SOLDIERS BEGIN PATROLING PENN. COAL FIELDS

Tension Mounts When Strikers Stone Workers

PICKET LINE ATTEMPTS TO HALT WORK

Stone Thrower Seized And Sent Home by Guardsmen; Aged Woman With Stones In Her Hands Not Molested; Strikes Continue to Spread In Brownsville Area; Other Counties Are Also Effected

Brownsville, Pa., July 31—(AP)—A minor case of disorder increased tension today between striking coal miners and Pennsylvania national guards who began patrolling mine entrances insisting that pickets give way to men wishing to return to work.

Guardsmen reported that a man in a picket line at Colonial mines No. 3 of the H. C. Frick Coke Company where 4 men were shot last week, threw six stones into a group of miners accompanied by a few women.

A patrol of ten guardsmen in command of Lt. Clarence Urban faced 200 pickets who soldiers said, attempted to block the mine entrance to men seeking to return to work.

Sargent Isadore Catalano seized the stone thrower and turned him over to state police who sent him home.

They said he was standing next to woman of 60 who also had stones in her hand. She was not molested.

Pickets and strikers resented being forced to clear a path to the mine entrance.

Meanwhile the strike continued to spread in this and neighboring counties.

Order Arrests In Bank Holdup. High Point, July 31—(AP)—Geo. B. Wimberly, captain of High Point's detectives, today instructed officers to arrest B. G. Green and Lester Green for questioning in Saturday's holdup of the Merchants and Farmers Bank at Taylorsville when one man was fatally wounded and another seriously shot.

Wimberly had just returned from Taylorsville and said that two men taken to state's prison in Raleigh last night for safe keeping in connection with the attempted robbery were R. E. Black and Mike Stevenson, both former High Point city employees.

The detective said B. G. Green is Black's father-in-law and that Lester Green is Black's brother-in-law.

Eliminate "Company Union" Washington, July 31—(AP)—The "company union" perennial source of conflict between organized labor and the great steel workers was eliminated today from the code proposed by that industry at the insistence of Hugh Johnson, the recovery administrator, but the manufacturers served notice that they will make every effort to continue this method of dealings with their employees.

ROTARY HEAD HERE TODAY

Dr. Roscoe McMillan To Make Official Visit to Local Club Tonight

Dr. Roscoe McMillan, of Red Springs, governor of this district of Rotary, was to arrive in Greenville this afternoon for his official visit to the local club.

He will confer with department heads and club officials this afternoon and tonight he is scheduled to address the clubmen, their wives and sweethearts.

This is the first visit of Dr. McMillan to Greenville since his elevation to the district leadership, and his coming was looked forward to with interest by members of the club.

Club officials were expected one hundred per cent attendance as the organization plans to give the governor a welcome worthy of his high office.

PEP MEETING TUESDAY NITE

A baseball "Pep" meeting will be held at the courthouse tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in an effort to inject more enthusiasm in the fight of the local club of the Coastal Plain league to capture circuit honors.

With one more month of play to go, Greenville was well in the lead of the standing of clubs, and it is the purpose of the meeting to be addressed by Colonel Albion Dunn to arouse people to the need of large attendance and more financial support.

As a prelude to the meeting, the courthouse bell will be rung and a band will play in front of the building.

