TOBACCO PRICES WERE STRONGER HERE THIS WEEK

Week's Average Is Up To Parity; Half Crop Sold

MARKET NEAR 36 MILLION POUNDS MARK

Better Grades Sold Up to 66 Cents Yesterday With One Grower Averaging $50.21 Per Hundred

Farmers selling on the Greenville tobacco market this season have already received approximately a million and half dollars more than had been received for last year's crop up to the same sale date with only about half of this year's crop being sold up to now as compared with 80 per cent of the crop sold to the same date last season.

Official figures on yesterday's sales were 1,047,900 pounds for $189,926.02 averaging $18.12 per hundred pounds. Yesterday's sales brought the week's total sales to 6,419,126 pounds for $1,123,258.77, an average of $17.50 and the season's sales to 34,691,786 pounds for $641,897,828.14 averaging $14.12 per hundred.

Sales for the corresponding week last season were 3,612,382 pounds for $486,246.12 averaging $13.73 while sales for the season to date of the same date last year were 29,455,766 pounds for $469,819.87 averaging $11.77 per hundred.

Prices on the market yesterday continued to show strength and despite a large quantity of the medium and common grades the day's average price was slightly above that of the previous day.

Prices yesterday ranged as high as $66.00 per hundred on some of the better grades with one grower receiving an average price of $50.21 per hundred for the sale of 1,208 pounds.

Today's sales were somewhat heavier than yesterday but indications were that the market would sell out entirely and be ready for a new start Monday. Today's sales will bring the season's total to around 36,000,000 pounds.

Those close to the tobacco situation estimate that only about half the present crop has been sold and that with the better grades and higher prices yet to come the market for the season will pay out $12,000,000 or better.

DENIES ACREAGE REDUCTION WILL RAISE DAIRY YIELD

Ames, Iowa.—(AP)—Fears that land taken out of production under the federal wheat and corn crop reduction plans and used for pasture will increase livestock and dairy production were declared to be groundless by Prof. Geoffrey Shepherd of the Iowa State College agricultural economics department.

Land planted to pasture produces only about half as much feed as the same land in forage or grain crops, he declares, and even though all land taken out of wheat or other crop production under the agricultural adjustment program is used eventually for livestock pasture, the total supplies of livestock products probably will be reduced.

Crossings Dangerous?

Fresno, Cal.—(AP)—Railroad crossings may be dangerous but you can't prove it by Loren H. Graves, who recently retired as crossing watchman. In his 20 years of service he did not witness a single accident.

Unique Record Set By Colored School At Farmville

Farmville, Oct. 27.—The Farmville Colored High School has set a unique example in the training of its students for law-abiding citizens. The record of the past fifteen years shows that, during this time, only one male and one female who remained under its influence sufficiently long to complete at least the seventh grade, have been brought into courts for any violation of the law and both these were petty offenses.

YOUNG WOMAN TAKES HER LIFE THIS MORNING

Mrs. Ruth Frazier Asphyxiated at Home On Eastern Street Here Today

Mrs. Ruth Frazier, 27, took her life about ten o'clock this morning by inhaling gas in the bath room of her home at 316 Eastern Street, College View. Funeral services had not been announced early this afternoon but tentative plans were for services to be conducted from the home Sunday morning.

Mrs. Frazier came to this city the first of last March from Wilson and since that time has owned and operated the Proctor Hotel News Stand.

Prior to coming to this city she had been an employee of Cherry Hotel in Wilson for six years. Since coming to Greenville she has made her home at 316 Eastern Street and has made many friends here who have shocked today to learn of her death. No reason was advanced for the tragedy. She was a member of the First Baptist church of Rocky Mount.

She is survived by two children R. P. Jr. and Billy D. Frazier, her mother Mrs. W. H. Tharrington, Rocky Mount; two sisters Mrs. N. C. Godwin, Kenley; Mrs. Lanie High, of this city; three brothers W. M. and A. G. Wester of Rocky Mount, and A. E. Wester of Gatesville.

COURT FAN GOES 75 YEARS WITHOUT SINGLE ABSENCE

Sylvia, N. C.—(AP)—To Ira Baker goes whatever distinction may be derived from attending Jackson county superior court for 75 years without missing a single session.

Old residents remember him as "the ginger bread" man who sold that edible at every court term for a period of 30 years.

