COLLEGIATE PRESS MEET THIS CITY

Three Day Convention of College Press To Begin Here Tomorrow Afternoon

The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will hold its twenty-sixth session at East Carolina Press Collegiate beginning Thursday afternoon and continuing through Saturday morning.

The meeting will be presided over by Gene Newsome, of Duke University, who is President of the Association.

The delegates from the colleges and universities who are members of the association will register at Cotter Hall on Thursday morning. Registration will be followed by a tea in the "Y" hut. The members of the staffs of the Teo Echo and the Teocan, the college publications, will act as hostesses at the tea.

On Thursday evening a banquet will be held at the Wymann's Club. The guest speaker will be Carl Goerch, of Raleigh, editor of the The State, and formerly editor of the Washington Progress. President R. H. Wright will welcome the members of the association at that time.

Friday morning a general business session followed by two divisional meetings, one composed of the editors and the others of the business managers, will be held. Round table discussions on the problems of college publications will be features at these meetings.

On Friday afternoon the delegates will have a choice of two entertainments. A football game between the Teachers College team and that of Presbyterian Junior College will be played, and a theater party, through the courtesy of the management of the State Theater, will be given.

Friday evening a dance will be given at the Woman's Club. Music for both the banquet and dance will be furnished by Jack Wardlaw and the Carolina Pines Orchestra.

The final business session will be in the Austin auditorium on Saturday morning.

The officers of the association are: President, Miss Susan Calder, Salem College; treasurer, Hoke Norris, Wake Forest; secretary, Miss Frances White, Wake Forest.

About seventy-five delegates are expected. These are the editors-in-chief and business managers of the newspapers, magazines and annuals published by the colleges and universities that are members of the State Association.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is one of the few institutions of higher learning in the State that is not a member. The other two units of the Greater University, State College and the Woman's College are members.

DISCOVERS THE CAUSE OF WOMAN'S AILMENT

Kinston, Nov. 1.—How a salesman found the cause of a woman's recent illness after doctors had failed was related here today.

She entered a store to be fitted for a pair of shoes. An X-ray machine is used in the shop. The salesman turned on the machine and saw besides the bone in the customer's feet, part of a needle lodged under a callous.

A surgeon removed the needle and the woman has ceased taking treatments for a nervous trouble. The trouble, he said, was brought on by the needle.

BRUMMITT TO SPEAK AT LAW SCHOOL MEET

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 1.—Dennis G. Brummitt, Attorney-General of North Carolina, is to speak here Thursday, November 2, at 12 o'clock in Manning Hall, at a convocation of the University Law School.

The subject of his address will be "The Work of the Attorney-General's Office."

This is the second of a series of convocations to be held in the Law School during the current school year. The first speaker on this program was Arthur Henderson, J. of London, who spoke on "Social Legislation in Great Britain," on October 4.

EDWARD BEST SCHOOL TO HOLD FAIR FRIDAY

Louisburg, Nov. 1.—An address by Charles B. Howard of Enfield will be one of the principal features of the Edward Best school community fair at Edward Best high school Friday, November 3. The fair is an annual event sponsored by the vocational agriculture department of the school.

Other features of the fair include a parade of school children, a steer race and a playground ball game between the lady teachers of the district and the ladies of the community. An Old Maid's convention will be held at night.

AL SMITH IS PUZZLED OVER SOME OF NRA

Says Certain Features Border on Illegality And Are Very Puzzling

To Alfred E. Smith some aspects of the NRA are very puzzling. In the edition of the New Outlook published today Smith sets forth that certain features of the government's recovery program, he believes is inconsistent and bordering on illegality.

It is all very puzzling, he said, and bewildered observers hope ultimately for an honest test of those issues by the court. He said he was further dumfounded at a suggestion in a newspaper of wide circulation that the president could ask congress to create a few more Supreme Court justices and fill them with those sympathetic with the aims of the national recovery act. That, indeed, would be a new deal, he said.

M. LITVINOFF SAILS FOR U.S.

Russian Spokesman Enroute to Washington to Confer With President Roosevelt

Paris, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar called today from Cherbourg aboard the Berengaria, enroute to Washington for conversation with President Roosevelt concerning Russian recognition.

M. Litvinoff was accompanied by Constantin Outanski, press director for commissariat for foreign affairs and Ivan Divilkoff, general secretary of the foreign office.

SAYS GRAVE DUTIES REST ON GRAND JURORS

Sanford, Nov. 1.—Lee County Superior Court, with Judge Frank A. Daniels of Goldsboro, presiding, convened here yesterday for a two week term. Judge Daniels, in an able charge to the grand jury, defined the important duties which rested upon them. E. M. Underwood, Jr., was selected as foreman under the plan in operation in Lee county, only nine of the grand jury are new members. The remaining nine hold over until the spring term of court.

The case against Willie Bule and Roscoe Woodward, Negroes, charged with the killing of H. S. Cole, negro merchant, was set for Wednesday morning. Judge Daniels ordered a special venire of 60 summoned from which it is expected to select the jury.

