Specter Of Hunger Stalks Cuban Capitol As Result Of Strike

Stores Forced to Close For Lack of Supplies One Killed and Many Injured in Street Fights

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Specter of widespread hunger stalks Havana today as a result of a strike of many industries and a government edict warned that troops would be called out to curb the increasing violence if the police were not able to handle the situation.

Eating places were closed because the walkout of the railroad workers prevented them getting in their food supplies. Thousands of food handlers were idle and anxious housewives saw their supplies of food diminishing. Street fights had resulted in the death of one person and the injury of many.

The federal physicians organization decided to strike tomorrow and the national pharmaceutical association instructed all but a few drug stores to close. Everywhere the paralyzing strike was called "passive revolution" or a race between U. S. Ambassador Sumner Welles' attempt to mediate the political situation or open revolt.

In usually reliable circles it was said that President Machado would resign, but this was denied at the palace.

Guard Girls Camp Against Kidnappers

North Sutton, N. H., Aug. 7.—(AP)—A line of national guardsmen hemmed today in the girls' camp near Lake Kezar to prevent kidnappers from carrying out a threat to abduct Betty Downes, 15-year-old daughter of a Pennsylvania railroad executive. Sheriff's deputies, highway police and motor vehicle inspectors helped the 25 guardmen guard the camp. All automobiles on adjacent roads were searched yesterday. Federal authorities are seeking the authors of the threat.

Decide Rate In Favor Of State

Washington Aug. 7.—(AP)—Rate charged on less than carload shipments of malt syrup in bulk shipped in barrels from Newark to Raleigh, N. C. were found inapplicable and reparations were awarded in a decision announced today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The complaint had charged that rates on less than car load lots had been inapplicable and unreasonable.

SEEK TO SOLVE MURDER CASE

Mystery Surrounds Disappearance And Death of New York Railroad Executive

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Two disclosures heightened interest in the Henry F. Sanborn murder mystery today as police hunted in the realms of business and romance for light during the last few days. Sanborn, 44 year old railroad executive, drew $2,000 from the bank July 17, and that day vanished, never to reappear until his body was found Saturday, bullet torn and buried in a shallow scooped grave in a Queen's thicket. The name of his fiancée, hitherto kept secret, was made public by police. They said she is Nazmiyah Almakarr, Brooklyn interpreter, 27 years old and blond. They said they desired to question her. Mrs. Grant VanSaant, socially prominent sister of the dead man, said she was puzzled at the withdrawal of the $2,000. She said that although Sanborn was a man of independent means, he never carried much cash with him. Inspector John J. Gallagher made it clear today he suspects no one. He added that in addition to the girl, the police would like to question Bancroft Mitchell, son of William D. Mitchell, former attorney general of the United States.

CONSUMPTION OF COTTON ON THE INCREASE

Nearly Twenty Five Million Bales Used For 12 Month Period Ending July 31

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—World consumption of cotton for the season just ended was the largest since 1920, the New York Cotton Exchange reported today.

For the twelve months ending July 31 world spinners used approximately 24,725,000 bales compared with 23,907,000 bales for the previous season, an increase of 1,718,000. The increase in consumption for all grown cotton was made up largely by the increase in the use of the American staple which shows 12,506,000 bales as compared to 14,132,000 bales the previous season, while consumption of foreign grown cotton rose but slightly from 10,501,000 to 10,593,000 bales. Report of the carry over of all kinds on July 31 was approximately 15,530,000 bales on the basis of preliminary returns against 17,412,000 bales a year ago.

Who Said Summer Doldrums?--Nobody In Washington Now

Washington, Aug. 7.—(AP)—It's necessary for one to be in the capital himself to appreciate fully the terrific pace at which the various activities of the new administration are moving during these sultry days of a humid Washington summer. There has been nothing like it since world war days. Hotel keepers report they are doing a business unrivaled since then. Restaurant owners tell of hiring extra help. With thousands of taxis on the streets, operators are preparing to send out more. Thousands flock in by plane and train to see about the NRA, patronage or other things. Telegraph companies report increases in daily messages filed out of the capital. The old adage, so familiar to residents of Washington, that "with Congress out of town, things slow down" has been completely discarded this summer. In the agriculture adjustment administration, where are handled the contracts for

ARIZONA TO VOTE REPEAL TOMORROW

Anti-Repealists in State Concede That Popular Vote Will Be For Repeal

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 7.—(AP)—Arizona voters will decide tomorrow whether or not this state will become the twenty first in the union to sanction the repeal of the 18th Amendment. Having lost five days before the date of the election a court battle to restrain the casting of the ballots, the anti-repealists conceded that the popular vote would be overwhelming in favor of ratification of the repeal.

JOHNSON SAYS TO BUY UNDER BLUE EAGLE

Recovery Administrator Urges Workers To Spend Their Money With Co-operating Businesses

Washington, Aug. 7.—(AP)—A plea to "buy to support your job" was started today by the recovery administration in an attempt to utilize the increased purchasing power it feels is being created by shortened hours and wage increases through agreements between the president and industry. Along with that request from Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator went this statement: "Where should you spend? Can there be any question? You should spend under the blue eagle. If you spend there you spend for increased employment. If you spend elsewhere you hurt employment and help to destroy the business men who are paying more for their help and aiding those who refuse to do so."

