$14 AVERAGE PREVAILS ON SOME MARTS

Dissatisfaction Expressed at Fuquay Springs as Average Hangs Around $13; Farmers Reported Better Satisfied at Louisburg and Warrenton; Sales Comparatively Light With Offerings Poor

Fuquay Springs, N. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Farmers showed disappointment here today as tobacco sales opened with the average being apparently about $13 per hundred pounds.

Some 250,000 pounds of weed were on the floors of the houses.

Louisburg, N. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Tobacco was averaging around $14 per hundred here today at the end of the first two hours of sales as the Middle Belt markets opened.

Farmers were well satisfied with the prices being paid Tobacco Board of Trade officials said. About 133,000 pounds of leaf were offered.

Warrenton, N. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Prices averaging $14 per hundred pounds were being paid today as the Warrenton tobacco market of the Middle Belt markets opened. Tobacco of Trade officials estimated.

Only two farmers were known to have protested against prices at the end of the first two hours of sales and all seemed pleased with prices being paid for the first sale which consisted of inferior qualities.

About 250,000 pounds of tobacco were offered for auction.

CCC INGENUITY AND WORK PROVIDES CITIFIED CAMP

Escanaba, Mich.—(AP)—Civilian conservation corps members at camp No. 1,687, near here, accustomed to city ways, have provided a model camp largely through their own ingenuity and labor.

Confronted with the task of hauling water, they dug their own well to a depth of 236 feet. With two camp members who formerly had been plumbers contributing the skilled labor, a discarded tank was fitted up for storage.

Now gravity feeds the water to hot and cold showers to the kitchen and to the washroom. A refrigerator is being constructed under the water tank, with water flowing to and from the tank supplying the cooling medium.

NEW CUBAN GOVERNMENT CRUMBLING

Clamor For Removal Of Grau San Martin Gains Sway in Favor Mendieta

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The shock of governmental overthrow which had more than one of its predecessors off Cuba's stormy political stage extended today for President Grau San Martin.

As it washed out on the wave of shifting public opinion, the veteran Nationalist leader, Carlos Mendieta, listening from the wing heard a rising clamor for his reappearance.

The Grau regime, fighting to stave off retirement, held out compromise after compromise in the hope of quieting the shouts of the opposition.

The militarized university youngsters was backing Grau in unified support of his government, but support in other quarters was rapidly crumbling toward a collapse.

Even General Fulgencio Batista, who directed the attack on the rebellion officers barricaded in the National Hotel, prepared to withdraw his support for Mendieta.

COLEY AGAIN NAMED HEAD OF BAPTISTS

Rocky Mount Man Re-elected Moderator of Roanoke Baptist Association Here

Ministers and church workers from six counties were attending the two-day session of the Roanoke Baptist Association which convened at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church this morning, and at noon enjoyed a delightful luncheon at the Woman's Club.

It was estimated that between five and six hundred persons were in attendance and more were expected as the association gets in full swing this afternoon with a program containing numbers of subjects vitally affecting the life of the church at this time.

Among those in attendance were ministers and church leaders high in the life of the denomination throughout the State and prominent speakers were to appear on the program at every session. The final session will be held tomorrow afternoon.

The association is guest of the two Baptist churches here, but owing to the limited seating capacity of each, the sessions were being held in the Methodist Church to take care of the hundreds expected to be in attendance both today and tomorrow.

The opening session was confined to the address of welcome by D. J. Whichard, Jr., of Greenville, the response by John Coley of Rocky Mount, election of officers and addresses dealing with work of the denomination in this and other counties.

John Coley of Rocky Mount, moderator for the last five years, was re-elected to the high post; D. J. Whichard, Jr., was elected vice-moderator, and Leslie Newman of Bethel, clerk.

Mr. Whichard was happy in his remarks of welcome, assuring the visitors that the slogan of the city, "Our Greenville, Yours If You Come," was extended to them in the fullest sense of the word. Mr. Coley expressed appreciation of the welcome, saying the Baptists were happy to meet in the city, the cradle of the North Carolina State Baptist Convention.

