VIRGINIA SUFFERS STAGGERING LOSS FROM STORM

Check-up Shows Damage Running Into The Millions

TEN PERSONS LOSE LIVES IN TERRIFIC GALE

Coastal Liner Madison Stagers Into Port With Officers Missing; Two White Men and Six Negroes Die on Land; Fashionable Resorts Present Appearance of Devastation; Sea Wall Wrecked

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Virginia counted ten dead and millions of dollars in damage today in wake of the wildest hurricane ever experienced here.

The death list mounted to ten when the Coastal Liner Madison staggered into port before dawn minus two of her officers. Two white men and six negroes died on land while the fashionable resorts of Virginia Beach, Cavalier Shores, Cape Henry, Ocean View and Willoughby presented an appearance of devastation.

Terrifying waves wrecked the sea wall and undermined structures until they collapsed. At Buckroe Beach scores of cottages were washed away and wharves and piers were demolished.

The famous Virginia Beach board walk was ripped and water five feet deep swept into the streets and the gay Cavalier beach club.

Coast guards waded to their arm pits and saved 70 residents at Cavalier Shoals in pitch darkness. Picket boats rescued 200 at Willoughby.

At Manteo Mrs. George H. Hopkins was hauled a quarter of a mile in a breeches buoy in a pounding surf from the wrecked schooner Kohler.

Damage at Virginia Beach alone was estimated by residents at $1,000,000. Power lines failed and Norfolk street cars were stopped as the tide swept into the city enabling youngsters to go swimming in the streets.

SHIP FEARED LOST IN PORT

Cutter Pamlico Reports Motor Ship Soarline Has Put in at Winyah Bay

Wilmington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A radio message aboard the Coast Guard cutter Modoc this morning from the C. C. Cutter Pamlico said the motor ship, Soarline, feared lost in the storm that swept the south Atlantic yesterday, has put in at Winyah Bay, S. C., and is safe.

Another message received aboard the Modoc this morning said the Dan Neck Mills coast guard station located 10 miles south of Cape Hatteras, was practically demolished by the storm. The twenty-foot cement foundation and fresh water were washed away.

CHARGES WITHDRAWN IN FATAL CAR ACCIDENT

Charlotte, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Charges of manslaughter brought against Billy Chase and Nelson Fortson of Asheville, and J. D. Pridden of Charlotte, as a result of a fatal automobile accident here early Sunday were not passed in county court yesterday.

Samuel J. Batts, Jr., of Hillsboro, was killed when an automobile in which he and Pridden were riding crashed into one in which the Asheville men were parked.

FAST TRAIN IS DERAILED; TWO KILLED

Crescent Limited Carries Two Enginemen To Death Near Washington City

Washington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Crescent Limited, crack Southern Railway train operating from New York to New Orleans, carried two enginemen to instant death and sent 13 passengers and members of its crew to a hospital when it was derailed over a swollen stream near here at 3:45 a. m. today.

A weakened bridge over the eastern part of the Anacostia river outside the capital caused the disastrous before-dawn wreck.

The engine left the rails and plunged into a mud bank with the operating cab submerged in the stream.

A H. Hyde of Washington, engineer, and J. H. Faye, of Berrisville, Maryland, were killed.

A mail car and coach were hurled ahead of the engine diagonally across the track.

A pullman car was thrown into the stream and probably submerged. Several passengers were in it at the time but all managed to escape.

Four other cars hung precariously to the road bed saved from following the other cars only by the coupling. Two cars off the track submerged and only the pullman car in front and those behind prevented them from plunging into the water.

Washington police at first reported that two other men had been killed in addition to the fireman and engineer but later said they had been mistaken.

Ben Johnson, railroad employee, who had been riding in the engine cab, was pulled out of the second department. Those at the wreck said he had been fatally injured but at the hospital doctors said none of the wreck patients were in any immediate danger.

There were conflicting reports as to the speed of the train. Officials of the road said it had been proceeding under reduced speed orders. Several of those on board said it was their impression it had been moving at high speed in order to make up part of the hour it was behind schedule.

The act was attributed to the fact that about 10 days ago the deceased lost his job with the State Highway Commission and was very despondent over it. He began to drink after getting fired and when under the influence of whiskey is said to have made the remark that he intended to end it all by killing himself.

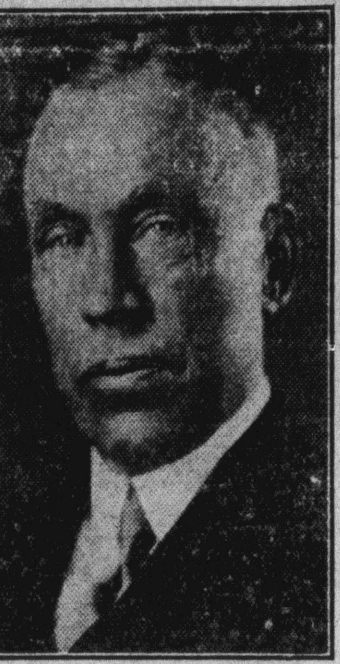

On Tuesday evening a Mr. Skyles also an employee of the State Highway Commission, went to Latham and told him to report on Wednesday morning for duty and Latham told him then that he intended to kill himself but Skyles thought he was too intoxicated to know what he was saying and attached no importance to the remark.

