

Stage Is Set For Tobacco Sign-up

LOCAL BAR TO AID TOBACCO SIGN-UP HERE

Civil Court Scheduled Here For Next Week Has Been Postponed

The Pitt County Bar Association in regular meeting convened this the 8th day of September, 1933, unanimously endorsed a resolution that all members of the Pitt County Bar tender their services to the tobacco marketing committee to the fullest extent, and beginning Saturday, September 9, 1933, will be found in their respective offices, or at such places as designated by the committee, to assist in the advisement, accomplishment and signing of tobacco contracts.

Upon motion duly carried, the bar decided to postpone the term of civil court for next week in order that the members thereof might render all aid and assistance to the tobacco growers of this county in completing contracts for the cutting of the tobacco crops for the years of 1934 and 1935. And all people desiring advice or aid in such contract work are invited to call upon any member of Pitt County Bar for such advice or aid, for which no fee will be charged.

Italian Marriages Show Increase But Birth Rate Drops

Rome.—(AP)—The Italian people have responded well to Mussolini's efforts to increase their interest in marriage, statistics just published show. But the birth rate—another of the Premier's major preoccupations—continue to fall.

Offers of rent reductions, wedding presents and generous facilities for honeymoon trips—in effect now for a year—are given credit for having caused the increase that figures for the first seven months of 1933 show in marital ventures.

Low Death Rate Helps Similar premiums for child-bearing, however, have had little apparent effect. In spite of the fact that cash gifts, cradles and baby clothes had been offered to needy couples throughout the country on the occasion of new additions to the family, such additions were fewer by 4,614 than in the first seven months of last year.

A diminishing death rate has come to the aid of the statistics in their sum total—the excess of births over deaths—but even with that the figure as compared with that of two years ago falls short of more than 10,000.

Police Jail 200 Persons In Turkish Narcotic War

Istanbul, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Since Mustafa Kemal said "stop it" to the contraband traffic in narcotic drugs in Turkey, Turkish police have been so active that in two weeks 200 arrests were made in Istanbul alone.

Smugglers of opium, heroin and hashish and clandestine manufacturers of these drugs, which a new law has made a state monopoly in Turkey, are being rounded up and imprisoned during the Kemalist crusade against the drug evil.

N. C. Families Get $290,000

Fort McPherson, Ga., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Major General Edward L. King, commandant of the Fourth Corps area said $3,600,000 had been distributed to Civilian Conservation Corps workers and their families in the southeast since the camps had been established. His report showed the following amounts sent to families in the Fourth Corps area in July and August—North Carolina $290,000.

INVESTIGATE CHARLESTON BREAD PRICES

Prices in Six Other Cities Also to be Studied by Government.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Bread prices at Charleston, S. C., came under the scrutiny of the Farm Adjustment Administration today. Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel for the administration, said he would ask an explanation of prices in six other cities also.

"In these seven cities," he said, "the average price of bread is one cent above the national price for a pound loaf."

Howe said he would ask representatives of the American Bakers' Association for a report giving information on the costs and wages of bakers in the seven cities named. Other price increases in the cost of a pound of bread over the country as a whole continued to check with the advanced costs of production, he said.

Dr. Howe reported the August 15 retail price in fifty-one cities at 7.6 cents per pound loaf as compared with 6.4 cents February 15.

It is all taken very much to heart here in Fascist land; which considers its whole future bound up in augmenting numbers. A people to be strong must be constantly multiplying, Mussolini said when he started his campaign of persuasion.

The number of marriages as compared with 1932 jumped by 5,100 (to 146,949), but is still 4,071 under that for 1931 (151,020). The fact that it is again increasing, however, is taken as success for that aspect of the movement.

Births were 4,614 below the total for the first seven months of 1932 (586,584) and 34,789 under that for the similar period of 1931 (616,758).

YEGGMEN GET $124 FROM DURHAM SAFE

Durham, Sept. 8.—Police were notified yesterday that yeggs had knocked open a safe in the Southern Bag and Sizing Company office at 933 East Main street and had removed $124.45. Another package containing $32.87 was overlooked by the thieves, police were informed. Just when the robbery occurred could not be determined. In reporting the affair to police, officials of the company said the robbery had occurred since Saturday.

