LITTLE CELEBRATING MARKS ADVENT OF REPEAL

NEGRO HELD FOR ROBBERY OF WHITE MAN

John Burroughs Jailed Here for Slugging Vanceboro Man and Taking $40

After beating a Vanceboro man on the head with a pistol butt and robbing him of $40 here yesterday, John Burroughs, colored, was being held in jail here today awaiting trial on a charge of highway robbery.

He was taken into custody at a house last night about nine o'clock, only a few hours after Hugh Tyson of Vanceboro, reported to police that he had been held up at the negro cemetery at the end of First street and robbed of all the money he had in his possession—$40—contained in a wallet.

Tyson, who had purchased a marriage license at New Bern yesterday with the intention of marrying a Vanceboro girl upon his return home, had come to Greenville in a business trip. After he had completed his business, he decided he wanted to go to the airport on the opposite side of the river.

He told police he met Burroughs on the street and asked him the way to the flying field. The negro, he said, volunteered to show him to the field.

Instead of going directly to the field, he led the unsuspecting stranger to the colored cemetery. Here Burroughs was reported to have pulled a gun from his pocket and hit Tyson over the head. He then obtained the pocketbook and Tyson immediately made his way to the police station and a widespread search was started.

Police said Tyson was not badly hurt, but was suffering from slight scalp injuries.

The marriage license which Tyson carried on an inside coat pocket was found by police near the scene of the holdup, and despite his trying experience with the negro bandit, Tyson was said to have told police he planned to use it upon his return home.

Chief of Police George Clark said Burroughs, described as an old offender of the law, had returned to Greenville several days ago after being absent a number of years.

NO HANGOVER IN CAROLINAS

Prohibition Repeal Becomes Effective Without Much Action in Two States

Charlotte, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The Carolinas, the first states to vote down the repeal amendment awoke today without a hangover.

Because of the death of national prohibition apparently meant little or nothing to the legally dry states, the death of prohibition passed virtually unnoticed.

There were no public celebrations, no spontaneous outbreak of revelry, and police desk sergeants reported a quiet night. Arrests for drunkenness were no more than usual.

Native corn whiskey of varying grades was available at the usual price of $2.00 to $4.00 a gallon but there was no unusual scarcity of the real stuff. Sales of 3.2 percent beer continued as usual.

PITT SCHOOLS CLOSE DEC. 19 FOR HOLIDAY

Work Will Be Resumed January 1; Exercises are Planned by Many

Rural schools of Pitt county will suspend work for the Christmas holidays on Tuesday, December 19, it was announced today by Donald Conley, director of public instruction. School work will be resumed January 1.

Mr. Conley said a number of schools were planning exercises in connection with the holiday season and that these in many instances would consist of Christmas trees and musical programs.

Exercises of the kind are arranged by the schools each year and they not only prove an inspiration to the students and faculty, but to patrons also.

The end of the first half of the school year will find all schools making marked progress, and indications were that the close of the session would witness even greater improvement. All schools at first were troubled by reorganization plans caused by enactment of the new school legislation by the last General Assembly, but this has been largely overcome and work in all institutions was reported as moving along favorably.

Long Threatened As Mob Burns His Body In Effigy

ACTION COMES AFTER STORMY BALLOT FIGHT

Louisiana Senator Told His Time Will Come Next as Effigy Is Hanged and Burned in Public Place; Long Considers Returns From Hotel Suite in New Orleans

Baton Rouge, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The Sixth congressional election ordered by Senator Huey P. Long in which he picked Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp for the office vacated by Rep. Kemp's death is over but a fiery memory lingers on.

Hanged by the neck in effigy, soaked with kerosene and burned from the gallows while clad in green pajamas and threatened with the dummy "plotted in effigy now, 'in person next.'" Huey Long from his Roosevelt Hotel suite in New Orleans took stock today of the enmity created as he counted the returns from yesterday's election.

Gov. O. K. Allen issued the election call after refusing for months the demand of rival candidates that he first call a primary to permit them to run.

Mrs. Kemp was nominated by Long-controlled members of the district Democratic Executive committee who met in New Orleans outside the sixth district.

