TOBACCO AGREEMENT REPORTED ABOUT READY

Government To Sign Document Probably Today

WILL BOOST THE PRICE OF BRIGHT LEAF

Advices From Washington Say That Primary Statement Of Agricultural Board Here Yesterday Was Correct; Greensboro News Differs With Opinion of Board Here; Situation Causes Much Uncertainty

According to information received by this paper over long distance telephone from Washington this morning, the agreement with the domestic tobacco companies whereby an average price of 17 cents or better would be paid by the purchasers of this year's flue-cured tobacco crop would be signed late today or tomorrow in order that the agreement might be in full effect by Monday's sales.

Under the agreement the domestic companies would pay sufficient price on all tobacco purchased from now on to bring their average payments to 17 cents or above for the season.

Just where the growers who have already sold their crop stand today appeared uncertain in view of conflicting opinions as to whether or not there would be a refund or bounty payment on previous sales. Of course growers who have sold only a portion of their crop would receive a benefit of the higher prices on the remainder of their crop under the agreement, which would probably bring their season's average up to the parity price.

Yesterday a statement issued by the Pitt County Department of Agriculture warned growers against expecting a refund on tobacco already sold and urged them to withhold their tobacco from the market until the agreement is put into effect. This statement from the department was considered by many to be contrary to the understanding of the government's promise of a parity price and the statement has led to somewhat of an uncertain situation. The advice from Washington today, however, was to the effect that primarily the statement of the Pitt Agriculture Board was correct. The Greensboro News, together with publishing the statement, sent out from this city yesterday carried the following comment:

"The Daily News on a number of occasions recently has varied dispatches from Washington, sent by both its special bureau in that city and The Associated Press, in which it was stated that the parity price for tobacco—roughly, about 17 cents a pound—would apply to all sales made by farmers since the tobacco holiday in the flue-cured belt ended some time ago, and that in the event the pact at Washington was delayed, these prices would be made retroactive, and benefits would be made available to farmers later to bring average receipts from their tobacco up to 17 cents a pound.

"Immediately upon receipt of the foregoing dispatch from Greenville last night, the Daily News got in touch with its Washington correspondent and informed him of the action of the Pitt County Board of Agriculture. His reply was, in part, as follows:

BYRD'S SHIP IN DISTRESS

The Bear Reported Having Rough Time Along North Carolina Coast Today

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Byrd's polar expedition flagship, the Bear of Oakland, reported today it was in distress off the treacherous rying Pan Shoals on the North Carolina coast, and later was taken into tow by the Stone Moving Company's tugboat, Blanche.

The meager reports received by the coast guard did not disclose the nature of the vessel's difficulties, but the coast guard here believed the ship had developed engine trouble. No serious weather had been reported off the coast for several days. The Modoc, coast guard cutter, left here at 8:30 to go to the Bear's aid, and intended to bring her back here about 11 a. m.

The coast guard cutter had not arrived when the Oak Island lifesaving station reported sighting the Bear in tow of the Blanche off Southport at 10:45 o'clock.

LEGION ASKS FOR STRONGER U. S. DEFENSE

World War Veterans Also Oppose Cancellation of The War Debts

Chicago, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Strengthening of the country's defense was recommended for adoption by the American Legion today.

The recommendation was made yesterday in a committee report and suggested not only that the army be brought up to its full strength of 14,000 officers and 150,000 men but that the navy be built up to the limit provided for by the London naval agreement.

Definite action this afternoon on other questions of national affairs and the election of a national commander were all that remained for the nation's defenders in the world war to accomplish before adjourning to meet next year in Miami.

As the time for election of a successor to Commander Louis Johnson drew near, all seven of the candidates seeking his place declared they were still in the race and were hopeful of success.

In outlining its national defense policy the Legion committee made the following suggestions:

The immediate building of ships and increasing the naval personnel to 91,400 men with a proportionate number of officers.

That no economy be allowed to interfere with the department of commerce in its commercial activities.

That equipment of the national guards and reserve officers organization be modernized.

That 50,000 young men be placed in citizen's military training each year.

At the same time the Legion's committee on foreign relations declared against entrance of the United States into the League of Nations or the World Court with or without reservations. The cancellation of war debts was also opposed by the committeemen.