CONSUMPTION OF COTTON IS ON INCREASE

Despite Greater Consumption Annual Carry-Over is Still Large

Washington, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Figures which show why the Farm Adjustment Administration's task of raising the price of cotton has been a hard one, were issued today while experts assembled material for the second crop reduction report on the staple.

The carry over or surplus, which was the prime motive for the reduction campaign this year and the ones contemplated for 1934 and 1935 stood at 8,170,000 bales in the United States August 1. This compared with a carry over of 9,581,000 bales for the same date last year but the average for the past five years was only 4,944,000 and for ten years 3,888,000.

Statistics on consumption in this country for the year ending August 1 showed 1,250,000 bales used, an increase of 1,250,000 or 26.5 per cent over the season of 1931-32. About 5,000,000 bales went through the mills in 1930-31 and 5,083,000 bales in 1929-30.

World consumption of American cotton for 1932-33 was estimated at 14,000,000 bales while in 1931-32 it was 12,300,000 and in 1930-31 it dwindled to 10,900,000 bales.

Finland Doubles Egg Export

Helsinki, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Finland doubled her egg exports in the first half of 1933 as compared with 1932 official figures showing that 91,115,200 were sent abroad as compared with 47,875,360. England remained the chief purchaser.

Meteorites in England and Wales paid fines totalling the equivalent of more than $11,500 in 1932. Offenders numbered 338,662, an increase of 6,348 over 1931.

BRYANT STONE ELECTROCUTED

Slayer of Son-in-Law Executed at State Prison This Morning

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Bryant Stone, 46 years old, Wilkes County mountaineer, was electrocuted at State Prison today for the confessed murder of his son-in-law, Wayne Norman, Mumbline. "Lord have mercy on me; I didn't mean to do it," Stone wept as he was taken to the chair.

Stone was executed at 10:35 o'clock. He did not make a final statement. Two shocks of electricity were turned on, one of one minute and 35 seconds and the second, one minute and three seconds.

Paul Yelverton, Raleigh undertaker and one of the witnesses, faintly told newspaper men he had handled bodies after all kinds of accidents for twenty-five years and that "nothing like this has ever happened to me before."

Stone's body was taken to Wilkes County for burial beside a daughter, Annie Lee Stone.

Stone was convicted of murder largely upon the testimony of another daughter, Joyce Stone Norman, who eloped and married Norman, a man twenty years older than she. The girl testified her husband made a dying declaration that Stone had killed him. For months the Wilkes County man had maintained his innocence, but last week he confessed to Parole Commissioner Edwin M. Gill. Stone said Norman had wrecked his home when he stole Joyce. Norman was the grandfather of three children when he eloped with Stone's daughter.

START SEARCH FOR MISSING BALLOONISTS

Two Balloons Entered in International Cup Race Still Missing

Chicago, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Wide-spread search was under way today for two missing balloons which started in the Gordon Bennett Balloon race. Fears were expressed that the four occupants of the missing Goodyear LX, piloted by Ward T. Van Orman and the Polish Empress, piloted by Capt. Francis Hynek, may have drifted out over the Atlantic to their doom since they took off Saturday. The other four balloons in the race landed safely.

HUMAN FREIGHT Awaits Voyage To Island Exile

La Rochelle, France.—(AP)—A cargo of human freight, condemned to expiate crimes in the tropical heat of lonely French Guiana, is being assembled for shipment to the notorious camps there September 22.

Fifteen hundred convicts are awaiting banishment. Most of them will make the voyage of despair in two loads of nearly 700 each on a convict ship sailing on its first trip in two years.

Escape offers the only hope many will have of seeing the French shores again as they desperately climb the ship's ladder, a file of drab figures in convict dress, and three weeks later descend to the docks of St. Laurent du Maroni, 4,300 miles from home. Many are lifers, while many others may return to France only after serving long terms at hard labor followed by as many years of exile.