BULLET FATAL TO YOUNG MAN

Henry Burnett of Farmville Succumbs to Injuries in Local Hospital

Henry Burnett, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Burnett, of Farmville, died last night at 8 o'clock in the Pitt Community Hospital as a result of wounds inflicted by himself last Wednesday night. He was shot through the neck and arm.

The bullet was removed on Friday and he remained conscious until Saturday night, up to which time hopes for his recovery were entertained. Then, however, pneumonia set in and the young man's decline was steady.

The youth left two notes, one to his sweetheart and one to his mother. In both he said he had nothing to live for.

The affair cast a gloom over the whole town all through the Thanksgiving holidays.

Mr. Burnett leaves, in addition to his parents, a sister, Mrs. Earl Forbes, and a brother, Paul Ricks Burnett, both of Farmville.

ROLLING AROUND 'NO BAR' RULE

If drinkers can't go to the bar, and a New York ruling says they can't, the bar will come to the drinkers with this contraption. Not only that, but the tippler may mix his or her own favorite concoctions as all the ingredients are to be found aboard the perambulator. The drink, mixed, the portable bar is wheeled on to the next customer. The arrangement originated in a New York cafe and came about because the state liquor control board said drinking must be done at tables. (Associated Press Photo)

Late News Flashes From Over World

Lindberghs Reach Natal. Natal, Brazil, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here this afternoon after an 1,800 mile flight across the South Atlantic from Bathurst, Gambia, Africa.

The giant monoplane landed on the harbor here at 2:55 p. m. (12:55 p. m. EST).

The streets and docks were thronged with huge crowds of people who had waited all day for the arrival of the famous American couple.

Slays Two and Himself. Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 6.—(AP)—A man who identified himself as Jack Walton of Chicago, burst into a rooming house today, fatally stabbed Mrs. Stella Shattis, 30, of Chicago, wounded her daughter, Irene, 20, probably fatally, and ended his own life with poison. No motive for the act could be learned by police.

Mrs. Shattis had been here since October 6 to seek divorce from her husband, Charles Shattis.

Close Virginia Leaf Markets. Blackstone, Va., Dec. 6.—(AP)—A committee of 13 men was named here today to work out a plan for the closing of all dark tobacco markets in Virginia because of low prices paid for the weed.

Sales were halted until 1 o'clock.

Propose Tax Changes. Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Thirty additional changes in the revenue act estimated to yield an additional $35,000,000 to the government were proposed today by the House ways and means sub-committee.

LEAF SIGNUP GETS UNDER WAY IN PITT

Farmers Begin Signing Contracts Assuring Them Parity Prices For Crop

The tobacco signup campaign got under way at full speed ahead in Pitt County today with indications that the work would be completed in record time.

Committeemen, who yesterday received final instructions in the office of E. F. Arnold, director of the farm department, were stationed in each township today assisting farmers in making out the contracts and filing applications for benefit payments for tobacco sold prior to October 7th.

Public meetings were held in various townships last night for the purpose of giving farmers information concerning the signup and when the campaign actually swung into being today, practically all growers knew exactly what would be expected of them.

Three thousand growers bound themselves to sign the government contract in a campaign launched sometime ago, and the task of signing them all up in this campaign is a huge one. Mr. Arnold said, requiring the co-operation of all growers.

Invitation cards have been provided committeemen who will mail them out to the growers inviting them to appear before certain committees on specific days. If the plan is followed, it was believed the signup will be completed in record time and in a much more orderly way than when the rush was necessary to get agreements signed as quickly as possible.

When the machine was started it lunged back against the side of the house, crushing the youngster, who had been standing behind it. His skull was fractured.

STATES WILL FOLLOW LEAD OF ROOSEVELT

President Asks That No State Return to Saloon; Proclamation Issued Last Night After Ratification by Utah; National Policy Will be Educate Every Citizen Toward Temperance

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A nation that had made federal prohibition just a repeal constitutional amendment worked hard today to adjust itself to the new order of things.

And, surprisingly, to some, the twenty states whose laws permitted the sale of hard liquor after Utah late yesterday became the 37th state to ratify repeal had comparatively few citizens feeling the worst today for their celebrating.

Throughout the country the festivities seemed to have lacked the fervor some had forecast.

In many states the supply was scant; in several states regularly set up had not been completed so the liquor suppliers were few.