Young Latham is survived by a mother and several brothers and sisters, all of Plymouth and the surrounding community.

RIGSBY IS SWORN IN
AS WORKS EXAMINER

Washington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—R. W. Rigby, former city manager of Asheville, Charlotte, and Durham, N. C., was sworn in yesterday as engineer-examiner of the Public Works Administration.

His Removal Asked

Formal charges have been filed with Governor Lehman asking removal of Comptroller Charles W. Berry (above) of New York city for alleged "prodigal inefficiency, over-taxation and racketeering." (Associated Press Photo)

MAIL CHECKS FOR CUTTING COTTON CROP

Government Starts Money Rolling to Farmers of This Great Farm Area

Checks for cotton growers who agreed to take part in the government's reduction drive were expected to reach the city at any time now, it was revealed today at the office of E. F. Arnold, director of the federal farm department.

Mr. Arnold said he received notice from the federal farm department that preparations were being arranged for the mailing of the first installment of checks Tuesday and that means growers who have been plowing up their staple can expect to get their pay at any time now.

Cash and options of Pitt county growers will approximate $100,000, the farm director said today, and when checks for the amount are received, the financial condition of the growers will be temporarily improved.

The plowing up of over 3,000 bales which growers of this section agreed to take out of cultivation has been continued for the last several weeks and this work has just about been completed.

A government representative was here last week inspecting the fields and conferring with committeemen regarding the plowing up process in an effort to determine if growers are living up to provisions of their contracts.

Food crops may be planted in the place of the cotton taken out of cultivation, the government ruled at the beginning of the campaign, but they cannot be offered for sale on the open market. In other words crops must be kept for home consumption.

MRS. W. TRIPP WINS VERDICT

Awarded Judgment For $1,800 in Civil Term of Superior Court Here

As payment for taking care of a sick man who eventually died, Mrs. Will Tripp was awarded a verdict for $1,800 in the civil term of Superior court in this city yesterday.

The case was taken up during the afternoon of the day before and the jury reached a verdict yesterday afternoon. The plaintiff was suing for $8,000.

When John Browning, the sick man who Mrs. Tripp looked after for a long time, died his sister, Mrs. Lella Johnson, was appointed administratrix of his estate.

She refused to pay Mrs. Tripp for taking care of Browning, whereupon the plaintiff carried the case to court where it was finally settled yesterday when the jury held Mrs. Tripp was entitled to $1,800.

After disposing of this case, court (Continued on page six)

CITY DECIDES TO BUILD POOL FOR SWIMMERS

Application Made to Government For $15,000 Loan With Which to Build Pool

Formal application was made to the government today for funds with which to erect a modern municipal swimming pool here.

The application was drafted at a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen this morning after decision to build the swimming pool had received the endorsement of virtually every organization of importance in the city. The board also adopted a permanent budget for the year.

J. J. White and K. W. Cobb, representing a citizens' committee to work in conjunction with a committee from the Board of Aldermen in obtaining swimming pool data, presented the petition containing names of organizations representing virtually every phase of public life.

The application asked the government to loan the city $15,000 from the public works fund to be used in building a modernly equipped pool and wading pool for children in addition to a filtering plant capable of taking care of the project. The proposed pool will be located on a piece of property owned by the city on the south side of East Fifth street in the lower section of the business district and in close proximity to the college and high school.

The swimming pool question was taken up at the last monthly meeting of the Board of Aldermen and a committee was named to obtain estimates on the cost of the project. A citizens' committee was named to work in conjunction with the aldermanic body in an effort to compile the information as early as possible.

The budget adopted today was that laid before the public in tentative form twenty days ago as required by law. It provides for a reduction of expenses in the face of nearly a $3,000,000 cut in valuations. The budget was adopted without change.

The city's tax rate this year is 96 cents, four cents under the $1.00 rate last year.

Authority Of NRA Officials Temporary

By BRYON PRICE
NRA officials are emphasizing just now the temporary character of their authority, and of the codes which have gone so far to revolutionize business over night.

One reason for this is that some of the most powerful business leaders have been showing a great deal of fight. The recovery administration was able to win them over only by appealing directly for cooperation for a limited period to meet an emergency.

SEEK HOOVER'S TESTIMONY

Herbert Hoover will be asked to testify in the open grand jury investigation of the closing of Detroit's two big banks. The decision to ask Mr. Hoover, who was President when Detroit's banking difficulties reached a crisis last February, to accept a subpoena was reached after Senator James Couzens requested the former President's testimony while giving evidence before the jury. The first steps in securing testimony were taken by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy and Circuit Judge Harry Keidan, who constitutes the one-man jury. Toy, Judge Keidan and Senator Couzens (left to right) are shown at the hearing. (Associated Press Photo)

FAIR WEATHER FOLLOWS IN STORM'S WAKE

Fair weather held sway over this section today after the severe wind and rain storm which did considerable damage Tuesday and Wednesday, especially Tuesday night.

Although the loss to this community was much lighter than in sections nearer the coast where the storm reached its greatest intensity, property holders today counted loss in their tobacco pack houses which was expected to go into thousands of dollars.