Murdered and Home Fired

Brockport, Miss., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Firemen broke into the burning home of Mrs. Augusta Johnson, 55, today and found the body of Mrs. Johnson lying across a bed. Police said the woman apparently had been beaten to death and her home set on fire.

Fifty-six miles of roadside were cleared as a fire prevention measure by civilian conservation corps workers in Indiana this summer.

GANG WARFARE BREAKS OUT IN CAMDEN, N. J.

One Man Killed, Another Wounded and Two Women Believed Kidnapped

Camden, N. J., Nov. 1.—(AP)—An outbreak of what police termed gang warfare resulted today in the machine-gun killing of one man, the critical wounding of another and the mysterious disappearance of two women.

An hour after a man giving his name as John Hall, 32, was brought into a Camden hospital with three steel jacketed bullets in his body. State police found the body of Edward (Cowboy) Delonzo, with a bullet through his head, lying in a lonely spot near Dellmaw. Despite his wounds Hall told Lawrence Doran, chief of Camden detectives, that he and Delonzo were shot by three men with whom they were riding in an automobile and were dumped out between Brooklawn and Dellmaw.

"I knew who shot these men and there will be arrests soon," Doran said later.

While surgeons strove to save him, Hall asked that his wife be summoned from a hotel opposite the hospital. This was done, but when the woman, with a girl companion reached the hospital entrance, a man met them and apparently forced them into an automobile in which they were driven away.

Doran said he believed Hall was a former Philadelphian living in Camden under an assumed name, and that his wife had been abducted because she had seen the three men who shot her husband. Widespread search was being made for the women and their captors.

PARK SEEKERS ARE ADVISED TO MEET HERE

Meeting Tomorrow Will Discuss National Park For Coastal Section

Raleigh, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Representative citizens from the eastern part of North Carolina who had been called to meet in Washington tomorrow to discuss plans to secure a national park along the sea coast today were telegraphed to go to Greenville instead of Washington.

R. Bruce Etheridge, state director of conservation and development, called the meeting for Washington but changed it to Greenville this morning so that the park proponents may meet with the State Public Works Advisory Board there.

EASTERN STAR LEADERS CONFERR AT BAYBORO

New Bern, Nov. 1.—With about 75 persons present, one of the best Eastern Star district meetings for this section was held Friday at Bayboro, with the district deputy grand matron, Mrs. Roland Herring, of Greenville, presiding. Ayden was chosen for the next annual district meeting.

The ritualistic opening was conducted by the Bayboro chapter, and Mrs. Elizabeth Holland, of Oriental presented the United States flag. Among the special visitors introduced were Mrs. M. M. Allred of Greensboro, worthy grand matron; Mrs. Mary C. Wetherly, of Franklinsville, grand secretary; George R. Bennett, of Greensboro, junior past grand patron and superintendent of the Masonic and Eastern Star home Mrs. Clyde Fitzgerald, of Raleigh, associated grand matron, and Mrs. J. W. Parker of Fannville, past grand matron.

The welcome was extended by Mrs. Jennie Pott, worthy matron of the Bayboro chapter, and the response was by Mrs. Louise Wells, of Greenville. Degree work was exemplified by different chapters in the district. Music was interspersed on the day's interesting programs.

EHRINGHAUS TO SPEAK AT GUILFORD OCCASION

Guilford College, Oct. 31.—First details of the program for the celebration on January 13 of the 100th anniversary of charter day at Guilford College were made known in chapel yesterday by President Raymond Binford.

Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus will be the chief speaker of the charter day program to be held on the afternoon of January 13.

Other features of the charter day program will include a conference on coeducation on the morning of January 13 and a special entertainment that evening.

NEGRO RETURNED TO VIRGINIA

After almost ten months delay, George Crawford, negro, was returned to Virginia to stand trial in the slaying of Mrs. Margaret Bowing Illey and her maid, Nina Buckner. The U. S. circuit court of appeals reversed Federal Judge James A. Lowell's decision that Crawford could not be tried because Virginia does not permit service of negroes on juries. At right is Sheriff E. S. Adrian of Loudoun county, Virginia. (Associated Press Photo)

Late News Flashes From Over World

Pleased With NRA

Washington, Nov. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was said in high quarters today to be feeling the recovery program is getting along well, after a study of charts just received showing the increase in employment and total wages being paid.

Secretary Perkins reported to him an average wage rise of from 42 cents to 51 cents an hour while the average working week hours had declined from 42 to 36 hours.

Killed By Explosion

Tiverton, R. I., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Three men were killed, a fourth was missing and five were injured today as a huge new tank collapsed. Shortly thereafter four other tanks filled with oil burst into flames.

The loss from the fire is expected to reach $300,000. The tank was being tested and had been filled with water. Several workmen were on top of the tank looking it over to see if it was in good condition, while several others inspected it from the ground before the tank collapsed. The explosion followed shortly afterward, and the resulting fire spread quickly to the tanks nearby. Although firemen were promptly on the scene, nothing could prevent the rapid spread of the fire.

