SWIMMING POOL A CERTAINTY

Adequate swimming pool facilities for Greenville before another summer were practically assured yesterday when more than a hundred citizens gathered at the city hall to urge the Board of Aldermen to take steps to procure funds to carry out this project. The board had previously appointed a committee to consider this project and yesterday's meeting was to get the sentiment of the citizens. Greenville has for a long time needed a proper and suitable place for its children to swim and the carrying to completion of this project will fill a long felt need here. We congratulate the city administration on taking this matter up and we hope that the efforts along this line be continued until the swimming pool is a reality.

RESIGNATION OF WILSON ALDERMAN IS DEMANDED

Wilson, Aug. 15.—Alderman T. E. Wilson in a statement published in the afternoon paper demands the resignation of Alderman Charles H. Killebrew. Ground for the demand according to Alderman Wilson is that Mr. Killebrew is being paid $15 per month for assisting the chief of police in making up his reports. Mr. Brown also charges that the chief's salary was increased $15 a month in order that he might pay Mr. Killebrew. Mr. Brown says in his statement:

"I do not feel that a man in public office who will be a party to a thing of this kind has any business remaining in office and serving the public and for the reasons given I am demanding the resignation of Alderman Killebrew."

Mr. Brown contends further that it is unlawful for an alderman to receive anything more than his regular salary.

HELD FOR COURT IN ATTEMPTED ASSAULT

New Bern, Aug. 15.—After having been held here in jail for several days without privilege of bail, on a charge of an attempted rape on Mrs. Virginia Barrett of the Dover section, John Taylor, 29, negro, of the Dover section, was ordered held for Superior court under $1,000 bond, following a preliminary hearing before two magistrates, R. H. Ketchum of New Bern, and J. H. Humphrey of Dover.

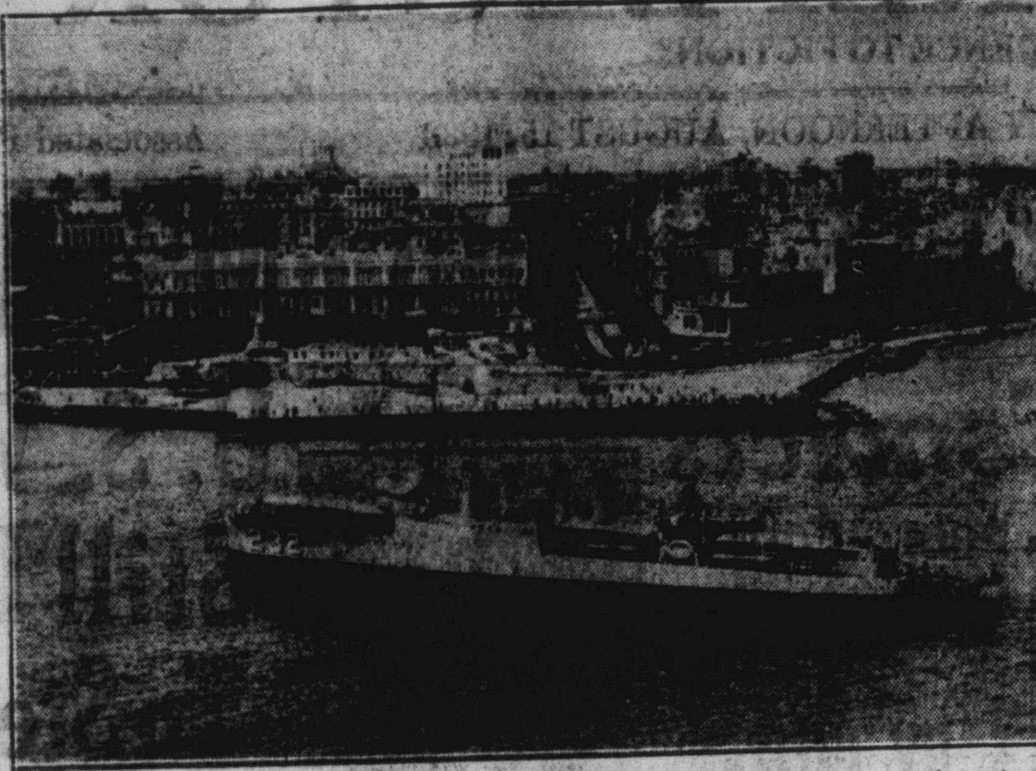

Taylor waived examination, but both Mr. and Mrs. Barrett identified him as the negro assailant who attacked the woman late at night while she and her husband were sitting at a tobacco barn near Dover, on a default of bond, he went back to jail.