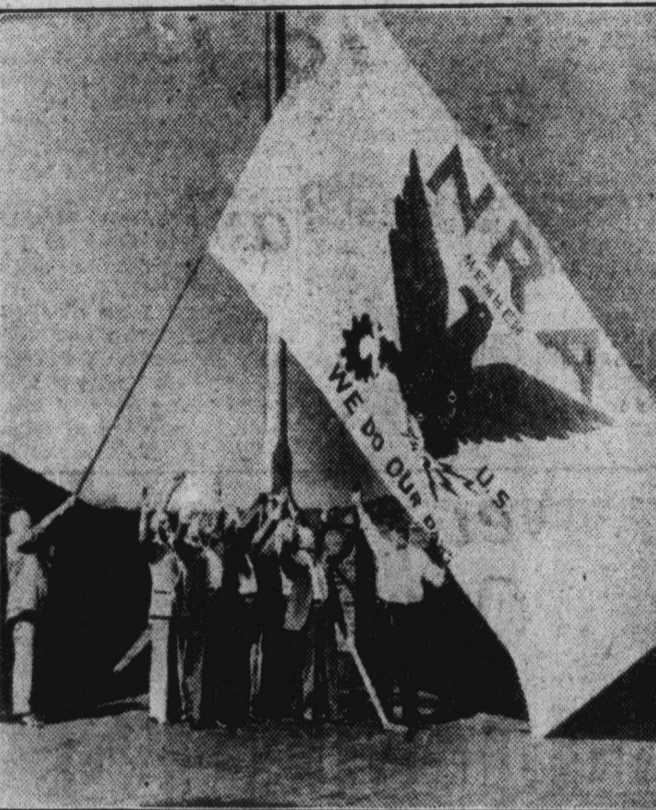

Officials of the club urged the general public to attend the gathering in large numbers and show they are behind the effort of the organization to hold its lead and win the pennant.

LOCAL FIRMS SEEK TO AID IN RECOVERY

Blount-Harvey Co., Greenville department store, announced this morning they would co-operate with President Roosevelt in his National Recovery Program by increasing payrolls and number of employees.

Other business houses of the city also signified their intention to keep step with the administration's movement to lift the nation out of the pit of depression back to the high ground of prosperity, and a general meeting had been called for the city hall this afternoon to discuss the movement here.

J. H. Blount and Mr. Matthews, managers of Blount-Harvey Co., said this morning they were working out plans for co-operating with the government movement and that results of their efforts would be announced in a few days.

The idea of the Roosevelt movement is to increase payrolls, shorten working hours and open up a way for employing more people. It has met with ready response in all parts of the nation and business men everywhere, like Greenville, are laying plans to keep step with the President and to give him the best co-operation possible.

M. R. Long, president of Greenville Cotton Mill, announced last week that pay of employees had been increased to $12 a week as provided by the textile code under the Recovery plan, and that a night shift had been placed in operation practically doubling the force from 150 to 300 employees.

FORMER BRAVES GARDENER BURNING UP ASSOCIATION

Minneapolis, July 31—(AP)—It's perfectly all right with Outfielder Bob Holland that the Boston Braves swapped him for Joe Mowry early this season.

Mowry is now doing what Holland used to do—help hold down the Braves' bench. Meanwhile, Holland is filling in nicely with the Minneapolis American Association club, batting around .340 and maintaining a place as runner-up to his teammate, Jge Hauser, for the home run championship of the circuit.

Belgian Swimmer Breaks Women's 100-Meter Mark Antwerp, July 31—(AP)—Miss Willy Den Ouden recently created what is claimed to be another world record at the new covered swimming pool here. She covered 100 meters free style in 1 minute 6 seconds which compares with the 1:08.3-5 set by the American swimmer, Miss Helene Madison, two years ago.

Early in May, Miss Ouden broke another of Miss Madison's records by swimming 200 meters free style in 2:28.3-5 against Miss Madison's 2:34.3-5.

POSSE STILL SEARCHING FOR TWO BANDITS

Taylorsville, July 31—(AP)—Approximately 200 armed citizens and officers continued their search in this area today for two of the bandits who killed T. C. Barnes, bank official in an attempted bank robbery here Saturday, while officers elsewhere watched highways following reports that the pair were seen at Columbia, S. C., enroute to Denver, Colorado.

Barnes, cashier of the bank, died, however, that the men sought is the remainder of a quartet that attempted to rob the Merchants and Farmers bank and shot Barnes and Solon Little assistant cashier, were possibly still hiding near here.

Barnes, cashier of the bank, died yesterday morning and today Little was reported "about the same." He was wounded in the abdomen. Both men were shot before they could comply with the bandits demand to hand over money from the vault.

No cash was taken. The prisoners were carried to Raleigh to be confined in State's prison.

MINOR DAMAGE IN FLA. STORM

Hurricane Spends Itself Before Striking The East Coast Area

Fort Pierce, Fla., July 31—(AP)—A tropical storm which swept into Florida from the Bahamas this week ended apparently by blowing itself out across the peninsula today with negligible damage.

The hurricane wind that lashed the island and endangered shipping dropped to gale force as it struck the Florida east coast and aside from sectional disruption of power and communication lines and scattered damage to citrus growers, caused little trouble.