Fifteen years ago he stopped selling, explaining "I ain't nobody now that can make ginger bread like I used to sell." Thereupon he adopted chestnuts as his stock in trade whenever they are in season.

Brazil Buys Naval Planes. Rio De Janeiro.—(AP)—The Brazilian navy bought 76 planes in the last fiscal year, says the annual report of Admiral Protogenes Guimaraes, minister of marine. The machines came from the United States and England.

GOLD PRICES CONTINUE TO MOVE UPWARD

Government Prices on Newly Mined Precious Metal $31.76 per Ounce Today

Washington, Oct. 27.—(AP)—A price of $31.76 an ounce for Reconstruction Finance Corporation purchases of newly mined gold was announced today by the treasury. It is 22 cents higher than that of yesterday and 66 cents above the London quotation. The price for the metal had been advanced in the London market to $31.10 on the basis of the 4.741-4 value pound opening, there.

Washington, Oct. 27.—(AP)—A $50,000,000 lever for lifting commodity prices was in President Roosevelt's hands today for spending and shaping the gold price level. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation made the account available to finance the Roosevelt dollar control policy. It was in R. P. C. notes to purchase newly mined gold and made strictly convertible into cash by declaring that they are fully unconditionally guaranteed by the United States.

Just how much gold will be needed to buy these notes that mature February 1, 1934 and on which the gold owners will get 1-4 of one per cent annum discount is not certain as the price varies from day to day.

AMERICAN IS HELD PRISONER BY STRIKERS

Cuban Situation Continues Tense as Government Seeks to Halt Outbreaks

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Two Americans today were involved in strikes and uprisings against the government marked by widespread outbreaks of violence. C. M. Jarvis was held prisoner by workers who took over the Alto Cedro mill, of which he was manager in Oriente province. Florencio Gerena appealed for protection from the gangs at Mercedes sugar mill.

Fears of an island-wide general strike moved the government today to renewed vigilance in the midst of continued disorders such as those in which the Americans were engaged. Plans for a general strike were being laid by the Communists and the current strike difficulties kept authorities busy seeking to forestall the movement for further uprisings. A huge bomb tossed from a speeding automobile damaged two buildings in mid-Havana at about 1:30 this morning but no one was injured.

WORLD'S LARGEST FLAG FLIES AFTER NINE YEARS

Rome.—(AP)—The largest flag in the world, as it is described here, will wave in the breezes when the Futurist Art Exhibit is opened here October 28.

The tri-color was made in 1924, but has never been hung in Italy because of its size. It has a surface of nearly 4,000 square feet and weighs 550 pounds.

Big Dutch Fortunes Diminish

The Hague.—(AP)—There were 249 fewer millionaires in Holland last year than in 1931 and the combined fortunes decreased from 2,931,000,000 florins to 2,323,000,000 florins, or about $932,270,000.

More Camps For Southern States

Washington, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Reforestation forces in the southern states will be swelled by approximately 25,000 men under the new distribution of the Civilian Conservation Corps camps for the winter.

North Carolina is to maintain 34 camps this winter with a total of 7,004.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Tightening Reins On Ford

Washington, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson said today if Henry Ford failed to submit the figures requested by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce within the time to be set "I'll turn the case over to the attorney general." At the press conference the NRA executive intimated that the deadline would be November 7, but he cautioned that he was not definitely certain that that date would be the one fixed.

He further said that he did not consider Ford eligible to bid on government contracts. Replying to questions on that subject, he said, "No, I don't think he is eligible because Edsel Ford told me in Detroit that he would never consent to any collective bargaining." Johnson disclosed that Robert Fechner, director of the C. C. C., had informed him that a low bid by a Ford dealer for a large number of trucks for his organization had been rejected.

Trade Relations With Russia Big Problem

(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

From the nature of the data on Russia now reposing on President Roosevelt's desk, it seems safe to assume that trade relations will have first consideration in the forthcoming recognition negotiations.

Russian war debt repudiation, private claims and communist propaganda will be mentioned but, after all, development of reciprocal trade agreements is so much a cardinal policy of the administration that it easily may almost monopolize the discussions.

Russia has a special reason for making some concessions to gain recognition. That reason is worry at Moscow about the operations of Japan along the Manchurian frontier.