Representatives of the London government sought to present the British desire to end payment on the war loans which under the 1932 funding agreement still have sixty-one years to run.

They were Sir Frederick Leith-Ross and T. K. Bewley. Under-Secretary Dean Ascheton of the treasury and Frederick Lively, assistant economic advisor to the State Department, receive the visitors in accordance with President Roosevelt's promise last spring that all asking reductions would be heard.

But Ascheton and Lively opened the communications with a full knowledge of the information expression of the three-year-old congress which had the final say on any debt changes and flatly opposed consideration of a reduction.

PRICES STILL MOVE UPWARD ON LEAF MART

Greenville Establishes Highest Price Average of the State This Week

With continued improvement in the price situation this week, the Greenville tobacco market has established the highest average price in the State on the basis of published reports, it was revealed today.

With lighter sales than last week, the market has been able to clear its floors during the afternoon and get in readiness for the expeditious handling of the next day's sales and virtually all congestion has been relieved.

The official report of sales issued this morning showed the market sold yesterday 1,088,578 pounds of tobacco for $147,030.15, at an average of $13.50 per hundred pounds. The average the day before was $13.21.

Prices for medium and better grades have shown a pronounced upward tendency this week and inferior grades have been able to show the improvement noted the first of the season.

With the government moving nearer an agreement with buyers, indications were that prices would continue to reflect strength from now on until the end of the season.

A 17 cents parity has been promised growers until next March, and on the basis of this price have been moving gradually nearer the goal since the ending of the enforced holiday called by the governor sometimes ago because of low prices.

Farmers expressed appreciation at the price improvement noted here this week, and more general satisfaction was in evidence on the floors of the various warehouses than any other time during the season.

The sprinkling forces had just entered that district when it was discovered that the supply had been exhausted and work was halted until an exploratory examination could be made of all available barrels to see if the streets being worked on could be completed.

Chief Clark said the solution of gas and tar was obtained from the local gas plant and that it would be six months or more before another supply became available.

PITT RAISES $200 FOR N.C. STORM AREA

Campaign For Contributions Came to Close Last Night With Goal Reached

The campaign to raise funds for storm sufferers along the North Carolina Coast came to a close last night and the final report this morning showed the goal of $200 set by W. J. Bundy, chairman of the local chapter of the Red Cross, had been reached.

Mr. Bundy expressed appreciation of the splendid way the people of the community rallied to the call for aid of the hundreds of people who lost heavily in the hurricane which struck the coastal regions with such force over two weeks ago.

The fund in Pitt county compared favorably with those raised in other counties of the state and probably exceeded many sections on the basis of reports received by the local office.

Received overnight and these received overnight and these brought the total to the $200 mark.

Mr. Bundy said he would mail a check to the state storm committee today and that it would be forwarded immediately to the stricken district where rehabilitation work has been underway since first reports of the awful toll of the storm were given to the outside world.

SPRINKLING OF STREETS ENDS

Solution Gives Out as Workmen Start Placing Tar on Unpaved Streets

The sprinkling of unpaved city streets with a tar solution temporarily came to an end yesterday when the supply of oil gave out. It was announced today by Chief of Police George Clark, in charge of street activities.

