

DENVER, COLORADO, MENACED BY FLOOD WATER

Lower Section Of City Under Raging Flood

CHERRY CREEK OVERFLOWS ITS BARRIERS

Two Bridges Swept Away by Torrents of Water; Flood Follows Cloudburst Late Yesterday; Woman Swept Away in Cloudburst Area; No Loss of Life Recorded in The Denver District

Denver, Colo., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Cherry Creek, which several times destroyed Denver and which for many years has been confined by concrete walls, swept over its barriers today and inundated the lower section of the city after destroying two bridges.

The flood, result of a cloudburst last night southeast of the city, went into town before 6 a. m., took out the wooden Colorado Boulevard bridge and broke the steel and concrete structures spanning the creek at Logan street.

The first well four feet high was of such proportions it swept out of the retaining walls erected by the late Mayor Robert Beer at tremendous cost and began to spread. There was no loss of life reported in Denver, but near Methuon, in the cloudburst area, Mrs. Claude Hill, 50, was swept away by a six-foot wall of water when she stepped into her yard.

MORE STORES RALLY TO CODE

Two Business Houses Join Ranks of Those Supporting Recovery Act

Greenville business houses were still accepting the invitation of the Recovery administration today to help improve the national economic situation by shortening hours, increasing wages and boosting employment.

While some of the merchants were still marking time awaiting the development of a code, others fell in line behind President Roosevelt in the hope that the emergency measure would bring a return of the prosperity people have been talking about such a long time without seeing any indication of it until the Democratic leader entered the White House and started the wheels rolling.

At a public meeting here the first of the week, business men informed Secretary Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, that they were in sympathy with the movement and would work out a code to be submitted to him.

Some manufacturing plants accepted codes already established and immediately announced their intention of raising wages, increasing employment, shortening hours, thereby opening a way for increased public purchasing power.

Acceptance of the code of 48 hours a week is causing some concern to some phases of business, but it was believed this would be worked out to the satisfaction of the majority at an early date. Some of the stores already have started opening at 9 o'clock and closing at 6 to carry out provisions of the code.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Louis Snyder, young Albany attorney, who acted as counsel for Manny Strel, go-between in the O'Connell kidnap case, today threatened to "tell the world" all the details of the case if Dan O'Connell, uncle of the abducted youth, continues his silence.

Snyder said that statements made by District Attorney John Delaney were putting him "in a bad light" and that the family of John J. O'Connell, Jr., could clear up the matter if they desired.

Judge Rutherford of Brooklyn to Speak At Courthouse at 3 o'Clock Sunday

The subject of the lecture will be "Way of Escape," and will be in the form of electrical transcription. Mr. White said the lecture would be non-denominational and non-partisan, and was simply an attempt on the part of the speaker to show people the surest way of escape from perplexing problems of the day.

All arguments, it was said, will be based on facts of the Bible, and churchgoers of all denominations were asked to attend.

DEVIL'S SHOESTRING MAY YIELD CHEAP INSECTICIDE

Lubbock, Tex.—(AP)—The "devil's shoestring" a weed supposedly worthless to man, beast and insect, may become of value in the manufacture of insecticides, test by the United States department of agriculture have disclosed.

When it was noticed that insects gave the plant a wide berth, experiments showed the weed contained a poison fatal to them. Success of the experiments might eliminate the annual importation of 10,000,000 pounds of pyrethrum flower, Co. Greenville Machine Works, National Biscuit Co., J. D. PLAYGROUNDS THROWN OPEN DOLLAR DAY

Over Hundred Children Attend First Day of Supervised Play Here

Two supervised playgrounds which swung open here yesterday were declared a pronounced success today.

Mrs. E. T. Robeson, director of the playgrounds, said 118 children were present at Training and Third Street schools and that they exhibited much enthusiasm in the many things which have been provided for their entertainment.

The playgrounds are directed through the office of J. H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, with members of the Parent-Teachers organization, public school faculty and other young women assisting.