The weather bureau observer estimated the highest wind velocities here at Stuart, 20 miles to the south, at 60 miles an hour.

Not Battleboro Robbers Rocky Mount, July 31—(AP)—Three convicts arrested near Vanceboro Saturday were viewed by witnesses here today and were said to be not the bandits who robbed the bank of Battleboro several weeks ago.

SAYS CHRIST UNCHANGING Rev. A. W. Fleischmann Speaks at United Services on Courthouse Square

Picturing Christ as unchanging in an age of changes in every phase of human life, Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of Memorial Baptist church, spoke at the union series on the courthouse lawn last night.

The sermon was heard by a crowd as large as any that has attended previous services this summer and every available seat was occupied. It was the second time Mr. Fleischmann has spoken during the series and the message was equally as powerful as his first.

Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian church was in charge of the service, and Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian church led the singing. A special number, "The Pilot of Callee" was rendered by Mrs. W. Z. Morton and Mrs. E. S. Hemic, of the Memorial Baptist choir, which was in charge of the song service.

It was announced that Rev. W. S. Harden would speak next Sunday evening at which time the Presbyterian choir will be in charge of the song services.

Mr. Fleischmann spoke on the subject, "The Unchanging Christ in a Changing Age." His text was taken from Hebrews 13:8. "Jesus Christ the same yesterday and today and for evermore."

The speaker said in part: "Amid the mutations of character the fluctuations of time, and the vicissitudes of events, the soul longs for something that does not and cannot change, to which it may attach itself and thus find compensation for all the changes which it is compelled to experience in this world.

Among the many changes that are current today a few were mentioned and discussed: First, the change in attitude relating to the ideals of the home. A parent is not able to depend upon a cooperative spirit being displayed today by other parents to maintain the ideals he wishes to build into the characters of his children. Another change in attitude is that of an increasing number of young people who have lost a sense of value of life, and for varied reasons proceed to snuff out their lives by violent means. They evidence a need of some steadying force in their characters that would keep the ship of their lives poised and balanced in the midst of the hurricane winds of present experience.

DOLLAR DAY HERE AUG. 3

Twenty Merchants of City To Take Part in Semi-annual Bargain Event

Greenville merchants today were preparing to observe Thursday, August 3, as "Dollar Day" and an advertising campaign was under way to bring the largest crowd to the city on that date of any other, similar occasion in years.

Approximately twenty leading merchants of the city will take part in "Dollar Day" and the values which they will offer will eclipse all others of recent years.

Dollar day cards will be placed in show windows of the participating merchants and shoppers will be guided by them to the places where the dollar will hold forth its greatest value.

Dollar day is observed twice a year here as the merchants attempt to split profits with the consumer and new stock probably will be ordered to help take care of the demand.

A "New Deal" in values will be the watchword of the twenty merchants on Dollar Day, and those who comes from miles around to get their share of values will have a wide assortment to choose from.

IDENTIFY TWO IN SHOOTING

Vanceboro Bandits Identified As Men Who Shot Raymond Collins

Two of three bandits who last week hit Oscar Paramore, filling station operator of the Vanceboro community, and his wife over the head with pistol and gun butts, today had been identified as the men who shot Raymond Collins in an attempted holdup of his filling station at Hanrahan's Cross roads several days ago.

Mr. Collins yesterday accompanied Sheriff Sam Whitehurst to Rocky Mount where he identified Clifton Thomas and Whitney Jones, who are held in the Rocky Mount jail, awaiting investigation in connection with other crimes as the men who had him fill their automobile with gas, shot him twice, and then fled after a futile attempt to enter his combination filling station and store.

Thomas was identified by Collins as the one that did the actual shooting while Whitney tried to enter the building. The men were foiled in their attempt to enter the store as Collins threw himself in the door way while his wife's screams brought neighbors to their rescue.

The bullets grazed Collins on each side of the head and while his injuries were not considered necessarily serious, it was said today it would be necessary for him to continue to receive hospital attention.

PLAN GRANTED TEMPORARILY BY JOHNSON

Spokesmen of Smaller Stores Declare They Can't Make 40 Hour Plan Operative; 48-Hour Plan to be Effective Only Until Permanent Plan Can Be Decided Upon

Washington, July 31—(AP)—Authorization for retail merchants to put into effect temporarily their own proposed codes providing for 48 hours work week instead of 40 provided in President Roosevelt's blanket wage and hour agreement has been given by Hugh Johnson, the recovery administrator.