SCOTLAND NECK MOVES FOR OBTAINING OF BANK

Scotland Neck, Aug. 15.—With the town sorely in need of banking facilities, there have been two meetings held within the past few days with a view to securing a banking institution. On Tuesday night a number of business men met to discuss the possibilities of a new bank being established and especially to urge at least the establishment of a clearing house where checks may be cashed during the next few months before a bank can come in.

The entire meeting of the Kiwanis club on Thursday evening was held along the same lines. T. D. Temple president of the club appointed a committee composed of C. J. Shields, B. Britt and Start Smith to cooperate with a committee of other business men who are working towards the same end.

A VIEW OF HAVANA--SCENE OF NEW TURBULENCE

The HIDDEN DOOR By Frank L. Packard

lend him her boat. But what were those "thousands" that Bouchard talked about and what was— His mind worked on ignoring time and distance, until suddenly he was standing in front of the Tremblay home. There was a lamp burning in the living room. It was early yet, of course, and it was quite possible that Germaine was still expecting him. He smiled wryly at the thought of the appearance he presented, as he mounted the steps to the veranda and plied the old-fashioned knocker on the front door.

Chapter: 20 IN THE MUD

"You may not be too many," he said deeply. "It is only in the woods that they are children. They will fight like the devil and they are well armed. And besides, they are looking for you. Yes! And before they ever saw me. Don't forget that!"

Colin instinctively leaned forward—as though in concert with Larocque and Bolduc, Larocque and Bolduc had thrust their bodies forward over the table, staring at Bouchard.

"What do you mean?" they demanded in chorus. "Bouchard laid a significant finger along his nose.

"I will tell you," he said; but another little drink, eh?" "No!" decreed Larocque with a forceful oath. "You have had enough!"

"Zut!" complained Bouchard. "What is the use of bringing a bottle? Is it to look at? But I will tell you just the same. Listen! Someone in St. Pierre has taken too much. That is sure. One of the big power boats takes the stuff from the club here over to the Gaspe coast every two or three weeks, though sometimes it goes every week, and one of the gang is left there with it.

"Where he goes from there and what he does with it, I don't know; but it takes always mambly a week before he comes back. You see? Well, a few days ago, the boat brought back one of them, a man named Joe Lazzare, and he said that one of their agents had told him that a fellow called Dollaire, who was a big bootlegger and a smart crook, was certain it would pay to make a little visit to the club.

"When Lazzare told the story at the club they laughed at him. But since they saw me, I do not think they have laughed at all. They know it is not the police, or they would not be there now; but as it is, I tell you again, it is only in the woods that they are children, and they will fight like hell!"

"Good!" grunted Larocque. "Well, if we are not too many—we are enough! All right, we will go now and wait for Dollaire, and you will come along, too Bouchard. But first Bolduc, you and I will see what is in the bottle and perhaps we may even let Bouchard have—"

Colin waited for no more. He turned, retreated noiselessly from the shack, regained the wagon track, and, once satisfied that he was far enough away so that his footsteps could not be heard, broke into a run. Halfway back to the village he missed the track again in the pitch blackness as he had done on the way out, but instead of merely pitching in over a boot top, he pitched headlong into the marshy ground, covering himself thoroughly with mud and water. Dripping, he picked himself up. He was in a state—and humanly enough he swore again.

He went on once more—but more circumspectly this time. Lazzare must be warned. There was only one way, of course, to get to the club now, and that was by boat. Secretly, God knew what the aftermath of tonight was going to be! A schooner full of thugs!

A dead Lazzare was disaster. A live Lazzare, backed by Reddy's letter, should be grateful—more amenable to an alliance. Meanwhile he already had an ally, Germaine! He was going now to ask Germaine to out o' fit. Quite apart from what might happen down there tonight, if you were ever suspected, they wouldn't have any more mercy on you than they had on—"he checked himself—"would have on anybody else. This is my job, and tonight particularly, as I told you, it is a one-man job.

"I am not going to drag anybody else into this—and least of all you. Bouchard would have been along in the capacity of a mercenary, as it were, and his blood would have been on his own head. As it is now all I've got to do is sit and smoke and steer a boat, and—well, you understand—"

"It would seem then, that I am not to go," she observed.

"It would" he returned grimly. To Be Continued.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Aug. 15.—(AP)—Anna Sten, too, had spoken.

The Russian actress who has been in Hollywood in virtual seclusion the past 15 months did not break her silence with any such cryptic utterance as "One never knows what time will bring, does one?"