Yesterday's activities were devoted largely to organizing for play the remainder of the summer months, and the way the children entered into the general scheme of things indicated the movement would be highly successful.

Among the initial undertakings yesterday was a sewing club which will meet every day from 11 to 12 o'clock for the instruction of children in needle art.

Three baseball clubs were formed among the larger boys, two at Third street and one at the Training school.

Activities of the little children were confined to a story hour, games and free play and all were permitted to participate in the folk games and dances.

In charge of the Third street playground are Miss Elizabeth Madrin, Florence Phelps and Clara Louise Forbes.

At the Training schools Mrs. Shepard Morton, Misses Gevena Dall and Mary Shaw Robeson are in charge.

Mrs. Robeson said plans were being arranged for the addition of an athletic director to the general playground staff, and it was thought this would add much to the improvement of the daily program for entertainment of children.

This is the first time that supervised play has been provided here in the summer time, and the movement was looked upon favorably by the entire citizenship as a step to keep children off the streets and provide them with wholesome recreation.

He was arrested on a capias and brought to Asheville. He appeared before Judge McElroy on a writ of habeas corpus which was denied and he was remanded to jail while his case was continued until the August term of court. He is communicating with Newton friends in an effort to raise the bond.

Leaf Prices Better in Ga. Improved Grade of Leaf Also in Evidence as Market Begins Third Day

Atlanta, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Better grades of bright leaf tobacco appeared today, the third day of the annual auction in the Georgia belt. Poor grades, however, were still in evidence.

Tifton reported offerings of the better grades estimated at 250,000 pounds with the possibility of a better average pay.

The average for the first two days was 13.69 cents per pound. Sales Tuesday and yesterday reached 719,218 pounds which brought $98,470.18.

Sales at Adel yesterday where there was general dissatisfaction the opening day totaled 197,000 pounds. The average was 12.25 cents per pound with the better grades commanding 15 to 24 cents.

Offerings at Adel to date have been mostly of the poor grades which W. T. Shelle, editor of the Adel News, said have sold at satisfactory prices there since the price range became more regulated after the first flurry of selling.

Dollar Day was put on through the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce, and participating merchants were doing their best to surpass one another in an effort to share their profits with the patrons.

KILLER JAILED IN DEFAULT OF BOND Smithfield, Aug. 3.—Aaron Lassiter, negro, was bound over to Superior court here Tuesday afternoon by Coroner James H. Miss Carr Is Slated Labor Crisis-Meter

Harrisburg, Pa.—(AP)—In the midst of numerous strikes and the great national transition of industry, Pennsylvania has assigned to a woman the task of guiding its labor policies.

Strongly supported by both Gov. and Mrs. Pifford Pinchot and in close association with Frances Perkins, United States secretary of labor, Miss Charlotte E. Carr tackles confidently problems which few of the men preceding her have encountered as state secretary of labor and industry.

Strikes On Increase. Strikes were widespread and increasing when she became Pennsylvania's first woman secretary of labor. They had increased 500 per cent for the second quarter of 1933 as compared with the first.

The ranks of the unemployed were swelled by thousands who had quit their jobs in the industrial centers of Philadelphia, Reading, Scranton, Allentown and smaller communities.

Previously a bureau chief in both of Pinchot's terms as governor, Miss Carr was appointed secretary when Dr. A. M. Northrup resigned, charging Miss Carr with agitating strikes. Without waiting for the resignation to become effective, the governor dismissed Northrup and named Miss Carr his successor.

"Competent" Says Pinchot. "I have come to rely upon Miss Carr for action and information in matters connected with labor and industry, for the very good reason that she is competent in such matters," Pinchot said.

Through 18 years devoted to institutional and industrial work, Miss Carr has made "action and information" her principal objectives. Just out of Vassar college in 1915, she obtained employment as matron in an Ohio orphanage. She received $18 a month. Like many young women, she kept a dairy. It was not the usual type of dairy and state officials paid her nearly a month's salary, $15 for it. The data it recorded were made the basis of an investigation which resulted in improvement of conditions in the orphanage and other institutions in the state.

