FORTY-FOUR ARE KILLED IN FIGHTING IN HAVANA

City On Trigger Edge As Bullets Continue To Sing

MANY INJURED IN TERRIFIC STREET FIGHT

City Watches Secret Military Society to See What it is Going To do in Factional Fighting; Eighty-Nine Reported Injured in Yesterday's Fighting Around the National Hotel

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Warfare in which at least forty-four were killed and eighty wounded left Havana on trigger-edge today.

A day long battle between several hundred officers barricaded in the National Hotel and the enlisted men's army yesterday did not end with the surrender of the officers.

Throughout the night bullets whizzed in the streets of Havana which has seen recent governments rise and fall with much bloodshed, discovered the truce had not yet been called.

What the A. F. C. Revolutionary Society would do stood out as today's major enigma. The militant organization failed to take the officers' side in the storming of the hotel yesterday, preferring to maintain an expectant attitude.

The event was believed not to have ended the A. B. C. opposition to President Ramon Grau San Martin, and many professed to see a continuation of guerrilla warfare such as that waged against former President Machado who fled before the revolution.

Many Cubans blamed the United States bitterly for not acting to prevent the bloodshed.

Fighting which began at dawn Monday and continued almost unintermittently throughout the day with a virtual barrage and counter-firing from the hotel paused in the late afternoon for an armistice, but was resumed in twenty minutes, after which the officers surrendered peacefully and were taken to prison and hospitals.

A check of hospitals and the morgue showed that forty-four, including twenty-nine soldiers and nine officers and six civilians, among them an American, were killed in the encounter. Eighty were known to have been wounded, among them forty-three soldiers, eighteen officers, and twenty-eight passersby.

TWO SAFES ROBBED IN ROCKY MOUNT PLANT

Rocky Mount, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Safes in two business establishments here were robbed of a total of about $600 over the week-end.

The safe in the office of the Sinclair company was broken open some time early today and a sum, estimated by Bernard Taylor, at $540 was taken. The loss was covered by insurance.

Early Sunday the safe in the Coca Cola plant was looted of $50. Officers saw four men leave the plant early Sunday, jump into a car and speed away.

BEER RETAILERS MUST BUY FEDERAL LICENSES

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 3.—A number of beer retailers in North Carolina are under the impression that they do not have to pay Federal license taxes, C. H. Robertson, Collector of Internal Revenue for North Carolina, said yesterday.

Mr. Robertson said that several license-less retailers recently informed him that they did not know the Federal levy was in force. Federal men are now checking for failure to pay the taxes.

Retailers must pay a yearly Federal license of $20, while the license for wholesalers is $50. A penalty of $10 is imposed upon retailers for failure to secure license, while that for wholesalers is $17.

The State license tax for retailers is $5.00.

NEGRO YOUTH UNDER BOND IN SLAYING

O. S. Cannon Kills Colored Youth in Griffon While Pranking With Gun

O. S. Cannon, 13-year-old negro of Griffon, was being held under $500 bond today on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Milton Dorden, 11, also colored, while pranking with a shotgun last Saturday night.

Following an investigation by a coroner's jury under direction of A. A. Ellwanger, Cannon was ordered held for the next term of Superior Court.

Cannon was said to have been in the habit of loading one barrel of the gun and pulling the trigger of the next barrel to scare his friends. When he loaded the gun while playing with Gardner, he evidently forgot which side the shell was placed in and pulled the wrong trigger.

SEE END OF SCHOOL FIGHT

Tyrell County to Drop Mandamus Proceedings Against State Commission

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Leroy Martin, secretary of the State School Commission, said today he understood the Tyrell County school authorities who sought a mandamus to force the commission to provide adequate transportation for school children there would be dropped.

Judge Walter Small, of Superior Court had signed a ruling ordering the School Commissions to show cause before him at Washington, N. C., today why such a mandamus should not be ordered.

"The case will not go before Judge Small today, and I know the mandamus will not be pushed by the Tyrell school authorities," Martin said. Martin said facts had come to light since the filing of the complaint which seemed to pretty well fix the situation down there.

Fifty acres has been set aside in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, for the growing of as many different kinds of trees as possible.

STRIBLING IS CLAIMED BY DEATH TODAY

Georgia Fighter Succumbs to Injuries Received in Wreck Sunday

Macon, Ga., Oct. 3.—(AP)—William Lawrence "Young" Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, died at 6 a. m. today from injuries received Sunday in a motor accident.

The end came an hour after the fighter lapsed into unconsciousness following a dogged fight which his doctors said was possible only by a person of tremendous vitality.

At his bedside were his parents, "Pa" and "Ma" Stribling; his manager and trainer; his wife, Claire, herself a patient at the hospital following the birth of a third child born two weeks ago, and a younger brother, Colbert, a fighter in his own rank.