Rev. Hugh Ellis of Wilson, delivered the annual sermon, calling attention of his hearers to the great task awaiting Christians on every side and urging that the challenge be accepted.

J. R. Kirk, of Roanoke Rapids, delivered the opening address on the subject, "Religious Literature." Mrs. E. B. Beasley, of Fountain, presented a report on women's activities.

Mrs. Charles Leonard, Baptist missionary to Manchuria, spoke as a representative for the women and told of the work of the church in that disturbed area of the world, for many years the scene of conflict between Chinese and Japanese military forces.

The association is comprised of churches in Beaufort, Pitt, Wilson, Edgecombe, Nash and Halifax counties and virtually every church was represented.

The theme of the session this afternoon will be "The Church at Work in the State." Tonight the theme will be "The Church at Work in the World."

After disclosing that Hopson has been found in Chicago, Pecora turned to questioning E. C. Tracy, president of Dillon, Read and Company's investment trust about their operations.

the announcement of the marketing agreement for fine cured tobacco.

Domestic buyers who voluntarily offered to pay an average of 17 cents a pound for tobacco, are said to have signed the proposed agreement and left it in the hands of the administration.

Since then the contract has been reported ready for announcement on several occasions only to be held up at the last minute for further study.

WHITE HELD IN ACCIDENT

Carolina Township Man Charged With Reckless Driving and Hauling Liquor

J. D. White, of Carolina Township, today faced charges of reckless driving and transporting whiskey as result of an automobile-truck collision on the highway from Carolina to Bear Grass last night, according to information reaching the highway patrol here today.

White was painfully injured when his automobile, driven by his sixteen-year-old son, Ray, collided with a truck driven by James Bailey, of Williamson.

The truck was almost completely demolished by the impact and the light touring car occupied by the Whites was also damaged. The other two men escaped injury.

Officers who investigated the wreck a short time later were reported to have found a gallon of whiskey near White's car. White denied ownership, but the whiskey was said to have been in the car at the time of the wreck, and the elder White was declared under the influence of the beverage.

White's injuries consisted of lacerations about the face which, although painful, were not considered serious.

BANDITS TAKE $4,000 FROM PITT FARMER

R. H. Tripp Held up By Three Unidentified Bandits Near Chocowinity

R. H. Tripp, farmer, residing several miles north of Greenville, was robbed of $4,000 when he was held up by three unidentified white men on the Greenville-Aurora highway, a short distance from Chocowinity last night. Sheriff Sam Whitehurst reported today.

Although a search was started for the bandits, no information leading to their apprehension had been obtained today.

Tripp told Sheriff Whitehurst he was driving along the highway between Aurora and Chocowinity when a car drew up behind and one of the occupants began firing upon him with a shotgun.

One load penetrated the side of Tripp's machine and he immediately stopped. Three men left the other car, and demanded that he turn over all of the money he had in his possession. Tripp handed over the $4,000 he carried in a wallet.

He said the bandits immediately stepped back into their car and fled in the direction of Chocowinity.

The shotgun charge passed through the side of Tripp's machine, missing his head by a narrow margin, but he was uninjured. He said he did not recognize the men but knew they were white.

Beaufort county officers sometime later were reported to have chased a large car bound toward Greenville loaded with 12 cases of liquor. The two occupants abandoned the machine and fled. Tripp told officers he did not believe the occupants of the car were the men who robbed him because the car was not like the one driven by the bandits.

Tripp was returning from a visit to his sister in the Aurora community. The holdup occurred about 9 o'clock and officers started an investigation a short time later.

ROTES TOLD OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Rotarians gathered in regular weekly session last night heard two speakers discuss the tobacco and public health situation in this county and the clubmen today knew more about both subjects than they knew before.

The speakers were Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, and B. B. Sugg, prominent warehouseman who attended the public hearing with the government recently held in Washington in connection with the tobacco price situation.

Dr. McGeachy told of the relentless fight which his department was waging for the prevention of illness and urged the Rotarians to cooperate with them in every way possible.

While diphtheria and scarlet fever have been reduced considerably compared with past years, the speaker said a slight increase was noted in this community the past several months. This condition has caused him, he said to warn the public of the danger and to seek cooperation from all sources in curbing the sickness.