The beating rain which fell all Tuesday night and a great part of yesterday penetrated openings in packhouses and damaged tremendous stock of bright leaf tobacco which had been cured and housed in preparation for the opening of the market next Tuesday.

The heavy gale wrought havoc among crops in the fields, especially corn and fall gardens which were damaged to no little extent. Thousands of acres of giant corn were leveled to the ground and much fodder which farmers were planning to lay by for stock this winter was ruined.

Fruit and nut trees were stripped of their products as the raging wind and rain pelted them Tuesday night. Many of the nuts were unripe, causing a complete loss to the growers.

In Greenville telephone and power lines were put out of commission and communications were practically demoralized during the morning hours. Both telephone and telegraph companies had a monumental job restoring crippled service with between two and three hundred telephones out of commission and inability of telegraph companies to communicate with certain important points.

The streets in some sections were littered with rubbish from trees which were completely uprooted and limbs and twigs from others.

Plate glass windows in the business section were smashed as if by a hammer and signs and outhouses were blown to the ground as the wind tore mercilessly through the city. Similar damage was reported from other sections of the county.

Hugh McGowan, operator of the Farmers' Warehouse, has had lots of experience in the tobacco business, having been connected with the industry here for many years. He will be assisted by an experienced and capable corps of workers to take care of the needs of the many growers to patronize his house this season.

The arrival of the first load found the warehouse in trim for the bark of the auctioneer. Sales lines have been drawn, offices arranged, trucks and men placed to greet the stream of growers as they hustle their tobacco in for the opening sale, and every other feature taken care of to expedite the handling of the leaf in its rapid change from the farm to the large buying companies.

While others may reach the market today, to Heath goes the honor of bringing in the first load this year, a distinction usually commanding the attention of the countryside as it officially sets in motion a trek that will continue until millions of pounds of bright leaf have passed through the doors of Greenville's great auction market.

The gentlemen who will operate the Dixie warehouse need no introduction to people throughout Eastern Carolina, as they are all well known and liked by all who have patronized them since they have been connected with the Greenville market.

Will Moore, who will have charge of the sales division of the warehouse is a man of long experience in the warehouse business and is a judge of tobacco second to no man in the business. His judgment of tobacco and experience as a warehouseman assures every one that his interest will be looked after (Continued on page six)

COASTAL AREA CUT OFF FROM OUTSIDE WORLD

Great Damage Done To Highways, Telegraph and Telephone Lines; Truck Crops Also Suffer Heavily; No Loss of Life Reported; Crew of Distressed Schooner Kohler Removed After Ship is Beached. Nags Head Inundated

Wilmington, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Coastal North Carolina was recovering today from the most vigorous lashing of an angry tropical hurricane, but was thankful the loss was no greater than preliminary estimates indicated.

Much of the coastal section was cut off from communication with the outside world but meager reports indicated most of the damage had been done to highways, telegraph and telephone lines and truck crops. No loss of life came to light.

The crew of the schooner G. A. Kohler, which had been in distress off Cape Hatteras since Tuesday night, was removed by the coast guards yesterday afternoon when the ship was beached. Nine men and women were taken from the boat.

Details of the rescue and of the ship's condition were not given in the wireless message received by the Coast Guard Cutter Modoc from the station at Cape Hatteras.

A report in Elizabeth City said raging surf had broken across the beach at Nags Head yesterday and had flooded summer cottages at the resort.

Reports trickling into Raleigh indicated much damage to highways.

DIXIE MOVES TO GORMAN'S

Warehouse Firm Ready to Receive Patrons in New Location This Year

There is no change in the Greenville warehouse industry that will be of more interest to the tobacco growers than the change of location of the Dixie warehouse, operated by Will P. Moore, Biggs T. Cannon and H. C. Sugg. This firm has moved their old location to the large brick warehouse formerly known as Gorman's warehouse, which is one of the most modern as well as one of the largest warehouses in the entire tobacco belt.

This warehouse was built just a few years ago and was operated as Gorman's new warehouse by J. N. Gorman until his death, and is known throughout the entire tobacco belt as one of the best. Located out of the congested district where farmers have plenty of parking space and with ample floor space inside for the proper handling of tobacco, this location has always been very popular with the tobacco farmers.

The gentlemen who will operate the Dixie warehouse need no introduction to people throughout Eastern Carolina, as they are all well known and liked by all who have patronized them since they have been connected with the Greenville market.

Will Moore, who will have charge of the sales division of the warehouse is a man of long experience in the warehouse business and is a judge of tobacco second to no man in the business. SPORT SLANTS

It may be the lure of fancy instruments, or the lack of them, but in either case it does seem that Uncle Sam has a lot of difficulty maintaining any continuity of amateurism for his boys and girls from one Olympiad to another.

When other countries develop world champions athletes, they can easily try to keep them in competition. The faces and achievements of foreign stars grow familiar to an old Olympic tourist like myself. It is gratifying to see performers like Douglas Lowe or Paavo Nurmi repeat. But for the presence of proof that Nurmi merely had done what a flock of other stars have long been suspected of doing—profiting from some of their excursions—the celebrated Finn would have participated in the Olympics for the fourth time in a row.