To Delay Taxes

Washington, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Albert H. Wiggin testified to Senate investigators today that the purpose of his large short sales of Chase National Bank stock through a personal corporation in 1929 was to postpone tax payments, previously the retired chairman of the bank had told the Senate Banking Committee he had paid income taxes totaling $1,365.00 in the last five years. ## To Tell The World About Advantages Of Greenville

Day by Day Things Are Getting Better in This Community: Reflector Will Tell Story of City And in Attractive Rotograve Section

Eight months ago a new captain took over a storm-battered ship of state—not only was it rudderless, but it sailed tattered and torn and a demoralized crew stood by as it drifted helplessly down stream with the current. Today the ship may yet have its port, but the new skipper has at least rigged a jury rudder and is steering a straight course. Clean new sails are driving the ship upstream. Maybe there are rocks and shoals ahead in the uncharted waters, but the crew has faith in the steady hand at the helm.

President Roosevelt has tried, and we point to victories. Already within the past eight months about two and one-half million people have been put back to work, wages have been increased in many industries, child labor has been outlawed, commodity prices are rising; buying power has been increased materially. Both cotton and tobacco are being marketed at much high prices.

As the nation comes back toward normal business conditions, with our government spending billions of dollars to stimulate prosperity, it is not meet and proper that we as citizens of Greenville and Pitt County to do our part toward ourselves and our community.

Every sane person knows that there are only two primary ways of creating new values and adding to our stock of material things—one is agriculture and the other is through industry. Our agriculture in this section is already developed to a high state of return and efficiency, and it is therefore toward industry that we must look in order to correct some of the depressed conditions that exist today.

When we more fully realize the fact that a perfect economic structure can only be formed when the proper co-ordination of agriculture and industry is made, just so long we will in Greenville, Pitt County, Eastern Carolina, be deprived of the full benefits enjoyed by the more economically balanced sections.

The proper climate for industry is here, the raw materials are here, the unskilled and skilled labor we have

NEGRO DRAWS TWENTY YEARS FOR SLAYING

Long Drawn Out Case Checks Speed Of Criminal Court Here

Riggs Moore, local negro, this morning drew a sentence of not less than twenty nor more than twenty-five years in State Prison at hard labor for the slaying of another negro, Woodrow Daniel. The killing occurred here several weeks ago when Moore and Daniel fell out over a crap game and Moore cut Daniel to death. Moore entered a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree and the plea was accepted by the State.

More long drawn out cases yesterday retarded the speed of the court and only three cases were given final disposition.

Nathan Coward and Maggie Strickland, colored, were tried on a charge of breaking into a filling station near Ayden. Coward was found guilty. The woman found guilty and sentenced to prison for a term of 18 to 20 months.

Roy Braxton, colored, charged with assault, had judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

James McKinney, colored, was found guilty of selling liquor and sentenced to two years on the roads. Jasper House, white, operator of a filling station just east of this city on the Washington highway, was found not guilty on a charge of possessing liquor for sale.

James Ward, colored, this morning was found guilty on a charge of stealing tobacco, but sentence had not been pronounced by the judge.

PUSH PLANS WEED JUBILEE CELEBRATION

Story of Tobacco to Be Told in Elaborate Pageant at Farmville Nov. 10

Final arrangements for the "Golden Weed Jubilee" to be held in Farmville Friday, November 10, are being pushed to completion according to announcement made today. While pageant and entertainment committees were busily engaged in taking care of plans for their parts of the program, the general committee, composed of E. V. Webb, of Kinston, president of the Eastern North Carolina Warehousemen's Association and representatives of the larger markets are called to meet in Farmville tonight to aid in completing arrangements for this joint celebration.

Last week Governor Ehringhaus presented an invitation to be on hand and take part in the celebration and announcement was made today that Congressman Lindsey C. Warren, of Washington, and J. C. Lanier, formerly of this city but now of the Agriculture Department, A. A., have also accepted invitations to be on hand.

GOLD PRICES STILL HIGHER

Domestic Price Jumps Another 14 Cents While World Prices Also Gains

Washington, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A boost in the gold price both here and abroad accompanied President Roosevelt's preparation for quick application of his plan intended to lift commodity prices by purchasing the yellow metal in European markets. The administration advanced the fixed price of gold to $32.26 or 14 cents above yesterday, and a new high. Meanwhile London quotations increased from $31.05 yesterday to $31.52 today, both calculated in dollars on the opening exchange rate.

Thus while the domestic price yesterday stood $1.07 higher than the world price the margin was reduced to 74 cents.

Cambridge University of England will send its debate team to oppose University of Iowa forsenstans this November for the tenth time in as many years.

PUBLIC WORKS MEETING HERE ON THURSDAY

Federal Representatives to Give Details As to Government Loans

The State Advisory Board of the Federal Works program has called a special mass meeting for this city to be held in Sheppard Memorial Library tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock.