The boycott move has been in contemplation for some time but for a while the recovery administration feared that production was increasing too fast for the purchasing power. More goods were being manufactured than could be bought but for the temporary agreement between the president and industry and business to raise pay and shorten working hours.

WIFE OF BLACKMER IS SEEKING DIVORCE

Hollywood, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Sidney Blackmer, stage and screen actor, said today his wife, Lenore Ulric, also of the stage and screen, was suing him for divorce in Mexico. "It was the old struggle between a home and a career," said Blackmer. "She still remains the finest person I ever met and there is no other man or woman in the case."

IN MOVE TO END COAL STRIKE

Federal, state and labor representatives meeting in Washington agreed to terms for settlement of the Pennsylvania bituminous coal strike. MERCHANTS IN AGREEMENT ON OPENING HOUR

Local Mercantile Establishments Adopt Nine o'Clock Morning Opening

Endeavoring as fast as possible to so arrange their affairs to get under the government code of operation, local mercantile establishments this morning adopted the nine o'clock opening hour for all week days with the usual six o'clock closing hour in effect from Monday through Friday. Definite decision as to the Saturday night closing hour had not been reached, but this matter will be decided in order for announcement before the end of the week. The usual Wednesday afternoon closing will continue as scheduled for the balance of the summer.

Since local business men began their efforts to work out their plans to comply with the government code there has been much confusion because of the various opening hours and today's adoption of the nine o'clock opening is a movement in which all the merchants seemed glad to co-operate.

JUDGE DUNN HONORED BY DISTRICT BAR

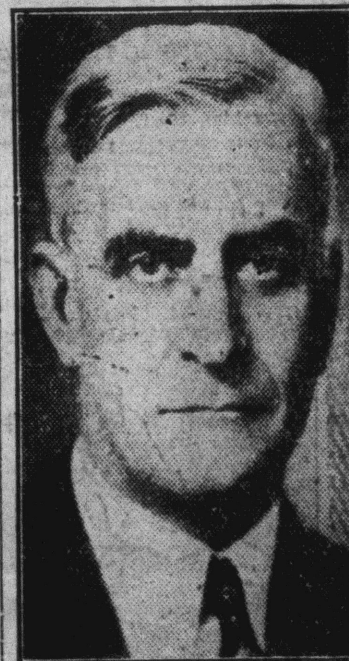

Chosen Member Of State Bar Council Under New Legal Set-up

Judge Albion Dunn, popular attorney of this city and former Superior Court judge, was elected as the Fifth Judicial District councilman of the North Carolina Bar Association, at an organization meeting of this district held Saturday afternoon in Beaufort. At the same time Luther Hamilton, of Morehead City was elected president of this district. The meeting Saturday was to organize this district of the North Carolina Bar Incorporated as provided by an act of the last legislature. Under this act examination of applicants for admission to the bar and hearing of charges against members of the bar will be before the members of the state council rather than before the Supreme Court as heretofore.

The purpose of the act is to raise the standard of the legal profession in this state. The supreme power of the association will rest in the hands of the council composed of (Continued On Page Four)

STRIKERS GO BACK TO WORK AT HIGH POINT

Two Thousand Hosiery Workers to Return to Work in Mills This Morning

High Point, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Wheels in one North Carolina's greatest industries began to turn again today after three weeks of idleness as approximately 2,000 hosiery workers returned to work in 3 mills here and one at Thomasville after striking for higher wages. Meanwhile 3,000 additional workers are expected to return by the remainder of the week. Until all these return the mills can start to work in only certain departments and those returning today were mainly in the knitting section. It was expected that all departments would be running as usual by the latter part of the week. Denied a 25 per cent wage increase demanded, the workers returned to work to receive the same pay for 40 hours as they had been paid for 55 hours.

FLIERS PASS OVER SYRIA

Drop Notes to Wives As They Passed Over Paris Yesterday; Now Heading For India

London, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Reuters News Agency published an unofficial report from Paris that Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, French fliers, who took off from New York Saturday broke the non-stop flight record today when they passed over Aleppo, Syria. Confirmation of the report would mean that the airmen had broken by 200 miles the non-stop record of 5,340 miles set February by Squadron Leader Oswald R. Gayford and Flight Lieutenant Gilbert E. Nicholls of the British Royal air force.

Paris, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Lieut. Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, the first to follow the Lindbergh trail, flew over his commemorative tablet at Le Bourget field, this afternoon, about half-way on their projected flight to India for a new distance record.

The French aces dipped over the airport at 2:20 pm. (Eastern Standard Time), nine minutes behind Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's flight of 33 hours 36 minutes from New York to Paris.

From their broad-winged airplane monoplane, the Joseph Le Brix they dropped messages to their wives, who waved frantically to the airmen, and then pointed their ship eastward toward Munich. Rossi and Codos had covered more than 3,500 miles since they made a perfect take-off from Floyd Bennett Field, New York, at 4:41 a. m. yesterday.

