Tobacco Reduction Drive Virtually Finished In Pitt

CONTRACTS IN MAILS TO END LOCAL EFFORT

Report From Farm Office at Noon Showed 47,919 Acres Signed; Expect County Total to Reach 50,000 Acres; Few Contracts in Mail Expected to Reach City Tonight

With exception of a few contracts reported in the mails, the tobacco reduction campaign which has been under way in this county the last week, was virtually completed, it was announced today from the office of E. F. Arnold, head of the Pitt County Farm Department and director of the drive.

At noon the department report indicated that 47,919.83 acres had been signed up in the county involving the signatures of 2,888 individual planters.

Mr. Arnold said that with outstanding contracts the county's total was expected to reach the 50,000 mark. This included the 100 farms owned by the two land banks of the state which had not been added to the total of today's report.

Mr. Arnold along with others who have taken a conspicuous part in the drive to reduce acreage as a means of obtaining improved prices this year and in 1934-35, declared he was highly gratified with the progress of the drive of the county and that the field forces were to be highly commended for the fine work they have done.

Pitt county, the largest tobacco producing area in the world is well as the center of the world's largest bright leaf market—Greenville—took the lead in the reduction sign-up campaign when it got under way last Saturday, and today held the distinction of being the first to go over the top and reach the hundred per cent mark.

The county has been on the verge of the hundred per cent score the last two days, but the goal was not reached until today when the farm director declared he was confident the contracts in the mail would reach that figure.

Thousands of tobacco growers and those affected by the warehouse holiday declared by gubernatorial proclamation over ten days ago were watching Washington today for word that sufficient progress has been made in acreage curtailment to justify the resumption of auction sales. As soon as the government gives the word, Governor Ehringhaus has said he will permit the markets of the belt to reopen.

NEGRO KILLER PUT TO DEATH

Jonnie Lee Pays For The Death of Jacob Hill in Harnett County

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Jonnie Lee, 22-year-old Harnett County negro, convicted of having murdered another negro, Jacob Hill, for a fee of $75, was electrocuted at the State Prison today.

Lee was the first person from Harnett County to be put to death in the electric chair in the 23 years it has been used as the State's legal method of execution.

The small, light-colored negro said in a distinct voice this morning, "Good morning," as he entered the little octagonal death chamber at the prison. He made no death statement.

Lee was strapped in the chair at 10:35 and was given two shocks of electricity. The first lasted one minute and 58 seconds, and the second one minute and 15 seconds.

Governor Ehringhaus declined to intervene in Lee's behalf on the ground it "would be placing a premium on murder by proxy."

Asa Herring, former demonstration agent of Harnett County, was killed by having hired Lee to kill Hill so that Herring could collect insurance of which he had been beneficiary.

Under State law Herring was found guilty of second degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Lee was convicted of first degree murder as the agent who carried out the crime, and the law set the sentence mandatorily as death in the electric chair.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Bank Robber Nabbed. Rocky Mount, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Woodrow Wilson, 18, was arrested in Hertford county today and Sheriff Johnson of Nash, said he confessed complicity in the Battleboro bank robbery in July.

The boy was arrested by deputies and Sheriff W. Parker of Hertford county, and later was lodged in the Nash county jail.

Johnson quoted Wilson as saying he met Lee McIntosh and Lester Tripp, escaped convicts now in the hands of federal authorities on a kidnap charge, at a dance hall near Murfreesboro a week before the robbery on July 2, and they persuaded him to help in the robbery.

The prisoner was quoted as saying Tripp guarded the car and he and McIntosh entered the bank. His share of the loot was $900.00.

PITT MEDICOS HOLD MEETING

Reading of Paper and Case Report Mark Monthly Gathering Of Doctors

The monthly meeting of the Pitt County Medical Society was held at the Woman's club last night, and in addition to satisfying a certain gastronomic vacancy, the doctors from all sections of the county heard Dr. Watson, baby specialist, read an interesting paper, and Dr. J. L. Winstead, member of the staff of Pitt Community Hospital, present a case report.