The meeting is far the purpose of informing the people fully regarding the Federal program and urging the North Carolina cities to take advantage of the opportunity to share in these funds. Under the plan every approved project receives a government grant of 30 per cent of the necessary funds, having to pay back to the government only 70 per cent of the cost of the projects, and that over a long period of years.

Mayor and other officials of cities in this section have been invited to attend the regional meeting here tomorrow and it is expected a large number will be present.

H. C. Baily, State engineer, will be among the officials on hand for tomorrow's meeting.

REYNOLDS NOT TO SPEAK HERE

Other Engagements Prevent Appearance of Senator In This City

Contrary to rumors here that Senator Bob Reynolds would deliver an address here in behalf of the prohibition repeal campaign Senator Reynolds will not appear in this city according to a telegram received this morning by T. T. Hollingsworth.

Mr. Hollingsworth had wired Senator Reynolds regarding including Greenville in his speaking tour and Senator Reynolds' reply follows: "Answering wire received from you and our mutual friend Bob Little, appreciated greatly your invitation to speak at Greenville on Administration Repeal Measure, but regret to advise it will be impossible account fact I have schedule for two speeches a day throughout remainder of campaign and impossible to break any of these appointments."

Explosion Sets Oil Well Afire

Oklahoma City, Nov. 1.—(AP)—An explosion set fire to a 10,000 barrel oil well of the Russell Petroleum Company's No. 1 Reno, eleven blocks from Oklahoma City business district today. The blast of undetermined origin tore out the well connections, loosing a roaring column of oil and gas that shot high into the air and ignited. No one was injured.

The flames quickly melted the steel derrick and consumed 25.00 barrels of oil in four nearby tanks. A cloud of black smoke billowed over the city. The fire chief ordered other wells in the vicinity to shut down. There are six wells within one hundred yards of the burning well.

26 Lose Lives In Flood Today

Triana, Albania, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Feed, clothing and medical supplies were being rushed to Southern Albania today where twenty-six persons are known to be head in a disastrous flood. Fragmentary reports received here indicated there have been many more drowned. A number were said to have been killed at Tremendi when twenty-two houses were collapsed by the flood waters of the rain-swollen Viosa River.

HIGH PRICES CONTINUE ON TOBACCO MARKET

More Than Five and Half Million Dollars Paid to Growers This Season

Tobacco prices continued to hold up on the Greenville market yesterday despite a considerably lower quality than that offered on Monday. While the average price was about two cents below Monday's average because of the poorer grades, and quantities of rehandled tobacco offered prices on farmer's tobacco remained as high as on Monday's sales and the better grades sold up to 77 cents a pound.

Official figures on yesterday's sale showed 1,247,412 pounds, for $236,625.32, averaging $18.96 per hundred. Yesterday's sales brought the season's total poundage up to $3,580,042, which brought $5,856,715.67.

Today's sales were much lighter than for the first two days of the week, and indications were that all houses would finish early this afternoon and be ready for a new start tomorrow. Late October and November always being considered the best time to sell, warehousemen are advising the growers to bring in their good grades and fancy types of tobacco now.

SAILINGS REVEAL GAINS IN COMMERCE

Norfolk, Nov. 1.—According to the schedule of sailings bulletined by the Hampton Roads Maritime Exchange, coastwise and international trade is on the increase, for the bulletin lists 186 sailings for November and December against 126 a year ago, during the similar period.

The noticeable increase is in the schedule for South Atlantic ports. Last year there were only 34 sailings for Savannah, Jacksonville, West Palm Beach and Miami. This year there are three sailings each week, or 24 in all, the next two months.

An increase in trade with Gulf ports, the West Coast, London and the Bristol channel ports of Great Britain is also noticeable, through the sailings bulletined. And the Far East has six more.

Taking them in order these are ten sailings scheduled for London, Avonmouth, and ports on the British East coast, three more than the same period last year.

A year ago were only two sailings scheduled for Bristol channel ports. This year there are six. For Liverpool and Manchester eight are scheduled for this year during November and December. Last year the number was six.

Only one ship sailed for Glasgow this time last year. Two will call at that port this year.

BIBLE PRACTICABLE DECLARES DR. POTEAU

Wake Forest, N. C., Nov. 1.—The Bible does not say what it says, it says what it means, President Emeritus William Louis Poteat stated this morning to Wake Forest College freshmen in an assembly period address on the correct translation of the Bible.

In refuting modern ideas of the impracticability of the Bible, Dr. Poteat said that they are full of bits of literalism in the interpretation of the Scriptures. Jesus discarded the "eye for an eye" manner of dealing with one's fellow-man, he continued, and supplanted it with that of turning the other cheek in response to a slap on one side. Cultivate an attitude of superiority to an insult, he continued, be unsuitable and man will not try to insult you.

"If your professor assigns you five pages of Greek for one lesson do not grumble," he concluded, "but consider that he has complimented your capacity and prepare five able one-half pages."