There were many states indicating they expected to follow the lead of President Roosevelt who in proclaiming repeal of the nearly 14-year-old prohibition law, stated his future aims in these words:

"The policy of the government will be to see to it that the social and political evils that have existed in the pre-prohibition era shall not be permitted to again exist."

He asked specifically that no state shall by law otherwise return to the saloon either in its old form or in some modern guise, and said "the objective we seek through a national policy is education of every citizen toward temperance throughout the nation."

INSULL WILL CONTINUE TO FIGHT RETURN

Possibility That Chicago Magnate May Try to Avoid Extradition Seen

Athens, Greece, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The possibility that more chapters may be added to that steadily lengthening story, "The Pursuit of Samuel Insull," was heightened last night.

Greece, the former American utilities czar's present haven from extradition, will ask him to leave when the police permit expires on December 31, reliable sources said yesterday.

But this, it was indicated, should not be taken to mean that Insull can be returned immediately to Chicago to face embezzlement charges growing out of the failure of his far-flung utilities domain.

KIDNAPS DOG, ASKS RANSOM

Durham Youth Arrested After Stealing Dog and Sending Extortion Note

Durham, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A kidnaping on a miniature scale but with all the embellishment and ramifications of the more serious crime, has been run to earth by Durham police who obtained a confession from the alleged abductor, released the victim and restored the ransom.

Henry Totts, 15, is held on a charge of attempted extortion from S. J. Tyson after allegedly having kidnaped a dog belonging to Tyson's grandchildren.

The dog disappeared Monday night from the Tyson home and a few hours later a ransom note was found on the front porch, instructing Tyson to leave $5 in a tin can behind a billboard Tuesday night.

Tyson met the terms of the ransom note, but police went along and arrested Henry.

They said the lad admitted his guilt and later led them to a vacant lot where the victim was tethered.

SANS SOUCI CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. WARREN

The Sans Souci Book Club held one of the most enjoyable meetings of the year Tuesday, December 5th, with Mrs. C. M. Warren, hostess. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. B. James presided. Mrs. W. I. Wooten was welcomed as the guest of Mrs. Geo. B. W. Hadley for the club year.

After a short business session, Miss Alma Browning was presented by Mrs. W. E. Hooker and she gave in a most interesting way the life and works of Josiah Wedgwood, that maker of beautiful china that bears his name—and of Sir Christopher Wren, the eminent English architect, who is best known as the architect of St. Paul's Cathedral. He was, however, the architect of numerous churches and many public buildings that do honor to his name.

After this most enjoyable program the hostess served a delightful salad course with tea. Special guests for the afternoon were Miss Browning, Mrs. Woodward, of Durham, Mrs. Ruth Blount of Schenectady, N. Y., and Mrs. J. C. Waldrop.—Reported.

Mrs. Cooper Luncheon Hostess

Mrs. L. G. Cooper was a gracious hostess at a bridge luncheon Saturday at her home on Evans street, honoring Mrs. George McConnell of Urbana, Ohio, Mrs. John D. Cromley of Richmond, Va., Mrs. Ewing Corbett of Wilmington, Mrs. Ruth B. Blount of Schenectady, N. Y., and Mrs. R. B. Davis, who recently moved to Greenville.

Snappers and chrysanthemums in various shades made an attractive background for the bridge tables. For high score, Mrs. J. S. Ficklen was awarded chrysanthemums. Miss Fannie Cooper assisted her mother in serving a delectable luncheon.

A miniature Santa Claus was placed on the wall and each one was blindfolded and given a doll to pin on his pack. Carl Croom and Emmy Joyce Dupree were given candy stockings as prizes. They were invited into the dining room. There they found a birthday cake with candles all aglow. After singing happy birthday they were served ice cream and cake by Misses Mary Effie Patrick and Lillian Abee.

PAT ALDERMAN TAKES LEADING ROLE IN COMIC-DRAMA

Pat Alderman, writer and producer of "De Glory Road," takes the leading role in this musical comic-drama, that of John Henry, the "bad nigger." He has made a considerable reputation as a singer and song director, and as a radio broadcaster from Chicago.

A number of others in the cast or assisting with the production have had professional experience. The choruses are made up of picked voices from several places in Eastern North Carolina.