Physicians said death was due to conditions arising from internal injuries when Stribling's left foot was severed and his pelvis crushed in a collision between his motorcycle and an automobile.

For a while last night physicians held out hope for his recovery, but in the early morning they saw his tremendous vitality begin to ebb. Then they knew it was a matter of hours before he would go.

Members of the fighter's family gathered at the hospital at 3 a. m. after hope for his recovery had been abandoned. He held on gamely, rousing occasionally to ask for water, but at 5 o'clock his super-human strength began to dwindle. The doctors were amazed at his ability to cling to life with a temperature of 107 and his pulse at 175.

Stribling had an up and down career which saw him fight all middle and heavyweight fighters of the last ten years, but did not have the power to win the championship.

STORM FUND STILL GROWS

Contributions to North Carolina Coast Nearing the $200 Mark Today

The Red Cross fund which is being raised here for relief of storm sufferers along the North Carolina coast today drew near the $200 mark with a number of contributions reported overnight, and W. J. Bundy Red Cross chairman, was hopeful the sum would be swelled considerably by the close of the campaign Wednesday at midnight.

Total donations this morning were given at $174 and more was expected today and tomorrow.

The chairman was looking to a benefit show to be given at State theatre tonight at 11:30 to help swell the relief total. The show was announced the later part of last week by T. Y. Walker, manager.

The show will feature the picture "Trouble Shooters," and in addition an interesting program of local talent will be put on under direction of Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer.

Entire proceeds from the show will be given to the storm fund and it was hoped a large crowd would be on hand to help the cause while at the same time enjoying a delightful program.

Mr. Bundy urged those who have not contributed to get busy at once and do so. Contributions should be sent direct to the Red Cross chairman or the office of the Daily Reflector.

Among those donating and not previously published are: J. Key Brown, $1.00; B. T. Clark, $1.00; and the following from Bethel: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keel, $1.00; Willard Andrews, 25c; Mrs. Lizzie Moore, 25c; Joe Bowers, 25c; Will House, 25c; Bob Keel 25c; Lewis Ayres 25c; Leon Robertson, 25c; Thurston House, 25c; Roy Craft, 25c; Cary Hammond, 5c; Tom Andrews, 25c; Ronald Reddick, 10c; Larry Powell, 15c; Raymond Moore, 25c; Harvey Manning, $1.00; W. WINS TODAY TRY TO SLAY CHANCELLOR OF AUSTRIA

Englebert Dollfus Wounded as he Enters Parliament Building Today

Vienna, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Chancellor Englebert Dollfus was slightly wounded at the entrance to the Parliament building.

Rushed to a hospital a block distant, the Chancellor was found to have been wounded in the left breast also. The shot ripped through his coat and vest and entered his body.

A young soldier, whose political allegiance police were unable to learn, was arrested in connection with the attempted assassination, and police began a round-up of all political suspects.

Vice-Chancellor Emil Fey was one of those to visit the hospital. He said the Chancellor would soon be able to move to his home.

Police said the young ex-soldier intercepted the Chancellor at the main entrance to the Parliament building and pretended to hand him a manuscript. When detectives halted him, the man drew back and fired.

ROTES HEAR OF SCOUTING

Plan to Expand Boy Scout Activities Here Explained to Clubmen Last Night

Plans for establishing a hut and increasing the scope of Boy Scout activities in this community were laid before the Rotary Club here last night by Joe Taft, one of the leaders of the Scout movement in this community.

Taft said the building of a camp had been under consideration here for some time, but that it had never materialized because of lack of financial support. He stressed the need of expanding the Scout movement to take care of the growing needs of the youth and urged the Rotarians to give careful attention to efforts now under way to make the camp an actuality.

K. T. Futrell, director of the Department of Public Welfare, who has been in close touch with the Scout movement here, told of the benefits derived from the organization, and declared juvenile delinquency would be greatly relieved if the principles of scouting were carried to more young people of the section.

Two Scout, Wooten and Whichard, showed the Rotarians what they had learned in the way of the expert handling of a gun. With the aid of an air-rifle they did a piece of fancy shooting that indicated they had taken advantage of some excellent training in this field of activity.

Dr. Herbert ReBarker presided over the session and the program was in charge of Martin Swartz. Singing was led by Judson Blount with Mrs. R. A. Tyson at the piano.

Havana Struggles For Order. Havana, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Swept by rainstorms and big winds, Havana struggled bravely today to restore a semblance of order after yesterday's bloodshed and rioting.

LEGION WORKS ON PROGRAM FOR DISABLED

Four Point Program One Step Nearer Completion at Chicago Convention

Chicago, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A four-point rehabilitation program for world war veterans differing in one respect to President Roosevelt's outlined policy apparently was one step nearer completion today by the annual convention of the American Legion.