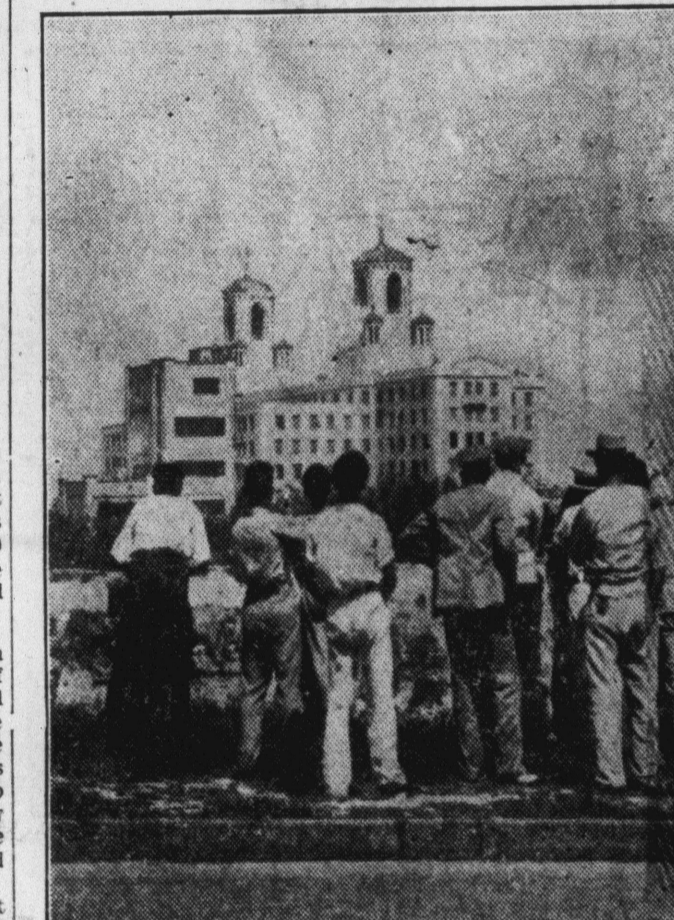

The sprinkling forces had just entered that district when it was discovered that the supply had been exhausted and work was halted until an exploratory examination could be made of all available barrels to see if the streets being worked on could be completed.

Chief Clark said the solution of gas and tar was obtained from the local gas plant and that it would be six months or more before another supply became available.

Unpaved streets were sprinkled during the early part of summer to dull dust and reduce the menace of insects. It immediately met popular favor, and when the streets dried out several days ago a clamor arose in all parts of the city without pavements for another sprinkling.

The supply of the solution gave out, however, after the majority of streets had been gone over again, but seven or eight streets were not reached.

Late News Flashes From Over World

May Call Another Leaf Holiday. Raleigh, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Another tobacco market holiday for North Carolina to try and force better prices for the weed was suggested to the governor today by an outstanding group of growers of the state.

The names of the growers proposing the holiday could not be learned but it was understood they have taken active part in the attempt to raise tobacco prices and it was also known that the governor was considering the suggestion.

Today the Pitt County Tax Relief Association telegraphed the chief executive and offered to do anything to aim him in his effort to improve the condition of tobacco farmers and added, "admiration, confidence and gratitude in your statesmanship are unanimous" in commenting on the work the governor has already done.

FLA. OUT OF STORM RANGE

Miami, Fla., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Movement of the tropical storm apparently in a north easterly direction into the Atlantic Ocean from Havana today removed further possibility of dangerous winds to the lower coast of East Florida, the government weather bureau reported here today.

Having lashed Key West on the southern tip of the Peninsula with the outer wind after striking Havana with full force, the disturbance was believed by meteorologists here to be central at sea east of here and moving north or northeast from the Florida coast.

The highest wind reported here was 35 miles an hour from the north with occasional gusts at 50 miles an hour.

CIVIL COURT TO SIT OCT. 23

Court officials today began turning their attention to the two weeks term of Superior court to be held in this city beginning the week of October 23.

Lawyers were to meet this afternoon to make up the civil calendar for the first week of the term. This was expected to contain forty or fifty cases.

Work on the criminal calendar probably will not get under way until the week preceding the opening of court. The criminal docket was expected to be comparatively light compared with other months, and the majority of cases will consist largely of unimportant cases.

Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill, resident judge of the Fifth Judicial district, will preside over the term. He did not appear here in the recent term of civil court because he exchanged benches with Judge Harris of Raleigh to permit him to sit in the Drake bank case.

APPEALS FOR MEDICAL AID GO UNHEEDED

Ambulances Refuse To go to Peabody Mines in Slaine County Because of Heavy Firing; Power Lines Leading to Mines Cut and Railway Bridge Blown up; Three Companies of Guards Sent to Scene Of Disorders

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP)—National Guard troops were ordered to Saline County this morning by Lieut. Colonel Robert Davis after picketing miners along the fifteen miles front had been accused by officials of the Peabody Mines No. 1 of wounding a score or more persons.

Davis issued his orders to four companies and said he expected 200 soldiers to move into the country later on.

Officials of the mine said that at least three persons were wounded by the incessant firing of picketers and that appeals for medical aid were sent out. Local officers said, however, they had been unable to get anyone to go to the scene, one ambulance having refused to take the risk.