Mrs. Iser Freud, one of the sopranos in the woman's chorus, will be remembered in Greenville as a singer at the Inter-city Rotary convention held in Greenville two years ago. A. J. Smith, a member of the men's chorus, and Mrs. A. J. Smith, assistant director, are well known in Greenville. Mrs. I. Smith, a prominent Sunday school worker in the Baptist Church two years ago spent several days in this city doing Sunday school work. A number of other names are familiar to Greenville people. A number of others in the cast or assisting with the production have had professional experience.

Another attraction will be given at East Carolina Teachers College on next Monday evening at eight o'clock, the Slaviansky Russian Chorus. "De Glory Road" will be given in the Austin Auditorium of East Carolina Teachers College tomorrow evening (Thursday, Dec. 7th) at 8 o'clock.

HOME FANS REGARD UNC MARK AS OKAY

Chapel Hill, Dec. 5.—Considering the high calibre of the teams they met, the record made by the Carolina football team is considered by the home fans as being as good as might be expected.

Bowing only to the great Duke eleven in the Big Five and Conference, the Tar Heels placed second in the former and third in the latter group, and climaxed the season with a decisive 14-0 win over its traditional Thanksgiving rival, Virginia.

Their showing in holding Tech to 10-6 and Florida to 9-0 is regarded as satisfactory in view of Tech's 6-0 upset of Duke and Florida's 14-7 surprise victory over Auburn.

The 13-20 game they played Vanderbilt was viewed in the same light, leaving the 30-0 loss to Georgia, when the Bulldogs were at their peak, the only game in which the team failed to live up to expectations.

A loss like that in the third game of the season might have broken another team. The Tar Heel's splendid comeback is regarded here as the finest sort of evidence of the dauntless courage of the players and the ability and inspirational qualities of the coaches.

The highlight of the season was the fourth quarter rally which netted a touchdown and missed a victory over Tech by inches.

The team played consistently good defensive ball which reached its peak against Virginia. Although the Cavaliers barely missed defeating the Navy team which beat Notre Dame which in turn upset Army, Carolina limited them to 2 yards net on running plays, 23 on passes, and nothing on punt returns.

The outstanding star was George Barclay, who made All-State and All-Southern guard, and was named on the third All-American of the Associated Press.

George Moore led the scorers with three touchdowns, including the lone scores that beat Davidson and State. McDonald scored only once but passed for three others. Barclay and Bell tallied five, and Martin, Shaffer, and Frankel once each.

STATE COAST MAY SOON HAVE TARPON FISHING

Ocracoke, Dec. 6.—(AP)—What Florida waters and the Gulf of Mexico mean to tarpon fishing may soon be had on the North Carolina coast.

As each season passes, natives bring in word of increasing schools of tarpon sighted in the vicinities of Ocracoke and Hatteras inlets. A few years ago the sight of the fish in these waters was rare, but guides and fishermen now say they believe the next several years will see tarpon in abundance in these waters.

Wallace Springer, owner of Springer's Point on Ocracoke Island, also found evidence that tarpon are spawning here. After a recent high tide, he found five fish about two inches long.

He pickled them and sent the five to H. H. Brimley, director and curator of the North Carolina Museum in Raleigh, who replied that the fish were tarpon and proved they were spawned near here.

Fishermen say if tarpon are eventually found on this coast in great quantities, the tarpon fishing spot will mean much increased activity on the part of fishermen and guides on the banks.

ASSERTS HE KNOWS NOTHING OF KILLING

Morganton, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Dwight Beard, who is in the Asheville jail pending Superior Court trial here, has told officers he knows nothing whatsoever about the crime for which he will go on trial for his life.

Beard was brought from St. Paul, Minn., to Asheville last week and pressed ignorance of the death February 18, 1932, of Augustus Bounous, prosperous Valdese meat market operator, who was fatally injured in a hold-up which netted approximately $5,000. He was apprehended in St. Paul in August following a series of hold-up proceedings and held in jail, which newspaper reports indicate, totaled 63 cases.

ALLEGED MURDERER HELD IN PHILADELPHIA

Gastonia, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Solicitor John G. Carpenter was notified in a telegram received Monday from Philadelphia, Pa., that a Gaston county Negro, named Ender Walker, who is wanted for murder about two years ago of another Negro named Francis Steele, at Lowell, had been picked up by the Philadelphia police department and is being held in jail in that city for Gaston county authorities.