ABDUCTORS NAME WIFE AND UNCLES

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Threats to kidnap the wife of Edward O'Connell, prominent Democratic leader, or one of the O'Connell brothers, uncles of the kidnaped John J. O'Connell, Jr., were reported to have been received by the family today.

The threats were said to have been responsible for the heavy guards maintained at the mountain camp of Dan O'Connell, where several members of the family are staying.

Police and private guards, armed with rifles, patrolled the O'Connell camp, 20 miles from the city.

Young "Butch" O'Connell was returned to camp last Sunday after a 24-day captivity in New York City.

It was understood that the snatch mob, angered by the revelation that it had been given marked money and the knowledge that the family worked with the police, sought to silence the youth's uncles with threatening letters.

WILL RETURN TWO BANDITS

Pitt Officers go to Rocky Mount to Bring Hanrahan Holdup Men Here

Deputy Sheriff Herbert Harris went to Rocky Mount today to return two former convicts alleged to have taken part in the holdup near Vanceboro last week and wanted in this county for the alleged shooting of Raymond Collins at his filling station at Hanrahan's Cross, near Pitt county, about two weeks ago.

Clifton Thomas, of Edenton, and Whitney Jones, of Lenoir county, were to be surrendered by Rocky Mount authorities immediately upon arrival of Harris and other officers from this county.

D. G. Traylor, of Edenton, was wanted in connection with the Hanrahan holdup, was returned to this county Tuesday in the custody of Sheriff Sam Whitehurst. The sheriff went to Rocky Mount with the intention of bringing all three men back, but owing to the absence of the head of police, he was unable to obtain the custody only of Traylor.

However, since that time Rocky Mount authorities informed the sheriff he could obtain the custody of the other two men and officers were immediately dispatched for them.

The three were arrested after an all night, all day search by a posse in woods of the Vanceboro community and carried to Rocky Mount for investigation for possible connection with other crimes.

Oscar Paramore and his wife, operators of the filling station, were near Vanceboro were badly beaten with gun butts after giving $150 to the robbers. When the bandits attempted to escape in a car, the machine crashed through a bridge and caused them to abandon the car.

Thomas and Jones were identified by Collins as men who shot him twice inflicting painful wounds on each side of his face. Traylor was said to have admitted to officers that he was in the back seat of the car asleep and was not seen by Collins.

SIGN ORDER FOR FINISHING FEDERAL PARK

Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Interior Department was advised today that President Roosevelt signed the executive order for the completion of the Great Smokey Mountain National Park in North Carolina and Tennessee.

The order will carry with it an application for $1,500,000 from public works funds to round out an enlarged park beyond the 425,000 acres provided in the original plan.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gave $5,000,000 for the park on condition that one half of it should be a memorial to his mother, Laura Rockefeller, and on the condition that the states and private citizens contribute an equal amount.

The contribution for private citizens fell $500,000 short of the goal and $500,000 of the $1,500,000 will be used to make up that deficiency.

The remaining $1,000,000 will be used to procure additional land and will furnish all winter work for men of the civilian conservation corps.

SAYS CITY WILL GET 25 PER CENT OF FUNDS. Winston-Salem, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Raymond E. Toms, chief of the division of design of the bureau of public roads, has assured North Carolina municipalities that they will get 25 percent of the money allotted by the federal government to this use for roads, Mayor George W. Coan, Jr., former president of the State Municipal League, and said today.

Coan said he had a personal conference with Toms in Washington, after E. B. Jefferson, chairman of the State Highway-Prison Commission had recommended that municipalities be allowed only 15 per cent.

"City officials need less no sleep on this issue," Coan said. "North Carolina municipalities will receive 25 per cent of our State's federal road appropriation, conditioned only on the reasonableness of the cities' needs."

Coan said Toms' interpretation is "worth a million dollars" to municipalities in the State in the huge percentage difference in the huge amount to be allotted this state by the government.