Despite the President's statement yesterday that veterans suffering from ailments since the war may receive federal hospitalization only if their local and state communities are unable to take care of them, the Legion committee approved a plan for hospitalization.

The committee report made last night said that hospitalization would be afforded all veterans not dishonorably discharged and who are not able to pay for their own treatment.

LIQUOR HAUL MADE AT AYDEN

Guy Moore Arrested Following Raid on His Home Over the Week-End

Guy Moore, of Ayden, was being held under $200 bond today on a charge of handling whiskey following a raid of his home over the week-end which officers said netted four half gallon jars of whiskey, 15 pints and a similar number of quarts.

Moore was brought to Greenville and confined in jail until yesterday when he gave bond pending trial sometime today.

Officers said the whiskey was secreted in the man's home and that he was prepared to carry on good business had he not been interrupted by the law.

LEAF PRICES STRONGER ON LOCAL MARKET

Highest Average Price of the Season Established Here Yesterday

Tobacco prices moved upward on the Greenville market yesterday and the highest average price of the season was hung up during the day's sales, it was revealed by official figures made public this morning.

A total of 1,540,826 pounds were handled for $210,126.12, at an average of 13.63 per hundred pounds.

Sales were described as some lighter today, and indications were that growers were beginning to heed the appeal of the governor that they market their crop slowly to await development of the price situation. Sales were expected to be completed during the late afternoon.

The average yesterday was two cents higher than Friday, and three cents higher than the lowest day since re-opening of the market Monday of last week.

Signs of satisfaction again appeared with improvement in the price situation, and growers were hopeful the trend would continue to push nearer the 17 cents parity as offered by domestic buyers at the conference with government representatives in Washington two weeks ago.

Better grades displayed renewed strength yesterday, and common types still held their own. Much good tobacco was expected to be on hand each day from now on, as a considerable portion of the damaged grades were cleared from the floors during the first week of marketing after the close of the enforced sales holiday by the governor because of low prices.

COUNTY HOME IS BEAUTIFIED

Commissioners Shown Improvements Made at Home; Enjoy Barbecue

County Commissioners meeting in monthly session at the courthouse here yesterday were treated to a delightful barbecue dinner at the County Home at noon and then were afforded an opportunity of looking over the number of improvements made at the institution during the last several months.

Under the R. F. C. beautification program the institution and surrounding grounds have been converted into a thing of beauty.

Among the principal improvements is the erection of new quarters for the negroes and the installation of heating facilities. The sewerage system has been modernized to such extent that it has won high praise from members of the medical profession who declared the increased sanitation should be conducive to improved health of the inmates.

The ground has been leveled in the front of the main building, and a circular driveway completed. The driveway is to be planted in trees, and other areas are to be lined with shrubs to carry to completion the beautification project.

Other smaller buildings have been erected or improved to keep pace with the general scheme of beautifying the premises. Although the commissioners had been informed of the work being done at the institution this was the first time they had had the opportunity to inspect it, and they were high in their praise of what had been done.

Construction work was directed by Fred Powell of Greenville. Inmates of the institution were treated to liberal helpings of barbecue after the commissioners and a few guests had dined.

The morning session of the board was consumed in consideration of routine matter.

Resuming open hearings after months of private inquiry into Wall Street financing, the Senate committee called on Clarence Dillon, senior partner, to discuss the firm's business as a basis for regulatory action.

Investigators estimated it would take two weeks to lay before the committee the mass of evidence they have collected in investigations during the period between 1927 and 1933.

Outrageous Fortune
by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: The question whether "Jimmy Riddell" is really Jimmy Riddell or Jim Randall has not been settled to Caroline Leigh's satisfaction. Caroline is Jim's cousin. Nesta Riddell says the man is her husband. She has told him he has both stolen the Van Berg emerald and shot their owner; he has lost his memory and does not know Caroline has tracked Nesta and "Jimmy" to Lexington, and is talking with Nesta on the doorstep.