Solicitor Carpenter said he is preparing extradition papers. These will be sent to Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus at Raleigh for his signature, and will be forwarded to Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania. When extradition arrangements have been completed, which should be within the next few days, Solicitor Carpenter will send Gaston county officers to Philadelphia to bring Walker back here to be tried for the murder, he said.

Walker allegedly shot and killed Steele in Lowell, following an argument, and made his getaway before officers could locate him.

DUKE CAGERS TO OPEN 1933 CARD DEC. 14

Durham, Dec. 5.—For five years a dominant team in southern basketball, the 1934 Duke university cagers will open their 21-game schedule by meeting Catholic university in Washington D. C., December 14.

The Blue Devils, coached by Eddie Cameron, who also tutors the backs and scouts for the football team, have been state champions for the past four years in succession. Thrice in five years they have been finalists in Southern conference basketball tournaments.

Four lettermen from the team that bowed to South Carolina in the final game of the 1933 tournament are back—Jim and Herb Thompson, center and guard, respectively; Phil Weaver, guard; and Sam Bell, a substitute forward last year. Likely sophomores are Connie Mack, Jr., center, Huisamp, Kunkle and Wright, forwards.

Jim Thompson, the Blue Devil center or forward, is rated one of the greatest cagers in the south today. In his sophomore year at Duke he was named on the All-Southern second team at forward and last year, shifted to center due to the fact that there was no other man for the post, he made the All-Southern center position. He is a deadly accurate shot and a great floor man.

DEAD IN THIS STATE, BUT WORSE IN SOME OTHERS

Tarboro, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The Edgecombe Schoolmasters club held its monthly session at Crisp last night with Prof. Fred Walston, principal of the Speed school, presiding. Prof. J. G. Fearor of the West Edgecombe school who had charge of the program discussed recent school legislation enacted by legislatures in some of the midwestern states. Prof. Fearor said he thought the educational forces of North Carolina are suffering severely in consequence of legislation enacted by the Legislature of this State, but conditions, financially, in some of the midwestern States are far worse than in North Carolina.

TELLS OF ASSISTING FATHER BREAK LAW

Smithfield, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The determination of the Johnston county officers to break up the liquor business carried with it a pathetic side when Johnnie Orton, a 15-year-old boy, told in quiet matter-of-fact way of being taught the business of a bloecer by his father.

Officers Marler, Stewart Parker, Liles, W. F. Barber and N. L. Barbour raided a distillery at which Tom Orton, the father, and Johnnie Orton, the son, were at work.

The boy told how he lay down and slept Monday night until 10 o'clock, when he got up and he and his father began the operation of the still; that he and his father had been caught sometime ago by Federal officers for violation of the liquor laws, the father staying in jail 23 days and he having been placed with a farmer up near Greensboro named Charlie Horton, where he stayed about three months ago. He said his mother is dead, and he and his father live on the land of Carl Williamson in the upper edge of Clayton township. The father, who is 60 years of age, was sentenced to serve 12 months on the roads and the boy was remanded to the juvenile court.

MANY ARE EMPLOYED IN DRAINAGE OPERATIONS

Tarboro, Dec. 6.—It was announced yesterday that there are now employed in canal drainage in Edgecombe county 320 laborers, with eight foremen, eight assistants, and four time-keepers. They are working on the Ballhuck, Piney Grove, Barnes, White Oak, Maple Swamp, Cool Spring and Cobb canals. This work will be pushed in order to destroy malaria germs that are prevalent in the canal sections.

SIX ARE BOUND OVER IN SHOOTING OF DOCTOR

Currituck, Dec. 6.—Charged with shooting down Dr. S. M. Mann, prominent Currituck county physician living at Moyock, early on Thanksgiving morning, six negroes were bound over to the grand jury following a preliminary hearing in recorder's court here yesterday.

The six are David Hall, charged with the actual use of the gun, Isaiah and Moses Hall, W. M. Mercer, Walter Sawyer and Joseph Jones.

Dr. Mann was struck in the face, but not seriously injured, when a load of bird shot was discharged through the door of his office while he was treating two negroes suffering with knife stabs. The shooting occurred about 1:15 o'clock Thursday morning.

A widespread search was conducted in the vicinity of Moyock and the six charged with participation in the shooting rounded up and lodged in jail.

