then a word of praise from their teacher laughed and chatted. All the morning the delegates had sweltered in an atmosphere similar to an American political convention.

LANGLEY RE-SENTENCING WAITS TILL SATURDAY

Asheville, July 27.—(AP)—I will at least get to breathe some more of this fresh mountain air," Ous Colin Langley, convicted murderer of Lonnie G. Russell, filling station operator, said today in superior court when Judge P. A. McElroy deferred until Saturday re-sentencing him to the electric chair.

J. Scope Styles and James Styles counsel for Langley, lodged with the court a motion for a new trial, arrest of judgment and to have the verdict set aside. It is claimed newly-discovered evidence has been found and that a member of the jury that convicted Langley was prejudiced against the prisoner.

THEY SOUND GOOD TO US

The early morning whistle blowing here, while it might disturb the slumbers of some, is indeed a welcome sound to those of us who realize that this means resumption of work in the tobacco factories with more payrolls to the workers. This morning four hundred colored laborers went to work at one of the local factories and this force will be enlarged as the tobacco season here gets under way. With the Georgia markets opening next week to be followed two weeks later by the South Carolina and border markets practically all the factories here will begin operations taking care of purchases on the other markets even before our belt opens August 29, at which time thousands of laborers will get work until or after Christmas. When the whistles in tobacco town begin to peal out their early morning call our folks realize that the fall business is beginning and in view of the fact that the coming fall promises to be one of the best in years, these whistles are certainly music to our ears.

TAKE CARE OF THE HOME FOLKS FIRST

We agree with the News-Leader, that so far as possible Pitt County teachers be given employment in Pitt County schools. So long as the teachers in this county are as well qualified as those from the outside we heartily agree that the preference should be shown those who live in this county.

Here's what our friend Ed Hooks has to say on the subject:

Much talk has been going on and much interest aroused over the selection of the teachers for the different schools in Pitt County. It seems to the News-Leader that in employing the teachers for another year, those teachers who live in Pitt County, and who are well qualified in every respect, should be given the preference here at home. What is the sense in going to other counties and even to other states to get our school teachers? It puts our home girls to extra expense to go elsewhere and we think that where a young lady or a young man is capable and competent they should be given preference over outsiders. And we believe we are expressing the opinion of a large majority of our citizenship.

According to the new budget the salary of Dr. F. M. Register, county health officer, will be $500 less than last year when his salary was $3250

The HIDDEN DOOR

By Frank L. Packard

SYNOPSIS: Reddy Turner, crook and boyhood friend of Colin Hewitt, the mystery writer, asks Colin to deliver a letter for him, should Reddy be put on the spot. Colin promises, and Reddy explains what underlies the request. It is the death of his beautiful sister, Annie whose husband had been "bumped off," and who had been kidnapped by a man Reddy suspects was "The Mask." Later she was found dead in the river. The Mask is a powerful underworld figure, with many gangs, all separate. The gang leaders each know the mask is only one of his innumerable disguises. Reddy believes he has picked up the Mask's trail, and knows his own life is in deadly peril.

Chapter Four COLONEL HARGREAVES "I don't like it," pronounced Colin gravely. "It's all right in a story; but, Reddy, if you get the goods on the Mask there's the law and—"The law be damned!" Reddy broke in fiercely. "With a hundred perjured witnesses and a million dollars to spend, he'd get off. This is between him and me. He killed my pal, and what he did to Annie I've told you. He'll set a chance to fight—but he'll die." Colin paced the room and back again. "Look here, Reddy," he said, "about that letter you want me to deliver if—well, if things go wrong the habit of—"That's all right," said Colin heartily. "Come in." The man stepped forward, and with a sort of old-world elegance removed his hat. And then halted in his tracks. "Oh!" he exclaimed apologetically. "I am afraid I do intrude. You are already engaged." "Quite all right!" smiled Colin. "My friend, Mr. Williamson. Mr.—?" "Hargreaves, sir," supplied the stranger. "Served as a boy in the Confederate army, 'Sixty-four to 'sixty-five, sir. Long gone by. Later a colonel by courtesy. I'm a very old man now, sir." He bowed deeply to Reddy. "The honor of your acquaintance, Mr. Williamson?" "A spot of Scotch, Colonel?" suggested Colin, with a genial smile. "I'm sorry I have no Bourbon." "Sir, indeed, you overwhelm me." "Splendid!" applauded Colin. He poured out a generous portion. "Neat, or with a splash of soda?" he asked as he looked up—and the glass in his hand crashed and splintered to the floor.

"I'm afraid I intrude," said the Colonel.

In his left hand, dangling deplorably, "Colonel Hargreaves" held his shabby felt hat; in his right hand, his cloak flung back over his shoulder, an automatic held a bead on Reddy. "Mr. Williamson, eh?" There was no age in the voice now, no soft southern drawl; it was curt, decisive, deadly cold. "I suggest that he is far better known as Reddy Turner, alias—oh, well, there are so many aliases."

