NATIONAL FARM HOLIDAY BODY CALLS STRIKE

Protest Prices Prevailing For Farm Products

NO SUPPORT COMES FROM NEBRASKANS

Strike Authorized Last Spring Ordered to go Into Effect Tomorrow; Farmers Reported Dissatisfied With Farm Picture in the National Economic Situation

(By The Associated Press) A challenge was thrown down to the federal administration at Washington today by the calling of a farm strike holiday by the National Farm Holiday Association.

The challenge came in the form of a demand for an NRA for agriculture, some of whose leaders expressed dissatisfaction with the farmers position in the national economic picture and held to the theory that better prices should be obtained for farm products by withholding them from the market starting at noon tomorrow.

In other quarters there was disagreement. The Farmers' Elevator association in Nebraska gave little support to the idea while farm leaders in some other localities indicated there would be no help from them.

Charles R. White, president of the New York Farm bureau, said he had no faith in the effectiveness of farm strikes.

The idea for the strike originated in Iowa where several clashes occurred in the strike holiday movement a year ago and one deputy was fatally injured when a gun discharged accidentally. The National Holiday Association authorized the strike last spring but the order putting it into effect was withheld in deference to a request from President Roosevelt.

At that time Milo Reno, president of the Holiday association said the suspension was ordered until the effects of the president's farm program could be observed.

SEEKING MORE WORKERS HERE

Re-employment Office Notified of Shortage of Registration in County

A. B. Corey, member of the local committee on re-employment service, states that from information received from state headquarters of the National Re-employment Service, there is considerable indication of a shortage of registration in Pitt county of highway construction workers, such as farm settlers, shovel operators, truck drivers, tractor drivers, road machine operators, crane operators, bridge carpenters, mixer operators, asphalt rakers, asphalt mixer operators and others. The local office of the Re-employment Service, located at 308 Evans street, is asking that those qualified along the lines above set forth, call at the office and register. There will soon be some highway work in operation in this county, and work on such projects will have to be done from this county, if possible obtain them here.

MORE COTTON CHECKS HERE

Farm Department Reports Receipt of Checks for $50,598.02 For Pitt

E. F. Arnold, director of the Pitt County Farm Department, reported today that Pitt County farmers who took part in the government cotton acreage control campaign had received checks totaling $50,598.02. The total number of growers realizing from the payments was given as 1,059.

Mr. Arnold said there were 144 more checks yet to come and that growers would be duly notified of their receipt.

Pitt county was in the forefront of the cotton reduction movement as in the tobacco control drive and farmers several weeks ago started receiving checks for taking part in the government cotton program.

The farm department has dispatched the checks to the farmers in the fastest way possible, and virtually all checks so far received are now in the hands of growers who are taking the money and chinking some of the financial holes which have been troubling them in the past.

ANTI-WAR STRIKE VOTED BY FRENCH TRADE UNIONISTS

Paris—(AP)—Paralyzing of France by a general strike of all unions from hallkeepers to school teachers, as a last attempt to stop a war has been sanctioned by the French General Labor Confederation.

The nationalist press sees this as a grave peril for France in the face of present European uncertainty.

In its annual congress, the confederation, which has a million members, mandated its officials to urge the government "solemn notifications going as far as a general strike, of the unchanging will of the proletariat not to go to war."

"If, the resolution continued, 'in spite of this desperate resistance, an armed conflict breaks out, the General Labor Confederation should immediately continue at home and abroad energetic action to stop hostilities.'"

The resolution predicted failure for the Geneva disarmament conference unless it obtains a pact at the present session.

ARMY TO PARTICIPATE IN PARADE

Local Artillerymen to Go to New Bern Monday For Legion Review

Battery A, local unit of the North Carolina national guard, 113th Field Artillery, will go to New Bern Monday to take part in the battalion parade and review in honor of Tom C. Daniel, who will be installed as state commander of the American Legion.

Commander Herbert Waldrop said today the artillerymen would leave Greenville at 2 o'clock and would be joined in New Bern by batteries from Kingston and Washington as well as the unit of the Craven county capital.

The parade of the four units was expected to be a spectacular affair and reminiscent of the days of the World War when thousands of young Americans marched proudly off to battle to fight a foe in behalf of the salvation of other nations.

The Greenville post of the American Legion will be signally honored at the New Bern parade and were expected to make a fine showing.

LEGION PROUD OF WORK HERE

Members Doing Some Back-Slapping Today as Result of Membership Drive

Members of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion were doing some back-slapping today as result of the record they have established in the membership drive which opened the first of the month.

The men who saw service in the titanic struggle with Germany were elated over the announcement made by Commander J. H. Rose yesterday that they had gone over the top in the membership drive just like they used to do when they were up on the front lines in France preparing to push the enemy back a trench or so.

The report gave the former soldiers over a one hundred per cent standing with 124 paid members signed up as compared with 114 for the entire period last year.