Meanwhile, power lines leading to the mines were cut by picketers and the Big Four Railroad bridge about eight miles from the mines was reported blown up. The dynamite used in blowing up the bridge was believed to have been part of one hundred sticks stolen from the Harrisburg warehouse here.

Fluorene Company Granted Temporary Receivership in Court Here Last Week

A hearing was to be held before Judge J. Paul Frizzelle at New Bern tomorrow in the temporary receivership filed here last week by the Fluorene Chemical Company of this city, manufacturers and distributors of drug products bearing that name.

Judge W. A. Darden was named temporary receiver when the petition for receivership was heard before Judge Harris in civil court here last week. The action was taken upon the contention of the company that it was operating at a loss.

The hearing tomorrow is to be held for the purpose of determining whether the temporary receivership shall be continued or dissolved.

NOW WHAT?

Information from Washington is to the effect that the tobacco agreement will probably be signed today or tomorrow whereby the domestic companies would agree to pay enough for purchases from now on to bring their season's averages up to 17 cents or more.

There is still, however, the question of where the farmer who has sold his crop stands. While growers have been urged to market their crop in an orderly manner rather than rush the markets, it was the understanding that those growers who found themselves in position of having to sell their crop to prevent it from damaging or to take care of pressing obligations, could do so and later on receive the benefit, through a refund or bounty payment, of any agreement the government made with the companies.

It was our understanding from the start that the government, in return for the acreage reduction contracts, was guaranteeing the signers of the contracts parity prices for this year's crop as well as the next two years. Of course, if the crop as a whole, averages the parity price when the season is completed, the government literally has carried out its part of the program but if the benefits are to go only to the man who has yet to sell his tobacco and none to the man who has already been forced to sell, the situation will be an unbalanced one and not in keeping with what was the belief of the growers when the acreage contracts were signed.

Outrageous Fortune

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: The man picked up, his memory gone, on the shore after the wreck of the Allos Arden has set Nesta Riddell and Caroline Leigh against each other. After hearing him babble in his coma of the stolen Van Berg emerald, Nesta has identified him as her husband, Jimmy Riddell. Caroline thinks he may be her cousin, Jim Riddell, but Nesta will not permit her to see him. Now, at midnight, Nesta has crept to the man's room, having heard that a sleeping person will answer any question after his hand has been placed in a bowl of cold water. The sign awakes and seizes Nesta's throat.

Chapter 15 A CRISIS

NESTA was a brave woman, but she was taken most utterly by surprise. She tried to call out, to push him away, but her voice choked under his grip. The blood sang in her ears, and the darkness was full of fiery sparks. Then quite suddenly she was free. She sat back on her heels, gasping for breath. The sparks died out, and she heard him say in a sharp, bewildered voice.

"Who's there?" He repeated the question again at once. "Who's there? Speak, can't you! What's happened?" Nesta stumbled to her feet. "You've done your best to strangle me." She heard him say, "I'm drench-

I'll empty the water jug over you—and you can explain to your sister-in-law why I did it. Take a few deep breaths and count a hundred! I'm sorry if I hurt you, but I've been knocking about in some fairly rough places, and if anyone creeps into my room in the dark and puts a hand on me, it's their look-out—I don't stop to think—I shouldn't be here now if I did."

Nesta had ceased to struggle. Now she suddenly leaned towards him. "Where have you been?" He dropped her wrist, stepping back, and looked at her, frowning. "I—don't—know." "You must know. You said—" He passed his hand across his brow. "What did I say?" "She laughed, half angrily. "You said you'd lived in some pretty rough parts the last few years. I believe you too, the way you tried to strangle me. My lord, Jimmy—you've got a grip!" She broke off suddenly. "Do you mean to say you don't remember what you said?"

HE shook his head. "No—it's gone." She looked at him curiously. "You don't know where you lived or what you did before I met you? Honest Injun?"

Next moment he had her by the wrists.

ed, and then, "What are you doing here?" And with that, he was out of bed and reaching for the light.

All Nesta's nerve had not kept her from a sharp recoil which took her back to the mantelpiece.

He stood against the door and looked first at her and then at the bed. He might well say that he was drenched. When Nesta threw up her hand to try and push him away she had still held the bowl of water. It struck his shoulder, overturned, and sent a cold cascade down his back.

