

STRIKE MENACE SPREADS IN THE TWO CAROLINAS

About 6,500 Mill Workers Are Now Out

AGREEMENT IS BEING SOUGHT AT HIGH POINT

Hosiery Mills to Vote On Proposal of Manufacturers to Cut Hours at Same Pay; 550 Operatives Idle at Easley, S. C., 850 out at Anderson; Over 4,000 Workers Out at High Point

Charlotte, July 28.—(AP)—Dissatisfaction with wages and impressions of the workings of the industrial code found approximately 6,500 mill employees in the two Carolinas affected by strikes today.

Approximately 4,000 of the employees of the High Point Seamless Hosiery mills, were to vote on a proposal by manufacturers for re-opening the plants under a forty hour week provision with workers to receive the same weekly wages for which they were paid for 55 hours. They had demanded a 25 per cent increase.

One thousand men at the F. W. Poe Manufacturing Company at Greenville, S. C., were idle following a walkout resulting in the closing of the mill.

At Easley, S. C., 550 operatives remained away from their posts in the Arsal and Alice mills, under joint management, and 850 were out at Appleton mills in Anderson.

A strike of approximately 150 workers of the Southside cotton mills in Winston Salem was settled after an explanation of the new wage scale was given along with promise of the management to adjust future dissatisfaction.

Some 400 strikers at the Pickett mills in High Point remained idle, negotiations for their return to work having been temporarily sidetracked while leaders of the Industrial Owners Association, local union, with which some of them are affiliated, considered the hosiery strike situation.

START DRIVE ON CRIMINALS

International Clearing House Seeking Formula For Handling Crooks

Chicago, July 28.—(AP)—A formula for an international clearing house for the apprehension of crooks was the objective of European, American and Canadian police and criminologists today.

"Such an organization would deal with matters of extradition in white slavery, drug smuggling and congestion men but was indicated it would not deal with kidnapping and gangsters considered as purely an American institution.

A review of what may be undertaken by the criminologists was given last night by Police Commissioner Boland of New York, who told them that at present there is lack of complete coordination and co-operation of the authorities in their attempt to run down criminals.

It was indicated prior to today that the commission with headquarters at Vienna will serve as a nucleus of the European organization and the new crime bureau of the Department of Justice at Washington as the western hemisphere headquarters.

PROSPERITY BLANKS HERE

Business Men Asked To Take Part in National Recovery Program

National prosperity blanks which are being distributed by the government to the nation's employers in an effort to increase pay and reduce working hours were received in Greenville yesterday and were being distributed by postal employees today.

Postmaster Munford announced today that the blanks were received at the postoffice yesterday at 3:30 and were being sent out to various business men today by letter carriers.

Mr. Munford said that if anybody should be missed, they would be able to obtain blanks by applying at the postoffice where a sufficient number are on hand to take care of the demand.

By presenting the fully signed blanks at the postoffice August 1, employers will be able to obtain literature, placards, emblems, etc., which go along with the Roosevelt movement to bring a return of prosperity to America.

Five million blanks have been sent out to business men of the country and there was every indication the government would receive the best of co-operation. In fact, this was indicated following the president's radio appeal Monday night in which he called on employers of the nation to increase wages, increase employment and help bring a return of better times.

SAVES LIFE OF JAILER

Brunswick Prisoner Goes to Rescue of Jailer During Prisoner's Attack

Southport, July 28.—(AP)—C. W. Easley, Brunswick jailer, today credited Fred Fulwood, a prisoner, with saving his life when he was attacked by Joe Wood, another prisoner. Easley went into the cellblock last night to carry food to the prisoners and was attacked by Wood with a piece of iron pipe. The jailer was hit three times before Fulwood saw Wood and threw him into a bathroom and closed the door.

Japan Speeds To 'Treaty Navy'—U.S., Britain Lag

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE. Washington, July 28.—(AP)—The battle fleets of the United States will be 101 ships and 204,000 tons below treaty strength at the end of 1936, despite the bolstering of American naval power by the addition of 32 vessels costing $338,000,000 under the public works program.