The record is out of the ordinary in view of the fact that the new Legion year will not officially get under way until next Monday when Tom C. Daniels is installed as state commander at New Bern.

With the membership drive coming to a close the end of the month the Legionnaires were hopeful of adding many more names to the list and were scouring the countryside today in an effort to get the boys to put their names on the dotted line.

By reason of the fine showing here, the local post will be signally honored at the meeting in New Bern and indications were that the pilgrimage from this city to the Craven county capital would be probably the largest ever to attend a gathering of this kind.

Names of those who have joined the Legion have been painted in the large sign on the side of the R. E. Harris Company store at the corner of Evans and Fourth streets so the world may know the men who are supporting the organization growing out of the great conflict overseas.

TWO-YEAR SENTENCE IMPOSED FOR ATTACK

Smithfield, Oct. 20—A case involving the very serious shooting of a man during the summer, was disposed of in superior court when Ike Monroe, colored, was placed on trial for an assault upon John Richardson, colored, with intent to kill. This case is unique in that the coroner was requested upon three different occasions to hold an inquest, Richardson appearing to have died. The shooting occurred at a Coast Line shanty at Micro, and apparently was unprovoked. A girl was at the shanty at the time and this displeased Monroe and he fired several shots, one carrying a steel-jacketed cartridge going entirely through the body of Richardson. The defendant was convicted of an assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and he was sentenced to two years in state's prison.

Senators Seek Legislation To Cut Big Business Salaries

ACTION WILL FOLLOW PROBE WALL STREET

Group of Statesmen At Washington Unanimous For Doing Something to Keep Salaries of Big Business Down; Some Feel Congress Can Go all the Way in Regulating Pay in The Future

Washington, Oct. 20—(AP)—Further legislation to slash salaries of big business executives was advocated by a group of senators today as the Federal Trade Commission awaited response to its request for salary data from 2,000 corporations.

Motivated largely by disclosures in the Wall Street inquiry that as high as a half million dollars have gone to one executive in salaries and bonus for one year—and that period during the depression—those senators now in Washington are almost unanimous for doing something to keep salaries down.

Some feel congress can go all the way and regulate the pay of heads of all business—public and private. Most, however, agree the regulation could be applied only indirectly and only to those doing business with the federal government.

Senator Couzens of Michigan, one of the senate's wealthiest members, and a member of the stock market investigation, said he believed continuous publication of salaries would tend to keep them at a level more commensurate with services rendered.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Confesses Mail Robbery.

Wilston, Oct. 20—(AP)—Police today said Hugh Hawley, 26-year-old mail truck driver, had confessed his story he was robbed of three mail pouches containing $50,000 was a fabrication and that he hid the pouches in the woods himself. The officers announced the confession was made to a group of postal inspectors last night after he had stuck to his original story of the robbery through hours of questioning.

After making the announcement Hawley had confessed, the officers took him before U. S. Commissioner G. L. Parker and he waived examination on charges of tampering with the mails and asked immediate trial.

He was bound over to the term of U. S. District court beginning at Wilmington Monday. Bond was fixed at $1,000. He was unable to make it and was returned to jail.

SALES HEAVY DURING WEEK

Official Reports Show Market Sold 6,496,958 Pounds This Week

The Greenville tobacco market sold nearly six and a half million pounds of tobacco during the week just passed, the official report of sales of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, made public today, indicated. The sales were probably the heaviest of any single week since the opening of the market and set a pace that would be hard to over- come. The report gave the week's sales at 6,496,958 pounds which sold for $1,018,651.41 at an average of $15.67.

In addition, season sales were given as 28,272,660 pounds at an average of $13.37 and for which growers received the total sum of $3,774,569.37.

For the corresponding week last season the market had sold 4,324,322 for $65,107.88 at an average of $13.53.

For the same period last year sales totaled 25,694,384, and the amount paid out was $2,983,573.75. The average was $11.54 per hundred pounds.

Sales have been comparatively heavy on the local market all the week but floors have been virtually cleared each day, leaving tobacco men in fine shape to take care of the offering next day.

Offerings today were probably as heavy as any day of the week but it was believed work would be completed during the late afternoon. Along with the heavy sales the price situation has held firm good tobacco bringing prices that caused considerable satisfaction among growers and business men alike. A tremendous amount of common tobacco today contributed to hold the general price average down somewhat but it has been near the 18 cent mark each day. Monday the price nearly reached the 17-cent parity level agreed on by government and buying companies, this having been accomplished on sales of over a million and half pounds of tobacco.

Sales were expected to continue heavy here next week as growers who held their tobacco back while awaiting price development rush to the market to realize the benefit of higher prices.

Orders Police To Shoot To Kill.

Vienna, Oct. 20—(AP)—Orders to shoot to kill nazi demonstrators were issued today to the police of Dornbirn in the Vorarlberg district to impress the populace with the seriousness of the situation.