Church Week in Spring Hope

Spring Hope, Nov. 1.—Dr. W. R. Cullon, of Wake Forest and Spring Hope, preached the closing sermon of Church Week, which has just been observed in the churches of this place. A committee, headed by W. P. and R. L. Pitts, P. C. Newton and Mrs. Roy Wilcox, mapped out the town and visited every home in Spring Hope and community, inviting the people to take part in a union service alternating at the two churches.

LET'S HAVE THAT SWIMMING POOL

With representatives of the State Advisory Board of the Federal Public Works program scheduled to hold a meeting here tomorrow let us again urge our municipal swimming pool committee to get busy and see to it that the matter of a government loan for this project is given consideration.

Sometime ago the committee and many of our citizens appeared very much enthused over the prospects of getting a swimming pool for this city and then, we regret to say, the enthusiasm began to lag and little or nothing is being done to put the proposition over. Now is the time to get a pool for our city if we are ever to have one, and we take this last opportunity before the meeting tomorrow to again urge our folks to action.

AN AIRPORT WOULD HELP

While we are on the subject of public improvements, we might also again call attention to the need of this city for an airport. This matter of airports is being given more attention all over the South at this time and provision is being made for federal aid for flying fields under certain conditions.

The time will come before long that the city without its airport will occupy the same position as a few years ago was the case of the cities not on the railroads. Being on a regular air line means better mail and transportation facilities and is a great asset to any community. Greenville is not only well located to be included in the North-South coastal air route at such time as it may be established, but is also almost on a direct air line between the government flying fields at Langley Field, Va., and Pope Field, Fayetteville. Of course planes traveling between these fields now ply route where there are landing fields, but if there were such a field here the planes would come this way which would help more to put Greenville on the map.

DEMONSTRATION CLUBS HAVE ANNUAL MEETING

Trenton, Nov. 1.—The home demonstration clubs of Jones County held their annual achievement program in the school-house at Trenton Friday. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Pearl Hammond of Trenton, and response was made by Mrs. E. S. Huggins of Pollockville; Rev. J. W. Morgan, of Maysville, offered a prayer, after which a play, "Consider the Kitchen," was put on by the Mallard Town Club, and a skit by Chinaquapin Club, entitled "Household Accounts."

Outrageous Fortune by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Jim Riddell, Minnie at Hale Place. His long-lost home. He is to receive his inheritance of $100,000 in the last week. He cannot believe he stole the Van Berg emeralds and shot him Van Berg, although the evidence points that way. A flash of memory connects the emeralds with a street car in the Blue Room. He looks there and is horrified to find them. Just then he is attacked, the emeralds snatched from him, and the attacker disappears. Jim tracks the man to the station, but he gets away.

Chapter 29 MISSING TRAIN

WELL, he had lost the train. Had he gained anything? He had seen the man's back for a moment as he ran across the platform. The light was poor, and he certainly hadn't seen anything that he could be sure of recognizing—medium height—medium build—some sort of cap on the head—a suit, not an overcoat.

He thought there was something odd about the man's right shoulder as he ran—his shoulder, or his sleeve. He remembered his own left-hand grip, that last wrench when the man bit him and pulled free, and the sound of tearing cloth.

He passed between the posts and took the path across the fields again. He was angry and tired, he had a bump on his head, and a bitten wrist. He had had the emeralds in his grasp and had lost them.

A torn coat and a Ledlington train were all he had to go upon. They did not provide him with very much encouragement.

He came back to Hale Place dog-tired, missing Caroline by a bare five minutes. He had left the door wide open, and he found it closed. So Caroline had come. He thought she might be there still. He called her name. When there was no reply, he went forward into the kitchen and groped for and lit another of the candles she had brought him. He wanted to wash the blood from his face, and to bathe his bitten wrist.

At the scullery sink he let the tap run and put his head under it. Then he took a look at his wrist. It was a good deal bruised, but the skin was only broken in one place. As he held it under the tap and the smear of blood ran off, he gave a start and caught up the candle in his other hand.

The mark of the bite showed plain on both sides of the wrist. On the under side were six indentations, all close together. But on the top of the wrist there were only four—two on one side and two on the other, and a wide gap between.

Here at last was a real clue. The man who had bitten him had lost the two front teeth in the middle of his upper jaw.

If you cannot go back or go forward, you must just make the best of it and go whatever way you can.

Jim walked back across the fields in the early hours of the morning and took the milk train into Ledlington. It reached Ledlington at ten minutes to seven, which is a cold, uncomfortable hour to arrive anywhere, but especially when you have no fixed destination and very little money.

He had a cup of tea and a sandwich, and put in time in the waiting-room until he could buy a paper. He chose one of the more dramatic dailies, and was immediately confronted by a large picture of Packham Hall and a photograph, described as unique, of Susie Van Berg with the emeralds all across the front of her dress.