That is the outlook based on consideration of the number of older ships remaining effective for service, plus the tonnage now scheduled for construction.

On the basis of ships already built and those projected, Japan will be up to maximum strength while Great Britain will be short 64 ships and 197,000 tons when the London naval treaty expires on December 31, 1936. Japan, in fact, will have an indicated surplus tonnage of 9,387.

The ratio of the "big three" sea powers would be 9.9-9.4-7.7 instead of the 5-5-3 prescribed by the treaty, say naval experts. There is a prevalent opinion that Japan will renew her demands for parity or a

Storekeeper Is Probably Fatally Hurt By Bandits

Three Masked Men Injure Wife of Mr. Paramore, Operator Of Store Five Miles This Side of Vanceboro, After Obtaining $50

A posse was scouring the woods five miles this side of Vanceboro today in search of three bandits who last night probably fatally injured a Mr. Paramore, operator of a combination store and filling station on the Greenville-Vanceboro highway and painfully injured his wife after obtaining $150 in cash.

Officers in all parts of Eastern North Carolina were notified to be on watch for the bandits, and a dragnet had been thrown out over the entire section in an effort to bring about their apprehension.

The bandits were believed to be convicts who escaped from the chainaging near Rocky Mount sometime ago because the automobile which they abandoned when it broke through a bridge near the scene of the holdup was identified as that stolen by convicts from a Miss Pearsall when they left the Rocky Mount area.

Paramore was reported to have suffered a fractured skull when he

RUSH CODE IN AUTO LINE

Hugh Johnson Goes To Detroit To Push Acceptance of Automotive Code

Detroit, July 28.—(AP)—General Hugh Johnson, national recovery administrator, who flew to Detroit unannounced in an army plane, said he would stay until "I get this thing buttoned up" today sought speedy acceptance by the automotive industry of its formal code.

The code drafted by representatives of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce earlier this week, still is awaiting the signatures of individual members.

A resolution adopted at the code conference calling for wage increases August 1 found ready acceptance.

Asked what effect this voluntary program of wage increase might have, General Johnson replied emphatically the employment of additional workers was a basis under the administration plan.

Tropical Storm Reported Moving Over San Salvador

DELEGATES OF WORLD CONFAB ON WAY HOME

Many Discouraged Over Lack of Completion of Agenda of London Meeting

(By Associated Press) Some homeward bound delegates to the world economic conference counted results of the congress today in terms of stage work for future deliberations; others considered the elaborate agenda and were discouraged because it was not nearly completed.

One of the tangible achievements during the six weeks of discussion by representatives of 66 nations was an eight-power agreement for withdrawing a large amount of silver from the market for four years, thereby increasing the price. Another was the economic non-aggression pact Russia affected with her neighbors.

In this category are the reported negotiations of other countries including the United States looking to the consummation of the bi-lateral trade agreement. On this latter point the conference stumbled. France maintained from the start that there was no value of talking about removing trade barriers or any similar subject until the problem of monetary stabilization was solved, a question the United States has refused to consider.

An executive committee had the power to determine if the congress will reassemble. It will meet perhaps in September to consider reopening the parity.

In the meantime, representatives of several countries will resume discussions—not exactly a part of the conference—regarding the wheat restriction agreement which several times was reported close to completion.

From the time the League of Nations preparatory committee drew up the program and President Roosevelt held White House conferences with world statesmen to the closing of the plenary session yesterday, most of the discussion revolved about currency stabilization and tariff. The matter of adjustment was considered almost from the start.

DUDLEY GETS FEDEALR JOB

Former Sheriff Named County Appraiser By Federal Home Loan Corporation

Ernest Dudley, former sheriff of this county, today was notified of his appointment as appraiser for the Federal Home Loan Corporation in this county.

Notice of the appointment came from Allan O'Neal, of Salisbury, head of the corporation in this state. Mr. Dudley was advised that application blanks for loans through this agency would be mailed out immediately.