The federal police commissioner warned the populace that henceforth anyone refusing to halt when ordered to do so will be fired on.

In the recent revolt of nazi activity there has been a tendency by the population of some towns in Syria, Voralbergh and Carinthia to enjoy the demonstration rather than prevent them. In the Syrian town of Weiz, where street hours and billboards suddenly blossomed with nazi emblems overnight, former Burgomaster Reithöwe and his wife were forced by gendarme to (Continued on Page Four)

COURT HEARS REYNOLDS TILT

Guardianship Proceedings of Anne Cannon Reynolds in Supreme Court

Raleigh, Oct. 20—(AP)—The North Carolina Supreme court today started consideration of the case involving the guardianship of Anne Cannon Reynolds, 11, infant daughter of the late Zachary Smith Reynolds, Winston Salem tobacco millionaire, and on the court's decision hangs the fate of the proposed foundation of from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

The Cabarrus Bank and Trust Company of Concord brought the case before the court after losing a Superior court battle against the agreement which would give the two children of the late Smith Reynolds trust funds of $2,000,000 each and after Libby Holman Reynolds, second wife of Smith, had been given more than $500,000 would establish a charitable foundation with the remainder of the $30,000,000 estate.

Voluntarily printed records in the case have been before the members of the court for weeks and today the attorneys gave oral argument. The court's decision will be handed down at its will in the future.

ESCAPES JAIL IN SLOPS CART

Norman Dav's Gives State Authorities New Wrinkle in Escape Methods

Raleigh, Oct. 20—(AP)—Norman Davis gave state prison authorities a new wrinkle in methods used by convicts to escape today when he secreted himself in a false bottom in a barrel of slops and got away.

The blue-eyed 24-year-old man given 15 to 20 years for manslaughter in Rockingham a year ago was being sought between Durham and Raleigh.

H. G. Littlejohn, trustee, sent to prison from Buncombe county brought in the story of Davis' escape and said he struggled with the man in an effort to hold him.

The trustee said he was hauling slops from the prison to Camp Polk farm and was near the Dixie Inn on the Durham highway at the edge of Raleigh when Davis suddenly stood up in the barrel.

The escapee jumped from the truck and Littlejohn pursued him but could not keep him from getting away.

SAY GERMANY IS BOUND TO THE LEAGUE

Officials at Geneva Believe Treaty of Versailles Holds Reich

Geneva, Oct. 20—(AP)—League of Nations officials emphasized today that Germany is bound indefinitely by the covenant of the league despite its resignation since the covenant is part of the Treaty of Versailles.

This point was emphasized while the officials awaited the text of the German notification which was regarded in international circles here as more permanently serious than the departure of the Reich from the disarmament conference. Simultaneously the league officials drew attention to the wide difference between Japan bolting from the organization and the German withdrawal.

Japan resigned because the league assembly condemned her Manchurian policy. Germany announced her intention as a protest that the league had not done enough for her.

Hence league officials believe it will be easier for the Reich to return to Geneva than for Japan but they admitted it hinges on the concessions made to Germany.

BEARS PLENTIFUL IN CURRITUCK COUNTY

Currituck, Oct. 20—Hungry bears from the swamps near Maple were being hunted down by farmers and sportsmen this week as a result of depredations upon crops and livestock. One huge bruin, weighing more than 400 pounds, and two smaller ones, both weighing more than 300 pounds, have been killed.

The bears are coming out of the swamps because of scarcity of food at this time of the year. They come into hog pens, fields and around humans. They evince little fear of humans, and a few days ago when the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Saunders, of Bertha, was walking down the road to school, a large bear came out of the woods in front of the child, and paying no attention to her, ambled across the road. Terrified, the little girl ran home.

Frequently the bears run across the highway in front of cars and have been known to turn an automobile over when in collision with one.

LEAF THEFTS ON INCREASE

Officers Busy Trying To Round up Thieves In Various Parts of County

Theft of tobacco in various sections of the county have been reported here from time to time, and while the majority of thieves have been arrested, some still remain at large, city officers reported today.

Several cases of this kind have been heard in court here since the opening of the tobacco market and defendants either were required to pay fines or received sentences to the roads.

While tobacco thieves were busy, thefts in the city proper have been at a minimum. The same situation prevails in most of the towns of the county, with exception of Bethel which reported the theft of an automobile yesterday that was recovered by police here last night.

The machine was found abandoned near the cotton mill in the western section of the city and it was presumed that somebody who wanted to get to Greenville pressed the car into use without getting the permission of the owner, Mrs. Sebastian.

Officers were busy with investigations into tobacco thefts and it was hoped to bring the thieves into the toils of the law as soon as possible.

Round Table Club Meets.
On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. H. L. Carr was hostess to the members of the Round Table Club at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Darden, on Holly street.

Lovely dahlias and other fall flowers were used for decoration.