Reddy's hand, arrested on its way to the bulge beneath the left shoulder of his coat, hung across his heart. His face had set. "Who the hell are you?" he flung out. "What do you want?" "Two questions!" purred the stranger with a faint smile. "I will try to answer them both at once. I am the Mask, as I understand you call me—the man that you believed you had so nearly unearthed. "Well, so you had. It is not often that I honor anyone with my personal intervention in matters of this kind; but as a tribute to your pertinacity I so honor you tonight. And, besides, this place in its discreet retirement lends itself so admirably to an interview that I could not resist it. What I want, or rather, who I want is—you!"

Colin's eyes swept swiftly from one to the other of the two men. His throat was suddenly sticky dry. He saw Reddy's hand shoot swiftly upward beneath the left hand shoulder of his coat—but it never reached its objective. There was a flash, the roar of a report. Another flash—another roar. He saw Reddy crumple up and pitch headlong to the floor. And then Colin flung himself forward around the corner of the desk. He heard a voice: "You are impatient. It is only that your friend had precedence!" And then a flash—and then utter darkness. It might have been a minute, or ten—or an hour. Colin never knew. He opened his eyes. All was misty at first. Then, though in a blurred way, his vision cleared. The lights in the room were ablaze. The fire still burning in the grate, and in its fitful glow he saw Reddy's motionless and crumpled figure on the floor. And he remembered. He crawled across the floor, pulled himself desperately to his feet, and snatched the telephone receiver from its base. He stood there swaying. Ages after a voice spoke. "Give me the police headquarters," Colin gasped. "Fod God's sake—quick!" The room was swirling around him. Around and around—he bit his lips. And then another voice spoke faintly as though through some vast space. He did not know what it said, but he answered it. "Colin Hewitt speaking," he babbled. "A murder here. I—" And then his knees gave way beneath him, and he toppled backward—and was conscious of nothing more.

GOOD YEAR

Table with 2 columns: ALL-WEATHER and PATHFINDER. Rows show tire sizes and prices. Example: 4.40-21 $6.40, 4.40-21 $5.00.

STRANGE fact about the tire business is — the PRICE of all tires is about alike. You might as well pick the best—in quality, in safety, in mileage.

What's the best in quality? The public says Goodyear—preferred by more people than any THREE other makes.

What's the best in safety? Accurate tests on wet concrete show Goodyears will stop a car quicker than any other tire. The next best tire skidded 10% more—other tires skidded up to 77% more under exactly the same conditions.

What's the best in mileage? Bus fleet records show Goodyear Tires give 97% more mileage than they gave five years ago.

Now that all prices are headed UP—it's more important than ever to get the most for your money. Better look over your tires and buy new Goodyears now while prices are still low.

Christian Science Services.

"Truth" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 23. The golden text was from Ps. 113: "The Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following passage from the Bible: "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets; I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill." (Matt. 5:17).

The lesson-sermon also included the following from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If there are material laws which prevent disease, what then causes it? Not divine law, for Jesus healed the sick and cast out error, always in opposition, never in obedience, to physics."

Children's Party At Library.

A party with 42 present at Shepard Memorial Library this morning closed the club work with small children for the summer. The scrap books were finished and taken home after last week's meeting, so the program this morning was recreational. Mrs. E. T. Robeson had given a program of bear stories. This morning she taught the children a bear song, then gave a group of giant stories.

William Miller Burks was present again with his violin and played several selections which were much enjoyed. As the children left each one was given a lollipop to eat on the way home.

The library interest of this group of children has been held and strengthened by these meetings, largely planned and supervised by Miss Mary Shaw Robeson, Margaret Moore, one of the "big girls" often helped in the work with the smaller children.

Employees Of Courthouse In Annual Picnic

Employees of the Pitt county courthouse went to Morehead City yesterday for their annual picnic, and talking about a big time—did they have one?

Virtually every office and department was represented, and in many instances, relatives accompanied the employees. It was a great day, filled as it was with swimming, fishing and eating the picnic dinner carried in individual baskets.

Frank Harrington displayed a bad case of ennui until dinner was mentioned, and talking about somebody perking up, Frank did it. His gastronomic capacity was never known to be limited, and although he has to stop at times, it is not because he wants to.

When the time for taking a plunge in the surf came, it was Claude Gaskins who led the swimming contest. When he threw his portly form into the ocean the water rose so perceptibly that scores of bathers fled for higher ground, evidently believing the tide was rising at an unprecedented rate of speed. However, when they determined the cause they returned to the water and helped Claude make whoopee with the mermaids.