It also stated that plans were being rapidly formulated for opening the Greenville branch office of the corporation by August 1.

The appointment of Mr. Dudley was received with interest by his friends here. He has been active in the political life of the county for many years, and served as high sheriff for several terms.

It was announced yesterday that Julius Brown, Greenville attorney, had been named attorney for the corporation in this county.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Search For Bandits.

Vanceboro, July 28.—(AP)—Armed possesmen with orders of the sheriffs of three counties to shoot to kill were searching near here today for three bandits who robbed Oscar Paramore and his wife of $100 and slugged them with pistol butts.

Mr. and Mrs. Paramore were held up at their store-filling station four miles from here on the Greenville highway late last night. After taking the money the bandits struck them over the head with pistols, knocking Paramore unconscious. Mrs. Paramore was not badly hurt.

The robbers had their car parked about 200 yards from the station and in their haste to get away they ran the machine into a ditch. They abandoned it and fled.

Sheriff R. O. B. Lane of Craven county, assisted by Sheriffs William Rumley of Beaufort and Sam Whitehurst of Pitt, immediately organized posses and instructed the 100 men taking part in the search to shoot on sight should they encounter trouble in arresting the bandits.

Rocky Mount authorities identified the car as one stolen in that city from Miss Louise Pearsall several weeks ago. The same night the car was stolen four convicts escaped from camp near Rocky Mount and the theory was advanced that the four may be implicated in the hold-up near here.

AFTER FUNDS FOR BALL CLUB

Directors Make New Drive to Bolster Financial Standing of Leaguers

A new drive was under way today to bolster the financial standing of the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain, now perched atop the standing of clubs column.

At a meeting of the board of directors last night to discuss the financial situation, it was decided to appeal to fans who did not contribute to the club's support in the initial campaign.

Belief was expressed by officials that sufficient money could be raised in this way to take some of the red off the club ledger and enable it to carry on the remaining month of play.

A tag day campaign was launched about two weeks ago but rain descended in torrents in the afternoon breaking up the game before it had gone more than an inning and blasting the hope of tag sellers of raising any appreciable sum.

Directors will make a concerted drive today and tomorrow and persons who have not contributed to the cause are asked to do so and help the boys stay in the race and try to capture the circuit flag. They have led the race practically the entire season, staying off the top only for a short period and it was believed that they would be able to wind up the season with highest honors in their grasp.

Only persons who did not contribute in the initial drive will be visited by the canvassers this time, but anybody desiring to give to make continued play possible, are asked to do so at once so that the club may know how it stands in the way of eagles.

Industrial Recovery Idea Born In Roosevelt Talks With Business Leaders

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

One thing about the "N. R. A." not generally understood, even in Washington, is the large part which industry itself played in nurturing the original germ of the present mighty plan for industrial recovery.

Various commentators, speculating as to the beginning of this giant of an idea, have surmised it must have been a product of the Roosevelt "brain trust." The truth is the professors of the brain trust appeared in the discussions only in the later stages as advisers on details.

What actually took place was this: Soon after the election last November, Mr. Roosevelt discussed with various business men what could be done to put industry on a firmer basis.

He was aware that in all serious depressions in the past it was the financial world itself which took

TWO VESSELS HIT BY HIGH WINDS TODAY

Kurk's Island, Bahamas, Said to Have Suffered Considerable Damage From Storm; American Schooner Adams Crippled at Sea; Florida Makes Preparations for Stormy Attack

Washington, July 28.—(AP)—The center of an atmospheric disturbance with winds of hurricane force over a small area this morning was reported from the island of San Salvador, also known as Watling Island, where Columbus landed in 1492 on his first visit to the Western Hemisphere.

The weather bureau reported the center moving northwest at a rate of about 12 miles an hour, accompanied by strong winds over a limited area.

Two ships were reported hit by winds with a velocity of 60 miles an hour but how far they were from the center at the time was not determined.