Once before, when a somewhat similar situation existed, Russia found a way of making known secretly and indirectly to the Washington government that her feeling was this:

Four great nations—Russia, China, Japan and the United States—were especially interested in the Far East. China and the United States had not. So Russia could talk only to Japan, whose activities worried her most.

The overture got nowhere at all, but now sentiment at Washington is somewhat different.

Speaking of foreign viewpoints, an authoritative German version of the long-term considerations of the present European situation has just become available in Washington. It goes like this:

Over a long period German statesmen found that whenever the subject of disarmament came up along with it came the French demand for security.

Germany wanted to get that out of the way. At Locarno she pro-

NORFLEET TO SPEAK HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Winston-Salem Man To Deliver Address At Presbyterian Church

Presbyterians feel themselves very fortunate in having secured the consent of Charles M. Norfleet of Winston-Salem to speak at their morning service next Sunday. Mr. Norfleet is not only a very successful business man, prominent in the business of the State, but is also a consecrated christian man, active in the Evangelistic clubs of the State and at one time President of the National organization of Business Men's Evangelistic clubs.

He has recently delivered a fine address on the subject of Evangelism at the woman's meeting in Rocky Mount, and though a very busy man, accepted an invitation to speak at the morning services, next Sunday. It will be worth much to anyone to hear him.

They invite the whole church membership to be present, and any of their friends who can attend. A special invitation is given to the men to attend in a body, as he has a message for them.

Mrs. Norfleet, who will be with her husband, is President of the Synodical State-wide organization of women of the Presbyterian church. They are to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. James, while in the city.

E. C. HOLLAR CLUB SPEAKER

College History Teacher Urges Kiwanians to Follow President Day Leadership

If this nation is not to follow in the path of decadence as other nations have done, then it is up to its people to adhere to present day leadership. Professor E. C. Hollar of the department of history of East Carolina Teachers College, told members of the Kiwanis Club assembled in regular twice a month session at the Woman's Club last night.

The assertion came at the conclusion of a discussion of the downfall of early governments because the people were content with their own achievements and sat down to rest on their glories.

The speaker used as his subject, "History Hash," and poured into that theme much thought dealing with the inability of people of earlier nations to take advantage of their achievements and to push on to higher ground of human accomplishment.

The leadership of the recent day has provided a national recovery administration through which it is hopeful of continuing what has already been accomplished in this country, the speaker said, and if we are not to suffer the same fate as did the powers of the early civilizations that were content to rest upon their glories and permit decadence to take the place of human effort, then we must continue to act.

Rev. E. L. Hillman presided over the session and the program was in charge of Dr. M. B. Massey who presented the speaker of the evening.

Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, presented Alton Moore and Jack Kittrell, Junior Kiwanians with emblems of the organization. They were selected to serve in this capacity because of their high scholastic rating. Each month two students are selected from the high school student body.

At the conclusion of the program the entire membership gathered around the piano where Mrs. R. A. Tyson presided, and enjoyed five minutes of singing.

The meeting took the place of the regular Friday night gathering due to the district convention of Kiwanis opening at Elizabeth City last night. By meeting a night ahead of the scheduled time members of the club were afforded the opportunity to attend the district gathering.

FUNERAL FOR J. SUTTON TO BE HELD TODAY

Prominent Farmer of Black Jack Section Dies at His Home Last Night

Johnson Sutton, age 66, died last night at nine o'clock at his home near Black Jack, following an illness of heart trouble of several months. Funeral services were conducted from his late home this afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. Jim Norris of Greene county, conducted the services. Burial followed in the Savage burying ground near Greenville.

Mr. Sutton was a farmer, had lived in Pitt county all his life, was well known and an outstanding citizen of his community. He was a member of the Holiness Church in Black Jack.

Surviving are his wife, who was Miss Sarah Dickerson; three daughters, Mrs. E. L. Braxton, Mrs. J. C. Mills, Mrs. Fate Riggs; three sons, Robert and Louis Sutton, all of Pitt county, and Joseph Sutton of Greene county; a brother, Frank Sutton of Beaufort county; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Ann Boyd and Mrs. Mack Haddock of Pitt county, and twenty-one grandchildren.