The president, Mrs. J. H. Rose, presided. The subject for the afternoon was the "Status of Women," which was very ably handled by Mrs. E. L. Hillman.

The Status of Women has been from the time of primitive man, a series of fluctuations depending largely upon the age in which she happened to have her existence.

Mrs. Hillman traced the status of women from the earliest records, and not until the coming of Jesus, did women receive a permanent sense of dignity and worth.

She also discussed very briefly the present day status of women in India, Turkey, China, Japan, Russia, Italy and Germany, but we find that in now other country does women have the freedom that the American woman enjoys.

It remained for President Roosevelt to place the crowning glory upon woman's achievements by giving Frances Perkins an important place in his cabinet and appointing Ruth Bryan Owen minister to Denmark.

What is the future of woman? It is essentially the same as the future of the human race, for woman is a human being and her status determines the status of more than half of the human race.

"The hand that rocks the cradle is still the hand that rules the world," and men may determine their progress or their retrogression by the advancing or retroceding of that weaker sex known as woman.

At the conclusion of this most interesting subject, our hostesses served a tempting refreshment course.

We were fortunate in having Rev. W. A. Lillycrop present, who gave a most inspirational talk on the "One Thing Parents and Teachers Should Have in Mind in Shaping the Lives of the Children at This Particular Time."

He stated that "the greatest tragedy of today is not frozen assets, but the fact that human beings in whom we have trusted have failed in character, the one great thing we must instill into the lives of our children to save them from becoming self-imprisoned souls."

And the best way to teach character is through the living example.

Rev. Lillycrop further stated that "we were facing a situation that the statesmen of the world had been unable to meet, but which could be unraveled through God on High, whom we must turn to in prayer and seek His help as we have never done before."

He named as one of the deepest and finest things anyone of us can do, is to reconsecrate ourselves to God.

We greatly appreciate Rev. Lillycrop's message: a message straight from his heart, which found its way into ours, and we regret that more mothers were not present to share it.

Dr. McGeechay was also present and favored us with his kindly advice, and urged our cooperation in preventing the spread of the various contagious diseases that make their appearance among school children from time to time.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

Miss Agnes Fullilove's room won the prize for having the most mothers present.—Reported.

COLORS REPORTED TO EFFECT QUALITIES OF FRUIT JUICE

Geneva, N. Y., (AP)—Green light has less fading power on fruit juice than any other color, says a report to the American Chemical Society by D. C. Carpenter of the New York state agricultural experiment station.

He used apple and krait juices seeking to learn what color of bottle glass was most suitable for fruit juice.

Red, orange and yellow rays darkened the color of the juice. Blue faded it. But the flavor was "favorably affected" by green red, orange and yellow colors.

Green-blue and blue light diminished apple juice aroma and flavor so much that testers had difficulty in recognizing the source.

FARMER DIGS HUGE DITCH TO BE USED AS A SILO
Omaha, Neb., (AP)—Jim Allen, who farms in a big way in Douglas county has dug a ditch to be used as a trench silo—and nowhere, he says will you find a bigger one.

It is 220 feet long, 20 feet wide and 13 feet deep. Its concrete walls and bottom are eight inches thick.

To fill the trench Allen will use 1,900 tons of silage. The silage will be covered with four inches of dirt and uncovered 10 feet at a time to allow cattle and sheep to feed.

This winter, Allen, whose successful irrigation of corn land has attracted the attention of many farmers, will feed more than 600 head of cattle and 5,000 sheep on his farm.

He is getting 15 tons of silage to the acre this year and 100 bushels of corn.

East Lansing, Mich., (AP)—O. E. Robey, specialist in agricultural engineering at Michigan state college, has a new system of irrigation particularly suitable for Michigan truck and garden growers whose crops sometimes are injured by summer droughts.

The system simply consists of a header of ordinary pipe from the water supply, and then numerous branches of leaky fire hose, or porous canvas tubing. Robey still is experimenting with the best type of tubing to use.

The porous tubing permits the

NOT A POLITICAL ISSUE Despite the fact that there are many who consider the question of prohibition a political issue, and point to the fact that repeal was a part of the Democratic platform, again we express our opinion that the prohibition question is one far removed from politics and should be so treated by the voters when they go to the polls to cast their ballot for or against the repeal.

LAYING A FOUNDATION (Wilson Times) In all this plan of reducing production and increasing consumption the purpose is to lay a foundation on which the future will be built, and this planning and building, starting from the bottom will be true and accurate, for now is the time to lay the groundwork and begin the erection of the economic structure.

Why should not production and consumption for the nation and the world be laid on a proper basis? If there is an increase of prosperity, and there is a greater demand for products, as the ability of the people to absorb them becomes evident, why should there not be an orderly increase to meet this demand without stifling it with an excess of produce which cannot be sold at a fair profit?