The shock of it brought him broad awake. His hands let go their hold. He'd been strangling someone. Who? Good Lord—where was he? What a nightmare! He'd been dreaming. But this wasn't a dream, for there was Nesta with her hand at her throat; and there, tipped up on the bed, was a yellow china bowl. The bed itself showed a large wet patch where the clothes were flung back.

He swung round on Nesta. "What's the meaning of this?" She had been frightened, and now she was angry. She could not bridge her tongue.

"You dangerous brute! You might have killed me!" Her voice broke on a sob of pure rage.

"I'm sorry—but what were you doing in my room?" "I'm your wife!"

"I don't think you were here as my wife."

Nesta flung up her head. "What do you mean by that? You half kill me one minute and insult me the next!"

"I don't think it's as bad as all that. You can talk all right—" He stopped and ducked sharply. There was a rough lump of pink and grey quartz in the middle of the mantelpiece. Nesta had swept it off and pitched it at his head. It missed, crashed against the door, and fell heavily.

NEXT moment he had her by the wrists. "Wait here, that's enough of that! Put yourself together, if you can't."

agreement between the companies and the government and certainly it does not look exactly fair to penalize the man who has already sold and give greater benefits to the man who could hold his crop. All the growers signed their contracts at approximately the same time and should be entitled to equal benefits to be derived from any increase in price made possible by this acreage reduction sign-up, taking into consideration, of course, the quality of the individual crop.

CAN'T FURTHER DELAY SALES OF PROPERTY

New Bern, Oct. 5.—(Seeking further relief for the taxpayers of this county, the Board of County Commissioners found Monday morning that a further postponement in the advertising and sale of property for taxes would be impossible. The board did reach the agreement, however, that only cost actually expended by the county would be charged against the taxpayer prior to the sale of the property on the first Monday in November. Those costs are the small cost of the advertisement of the property.

Discussion of a further postponement of the land sales brought out the fact that the sheriff of the county would not be able to complete his present term and take up a new term until the tax sales are held. There were complications as to the bond of the sheriff which expires December 1 and cannot be renewed until he is ready to start his new term.

TWIN CITY MAY BORROW FROM WORKS BOARD

Winston-Salem, Oct. 5.—Application for a $250,000 Federal loan to finance construction of a sewage disposal system will be filed with the State public works advisory board within the next few days by the city of Winston-Salem.

Estimates of cost have been revised and other necessary information prepared, Harry L. Shaner, commissioner of public works, has announced.

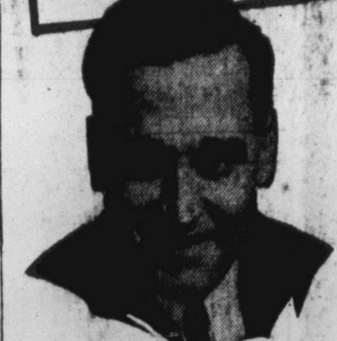

The board of aldermen has tentatively sanctioned the undertaking but a final decision from the board probably will not be forthcoming until after application has been approved by the state and national public works advisory commissions and by the local government commission.

GREENVILLE TOBACCO MARKET REPORT

PRICES HIGHER

Many of the patrons on Greenville Tobacco Market (Wednesday) averaged from 22c to 27c. Bidding more spirited than any day since opening. At least 150 new patrons sold with us today from the various counties in Eastern Carolina, traveling from 80 to 95 miles, passing through in some instances, 3 tobacco markets

All sales finishing in early afternoon. You can now sell your tobacco in Greenville and return home same day of sale.

Everybody has observed that an overwhelming per cent of the offerings have been common tips, which of course brings down the general average. Notwithstanding this, Greenville market this week is averaging more than any Eastern Carolina market according to published figures. When the market begins to sell a larger per cent of the better grades, we believe that more than parity average will be realized.

The government expects to announce shortly completion of agreement with buying companies relative to prices. We feel confident those who have sold since market opened will receive a refund on the prices already received though everyone knows that government refunds come slow. Let us suggest that everyone preserve warehouse bills of sales and see that they are dated.