TOBACCO REDUCTION CONTRACT

For the information of tobacco growers we are printing herewith a copy of the government reduction contract to be submitted to growers Saturday. We urge that the growers give study to this contract now in order that they may be able to furnish the desired acreage and production figures when given the opportunity to sign the contract.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT ADMINISTRATION

State _____ County _____ Serial No. _____

AGREEMENT FOR REDUCTION OF PRODUCTION OF FLUE-CURED TOBACCO

THIS AGREEMENT, made and entered into between the undersigned producer of flue-cured tobacco and other like producers thereof who execute similar documents, witnesses:

WHEREAS, the Secretary of Agriculture, acting under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and in order to effectuate the declared policy of said act, has determined that rental and/or benefit payments are to be made with respect to flue-cured tobacco and has proclaimed such determination, and

WHEREAS, it is the declared policy of said act to approach parity prices as rapidly as feasible for basic agricultural commodities including flue-cured tobacco, and

WHEREAS, in order to effectuate that policy with respect to such tobacco, it is necessary that the growers of such tobacco cooperate to reduce production thereof,

NOW THEREFORE, in order to effectuate such policy, and in consideration of the execution by other growers of such tobacco of instruments similar to this, the undersigned, landowner or landlord, agrees with such other growers as follows:

The undersigned will, when it is presented to him by or on behalf of the Secretary of Agriculture, sign a formal agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture by which the undersigned will agree to reduce his production on his farm of flue-cured tobacco for the years 1934 and 1935 in such amount as the Secretary, in his discretion, may designate for each such year, provided that in no event shall the required reduction during any year be more than 30 (thirty) per cent of the average production of his farm during the years 1931, 1932, and 1933; such reduction shall be based on acreage and/or poundage; and the consideration for such reductions shall be the payment to the undersigned by the Secretary of rental and/or benefit payments in such amount, and at such times as the Secretary may determine.

The undersigned owns or leases a farm, known as _____ farm, situated _____ miles (direction) _____ from _____ on the _____ road, in _____ township _____ County _____

The undersigned hereby represents that the acreage and production of such tobacco on said farm for the years 1931, 1932, and 1933 were approximately as follows:

ARRESTED FOR KIDNAPPING

Federal Agents Arrest Would-be Extortionist at Anderson, S. C.

Anderson, S. C., Sept. 8.—(AP)—The United States Government drive against kidnaping and extortion plots was brought home to Anderson today with detention of Charles C. Jordan 57, said by Federal agents to have demanded $10,000 from Lefel Tucker under threat of kidnaping his son. The agents said Jordan had confessed and warrants would be issued today. He was held in custody at a hotel last night following hours of questioning.

LEONARD TO ADDRESS SALES TAX OPPONENTS

Fayetteville, N. C., Sept. 8.—The anti-sales tax fight will be launched in Fayetteville tonight when J. Paul Leonard, secretary of the Fair Tax League, will address an anti-sales tax meeting at 8 o'clock in the county courtroom, and will attempt to organize the sales tax foes in Cumberland County into a fighting unit.

At this time Mr. Leonard will tell what steps have already been taken to fight the levy and will discuss the constitutionality of the law as passed by the 1933 General Assembly.

T. M. Hunter, of Fayetteville, is vice-president of the Fair Tax League.

DUKE LIBRARY USED IN HOLDEN RESEARCH

Durham, N. C., Sept. 8.—Professor Edgar E. Folk, a member of the faculty of Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, Okla., has returned home after spending several days at research in the Duke University library.

Professor Folk is preparing a book concerning the journalistic years of Governor William W. Holden, covering the period of his ownership and editorial direction of the Raleigh Standard. The Duke library has a considerable collection of newspapers and manuscripts of interest to research scholars. The Oklahoma professor expects to have his manuscript completed this fall.

While an Atlanta drug store clerk slept in the building as night watchman, burglars entered, stole his trousers, watch and $34 in cash.