Chapter 14
CAROLINE'S PLEA
 Caroline felt as if there were strong invisible bars between them. She lifted her chin and took a step forward. All the bolts and bars in the world weren't going to keep her from Jim.
 "May I come in?"
 Nesta stood where she was, the door half closed.
 "I'm Mrs. Riddell—but I don't know who you are."
 "I'm Caroline Leigh. I've got a message from the Elston cottage hospital. May I come in?"
 Nesta Riddell had no intention of talking about the Elston cottage hospital; Min's front door. She stepped back, let Caroline pass her and, shutting the door, showed the way into the parlor. Caroline turned to face her, flushed with success. There, beside the hearth, was the contact, as bright as a new penny. She held out the bill.
 "I think you dropped this bill. The nurse asked me to give it to you."
 Nesta glanced at it, frowned, and crushed it in her hand.
 "Thank you—you needn't have troubled; it didn't matter."
 "Oh, but I was coming to see you anyhow."
 "You were coming to see me? What for?"
 Caroline stayed silent. Her feeling of success drained away. She felt as if she were on the edge of saying something very important. Once she had said it, she would not be able to take it back. Yet she must say it. Only what it was that she must say she did not really know.
 Then she said it.
 "Where's Jim?"
 Nesta's hand closed hard upon the crumpled bill. Jim wasn't here, thank goodness. It was no more than ten minutes since he had barged out of the house. Jim! She'd teach other women to come after her husband. She repeated the name in a most offensive voice.
 "Jim?"
 Caroline colored brightly.
 "Mrs. Riddell—please—I must see him—because I think he is my cousin, Jim Randall. The nurse said—"
 "What does she know about it? He's my husband."
 "Are you sure?"
 Nesta laughed angrily.
 "What do you suppose?"
 "The nurse said—"
 "And I say, what does she know about it?"
 "Please let me speak. The nurse said there was a piece of letter in his pocket with the signature Caroline. I'm Caroline, and I sent him a letter signed just like that, so you see—"

Nesta's manner changed. She smoothed away her frown and said in her best company manner:
 "It's a pity you've had so much trouble for nothing. The letter was from a Miss Caroline Bussell, who is a cousin of mine."
 Deflection flowed in upon Caroline like a fog. It all came out so pat—Miss Caroline Bussell—a cousin of mine. . . . She couldn't have invented a name like Caroline Bussell all in one flashing instant.
 She lifted her head as if to get above the fog and asked:
 "Have you got the letter here?"
 "No, I haven't. I don't keep old bits of paper."
 "If I could have seen it—" said Caroline very earnestly. She was pressing her hands together, palm to palm, and anger to anger. Her eyes under her little brown tweed cap, the bright clear brown of peaty hair, gazed pleadingly at Nesta. Her hair was the same bright color.
 Nesta did not answer in words. She smiled a little.
 "If you would lend me a pencil—I could write my name—you'd know if it was the same."
 "Do you think I don't know my own husband?" said Nesta.
 What did one say to that—what could one say? Of course she must know her own husband. Caroline's hope was a pricked bubble. She had made a fool of herself to a woman with a rasping voice and eyes like bits of tin.

She began to go slowly towards the door. She was wearing a loose brown tweed coat. She hugged it round her as if she were cold.
 Nesta stood aside to let her pass, but just on the threshold Caroline turned, her color changing brightly.
 "Have you got a photograph of your husband?"
 "No, I haven't."
 "Not even a snapshot?"
 "I've said no, haven't I?"
 Caroline rested her hand upon the jamb of the door. Something in her would not take Nesta's no; she couldn't tell why. Eager words came hurrying to her lips.
 "Mrs. Riddell—I don't feel as if I could go away without seeing him. Won't you try and understand how I feel about it? It's such a strong feeling—I can't shake it off. If I go away like this, I shall keep on thinking about him, and about my letter—the one I wrote and signed Caroline. And I shall keep on thinking, 'Suppose it was Jim.' But if I were to see him, I should know."
 The hard color rose in Nesta's cheeks.
 "Are you calling me a liar?" she said. "Because if you are, I've had enough. Jim Riddell's my husband, and I've got my marriage lines to prove it. I don't know who you are, and I don't care. Calling yourself a chap's cousin's as good a way of getting off as any other—and you may be one of Jim's girls, or you may be touched in the head."
 "But this is my brother's house and I can do with your room instead of your company—coming here after another woman's husband and giving me the lie about him to my face! Let me tell you that you'll not see him, not if you were to stay here all day. He's got something better to do than sit about at home waiting for his lady friends to drop in. He's got our keep to earn and a job to go to. And I'll thank you to be off out of this."
 Caroline's hand dropped from the door. She looked taller. She was pale.
 She said, "Good morning, Mrs. Riddell," and walked out of the house and down the gravel path to the car.