Spokesmen for the smaller stores had contended that they were financially unable to carry through terms of the proposed general agreement.

The authorization for the retailer to operate under their tentative code was taken under the provision of the president's agreement providing that it should be effective only until more permanent codes were adopted.

Drafting of the code was completed late last night after a series of conferences between Johnson and representatives of the industry and labor.

The representatives of the merchants accepted the minimum wage scale of $12 to $15 a week provided in the agreement with the president.

Defers Consolidation. Washington, July 31—(AP)—President Roosevelt had postponed until December 31 certain consolidations planned under the government reorganization plan announced on June 10 which delays dismissal of a large number of employees slated to go off the payroll by August 10.

Under executive orders made public today, the President definitely deferred until December 31 consolidation of all government purchasing agencies, the merger of disbursement agencies, under the treasury department and formation of a new division of internal revenue.

The transfer of legal work done by veterans bureau to the justice department was postponed until September 10.

Three Hundred Former Poilus Will Return Visit of the American Legion

Le Harve, France, July 31—(AP)—A group of French war veterans sailed for New York today to return the visit of the American Legion to Paris for its 1927 convention.

Nearly 300 former "poilus" are in the party some to remain in the U. S. a week, others to stay a fortnight or a month.

The trip will be a sightseeing tour for most of the veterans who never have visited America before.

The Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, Indiana's National headquarters, and Washington, where Arlington cemetery and tomb of America's unknown soldier will be visited, are in the itinerary of those remaining two weeks or more.

Already much interest has been shown here in the efforts of the administration to aid business recovery and many individual concerns have already announced a determination to go the limit in co-operating in the movement. A special meeting of merchants has been called for this afternoon to go into the matter and no doubt as soon as each has familiarized himself with just what the government really wants him to do, the co-operation and support of the movement here will be one hundred per cent. Greenville has always shown a willingness to do its part and in this emergency can be counted upon to adopt the same attitude.

THERE SHOULD BE NO HELP FOR THOSE WHO WILL NOT WORK

Complaints are coming to us almost every day about the fact that farmers who need Negro labor from town to help in housing the tobacco crop are having trouble in getting enough labor because so many of the laborers who have been and are still being fed by the relief departments seem to be satisfied and have made up their minds not to work any more or at least until the fall when all the tobacco factories get to work. During the past fall and winter there has been much relief work done in this county and no doubt much of the relief was well deserved and in many cases prevented real hunger and deprivation but after all we are wondering on a whole if this relief work hasn't caused a lot of people to determine to depend from now on upon public sources for a living rather than try to help themselves.

It seems to us that when a person who is receiving relief is offered a job, even though a temporary one, he or she would be glad to get it and when such persons decline, there should be no public relief for them. At this particular time there is need for a great number of workers in harvesting the crops and we would suggest that the city authorities have all laborers of our city willing to do such work report same to the chief of police or some other designated official and that all farmers needing this labor report their needs to the same source in order that the employer might in this way be able to contact the workers. Then the laborer who is not willing to work should not

The HIDDEN DOOR

By Frank L. Packard

Synopsis: Reddy Turner, crook, has been shot down by the Mask, underworld power in Colin Hewitt's apartment. Colin writes mysteries, and is the friend of both crook and the police. Reddy was trying to "get" the Mask who was responsible for the death of his sister. Colin was badly wounded; he has just left the hospital and is remembering his promise to deliver a mysterious letter for Reddy when the Mask telephones to say that only if Colin does not meddle will he be safe. Sergeant Mulvey tells Colin he must leave New York. Colin takes a bunch of skeleton keys and starts for Reddy's old room.

Chapter Seven

COLIN'S VENTURE

A full moon flooded the little courtyard with light, and his eyes, entirely of their own volition it seemed, searched every corner of it narrowly. It was deserted—empty. No one was there. Of course not! Who or what had he expected to see? A lurking shadow?

He shrugged his shoulders in sudden irritation as he stepped forward now across the courtyard, and yet as he gained the street he found himself instinctively glancing again in all directions about him. That telephone conversation, of course! The fact that the Mask had seemingly been conversant with his every movement that day!