He called attention of parents to the fact that when their child has a cough that fails to clear up at sunrise, a doctor should be called for very likely the child was suffering from diphtheria.

Price Upswing Causes Elation Among Growers

GRADE OF LEAF IS REPORTED SOME BETTER

Market Average Yesterday Nearly Two Cents Above Friday When Highest Average of Season Was Set; Over Million Pounds of Weed Here Today; Floors Expected to be Cleared During The Afternoon

Prices, which have been making history on the Greenville market the past week, continued to climb yesterday and official figures made public today by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, placed the day's average at $15.48, nearly two cents higher than last Friday when the highest average price of the season was recorded.

The price situation was reported as reflecting the renewed vigor today and indications were that continued improvement would be shown throughout the sales.

The average yesterday was established on 1,497,364 pounds of bright leaf and farmers were paid a total sum of $231,851.59 for their offerings.

With over a million pounds of leaf on the floors of the various warehouses today, it was indicated sales would be completed during the afternoon enabling the market to clean up warehouse floors and get in readiness for heavy offerings tomorrow.

The continued upturn in prices has caused no little elation among both tobaccoists and planters, and general satisfaction was more widespread than it has been in years.

Growers who found it difficult to smile in recent years grinned from ear to ear yesterday as they saw the market draw close to the party promised by buyers in the recent conference held with government officials at Washington.

The upswing not only affected the tobacco people but every business interest in the community today took heart and turned their attention to the improvement in this phase of life as result of the bullish trend of tobacco prices.

The quality of tobacco yesterday was somewhat better than last week it was stated, and with continued offerings of the better grades the price situation was expected to cling tenaciously to everything it has gained and to higher ground as improved grades reach the market.

Farmers who held their tobacco off the markets last week while waiting for higher prices were expected to begin a steady pilgrimage to the city from now on and realize from the higher prices being paid for the product of their toil during the hot summer months.

CLUBMEN WILL MEET FRIDAY

Divisional Meeting of Kiwanis to be Held With Local Club This Week

Plans had virtually been completed today for the meeting of the Seventh Division of Kiwanis here next Friday, it was said today by members of the local club.

The gathering, one of the most important of the year for the division, was expected to be largely attended by clubmen from several cities in this part of the state in addition to the governor of the division.

The local club will be host and members of the program committee today were busy making plans for entertaining the visitors.

The highlight of the event will be the address by Governor Montgomery of Wilmington, who will tell of some of the objectives of the organization during the new year.

The local club at its meeting two weeks ago elected officers to clear the deck for the coming of the visitors Friday, and when the divisional meeting gets under way the program was expected to move smoothly. This is the first time a divisional meeting has been held here in several years and members of the organization were looking forward to the convention with considerable interest.

Outrageous Fortune
 by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: "Jimmy Riddell" sees from the woman who has told him she is his wife—Nesta Riddell. The memory of events preceding the marriage in a hospital room. Nesta has said she stole the money from the bank, and shot Van Berg, which he cannot believe. But he has shared a memory that concerns drinking with Elmer. Then he found Caroline Leigh, and she had thought the man in the hospital might be he, but Nesta says no, and has kept them apart. Caroline, late at night, looks from her bedroom window, and hears steps in the village street.

Chapter 20
TRAILING A HOPE

CAROLINE drew back a little. She didn't want anyone from the village to see her leaning out of her window at midnight. The steps were coming towards the village, not from it. She wondered who it could be that was coming home so late.

She leaned forward again with a shiver running over her. There was someone standing at the gate. She could see no more than that. A hornbeam hedge divided the garden from the road. It was cut into an archway over the gate, and under this arch someone was standing. Caroline could see nothing but a dark shape standing there quite still.

The little breath of air had died away. None of the shadows in the garden moved. And then all at once the shadow by the gate did move. She heard the click of the latch, the gate swung, creaking a little, and a man came a few slow steps along the path. He stopped between the second and third rose-trees and looked up.