PATROLMEN GUARD MILLS

Use Tear Gas and Fire Hose to Disperse Strikers in South Carolina

Langley, S. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Highway patrolmen employed fire hose and tear gas at Bath today to disperse a crowd of striking textile workers after approximately 400 Augusta, Ga., strikers had invaded this section and announced their intention to close every mill in the section. 22 strikers, four of them women, were arrested and lodged in jail at Aiken, although no charge was placed against them immediately. It was stated that the arrests were a precautionary measure. Strikers from Augusta and this section were among those jailed.

Minor disorders including scattered fist fights and the throwing of several rocks were prevalent for a time but the situation quieted later in the morning. The mills were run and patrolmen guarded all the plants and the workers who wished to enter. At the plants lines were drawn near the gates and only persons going to work could cross them. Others were held back.

Occasional strikers who stepped across this border or were otherwise unruly were taken into custody today.

To Reorganize Army. Dublin.—(AP)—The battalion system in the Free State army would be discarded and regiments formed under a plan framed by Defense Minister Aiken. The regiments, instead of being numbered, would be named for Irish patriots.

TRIPP FAILS TO RECOVER IN DAMAGE SUIT

Only Three Cases Disposed of in Civil Court Session Here Yesterday

After being tied up for more than a day deliberating the case, a jury in Pitt County Superior court here yesterday returned a verdict that neither plaintiff nor defendant were entitled to recovery in the damage suit brought by N. C. Tripp against Will Worthington as a result of an automobile accident.

Tripp was suing for $5,000 for injury received when his wrecked car struck by a car driven by Worthington while Tripp was working on the wrecker beside the highway. Worthington set up a counter claim against Tripp on the grounds that Tripp's wrecker was an obstruction on the highway at the time of the accident and he (Worthington) was entitled to damages for injury received in the accident alleged to have been the result of Tripp's negligence. The case was begun in court here Tuesday morning and after final arguments reached the jury about four o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Other cases disposed of by the court yesterday included suit of Mrs. E. A. Lally vs J. J. Anderson to recover on a $500 note. Judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff for the $500 plus two years interest.

Judgment for $485 was rendered against Redmond Person (colored) in favor of Sylvia Moore (colored) administratrix of the estate of Pug Moore, in a suit brought against Person and J. B. Bullock (white). While the case did not go to the jury it was argued at some length before Judge Prizzelle and the final judgment was agreed to by the parties involved.

According to the arguments Bullock and Person had acquired some of the Pug Moore lands while a judgment against Moore was outstanding. After Moore's death his widow Sylvia Moore in settling the estate found that there were not enough assets to cover the judgment and therefore brought the suit in order to settle the judgment. It was shown that after Moore's death Bullock, by virtue of a contract he had with Moore had paid to the administratrix $600 and acquired a title to his part of the land, which money had been accounted for by the administratrix in settling the estate. In view of this fact Bullock was exempted from further liability and the judge assessed Person with $485 to cover the balance due on the judgment.

The other case disposed of by the court yesterday was the granting of a divorce to Mollie Whitehurst from her husband Matthew Whitehurst on the grounds of separation. The parties were colored.

Judge Prizzelle yesterday afternoon dismissed the jury from further duty and continued court today with the hearing of only such cases as did not require a jury.

On Monday morning the court will open for a week's hearing of criminal cases with a heavy docket.

AUTOS ARE 'BEASTLY' TO BRITISH PEER

Derby, England.—(AP)—The Duke of Devonshire, it may be taken, does not like motor cars.

At a horse show here, he described them as "foul, stinking things" that made life hideous, ruined the roads and increased taxes.

"We formerly traveled as gentlemen, and not as crashing cads," he said.

When in London, the duke, who is 65, hires a horse-drawn hansom cab.

He is the father-in-law of the former Adele Astaire, the American dancer who married Lord Charles Cavendish.

Mass Hawk Migration. Franklin, N. C.—(AP)—The oldest residents had never seen anything like it before—about 1,000 hawks flying westward in a flock. The hawk is regarded as the lone hunter of the clouds and mass migration is wholly foreign to its normal characteristics. Nobody hereabouts can recall having seen more than two or three together.