The storm passed over near the Grand Kurk yesterday with reports from Kurk's Island, Bahamas, that it did considerable damage to salt properties.

The American schooner Adams in Belfast and anchored off the Grand Kurk was dragged out to sea and fear was felt for the safety of the crew.

The weather bureau, commenting on dispatches received from Miami, Florida, saying that southeast Florida was preparing itself for the tropical storm, today indicated that there was no definite reason for the preparations there.

THREE HIT BY BOLT, ONE BADLY INJURED

Goldboro, July 28.—John Henry Gurley, 33, his young son, and Johnnie Walker, negro, were struck by lightning while under a shelter where they had taken refuge from a sudden electrical storm, on a farm of B. G. Thompson in Scotland township, this county, about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. All were injured, Mr. Gurley seriously.

The three were in the field when the storm arose. They hurriedly drove the mules they were plowing under the shelter, and had just unhitched them when the lightning crashed.

BOGUS MONEY APPEARS HERE

$10 Bill Passed at Express Office Found To be Product of Counterfeiters

Counterfeit money made its appearance in Greenville again recently and the public today was warned to closely scrutinize $10 bills coming to their attention.

Several days ago a $10 certificate was passed at the local express office. It was sent to divisional headquarters and declared to be phoney money.

The bill was a duplicate of the federal reserve B. series and was so much like regular government money that it is easily passed. The only difference between the counterfeit bill and government notes is that the counterfeit bill does not contain silk as does government bills. This can be determined by placing the bill before a light and taking a squint.

Although this is the only counterfeit bill so far reported, the public was urged to be on guard against bills of the B. series and to subject them to close inspection before accepting them in regular exchange.

Of course the child did not attain full stature overnight. There were (Continued On Page Two)

The action of a Kansas City jury yesterday in passing death penalty upon the head of a kidnaping ring will meet with general approval throughout the country. The kidnaping wave over the country has been increasing by leaps and bounds and such action as that of the jury yesterday will certainly have a tendency to put a stop to these heinous crimes.

At several of the stop corners in this city previously marked with rubber markers in the center of the street, these markers have completely worn off and persons not familiar with the city cross these corners unaware that they are supposed to stop. Many of these unmarked stop corners are at intersections of the main highways passing through the city and unless they are properly remarked, some serious accidents are going to occur at these intersections.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of the city schools, is in receipt of a telegram advising him to cut three teachers from the faculty of the city schools as a measure of economy and then comes a letter to him to send his janitors to A. and T. College at Greensboro, at state expense for a short course in the art of janitorial. The janitors of the local schools have been on their jobs for about ten years and have given satisfactory service, according to Superintendent Rose, but now must go to school to learn how to do their jobs. The state can afford this but in the meantime apparently it is not essential that the children who are to attend the schools should have sufficient teachers.

The HIDDEN DOOR

By Frank L. Packard

Synopsis: Reddy Turner crook just had told Colin Hewitt the story of his sister's death at the hands of a mysterious criminal called the Mask. Colin is a writer of detective fiction and is not surprised to know that Reddy expects to trace down and kill the Mask, who rules many criminal gangs through underlings who each know him in only one of his numerous disguises. Neither Colin nor Reddy is surprised when after a timid knock "Colonel Hargreaves" enters, for Colin befriends many down-and-out men in his quest for material. But Hargreaves is the Mask; he shoots down Reddy, and wounds Colin. Colin weakly drags himself to the telephone and calls the police.