Of all industries and callings that of agriculture is the most basic, and should therefore be the best. It is the bottom and the foundation upon which all the prosperity of the country should rest.

Outrageous Fortune by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Caroline Leigh returns from London to find Patsy Ann, with whom she lives, mooning over a visit from Robert Arbuthnot. Caroline has gone to check up on Nesta Riddell's marriage record, for Nesta claims that Caroline's cousin Jim Riddell is not only her husband, but that he has stolen the famous Van Berg emeralds and shot their owner!

Chapter 29 ABOUT ROBERT

"GOLLY!" said Caroline to herself. If she hadn't been so fired, it would have said itself out loud. Was it possible that Robert had an Uterior Object?

Caroline dwelt with joy on Robert under the influence of a Tender Passion, of Robert Pursuing a Courtship, of Robert Proposing and Being Accepted. She forgot that she was going to sit on a bottom step and let the world go by. Her eyes sparkled. She swooped down upon the hearth-rug beside Patsy.

"Patsy Ann—what have you been up to? What has Robert been up to? How could you be so indiscreet as to have him to lunch in the absence of your chaperon? A gay young man like that! Tell your Aunt Caroline all!"

Patsy began to cry. Her face worked. Tears came rolling down her cheeks. She sniffled loudly between angry sobs.

"You've never done him justice! I've had to put up with your making fun of him always! I didn't say anything—because it wouldn't have been any use saying anything! You only think about your own affairs—you don't confide in me—you never have! I'm sure if you'd been engaged to Jim, you couldn't have shut me up more—when I asked the simplest and most natural questions—though if I'd chosen—"

She stopped and dabbed her eyes with the blue velvet. She was not quite prepared to claim Jim as a lover. She plunged hastily back into the original grievance. "You always make fun of Robert! If you were older, you'd appreciate him as I do. He has a very high sense of duty and a pure Roman nose. It isn't you he wants to marry, so it doesn't matter what you think of him!"

Caroline was appalled. "Patsy darling—don't. I never, never meant to hurt your feelings. Darling, you know how one laughs at all sorts of things one respects most frightfully—like bishops—and the Bank of England—and—and Parliament."

"Robert isn't an institution!" That was exactly what he was. But never again must Caroline say so. She hugged the weeping Patsy.

"Darling, I respect him most rightfully. He's as safe as the Bank of England and as good as a bishop. Are you going to marry him? Has he asked you? Have you said yes? Here's my hanky—you're simply rubbing that blue velvet."

Patsy blew her nose on the proffered handkerchief.

"There's nothing settling," she said in a muffled voice—"nothing at all. Only he said—he did say—his mother thought—he ought to marry. He's such a good son—and he said he would like to please her—and did I think 47 was too old—and when I said no, it was just the prime of life, he said he was very glad I thought so—because he valued my opinion very much. He said that twice—and then he asked me—whether I had any views about—cousins marrying—and I said I didn't think it mattered so long as they weren't very near."

"DARLING! That was practically a proposal!"

Patsy gave a final sob. "I—thought—it was—because he got up and looked out of the window—and then he said, 'Your great-grandfather was second cousin once removed to my grandfather.' And then he said he must be going—and then—just at the end—he pressed my hand—and said, 'You will hear from me in confirmation of this interview.'"

Caroline sprang up hastily. If she laughed, Patsy would never forgive her. She went quickly towards the stair, saying, "I'll just take my things off and come down again."

"You do think he meant something?"

for the health and sustenance of the people is secured from the farmer.

Since the largest part of the population of the country and their dependents are farmers, it stands to reason that when the farmers are prosperous so is the country, and therefore President Roosevelt is endeavoring to lay the foundation broad and deep by adjusting production to consumption, and thus educating the farmers to understand that they must not produce more than is consumed, a matter long ago understood and practiced by industry if they shall hope to attain a price that is remunerative for the results of their labor.

"It sounds like it." Caroline was gathering up her bag and gloves. "Of course he said he'd come down to ask us about Jim."

With her foot on the bottom step, Caroline stood rigid. What had Robert Arbuthnot wanted to find out? She made an effort and said, "About Jim?"

"Yes. Someone has told him about that broadcast, but they'd forgotten the name of the hospital. He wanted to know whether we had any reason to suppose that Jim was on the Alice Arden."

"And you said?" "I said you thought he might have been. I told him it was the Elston cottage hospital, and that you had been over and found the man wasn't Jim. I told him the name wasn't Riddell, and his wife had taken him away."

"He was quite satisfied?" "He went on asking questions. He's so thorough. I think it's wonderful to be so thorough and conscientious."

Caroline leaned on the old oak balustrade. The cottage had been there for three hundred years, and for three hundred years the hands of men, and women, and little children had been rubbing the baluster smooth. Caroline's hands slipped on it now. She came down a step and stood against the newel. What sort of questions had Robert been asking, and what sort of answers had Patsy given him?