In that moment Caroline thought that her heart had stopped. Every thing seemed to stop, because, in the dusk that was neither light nor darkness, she thought it was Jim Riddell standing there. He had stood like that a hundred times, looking up at the old schoolroom window when he wanted her—calling, "Caroline!"

He didn't call now, it wasn't Jim—it couldn't be Jim. Oh, Jim was drowned. How could it—how could it be Jim? Did anyone ever come back like that in the dead of the night? She felt as if she were drowning too, because she couldn't take her breath.

And then quite suddenly he turned and went down the path and out at the gate. The gate clicked, and everything went on again.

Caroline found herself taking deep choking breaths. Her heart raced furiously. The next thing she knew she was on the stairs, running down, and then the door was open and she was on the brick step, listening. There was no sound behind her in the house. There was no sound in the garden, not the rustle of a leaf or the stirring of a bird; but from the road there came the faint sound of footsteps that were going away.

She ran down the path and out of the gate and followed them. It was cool in the road, and dark because of the elm-trees. The moon was somewhere behind the trees. Caroline ran a little way, and then stopped to listen again. The footsteps were just ahead, and presently she could see a something that was darker than the shadow of the elms, moving before her at a steady pace.

MOREHEAD TO PLAY HIGH HERE FRIDAY

The local Highs will meet Morehead City High School here Friday afternoon at 3:30. This marks the third home game for the locals and will be the last for two weeks, as next week Greenville plays in Rocky Mount.

Although defeated by Goldsboro 13-0 the locals are not down-hearted, and are polishing up their offense as well as indulging in extensive drills on defensive play, which was so sadly lacking against Goldsboro. Some excuse for this can be made in that nothing was known of the style of play used by Goldsboro, the latter using the famous University of Southern California shift, which meant shifting into an unbalanced line to either side, was a thorn in the play of Greenville's line. The latter being composed of green material, could not solve this tricky style of offense hence Goldsboro gained at will.

But a real game is going to be played Friday. Morehead has won 16 of its last 18 games. They defeated Greenville last year 14-13 in a great game that saw the locals lose every break in the game. This year Greenville is out to avenge this defeat, and a real battle is anticipated. Remember this date, Friday October 13 at 3:30.

Willy Nilly's Talk

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
 Before the Ducks and Chickens came into school from recess Willy Nilly, the little gnome-like man, who was acting as the principal, gave the other teachers a talk.

"Now, we, too, must all learn many things to make us fiercer," he said. "I know that I haven't enough backbone. I'm too ready to attend to the work and interests of others and neglect my own. I simply must pay attention to my sticking-out, pointed ears and I must set everything to rights and do a great deal to prepare for the winter."

"Others among us must not be vain and we must not be greedy and we must not gossip and we must not take each other's things."

The talk was over and the little pupils had taken their places on the porch, but before the lessons commenced Christopher Columbus Crow whispered to Jelly Bear:

"I hope Top Notch, the Rooster, took that to heart about being vain." And Jelly Bear answered: "I hope so, too, and I trust that Mrs. Quacko Duck will try not to be such a gossip."

The Memorial and Immanuel Baptist Churches of this city are today and tomorrow hosts to the Roanoke Baptist Association. It is a great pleasure to have these fine people as guests in our city and we hope their short stay here will be a most pleasant one.

The higher prices on the tobacco market yesterday are most encouraging. With the increased prices no doubt will come heavier sales putting more money into circulation which means better business throughout the section. Business has been at a standstill long enough and now it is time for the merchants to begin to go after it. A well planned and well executed advertising campaign in your newspaper carrying your sales message directly into the homes of the buyers of this trade territory is the quickest and surest way to start business on the upgrade.

NOW COMPLETE THE JOB

While definite details of the plan have not been made public, information from Washington is to the effect that the government agreement with the domestic tobacco companies whereby those companies guarantee to pay parity prices for tobacco purchased by them has been signed. Now if the government will see to it that the tobacco for the export trade brings a fair price, by going into the market and purchasing every pile that does not come up to the prices for that grade set by the government, we believe the farmers will get what is coming to them for their crop.