Nesta Riddell had time to wonder what had happened to Jim during the hours that followed. When at last an uncertain step sounded on the gravel-path, she ran to the door, anxiously flaring into anger.
 "Where have you been?" she began, and then stopped as he lurched past her into the parlor.
 She thought at first that he was drunk, but it was fatigue that sent him reeling to the nearest chair.
 "Where have you been?" she repeated. "You look all in. What do you want to go walking about till you're fit to drop? Six hours you've been gone, and you couldn't have had a bite or a drop, because you hadn't a copper on you. Hold on and I'll get you something—Min's got a kettle on."
 She brought him cold meat and vegetables and a cup of strong tea, and followed up the meat with bread and cheese. When he had eaten and she had taken the things away, she came back and looked at him sharply.
 "Been a bit of a fool, haven't you? What do you want to go flinging off like that? You've been ill, you know—and you get up out of bed and go walking about for the best part of seven hours on an empty stomach! Batty, I call it!"
 He was lying back in one of the red and blue chairs, his face sharpened, his eyes fixed and heavy. He had the look of an exhaustion which was something more than physical. His body had moved mechanically while thoughts which he could not out-distance pursued and threatened him.
 They drove him, and he was driven without hope of escape. He did not know where he had been; only as he lifted the latch and felt his feet upon the new gravel Tom Williams had laid down, fatigue came upon him like an insupportable weight. The food had done him good. It was like the fog. He frowned at the recollection of the fog.
 "You'd better get to bed," said Nesta briskly.
 And presently he was in bed and sinking, sinking down, into the depths of sleep.

Nesta, tomorrow, takes a fling at the occult.

The citizen's committee appointed sometime ago to go into the matter of a swimming pool for this city will again present their petition to the Board of Aldermen at the regular meeting Thursday night urging that necessary steps be taken to procure government funds for the erection of the pool. According to available information a bond election would be necessary to cover the 70 per cent of the money to be borrowed from the government the other 30 per cent being a gift from the government. It seems to us that the city board would do well to call this election and let the people decide whether or not we need and want the pool.
 Personally we believe the pool would prove a great asset to our city and we are for it. If the majority of our citizens feel likewise we should have the pool or if they feel that we do not need it, then we should not have it. In either case the only way to get the real sentiment would be through the election and by calling such an election the city fathers would be but doing their duty.

PRICES BETTER
 With the cleaning up of last week's congestion on the tobacco market and the appearance of cleaner sales this week prices have taken a decided trend upward, yesterday's sales being nearly a cent higher than any previous day and more than three cents above last week's lowest day. Such a trend in the markets is of course more satisfactory to the growers and more encouraging to all of us. It must be remembered, however, that already a sixth, or maybe a fifth, of the crop has been sold and the increase in prices must continue if the growers are to receive parity for this year's crop.
 In the meantime no word has come out of Washington as to action on Governor Ehringhaus' telegram to President Roosevelt in which he called attention to the government's definite promise of parity prices to the growers and urged immediate action to carry out this promise.

DURHAM DIVIDED ON SUNDAY MOVIES
 Durham, N. C., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Operation of movie houses here Sunday under sponsorship of the Durham Charity League plunged the city into controversy today.
 While ministers of the city were meeting in their regular monthly session and adopting a resolution "deploring this innovation," Councilman A. M. Harris announced he would introduce an ordinance in the city council tonight forbidding operation of theatres on Sunday.
 The resolution adopted by the ministers expressed the hope the city council would take action against all commercialized amusements in Durham on Sunday.
 The Charity League by sponsoring the Sunday movies received a percentage of the receipts. One performance Sunday afternoon and two last night were well attended.

BOX CAR THIEF HELD BY CHARLOTTE POLICE
 Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 3.—Raleigh police were notified yesterday that Paul Puritan, alias Eugene Puritan, negro, wanted here for a recent box car robbery in the Norfolk Southern Railroad yards, was being held in Charlotte. He will be returned to Raleigh to face trial on charges of breaking and entering, larceny and receiving stolen goods.

FATALLY STABBED BY HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW

Windsor, N. C., Oct. 3.—Tom J. Parker, son of Wiley Parker, was fatally stabbed by his brother-in-law, J. Carlyle Harrington, during an altercation at the Parker home near Lewiston Friday night at 8 o'clock. Parker, one of whose lungs were punctured, died about four hours later.
 According to reports, the trouble between the two men arose over the fact that Parker's hogs recently had broken out of their pen and gotten into Harrington's crops. Going over to see Parker Friday night, Harrington again asked him to keep his hogs penned up. Word led to blows, and while Parker was getting the better of the fight it is said Harrington drew out his knife and stabbed him.
 A coroner's inquest into the death was held at Lewiston Saturday morning and Harrington was ordered held for trial on a charge of manslaughter under bond of $1000.

NAZI LEADER WOULD TAX ALL CHILDLESS WOMEN

Hanover—(AP)—Women who cannot or will not bear children will be punished by taxes, if the predictions of the Nazi labor front district leader for Hanover, Carius, come true.
 "A law will be passed one of these days," he said, "by which the German woman who is without child—whether through her fault or not is immaterial—will have to pay taxes for women who present the state with children."
 "The German labor front will publish an honor roll for those who bear children."

GREENVILLE MARKET REPORT
PRICES HIGHER

Prices higher Monday on practically all grades and higher today (Tuesday) than yesterday. Many growers averaging above 20 cents. The rush and block experienced last week on account of 3 weeks holiday is over and all sales will sell out completely today for the first time.