England's War Pensions Costly. London.—(AP)—Since 1914 war pensions have cost the British government nearly $5,500,000,000 and the current expenditure is close to $5,000,000 a week. The ministry of pensions has about 4,000 patients in hospitals.

The HIDDEN DOOR

By Frank L. Packard

SYNOPSIS: Colin Hewitt, writer of detective stories, finds himself plunged into a far better thriller than any he ever imagined. Reddy Turner, boyhood friend who went wrong, is killed in Colin's apartment by the Mask, whom Reddy was trailing because that master criminal was responsible for the death of Reddy's sister. Colin has promised to deliver a letter for Reddy; he goes to Reddy's old room—finds the letter, and turns to face one of the Mask's killers. He smashes the face of the man with a curtain pole, and now walks down Sixth avenue knowing that if he goes home he is as good as committing suicide.

Chapter Ten REDDY'S LETTER
Colin quickened his steps, unconsciously keeping pace with his thoughts.
There was Reddy's letter. He couldn't come to any final decision anyhow until he had read that, and meanwhile the obvious thing to do was to keep his tracks covered. But in any case he couldn't stay en for a ride, you will remember I told you that I wasn't letting you in for anything except the time and trouble it would take to find Lazarre (though I didn't mention his name then) provided you followed the directions I am writing here, and, after handing over the letter, just let it go at that.

And that is all true; but, before you finally make a decision, it is only fair to add something here, which is part of what I meant by "following directions," that I did not tell you about when I was talking to you. And my reason for not having done so then was that it wasn't anything you needed to know until the time came for you to sit in and take a hand, if you then felt that way about it—which time would mean, of course, that I'd been put on the spot by the Mask. Listen! I've found out that the Mask has got some "interests" down that way, though what they are I don't know. So

The action brought by members of the Pitt County Tax Relief Association to have the advertising of 1932 delinquent tax list postponed until later in the fall was most timely and will be of great benefit to the taxpayers of the county. At this time it is a well known fact that our people cannot pay their taxes but if given an opportunity to do a little fall business they will be in position to pay. In view of this we have taken the stand all along that they should be given this extension in order to get an opportunity to pay before being advertised. Those who brought this action and Judge Frizzelle, who granted the injunction, have thereby rendered a service to the people of the county.

While the list of those actually signing the new government code is increasing daily and others are signifying their intentions to fall in line just as soon as they can find out where they stand, there are still some who seem not to understand the purpose of the whole recovery act. The purpose of the recovery act is to shorten working hours in order that more people might get employment and to increase wages to a living scale. On the face of this it might appear burdensome to some of those business houses who have been having a hard time making the grade under the depression but after the first week and the first pay day the increased buying power brought about by more employment and better wages should begin to reflect itself in the sales of the merchants and in the long run they will find themselves much better off. With the country behind this plan it is bound to succeed.

For the benefit of our rural subscribers, who because of the work on the farm could not get to town today to take advantage of our special Dollar Day subscription offer, we have decided to continue this offer until the close of business Saturday. If you did not get down today be sure that you take advantage of this offer before the time expires. It will not be extended or renewed.

Dogs Days Finner In Vienna.
Vienna, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Fewer dogs are having their days in Vienna, the city hall reporting a drop of 10,500 in the canine population within three years. The decline was especially noticeable in the working class district.

"We'll try to come you comfortable, Mr. Routh."

out on the street all night. Obviously again, then, a hotel. The Crossmore, for instance. It was only a few blocks away and not far from the Grand Central. Whether or not he eventually spent the rest of the night at the Crossmore did not matter; he could at least digest Reddy's letter there undisturbed and at his leisure.

He traversed the intervening blocks rapidly and entered the hotel. The lobby was deserted. Only a sleepy bellboy and the night clerk appeared to be on duty.