Their heavy plane battled rough weather during most of the flight over the North Atlantic great circle route, wireless messages said.

Bad Crossing
"Crossing bad from Halifax" read one message sent at 9:14 a. m., while the fliers were about 375 miles from Brittany.

As the plane neared Le Bourget the aviators sent word that more than one-third of their enormous gas supply of 1,770 gallons remaining, and that they hoped to go 3,100 miles further, to better the record of 1,940 miles for a non-stop flight.

TARBORO MAN IS MISSING

Prominent Physician Disappeared From Home Early Yesterday Morning

A report from Tarboro shortly before three o'clock this afternoon was to the effect that no traces had been found of Dr. Samuel N. Harrell, well known physician of that city who disappeared from his home yesterday morning between 3:30 and five o'clock. A short time ago Dr. Harrell underwent a very serious operation in a Baltimore hospital and since his return home had been in very poor health and a despondent condition. Friends and relatives feared that he had taken his life by drowning himself in Tar river adjacent to that city. According to reports his wife was up with him about 3:30 yesterday morning and then went back to sleep and when she waked again about five o'clock Dr. Harrell had disappeared from his bed. She immediately gave the alarm to other members of the household and soon the townspeople in large numbers had joined in the search. Bloodhounds brought to the scene later failed to pick up the trail any great distance from the house but it was believed by many that his trail led to the river. All day yesterday throughout the night and today large numbers searched the vicinity of his home while others in boats dragged the river for the body of the missing man.

Mr. Tobacco Grower Do You Need Help?

The Federal Department of Agriculture promises a plan for payment to tobacco growers in return for acreage reductions provided the flue-cured tobacco growers feel that they need such a plan and mass sentiment therefor. If such a plan is to be put into effect there must be quick action on your part and below we are offering you an opportunity to make your wishes in this matter known to us at once. If there is need for such aid and sentiment enough among the growers for same the government is ready to extend a helping hand. If you favor this plan please sign and return the blank below at once, as there is no time to lose.

Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

I understand the government wants tobacco farmers to receive money enough to buy as much as they could with the average of tobacco prices from 1919 to 1929 (parity prices).

In consideration of payment to me of money to be raised from a processing tax on tobacco manufacturing—so that my buying power as a tobacco grower may be increased—I am willing to agree to cut my tobacco acreage the next three years (same as cigar tobacco growers).

I have _____ acres in tobacco this year.

Secretary And Assistant Held In 'Perfect Accord' On 'Brain Truster's' Job

By BYRON PRICE

The one certain thing about Prof. Moley's sudden appointment to investigate the crime wave is that this selection will have the heartfelt approval of his superior officer at the state department, Secretary Hull. Should Moley's inquiry take him abroad, as it probably will, Hull will bid him bon voyage, and along farewell. For he will know that when the traveler returns, he (Hull) will be in South America on a special mission of his own, and the two may never meet as colleagues again. This is no contradiction of those official statements saying Moley and Hull are "in perfect accord"—provided you read these statements carefully. They are quite certainly in perfect accord that Mr. Roosevelt has acted wisely in giving Moley a new job prior to Hull's return from London.

Campaign Evolution

The story of Moley is one of the most interesting of these interesting days. A charter member of the "brain trust" of advisers during the Roosevelt campaign, he had his first really big moment when he went with the President-elect to the White House to discuss war debts with President Hoover.

The story told among Mr. Roosevelt's intimates is that he thought someone else should be present and Moley being handy, took him along. The story told among Mr. Hoover's intimates is that the professor's principal contribution to the discussion was this question: "Can't the delegates to these conferences economize by living two in a room at hotels instead of singly?" Be that as it may, Moley liked the experience and wanted more. Mr. Roosevelt rejected him that he become a White House secretary. He put him just across the street in the state department with the title of assistant secretary. Moley never really functioned as his title might indicate. Department mail did not pass over his desk. He served rather as a sort of adjunct to the White House secretariat with out being a part of it. Reports went around that Mr. Roosevelt decided nothing without asking Moley. No informed person believed that any more. The President relies on Moley greatly, but not that greatly.

MR. TOBACCO FARMER! IT'S UP TO YOU

In Atlanta Saturday, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace declared that the government is ready and willing to help the tobacco farmers in bettering prices if the farmers will signify that they need and want the government help. In several places in this section Saturday farmers of this tobacco growing belt in mass meetings signified their desire for government help by adopting resolutions to the effect that the tobacco price situation was a gamble until and when the government took steps to stabilize same. If the farmers of this section believe that they do not need the government help to assure them a fair price for their tobacco then there is nothing for them to do but sit still and wait for the markets to open and then accept whatever price the tobacco companies are willing to pay. If on the other hand, they feel that they need and want government aid, then now is the time to get organized and ask for it before the season gets under way here.

If the farmers want the government aid and protection, and in return for same would be willing to reduce acreage during the next three years we urge them to get busy at once. In order to get the trend of the sentiment in this county just as quickly as possible we are today carrying on the front page of this paper a tentative agreement. This agreement is for the purpose of getting quick and concerted action if it is deemed necessary and beyond that is not binding upon the signer. Should the sentiment be sufficient the government will take the situation and go into the matter of contracts with the growers.