"What did he want to know?" she said.

"When you heard from Jim last—and what his plans were—and whether he'd seen him since he landed. . . . Oh, and most particularly, whether we'd heard from him, or about him, since the wreck of the Alice Arden. And of course I said no, we hadn't. And then he said a most awfully curious thing."

"What did he say?" "It wasn't so much what he said as the way he said it. He coughed and cleared his throat, and poked the fire, and then he asked me whether we'd heard any rumors. What do you suppose he meant?"

"What did you say?" "Well I hadn't heard anything really so I said I never listened to gossip. And he said, 'Quite right—quite right, and blew his nose and wouldn't say anything more except vague things like not getting drawn into any scandal, and remembering that we were two women living alone.'"

"And of course, after saying that about not listening to gossip, I didn't like to ask what he meant—he mightn't have thought it quite nice of me. You know, he thinks women ought to be protected from contact with the sordid side of life. He said so at lunch. He said their place was the home, and that a really nice woman asked for no higher or wider sphere. He said—"

"Why?" "That's the sort of woman he admires."

"I don't mean that. Why did he say all that about a scandal?" "I don't know. It sounded—well, it sounded as if Jim—"

Caroline stamped her foot. "Patsy Ann!"

"Well, it did sound like that—and of course when Mrs. Smith was scrubbing out the kitchen yesterday she did say—you know her sister-in-law's eldest girl is kitchen-maid at Packham Hall—she did tell me—"

"Well!" said Caroline. "You know how she talks—I wouldn't ask her anything, but you can't help listening—well, she says there used to be a photograph of Jim in Mrs. Van Berg's sitting-room—a big one like yours—"

Caroline did not speak; she looked instead—proudly and a little contemptuously.

Patsy's color rose. "It's no use of your looking at me like that! And you didn't let me finish. Mrs. Van Berg might have fifty photographs of Jim if she liked, and if her husband didn't mind. Even Mrs. Smith didn't mind her having the photograph."

"What did she mind?" said Caroline in a deep, angry voice. "Well, it isn't there now," said Patsy.

"Why should it be?" "It isn't. But it was—it was there the very day Mr. Van Berg was shot, and it's never been there since—and, as Mrs. Smith says, things like that are bound to make people talk."

Caroline turned round and went up the stair. Her door shut sharply. (Copyright, 1935, J. B. Lippincott Co.)

The Bad Bears

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER- It was all very well not to have scolded the Bears for letting the nature class go on by itself while they ate and ate so as to gather fat and strength for their winter sleep.

That was the nature of Bears, but when Willy Nilly reached home he was cross. While he had been off looking for the Chickens and bringing them back, the Bears had been feasting in his house!

"Oh, look," Willy Bear had growled. "Willy Nilly has been putting away all sorts of good things to eat."

"Snack, smack," Honey Bear had said, "don't they look delicious? It's too bad we have to go to sleep and miss them all. Maybe we could stay awake this winter, but, oh, I don't believe I could keep my eyes open in the winter time."

"Let's eat our share now," Jelly Bear had said. "Willy Nilly shouldn't mind. After all we're not eating all winter."

"That's so," readily agreed Honey Bear. "Oh, he has put some honey on that shelf. I must have my share of that!"

"I see some jelly," Jelly Bear had exclaimed. "They gave me my name because I'm so fond of it. Really I must live up to my name."

So they had eaten and eaten and eaten. They had opened tins, upset jelly and honey over the floor, tried to lick up some of it, but had left it all very sticky. They had eaten a great deal more than their share and they knew they were bad.

Willy Nilly was thankful he hadn't laid in the entire winter supply, and he was about to go right after the Bears when in rushed Rip and Top Notch, both very much excited.

South Hails Fine Roosevelt Cattle

By EDWIN HOLMAN

Atlanta.—(AP)—Blood will tell, and President Roosevelt has given added proof of the saying with experiments in cattle breeding at his farm near Warm Springs, Ga.

Recently he sent the cattle to the Southeastern fair in Atlanta, and crowds flocked to the pens to see and marvel.

Livestock producers, particularly, were interested to see calves dominated by characteristics of their registered Hereford sire, although they were only two generations removed from the worst sort of scrub cows.

Broad of back, staunch of hind-quarters and straight-faced like the thoroughbred bull on the Roosevelt farm, the yearlings bore little resemblance to their raw-boned, dish-faced dams only one step removed from the common variety of "moo cow."

Long before Mr. Roosevelt became President he found intense interest in efforts to develop the livestock industry in Georgia and the south.

Realizing that many southern farmers have small means for obtaining expensive thoroughbreds, he hit upon the plan overlooked by many livestock men—the development of choice beef cattle from the scrawny native cows through proper breeding.

The plan involved too big a problem for an amateur in animal husbandry, which Mr. Roosevelt professed himself to be; so he called in an expert, Tap Bennett of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service.