Drs. Paul Fitzgerald and J. L. Winstead were hosts to the society and a delightful meal, which caused the medicos to smack their lips with joy, was served by ladies of the club.

The program was one of the shortest in months, but it did the doctors good to rub elbows with one another and to exchange facts regarding the idiosyncrasies of humanity, especially some of the recalcitrant patients which they come in contact with from time to time.

The society has been a powerful factor in improving general health conditions of the county over a period of many years, and not so long ago was congratulated by a State official upon the success of its activity.

Dr. J. N. Nobles presided over the session.

VISIT SOUTH THRILLS LADY

Mrs. Shattuck of Illinois Comments on Impressions of Vacation in Greenville

Her vacation in the South during the summer months brought many thrills to Mrs. Shattuck, of Glenn Ellyn, Illinois, who spent sometime in Greenville visiting her sister, Mrs. W. S. Harden.

Upon her return home Mrs. Shattuck, society editor of the Glen Ellyn News, wrote delightfully of her impressions during her stay in the South, and referred especially to Greenville, commenting on the tobacco market and the high ranking of the city's educational system.

Mrs. Shattuck has visited Mrs. Harden for the last several summers, and declared she derived considerable pleasure from her contacts here.

Her story follows: "North Carolina, that interesting and progressive Southern State, reaching from Tennessee to the Atlantic Ocean, is a commonwealth of diversified interests, climate and contour.

"In the western area towering mountains and beautiful climate both summer and winter. Its scenic beauty up in the mountains of the western area has won for the region the name 'Little Switzerland.' The mountains include the Blue Ridge, Swannona, Rocky Mountains and Big Smokies of the Appalachian range.

"A sad thing has happened to the mountains in one particular. Covered thickly with thousands of lovely chestnut trees, a blight has struck them all and they are dying by the hundreds and stand out (Continued on Page Three)

MAN TO SPEAK TO COTTON MEN

Secretary of State Comps to Address Farmers Here Wednesday

Pitt County cotton growers will meet in the court house here Wednesday afternoon, September 20, at 2:30 for a discussion of the cotton situation with M. G. Mann, secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association, as the principal speaker.

The price outlook, Agricultural Adjustment Act and its effect on the cotton farmer, the condition of the crop, and the situation in Washington—these and other timely topics will be discussed by Mr. Mann.

"The increase in the price of things that the farmer has to buy means that present day prices of cotton will not leave him as much money as he had last year on six cent cotton," said Mr. Mann in a letter which has been mailed to all seed and crop loan borrowers in Sampson county.

"Cotton," he said, "is selling far too cheap and there is every prospect for an advance in the market, and not a single bale should be sold at these prices."

At the meeting here, one of a series of 38 being held in the main cotton growing counties of the state, Mr. Mann will explain how the cotton cooperatives can assist all growers in the holding of their cotton, thereby enabling them to benefit by any advance in price.

In his letter Mr. Mann recalled that those who took advice of cooperative leaders and collateralized their loans last year on the 91-2 basis made from $15 to $30 per bale by so doing.

The meeting here is open to the public in general and all are invited to attend.

The weather bureau here predicted the center of the storm carrying winds of hurricane force will hit the coast in a radius of forty miles from Hatteras sometime tonight. Residents of beaches were warned to move inland for safety.

Hurricane warnings were flown for the first time in years and storm warnings were displayed from Wilmington to Charleston, S. C. The hurricane warnings were flown as far north as Hatteras.

COUNTY COURT SITS TUESDAY

Regular Weekly Session to be Resumed After a One Week Holiday

After being idle a week because of a scheduled term of Superior court, county court will resume its regular weekly sitting next Tuesday morning, it was announced today from the office of Clerk of Superior Court J. F. Harrington, who also acts as clerk of the lower court.

A one week term of civil court was set for last week and county court arranged not to meet. However, Judge J. Paul Frizzelle called the Superior court session off in view of the tobacco reduction drive launched last Saturday and which was drawing to a close today.