Colin crossed to the desk. "This commuter stuff isn't all it's cracked up to be," he grumbled, as he registered. "Second time this month I've missed the last train!" He took out his pocketbook. "I haven't any baggage, of course, so I'll pay you now."

The clerk nodded pleasantly. "Well, it's an ill wind, you know!" he said sentimentally. "We'll try to make you comfortable, Mr.—" he glanced at the register—"Routh. With bath?"

"Please," said Colin—and a few minutes later was in his room with the door jockeyed behind him.

And suddenly he felt very tired. What was it the doctors had said about early hours and no excitement? Oh, well—he flung an approving glance around the room—there was solid comfort here for the time being anyhow! And a bed by and by—perhaps. But Reddy's letter first!

He threw himself into an easy chair, took the envelope from his pocket, and tore it open. It contained, as Reddy had said, a plain, sealed envelope of ordinary commercial size and two sheets of paper folded together. He laid the envelope down on the arm of his chair, and unfolded the sheets of paper.

Reddy's penmanship was clear and legible. He read the closely written sheets through to the end—read them in a sort of tense haste as though at a single glance he strove to master their entire contents. Then, with a grim smile, he searched in his pocket for a cigarette, lighted it, and reread the letter slowly, as though almost he were committing it now word for word to memory. As Reddy had said, it began without preface:

The man to whom the enclosed letter is to be delivered is somewhere on the north shore of the lower Gulf of St. Lawrence, or on the Canadian Labrador coast. He was last heard of at a place called Cap a l'Orage; but I'm sure he is still down there somewhere, and I think has been there for about a year. His real name doesn't matter. He is known there as Joe Lazarre. He is dark, has black eyes and hair, is thick-set, clean-shaven, and is about forty years old; if you have any doubt about him, ask him to show you his shoulder—he has a bullet-wound scar along his right shoulder blade. So much for that, if you decide to go. If you ever read this, which will only be if I have been taking your step—otherwise there would be danger. It's a cinch that if he ever gets on to me at all, he'll know all there is to know about me before he's through, and he'll know that you're a friend of mine—and, if he found out you were down there, he'd get curious, which wouldn't be so good. If you decide to go, I'd be Tom, Tom, the Piper's son, or Little Boy Blue or something like that while you're there, if I were you. Understand?

You know how much I want the letter delivered, but I'm telling you straight now—play safe or stay at home. That's flat. Also, it's only fair to tell you that Lazarre is working for the Mask; but you will be in no danger from him on account of any letter you hand over from me and you can bank on that to the limit—only he wouldn't live long if it were known he ever got it. See? That's why it isn't to be mailed to Cap a l'Orage—where he may not be.

If you go, good luck, and a dead man's thanks; if you don't go, remember the bargain—the letter is to be destroyed unopened, and your mouth is shut. That's all.

Colin stared unseeingly in front of him. Mechanically he tore the sheets into bits, and mechanically he thrust the sealed envelope into an inner recess of his pocketbook.

They spoke mostly French down there, of course. That was all right. So did he. A lonely, desolate stretch of coastline. He knew something about it by hearsay. Heaton Boyce had been down there on a salmon trip last year and had described it one night at the club.

The North Shore, Boyce said they always called it. A pulp mill or so; timber-cutting; fishing. And, separated by infinite miles, a few settlements that consisted of no more than a cluster of houses. No railroad. Coastal boats from Montreal and Quebec the only source of supplies and transportation in summer—dog teams in the winter. What the devil interest could the Mask have in a locality such as that?

He'd have to write a note to Mulvey. Tell Mulvey he'd taken his advice and was off for a trip—not sure himself just where he was going. Also a note to Mrs. Higgin to keep his diggings in order while he was away. He could write them both in the morning.

RED-EYED FLY BATTLES NEBRASKA GRASSHOPPERS

Phoenix, Neb.—AP—The spawn of a red-eyed fly is spreading destruction among grasshoppers in northern Nebraska.

Swarming as thick as bees some times, they lay their eggs on the hoppers in flight. Maggots hatch from the eggs eat into the vital of the insects and kill them in two or three weeks.