Since the wartime interval, on the other hand, how many American track stars have repeated Olympic conquests? Exactly one, Dr.
Charles L. (Bud) Houser, the Californian who topped the discus
"throwers" in 1924 and 1928 before retiring to his dental practice.
There have been others who tried to double up like Morgan Taylor in the 400-meter hurdles, Charley Paddock in the sprints, Lee Barnes in the pole vault, but even they have been the exceptions.

Bausch Turns Pro.
The latest of the 1932 Olympic gold-medal winners to forsake amateur ranks is James Aloysius Bausch, who has signed to play professional football this season with the Chicago Cardinals.

It was on the gridiron that "Jarring Jim" first attracted athletic notice, but American long will remember his feat of breaking the world record in the Olympic discus last summer. Since then his record has twice been surpassed by a German, Hans Heinrich Sievert, who in keeping with European customs will preserve his amateur status for the glory of the Fatherland in the next Olympiad at Berlin.

Look over the rest of the list of American Olympic champions:

Eddie Tolan, double sprint winner, is through as an amateur.
Ralph Hill, closer than a gnat's eye-lash to America's first 5,000 meter triumph, has quit competition to teach school. Accidents ended the racing career of Bill Carr and the life of George Saling, high hurdles champion. Babe Dirckson turned "pro" and Buster Crabbe, swimming winner, went into the movies.

Tennis Flurry Over.

Meanwhile the flurry over our tennis champions, notably H. Ed-worth Vines, Jr., seems to have blown over for the season, with no one's amateur reputation damaged to any extent and nothing wasted but a few thousand words of sports-page speculation.

Only one specific commercial offer was made to Vines, and acknowledged by him, but it developed that even this one was based merely on a bid for ballpoo. Once the tennis governors satisfied themselves as to this, they apparently dismissed the case without so much as giving the boys a chance to make another story out of it.

Vines may, of course, eventually turn pro. That is his business to decide about, but neither his 1933 record thus far nor the future of professional tennis seem calculated to inspire much inducement to him.

THREE GAMES TO END PLAY IN THIS CIRCUIT

Rain blocked both scheduled contests yesterday in the Coastal Plain League, to give J. P. Plumas a record of washing out three of the four events listed thus far this week.

Today's game in the circuit will have Greenville at Snow Hill and Kinston at Ayden. Game time is 4 o'clock.

The only game this week permitted by the weather was staged Tuesday afternoon at Kinston, with Ayden getting a 4-1 verdict behind the one-hit pitching of Stankus.
Mann, Kinston hurler, gave only three hits but his support wasn't very hot and two of Ayden's tallies were unearned.

The Coastal Plain schedule is due to be brought to a close Saturday.
The championship is to be decided by a playoff between the clubs finishing first and second and the mathematical possibilities give Kinston an opportunity of crowding into the series. However, all indications are that the title playoff will be between Greenville and Ayden, now separated by the margin of a single game.

Petition Seeks Public Tennis Courts Here

A rather successful tennis meeting was held Tuesday evening upstairs in the Sheppard Memorial Library. The love of tennis, and the benefits of tennis, and the three tennis courts under construction on the Third street school property were discussed freely by all of those present.

There was a group of about twenty, representing ages from 15 to 30, and they voiced sympathy with the program sent by many others.

A petition was drawn up to be presented to the Board of Aldermen, through the playground committee. This petition is being circulated for signatures, backing it to serve as a determinant of the real need Greenville has for municipal tennis courts. The board is being petitioned to assist in finishing the construction of these courts. It is hoped that everyone will sign in behalf of such a worthy project.

ARTIST USED FISHING POLE TO ADD ANGEL'S EYEBROWS

Scout Bend, Ind. (AP)—How Luigi Gregori, famous Italian artist, used a fishing pole to paint the eyebrows of the picture of an angel high in the dome of the University of Notre Dame is recalled here now that the paintings are being retouchered.

The missing eyebrows were not discovered until the scaffolding had been removed. It would have been too expensive to rebuild the scaffolding, so Gregori procured a fishing pole, mounted to a high circular balustrade and with a brush attached to the pole painted in the eyebrows.

Garris Grocery Company Opens On Fifth Street

Announcement was made today of the opening of the Garris Grocery Company at 204 East Fifth street.

The new firm is under the management of L. S. Garris and Plato Evans, and housewives of the city have been invited to attend the opening special Friday and Saturday.

The building has been completely remodeled and presents an attractive appearance. It is modernly equipped and carries a complete stock of new goods.

Mr. Garris has made his home here the last twenty years and has been prominently connected with the grocery business during the time. He is well known among the buying public and his experience in this line of business stands him in good stead in operation of the new store.

Mr. Evans, the son of G. T. Evans has had several years of experience in this field of business, and like Mr. Garris, will make every effort to render the highest type of service to their patrons.

Miss Picklesimer Entertains. Among the most attractive affairs of the younger set was the dinner party last evening when Miss Dorothy Ann Picklesimer was hostess, honoring Miss Mary Elizabeth Tingle of Emmerton, Va., house guest of Miss Dorothy Holler.