Although county court docket had not increased much since the last sitting, it was expected a number of cases would be sent up from other parts of the county as well as the City of Greenville during the latter part of this week and the first of next.

CIVIL COURT HERE SEPT. 25

Judge W. C. Harris to Preside Over Term Here. Frizzelle Goes To Raleigh

A one week term of civil court will be held in the city beginning Monday, September 25. Judge W. C. Harris of Raleigh will preside and a calendar of fifty or sixty cases will be given consideration.

The coming of Judge Harris to Greenville resulted from an exchange of benches with Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill who will go to Raleigh to hear the noted Drake bank case.

The civil term of court which was scheduled here this week was postponed last week by Judge Frizzelle in order to help speed the tobacco reduction campaign. The order which had been arranged for this week's term was adopted for the bar for the term on the 25th.

Unlike criminal court, civil terms bring only a minor number of people to the city, but they always have plenty of work to do and some of the most important cases of the year are disposed of minus the tremendous crowds which usually flock to criminal actions.

CODE FOR COAL ABOUT READY

Final Draft Expected To Reach President Roosevelt Sometime Tonight

Washington, D. C., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Hugh Johnson, recovery administrator, said today that "unquestionably the bituminous coal code would be ready for President Roosevelt's signature by tonight.

Johnson said the committee of leading operators resumed work this morning and that about three points were left to be cleared up.

The administrator declined to say what those points were. A committee of Appalachian commercial operators also resumed its negotiations with the United Mine Workers of America on labor contracts.

"They have less to clear up even than the contract committee," Johnson said.

If you are among those few persons who have not signed the tobacco acreage contracts, we again urge you to sign now.

We have often heard "As Goes Maine," so Goes the Nation. Judging from the action of those states that have voted so far on the prohibition repeal issue, the saying will hold good in this instance at least.

Despite rumors that Congressman Walter Lambeth would be a candidate for Governor in 1936, the congressman while on a brief visit here this morning declared that he was spending his vacation running from politics rather than getting into it deeper.

WORTH WAITING FOR
With the job of signing the tobacco reduction contracts in this section practically completed, everyone is anxiously awaiting announcement of the re-opening date of the markets.

This tobacco holiday has certainly held business at the summertime low level in this section of the state but the realization of better prices for the growers when the markets do re-open should prove well worth what inconvenience that has been caused by the delay.

In the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are the records of 200,000 vessels, ranging from motor boats to transatlantic liners.

The HIDDEN DOOR
By FRANK L. PACKARD

Chapter 47
HOUSE OF DEATH
They stepped into the dark shadows of the lane and silently made their way along it with Sergeant Mulvey in the lead. Somewhere ahead, Colin knew, was the rear of the Wine Press and the alleyway that flanked Michael Barney's tobacco store, but it was so dark that he could scarcely see Sergeant Mulvey's form in front of him—so dark in fact, that when finally Sergeant Mulvey halted suddenly Colin bumped into him.

Little alcoves, where tables for inviting tete-a-tetes, might have been placed, still punctuated the walls at irregular intervals while the walls themselves were adorned with huge plaster casts, depicting scenes even more fantastic conception, and which floated on what had once doubtless been, in color, though calamitously faded now, a sunlit azure sea. It was about midway along the wall. "Some dump!" ejaculated Sergeant Mulvey. "Before my time on the force. Those were the days, eh?—when the highlights were down here, and before they turned the good old Bowery into a morgue! Well, come on! Time's nearly up." His flashlight circled again. "How about getting down behind that old packing case up there against the wall on this side near the bar? It's big enough all right. We'll be facing that trick door then, and I'll be able to see plenty without being spotted."

It was inky black. Colin could not see an inch in front of him. And there was no sound—though he strained his ears to catch one from the other side of the wall. No movement now from Sergeant Mulvey. Just stillness and blackness everywhere around him. And now time itself seemed to have stopped. Had a minute, two, or three, or ten passed since Mulvey had switched off the torch? He grew uneasy. This room here, this house, as Sergeant Mulvey had said, did not look very promising—there was nothing to inspire confidence in the belief that the link between the Mask and the big stock of his mobs was here.