You will not find the tobacco buyers on any market cooperating in every way more splendidly than the buying forces on the Greenville Tobacco Market. This fact alone is more responsible for Greenville being the world's largest Bright Tobacco market than any one factor. When such conditions as this exist on a tobacco market, better prices for the growers is always the result.

Tune in on Greenville's Radio Station WEED every day (except Sunday) at 9:45 A. M., 12:45 P. M. and 4:45 P. M. for latest tobacco market reports. Will find it on your dial around 142 or 1420.

The club programs for the current year were distributed, and received favorable comment. As always, the new fiction was eagerly scanned and given out to the members.

The topic for the first meeting, "The New Economics" as gathered from the summer's reading, was most ably and logically discussed by Mrs. Frank Wooten, who the club thinks would be a fine addition to President Roosevelt's Brain Trust. After a round table discussion of the New Economics, one could more easily understand the plight of the tobacco farmers of Eastern Carolina.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Blount served, buffet style, a delicious barbecue dinner, to which a few other guests were invited.

ASHEVILLE-BUNCOMBE DEBT IS $54,000,000

Asheville, Oct. 5.—Buncombe county's bonded indebtedness is approximately $10,000,000 more than its 1933 real estate valuation in the 14 townships outside Asheville, and the total real estate valuation of the city and county this year is about $7,000,000 more than the combined debt.

With new valuations for the city completed and all of Buncombe county in except the town of Black Mountain and Limestone and Reems Creek townships, tax officials yesterday estimated the 1933 real estate valuation for the county will be $13,932,000 as against $24,117,685 last year. The new personal property valuation for the county will be $938,000, excepting the city of Asheville. The personal property valuation last year was $2,407,257.

The county's bonded indebtedness is more than $23,000,000 and the city's debt is $24,000,000. This does not include some interest, and other service charges, the total approximating $54,000,000. The total real estate and personal valuation of the city and county is approximately $62,000,000. This does not include industries, which will put the entire valuation up to approximately $75,000,000, or just $21,000,000 more than the combined debt of the city and county.

JOHNSTON PLAINTIFF IS AWARDED $10,000

Smithfield, N. C., Oct. 5.—Johnston Superior Court convened Monday for the trial of civil cases, with Judge F. A. Daniels, of Goldsboro, presiding.

The case of J. D. Simpson, colored, against J. M. Stone and W. H. Stone, of Durham, was tried and a verdict of $10,000 damages was rendered by the jury against the defendants. This was an action for personal injuries sustained by the plaintiff of the morning of July 1, 1932, when he was struck by truck driven by J. M. Stone, on State Highway 22, near Smithfield. The evidence tended to show the plaintiff suffered the breaking of both legs and arms, his collar bone and jaw and a severe injury to his back.

The case of L. D. Cobb against Tobitha Cobb, for divorce, was tried

First School Day

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
Head Master Rip, the Dog, rang the bell for all he was worth. "Puddle Muddle's school is about to open," he barked.

Up the road to Willy Nilly's trooped the teachers and their pupils. "I'll try to bark," barked Rip, "or you'll get bad marks for being late and you'll be kept in after school." The Ducks waddled more quickly.

Rip was wearing a pair of spectacles, made out of twisted twigs, and he had a ruler in one paw.

The animals all took their places in rows on Willy Nilly's porch and Rip sat up in a big chair behind the table. Back of him was a blackboard. Now Willy Nilly, the principal, appeared.

"We'll open school," he said, "by singing our new song to the tune of 'Merrily we roll along.' The words are on the blackboard."

So they all began to sing:
"Puddle Muddle, we're for you,
we're for you, we're for you,
and for our new school,
we shall study, we shall study,
we shall study,
And never break a rule."

Then each pupil was handed a little school bag made out of birch bark with a stone slate and a pebble pencil inside, together with several books made out of leaves.

"Now for the roll call!" announced Willy Nilly. "White Chick?" "Present."

"Baby Quack-Quack?" "Present."

Everyone answered the roll call and now Rip was to take charge of the first class.

Tomorrow—"Tattle-Tale"

and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff. Statutory grounds were set up as the cause of action. The parties live near Benson. They were married in Harnett County in 1912 and have several children, who are with the father. The evidence tended to show the defendant abandoned the plaintiff about June 1, 1931, and now is living in Cumberland County.