It wasn't a very good photograph of Susie, but it was a speaking likeness of the emeralds. Jim wondered whether the burglar would see it, and what he would do if he did see it. If he had a grain of sense, he'd chuck the chain away into the nearest ditch and make himself scarce.

That was assuming that he didn't already know what he had got. But didn't he? What had brought him to Hale Place twice? Would he have come back a second time, and come back to a room which appeared to contain nothing stealable if he hadn't got wind of the emeralds? The emeralds would provide the motive. A room containing nothing but panelling, two china candlesticks, and an immovable four-post bed frankly would not. It became most urgently necessary to find the burglar.

Jim had a pleasant picture of himself asking the forty thousand odd adult inhabitants of Ledlington to show him their front teeth. There didn't seem to be any other way of identifying the burglar.

County were then made, showing a great amount of work done in food conservation and other lines. Mrs. Estelle T. Smith, of Raleigh, an address, as did Miss Helen N. Esterbrook, of the State Extension Department. After the morning session dinner was served picnic style, in the home economics room of the school building. A recreational program was put on in the afternoon, each club giving a stunt. A talk was made by Superintendent of Education A. C. Holland, after which the county council officers

He left the station at half past eight and walked in the direction of the library. It would not be open until nine o'clock, so he walked down the High Street, through Poulter's Row, and round the Market Square. Jim was passing the statue in Market Square when a girl who had just come down Market Street with a basket on her arm stopped short not a yard away and said: "Oh!" in a tone of so much surprise that his attention was arrested.

A moment before, he had not known that there was a girl there, but when she said "Oh!" he saw Minnie Williams staring at him and recognizing her at once. She had on a blue serge coat and skirt and a very neat little dark blue hat which brought out the gold of her hair and the blue of her eyes.

She said "Oh!" again, and her cheeks turned bright pink. It was an embarrassing encounter. There was nothing for it but to make it as ordinary as possible.

He said good morning, asked her why she was out so early, and was about to pass on, when she stopped him.

"ARE you in a hurry?" It was said timidly, hesitatingly. Her color came and went. Only a very hard-hearted person could have admitted to being in a hurry.

Jim said, "Not at all."

"Then if we could just walk round the square—"

They began to walk. When they reached the colonnade which embellishes the west side of the square, however, she turned to him with a look of embarrassed appeal.

"Aren't you coming back?" She was brightly flushed. The effort to speak had brought tears into her eyes.

Jim was rather touched. "I don't think so, Min."

"I'm not one to interfere—but she's very unhappy."

"Nesta?" She nodded. "I don't think it's on my account."

She nodded again, blinking away a tear. "What makes you think so?" he said.

Min's eyes reproached him. "You've not been married a month."

"I'm not admitting I'm married at all."

She backed away from him. "You haven't remembered?"

"I haven't remembered marrying Nesta."

"Don't you want to remember?" He gave a short laugh. "Not that!"

"It's dreadful for her," she said in a soft, distressed way. "I'm so sorry for Nesta I don't know what to do."

"What makes you think she minds, Min?"

"She's so cross," said Min indignantly. "There isn't nothing right from morning till night."

He got a kind of hard amusement out of that. He wanted Min to go on talking, so he said, "You think she really minds?"

"It it was Tom—" said Min, and turned quite pale.

"Tom's a very lucky young man, and I expect he knows it."

He wanted her to talk, because an idea was shaping itself in his mind. When he had waked up in her house, it was Min who told him he was Jim Riddell. Now if Min had known him—really known him—as Jim Riddell, and as Nesta's husband before the wreck of the Alice Arden, he wouldn't have to believe her, but he would certainly have to take her evidence very seriously into account.

Min blushed. "Oh, I don't know about that," she said.

Someone had turned into the colonnade from Poulter's Row. The last thing that Jim wanted was to attract attention. He said, "We'd better walk." And then, as they moved, "Min—I don't know about anything. For instance, I haven't any idea of where I first met you."

Min said "Oh!" in a startled way.

"If I'm Nesta's husband, I'm your brother-in-law."

"That's right."

"Then I suppose we're old acquaintances—you've known me for a long time."

If she wasn't truthful, she'd say yes to that and land with both feet in his trap. The gap in his memory only covered the last six weeks. On the farther side of it were the seven years he had spent overseas. He felt an odd relief when she shook her head "No."

Tomorrow, Jim gets some valuable information from Min.

SUFFERS BROKEN LEG IN UNUSUAL ACCIDENT

Rockingham, N. C., Nov. 1.—Nelson Hasty met with an unusual accident here last Sunday afternoon, suffering a broken leg. He was working at the Standard Filling Station. A negro, Perry Jones, of Hamlet, drove up for some gas. And instead of

How He Escaped

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER They all gathered around Top Notch to hear why Grandma Galump had been so terrified.

"The reason I was late at Willy Nilly's birthday party," said Top Notch, "was because Grandma had caught me scratching up seeds and had locked me up in a room and closed the window. She had also made the black stockings I have on now. Won't you please take them off, Willy Nilly?"