The silence grew heavy and oppressive. It began to palpitate audibly and finally to thunder at his eardrums. In spite of himself, uneasiness and misgivings were beginning to obtain the upper hand. There had been more than time enough by now and— There came a faint sound from across the room—indecipherable. And then suddenly a cluster of ceiling lamps went on and the room was ablaze with light. His eyes blinked in the glare. The barge bearing Antony and Cleopatra seemed to have bobbed up and down as though it had ridden on a swell. His vision cleared. A figure was running across the room in the direction of the bar—Buck O'Mara—and Buck O'Mara was tearing off his coat as he ran.

American vessels totally lost, broken up, condemned, and otherwise rendered unfit for further service during the last fiscal year numbered 901 of 875,971 tons.

GREENVILLE MARKET REPORT

Reopening In Few Days

A committee of two warehousemen from Greenville had a conference with Governor Ehringhaus in Raleigh Wednesday relative to reopening the tobacco markets. He is doing everything in his power, is keenly alive to the situation in every tobacco growing community and is in constant touch with the government authorities in Washington. They will notify Governor Ehringhaus when they are ready and he will instantly give the word to us.

The question of reopening and the prices we will receive after reopening is now on the doorstep of the Federal Government at Washington. We advise against rushing your tobacco to market. With reduction of acreage assured for 1934-1935, and with the Federal Government stepping in for the first time since tobacco growing began in this country we confidently expect prices to strengthen as the season progresses.

The flue cured tobacco acreage up to now has been uncontrolled and uncontrolled. Every thinking person will welcome the Federal Government's assistance in regulating the acreage in all the flue cured tobacco growing states in accord with domestic and export requirements. Growers in foreign countries are constantly increasing their own production. Exports of flue cured tobacco from the United States to foreign countries have been steadily declining. Consequently, the government knows our only hope for improved prices is control of production.

Tune in on Greenville's Radio Station WEED every day (except Sunday) at 9:45 A. M., 12:45 P. M. and 5:45 P. M., for latest tobacco market reports. Will find it on your dial around 142 or 1420.

Rip Continues

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"When I landed on the ground I thought I was killed, it had been such a high jump. But I was only stunned for a moment," Rip continued.

"I started to go home, but every little while I had to rest, and I was afraid too that I might be caught again."

"So I went only a short distance at a time. But when I heard Christopher's voice cawing overhead I let him see me and he told me he would rush back so you could come along and pick me up in your automobile. Now I'll have to be very, very careful for my life is in constant danger."

"Constant danger?" repeated Willy Nilly. "Why you're perfectly safe. I have the license and I shall attach the little tag to your collar at once. We raised all the money in time. Jelly Bear came along with the last of it. How did you get it, Jelly Bear?"

Jelly Bear then told how he had given up the lost monkey who had promised him his money in return for a promise from Jelly Bear that he would not be hurt.

"I wouldn't have hurt him anyway," said Jelly Bear, "but that promise got the money. As a matter of fact, I have one dollar and fifteen cents more which I kept in the other paw, not knowing whether the dog catcher would demand extra money."

"Oh, we can buy back Willy Nilly's little silver set," Christopher Columbus Crow said, and off he went to the junk man with a dollar, soon returning with the knife and fork and spoon—and two dollars.

SUITS FOR DIVORCE SHOW BIG INCREASE

Winston-Salem, Sept. 15.—Reflecting a large increase in the number of divorce suits filed here since the enactment of the 1933 divorce law setting up two years of separation as a legal ground for divorce, the calendar for the September 25 term of Forsyth Superior Court contains the largest list of divorce suits to be docketed for any single term in this county, it is believed.

Forty-four separation actions appear on the calendar for disposal during the term, over which Judge John H. Clement of Wilkerson will preside.