Chapter Five THE POLICE ANGLE Detective Sergeant Tim Mulvey who was one of those police "pals" of Colin to whom Reddy had referred up the receiver. "Yes? Hello? he said—and then his jaws clamped suddenly together. Over the wire came that unforgettable voice with its quaver and Southern drawl. "Mr. Colin Hewitt?" "Yes!" Colin bit off the word. "Hargreaves speaking. Colonel by courtesy, sir. But perhaps you had already recognized my voice?" "I had!" said Colin grimly. "Alias the Mask, I believe. Any name will do." He glanced at Detective Sergeant Mulvey. At the mention of the Mask, the homicide bureau man had started up abruptly from his chair and had stepped to the edge of the desk. "Sorry you haven't come around in person, but it's a pleasure to hear your voice once more." "I doubted at one time, sir," drawled the voice, "if you ever would again. I had no intention of merely wounding you that night, but nevertheless I have called you up

"Alias the Mask, a sneeze," said Colin was in charge of the case. He sat down where Reddy Turner had sat nearly a month ago in the deep leather-upholstered lounging chair, facing Colin across the latter's desk. And again it was near midnight. Colin's face, thin and drawn, showed the marks of a long illness. As a matter of fact he had hovered between life and death with the odds heavily against him for a matter of ten days. It was only that morning he had been discharged from the hospital—with very definite instructions to go slow and take the utmost care of himself until he was back to normal again. They were discussing the case. From the night of the murder the police had got nowhere.

"If you ask me"—Detective Sergeant Mulvey swung the stub of a thick cigar from one corner of his mouth to the other—"Reddy handed you a fairy tale. This bird ain't anything like that. When we get him you'll see he's nothing more than a dirty rat in a small way of business that keeps under cover from his own gang in order to save his own hide, and the gang falls for the mysterious unknown who yanks the strings and eats it all up alive—the way your readers do."

"I don't agree with you," Colin replied bluntly. "Tim, he was so hot on the Mask's track that night that it cost him his life. Can't you let that sink in?" "Dam it!" snapped Detective Sergeant Mulvey gruffly. "It's the old, old story! To hell with the police! Reddy, on a lone hunt, was after the guy that bumped off his pal and killed his sister. Finally, just when he thinks that in another twenty-four hours or so he'll be pumping the man full of holes, the other gets him first. That's all right. But it doesn't mean that this Mask gazabo is the one and only! Reddy got excited when he stumbled on that Mask stuff, that's all."

"And again I disagree," returned Colin calmly. "Reddy wasn't the kind to get excited that way. "Oh, well"—Detective Sergeant Mulvey shrugged his big shoulders—"let that go! You'll see!" "When?" inquired Colin blandly. "The trust went home."

"Bam it!" snapped Detective Sergeant Mulvey. "I don't know, do I? We're doing all we can. I'm not making any bones about it to you. So far the case is a total loss."

"Which rather goes to prove, doesn't it," Colin suggested quietly, "that there is at least some basis of fact in Reddy's assertion and that you are dealing with an unusual situation? You've had dozens of gangsters up for questioning, and they were all dead in both ears when any mention of the Mask was made. And yet the Mask exists and was certainly known by that name to some of those men."

"It is true that Reddy must have come pretty close to unearthing his quarry, otherwise no attention would have been paid to him. I am thoroughly convinced that all he said was literally true."

"It's too bad he hadn't spilled a little of it, then!" granted Detective Sergeant Mulvey. "Not to the police of course! No fear! The 'Reddys' are all alike. But to you?" "Granted," agreed Colin. "But he didn't. I've told you everything Reddy said about him, and so far you—"

The telephone was ringing. Colin reached across the desk and pick-

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—It's likely that before the regular session of congress rolls around in January, Bert Snell and Charlie McNary, republican leaders in the house and senate, will implore whatever political gods there be to spare them the ordeal they went through in the special session.

No two party chieftains ever had a more difficult time or a more disheartening task than did these two during the some 100 days congress was in session this spring.

There was nothing for them to do but go along with the democratic plans in most instances. They wanted their party to be able to claim a share in the successful moves, yet assume no responsibility for any failures.

Tables Turned

Snell's attack in the house almost invariably sprang from one source—the democratic leadership's fondness for bringing in the so-called "gag" rule to rush legislation through quickly and safely.

The portly New Yorker had a lot of fun on this issue. The democrats who so blindly cooked up this scheme of legislating were the very ones who, when they were in the minority, raised the most rumpus when the republicans resorted to that strategy.