Despite all the arguments to the contrary there is no big oversupply of flue cured tobacco and if it is necessary for the government to take part of this crop it does not mean that the government will lose any money by it, for with reduced production next year and the years to follow there is bound to be a good demand for whatever tobacco the government then has on hand and it will be able to sell its tobacco without any trouble. There can be no certainty about the price situation until the government has arranged for stabilization of not just a part of the crop, but all of it.

Payments for operations and maintenance of the general department of Kentucky's state government amounted to $9.25 per capita in 1932.

GREENVILLE TOBACCO MARKET REPORT

Greenville Market Monday Sold 1,497,364 Pounds For $231,851.59

AVERAGE $15.48

If you have tobacco to sell, and really interested in selling it where you can get the most money for it your attention is called to the following averages of the various tobacco markets last Friday, as published by the News and Observer.

Greenville led all Eastern Carolina during the entire week in prices paid for tobacco.

Greenville Average $13.67		Greenville Paid This Much More On Every 1,000 lbs. Sold
Wilson	$12.39	Greenville	$13.67	$12.80
Kinston	$11.44	Greenville	$13.67	$22.30
Rocky Mount	$12.64	Greenville	$13.67	$10.30
Farmville	$13.23	Greenville	$13.67	$ 4.40

Many of the markets report only "estimated" averages, and others make no report at all.

No market excels Greenville, grade for grade at anytime.

You will not find the tobacco buyers on any market cooperating in every way more splendidly than the buying forces on the Greenville Tobacco Market. This fact alone is more responsible for Greenville being the world's largest Bright Tobacco market than any one factor. When such conditions as this exist on a tobacco market, better prices for the growers is always the result.

Everybody has observed that a overwhelming per cent of the offerings have been common tips, which of course brings down the general average. Notwithstanding this, Greenville market this week is averaging more than any Eastern Carolina market according to published figures. When the market begins to sell a larger per cent of the better grades, we believe that more than parity average will be realized.

Let us suggest that every one preserve warehouse bills of sales and see that they are dated.

Tune in on Greenville's Radio Station WEED every day (except Sunday) at 9:45 A. M., 12:45 P. M. and 4:45 P. M. for latest tobacco market reports. Will find it on your dial around 142 or 1420.

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made." (John 1:3.)

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If sin, sickness and death are as real as Life, Truth and Love, then they must all be from the same source; God must be their author. Now Jesus came to destroy sin, sickness, and death; yet the Scriptures aver 'I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill.' Is it possible, then, to believe that the evils which Jesus lived to destroy are real or the offspring of the divine will?"

REV. S. G. HABLE, JR. SPEAKS TO COLLEGE STUDENTS. Rev. Sam G. Hable, Jr. of Nashville, who is attending the Roanoke Baptist Association meetings in the city, made an inspiring talk at the assembly exercises this morning at the college. He spoke on life as a challenging adventure.

He said that everyone should look on life as a glorious adventure. It is an adventure in friendship and love as well as in many other ways. The adventure of life also reaches out in the field of thought for those whose minds reach out, grow and expand.

"In the line of thought, we can venture forth; even if the physical world does tie us down," he said.

The greatest challenge of life, he believes, is what one can do with his personality. "So I would say, look to your personality, analyze yourself to the point where you can find what is wrong with your personalty. Then remedy it."

One of the greatest of the challenges is in religion, and no one can meet this challenge without the spiritual interpretation of the universe.

He used the blue flower of Switzerland which pushes up through the snow, as a symbol of the way obstacles can be overcome and the highest pinnacle reached. He closed with Tennyson's lines "To strive, to seek, to find, but not to yield" as our object in life.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 10.—A good, bad and indifferent influence today apparently failed to stir the security markets from the lethargy that held prices in a narrow and trendless range.

Minor irregularities spotted the list in the early hours and activity was about as low as that of yesterday.

There were occasional flurries but none of them got very far and most of the speculators resumed their places on the side line to wait for something to happen.

Utility shares were steady to firm. Stocks paid little attention to the decline of 114,000 tons in the U. S. Steel back log. The decrease in unfilled tonnage had been expected. The total of 1,775,740 tons was a new record for the third barometer.