A yellow and white color note was used in the table appointments. The centerpiece was a low bowl of yellow and white zinnias, flanked by yellow candles in silver holders. Attractive favors marked each place.

A tempting course dinner was served. Covers were laid for Miss Mary Elizabeth Tingle, Miss Dorothy Holler, Miss Jane Forbes, Miss Marion Tyson, Miss Mary Woolard, Miss Frances Spilman, Miss Marian Wilson and Miss Dorothy Ann Picklesimer.

After dinner the guests were taken to the State Theatre where the picture was enjoyed.

Mrs. James Bridge Hostess. Complimenting Mrs. Herbert Utley, a recent bride, and Miss Mary Berry Clark of Long Island, N. Y., Mrs. Dink James delightfully entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon.

The home on East Ninth street was attractively decorated in varicolored garden flowers.

Concluding a number of interesting rubbers, Mrs. Rufus Stark was awarded bridge cards for high score. Mrs. Utley was remembered with an attractive tea set, and Miss Clark with a lovely party handkerchief.

Mrs. Georgia James assisted the hostess in serving a delectable salad course.

Among the guests were Mrs. Paul Royer of Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. W. E. Padgett of Greensboro.

Entertains At Bridge

Mrs. Ben Roberson entertained at four tables of bridge Wednesday evening, honoring Mrs. E. R. Johnson, a recent bride, and Miss Clotel Hill of Dendron, Va.

Those playing were Mesdames Earl Pames, H. W. Martin, M. E. Eborn, H. Cross, W. T. Carson, Laydon Clark, Clyde McGowan, A. D. McArthur, E. R. Johnson; Misses Louise Clark, Eloise Hyde, Lynn Dudley, Mary Lee Copeland of Roanoke, N. C., Mae Bell Edwards of Wakefield, Va., and Clotel Hill of Dendron, Va. Mrs. W. T. Carson was awarded a lovely vase for high score.

The hostess presented the honorees, Mrs. Johnson and Miss Hill, with gifts. The out of town guests were also remembered with gifts. After several progressions a delicious ice course was served.

New Books

By John Selby.

New York—(AP)—The two books from the week's grist likely to get most attention, whether or not the future shows they deserve it, are Louis Bromfield's "The Farm" and Booth Tarkington's "Presenting Lily Mars."

"Presenting Lily Mars" is perhaps a little closer to the "old-time Tarkington" than some of his later efforts. It is particularly successful in recreating the tinsel and sawdust atmosphere of the theater and even more successful in making credible the career of a "star."

The reader feels the indefinable something that carries Lily on, with out too many stage whispers from Mr. Tarkington. Lily is authentically of the theater, and her career approaches closely those of a number of stars, past and present. The childlike element is particularly well suggested as is the ruthless so often met on the stage. Altogether, barring occasional moralizing, the reader will probably feel endeared to both author and creation.

Back To Ohio. Mr. Bromfield has, his publisher insists, returned to the "manner" of his earlier successes in "The Farm." And the answer to that is that although he has returned to Ohio and to the scenes thereof, he still is not quite the same man who wrote "The Green Bay Tree." "A Good Woman" and so forth. "The Farm" is a sort of history, really. It described the origins and subsequent fluctuations of one Pentland, Ohio, which many readers will identify with Mr. Bromfield's native Mansfield. Four generations of one family stalk across Mr. Bromfield's canvass, beginning with the Colonel who went to the Western Reserve from Maryland full of hope that he could help form a Utopia for him and his.

The story ends with Johnny's return to Pentland and to the farm, which last is in the hands of foreigners. Yet all the Colonel's dream was not lost; Johnny at least understood the dream. The reader will probably identify Johnny as Mr. Bromfield.

Perhaps the nostalgic note is real, perhaps not. Mr. Bromfield now lives in France, it should be remembered, and from that distance Ohio is not clearly visible.

Battle With Death

One of the best books to come out of the medical profession in years is Corinne Johnson Kern's "I Go Nursing." Mrs. Kern, in two or three pages, draws the reader into the atmosphere and activity of the battle with death waged by the nurse no less than by the doctor.

She makes one understand the struggles, reticences and rewards of the nurse, and values very simply and without fine writing the run of humanity with which she came in contact. Her gift for description is unusual, and she can be brief. Most of her readers will feel she has done them a service.

There are to be had also a very keen analysis of suicide and its causes by Dr. Louis I. Dublin, called "To Be or Not To Be," an occasionally amusing novel of the hard-drinking set in Connecticut, "Portrait of a Woman" by John Hyde Preston; an unusual mystery by Todd Browning entitled "Murder on Tour," and "Vulnerable" another of Dale Collins' stories of adventure, this one hinging on a bridge game, and offered in a box that looks like a deck of cards. These among others.

Hurrah! The citizens' petition for an adequate swimming pool for Greenville to be centrally located to best serve our people, was approved this morning by the Board of Aldermen and the formal application for government funds with which to build the pool made. That the project has gone far is good news to our citizens and if and when the government approves the application it will be even better news for it will mean that Greenville will get something it has long needed.