Gleefully, Snell went back into the Congressional Record and dug up old speeches the democrats had made on the subject.

His fire was aimed at the more than 100 new members on the democratic side who he said were being tied hand and foot by their leaders. It was successful, too. Before the end of the session attempts at "gagging" were abandoned by the democratic leadership.

McNary had no such opportunity in the senate. Rules there are always the same; so he had to pick a different course.

Always On Guard

The Oregonian, therefore set himself up as a guard over the senate's business. He blocked all attempts of the democratic leaders to put through incidental legislation that this or that senator desired.

His strategy was to keep the senate constantly plugging on the major emergency measures. He had reason for gratification in the fact that of the 8,685 bills introduced in the house and senate during the special session only 105 laws were enacted.

JAPAN SPEEDS TO TREATY

NAVY—U. S. BRITAIN LAG

Counting ships already built and those projected, Japan will have in 1936 a total of 183 war vessels of combat age. Great Britain will have 161 and the United States 108. Japan, it is indicated, will have marked superiority over this country in number of ships and in tonnage in the submarine, destroyer and light cruiser classifications.

Japanese submarines will number 53 as compared with 24 in Uncle Sam's navy and 39 in John Bull's sea forces. Japan will have 59 destroyers not exceeding 1,500 tons, the United States will have 24 and Great Britain 65. The Japanese will have 24 destroyers of more than 1,500 tons, the United States will have eight and Great Britain none.

Great Britain will lead in the light of cruiser field with 21. Japan will be a close second with 20 and the United States will have 14. This country will top the list in the 8-inch gun cruiser class with 18. Great Britain will have 15 and Japan 12.

The United States and Great Britain will have 15 capital ships each (battle ships and battle cruisers) and Japan will have nine. Seven of the American capital ships 11 of the British and four of the Japanese will be more than 20 years old in 1936.

The navies of Great Britain and Japan will have six airplane carriers each while the United States will have five. American carrier tonnage, however, will exceed that of either of the other countries.

The industrialists, to point their argument, cited what had happened in the textile industry. Faced with ruinous over-production, the vast majority of textile operators had agreed that mills should stop operating on full day-and-night schedules. But the small minority refused to agree, seizing instead the opportunity to increase their output while the majority was idling.

The mills which had agreed to curtail, although financially powerful enough to drive the dissenters out of business, dared not do so under the law. The whole plan collapsed, and textiles took another tail-spin through the dark clouds of depression.

The point went home. To the original suggestion of fewer trade prohibitions was coupled the suggestion of trade practice codes which would be legally binding.

As early as Christmas week, a small group who had seen the President-elect came away with minds filled with the dawning conception of what was to come.

Naturally, organized labor and others were consulted as matters shaped up. Mr. Roosevelt saw to that. Naturally the plan turned out finally pleasing to most of the professors, who for years had been teaching greater regimentation of business.

But as to the ultimate origin of the now famous "N. R. A." there can be no doubt; it represents Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance (on his own terms, it is true) of a challenge and a promise made originally by industry itself.

Menace Of Deadly Mushroom Plant Increased By Showers, U. S. Warns

Washington, July 28. — (AP) — Warning against a dangerous form of mushroom unusually abundant this year because of frequent showers has been issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This mushroom, known as Lepiota Morgani, especially dangerous because it closely resembles the Lepiota Procera, a harmless, edible "parasol" type of mushroom.

Almost the only difference between the two, say department scientists, is that in the dangerous type, Lepiota Morgani, the gills, or blade-like part under the surface of the cap take on a greenish maturity. It is very difficult to distinguish between young specimens of the dangerous and harmless types.

The Lepiota Morgani often causes severe illness and sometimes death when it is eaten. It is found thence a westerly course with Johnson & Quinerly's back line 40 feet to their southwest corner; thence a northerly direction with Johnson & Quinerly's line to Third Street; thence a westerly direction with Third Street 271-2 feet to the Ayden M. DON'T ENVY YOUTH .. HAVE IT!