But while the Swedish lady who once thus expressed herself was emerging from seclusion to go before the cameras again at M-G-M, Anna Sten was entertaining the press at a Russian luncheon at United Artists.

Ann talked. She had talked before, of course—in Russian, in German, in a few heavily accented words of English. But Samuel Goldwyn had kept his discovery away from Hollywood and the press. This luncheon, therefore, was an occasion, marking the unveiling of a personality. It marked, incidentally the first day of shooting on Anna's first Hollywood film, an adaptation of Emile Zola's famous "Nana."

Anna appeared as Nana, in the quaint mode of Paris of the 70's—a red and black outfit, bouffant with bustles and sleeves, with a small hat covered with geraniums, cherries and a couple of tiny birds. Nana, as readers of the novel know was quite a girl. The effect, especially with Anna's wide dark eyes and golden curls, was eye-holding.

But Anna talked—in well rounded English, with little or no word-seeking pauses, and with poise that did not conceal a sort of naive enthusiasm.

Few potential stars have had the careful grooming for a screen debut that has been given Anna Sten. Her speech, result of four hours' daily practice and instruction during 15 months is but one indication of that preparation.

For Anna has had about 51 screen tests, for acting, for lighting, for speech, for hair, eyes, make-ups, costumes, for her singing voice.

One of the things she chatted about was her training for the Hollywood screen—"and now I can hardly wait to begin," she exclaimed. She conversed, too, about music, dancing—the can-can which she will do in "Nana" and about pictures.

There was nothing enigmatic in her remarks or her answers to questions, which were direct and simple.

All of which is significant, for no other reason than that Anna Sten thus emerges to view as a living star rather than a pallid legend.

ESSO DEALERS MEET HERE

Enjoy Banquet and Sound Picture at the Woman's Club Last Night

Last night at the Woman's Club here, sixty Standard Oil station dealers enjoyed a banquet and a trip through one of the company's plants via sound pictures and talks by representatives from the Charlotte branch office.

Recent important improvements in the quality of the motorist's gasoline and motor oil which have resulted from painstaking research and development, were explained to the audience, consisting of dealers and service men from Greenville and surrounding territory. The program was in charge of C. A. Hall, general salesman, of Greenville.

The feature of the meeting was a four-reel sound picture of unusual interest, showing what goes on in the largest fuel and lubrication laboratories in the world. Many of the laboratory and road tests used in checking the performance qualities of motor fuels and lubricants were illustrated and explained non-technically.

Speaking to the assembled dealers, Mr. Hall stated that the purpose of the meeting was to increase their knowledge of their products as an aid to more intelligent merchandising. The high quality of Esso, the company's new motor fuel was covered from an educational standpoint and data was supplied regarding the fuel's antiknock quality, freedom from gas-lock, special solvent property which keeps the inside of the motor clean, and increased mileage.

Mr. Hall stated that a series of special meetings for all station dealers has been planned and that the company is making an intensive effort to give its dealers all helpful product information and improved methods of rendering service to the customer.

After the meeting Mr. Hall expressed the wish that every motorist could see the company's film, which is called "Know Your Products."

"Our dealers were deeply grateful to us for showing them this picture," Mr. Hall said. "I am not surprised, for we have never brought them a more interesting educational film."

The picture is an innovation in the art of instruction of service station dealers handling the company's products, and it was intimated that the picture might be made available to clubs and other groups later.

P. A. Mixon of Greenville, supervisor of service stations for this district, supplemented the picture with interesting facts. Other officials present and making talks to the assembly were, George A. Newman of Charlotte, operator of the sound equipment; G. E. Maultsby of Wilmington, of the tire sales division; W. B. McDonald of Wilson, general salesman, and W. R. Tighe of Raleigh, lubrication engineer.

By PATSY KELLY (Screen Actress) (Screen Address) For roughened and work-reddened hands I recommend lemon juice mixed with corn meal and rubbed well into the skin. Dust off the corn meal and leave the residue over night. Corn meal and vinegar are equally effective and leave the skin soft and smooth. This is good also for rough or wrinkled elbows.

CAMDEN RUM MAKER SLAIN

Two Unidentified Men Slay Shiloh Farmer And Escape

Camden, N. C., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Earl Barnard, Shiloh section farmer, was shot to death today by one of two unidentified men in a dark graveyard near his home as he was investigating the possibility that persons were stealing liquor he is believed to have buried there.

Barnard fell under shotgun fire with a charge inside the body and face, while Hubert Whitehurst, 18, who lived with him and who was also investigating, looked on.