Everybody has observed that an overwhelming per cent of the offerings have been common tips, which of course brings down the general average. When the market begins to sell a larger per cent of the better grades, we believe that more than parity average will be realized.

Patrons of market during past week have been very patient and considerate during the greatest rush and confusion we have ever had and we ask that any lack of service on the part of the overworked warehouse force this week be overlooked as we have never had anything like it before

The government expects to announce shortly completion of agreement with buying companies relative to prices. We feel confident those who have sold since market opened will receive a refund on the prices already received though everyone knows that government refunds come slow. Let us suggest that everyone preserve warehouse bills of sales.

You will not find the tobacco buyers on any market cooperating in every way more splendidly than the buying forces on the Greenville Tobacco Market. This fact alone is more responsible for Greenville being the world's largest Tobacco market than any one factor. When such conditions as this exist on a tobacco market, better prices for the growers is always the result.

The Board of Trade does not permit under penalty of $50.00 fine, any warehouseman to reserve floor space for anyone. The principle of first come first served under the By-Law must be carried out.

Tune in on Greenville's Radio Station WEED every day (except Sunday) at 9:45 A. M., 12:45 P. M. and 5:45 P. M., for latest tobacco market reports. Will find it on your dial around 142 or 1420.

NEHEMIAH GARRIS OBSERVES BIRTHDAY WITH DRY MEETING

Nehemiah Garriss combined birthday and prohibition meeting at his home near Greenville, at which he had 200 guests. At 11 o'clock his guests were assembled in his home and informed that his friend, F. M. Wooten, would at his request, present reasons why they should accept whatever conclusion the election of November 7th indicated as to repeal of the 18th amendment, but make plans to begin anew campaigning for dry officers to regulate the state after the repeal is effected. Mr. Wooten contended that he have "a dry ship, but a wet crew," that lack of attention to public business by voters had caused pro-drinkists to do effective work against the 18th amendment in the 31 states which have voted on the subject. He was followed by Rev. L. B. Scarborough in a strong appeal to church forces to wake and assert themselves in behalf of the church at large by exalting morals and protecting their forces against influences of the wet forces.

Mr. Garriss served in the open a splendid dinner of barbecue, ham, chicken, to every one of his guests. Many birthday gifts were presented, making his 72nd birthday a joy to him. He asserted that this is the 25th year of his abolition from slavery to strong drink. Mr. Garriss is a highly esteemed and prosperous Pitt county farmer. He and his father having owned and cultivated the farm for more than 100 years. Mr. Garriss has one sister, Mrs. Bettie Wilson, 81 years of age, who was his guest.

"Unreality" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 1.

The golden text was from Psalms 33:10: "The Lord bringeth the counsel of the heathen to nought; he maketh the devices of the people of none effect."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible "Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass." (Ps. 37:7).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Evil is a negation, because it is the absence of truth. It is nothing, because it is the absence of something. It is unreal, because it presupposes the absence of God, the omnipotent and omnipresent. Every mortal must learn that there is neither power nor reality in evil."

Carry, Oct. 3—The Devil begins making his approaches to individuals even in their infancy," said Rev. S. L. Lamm of Roanoke, Va., who preached in Cary Baptist church at both morning and evening services Sunday.

Using the subject "The Two Voices," Mr. Lamm said that tantrums of children were caused by the Devil's influence.

U. S.-Alaska Road Stretches 2,000 Miles

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Proponents of the Pacific-Yukon highway, the proposed 2,000 mile road linking Alaska and the United States, are pressing for government approval of the project that would make more accessible one of America's last frontiers.

Anthony J. Dimond, delegate to Congress from Alaska, has asked the public works administration for an allotment of $2,000,000 to finance the Alaskan section of the highway. Dimond also is seeking President Roosevelt's approval of the project, which has been recommended as feasible by the United States commissioners appointed to co-operate with Canadian representatives in studying the plan.

Advocates of the highway say it would open to motorists a new scenic wonderland, to farm settlers rich acres in areas hitherto inaccessible and to miners an opportunity to develop one of the richest mineral store-houses on the North American continent.

The American members of the commission report that the advantages to be derived from a highway extending from Seattle to Fairbanks "are obviously more than commensurate with the cost."

They also say it would foster all commerce with Alaska by furnishing a guiding landmark and by providing service aviators along the most practicable flying route to the interior and to Asia.

Thousands of motorists in quest of the new and picturesque in touring territory would travel the Alaskan road every year, it is believed.

Surveys place the highway to the east of the coast mountain range, where climatic conditions are such that snowfall is comparatively light, and if traffic justified the highway could be kept open the year round.