It is entirely up to you, Mr. Grower. If you believe that the government should take a hand, sign the blank appearing on the front page of this paper and return it to this office at once.

The HIDDEN DOOR

By Frank L. Packard

Synopsis: Colin Hewit, calling himself Donald Howard, is about to land at Cap a l'Orage, on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. He has asked about Joe Lazarre, to whom he must deliver a mysterious letter and Germaine Tremblay, another passenger on the little steamboat, does not know him. But she tells Colin of a club not far away where Lazarre might live. Colin is in peril from the Mask, New York gangster, and the situation is further complicated because Lazarre is in the employ of the Mask.

Chapter 13 CAP A L'ORAGE

"The club is about eight or nine miles by water further on down the coast," Germaine went on, "at Riviere des Cascades, a salmon river a millionaire from New York, named Kenniston, bought is some years ago and built what he calls his fishing club there."

Something unpleasant flashed through Colin's mind.

"Kenniston?" he asked. "Waldrow Kenniston?"

"Yes," Germaine replied. "You know him, then?"

ed out raucously. Colin went down to his cabin to look after his gear.

Cap a l'Orage had not belied its name. For three days following the afternoon of Colin's arrival the weather had been unsettled and stormy, keeping him indoors except when, taking advantage of a few short-lived bursts of sunshine, Germaine Tremblay and he had gone for walks together. He had spent a great deal of time at Dr. Tremblays house otherwise the days would have been ones of miserable ennui. As it was,

He struck a match, cupped his hands against the wind and lighted a cigarette—his eyes on the girl in the stern of the motorboat beside him, who at the moment was bending over the engine with an oil can in her hand. He wished he could write her in a book and really picture her as she was; but his pen always stumbled over a girl—and so did his tongue.

He always addressed her sedately as Miss Tremblay, but he always thought of her as Germaine. He wondered if she, who always called him Mr. Howard, would like the name!

Germaine was absorbed in the engine.

"No," he answered. "I've heard the name, that's all. But you know him, of course?"

She shook her head. "I've never even seen him," she said. "They don't depend on the canned goods on Madame Frenier's shelves, and they never come to Cap a l'Orage. They have several big power boats that ferry them back and forth between the club and the Gaspe coast where they can get fresh supplies direct by rail—even from New York."

"I think Father was called down there once professionally. Anyway I'll ask him if he knows whether there is anyone by the name of Lazarre there. And anyway whether he does or not, though there is no road overland, there would be nothing to prevent you from going down there by motorboat to inquire for yourself."

"In that jolly little one of yours then, perhaps—with you?" "Oh!" she mocked demurely; and then brightly: "Why, of course! Why not—some afternoon? Sit, I must fly now! Look! We're almost in at the wharf. Those finishing touches, you know."

He watched her as she sped along the deck and disappeared through the saloon entrance. Then his brow knotted. So Waldrow Kenniston owned a salmon river and had built a place down here!

It was quite true, as he had just told Germaine Tremblay, that he did not know Kenniston personally, but he knew, or least had heard, quite a lot about the other—not to Kenniston's credit. In the clubs mostly.

He searched back in his mind now, mustering all he knew about Kenniston. Kenniston was still a young man. He was a plunger. Six or seven years ago he had inherited a fortune from his father. In short order he was on the verge of ruin. Then three or four years ago he had blossomed out into full flower again, with apparently more money at his command than ever.

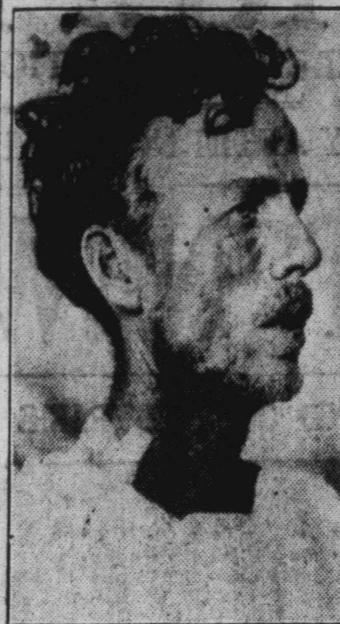

Colin laughed shortly to himself. Suppose it should turn out that Lazarre was a frequenter of Kenniston's "club"?

The Bonaventure's whistle boomday is the employer who spread eagled his blue eagle all over his shop and then not only does not make an honest effort to fulfill his promises but a deliberate effort to evade them.

Today in America this individual is the universal choice for the meanest man who placards his patriotism and then cheats his employees and his government out of the public promises he has made them.—(News and Observer).

Fugitive Rescued

four streets, except, of course, for a trail here and there that led into the woods for short distance.

A little village that was all a world unto itself—except on the none too frequent steamer days. It was that way all along the coast. And the people! There was a charm about their frugal and simple lives their unaffected friendliness, that was irresistible. There was Madame Frenier, for instance. True, the accommodations left something to be desired, but as for Madame Frenier herself, nothing was too much trouble for her.