Whitehurst said the two men ran up a road about a hundred yards after the shooting and escaped in an automobile.

A few hours later brothers of the slain man asked Sheriff J. F. Forbes to take into custody Winifred and Wilton Forbes.

McPherson was taken to the Camden county jail and Forbes was taken to the Pasquotank jail. Both were held for questioning.

Whitehurst told Sheriff Forbes that Barnard woke him early today and said, "Somebody is stealing our whiskey."

Whitehurst said Barnard obtained a gun and a flashlight and the two started through a small field adjacent to the cemetery where the liquor was hidden.

The officer quoted Whitehurst as saying that somebody had already stolen one load of the liquor and was coming back for more when he and Barnard arrived.

HOME-OWNERS' BANK MAKES ITS FIRST LOAN

The loan was on a Charlotte residence. A short time later a loan was made upon a home in Albemarle. Mr. O'Neal said that within a short time the corporation expected to be completing loans in rapid order.

Insurance companies, he said have shown a disposition of late to accept the bonds based upon the residential property in lieu of mortgages.

GREENVILLE CLUB PLAYS AYDEN TODAY

After marking time yesterday, clubs of the Coastal Plain League resumed diamond activity today.

The schedule provided for Greenville to play in Ayden today and Kingston at Snow Hill tomorrow. Tomorrow Greenville will go to Kingston and Ayden to Snow Hill.

With Greenville holding a three game lead for honors of the season, Ayden in second place was expected to offer an unusual brand of competition as they cross bats with the local club today.

By defeating Kingston last Saturday, Ayden jumped into undisputed possession of the second position, and Greenville further tightened her grip on the top by trimming Snow Hill to the tube of 4-0.

With the final games scheduled for August 23, indications were that competition would be decidedly keener than any other time of the season. While Greenville has held the top of the standing most of the time she evacuated the position briefly two or three times in honor of Ayden and Snow Hill. Ayden has proven the most persistent contender for the top and the fight between these two clubs for the flag is expected to be spectacular, to say the least.

While good crowds have been in attendance most of the season, the final games were expected to attract larger attendance than at any time since the season opened. In fact, fans are expected to go from one town to another in larger numbers than any other time to help cheer their teams on to victory.

With a three game lead, Greenville apparently has a mighty fine chance of capturing the flag, but with the competition provided by Ayden the unexpected strength displayed by the remainder of the clubs from time to time, it is impossible to say what the final verdict will be. The old saying that a ball game is never won until the last ball has been thrown also applies to the pennant race because in some instances a flag is never won until the last game has been played.

ADVERTISING OF SALE FOR TAKES IS HELD UP

Belmont, Aug. 15—The City of Burlington was restrained temporarily today from the scheduled advertisement of property upon which delinquent taxes street and sidewalk assessments are due.

An order signed by Judge Hoyt Eink at Greensboro, was sent by Sheriff H. J. Stockard for service upon J. W. Montgomery, tax collector, who is named defendant in the action.

Plaintiff in the action is H. W. Trullinger, well known and influential citizen, and institution by him of the suit follows his appearance before the board of aldermen seeking relief for himself and taxpayers.

The defendant is ordered to appear before Judge W. A. Devin, judge of the Superior Court, in Graham on August 28 to show cause why the order should not be made permanent.

SPORT SLANTS

The secret about Equipoise, greatest of thoroughbred race-horses now in training and regarded as the nearest thing to racing perfection since Man O'War, finally is out.

The five-year-old star of the C. V. Whitney establishment has a weak neck for carrots. It wasn't discovered at first, although carrots have long been considered a delicacy on the carefully prepared menu of any thoroughbred king or queen. Now Freddie Hopkins, former trainer of the horse says:

"Equipoise always seems to run best after a good supper of carrots the night before a big event."

Carrots for speed apparently and spinach for strength.

Outmet Not Worried

The man seemingly least concerned about Francis Outmet's failure to qualify for this year's national amateur golf championship was Francis Outmet.

To hear these people talk you would think something terrible had happened." He told Arthur Sampson. "They seem to think I should toss my clubs away in disgust and criticize the U. S. G. A. for the qualifying arrangements. What a foolish attitude."

"The world won't come to an end just because I fail to play well enough to get into this championship. My game didn't deserve a place. I wasn't properly prepared but that was my own fault."

"So many good youngsters are popping up all over the country now that no one is sure to qualify or get anywhere in the championship itself. We will have a good reputation from this section. Old Cousin Jesse (Gulford) is playing well enough to win a d'Pred Wray is always dangerous. The younger generation like Wilford Crossley, Joe Lynch, Jimmy Dolan and Eddie Kironac is coming fast. Bill Blaney needs to be afraid of no one in national competition."