VISITING SOUTH THRILLS LADY

"Leaving Asheville by train to go toward the eastern part of the State, one travels for hours up and down over these mountains with an engine laboring its hardest to make the grade. Looking down from the railroad right-of-way, one sees little table lands on which geysers or considerable proportions of water are surrounded by protected parks. These are mountain spring streams rising again in lowly froth and spray. In several yards in this region these geysers rise from little stone enclosures and form perpetual fountains and pools to grace the flower gardens. The French Broad River murmurs along the side of the train for many miles, flat and shallow in places, then deep and turbulent.

"The tobacco country begins to show up now, and as we speed along we are soon in the heart of the bright leaf tobacco crops, ready for curing and market.

"Greenville, North Carolina, a town of about 15,000, has advanced to the position of the largest tobacco market in the world. The sales are made in August in tobacco warehouses of immense proportions. One of these warehouses alone has a floor space of more than 76,000 square feet. Over 2,000,000 pounds of tobacco are handled daily in the season at Greenville. When Anna Case, opera singer, and Evangelist Billy Sunday came to Greenville, a tobacco warehouse was used for an auditorium and thousands were seated in it. The floor space of these warehouses cover twelve acres.

"When we were there the tobacco was being cured, in tobacco barns, where it hangs in close long rows on sticks with a fire going under it for several days to dry it. Then it is packed in bales and taken into the warehouses to await the opening of the market. Then pandemonium breaks loose, such as one sees on the stock market on its wildest days. Bidders from all over the world come to buy and the town seethes with activity.

"But not all the activity is centered around tobacco. "Education plays an important part in the life of this busy town. The East Carolina Teachers' College is located here, with one thousand students studying and preparing for positions in schools and other institutions of learning. The college is owned by the State, has twenty-one beautiful buildings, a faculty of forty-five instructors, a progressive college with A.B. degrees the teachers' rewards on graduation. A splendid elementary and high school for negroes, with other grade schools for colored children, will surprise the scoffing northerner who has a wrong impression of how the negro fares in the South. There are fine negro churches to, in this interesting Southern town. These, of course, are supplemental to the many fine schools and beautiful high schools for white students in Greenville, as there are separate schools for the two races in the South.

"We were thrilled on our visit by attendance at two church services where the sermon at each was preached by a young man not more than twenty-two years old, brilliant and earnest, fine and upstanding, each having chosen the ministry as his life work and giving all that devotion could offer to the cause of religion. At the evening service on the court house lawn and oblivious to honking motor horns out in the street, listened in rapt attention while 'Lead, Kindly Light' was sung and used as the theme of the sermon. That was an altogether encouraging and uplifting experience.

"How you people up here in our own Illinois would relish and laugh at the peculiar, soft Southern drawl of the North Carolinians; how you would enjoy the experience of hearing the vernacular of the real Southern negro, with here and there a real old one, remembering Civil War days and telling strange fantastic stories that are partly exaggerated imaginations such as we get in the old spirituals of the negro race.

"And then—did you ever see a

"I take Theford's Black-Draught when I get bilious," writes Mr. L. O. Miller, of Henryetta, Okla., "and it keeps me from having headache which usually comes from biliousness. If I don't take it, I feel dull and sluggish. I just have to take Black-Draught once in a while. I haven't found anything more satisfactory. It is sure worth the price."

crepe myrtle tree in full bloom? Did you ever see and smell fragrance of mimosa? Have you ever seen those tall, white-pillared houses back in their shady yards with magnolia trees and crepe jasmine (gardenia) bushes thickly budding the big green lawns? No. Well, then, you have something else to live for and you'll find it with a most delightful and gratifying hospitality 'way down South' in Dixie.

"But then, we turn our faces homeward, and the flat Illinois prairies with their miles and miles of corn, the hot, white landscape with ribbons of four-line highways going everywhere, the smoke and stacks of the steel mills, the high flat buildings, the elevated road, the skyscrapers of the city and the bustle, noise and brightness of A Century of Progress on our right as we worm our way in through the

STATE PACK LOOKS GOOD IN WORKOUT

College Station, Raleigh, Sept. 15.—State College's Walpack looked good this morning as it ran through a 90-minute practice drill of calisthenics, charging, blocking, punting and signal calling.