Thousands Of Growers Expected Here For Mass Meet Tomorrow Morning

Seeks Long Ouster

Preparations for the signing of acreage reduction contracts by tobacco farmers moved swiftly today with corps of workers aiding the local farm department in preparation of lists of landowners and distribution of contracts to other counties. Sixteen thousand contracts received here early this morning were being distributed to farm agents of counties and advice from Washington was to the effect that another 15,000 contracts were in the mails enroute to this city to arrive here in time for use in this section tomorrow.

The first contracts received here were brought to Richmond last night by J. C. Lanier, former resident of this city, but now connected with the Tobacco Section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Local warehousemen met him in Richmond and brought the contracts to this city. Mr. Lanier was enroute to South Boston, Virginia, where he was to deliver an address today in behalf of the sign-up campaign in that state and tomorrow he is scheduled to deliver two more addresses on the subject at points in South Carolina.

Shortly after the opening of the farm agent's office here this morning agents from other counties began to arrive to receive their quota of the contracts while warehousemen from this and other markets of the section, acting as volunteer workers, began the distribution of the contracts to some of the more distant counties in the belt.

Tomorrow morning's sign-up mass meeting here is expected to draw the largest number of farmers to this city that have ever gathered here and more than a hundred volunteer workers including warehousemen and their employes will be on hand to aid in the actual sign-up. The entire membership of the Pitt County Bar has tendered its services to aid in the sign-up and will be on hand to act in an advisory capacity in behalf of such farmers who do not understand the terms and agreements of the contracts.

The mass meeting here tomorrow morning will be followed at two o'clock in the afternoon by meetings in every township in the county for the signing of such growers as find it impossible to get to the mass meeting here. A list of every landowner in the county is being prepared today and as each signs the contract his name will be checked. Immediately following Saturday's meetings there will be a whirlwind campaign throughout the county to get the signatures of those growers whose names have not been checked from the list at the meetings and of the belief that Pitt county's sign-up will be completed in short order.

Danes At Balance Of Population As Birth Equals Death

Copenhagen Sept. 8.—(AP)—Race theorists are painting a gloomy picture here because the Danish population has struck a balance with the number of births identical with the number of deaths.

The birth rate has been declining year by year, as has the death rate owing to steadily improved sanitary conditions in the larger cities.

Race theorists envision shortly a decline in the population and a future Denmark people with many old persons and few youngsters.

Economists, however, take a more optimistic view, claiming that when prosperity returns there will be larger families.

Few Danish families now have more than one or two children. Fifty years ago, 254 out of each 1,000 wives had children while today the ratio is only 87 for each 1,000.

In some sections, schools of the first form have been closed because of the scarcity of primary pupils.

Navy Gets $856, 985 For Storm Repairs

Washington D. C., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes today announced an allotment of $256,985 to the Navy for storm repairs, including $37,585 for the Norfolk yard and operating base.

A copy of the government tobacco acreage contract appears in this issue of the paper. We urge you to read it over carefully now in order to save time when the opportunity is given you to sign.

SIGN-UP OR SHUT-UP

Farmers throughout the sugar-cured tobacco belts tomorrow will be given the opportunity to sign acreage reduction contracts that carry with them the assurance of better prices for the farmers and greater prosperity for the tobacco growing sections as a whole.

The United States Government recognizes the fact that tobacco prices have been too low and it has expressed a willingness and desire to help the tobacco farmers in this time of distress.

At a mass meeting in the court house here at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and at subsequent mass meetings in each township in the county tomorrow afternoon our farmers will be given the opportunity to sign the contracts.

The HIDDEN DOOR By FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: In his effort to track down the murderous Mask, underworld ruler, the writer, Colin Hewitt has himself accepted as a member of one of the Mask's gangs under the name Clarkie Lunn. With Buck O'Mara, lieutenant of the mysterious Mask, and Bennie Malone, Colin has gone aboard the Alouette to put its owner, Captain Dollaire, on the spot and steal the liquor cargo to avenge Dollaire's wrecking the Mask's counterfeiting plant.

Fifteen Cents More

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER "We have to have the money by tomorrow," said Willy Nilly, as they arranged their vegetable stand, early in the morning, with more fresh vegetables.