He laughed shortly. Well, there wasn't anyone in sight here, anyway. And yet—
"Oh, all right!" Colin muttered savagely to himself. "Absurd, of course; but no use taking any chances! If anyone is sticking around, I'll be delighted to give him a run for his money."

A taxi hove in sight, and Colin hailed it. Reddy's erstwhile lodgings was in the upper Forties between Fifth and Sixth avenue. Colin gave the chauffeur an address on Fifth Avenue a block away from his actual destination, and assured by a swift glance up and down the street, that there was no one near enough to warrant even the suspicion of being concerned in his movements, stepped into the cab.

He wasn't at all so badly of physically—not perhaps quite up to par, but fit enough. It wasn't as though he had been bedridden all the time. He had voluntarily extended his stay in the hospital because, having neither kith nor kin in the world and no one to look after him, except old Mrs. Higgin, his landlord's wife, who came daily to keep his diggings in order, he could recuperate there better than anywhere else! Yes, he was quite all right.

And, besides, there was a very good and valid reason why he should go to Reddy's old room tonight. It wasn't so easy to steal into a house and take down a bedroom curtain pole without anybody knowing anything about it! But tonight Reddy's old room was unoccupied that was all.

Colin screwed his head around and looked out through the back window. Several cars had passed him, but there was none behind. That took care of that! He settled himself back in his seat again.

He nodded reflectively to himself. Despite the fact that he had no family ties, he had not lacked for visitors during his illness once he had been able to see them. Rather a heterogeneous lot! Personal friends of perfectly respectable social status; the police; the members of Reddy's mob. The nurses had been more often aghast than not.

Yes, quite so! But that was how only be cut off from any and all relief but should be classed as a vagrant and dealt with accordingly.

he knew Reddy's old room was empty tonight. Butch Connal had unwittingly told him so yesterday afternoon. Butch was one of Reddy's mob, and Butch had taken over Reddy's room. Butch had casually remarked that he'd be spending the next couple of nights out of town and wouldn't be calling at the hospital again.

It remained only to get into the room once occupied by Reddy. Well he had the "open sesame" hadn't he? Those skeleton keys? He smiled suddenly—a little crookedly. This was getting to be very much like one of his own chapters! He had enacted scenes like this a hundred times—vicariously—in his books. A queer turn of fate that he was to live one of those scenes now instead of write it!

He felt his nerves tingle suddenly at the prospect before him. Nonsense!! Simple enough! Not a single one of his heroes would have batted an eyelash. The whole street where he was going was filled with speak-easies—people at the peepholes waiting to pass inspection or present credentials. No one would pay any attention to him if it took him a few moments to open a front door; then along the hall to the rear door on the right; then five minutes at most in an unoccupied room—and out again.

He half closed his eyes. That apart, what was it all about? Even if he delivered the letter he would never know. Had it anything to do with this worse than pervert who called himself like some character out of blatant melodrama, the Mask? He hoped so.

The car slowed down and drew up to the curb. Colin glanced out. It was the street corner he had given the taxicab driver as an address. He stepped to the pavement as the man opened the door, paid the other, stood there for a moment, as he watched the cab rattle away and while a car traveling at a rate that defied all speed laws whizzed by then he crossed to the west side of Fifth Avenue, walked a block north—and swung around the first corner headed toward Sixth Avenue.

Apart from a rather hilarious sextette of men and women emerging from a basement door, and a parked car here and there, the street at the moment showed little sign of life. Exactly! The life at this hour was indoors! It had once been a very good residential neighborhood, of course, but time and prohibition had wrought its havoc in that respect.

The houses were for the most part substantial, but many of them were now used for quite other purposes than those for which they had been erected. Colin smiled thinly. He had a "membership card" himself to the "club" he was just passing.

He had been walking briskly. He was now halfway down the block and he suddenly slowed his pace. The house into which he proposed to make that "felonious" entry should be just about here. Yes, here it was!

Aided by the moonlight, he selected a key from among its fellows and inserted it into the lock. It was almost too easy, but he none the less experienced a distinct sense of relief as the door gave under his hand at the first attempt.

SAYS CHRIST UNCOANGING
"It may be his child next!" This paragraph brings home to us the truth of our indifference to these other matters of moral import, as this editor discusses the scourge of kidnapping that has scandalized us all.