His thoughts veered suddenly again, and a whimsical smile twisted his lips.

PRaises COURAGE OF PRESIDENT

It is impossible to judge historical events as they occur. However, our people should have it called to their attention that never before in time of peace have so many vastly important events occurred our country as in the past few weeks. President Roosevelt has attacked a group of problems and has offered solutions that may well affect the society of this whole nation both now and in the future. We should follow events as closely as possible. Whether we agree with all his acts or not, we must all admit that President Roosevelt has shown tremendous courage in defying politicians, tradition and social and economic prejudices in his efforts to solve the problems before him. Leaving politics to the politicians, it seems that loyal Americans can do no less than admire the courage of the president, follow his acts through the press and give him undivided support.

Christian Science Services.

"Spirit" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 6.
The golden text was from Psalms 143:10: "Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God; thy spirit is good."
Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following passage from the Bible: "For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God."—1 Cor. 2:11.
The lesson-sermon also included the following from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man is tributary to God, Spirit, and to nothing else. God's being is infinity, freedom, harmony, and boundless bliss. Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty." Like the arch-priests of yore, man is free to enter into the holiest—the realm of God.

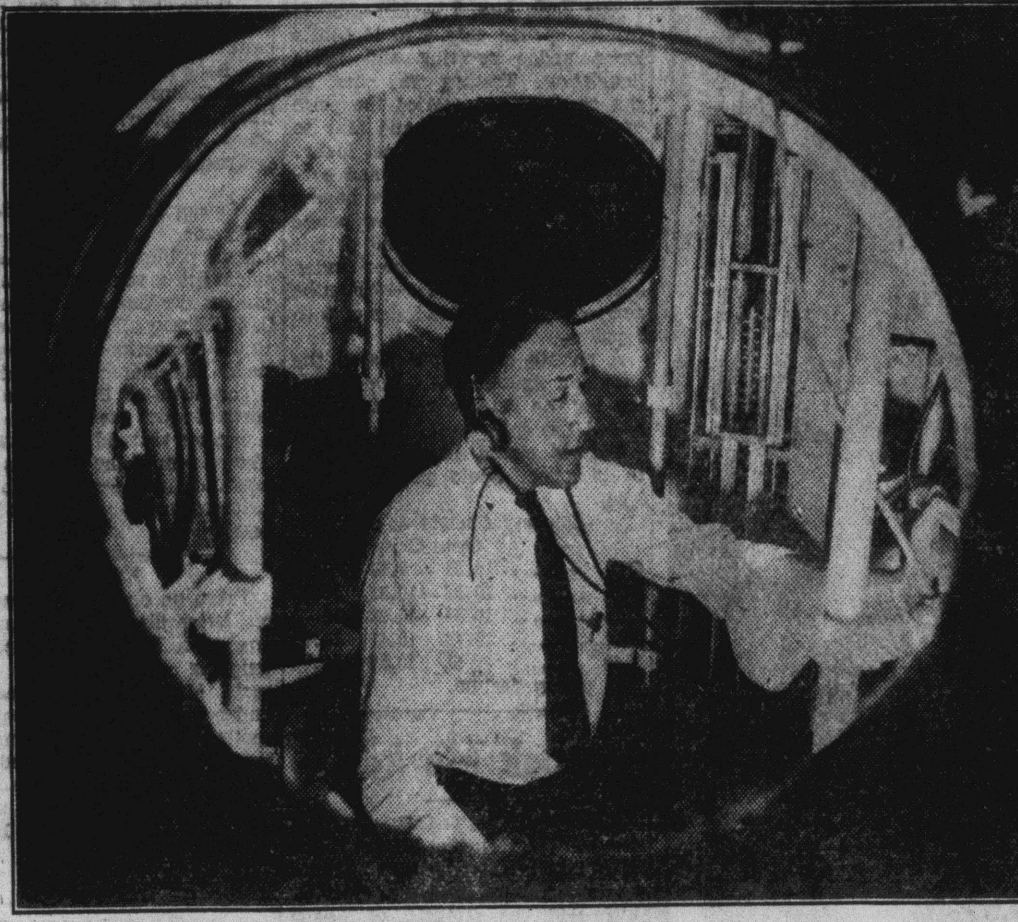

CHILDREN ARE URGED TO VISIT PLAYGROUND

Review of Gift Books To Library.

The Greenville Junior Woman's Club has, for the past three years, presented an annual gift of valuable books to the Sheppard Memorial Library.
Recently, this club added several interesting editions to their memorial shelf. Placement of the books was delayed somewhat this summer, due to the difficulty experienced in procuring one edition now out of print, and one of foreign publication.

Among this year's selections are "The Arrangement of Flowers," by Mrs. Walter R. Hines.
Mrs. Hines serves on the garden club of America committee of the International Flower Show in New York, and has won many prizes in that important annual event. She is a frequent lecturer and an outstanding authority on the art of arranging flowers. Her excellent book is profusely illustrated with prize-winning arrangements and is replete with advice on the use and artistic arrangement of cut flowers in the house.