Don B. Whelan of the Nebraska agricultural college at Lincoln, who has studied the flies, says it is a toss up whether the 'hoppers' enemies are any benefit to the farmer. In some parts of the state blister beetles also have appeared to plague the grasshoppers, but the adult beetles likewise attack garden stuff.

END STRIKE THREAT AMONG AIR PILOTS

Washington, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Temporary settlement of a situation that threatened a strike of 150 pilots on three major air lines was announced yesterday by Secretary Frances Perkins.

The controversy, which had tied up a large part of the commercial aviation industry was ended through the efforts of the department's conciliation bureau, at a meeting in New York with E. R. Breech, president of the North American Aviation Company and 12 representatives of the Air Line Pilots Association.

"A truce was declared," said the department's announcement, "for 30 days pending a thorough investigation as to wages by the company and the executive council of the pilots' association. Security rights were established and minor adjustments were made."

The pilots affected are employed on the Eastern Air Transport, the Trans-Continental and Western Air Express Lines.

RED OAK NEWS

We are expecting next Sunday to be a gala day at our Sunday school for two reasons. First of all, we will have new song books and one can imagine what that means after having used the same books for so long. We wish to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of you who made it possible for us to get the new books. It will help our Sunday school and church service too. Then, too, next Sunday we will have as our guest speaker, Honorable F. C. Harding of Greenville. We extend an invitation to the community to be present at the Sunday school hour to hear this noted speaker. We are sure that he will have a message for each and every one present.

We were very fortunate to have with us last Sunday morning, Judge Frank Wooten and Mr. S. I. Dudley of Greenville. Judge Wooten delivered a very timely message on "Being Fair," which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

It looks as though now, unless there is a big change, our Sunshine class might as well begin to decide what we are going to feed the Reedy Branch boys and girls on, for try as hard as we can, it seems impossible to catch up with them. We have never raced with anyone before that has stayed ahead of us all the time. They evidently are working folks over that way and they have really given us something to work against. We haven't had this week's report but if it is anything like it has been before, they are still in the lead. Let's come to Sunday school next Sunday and not let them think that we have dropped out of the race.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dickinson and children and Fenner Allen attended the funeral of Mr. Dickerson's brother-in-law, Tarboro last Sunday.

Gaskins Off Bank Bandits In The Future

J. C. Gaskins, register of deeds of Pitt county, has issued many a maiden companions were bandits had the first time he ever sold one to an alleged bandit occurred last Tuesday. And was Claude scared when he found out he had faced bandits?—ask him.

He probably never would have known the applicant and his two men companions were bandits had not they been arrested following the wreck of their car near Tarboro.

Then it was divulged that Robert Richards, bridegroom had married Mary Green, of Tarboro, after getting license here. Another man by the name of George Dall was in the car when it wrecked. They are alleged to have robbed the Battleboro bank.

Claude said today had he known the men were bandits he probably would have applied for Frank Harrington's smelling salts again before being able to reach the sheriff's office.

SNOW HILL AGAIN DROPS GAME HERE

Androell—"Dominicker"—the fans call him—let Snow Hill down with three hits yesterday afternoon and enabled Greenville to win over the Greene county lads by the score of 6-2.

Although rather wild in the beginning, "Dominicker" settled down to business later on and the visitors found it impossible to connect effectively with his offerings. His fine mound work, however, was matched by Sively who allowed Greenville only five bingles. Three of these, however, went for three bases, two of them featuring prominently in the scoring.

It was the second time within the period of a week that Snow Hill has fallen before the league leaders, and they were so exasperated over the fact that they protested yesterday's game in the eighth inning, on the grounds the balls played with were not of the kind officially adopted by the league.

Official or unofficial, apparently there was nothing wrong with the balls because both clubs batted them so far corners of the field. It happened, however, that most of Green Hill's long drives fell outside the reach of the fielders, and that was proving to be sure, with men on the paths.