In the midst of these things we turn our eyes toward the incomparable Christ as the Unchangeable One in whom our souls may be safely anchored. Above all, when we stand in a certain relation to this Blessed Person, when the perfections of Christ are made available for us, when His power supplements our weakness, when His wisdom vitalizes our ignorance, when He in all His plenitude of perfection is our own particular treasury from whence we may draw everlasting supplies, then, oh, then, let change approach Him not, but stand respectfully beyond the circle drawn by His Divine nature, like Moses before the burning bush, or the Adoring Shepherds at the manger, or the worshipping Magi before the Child.

Therefore our unchanging Gospel must find its foundation on our Unchanging Christ. How vain it were to go everywhere preaching the gospel of the grace of God, if Christ were not the same yesterday, today and forever.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO FLY AROUND THE WORLD ALONE!

● ABOVE—FOR THE FIRST TIME IN HISTORY a man has flown around the world alone! Sleepless... hungry... ignoring the perils of fog and ice... storms and forced landings... Wiley Post won the admiration of the whole world with his courage, his skill, and his marvelous physical endurance in flying around the world in 7 days, 18 hours, 49½ minutes. Here he is shown as he landed at Floyd Bennett Field.

How are Your Nerves?

● LEFT—"I CAN'T SPEAK as a record-breaking flyer. I'm a young married woman, and my home and club work keep me going every minute. Add to that the fact that I am naturally inclined to be the nervous type. I didn't start with Camels, but later switched to them because I found they are milder and have a delightful flavor. I smoke only Camels now because I have discovered that they allow me to smoke all I want—without upsetting my nerves."

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Leaf tobaccos for cigarettes can be bought from 5¢ a pound to $1.00... but Camel pays the millions more that insure your enjoyment.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

In an exclusive interview WILEY POST says: "Circling the globe alone in the Winnie Mae was the toughest ordeal I've ever been through! A round-the-world flyer has to be in shape to stand the extremes of physical exhaustion. He has to be ready for any weather, any emergency. His job calls for nerves in perfect condition. Smoking Camels as I have for so long, I never worry about healthy nerves—and I'm a constant smoker, too. Everybody knows that Camels are made from more expensive tobaccos, and you can certainly tell it in the mildness and good taste of Camels, and the fact that Camels never jangle the nerves!"

Miss Cox To Return To China.
Ayden, July 31—Miss Venelia Cox of Winterville, who has been home on a six months furlough from St. Hildas School, Wuchang, China, will start her return trip to the mission field Thursday, Aug. 3rd. Miss Cox has been teaching in this Protestant Episcopal School for the past 16 years.

Enroute she will spend a few days visiting friends in Kentucky and go from there to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. On August 12th she will leave Vancouver on the Empress of Canada and will reach Shanghai August 29th.

The first part of Miss Cox's vacation was spent with her mother Mrs. B. T. Cox of Winterville. During this period she visited many parishes and mission in the Diocese of East Carolina and told the members of the Women's Auxiliary about the work being done by the church at St. Hildas. Two months were spent in Greensboro where she studied music and several weeks were spent in New York City. Last night a farewell service was held at St. Luke's, Winterville, by Rev. A. C. D. Noe, rector, and a very large congregation, many of whom came from other towns, attested to the high esteem in which Miss Cox is held in her native state and community.

Seeing Through My Windshield

(By ETHEL NICE, H. D. A.)

Farm and Home Convention.
It was a tired group of women that left the State College campus Friday afternoon, but they've got enough to talk about from now until Christmas. We wish that every Pitt county woman could have been there to enjoy those lectures and demonstrations. You would also have enjoyed the tours to Chapel Hill and Duke. You would have forgotten that you were tired when you saw the Indians dance and heard the negroes sing.

L. J. Tucker, Master National Grange, delivered an address that every Grange member should have heard. Mr. Taber feels that while the agricultural program of a community is important, it is much more important that the community be made up of honest thinking people with wholesome ideals. He says politicians do not make the laws but that they are made by public opinion, which should be molded in the Granges.

There were so many good things to see and hear, they can only be touched upon in this column. For August meetings, I hope each club can have some one to report the Short Course.

Women Attended Meetings.