"Arranging Flowers Throughout the Year," by Katherine T. Carey and Nellie D. Merrill.
Mrs. Carey and Mrs. Merrill are both well known garden enthusiasts. Their volume contains sixty unusually fine illustrations of flower arrangements with an analysis of the designs. Types for table decorations, still life, color, proportion and design are discussed. One chapter is given to the discussion of the Japanese school of flower arrangement.

"Tidewater Maryland," by Paul Wilstock.
Mr. Wilstock, who is an artist and a poet, as well as an accomplished historian, has successfully recreated the life and atmosphere of halcyon Maryland, where a mode of living has ever been easy, gay and peaceful. Charming manor houses, old roads often traveled by Washington and Lafayette, historic spots, the Naval Academy located at the ancient and beautiful capitol at Annapolis, are herein portrayed, with many delightful illustrations and descriptions. This book is a happy addition to those already on the shelf on the subject of the history of Southern States.

"The Enlargement of Personality," by Dr. D. H. Denison.
Here is a new psychology, a new point of view. It is easy to understand and to accept, and it reveals the motive for our conduct to have an origin recent psychology has not emphasized. The author declares we can change ourselves by the way we think of ourselves. The process and proof are in this book.

"What's Life All About?" by Bertha Coude.
In simple, direct language, avoiding theology, Miss Coude has in this book gives a real meaning and incentive to life. Here are satisfying answers based on the actual experience of one who has worked continuously with people. Miss Coude, a graduate of Smith College, has had theological training in Glasgow, Scotland. She has spent much time in visiting the leading universities and colleges of America. Eminent speaker and has written a number of books on philosophical subjects. She has traveled extensively throughout the United States addressing large gatherings of young and old. The title of this book is the question most frequently asked by modern young men and women.

"Made in England," by Susan Smith. An illustrated story about the great craftsmen of England's golden age of decorative artistry. Wedgwood, Sir Christopher Wren, the brothers Adam, Chippendale, Sheraton, and other famous names are brought to life through Susan Smith's narrative history of their personal lives and their eighteenth century surroundings. The artist is well known as an expert in interior decorating as well as for her writings on allied subjects. The book is written in a most readable manner. It is enhanced by a profusion of Harrie Wood's delightful drawings and by fifteen pages of half-tone reproductions of photographs.

"The Evolving House," by Albert Farwell Bemis and John Burchard II.

A history of the house of mankind. This is the first complete narrative of the evolution of the house and of the social and economic forces which have influenced its development. There are hundreds of interesting and illuminating details in this book which embrace the history of the home from the days of tree-life to the present day.

"Stamps of Many Lands," by Sigmund Rothschild.
"Stamp collecting is a means to a liberal education," says the author. Rothschild, stamp collector for 32 years, whose popular stamp lectures have for four years been broadcast weekly over Station DOR.

In this book he shows how this hobby can be the means of learning "fascinating things about the countries of the world. He has lectured on postage stamps throughout the United States in public schools, colleges, camps and social clubs. He holds the position of visiting lecturer at the Horace Mann School for Boys in New York. This book is filled with information about 50 countries and their stamps. The great department store of Gimbel Brothers in New York City awards the Gimbel Grand Trophy annually to collectors of the metropolitan district. Postmaster General Farley opened this year's competition, and stamps worth many thousands of dollars were displayed.

"The Villages of England," by A. K. Wickham. This book is for those who have taken, or have dreamed of taking, a walking trip through rural England. It is beautifully illustrated by over eighty photographic plates of rare charm. Mr. Wickham takes one among the timber and fire-hanging of Surley and Hampshire, the Devon and Thatch, the plaster hamlets of Suffolk, and the greystone of the Cobswold, the half-timber of the Welsh border, with a final glance at the austere restrained of the north, set appropriately in the folds of great hills.

"Minute Sketches of Great Composers," by Eva V. B. Hausel and Helen L. Kaufman.
"Minute Sketches of the Opera," by Paul Grabbe and Paul Wordoff.
These volumes are useful and convenient books of quick reference. Brief, colorful and authentic biographical sketches are supplemented by 148 full page drawings from the pens of Samuel Visensson and Richard Jones, which make these books veritable portrait galleries of the very flowers of the world's music makers.

"First Ladies" stories of our Presidents' wives, by Kathleen Prindiville. Here are short, graphic biographies of the famous hostesses of the White House from Martha Washington to Lou Henry Hoover. We follow them through childhood, through their education and their years of public characters, and watch their different methods in shouldering the great responsibilities of the President's wife.

The author is a young newspaper woman of Chicago who has done years of research in history and biography before completing these sketches. The artist who has delved long in old records before completing the accurate and charming silhouettes which decorate the book.

NEGRO WOMAN KILLED AS CAR IS SIDESWIPED

Chapel Hill, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Alle Mc Kay, a Negro woman of Carboro was killed near here this afternoon when an automobile driven by her brother-in-law, Albert Reaves, was sideswiped by a car driven by Earn Gladstone of Saxapahaw.
The woman who was thrown clear of the wrecked car was not thought to be seriously injured until she collapsed, immediately after announcing that she was not hurt much.
Gladstone was held in custody of white men living near the scene of the accident pending the arrival of an officer.