Lady Benefited By Cardui

"I was weak, discouraged, wasn't able to do anything for about seven months," writes Mrs. Sallie Bryson, of Kennebec, Texas. "An old lady friend suggested I give Cardui a trial. After I had taken half a bottle of Cardui, I was better and stronger. By the time I had taken three bottles, I was up, able to do my work and have gained in weight. Sometimes in the spring, I feel nervous or a little run-down. I take a couple of bottles of Cardui and get all right. I feel I owe my good health to the use of Cardui."

LOCALS GET IN TRIM FOR GOLDSBORO

Greenville high continued to juggle the old pigskin today in preparation for the clash with Goldsboro here Friday afternoon at 3:30.

The game, promising to be one of the best seen here in a number of years, will be played at Third Street school ground, and hundreds of persons interested in this field of sports were expected to be on hand to help cheer the locals on to victory.

Fresh from an overwhelming victory over LaGrange, Goldsboro will come here determined to maintain her unbroken string of victories but the locals are also determined to put their best foot forward to keep the old bacon at home.

Greenville defeated Belhaven in the first game of the season here last Friday, and coaches said today the boys were in fine trim for the battle with the Wayne county lads.

Fans were being urged to attend and encourage the boys in their efforts to give the city one of the best teams this year they have ever had before.

The backfield is strengthened by the return of Dave Hardee, one of last year's stellar backs. However, E. T. Forbes is on the injured list and is out for the week, while Cliff Madrin, the best passer and one of the best kickers of last year's team, is not expected back in school.

This loss severely hampers the back offense as there is not a classy passer on the entire squad, and Madrin has been counted on heavily. This boy is also a good ball carrier and it is hoped he will changes his mind and make his last year of high school ball something to be remembered.

The rest of the squad is in good shape for the game, and while Goldsboro is being doped to win, Coach Hewlett says that his boys are going to be out there battling, and always has his motto "A team that won't be beat, can't be beat" so a great game is going to be played here tomorrow. And these boys deserve and desire your support, both morally and financially at tomorrow's game. Don't forget it begins at 3:30.

DEVILS SAW WOOD, WAIT FOR DEACONS

Durham, Oct. 5.—Ignoring the fact that they have been picked as favorites, the Blue Devils of Duke look to their game in Duke stadium Saturday as one of their hardest tests of the season and know that they will have to play "better than their best" to win.

The Blue Devils are "sawing wood and saying nothing" this week. They remember well the bitter battle Wake Forest gave them last year before bowing, 9-0, and realizing that the Deacons will put about the same team on the field, with probably a better backfield, they can only see a hard fight ahead.

The Deacon line, filled from end to end with veterans, will be fully capable of testing the Blue Devil ball carriers to the limit and the Duke boys feel that if the team will "go" against that heavy wall of Baptists, it will be able to take care of itself with any other team this season. Duke is making ready for a grueling battle.

Both teams have a lot to fight for. The Deacons are over-anxious to start their popular new coach's regime off with a victory and they have last year's sterling record to spur them on. They tied Duke in the midst of the successful 1930 campaign and, with Blue Devil supporters looking to another good year, this game offers them a chance to do it again.

The Blue Devils want nothing more than to go up to their all-important game with Tennessee, October 14, undefeated. They will put a valiant struggle before bowing this early in the season.

Nick Laney, the Blue Devils' star halfback, whose dazzling 60 yard run last year was the lone touchdown scored against the Deacons, will be in good shape for this year's battle. He was able to play only a few minutes against V. M. I. Saturday night due to a lame foot.

Even if the prices paid by the signatory American companies should exceed parity but there will be a processing tax fund and if a substantial part of this should be used this year, as many are agitating, the growers would receive parity. There has never been any trouble about parity prices, and the delay in signing the agreement has arisen from other causes.

"Evidently the Pitt County Board has been misinformed."

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened fairly steady, three to nine points lower under Southern selling lower foreign exchange and disappointing cables. There was scattered liquidation or selling by some of yesterday's buyers as well as hedging, but offerings were fairly well taken by trade buying or covering.

The market held steady at the end of the first half hour with December around 7.82 and May 10.25, or four points net lower.