EAT ... and grow young! That's what Nature intended when she gave us whole wheat. For in this richest of cereal grains are stored the things that youth is made of. Proteins, carbohydrates, minerals and vitamins, so food authorities call them. You can call them something simpler — SHREDDED WHEAT.

This VITALLY DIFFERENT food brings you all the vital elements of whole wheat... all of whole wheat's correctly measured bran. Nothing added, nothing taken away. Just 100% whole wheat... ready cooked, ready to eat... in easily digested, crisp brown biscuits.

And mighty good to eat, too, with milk or cream, with fresh or preserved fruit. Try it for at least ten days... and learn to forget your years!

MAKE EFFORT TO KEEP DEAN ON CLUB HERE

Officials of the local ball club announced that they were making efforts to retain "Lefty" Dean on the pitching staff of the Greenville team. The action followed Dean's announcement last night that he was going to return to the Mount Airy club of the Western Carolina League.

It was said that Dean was considering the proposal for increased pay here and would likely accept.

"Lefty" Dean, southpaw ace of the Greenville club of the Coastal plain league has tendered his resignation and will leave for his home in Mount Airy after pitching the game against Kinston here tomorrow. It was announced last night.

It was understood that Dean would rejoin the Mount Airy club of the Western Carolina-West Virginia league which he left over a month ago to join the pitching staff of the local club.

Dean stated that the financial inducement offered by his home town team was much above what he was receiving here—in fact, sufficient to enable him to pay his way through college next session.

Dean plans to enter Oak Ridge next year for a preparatory course. He will then go to Duke where he was expected to take a prominent part in the future success of that baseball club.

Dean is considered one of the best pitchers in the league. He has pitched with marked success since coming to Greenville, having established the unique record of pitching forty-five innings with a strikeout to his credit each inning.

He helped Greenville snatch a game from the fire here last Tuesday against Ayden by entering the box in the sixth inning with the score against him about the size of a mountain. Pitching straight ball, he allowed Ayden to make only one more run the remainder of the 11 inning contest. His teammates staged a sensational rally in the ninth inning, knotted the score and then won the game on a scratch hit by Dean in the 11th.

Dean finished the Mount Airy high school last year. He is 18 years old, above the average development for his age, and talking about a speed ball—well, they can't be hit when they can't be seen.

Coming at a time when Greenville is leading the league by a slim margin his loss will be felt most keenly. Club officials already were casting about to find a worthy successor but finding a man that can pitch and hit like a house afire, is not an easy matter.

Manager Harrington yesterday announced the signing of Andreoli former hurler of the Grimsland club. Andreoli pitched the locals to victory against Ayden Wednesday, and was expected to be a big factor in further success of the club.

SPORT STANTS

By ALAN GOULD

"There is no telling how far this new found interest in intercollegiate rowing may go on the Pacific Coast," writes Paul Zimmerman from Los Angeles.

"If the facts had been told a year ago, Washington and California, the west's two crew-minded institutions, were in a quandary. Since neither was flushed with money, it was not considered likely that either could compete in the classic Poughkeepsie, later called off, and that left them with one race on the calendar.

"Then the enthusiastic Major Goodsell talked the University of California at Los Angeles into the sport and put it over in a large way. California and Washington were invited, expenses paid, to participate in a coast championship at Long Beach, and that went over.

"Given the excuse for this enthusiasm, Goodsell then planned and promoted the regatta, with such success that it gave Washington the opportunity to clinch its claims to the national college "sprint" championship. When they row less than three or four miles, it is considered a 'sprint'.

"Western rowing thus finds itself 'out of the woods' for the time being right on the heels of Washington's victory the University of Southern California announced it was going to make a place for the sport on its extensive schedule.

"If and when the Projans, who have been listening to Goodsell's teachings, despite his cross-town affiliations with U. C. L. A., launch their navy, it is considered likely that Stanford, once identified with the sport, will return to the water. Oregon also has in better times considered varsity rowing.