The early arrival of tobacco here for next Tuesday's opening sale indicate that the offerings on that day will be large. No doubt thousands of visitors will be here for the opening day's sale and we take this opportunity in advance to wish them a hearty welcome. Greenville will be glad to have you visit our city not only on the opening day of the tobacco market but on every day that you find it possible to come. The slogan of our city is "Our Greenville, Yours If You Come," and visitors to our city will find this a reality rather than just an idle boast.

In the face of a 33 1-3 per cent reduction in property valuation citizens of Greenville should feel gratified that the City Fathers have adopted a tax rate four cents on the hundred dollars less than last year rather than increase as has been the case with most cities. Last year's tax rate here was $1.00 per hundred dollar against the new rate of .96 cents per hundred. It is true that the state operation of the schools this year automatically reduces our taxes some, but due to the fact that the maintenance of equipment and the reduction in valuation more than offset the school operation the aldermen had quite a job on their hands to reduce the rate rather than increase it, and we congratulate them for this effort on their part in behalf of the citizens of the town.

Let us again urge the farmers of this section to hold their tobacco until the markets in this belt open rather than carrying it to the markets in the other belts. Reports from the border and South Carolina belt might make it appear that prices are high but it must be remembered that those markets have reached the stage of the season when the

The HIDDEN DOOR
 By FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: Colin Hewitt has gone to a mysterious crooks' hang-out known as the "club" on the St. Lawrence, to warn a "member," Joe Lazarre, of an attack by hijackers under Captain Dollaire. Colin hopes for Lazarre's aid against the Mask, New York killer. He is too late; Dollaire sacks the club, Lazarre is badly wounded, and Colin manages to drag him at the last moment from the burning "club-house." He tells Germaine Tremblay, his fiancée, that he must return to New York, even though the Mask has marked him for death.

Chapter 23
ALIAS CLARKE LUNN
 It was getting late—almost time to start out on the "from twelve to before daylight" rounds again. Colin, packing up and down the room that he had occupied since his return to New York, halted abruptly and stared moodily at the calendar on the wall. The second of August. It was just a month to the day since he had left. Cap a l'Orange.

Papa Goyette's "masterpiece"

From the calendar, his eyes traveled to the mirror on the bureau. The reflection that returned his gaze was neither that of Colin Hewitt, nor Mr. Routh, nor Donald Howard—this was an individual with jet-black hair and jet-black eyebrows, and deep circles under the eyes that spoke eloquently of habitual dissipation.

The face was pasty in color; the toothbrush mustache gave the lips a cruel and sinister expression. A quite well-dressed individual! One Clarke Lunn, alias—oh, well, like Reddy Turner, Clarke Lunn had many other aliases on tap!

Colin smiled caustically—so did the reflection. Not a nice face—but a work of art! Yet the art of old Papa Goyette had availed nothing.

better grades predominate the sales which should mean higher prices. All indications now are that prices will be better on the Eastern Carolina markets and growers in this section will make money by selling their crops here rather than going to the added expense of carrying it to the border markets.

were genuinely meager; and he kept no books to exploit the profits he made through the vast quantity of stolen goods that passed through his hands.

Papa Goyette was clever. As a customer he knew his business and was highly spoken of in that respect. If he eked out a bare living thereby, he was cheerfully optimistic and did not complain!

The transformation had taken place in the ultra-strict privacy of one of Papa Goyette's ingeniously contrived back rooms. It had been eminently successful. At its conclusion Papa Goyette had rubbed his hands with delight.

"There!" he had exclaimed. "It is my masterpiece. Look! You do not know yourself! No! But do not forget one little thing. It will not last all by itself. The hairs sprout. And from underneath the skin they come up with the old color. Very well. I will tell you of a friend of mine in New York who will take care of that, and the other little repairs that will be necessary."

"But be careful of that so-superb little mustache? You understand? It is incomparable. It is as good as though you had had time to grow one. I, Papa Goyette, have never made anything before that could approach it. It is—what do you call it?—the singing note of the whole face."

"It is not pleasant? No. But the cement that holds it changes the expression of the lips! You see? It is art! Yes, I, Papa Goyette, applaud myself."

Colin swore softly under his breath. Damn the mustache! It had been the source of endless discomfort at first, but he was becoming used to it now.

It would have been unwise, to say the least of it, for Clarke Lunn, a newcomer, to throw in his lot openly with Butch Connal's gang. Colin and Butch had talked that over from every angle. Reddy had been a member of Butch Connal's gang.

Talks to parents

The Too-Calm Family
 By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

The purpose of family life should be to accustom the child by slow degrees to living in the world. For that reason it seems a mistake to insist on making the home an unnatural paradise where no sharp word must ever be spoken, no friction ever allowed.

There are a few mothers who are all softness and gentleness and never have the inclination to be cross. But for one of these there are 10 of the less evenly-balanced whose nerves become frayed and worn and who are at times unreasonable and irritable.

It is possible, of course, to control one's temper and keep it within limits, but to place on it an iron restraint which is never let down, produces an unnatural calm which has an effect, not only on the children, but on the entire household.