FORWARD UNDER NRA

Recent Nation-wide surveys of business conditions
in the United States emphasize the rapidity with which merchants and manufacturers alike are appreciative of the advantages of cooperating under codes of fair competition. Last summer staunch admirers of the National Recovery Act were fearful that it would require
many months for business men to accommodate themselves to commercial characters embracing entire industries with many diversifica-tions. Students of the measure who foresaw lasting benefits to trade were dubious of the initial stage. This apprehension was based on the theory that business enterprises which had been able to survive the four grueling years of depression were necessarily manned by ultra conservatives who would be slow to adopt innovations.

But the President had correctly gaged the needs of commerce and the determination of business men in general to avail themselves of the opportunity to govern themselves.

The current report of the Standard Statistics Co., of New York, opens with the significant statement:
"One of the fundamental facts to be faced in appraising future prospects of business is the extent to which business is adjusting itself
to those controls embodied in the NRA program. It is evident business has been led to do so by the recent revival in activity."

Forward buying on a scale
not experienced in years is attributed to the stimulus of the "Now is the time to buy"
campaign, and there is said to be in every section of the country a disposition to comply literally with General Johnson's suggestion to offer the public good goods fairly priced. Business everywhere is reported to be catering to the comfort of new customers to such an extent that sustained buying power in the late autumn is freely predicted.

The natural deduction is that here is afforded the greatest opportunity the American people ever had to supply their present
needs.

Outrageous Fortune

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Caroline Leigh just
she heard Susie Van Berg declare that she has accused the attempted murder of Elmer Van Berg by smoking immer poison of Jim Vandal, friend of Susie, and the man Caroline loves. Jim is in hiding.
His memory just, because Caroline seems to point to his having shot
Elmer and stolen the famous Van Berg emerald. But Caroline knows Jim could not have done such a thing. She encourages Susie Van Berg to continue her attack.

Chapter 35 MRS. VAN BERG'S STORY

"I MUST tell someone. It just goes on and on in my head all the time. I don't sleep, you know."

"You can tell me—I'm safe," said Caroline. And then as soon as she had said it she had a revision of feeling. "No, don't tell me—don't!
Don't tell me anything! Because if you did it, and they thought it was Jim, I should have to tell them."

Susie shook her head again.
"It wasn't like that. What did you think? I didn't shoot Elmer—I didn't mean that. Did you think I did?"

"I don't know. I didn't want you to tell me anything you'd feel sorry
about afterwards."

"I must tell someone," said Susie
piteously. "If I don't I'll go crazy."

She broke off with a start. "Look out of that door and see there's no
one listening!"

Caroline opened the door and looked out. There was no one in sight. The contrast between the room and the passage was extreme.
The air was cold. Against an uncur-tained window about three yards away the rain was beating. An inky cloud hung like a curtain across the sky. It was so dark that the sun might have set already.

She went back to the sofa and sat down.

"There's no one there."
And at once, without any preliminaries, Susie Van Berg said:
"Jim shot Elmer."

"No!" said Caroline. "No!"

"Jim shot him. It was my fault—I made Elmer jealous. You know I can't help firing—I'm made that way. What did Elmer marry me for if he didn't like it? It made him mad; and you know the way it is—I liked making him mad. But he ought to have known there was nothing in it."

Caroline heard her voice, harsh and unfamiliar.

"Wasn't there anything in it?"

"Only nonsense—and Jim wouldn't even play up to that. He thought a lot of Elmer. There was an invention they both thought a lot of. That's what Jim came to see him about that night. Did you know he was here the night Elmer was shot?"

Caroline nodded. "What happened?"

"Did you read what I told the police? I didn't tell any lies, but I didn't tell all the truth. They'd have argued Jim straight away if I had."

"What didn't you tell?"

"I told them I went downstairs to get a book, and heard voices in the study. I didn't tell them that it was Jim's voice I heard."

"What did you hear?"

"They were quarrelling—that's why I listened. I heard Elmer say,
'I'm through with you!' And I heard Jim say, 'I'm damned if I'll be spoken to like that!'"

"Was that all?"

"No, it wasn't. Jim said, 'You take that back!' And then Elmer got up—I heard his chair scrape along the floor and he came towards the door, and I thought how angry he'd be if he found me there and I ran away."

"Jim never shot Mr. Van Berg," said Caroline. "Jim isn't a thief. The person who shot Mr. Van Berg is the person who stole the emeralds."

SUSIE VAN BERG put her hand to her head. She spoke in a weak, exhausted voice.