The estimated cost of constructing the Canadian section of the highway is $11,990,000, while that of the Alaskan section is figured at only $1,970,000.

FAULTS SHOW UP IN E. C. T. C. PIGSKIN WORK

This week's first scrimmage has brought out the outstanding faults of E. C. T. C. football team. The main one was lack of timing, which as everyone knows will be ironed out by more scrimmage.

Puckett and Rogerson will assuredly for each and everyone in the first game, if they don't smart out a couple of touchdowns apiece in the first game and Johnson and Speight hold the line like a cork wall also Hodges and Nobles promise to team up for a few goals apiece, with "Bee" Cox helping with the dirty work.

But with every man on the field trying hard for a chance to start the first game off, it is truly hard to pick a winner, and believe me, they are winners.

The thing most needed now is public backing. Nothing can hold up without any support and an athletic team especially.

Most people have the idea that every college team player goes to college free. But this isn't so. Some players do get their tuition for playing on a team, but that doesn't include board or room, everyone likes to feel that their trouble is appreciated. Greenville people have always taken pride in the fact that we are a progressive town and yet, we let one of the most lucrative and best selling points we have, die away, for lack of support.

We are not asking for cash donations or equipment, the state gives us that, we only ask your presence at our games. Of course, the college will continue whether you attend or not, but not as fast and without the hearty spirit of "all for Greenville," it is not as if only a few people were going to hear of our attitude toward athletics, but it is a fact that students from four or more different states are here at E. C. T. C., and will carry back to their homes the fact, whether or not Greenville citizens are loyal to their best interests.

As a man is known by the company he keeps so is a college known by the team it beats. And a team cannot win without the cooperation of the townspeople.

E. C. T. C. has a splendid schedule this year and we guarantee you to be satisfied with our team.

ASK $50,000 LOAN FOR WATERWORKS SYSTEM

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 3—An application for a $50,000 loan from the Federal public works administration for the construction of a water-works system by the town of Carolina Beach has been approved by the North Carolina Public Works Board and now is being considered by the Federal body in Washington.

Work will be started on the project just as soon as possible after the loan has been granted and a site already has been selected, it was stated. Plans and specifications for the new system already have been drawn.

While the loan will be for $50,000, it was pointed out that a projected bond issue would be for only $35,000, as the government, in making loans for public works improvements, required that only 70 per cent be repaid. The gift of $15,000 by the government, if made, would be for the purpose of stimulating employment.

The Kentucky game and fish commission has obtained 2,218 quail at $1.50 each for distribution on hunting preserves.

The Argument

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER "I'd better be the teacher," growled Jelly Bear. "I can give lessons in how to know poisonous berries so they won't be eaten by mistake. I can show how to stand up and sniff the passing breezes and tell if any enemies are around."

"You wouldn't be much of a teacher," said Mr. Quacko Duck, "considering you sleep all winter." "But just think how my pupils would adore me," grinned Jelly Bear.

"We wouldn't want to spend much time teaching this fall," Honey Bear growled softly. "We want to eat and gather fat and strength for our winter sleep."

"That's true," agreed Jelly Bear, "but we could have time out for meals."

"I doubt if you would be the best choice for the teacher," said Willy Nilly, "as you would spend so little time teaching."

"What about you, Willy Nilly?" barked Rip, the Dog. "I have too much to do," said Willy Nilly. "My chores are neglected as it is."

"I'll be the teacher, cock-a-doodle-do," crowed Top Notch.

"I'll be the teacher, quack, quack," said Mr. Quacko Duck.

"I'll be the teacher, caw, caw," said Christopher Columbus Crow. "School will be held in my shed," shouted Top Notch.

"It will be under the pine tree," said Christopher.

"It will be down at the pond," said Mr. Quacko.

"None of the pupils will know where to go," said Willy Nilly. "We'd better have the school on my porch. I have an idea."

Secrets Of Ancient Mexico Sought

Mexico, D. F.—(AP)—With the end of the rainy season in October excavators will recommence the work of tracing the outlines of the Cholula pyramid, 50 miles south of this capital.

They believe it is one of the biggest man-made structures in the western hemisphere.

Because of the hostility of the Indians, who threatened to kill the excavators if they disturb the modern church atop the pyramid, the government has decided only to dig tunnels through the mass of dirt and vegetation now surrounding the structure, rather than attempt to uncover it.

The pyramid is one of the few Indian structures left intact by the Spaniards, who found it too massive to destroy and therefore built the cathedral on top as a symbol of the domination of Christianity over paganism.

After constructing nearly 1500 feet of tunnels, the excavators have approached the center of the pyramid, and recently discovered faded paintings on the walls. From these they hope to be able to determine the age of the pyramid, which is known to antedate the Aztecs.