We have all seen the mother who, no matter how fractious and exasperating the child is, still speaks to him in a low and restrained voice. The child further exasperated by his inability to make any impression on the stoic quiet of his mother, grows increasingly violent until finally he must be put to bed or gently deposited in the other room. The only signs of agitation on the mother's part are a tightening of the lips and a sense of taut nerves.

Both mother and child suffer from a constant repetition of this kind of thing. The child has a feeling of impotence against an almost inhuman force, the mother a nerve exhaustion from repressed emotion. Both would gain by an occasional letting off of steam, and would experience a warmer and more human relationship towards each other.

The rough as well as the smooth contacts of life may be learned in the home, and it may be unwise to go to extremes in order to eliminate them.

Greenville

BEST TOBACCO MARKET IN THE STATE

Opens Tues. Aug. 29th

Opening Day Prices--

Prices on the Border and South Carolina Markets opening day this season ranged between 10 1-2c and 12 c. Let us bear in mind that opening day this season we will sell, as usual first curings, generally the most inferior tobacco in the crop, of course the general season's average will be much higher than opening day average.

No Market Will Excel Greenville--

We positively assert, the buyers joining in with us, that during the coming season, we are determined no market will excel Greenville in prices paid for every grade of Tobacco. This is the real secret of the Phenomenal Growth of Greenville's Tobacco Market.

Poor Grading Costs Millions--

Let us call especial attention to the fact that millions of dollars are lost annually on account of Tobacco being poorly graded and marketed in soft condition. Examine your pack barns for leaks before any of your tobacco is ruined.

No Floor Space Reservations--

Reserving floor space in advance is now prohibited by the Board of Trade. First come first served will be the rule. $50.00 fine will be imposed against any warehouseman violating this by-law.

HOLD BLACKS FOR BEATING WHITE GIRL

Eleven Negroes Held At Henderson in Attempt to Obtain Money

Henderson, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Eleven negroes were arrested here early today in connection with the cutting and beating of a 16-year-old white girl six miles from Henderson when she refused to tell the negroes where her father kept his money, and police said they were positive the guilty pair was among those held.

Officers said they planned to bring the girl to police headquarters as soon as she could be released from the hospital in an attempt to identify the two suspected of attacking her.

They thought the girl, Miss Mary Lena Dyke, could be discharged from the hospital some time this morning.

The names of those held were not revealed by officers who said the two suspected of being guilty were reported to have been seen near the girl's home about 15 minutes before the attack.

CROPS ARE DAMAGED BY TROPICAL STORM

Henderson, Aug. 24.—Considerable damage to crops and especially to tobacco, was feared in this county and section as the result of the high winds and heavy rains the last two days. Other crops, including corn, which was badly blown down in many places, were also expected to suffer as the result of the storm which was the outer fringer of the tropical disturbance that struck the North Carolina coast late Tuesday. Little had been learned from the rural sections as to the results of the wind storm but there were fears of considerable damage. Hardly more than half the tobacco crop, if more than in some sections has been harvested and for that reason the greatest fears are felt for damage there. One grower said that he had not noted great damage in his community but some who had been along the highway said that tobacco had been badly blown down in open fields, though that close to the wooded areas appeared to have been somewhat protected from the full force of the wind.

Sinclair Regular, A New Gasoline-- (White)

Sinclair spent more than $18,000,000 on new refinery equipment to give the new Sinclair Regular Gasoline a 70 per cent increase in anti-knock—making it actually superior in anti-knock to some premium gasolines selling at several cents more per gallon. The new Sinclair Regular is America's gasoline bargain.

Late News Flashes

He succeeds Robert N. Page of Aberdeen, who is ill and unable to attend the meeting. Other officers elected were: Millard F. Jones, Rocky Mount, first vice-president; C. P. Leimbach, Winston-Salem, second vice-president; M. E. Hogan, Chapel Hill, third vice-president; R. E. Kerr, Charlotte, treasurer.

The executive committee is expected to re-elect Paul P. Brown of Raleigh, secretary and Willis Smith, Raleigh, general counsel. New members of the committee chosen were: J. H. Waldrop, Greenville; C. A. Kramer, Kinston; R. L. Pace, Thomasville; R. N. Lewis, Raeford; and H. C. Alexander of Charlotte.

Governor Ehringhaus and Dr. Harold Stonier, educational director of the American Institute of Banking, attended the convention. Urging the same degree of cooperation between citizens and the state government as that which is being demonstrated in the federal government in the NRA drive, Governor Ehringhaus called on North Carolina bankers "to work for the return of Tar Heel money deposited elsewhere."

He declared that the state should become its "own financier." The governor said, "Reliable information given me indicates that approximately $3,000,000 of North Carolina money is now on deposit in vault of New York banks in the form of general deposits, and is drawing no interest under the Steagall bill.

"The utilization of only a small part of the present cash reserves in New York would take the State of North Carolina out of the borrowing market in New York," he added, pointing out metropolitan banks still hold $4,062,160 in state short term notes.

Calling for a larger sympathy toward state government, Governor Ehringhaus declared its officers are no group of fattening political parasites but are giving of their brains and hearts and best energies in a manifest effort to solve problems which press upon them.

"Are they not entitled at least to the presumption that their acts are controlled by integrity of motives and not the result of sinister influence."