This abbreviated young man on short stop by the name of Clifford Bostic, but more familiarly known as "Bunt" again loaded his bat with high explosive and cracked out two three baggers to right center field. Cleve, a former Greenville player, who apparently misjudged one of the extra base hits, was yanked in the favor of Fulgum.

"Bing" Miller, whose bat is always active when any batter is going on, equaled Bostic in the number of drives, although his were for singles. One was a perfect bunt down first base line that enabled Miller to lead on first with time to spare. Dean's three bingles accounted for the local sixth tally in the eighth.

Pittman, for the visitors was credited with two hits, one of which went for an extra base, and the only other bingle was resurrected by Oiden.

Greenville's big inning was the sixth when four runners were shoved over the rubber by Sively's inability to get the ball over the plate, and two errors in a row by his teammates and Greenville's ability to hit the ball so it wouldn't stick to a fielder's glove.

Ayden will play here Friday and Snow Hill will go to Kinston Saturday. Greenville will go to Snow Hill and Kinston to Ayden.

AYDEN DEFEATS KINSTON

Kinston, Aug 3—Ayden mixed 13 hits with six walks and as many errors and defeated Kinston here today 9 to 3. Brogden, Lambeth and Wall, with two hits each led the attack.

Humphries hit a homer for Kinston in the third. Mann and Stockton pitched for the losers. Dudley caught. Holland and Stephenson formed the Ayden battery.

The local club has forfeited to Snow Hill the season's opening game played here. It was protested, and the league's directors recently voted it should be played over from the eighth inning, but heads of the Kinston club forfeited instead.

By ALAN GOULD

The Giants are rooting for the Yankees to come through again in the American League race, in the hope that if they (the Giants) sustain their drive to the top there will be a chance to renew one of baseball's keenest rivalries on a five-cent fare basis.

But the players do not talk about this openly. Any discussion of what they might do with the extra money to be derived from a world series is taboo. Ball players are among our most superstitious athletes. In the midst of a winning streak or when they are on top, they are fearful of any stray or occult influence, no matter how slight.

Should a left-handed pitcher be detected writing to the home folks in August, inquiring what they might like to have in the way of world series tickets in October, he probably would be knocked out of the box in the first inning of his next start and it would serve him right.

Throw-Back

But this is not to say the Giants are neither proud of their achievements to date or lacking in confidence they can stay on top. The 1933 Giants are a throw-back to some of John McGraw's palmyest aggregations, except that their leader is out in the thick of the battle, personally, instead of instilling fighting spirit from the bench.

Shortstop John C. (Blondy) Ryan knew he was taking a big risk when he made a play on Joe Medwick of the Cardinals at second base a month ago, but Blondy made it, got his man and came up with a spike smash that kept him out of action for two weeks.

It was on his way to rejoin the club in the west that he dispatched his classic telegram to Terry: "They cannot beat us. En route. J. C. Ryan."

While Ryan was out of the game, the Giants dropped seven tough games in a row—six of which they might have won with the young shortstop "in there"—but they snapped out of the slump as quickly as they struck it.

"Sure, they can knock us down but we get right back up and let go another punch," says Terry. "Just when I think it cannot possibly be done, why someone does it. I'm having the thrill of my baseball life leading this outfit."

The Hot Mr. Hubbell

Speaking of pitching of which the Giants have been getting plenty to offset batting weakness, Carl Hubbell has already given enough evidence to justify the contention he is the ablest flinger, right or left-handed, in either league today.

In registering seven shutouts, Hubbell already has eclipsed the best performance of this kind since Grover Cleveland Alexander was in his prime and set a major league mark of 16 shutouts during the 1916 season "Alex" handed out nine blanks in 1919 but no pitcher since then has done even that well. Babe Adams of the Pirates scored eight shutouts in 1921 and the high mark since then for either big league is six. Lefty Grove in his best year, 1931, produced only four shutouts.

It must be considered, too that one of Hubbell's shutouts was his 18-inning, 1 to 0 decision over the Cardinals.