"I guess you want to make a sale," said the young man who had drawn up in his automobile, "and I'd like to take back some fresh eggs to the city. But it's not very important if I do or not; so you'll have to sell them cheap."

quicker that that would be the amount needed to make up the three dollars they wanted to release Rip from the pound. "That's no bargain," said the young man, "I'll give you 15 cents, or I won't bother with buying anything at all."

Tomorrow—"Jelly Bear's Help"

"with the papers asking where the corpse was found and who did it? Think it out for yourself, Geordie. I don't like it any more than you do, but he'll have to go with the rest."

"That's tough," muttered Geordie Napp; "but—well, I guess you're right, Buck."

"It isn't a guess," said Buck O'Mara. "Good luck, you fellows. Let's scam, Smudge. Come on, Clarkie."

Blood was trickling hotly down Colin's hand as he boarded the motor cruiser. He saw Buck O'Mara and Smudge Kilrea enter the wheelhouse, then he made his way down into the cabin, where the rest of Buck O'Mara's murder squad were gathered.

He took off his coat and rolled up a blood soaked sleeve. It was a flesh wound, no more than that—nothing serious about it except that it had been bleeding profusely. Some of the mob put a rough bandage on for him. They asked no questions. This time he felt physically a little giddy, a little nauseated. He went up on deck again.

The boat was speeding for the shore. The wind whipped his face. The faintness passed. There was but little pain in his arm—scarcely enough to make him conscious of it. It was not his arm, it was his brain that tortured him. And fight against it as he would, the night with its scenes and sounds of unbelievable horror kept passing again and again in review before him.

Only one thing stood out in compensation. He must inevitably have grown in Buck O'Mara's estimation—and Buck O'Mara was the one man now on whom he was depending to bring him into contact with the Mask. How, or where, he did not know; but at any cost, or thru any means he could devise, he must cultivate Buck O'Mara.

A wharf showed up out of the darkness; a house, still more shadowy, loomed up beyond. And then a light appeared suddenly in one of the windows of the house—and went out again.

Buck O'Mara came out of the wheelhouse as the boat drew up to the wharf.

"You go back in the same car you came in with me, Clarkie," he said. "I'll drop you somewhere in the city. Stick around."

"Thanks," said Clarkie gratefully. The mob departed, and Buck dismissed the mat the shore end of the wharf.

"Wait here for me, Clarkie," he instructed. "I've got to go up to the house for a minute."

In the blackness Colin could see little—only the vague outlines of the wharf and house. He heard several cars depart. He heard the motor cruiser start away again—to assist the other two boats presumably in emptying the Alouette's hold. Perhaps ten minutes passed, then Buck O'Mara came toward him through the shadows. Buck was grumbling and cursing audibly to himself.

"Anthony wrong, Buck?" Colin inquired solicitously.

"Yes," growled Buck O'Mara. "You heard Benny and me talking about Spinelli, didn't you? Well, he's in a jam all right. He's got to have some kale tonight for his fixer. It's Helmie's racket, but nobody's been able to connect with him, so I guess I'll have to take it on—and it looks like you weren't through with your job yet tonight, either."

"That's all right by me," declared Colin cheerfully.

GREENVILLE MARKET

REPORT

Sign-up Mass Meeting Saturday

Through the efforts of J. C. Lanier, Government official at Washington, D. C., formerly of Greenville, N. C., contracts for reduction in tobacco acreage will be today distributed to County Agents in Eastern Carolina from Greenville.

Mass meeting is called here for 10:00 o'clock A. M. Saturday. Don't lag about signing and see that your neighbor is informed about the meeting.

County Agent now has name of every land owner in the county. As you sign, your name will be checked off. Let's make it a 100 per cent sign up in Pitt County.

We beg you, in this emergency, not to let your name appear on the list with those who do not sign the Government Contract for acreage reduction.

We feel certain that the 4 acre man will be taken care of. Let us not argue and delay. This is the only plan suggested for our salvation. The Government has said, "You deliver and we will deliver."

Let us urge the growers living out of Pitt County, many of whom are receiving the Daily Reflector, to get busy at once in their respective counties.