New Phase of Murder Case. Raleigh, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The fate of Gurney Lee, Harnet county negro scheduled to die in the electric chair tomorrow, hinged today on the rapid-fire probe by Solicitor Clawson Williams into a story told by Lee that another negro confessed the murder to him.

The solicitor who prosecuted Lee was going into the record of the death of Arthur Campbell, negro, said by Lee to have been a victim of poison, Asa Herring confessed to him he administered it.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Stocks and staples moved hopefully but hesitatingly today and prices generally maintained steady to firm tones.

There apparently were few incentives for either bearish or bullish operations and traders, aside from the professional element, usually occupied neutral territory. Various share specialties were taken in hand for substantial gains in early dealings, with mining issues favorites. Homestake Mining shares got up 13 on small turnover. U. S. Smelting was up 5 and Allied Chemical jumped 7.

Union Pacific and Santa Fe were up two each but other rails were quiet. Gains of a point or more included American Can, U. S. Steel, Case Threshing, American Telephone, Union Carbide, National Distillers, Dome Mine, Alaska Juneau, Standard Oil of N. J., Bethlehem Steel. Sales totaled 1,720,050 shares.

S. S. MADISON REACHES PORT

(Continued from page one) Two other members of the crew, Malchis Milson and Robert Turner, were injured. The Madison, after experiencing a trying time in trying to outride the storm, was finally able to move into port under her own power. Passengers were high in their praise of Captain William Heath and of the work of the coast guard. It was the first storm wave described by Captain Heath as the largest he had ever seen, which tore away the forward deckhouse and wrecked much of the super-structure. A haggard group of passengers who had spent a sleepless night in life preservers came from aboard the ship when it docked. They were clad in odd costumes and had lost practically all of their baggage. Two members of the crew were injured.

MRS. W. TRIPP WINS VERDICT

(Continued from page one) began hearing of the damage suit of Mary House, administratrix of the estate of a negro named House who was run over and killed by an automobile driven by David Strickland. The car had given out shortly before the wreck and was being pushed in by a truck of the Blount Dairy. Hence included in the suit were Strickland and M. O. Blount and Sons.

House was driving along the high way near the river bridge with a mule and cart when his vehicle was struck by Strickland's car. The negro was precipitated to the pavement with such force that he died of injuries of the head a short time later.

The case was expected to consume the most of today's session. Criminal court will open next week and hundreds of people were expected to be on hand as a large docket is to be given consideration from day to day.

(Continued from page one) state control was being set up in Washington. Officials are eager to have it understood the law expires in two years unless reenacted by congress.

Yet many thoughtful industrialists still are wondering how much of the new system ever can be scrapped. Nearly everyone is convinced that child labor and the sweatshop are gone forever. Some think the minimum wage and shorter work week for industry in general are here to stay. Some argue that unless the whole experiment collapses business is likely to remain, even after the NRA is abolished, under a very stringent federal supervision.

Johnson's Future.

The disclosure that General Johnson expects his job to be finished by New Year's day raises an interesting chain of speculation as to his own permanency in the firmament of national affairs.

He may think he is through with politics, but whether politics is through with him is another question.

There is no doubt he dislikes the political game and is impatient with politicians. That does not modify the fact that few men have received so much of the very sort of publicity on which political fortunes, of their own accord, usually fatten.

When they saw his picture looking out from beneath the blue eagle on so many shop-windows, and his every word read eagerly by so many voters, some of the big men of the democratic party began to wonder.

They started a story that he was no democrat. He found it advisable to announce that he was "a democrat by inheritance, conviction and belief."

That didn't still the wonderings. Neither did the latter news that he planned to step out within a matter of weeks.

He is comparatively young—just past 51—and in splendid health.

Polo Star Accused

Two things the politicians are thinking about: The only parallel case is that of Herbert Hoover, who as food administrator similarly became an American institution, and then retired from politics, which he never liked. Within a dozen years, in spite of several political mistakes, Mr. Hoover was elected President.

Secondly, General Johnson is one of the right-hand men of Bernard Baruch, who knows the political ropes as well as the next fellow and who is well known to Washington as the man who likes to sit behind a throne.

The Test

It was of NRA's new conception of industry that General Johnson was speaking when he said recently: "If it is good, it lives; if it is bad it will die."

If he were willing to talk about them at all, he probably would apply the same philosophy to his own political fortunes.

You and Your Community Benefit from the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey's Labor Policy

Labor policies of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and Associated Companies maintain wages and spread employment. More than 45,000 employees of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and associated companies can be better citizens in their communities because of these liberal labor policies.

For more than a year the 5-day week has been completely in operation throughout the organization. Thousands have been kept at work and large numbers taken from the ranks of the unemployed. Time for recreation. Good wages, too—as good or better than wages paid in the community for similar work.

During the period this policy was extended throughout their organizations, these companies also spent millions developing Essolube, the only hydrofined motor oil, and Essolene, a motor fuel so superior to gasoline that its composition is protected by U. S. Patent Pending.

Try Essolene—give the Esso station man your patronage.

Steady work and good wages. Money to spend in the community. The money these people spend in their communities comes from the sale of Essolene, Esso, Essolube, Atlas Tires and other products.