More River Straightening

New Orleans (AP)—Shortening the Mississippi river distance between New Orleans and the Gulf of Mexico by diverting the river course westward through construction of a short-cut channel has been proposed. The cost of the project has been estimated at $3,000,000.

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 3—(AP)—Cotton futures opened fairly steady 9 higher to 1 lower with steady Liverpool cables offset by liquidation.

Offerings increased after the call and prices eased, December selling down from 10.80 to 10.50 with the general list showing net losses of 17 to 20 points by the end of the first half hour.

Trading was comparatively quiet after the early offerings had been absorbed and fluctuations later in the morning were rather narrow and irregular.

Orders on the whole seemed to be rather evenly divided. At midday December was selling around 10.56 with the general market showing losses of about 12 to 17 points.

The cotton market eased further later in the day under liquidation and moderate southern selling. Futures closed steady 14 to 15 lower; spots quiet. Middleline 10.30 (Courtesy Speight & Co.)

Announcing the awards, officials said charges by Senator Trammell, chairman of the Senate naval committee, of collusion between bidders had not been substantiated.

Meanwhile in view of the shipbuilding code as to wages and hours in private yards the navy today ordered a five day week of forty hours for civilian employes at all stations.

The new work week will replace the present 5-1-2 day week for which six days pay is given.

Pay will not be on the basis of five days of wages for the five day week. Some 44,000 employes will be affected.

The awards to the navy yards for construction were on light cruiser—two destroyers to the Puget Sound yards, and two destroyers to the Mare Island yards.

The department announced it would carry forward as previously indicated, plans to have new submarines built at Portsmouth, two destroyers at the Boston yards, one light cruiser and one gunboat at the New York yards and one gunboat at the Charleston yards.

Hold Tobacco Field Day.
Oxford, Aug. 3—(AP)—The North Carolina Department of Agriculture held its annual field day at the tobacco station here today when Congressman J. H. Kerr as principal speaker, said that recovery depends on the American people's evidence of respect and the credit they give to the government.

Approximately 1,000 persons came here to see the farm, learn various methods of combating plant diseases and be shown how to improve their crops.

"NRA" Scope Increased
Washington, Aug. 3—(AP)—The way was cleared today for big employers of labor under contract to join the country wide "NRA" program without altering existing wages and hour terms.

While Hugh Johnson head of the recovery administration continued efforts to bring peace to the coal strike in western Pa., Donald Richberg, his general counsel issued an interpretation of President Roosevelt's voluntary agreement under which contracts reached by collective bargaining and which specify a definite number of hour of employment per week may be maintained unimpaired.

Banish Fear of Blow-Outs with this new 3-times-safer tire

HERE'S real news! You can get the blow-out protection of this "3-times-safer tire" FREE. We refuse to charge one penny extra for this remarkable Life-Saver Golden Ply invention.

Today's high speeds generate terrific heat inside your tires. This causes rubber and fabric to separate. A blister starts... and grows... bigger and bigger... until BANG! A blow-out! And you're headed for trouble... or worse!

Don't think that slower driving can save you from blow-outs, either. Sustained speeds—on longer trips—as low as 35 or 40 miles per hour can generate ter-

The new Goodrich Silvertown, with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, prevents this... makes you 3 times safer from blow-outs at high speeds. Come in and let us show you this remarkable tire. Remember it costs not a penny more than any other standard tire.

PENNSYLVANIA STRIKES SPREAD; TROOPS ON GUARD

Numerous disorders in which scores were injured marked the spread of the strike in southwestern Pennsylvania's soft coal fields. National Guardsmen were moved into the area under orders of Governor Pinchot. Maj. Gen. Edward G. Shannon (at right in upper left picture), commander of the Pennsylvania national guard, is shown in the strike zone when he made a survey of the situation. With him is Maj. Kenneth Momeyer, commander of the troops in the field. Upper right is a machine gun nest set up near Brownsville.