"You see, I didn't know what to do. I couldn't scratch on the window pane to attract attention to where I was. I was discouraged and I felt so helpless. But then I caught a look at myself in the mirror!"

"Your vanity never deserts you," quacked Mrs. Quacko Duck, but Top Notch paid no attention to her and continued his story.

"As I looked at myself I said: 'Top Notch, you're a fine, intelligent Rooster. You cannot let this old lady get the better of you.'"

"I looked around, and noticed that one of the panes of the window shook a little in the wind. I saw that the patty on the outside had cracked loose and had mostly fallen off. I gave it a blow with my wing and it rattled.

"I gave it another blow and the pane fell right out. I hopped into the empty frame and flew down to the ground. Grandma hadn't visited the room to discover her window and prisoner were both missing, so she really believed my ghost had escaped to haunt her!" They all looked at Top Notch in admiration. What an experience he had had!

Tomorrow—"Nutting"

proceeding ahead he came backwards, either confusing the gears or trying to turn around. Nelson was wiping the windshield of a car behind the negro's car, and was caught between the two. Both bones in his right leg, between the knee and ankle, were broken.

Mr. Hasty is 23 years old and a popular young man of the town.

TO TELL THE WORLD ABOUT ADVANTAGES OF GREENVILLE

(Continued from Page One) them submitted to the Rotogravure Editor; also to those citizens who have friends or relatives living elsewhere who may be interested in this section, we shall be glad to have the names of such, and we will gladly send one copy each to such people. All we ask is that you get your list and photos in early.

The Rotogravure Development Edition will go to every subscriber of The Daily Reflector, and a specially compiled mailing list of thousands in this section is being prepared. The Daily Reflector likewise having an additional list compiled of leading industrial executives throughout the entire eastern half of the United States, which means that this edition will reach leaders of finance, commerce and industry throughout the nation.

In the preparation of such an edition that is to be read by thousands throughout the nation, in which hundreds of pictures and engravings are to be made. The Daily Reflector solicits and will greatly appreciate the co-operation of those who have been instrumental in making this one of the best small cities of the entire South. These of our business men who have been seen are giving liberal support to the undertaking, and we are glad to be in a position to state from present indications such an endeavor will be one of the largest and most handsome ever issued by a North Carolina press.

SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will expose to public sale before the Court House door, in Pitt County, to the highest bidder, for cash, on Saturday, the 18th day of November, 1933, at 12 o'clock, noon, the following described real property, to-wit:

First Tract—Lying and being situated in Swift Creek Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, adjoining the lands formerly known as the lands of Bithel Anderson, J. B. Stocks and others, and containing 50 acres, more or less, and being the home place of the late W. A. Stocks and wife, Nona Stocks.

Second Tract—Lying and being in said township and county adjoining the lands of J. C. Stocks on the north, the lands of W. S. Smith on the east, the lands of J. H. GREENVILLE TOBACCO MARKET REPORT

GREENVILLE CONTINUES TO LEAD ALL MARKETS IN THE BRIGHT LEAF BELT IN BOTH POUNDS AND PRICES.

Market Sold Monday 1,487,914 Pounds for $312,160.16

AVERAGE $20.98

Now is the time to market your good and fancy tobaccos. Better Grades Selling up to 77 Cents

Prices Now Highest Of Season

The official published report (and tobacco growers should consider only official reports) show that Greenville market is leading all bright leaf markets in number of pounds sold and in prices paid for tobacco.

A larger number of growers from distant counties are now patronizing the Greenville market than any time since the market was established, and they know it is paying them to sell here, some of them traveling over 100 miles.

The reason for the phenomenal record Greenville market has made and is at present making, is the fine spirit being manifested by the Greenville Tobacco Byers who are determined that no market shall excel Greenville in prices paid for every grade of tobacco.

The Board of Trade does not permit under penalty of $50.00 fine, any warehouseman to reserve floor space for anyone. The principle of first come first served under the By-Law must be carried out.

Tune in on Greenville's Radio Station WEED every day (except Sunday) at 9:45 A. M., 12:45 P. M. and 4:45 P. M. for latest tobacco market reports. Will find it on your dial around 142 or 1420.

TEACHERS PLAY P. J. C. FRIDAY

Yesterday the E. C. T. C. squad finished its last heavy drill in preparation for the game with Presbyterian Junior College Friday afternoon. The game will be played in the College Park and the kick-off will be at 2:30 o'clock.

Coch Coach Beatty put his teams through a hard scrimmage yesterday. Theo Eason looked good in the line and Morgan was doing some hard plunging. Today the team worked out in a dummy scrimmage in which the squad was drilled on defensive plays, punting and passing.

Although the Teachers have not won a game this year, the scores show a great improvement over the last year's scores in games with the same clubs. The squad is now in fine condition, and is determined to win its encounter Friday.

All indications point to a fine scrap, and it is hoped that a large number of fans will be on hand to view the encounter.