The first thing Bennett did was obtain a splendid bull that sired the herd of 120 head now grazing in the 1,200-acre pasture along the slopes of Pine Mountain.

The first calves out of scrub mountain cows had few characteristics of their sire save for the white faces. But the second breeding produced the calves that caused the fair crowds to marvel.

And now Bennett is confident the third breeding will bring forth beef cattle similar to top-grade steers from the midwest that were exhibited in pens adjoining those of the bony cows and their aristocratic-looking offspring.

U. N. C. PLANS GALA DAY FOR TECH GAME

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 20.—Carolina students will flock to the gridiron in Memorial Hall Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock to hear the play-by-play reports of the Florida game, which is regarded as a big test of Carolina's chances against Georgia Tech in the Homecoming game here the next Saturday.

Tar Heel and Tornado tied at 6-6 in 1930 and 19-19 in 1931. Tech broke the tie and buried Carolina under a barrage of long runs last year. This year's Tornado showed tremendous power beating Auburn 16-6. But it is a young team and has had its lapses, as in a 7-6 loss to Kentucky. Tar Heel supporters see a possible chance for revenge if Carolina can stage a comeback against Florida.

This year's game will be the main feature of homecoming festivities for Tech alumni in this section as well as for all Carolina's old grads. Interest is running high already and lavish preparations are being made for the biggest and best homecoming celebration in the University's history.

Chapel Hill will dress in gala style for the big occasion. The downtown section, the main buildings on the campus, including Graham Memorial student and alumni center, and the fraternity houses will all be decorated in festive trimmings. The fraternities, which will hold open houses for their own groups of alumni, are engaging in a contest for the most clever and ingenious decorations. The prize is a console model radio.

Plans have also been announced for a preat parade and pep meeting on Friday night and for a big demonstration and surprise program by the Band and Cheerios at the game the following day.

The University's 70-piece Band will furnish music for the parade. Another contest will be held for the best decorated car. The procession will be led by an ancient and ramshackle car, symbol of the "Hambin' Wreck" which donors vow shall be demolished at the pep meeting, that is, if it survives the march. A display of fireworks is another feature planned for the pep meeting. Arrangements have also been made to procure and distribute a large supply of whistles and streamers among the members of the cheering section at the game.

The University Club, of which Arthur Balmson, Jr., of Winston-Salem, is president, is taking the lead in the preparation, ably assisted by the leaders in the different fraternities, by the downtown merchants, whose committee is headed by L. C. Smith, Manager of the Carolina Theatre, and by J. M. Sanders, the Alumni Secretary.

SPORT SLANTS

SPORT SLANTS ...

Things already are getting out of hand. The boys are on the loose again with what is technically known as the oval or pigskin. It's a wild gallop from now on.

For instance note the progress of Ralph LaForge, halfback of the Arkansas Razorbacks. Ralph weighs only 145 pounds, about the same as Albie Both did at Yale. Albie got a lot more publicity than LaForge will ever receive, yet the Arkansas youngster may be just as good or better than the little Eli idol of a few years ago.

From all accounts LaForge had plenty to do with Arkansas' defeat of the highly touted Texas Christian Horned Frogs early in October. As witness these details, forwarded to us by Jonnie Porter of Fort Smith Ark.

"The 145 pound back took the opening kickoff and sprinted 90 yards to a touchdown. Again in the third quarter he brought the kickoff from the 10 yard strip to mid-field and four players later scored 35 yards for the only other touchdown of the day."

"Last week against Oklahoma Baptist LaForge hauled in the third period kickoff and sped 90 yards for a touchdown. A week earlier he ran 78 yards for a touchdown against College of the Ozarks. Later in the game he took a kickoff and ran 65 yards for a score which was called back when one of his teammates was declared offside."

"Incidentally, Arkansas appears headed for its most successful season since the days when Hugo Bezdek commanded the Razorbacks more than 20 years ago. Fred Thomson, a former Schulte star at Nebraska, is head coach and doing a fine job after several lean years."

Babe To Boston?

Colonel Jacob Ruppert has so far refused to commit himself, but I suspect he and Business Manager Ed Barrow of the Yankees might be willing to let Babe Ruth go back to Boston, to manage the Red Sox, providing New York could get what it wanted in new player material.

Maybe I am all wrong and the Colonel may insist on keeping Ruth for whom he has always had a special affection and interest, regardless of the Babe's declining lure to the cash customers. But Ruppert demands a winner and if the passing of Ruth is essential to achieving this aim, I doubt if he would let sentiment stand too strongly in the way.

Still Packs A Wallop

Ruth, of course, is still a No. 1 threat at the bat and will be so long as he can swing his big stick at the plate. Pitchers have less fear of the big fellow now than they ever showed before. They had him hitting into the dirt the latter part of the season, but there is always the chance he will obtain a toe-hold and break up the ball game. The tougher—the situation, too, the tougher the Babe.