Ed Tucker, whose shirt front covers acres of space; resembling that of the jovial Saint Nicholas, acted as a bodyguard for Claude and

Broken Finger Fails To Stop Baseball Fan

That 11-inning ball game between Greenville and Ayden here last Tuesday had a tremendous appeal for the thousand or more people in attendance, and especially for John Lautares, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lautares.

John was helping the local boys get in trim for the grueling contest when a ball struck him on the end of the thumb and broke it.

Scenting a memorable game, John rushed to a doctor's office had the digit set and returned to the ball game. His persistence was awarded for Greenville tied the score in the ninth inning and won the game in the eleventh. The broken finger still causes John some discomfort, but he wouldn't have missed the game for all the broken fingers in the world.

GREENVILLE AGAIN TRIMS AYDEN CLUB

Continuing their furious slugging pace, the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain league yesterday afternoon defeated Ayden 11 to 8 at Ayden. It was the second straight victory of the local club over Ayden, they having defeated that club in Greenville the day before in the play off of a postponed game.

Although the victory did not increase the lead of the locals at the top of the standing of clubs column because of the victory of Kinston over Snow Hill, it enabled them to hold their own and not permit the second place Kinston club to gain a direct advantage.

Both of these clubs have been staging a spectacular race for the top the last several days, and each has won from four to five straight games in the starting race. Snow Hill fell to third place and Ayden to the cellar during the terrific attack launched by the league leaders.

A former Grimesland star mounds man was the cause of Ayden's down fall. His name is Andreoli. He was given a try out yesterday owing to the shortage of Greenville pitching material. He walked into the box after Forbes had been pulled in the early part of the game and held the Ayden sluggers hitless at times when bingles would have resulted in an increased score.

In fact, Andreoli lived up to the reputation he established with Grimesland this season, not only on the mound, but with the bat. His stickwork figured largely in the victory of the local club. Chances are he may become a permanent member of the hurling staff after the fine exhibition.

Greenville and Ayden bats again were loaded with dynamite but the Greenville charges seemed to be the more powerful and at the end of the six inning contest, which was interrupted by rain, they had chalked up 11 markers. Ayden was credited with 8. A peculiar feature for Ayden is the fact that they have scored 41 runs in the last three games to win only one.

Talley, Holland and Johnson were used by Ayden to halt the batting rally of the visiting club, but the mighty bats were not to be denied and hit after hit was piled up as the run margin continued to swell.

Friday will find Snow Hill playing at Greenville and Ayden at Kinston. The outcome of these contests is being watched with interest by thousands of fans waiting to see some club pull out into a long lead after the nip-and-tuck race that has dominated the entire season.

Here's One Good Way To END AGONY OF NEURITIS

Newark Man Knows How and Loses 10 Pounds

"Gentlemen: I used Kruschen Salts to try and get rid of Neuritis from which I had suffered for one year in my left shoulder and arm. . . . I took a little of the salts in the morning, sometimes in my coffee, other times in water. I would also occasionally take a dose in water at night before retiring. For 3 months I used the salts and while I lost 10 pounds in weight, the pain in my shoulder HAS ENTIRELY DISAPPEARED. During the time I was taking the salts I received no other medical treatment so I am fully convinced the Kruschen Salts did the trick." C. K. Murray, Newark, N. J.

Take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—a jar lasts 4 weeks—get it at Pitt Drug Co., or any druggist in the world—costs but a trifle.—(Adv.)

"Fisher Controlled Ventilation"—here's a magic phrase that means more than you can believe till you've experienced it yourself. At a turn of a handle you adjust ventilators—get the breeze just where you want it, and in just the volume you want.

It is really controlled ventilation, you see—and you, yourself, control it, not the speed of the car or the direction of the breeze.

This one feature alone would make Pontiac an outstanding car compared with others at or near its price.

But Pontiac gives more. It is a Straight Eight, with a 77-horsepower engine that gives 78 real miles per hour.

It is a big car—115-inch wheelbase, and due to its balanced weight and design, it gives you safety, comfort, durability.

All this may lead you to think of Pontiac as a costly car. But its first cost is low and as for operating, ask any Pontiac owner, and you'll learn that it is giving 15 miles or more to the gallon.

Try a demonstration. And don't forget that it takes a Straight Eight to give Straight Eight performance. Be sure to try Fisher Controlled Ventilation. You'll be amazed and delighted. No car can be really modern without this comfort feature.

Reach for a Lucky

—for always Luckies Please!

I'm strong for sunshine — so I'm strong for "Toasting"

I've always found that really good reasons are the simplest reasons. For instance, I know that sunshine mellows and heat purifies. "Toasting" is therefore very easy for me to understand. And very easy for me to appreciate—because—my sense of the fastidious is so very exacting. You see, I'm always aware of the fact that my cigarette comes in such intimate contact with my lips. Quite naturally, it's the purity of "Toasting" that I single out for special praise. It's just my own personal feminine reason for saying "Luckies Please!"