Coch Clippert Smith had as his first string line the forward wall he will probably use against Catawba College here Saturday afternoon, September 23. Kenneth Stephens and Raymond Redding were the ends; Venice Farrar and Clifton Daugherty, the tackles; Barnes Worth and Buck Buchanan, guards, and Steve Samol, center.

No sets of backs were used, one a light combination composed of Captain Mope "Four-yard" Cumiskey, fullback; Glenn Goodwin, left half; Roscoe Roy, right half, and Lawrence McCulley, quarter. The heavy set had Ray Rex, fullback; Bob McQuage, triple threat, left half; Bo Bohannon, right half, and Don Wilson, hard-working senior, at quarter.

The players ran through their line, the State coaches are spending much time with the forward candidates. The coaches are frank to admit that if a strong line can be developed the 1933 Wolfpack will be as good or better than the successful 1932 team.

State's opening game with Catawba College is Saturday afternoon, September 23, and work during the next four days will be doubled that the players might be in perfect shape for the tilt.

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened firm 13 to 31 higher on active general buying advance in foreign exchange, talk of inflation and seadier Liverpool cables.

The early demand sent prices up to 9.77 for December and 10.21 for May or 12 to 21 higher. This advance met increased hedging as well as realizing and there were reactions of a few points from the last but marked as 12 to 16 higher at the end of the first half hour.

Increased offerings attracted by early advance were absorbed on reactions of 10 to 15 from the best and the market held steady later in the morning. At midday December was around 9.70 and May 10.14 or 13 to 16 higher.

Futures closed steady 5 to 14 higher. Spots quiet but steady, mid-ling 9.60.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Indices again beset financial markets today as news and notions bobbed about on contracts currents.

Stocks after emulating early spurs of yesterday dropped back and cancelled inaugural gains of one to two points. The mining shares once more showed resistance as did a few of the farm shares and various specialties.

The Utilities continued heavy, most of the leaders in the group losing one to two points.

Homestate mining shares advanced from 11 to another new year's high when gains of fractions to point or more were shown by Cerro Depasco, Home, U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Alaska Juno and International Nichol. American Can was run up more than two points and Case advanced about the same. The softer utilities included American Telephone, Public Service and Columbia Gas.

The raise did little and General Motors, U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, and Dupont were easier.

Sales totaled 2,463,400.

ginia coast tonight and the weather bureau warned residents occupying slightly built structures to move out immediately and not wait for the storm to strike.

Danger from wind rather than from water was emphasized by the weather bureau. That there would be high water with wind coming from the water as during the last storm but that it would not be as high owing to tidal conditions, was the statement made.

Winds reaching great force with raging seas on the water front and flooding the area were feared.

John Murphy, weather meteorologist, in charge of the Norfolk weather bureau said today winds would continue all day but what hour the storm would burst could not be told.

"The Time to test Fertilizers is NOW—not in the Spring"

W. S. Burroughs
PRESIDENT,
F. S. ROYSTER GUANO COMPANY

IF YOU want to make a real test of tobacco fertilizers, make it after the tobacco is on the warehouse floor. Look at the quality of tobacco raised with Royster Fertilizer. Compare the price it brings with the price paid for tobacco made with any other fertilizer. Then decide which fertilizer gives the best results.

I am confident you'll choose Royster—and there are plenty of reasons why. Royster experts are constantly studying the fertilizer needs of tobacco, from the time the plant beds are sown until the tobacco is put in the barn. These men spend their entire time locating, testing and refining materials, to make sure that Royster Fertilizers contain only the best that can be obtained. And their continuous field tests make sure that our fertilizers give the finest practical results.

Because Royster makes only one quality of tobacco fertilizer—the best it is possible to make—you buy it with the assurance that it is the best fertilizer you can get, regardless of the price you pay.

But don't take our word for all this. Make your own test. Compare the quality of the tobacco on the warehouse floor. It speaks for itself.