Trading was quieter later in the morning and prices fluctuated. After settling off to 9.75 for December, or nine points lower, the prices stiffened to 9.81. At midday the market was quiet at decline of 5 to 6 points.

U. N. C. GETS IN TRIM FOR VANDY TEAM

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 5.—Carolina is setting its lines for a battle at Nashville, Tenn., Saturday with one of the most powerful teams in the Southeastern Conference.

The Tar Heels were to hold their last, practice session at home this afternoon. They leave tonight for Vanderbilt, going via Atlanta and practicing at Oglethorpe University tomorrow.

The odds favor the Commodores, who haven't been scored on in two games and rolled up 50 points in their first.

The Carolina team, however, showed considerable power in defeating Davidson last week, and may be counted on to shoot the works and play its heart out Saturday.

The Tar Heels, who have a reputation for playing their best game when they are the underdogs, figure with their supporters that a victory would put the team in great shape for next Saturday's battle with Georgia, which is one of the biggest games on the home card.

The defense has been gone over thoroughly this week and should be stronger for the return from the sick list of the powerful tackle, Bill Collins.

Several shifts have also been made which are calculated to provide better blocking and running and more versatile backfield combinations to throw against the massive Vandy line.

Eddie Martin, quarterback, and George Moore, halfback, worked with the leading backfield again yesterday, and will probably break into the starting line-up Saturday.

The squad will not be missing a man due to injuries. Everybody was in fine shape today, including the stars, Brandt at end, Barclay and Kahn at the guards, and Captain Croom, Jackson, Woolen, and Burnett among the backs.

Indications were that nearly three complete teams would make the trip. Coach Collins hopes to wear the powerful Vandy defenses down with three separate backfield charges.

The Tar Heels, however, will likely stick to their veteran lines, in which Moore at center is the only non-lettermen. Vandy's brilliant sophomores appear too dangerous to risk a rookie line.

Continue Bank Inquiry.
Washington, Oct. 5.—(AP)—With profits of almost $7,000,000 to members of the firm of Dillon, Read and Company from pool operations in Investment Trust stocks already disclosed, Senate probers today sought to make additional gains.

Robert E. Christie, Jr., a member of the firm and prospective head of the American Investment Bankers Association, was questioned again about the operations which yielded rich reward to him and his associates on stocks for which they paid only 20 cents a share.

The hearing was delayed for 15 minutes while the senators waited for Pecora and his aides to arrive.

Pecora was delayed by negotiations for him to run on the McKee ticket in New York for district attorney of New York county. Rushing into the room breathless, Pecora said he had not made a decision.

With Clarence Dillon, senior partner of the banking firm, sitting between them, Pecora questioned Christie about sales of the stock in the United States and on securities of corporations the investment stocks organized by Dillon, Read & Co., in 1924.

Terror in Coal Field
Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP)—A day and night of terror in the coal mining region brought troops to southern Illinois today after ten men had been shot, a hotel bombed and railroad bridge blown up.

After bombing several homes of miners and firing on citizens' pickets formed a 15 mile line around the No. 43 mine of the Peabody Coal Company and shot at everyone going toward the mine.

8 Cylinder Performance at 4 Cylinder Cost.

18 3/4 miles per gallon in official test over 1,959 miles.

IN a recent mileage test made in Wake County, N. C., a new stock model Ford V-8 sedan was driven 1,959 miles in six days. It was driven at every conceivable speed—from 5 to 80 miles an hour. It was driven through traffic, over hills, on good roads and bad.

For the entire run this car averaged eighteen and three-quarter miles to the gallon!

Here is the luxury of an "8"—extra power, greater smoothness, faster getaway—at the cost of running a "4." No wonder the new Ford V-8 has astonished the entire motor industry.

Drive the new Ford V-8 yourself. You'll get a thrill you've never had in a car before. As fast as 90 miles an hour in high! Silent, synchronized transmission. A motor that just can't heat up due to its aluminum cylinder head and big double-pump cooling system. All-steel safety body. Dulux heat resisting paint. Houdaille shock absorbers—the same type as on the most expensive cars in America. Big, deep, comfortable seats. The roomiest car in the low price field.

Then remember—this amazing car is actually more economical to run than the 4-cylinder Ford of two years ago!

A wide variety of colors and models—prices $490. and up, F. O. B. Detroit.