"I don't mind about the emeralds—
he shot Elmer. And I tore the page with his finger-prints out of Elmer's book. I knew if the police found it they would arrest him, so I tore it out." She sat bolt upright, her hands locked upon her knee. "I tore it out, but I didn't tear it up. Do you know where he is? If you do, will you tell him that?"

"That you tore it out?"

"Tell him I tore it out, but I didn't tear it up. If Elmer gets better, I'll tear it up, but if he doesn't—" Her locked hands strained one against the other; a line of livid pallor showed beyond the painted line of her lips. "If he doesn't—if he dies—

I'm going to give those finger-prints
to the police, and I'm going to swear that I heard Jim's voice and that I heard him threaten Elmer."

Caroline fought the sharpest fear
she had ever known. What had really happened in the library that night?

She steeled herself. Susie Van Berg had not moved. The patch of color on either cheek had spread a little, as a stain spreads in milk.

Caroline said, "Why?" Then as Susie went on staring at her she made a quick movement. "I don't understand. Why did you tear the page out?"

"To help Jim—because it was my fault."

"You won't have helped him very much if you mean to tell the police in the end."

"Only if Elmer dies," said Susie with dry lips. Her eyes stared past Caroline at a picture of Elmer dead.

"Jim didn't shoot him."

"Yes—he did. If Elmer gets well, he'll tell me what to do. That's why I tore out the page, and why I didn't tell the police. But if he doesn't get well, I shall say that Jim shot him, and that it was my fault. I can't go on like this." There was a dreadful finality about the way she said it.

Caroline got up and put on her coat.

"Are you going?"

"Yes," said Caroline.

Susie drew a long sighing breath
and turned her head.

"Is it still raining?"

"I expect so—it looked very black."

Susie shuddered and stood up.

"There's a storm. You can't go if there's a storm."

"I'll get home before it breaks,"
said Caroline.

Now that she was on her feet, she wanted to be gone. Her head burned with the heat of the room, and her knees were trembling. Outside, in the wind and the rain, it might be easier to feel sure about Jim. She said "Good-bye," and went out without touching Susie's hand.

AS soon as she had shut the door
she began to run. She wanted to get right away, and she had a feeling that Susie might call her back. She turned the corner, and then turned again. The passages were very dark. She stopped running and wondered if she had taken the wrong turning.

The house was old and rambling.
She had a bewildered feeling of having lost her sense of direction. A sudden flare of lightning gave a blinding picture of two corridors meeting at the foot of a narrow stair. Darkness followed immediately, and one of those peals of thunder which sound like giant riders being thrown down upon an iron roof. The noise was deafening.

Caroline shrank instinctively away from the window, and found herself six or seven steps up the stair, holding to the narrow balustrade and waiting for the horrible noise to stop.

When she opened her eyes, she saw above her a very faint streak of light. There was a door a few steps up, and the light came from under
it. It was just a thin pale streak, but it meant that there was someone in the room. Caroline had a feeling that someone else's company would be pleasant. She could say that she had lost her way in the passage.

She went up to the level of the door, and as she lifted her hand to knock, the light of another flash
flared up from behind her and below,
and a crash more violent than either of the others followed. Urged by a blind instinct for shelter, Caroline opened the door.

She was inside the door and leaning against the jamb with the door shut behind her before the second crack of thunder came. She could not have moved to save her life. She was in the room, but she could not see it at all, because a four-leafed screen covered the door, one panel being flat against the wall on her left, while the other three zig-zagged

A HEN THAT CROWS! MAYBE IT'S HER AGE

Harrodsburg, Ky. (AP)—Any
chicken that reaches the age of 16 years has something to crow about.
That probably explains why a 16-
year old hen owned by Miss Katie Van Arsdale has ceased egg-laying and struts about crowing like a rooster.

Its tendency to vocalize sometimes brings forth 31 "crows" without a stop.

Washington (AP)—When you

ment of agriculture advises.

Few people realize, federal experts declare, that adults need the muscle building proteins and calcium for maintaining bones and teeth contained in milk almost as much as the growing child or pregnant woman.

Top Notch's Revenge

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I've come to this countryside for a little quiet," said Grandpa Galump
—or as the Puddle Muddle animals
now called him, Grandpa Grouchy Galump—"and just as I had finished painting my house and was resting all these terrible shrieks and sounds woke me up. I tried to sleep but it was useless; so I got up and planted a few seeds and tried to rest once more."