Carolina Student Has A Unique Self-Help Plan

Chapel Hill, Aug. 7.—Into the files of self-help history at the University goes a unique plan of student initiative. One freshman having basked a year within the precincts of knowledge, and desiring to drink further of the waters of learning, this Summer possessed himself a lawnmower and entered into contract with homeowners to keep their lawns for the entire season.

This young Excelsior has mimeographed form letters mailed to respectable lawn owners. In the letter he stated his guarantee to do a good job, "both while the owner is in Chapel Hill and when he is away" and to give dependable service, saying "I have had considerable experience in this line, and, therefore, I feel qualified to keep your lawns in good condition."

He preferred to contract to keep the lawn in shape throughout the summer, the price to be based on its size, but has not hesitated to accept lawn-mowing or any other sort of work, on the per-hour basis of pay.

As signatories to his integrity the letter bore references to four dignitaries of the University.
This innovation in self-help work may lead to another yet untried: that of running down professional children who fee before the wrath of their fathers—for an eminent sociologist might be willing to pay a quarter rather than chase down a fleeing brat in front of the town's post-office.

YOUNG MAN HELD FOR PHYSICIANS DEATH

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Dr. Walter P. Macgibbon, 61-year old physician, who was beaten severely in his 63rd street apartment early Friday, died of his injuries today coincident with the arraignment of an 18-year old former patient, who police said, acknowledged striking Dr. Macgibbon.
The ear, nose and throat specialist was found late Friday with a fractured skull and a broken jaw.
The young man, Raymond Sullivan, was held in $5,000 bail before a magistrate on a charge of felonious assault for a hearing Wednesday. Police quoted Sullivan as saying he had been drinking and struck the physician with a bottle after going to his apartment in the hope the doctor might know where he could get a job.

Rundown in Health

Means Rundown in Blood!

Blood is life. Blood is everything. When blood gets thin or poor you feel it in a dozen different ways. Appetite fails, strength ebbs and you become weak and depressed.
To build up your blood, take Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. It contains iron which makes for rich, red blood. It also contains tasteless quinine which tends to purify the blood. Thus you get two effects of great value in any rundown condition. Taken regularly for a few days, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic will soon have you back on your feet. It will improve your appetite, increase your strength and vitality and put color in your cheeks. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been a source of strength and energy for young and old. It is pleasant to take and contains nothing harmful. Get a bottle today and enjoy real health. Sold by all stores.

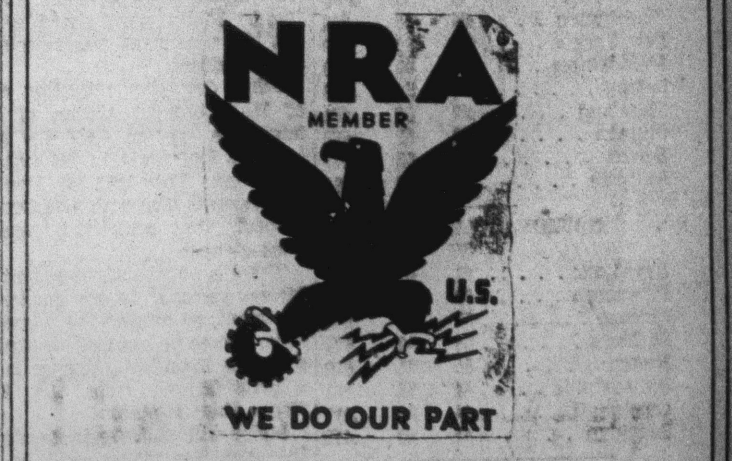

IF Your car wiggles, wabbles, weaves or wanders—

You are taking a chance in driving it in that condition— Better let us align those wheels now while we can—

And the cost won't be so much.

The Home Grocery Stores

—have signed the NRA and have put it into practice. To do this we have had to rearrange the hours of the employees and add extra help, and until we have the new plan working smoothly, we want to ask our customers to have patience with us if there is a mistake made either in the store or on delivery.

The Home Grocery Stores operate five retail stores and a warehouse in Greenville and have employed regularly seventeen men with nine extra on Saturdays. Salaries have not been reduced during the depression.

Under the NRA plan salaries have been increased and additional employees have been added to the force with a possibility of more being added by September 1st.

These stores are home owned, have a large number of employees, all living in Greenville, carry quality merchandise at competitive prices, telephones, and furnish free delivery service. We are trying to do our part at all times. Your patronage will be appreciated.

The Home Grocery Stores

SURE THERE ARE OTHER WAYS, BUT OUR WAY PAYS

When your car goes wrong there is only one way to get it right, that is to get new parts or make the old ones good as new, and install them with the clearance and the precision workmanship that the manufacturer intended.

We invite you to visit our shop and watch our trained mechanics work and inspect the precision tools we have to keep your car performing properly.

We sell and use only Genuine Chevrolet Parts.

LOCALS LOSE TO SNOW HILL

By K. O. MOYE
Official Scorekeeper

The Greenville baseball team tasted its first defeat in two weeks on Saturday afternoon in Snow Hill when the locals were defeated by the score of 4-0.