The work already completed has enabled the scientists to construct a model of a small part of the pyramid showing massive terraces and steps leading to a temple, now concealed by the church, which historians say was the capital of the Toltec Indians.

Statue Of Christ Atop Colorado Peak

Denver, Colo.—(AP)—An heroic statue of Christ, believed the largest in the world, is being sculptured in Denver to stand a towering mountain and overlook a rugged region stretching for miles.

The giant figure, to cost $40,000, is being made for Mr. and Mrs. John Dower, wealthy Denver philanthropists, who plan to mount it on the summit of one of the loftiest peaks in the Rockies, 60 miles southwest of Denver. The mountain overlooks the Dower camp for boys and girls in the South Platte canyon.

The statue itself, thirty feet high, will stand on a 22-foot high base. The outstretched right arm will be fourteen feet long. Mounted around a structural steel pillar and filled with concrete, the huge figure's total weight will be about 75 tons.

It will be four feet taller than the famous Christ of the Andes, which stands on a South American mountainside.

The enormous size of the statue made it necessary to fashion clay models in several sections. The figure itself will be molded from 200 giant blocks of terra cotta, formed out of five kinds of Colorado clay.

The blocks will be two feet thick and of two colors, tan and marble, given a ceramic treatment intended to preserve them for centuries.

Casting the blocks will take months. Taking the statue to the mountain will require several hundred men, and many large trucks will need to make numerous trips to get the two hundred blocks up the steep mountain road.

When mounted, the figure will be 1,500 feet above the floor of the canyon. Floodlights will be used to illuminate the statue, and it will be visible for miles.

Tentative plans of Mr. and Mrs. Dower are to unveil the statue next spring. A ceremony is being planned to attract religious pilgrims from all parts of the world for the occasion.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady two to four lower under southern selling which offset steeper Liverpool cables.

The volume was moderate at the start.

The steady showing of Liverpool failed to stimulate an active tone at the end of the first half hour and December was around 9.86 and May 10.26 or about 1 to two higher.

The market remained quiet with light buying for trade accounts or covering enough to hold prices steady. December sold around 9.86 and May 10.28 with the general list unchanged to two higher.

My Beauty Hint

By AGNES ANDERSON (Screen Actress)

Those who are unusual in type should play up individual colorings and never try to tone them down. Of course one must not be theatrical about it.

With my own dark skin I use powder just a shade darker. Having dark hair also, I like really red lipstick, changing to chignon tones for evening. For daytime I omit face rouge, but use it in the evening.

Soviet Balloons To Try For Record

Moscow.—(AP)—Two stratospheric balloons have been built in the Soviet Union and are waiting favorable conditions to attempt to reach the upper levels of the atmosphere.

Onecraft was constructed under supervision of Osoaviakhim, the civilian aviation society. The other was built secretly in military laboratories and factories here.

Ready For Long Flight

The red army has equipped its balloon on the basis of keeping its three pilots alive for forty hours, if necessary, at high altitudes. It is claimed that this craft is the largest ever to essay such a flight although its dimensions are but slightly more than those of the other balloon.

The hermetically sealed gondola of the army balloon, like its sister adventurer is a flat-bottomed spheroid, is painted sky blue to minimize the sun's heat. Across it in scarlet are the Russian letters for "U. S. S. R." and a large five-pointed star.

The envelope is a flashing silver, the result of an application on aluminum compound dust intended to resist heat and cold. It is made of a special heat and cold resisting fabric.

Shock Absorbers On Gondola

Built of sheets of aluminum welded together, the gondola is eight feet in diameter and is slung on a wicker basket arrangement fitted with shock absorbers to lessen the impact of landing.

Ballast in controlled from within the cabin, which is fitted with radio, electric lights and numerous automatically registering scientific instruments.

For the crew of three there are comfortable padded chairs and a liquid oxygen supply sufficient for forty hours. Actual flights, however, are planned for not more than eight hours, including ascent and descent.

In addition to its nine portholes, the cabin has two doors which can be opened automatically for ten second intervals if desirable.

The envelope, which has a capacity of 32,500 cubic yards of hydrogen gas and is 118 feet in diameter when inflated, is fitted with an automatic release valve to prevent excess expansion as the balloon climbs. Nearly 54,000 square feet of rubberized percale were used in making it.

I'M SICK AND TIRED OF YOUR ETERNAL QUESTIONS!

Jangled nerves can make life miserable for those about you

These are trying times. No wonder nerves give way under the strain. And a nervous man is frequently not responsible for the things he says. But responsible or not, his bitter, sharp words can cruelly wound those around him—and cause scars which will never entirely heal, no matter how sorry he may be afterward.

Watch your nerves. Get your full amount of sleep every night. Eat regularly and sensibly. Find time for recreation. And smoke Camels—for Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand of cigarettes!