Bad Year For Favorites

Outmet happens to be just another victim of a year in which it has been pretty well demonstrated so far that anything can happen and probably will before the final kickoff in December.

The list of fallen favorites and champions is mounting so fast that it will take a rapid calculator at the year's end to tally the results.

Cene Sarzen was toppled off both golfing thrones he occupied in 1932. Edworth Vines was displaced by Jack Crawford at Wimbledon and the British took the Davis Cup away from France.

The 1932 major league batting champions aren't even in the race this year, to all intents and purposes, while the Yankees seem on the way out, too.

They have been picking up boxing champions from the resin minus their titles, most of the year with the list of beaten titleholders including Tony Cansoneri, Young Corbett, III, Ben Jeby and Jack Sharkey. But we still have Helen Willis Moody, Tommy Hitchcock and Equi-joise to maintain some consistency.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 15—(AP)—The security market stepped carefully today as the grain price situation and firming dollar rates tended to cloud the speculative and investment horizon.

Stocks and bonds mullied about in unusually dull trading with ticker tape silent at intervals and most board rooms were all deserted.

The majority of leading shares moved diffidently. Homestake mining dropped six and declines of fractions to around a point were registered by National Distillers, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical and Owens. Chrysler and Dupont were up slightly. Many others were unchanged.

While the Chicago board of trade problem was apparently was the principal deterrent to a revival of stock market enthusiasm the recent climbing tendency of the dollar became a financial factor. In banking circles it was said that the strength of American currency internationally could be attributed to several influences.

Late News Flashes

- (Continued from page one) for contracts which would reduce the amount produced next year.
- Seek New Cotton Plan.—Washington, Aug. 15—(AP)—Another cotton campaign is in the making and Secretary Wallace indicated today he expected act on to be taken on it sometime this fall. The program this year which resulted in a reduction of the crop by more than 4,000,000 bales, was regarded as temporary and Secretary Wallace said today he found extreme anxiety throughout the south for formulation of more permanent plans to follow this year's emergency drive. The cotton farmers, Secretary Wallace said, believe the shaping of additional cotton plans would have a steadying effect on this year's price. The secretary of agriculture who returned from a southern tour last Saturday, said he expected the growers to present plans in the next few weeks and they would have cooperation by the department.
- Eagle Reaches For Steels-Oils.—Washington, Aug. 15—(AP)—The recovery blue eagle stretched his talons today toward steels and oil's myriad workers. Fresh from exchange of views with President Roosevelt, Hugh Johnson gave personal attention to the proposed oil code embracing hours, pay and regulations for a labyrinthian network of 365,000 marketing units. The industrial administration was making up its own mind prior to stating its own mind to industries sometime tomorrow.
- Youth Freed In Fathers Death—Wake Forest, Aug. 15—(AP)—Purvis Dillard, 10 year old cripple, who shot and fatally wounded his father, Clift Dillard, while the man was beating his wife two weeks ago was exonerated of blame today by coroner L. M. Warring of Wake county. Coroner Warring told the child he did exactly right in defending his mother. "I shot daddy because he was killing mama. Purvis told the Coroner at the hearing today. When I heard her scream I ran in to the kitchen and saw daddy choking her. I got the shotgun from the corner, took two shells from a pitcher on the washstand and got ready to shoot, I rested the gun on the bed springs and pulled the trigger."

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE A NEWSREEL CAMERAMAN!

● RIGHT—ARMAND LOPEZ, Paramount News "sound" man, and Hugo Johnson, pausing for their Camels while taking a picture in which you see and hear the life of the city—sixty-one stories below the Chrysler Building gargyle!

Since it's the tobacco that counts, Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Learn to know Camels' rich mildness, their better flavor... the added pleasure they give.

STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS

HUGO JOHNSON says: "A news cameraman doesn't keep office hours! I have to be where the news is—when it breaks. It's a tremendous strain on the nervous system. No wonder I am a heavy smoker! I find that with Camels I can smoke all I want, yet keep my nerves healthy."

If you are a steady smoker, Camels are made for you! They are so mild that they will never tire your taste... or fray your nerves. Get a pack and prove it for yourself. It is more fun to know!

● WHILE FIRE GONGS CLANG and the excited crowd swings in closer to see the fire, it's natural to smoke a lot. It's when you are excited and under a strain that you will appreciate especially the mildness of Camels. Camels' costlier tobaccos do not tire your taste or harass your nerves.