Sively, left hander of the Snow Hill club pitched a beautiful game and allowed Greenville only three scattered hits. Snow Hill was able to get seven hits off Sigmon and Forbes.

Bunting let the attack against the locals for Snow Hill getting two safe ties out of three trips to the plate. Greenville put on two beautiful double plays during the game. The first play was from Bostic to Smith to Brown and the second was from Miller to Bostic to Brown.

one councilor from each of the twenty judicial districts. The election of Judge Dunn to this high position is quite an honor both to him and the local bar.

Members of the local bar attending the meeting at Beaufort Saturday included Judge Dink James, Judge Albion Dunn, Jack Edwards, Julius Brown, S. J. Everett, L. G. Cooper, Will Whedbee, Charles Whedbee, Thurman Kitchen, D. M. Clark, Ham Hannah, P. R. Hines, J. B. James, F. M. Wooten, James L. Evans, M. K. Blount and W. A. Darden.

SECRETARY AND ASSISTANT HELD IN PERFECT ACCORD

any real hitch until Moley made his drastic dash to the London conference, where Hull was presiding over the tangled affairs of the American delegation.

Hull's friends and associates showed no enthusiasm for the manner of Moley's coming, or for the tenor of message he sent on ahead. No one knows yet what will be done about Moley's expense bill of several hundred dollars for an airplane to drop him out of the sky on the British capital.

The climax arrived when Moley negotiated his stabilization agreement, and afterwards telephoned Hull asking his approval. Hull refused. Moley went ahead anyway but his agreement was rejected by the President.

Other delegates, returning ahead of Hull, brought tidings of what might be expected once the secretary set foot again in the state department. They told Mr. Roosevelt who regards Hull with affection and respect, that something must be done at once.

There is not the slightest sign that Moleys removal to the justice department, to oversee the crime crusade, means he has lost his standing with the President. Justice is only a little farther from the White House than is state.

Moley will continue to go often to the executive offices, will be consulted about many things. But he knows now that the state department belongs to Mr. Hull.

INDIAN WINS ESTATE OF $1,050,000

Expect Many Tar Heels For White Top Festival

Chapel Hill, Aug 7.—A number of North Carolinians are planning to attend the annual White Top Folk Festival on White Top Mountain near Marion, Va., on Aug 10, 11, 12 according to Mrs. John P. Buchanan, chairman of the American music and folk research of the National Federation of Music Clubs and music director of the festival.

Among those from Chapel Hill who expect to attend the three-day event are Prof. Harold S. Dyer and Lamar Stringfield of the Institute of Folk Music; Paul Green, the dramatist, and Phillips Russell, the biographer.

The announcement says President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, will attend the festival on Saturday, August 12. Mrs. Robert Doughton, wife of Congressman Doughton of the ninth North Carolina district; Mrs. Harry Stuart of Elk Garden, and Mrs. Nat Copenhaver of Bristol will act as aids for Mrs. Roosevelt during her stay on the mountain. A luncheon will be given in honor of the President and the First Lady.

An opening feature of the Festival, which will include ballad singing and fiddle contests, clog dancing and folk tales, will be a recital by John Powell, Virginia's eminent composer-pianist, in the Lincoln Theatre in Marion Thursday evening, August 10, at 8 o'clock.

WHO SAID SUMMER DOLDRUMS—NOBODY IN WASHINGTON

So much hangs on administrative skill. Of that everyone is conscious.

President Wilson is said to have once remarked, while discussing the men that he had named to high government posts in his administration, that "while some grew, others merely swelled."

President Roosevelt has watched first from the Amberjack II, then the White House and now from Hyde Park, how his subordinates are discharging their duties.

Has he been anxious, watching those in whom he has placed such responsibility to see whether they grow or merely swell?

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened easy 8 to 14 points lower under covering and trade liquidation. Trading was quiet at the opening and carried the price of December to 10.27 and May to 10.61 or about 10 to 16 net lower. Offerings were absorbed and covering and commission on house buying stiffened the market a few points after the call. At the end of the first half hour December ruled around 10.31 with the active months generally showing net losses of 5 to 7 points.

A private crop report placed the condition figure at 67.6 and allowing for the acreage reduction estimated the crop of 10,930,000 bales. Futures closed barely steady 14 to 17 lower. Spots quiet middling 9.90.

Stock Market

New York, Aug. 7.—(AP)—Dullness ruled in the securities market today when both bulls and bears apparently observed the money trend and estimated the strength of each other's ammunition. Trading activity in stocks was the lowest since the 1933 upswing got under way. The ticker tape stood still for minutes at the time and most of the board rooms were almost deserted except for a few sleepy indifferent customers.

Sales were 770,160.

Late News Flashes

Havana, Aug. 7.—(AP)—When Cuban political leaders this afternoon left a conference with U. S. ambassador Summer Welles at the U. S. Embassy all parties were agreed to the resignation of President Machado. Immediately after the meeting a committee of five of the Liberal party of which President Machado is a member visited him at the palace. The purpose of the visit was not announced. This committee had participated in the meeting at the embassy.