"It is hard for Goodsell, or most of the 15,000 persons who saw the national event for that matter, to believe anything but that the east will take kindly to the idea of its becoming an annual affair, not in competition with the classic Poughkeepsie. Especially does Goodsell believe this will be true since expenses are to be paid.

"Long Beach's civic pride, somewhat buried under the earthquake debris, has been touched to the point that already there is talk of lengthening the 2,000-meter Olympic course to two or three miles. It is pointed out that this can be done by dredging the lagoon at a comparatively low cost.

"The chances are not good that Washington, California, U. C. L. A. or Southern California will be able to participate in the Poughkeepsie event for a season or two because of the expense, but at Long Beach they can race, perhaps even at some profit in another year or two, since the course is entirely enclosed and the turnstiles click a paying tune.

KINSTON TO PLAY LOCAL CLUB ON SAT.

Rain prevented the playing of the scheduled game here yesterday between Greenville and Belhaven, and continued showers during the morning indicated that Snow Hill's appearance here this afternoon might be postponed for the same cause.

Although the Belhaven contest would not have counted in the standing of league clubs, fans here were anticipating the coming of the out-of-league club in the hope of determining the added strength of the last several weeks. Belhaven is said to be one of the strongest clubs in this part of the state at this time and was prepared to offer the leaguers plenty of competition.

The third-place Snow Hill team has met several defeats the last several days and intended to try to stage a comeback against the league leaders here this afternoon. The heavy downpour of rain yesterday afternoon and last night made the playing of today's game out of the question, and with additional showers today, it had become a matter of impossibility, unless players should decide to take to boats and play water baseball.

However, if the game is postponed as it likely will be unless the unexpected happens, fans will have the opportunity of seeing the second place Kinston club in action here tomorrow. This club has won five games in a row and will come to Greenville determined to try and knock the locals from their lofty perch. The weather man promised fair weather both today and tomorrow and while he missed the mark today it was hoped he would be more nearly correct tomorrow.

LUMBER WORKERS IN LINE FOR MORE PAY

Elizabeth City, July 28—A marked increase in wages in Elizabeth City pay rolls is likely to follow adoption of the national industrial code for the lumber industry, study of proposed codes by local lumber mills indicates.

The present minimum wage at the Foreman Blades Lumber mill and the Foreman Derickson Veneer Company is $6.60 for 60-hour week.

Under the 22 1-2 cents an hour minimum wage plan for the lumber industry with a 48-hour week the minimum lumber mill wage would be $10.80. General Hugh S. Johnson, however, seems to lean more toward a 40-hour week with an $11 a week minimum wage.

Stock Market

New York, July 28—(AP)—The stock market almost went to sleep today in one of the lightest sessions since start of the 1933 bull market. Prices showed a tendency to drift irregularly lower from the opening and commodities turned soft and the dollar gyrated uncertainly in foreign exchange dealings.

The close was moderately heavy. Transfers 1,400,000 shares.

Trading was almost at a standstill during the three business hours and many brokerage houses were almost deserted.

Dwindling interests was attributed partly to the fact that many traders on the exchange which closed tomorrow were beginning their holiday early.

The dollar spurted six cents against sterling and replaced the gain with a loss. Silver and rubber features were soft.

Leading stocks bid in early offering recovered losses of one to three or more.

Regular Hours for Stock Market.
New York, July 28—(AP)—The governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange announced today that regular hours of business from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. would be resumed beginning next Monday.

It was also stated that the exchange would be closed on all Saturdays up to and including Sept. 2. The governors of the exchange shortened the session beginning last Monday from 12 to 3 p. m. in order to permit hurried brokers and their employees to dig out from a mountain of work that accumulated during the hectic trading of the last week or so.

Bennettsville, S. C., July 28—(AP)—Mrs. Addie Johnson, 35, shot and killed her husband on her farm near here early today and then walked to Bennettsville and surrendered to police.

The police said the woman told them that Johnson had been in ill health for two years and had quarreled with her almost constantly.