SPORT SPANTS

Maybe there's a lot of bunk in the old college spirit. No doubt perspiration is worth more than inspiration. Certainly a steady current of electric influence is more effective over the stretch of a long haul than a few flashes of lightning.

Nevertheless, consider some of these circumstances or developments:

Yale's football forces haven't had the same drive since the mighty atom, Albie Booth, kicked his last field goal for a long-sought triumph over Harvard.

The Yankees have gone downhill with Babe Ruth no longer able to set the main pace.

The American Davis Cup forces have gotten nowhere since the departure of Big Bill Tilden.

And the Giants did not look or act like a pennant contender until a genetic young giant named John Collins Ryan ambled along to help Bill Terry galvanize the outfit.

That Extra Ounce

The fact is that few great achievements in sport have been steved without the ability of an individual to draw on some extra resource of spirit, in an emergency, or to stir a set of performers to a pitch they did not realize was in them.

Harvard's Gerry Cassidy, one of the great college stroke oars of modern times, entertained the firm conviction that no Yale boatload could ever get out of his sight when it came to the finishing drive. Unquestionably Cassidy's confidence had as much to do with Harvard's triumphs at New London the last three years as his pace-setting talent and stamina.

Until Blondy Ryan talked his teammates into the pennant frame of mind last spring and then sprang his ringing slogan, "They cannot beat us," I do not think even Terry himself was convinced he had more than an outside chance to win the National League pennant.

Inspirational

Against a great Dartmouth team in the Yale Bowl one Saturday afternoon, Booth called his towering mates around him in the huddle and said: "These fellows are about to catch on fire, if any of you guys don't feel like standing the gaff any longer, now's the time to get out. It's going to be tough."

Replying to Senator Gore, Democrat, Oklahoma, Wiggins said his short sales were to produce buying power and to reduce his family's holding of the stock which were very large at that time. Wiggins denied that the sales were to depress the price of the stock, although he agreed that it might have prevented the price from rising.

New York Cotton N. Y. Stock Market

New York Cotton Nov. 1—(AP)—Cotton futures opened quiet one lower to three higher under moderate southern selling and trade buying. General business was quiet and fluctuations continued in a narrow margin after the call with the market easier under a little scattered selling and hedging. December sold off to 9.60 and May to 9.84 with the market generally two to five points net lower at the end of the first half hour.

Trading continued quiet with the later morning price holding barely steady and three seemed about sufficient buying and covering to absorb the scattered selling.

At midday the market was net lower four to six points with December 9.47 and May 9.83.

Soviet Moves to Lure America With Commerce

By FRANK I. WELLER

Washington—(AP)—For more than a decade the Soviet Union has tried to barter trade for diplomatic recognition by the United States. It took the young American republic 20 years to win the same thing from czarist Russia.

The first attempt was rebuffed in 1921 when the Wilson administration deported M. Martens, soviet trade emissary, before he had opened his portfolio.

This country did not believe the bolshevist party to be truly representative of the Russian people and would not enter acts of confidence with a government so closely aligned with international communism and its propaganda against capitalistic countries.

The result was formation of Arco, Ltd., of London, which acted as a trade clearing house between soviet importers and a branch established in New York.

Russian-Americans in this country saw in Arco the nucleus of private trade with the Moscow government and incorporated under the laws of New York State the Products Exchange Company which developed a considerable volume of small business.

Moscow beamed on this beginning and dispatched M. Hoorain in a private capacity to systematize the new trade movement. He merged the two budding enterprises into the present Amtorg Trading Corporation by placing their directors on Amtorg's board at salaries of $12,000 a year each.

While Amtorg was laying its foundations in 1924-25, Julius Hammer of Chicago, incorporated the Allied American Company as an individual venture, contracting to buy and sell for Russian account by agreement with Lenin.

Soon however, Moscow influenced him to swap his business to Amtorg for a gun and pencil manufacturing for Russia. There he practiced American methods, developed an export trade through a branch house in London, and almost obliterated soviet competitors.

Diverting his activities, Moscow gave Hammer an asbestos mine to develop at his own expense but he had trade stirred up with Germany and England in short order and Moscow subsequently bought in both concessions, rearing Hammer reputedly in possession of enormous wealth.

The incident led to all except one of the original directors of Amtorg trading their American positions for soviet concessions with, however, somewhat different results.

Amtorg's next big amalgamation job dissolved:

1. Centrosoyuz-America, a New York agency of the Central Union of Consumers' Cooperatives in Russia. It bought chiefly for retail sale through its own agencies in Russia all manner of products listed as necessities.
2. Seiskosoyuz, representing the Union of Agricultural Cooperatives in Russia. Its purchases were confined to field seed, farm implements and tractors.

3. All-Russian Textile Syndicate, set up specifically to buy American cotton. In 1928, the last year of heavy purchases, it took $45,000,000 of staple.

Amtorg, capitalized at $3,000,000, now dominates commerce with Russia. It is said that 95 per cent of the stock is owned by soviet government organization for which it acts as agent.