In Boston, where baseball began to enjoy a substantial revival of interest this year, the value of Ruth's entry as a player-manager of the Red Sox hardly can be overestimated.

WANTED TO SEE COTTON CLOSE AT HAND; KILLED

Hickory, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Because she wanted to see growing cotton, a strange sight to her, close at hand, Mrs. C. M. Markhoe, 31, of Germantown, Pa., was killed in a highway accident on her honeymoon yesterday.

Jumping from her husband's car to go into a cotton field near Claremont, she was hit by an automobile driven by Richard East, 19, and fatally injured. She died of a fractured skull in an ambulance bringing her to a Hickory hospital.

TOM BARNES ARRESTED IN DEATH OF LASSITER

Edenton, Oct. 20.—Sheriff C. A. Boyce announced here yesterday the arrest of Tom Barnes of Winton.

Hertford county, in connection with the death of George R. Lassiter of Edenton, who died Tuesday. A coroner's jury here Wednesday returned a verdict that Lassiter had died of complications that set in as a result of a wound sustained on October 7.

According to witnesses at the inquest, Lassiter went to Como, in Hertford county, on October 7 and there was badly beaten while taking the part of a negro musician in an argument over his fee for playing at a dance.

When Barnes was arrested he was serving as a juror in Hertford county. Bond was set at $1,500.

TO HOLD EXAMINATIONS FOR NAVAL APPLICANTS

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Senator Reynolds announced yesterday examination would be held January 9 at 15 North Carolina cities to select a candidate for appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy next year. The cities were named as follows: Asheville, Chapel Hill, Charlotte, Durham, Gastonia, Goldsboro, Hickory, Greensboro, New Bern, Raleigh

Rocky Mount, Salisbury, Washington, Wilmington and Winston-Salem.

The large number of applications for the appointment, it was explained, made this arrangement necessary.

ASK FEDERAL LOAN FOR WATER SUPPLY

Elizabeth City, Oct. 20.—Elizabeth

City's application for a $70,000 loan from the Public Works Administration for the purpose of constructing a new water supply will be passed upon by the Federal emergency administration this week, it was announced yesterday by J. C. Parker, superintendent of public utilities. Mr. Parker said the application was being pushed with the purpose of getting the project under way as quickly as possible.

It is planned to sink wells on the Ives farm, about three miles from Elizabeth City, near the Newland road, and bring a clean, salt-free water supply to the city.

F. S. Royster
PRESIDENT, F. S. ROYSTER GUANO COMPANY

I COULD take you through our laboratories and plants and show you how Royster Tobacco formulas are developed and materials tested to insure quality in the finished product. But I know you're far more interested in results. And you can see them for yourself. Just take a look at the quality of the tobacco made with Royster Fertilizer. Then look at the quality made with other fertilizers. And compare the price each brings. That's the only sure way to judge tobacco fertilizer.

Behind the results that Royster Tobacco Fertilizer brings lie nearly 50 years of experience and research. Royster experts are constantly studying the tobacco plant —finding out all there is to know about its plant food needs, as well as the requirements of the tobacco trade. These men spend their entire time locating, testing and refining materials to make certain that Royster Fertilizers contain only the best that can be obtained. And their continuous field tests prove that Royster Fertilizers make premium quality tobacco.

Remember this: The chief aim of the Royster organization in the manufacture of tobacco fertilizer is to make one quality—the best—which will bring you the highest price for your crop. Check my statements for yourself. Compare the tobacco on the warehouse floor.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened fairly steady three lower to one higher with southern selling offset by trade buying.

There was some liquidation of December contracts at the opening but there was also some buying here against Liverpool and the market steadied after the call on covering and trade buying.

December rallied from 9.10 to 9.17 while May sold up from 9.44 to 9.49 making advances of one to four points on active months after the first half hour the market was quiet within a point or two either way of yesterdays close.

Very little southern selling was in evidence after the first half hour and the market steadied later in the morning.

At midday December was selling around 9.24 and May 9.56 or 7 to 11 net higher.

Table with columns: Open, Close, Prev. Cl., Oct., Dec., Jan., Mar., May, July. Values range from 8.97 to 9.63.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Some support came into the security market today but restless traders were still in the grip of indecision and prices dipped, rallied and dallied, confusingly.

Stocks were turned over at a fast rate in the first hour with minor declines and advances about even.

There was later sagging movement and fairly substantial recovery with many of the leaders getting up a point, the activity diminished after the rush.

Grains provisioned a tame market. Grains provided little stimulus, most of them drifting irregularly.

Although many shaky margin accounts toppled in the early hours Wall Street sentiment was not as bullish as might have been expected after the recent decline.

Numerous orders were received for stocks under the previous closing levels. The buying movement followed early irregularity and numerous morning losses of fractions to a point were replaced by advances of one to three or more.

Transfers were 2,800,000 shares.