There were five women who attended the Farm and Home Convention from this county. Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker was highly honored when made first vice-president. We are proud of her and her ability to preside over a group of a thousand or more women with such ease. Mrs. Tucker belongs to the Simpson Club. The Pierce Club was represented by Mrs. Blaney Sumrell, Mrs. Carence Whitehurst and Mrs. Oscar Speight. Mrs. J. R. Lewis of Farmville club, started to Raleigh but was taken quite ill and had to spend her time in the Wilson hospital with mastoiditis instead. Mrs. Lewis had her ear lanced but was still very uncomfortable Friday evening.

Mrs. Louella Stancill of the Falkland Club, started for Pitt county also. She was one of the graduating class and received her diploma Friday morning. Whatever you want to know about the short course, ask Mrs. Stancill.

Canning

Canning is still the popular occupation in Pitt county. We are "living at home" as if it were a brand new thing even though Dr. Le... said in one of the lectures that we had a "live at home" program in 1731.

Last week the Greenville cannery under the supervision of Mrs. Mable Randolph, canned 2,194 jars and cans. They have a total now of 5,302 cans and jars. Farmville under the supervision of Mrs. J. T. Taylor, canned 1,361 containers. They now have a total of 3,570. Ayden had last week 1,346 containers. This week they canned 1,108 containers. Mrs. J. D. McArthur and Miss Effie Tripp of Winterville have supervised the canning plant since last Monday morning.

Why Is It?

Some fellows in Greenville, with the same salary as yours, can live in a nicer house, drive a nicer car, go on more interesting vacations and still have money when it is needed?

The answer is simple—they have learned the secret of systematic saving. Probably thru this Association, where there's a saving plan to suit any income. Investigate for yourself.

GREENVILLE WINS WITH NINTH RALLY

A ninth inning rally again proved the salvation of the Greenville club here Saturday afternoon when a couple of hits and a sacrifice gave Greenville the necessary run to break a 2-2 tie and win from Kinston by the score of 3-2.

Kinston, with a string of six consecutive victories behind them came over here intending to beat the locals, and it looked as if they were going to do it in the early stages of the game, but the dependable pitching arm of Lefty Dean, star southpaw hurling ace, held them in check when the slightest kind of a hit would have meant an additional tally.

It was the third time in the last week that Greenville had snatched a game from the fire and fans in the future will be watching that old ninth frame to see if it will continue to carry the boys through.

Lefty Dean started the rally that won the game by hitting safely to the infield. He advanced a base on a bunt by Bob Lang and scored on "Skipper" Harrington's single to the left garden.

It was a thrilling finish to one of the best pitching duels seen on the local diamond this season. Stockton, the cream of Kinston's pitching crop and Dean, Greenville ace, were the slab artists and did they pitch?

Dean, however, was a shade in the lead of Stockton, upholding his strike-out record of one an inning by causing nine batters to whiff the breezes. Stockton was credited with four strikeouts.

Kinston scored one in the first and one in the third, and Greenville shoved two over in the third and the winning tally in the ninth. Kinston was credited with a total of seven hits and Greenville nine.

Smith, Dean and Harrington lead with the willow for Greenville, each being credited with two safeties. The three base walk to center field by Poetic in the third frame resulted in Greenville knotting the count.

Greenville previously had defeated Ayden and Snow Hill in ninth inning rallies, overcoming a much greater lead than in the case of Kinston.

The victory gave the locals a tighter grip on the top than any club has had this season, and with all three other clubs attempting to knock the club off the top limb, the remainder of the games are expected to be tense with plenty of thrills.

"Skipper" Harrington announced today he had made arrangements for a three game exhibition series with Williamston with the first game being played here this afternoon.

ANDEROLIA GRABS LEAD IN BAT RACE

Anderolia, new acquisition to the Greenville pitching staff, today had grabbed batting honors from Lefty Dean, southpaw, but the race promises to be a tight one, it was indicated today by batting averages compiled by Bert Moye official score-keeper of the local club of the Coastal Plain league.

Although Anderolia has participated in only two games he obtained three hits. He went to bat five times and his percentage was .600.

Dean, on the other hand, after participating in 18 games had a total of 22 hits to his credit. He went to bat 53 times and his average was given as .415.

Tommy Hicks came third with Billy Brown, elongated first baseman fourth. Taylor was next and close behind him was Bostic, who after taking part in all games played, had 37 hits out of 112 times at bat.