Orange Marmalade
22 large oranges
Sugar

Select firm oranges with smooth skins. Wash well. Using sharp knife, cut into very thin slices, discard seeds. Measure and add an equal amount of water. For instance, measure a cup of the pulp and then measure a cup of water and pour into an enameled kettle. Let stand over night and in the morning bring to boiling. Let stand 4 hours. Let equal amounts of sugar and stimer until marmalade is thick and jelly-like. Pour into sterilized glasses, when cold, seal.

Tomato Sandwiches, Serving 3
10 slices white bread
4 tablespoons chopped green peppers
4 tablespoons soft butter
3 tablespoons celery seed
2 tablespoons salad dressing
2 tablespoons chopped onions
2 large slices tomatoes

Arrange bread slices in pairs and spread with butter which has been mixed with dressing and seasonings. On half the slices add lettuce and tomato slices, cover with remaining bread and press together firmly.

Creamed Chicken and Green Peppers, Serving 4
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1/2 cup diced, cooked chicken
3 tablespoons chopped green peppers, cooked
1 tablespoon chopped pimientos
1/4 teaspoon salt
Melt butter, add flour and when blended add milk and cook until creamy sauce forms. Add rest of ingredients, cook 2 minutes, serve poured around hot rice.

Talks to parents

Imagination

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
Of course, it is possible to shorten the period of infancy for our children by some years, and there seems to be in the world a tendency to try the experiment.

The prime requisite for such an end is to make the toys practical and to substitute science for fairy tales, facts for fancy.

If a child has only machinery to play with, undoubtedly he will play with machinery, and he may, in the course of his play learn many valuable facts which will fit him early for practical life.

If he has never heard of Santa Claus, of Cinderella and Snow-White, he may not miss them and will accept in their stead statistics of forest supplies and the life of the ant.

The world may in the end have gained valuable workers, but will it not have lost an immeasurable amount of far greater importance?

For centuries the world has rested all its hopes in its dreamers and has valued imagination as worth more than dry facts. Imagination, like every other faculty, however, develops from practice and can be stunted or even entirely denied life by disease.

Sympathy, idealism, even the further ranges of science into space, all depend upon the power to project ourselves into another world, to imagine what we have never seen.

The child who has read of giants and stretched his mind to visualize them may be more able to conceive of the vastness of the universe than he who has kept his attention fixed on the mechanical and productive aspects of the world about him. And is not the idea of dwarfs and fairies a possible preparation for the discussion of atoms?

And over and above all this is the enrichment of life which comes only to the child who has glimpsed the unseen.

Black-Draught For Biliousness

"I have used Black-Draught for years and find it a great relief for headache and constipation and biliousness," writes Mrs. L. B. Crippen, of Pulaski, Ill. "When I get bilious, I feel tired and sluggish; have a bad taste in my mouth, and bloot at my stomach. For these ailments, I take a dose of Black-Draught every other night until relieved."

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—A philosophical fellow is Ed Wynn, who confines the job of being "the perfect fool" to his career as a comedian.

On the stage 31 years, a star for 17, Wynn is out here to make his second talking picture. In Hollywood as in New York, however, he is continuing his hermit-like existence.

Dozing His Cap And Bells In common with other comedians, Wynn has had the experience of finding himself called upon, on any and all occasions, to be amusing.

For 17 years he has made it a rule to appear in public, except professionally, as seldom as possible.

Mild-mannered and genial, Wynn preaches laughter as a panacea. He thinks laughter could do away with war, and advocates a secretary of humor in the national government...

Saving Humor "In the crash four years ago," he recalls, "I lost a fortune that represented my life savings. I cried around for three or four days, and then—suddenly I got a funny twist on it. What I lost was money I'd never seen, a couple of theaters I seldom saw. What good were they to me after all? You can't go around carrying an armload of dollars; so what's the difference? I snapped out of it."

In 1919 Wynn was a leader in the actors' strike that resulted in formation of Actors' Equity association. After that, because managers would have nothing more to do with him, he says, he "formed his own company. He must have made money."