"You can't go anywhere at this time of the year," said Willy Nilly
"where you won't hear football cheering. They'll be playing from time to time, so you'd better make the best of it."

Willy Nilly was feeling very independent after the great victory
they had won, but it made Top Notch angry to think of having such an old crank in the neighborhood and so he crowed to himself that he would have his revenge.

He had heard Grandpa speak of the seeds he had planted and so over-went Top Notch and dug up all the seeds, ate as many as he could and scratched the others up in a pile which he hid up in a big leaf to carry home.

Just as he was on his way home
he suddenly felt an enormous silk bag covering him and making him a prisoner. He tried to scratch his way out to daylight and freedom, but a squeaky voice said:

"You thought you'd come prow-
ling around when Grandpa was away.
Did you? Well, I watched you from an upstairs window and I let you think you were having luck until you were on your way home. I'll keep you from scratching up our garden!"
What was going to happen
now?

GREENVILLE TOBACCO MARKET REPORT

EVERYBODY PULLING TOGETHER IN BEHALF OF THE TO- BACCO GROWERS SELLING ON OUR MARKET HAS MADE GREENVILLE THE OUTSTANDING MARKET OF THE ENTIRE BRIGHT TOBACCO BELT.

Market Continues Strong

Better grades reached 77c today, sales lighter, all warehouses selling out in early afternoon.

A larger number of growers from distant counties are now patronizing the Greenville market than any time since the market was established, and they know it is paying them to sell here, some of them traveling over 100 miles.

The reason for the phenomenal record Greenville market has made and is at present making, is the fine spirit being manifested by the Greenville Tobacco Byers who are determined that no market shall excel Greenville in prices paid for every grade of tobacco.

GRADE MORE CAREFULLY

Hundreds of thousands of dollars annually are lost on account of marketing tobacco in too soft condition and by careless grading.

Let us suggest that every one preserve warehouse bills of sales and see that they are dated.

The Board of Trade does not permit under penalty of $50.00 fine, any warehouseman to reserve floor space for anyone. The principle of first come first served under the By-Law must be carried out.

Tune in on Greenville's Radio Station WEED every day (except Sunday) at 9:45 A. M., 12:45 P. M. and 4:45 P. M. for latest tobacco market reports. Will find it on your dial around 142 or 1420.

Literature Department Meets.

On Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 24, the Literature Department of the Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. J. H. B. Moore. After a short business session, Miss Lelia Hyman presented a very interesting review of Frederick Lewis Allen's "Only Yesterday," spoken of by the author as "an informal history of the nineteen-twenties" and by others as the best selling non-fiction book of 1932.

This is an entertaining resume of the events following the world war, and with that background a look at the present, as it reveals the fundamental trend of national life and national thought. It is a very enlightening volume with a grain of comfort at the conclusion, and Miss Hyman's discussion was well worth the close attention which it was accorded.

At the close of her talk, the hostess served refreshments.—Reported.

N. C. COLLEGIATE PRESS ASSN. TO MEET AT COLLEGE

The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will be held at East Carolina Teachers College on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, November 2, 3, 4. The two publications of the college, the newspaper, the Teco Echo, and the annual, The Tecoan, will act as hosts. Gene Newsom of the staff of the Chronicle of Duke University, is president of the association.

Delegates from the various colleges of the state will arrive Thursday. Registration will take place that afternoon from 2:30 to 5:30. A tea for the delegates will be given at the Y hut that afternoon.

A general business session will be held Friday morning, followed by group meetings. The final session will be Saturday morning.

The two social events will be a banquet, held Thursday evening at the Woman's Club, and a dance on Friday night.

Carl Goerch will be the chief guest speaker at the meeting and will speak at the banquet Thursday evening.

Mrs. Moore Bridge Hostess.
Mrs. John D.R. Weed of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Sidney Caswell of Detroit, Mich., house guests of Mrs. Graham Flanagan, were complimented Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Selma Carson Moore entertained at bridge at her home on Eighth street.

The home throughout was attractively decorated with yellow and orange chrysanthemums, dahlias and cosmos. With the aid of lighted pumpkins and shaded lights the true Halloween spirit was felt.

Just as the cards were laid aside little Alice Ruth Bundy came in dressed as a witch and placed lighted pumpkins on each table and passed orange half-moon candy.

The witch then invited the honor guests and six of their intimate friends to go into the dining room, which was a scene of weirdness and beauty with its Halloween decorations and candle glow. The table at which they were seated was lovely with an Italian cutwork cloth centered with a bowl of orange and yellow dahlias flanked by candles. The Halloween idea was further carried out in the chicken salad course. Mrs. W. J. Bundy and Miss Arlene Everett assisted the hostess in serving.

Table prizes, miniature black vases with orange cosmos, were cut by Mrs. Rosamond Flanagan Nicholson, Mrs. David Turner, Miss Mary Wright, Mrs. Sam T. White, Mrs. D. M. Clark and Mrs. W. H. Bradsher. High score prize, an orange pottery jar, was won by Mrs. John Weikel. The honor guests were presented with Japanese smoking sets, and Mrs. John L. Winstead, a recent bride, was given Prosta glassware.

TEACHERS TO BATTLE NEXT AT GUILFORD

The East Carolina Teachers College football eleven, under the leadership of coach Beatty and Shickler, have been working out strenuously for their next game on Saturday, when they play the Guilford College eleven at Guilford.

The teachers eleven will be minus three of their star men this week as a result of injuries sustained in the game here last Friday with the Wake Forest Frosh. These men are John Kapelic, right end, Rogerston right half back and Summerell right tackle. Kapelic received a fractured shoulder blade and Rogerston received a wrenched back, both injuries probably will keep these men out of action the remainder of the season. Summerell is suffering from water on the knee.

The Teachers are anxious to give Guilford a better showing than they did last year, when the Guilford eleven defeated them by the score of 79-0. The boys will leave here early Saturday morning for the Quaker game.

This is the last game away from home that the Teachers will play, the remainder of the games will be played at home.

Makes Report On Loan Corp.

Commitments by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in North Carolina have reached the figure of $1,264,868.64, it was reported yesterday by Alan S. O'Neal state manager of the corporation, with headquarters at Salisbury.

The cases represented by the commitments of $1,264,868.64 are now in the hands of attorneys of the corporation who are making the necessary legal examinations before the final steps are taken, said Mr. O'Neal. He added that individual cases would be closed as quickly as the legal reports are made, which should be within a short time.

The corporation thus far has halted 641 foreclosure proceedings on homes in the state, he said, property involved in these being valued at $1,944,357.79.

In addition, he added, loans totaling $1,726,152.78 have not been granted for the reason they did not come within provisions of the federal law creating the corporation or the mortgages. These may come up at a later date for reconsideration he said.

New York Cotton N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady one to five lower under overnight hedge selling and owing to slow demand. Prices steadied later on trade buying.

After selling up from 9.54 to 9.60, December eased slightly and the market at the end of the first half hour was quiet within two points either way of yesterday's close. The market strengthened later in the morning with December working up to 9.63 and May 10.00, making net advances of 5 to 8 points but this advance brought on more selling and prices at midday were back to yesterday's closing quotations.

"There's One Sure Way to Compare Tobacco Fertilizer"

R. Burroughs
 PRESIDENT, F. S. ROYSTER GUANO COMPANY

SEE if this doesn't sound like common sense to you. Look at the tobacco on the warehouse floor. Pick out the finest quality—the highest priced. Then ask which fertilizer was used. When you find that Royster fertilized tobacco is of superior quality and brings a higher price—then it stands to reason that Royster is the tobacco fertilizer for you to use. We ask you to make this fair comparison because it is the one sure way to judge fertilizer—by results. And Royster results speak for themselves from the warehouse floor.

Remember this: Royster Tobacco Fertilizer is made in one quality only—the best that money can buy at any price. That high standard is maintained by Royster experts who are constantly studying the tobacco plant—finding out all there is to know about its plant food needs—from the time the plant beds are sown until the crop is in the barn. These men of long experience locate, test and refine all materials to make sure that only the best obtainable go into Royster sacks. Year after year they check up through actual field tests—to make certain that every sack of Royster Tobacco Fertilizer contains the correct combination of materials to produce the finest quality leaf.

After nearly fifty years of successful results, no wonder we ask you to compare Royster fertilized tobacco with the rest of the tobacco on the warehouse floor. This easy test is the best salesman we have.