According to E. R. Woodward, presenting attorney for Currituck county, the shooting grew out of an affair between four other negroes and the six charged with shooting Dr. Mann. An effort was being made to shoot the two negro patients and not the doctor, according to eye-witnesses.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, one to four lower under southern selling and liquidation and on the unchanged government gold price.

Pressure from several sources were by no means active during the first half hour with active months showing losses of about 5 to 6 points.

The market steadied up a few points during the middle of the morning but buying was not aggressive and after selling up to 10.15 for March or within a point of yesterday's quotation prices eased.

At mid-day March was around 10.10 with active months showing losses of about 5 to 6 points.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Stocks and staples eased today after their celebration of yesterday and prices did little more than hold around previous levels.

Equities mull about indecisively at first and then firmed under the leadership of rails. Little buying power developed and minor irregularities later spotted the list.

Grains were higher but cotton and some other commodities eased. Financial circles were showing much interest in what the President may say tonight in his speech but not expecting any detailed explanation of the administrative money policy.

The list turned moderately irregular in late dealings. Transfers were 1,350,000 shares.

FORBIDDEN VALLEY by William Byron Mowery

SYNOPSIS: Curt Ferguson and Paul St. Clair are trappers from Kentucky who have come into the wilds of the Allegheny. They have found a party of three men and a woman who are on a secret expedition and to be broken up and sent to a secret mission.

Chapter 21 THE BATTLE

AT THE mouth of the pass the next morning, Curt stood up in his canoe for a last look ahead. To his party through that narrow was a job that he would gladly have handed to someone else. He had the uneasy feeling that eyes were watching his three canoes and dusky hands were toying with fluted arrows.

The pass was more than a mile long with a strong current to buck and no midstream islets to take refuge on. He and Paul had scouted it out that morning while the others were still asleep and had discovered only one favorable circumstance.

Sometimes that spring a lightning bolt had swept down the east shore, cutting a swath half a mile wide and burning to the very water edge. Along that whole east shore there was hardly a place where a rabbit would have made its form.

If the Kioshoes were watching the pass, they must be on the west side. If they were on the east side, they would be on the west side. If they were on the west side, they would be on the east side.

Before sitting down, he gave his final orders. "Paul and I'll lead, Sonya and Francois'll come next, Ralph and Jocku last. We'll keep strung out in single file so it'll be harder to hit us. One other thing—nobody shoots at those men unless they shoot at us first."

They skirted into the narrows. In spite of the stiff current they put the rods behind them, hoping to slide through unmolested.

A quarter way through, it happened the thing Curt had expected. Twenty yards ahead of his canoe something plunked into the water. Watching the opposite shore closely, he saw a second object, so swift that it seemed a mere flash, come whizzing out of a rocky ravine and sail across the river in a low graceful arch. It too fell ahead.

Another and another followed, not timed at the three craft but deliberately placed in front, as a warning to turn back. They came faster and faster till perhaps fifty arrows had been shot. Then they suddenly stopped.

The range of those horn bows launched Curt. They could do damage at that distance. They could do deadly work.

He stopped and let Sonya's craft slide up alongside.

"You lie down, girl, flat in your canoe. Don't expose yourself; you'll be taking chances on your life if you do." He pulled her blanket roll over her and laid his own sleeping bag on top of it for extra protection.

"Francois, you and Jocku dip those paddles deep and fast! The quicker we get through here, the less time they'll have to make targets of us." They skinned on, hugging the east bank.

AS THEY came exactly opposite the rocky ravine, the Kioshoes pined on them again, this time in earnest.

If the arrows had come singly, they could have been dodged by a fleet person. For their polished heads dived in the sun and their flight as visible at the height of its arc, but they came too thick to watch.

One hit the canoe in front of Curt's knees, clipped through the rim side, and whanged into the puce-gum pot, rebounding him somebody yelled. He turned and saw Francois grabbing at his hat as it fell into the water with an arrow through the crown.

Ralph had gone pale, but he kept his eyes straight ahead and was paddling valiantly. Tendertot thought he was, in those hectic moments that fought out a man's real nature, he showed more courage than the breeds who had spent all their lives in the bush.

Disobeying orders, Sonya had sat up, seized her paddle and was helping Francois.

"Get down!" Curt ordered her. "Don't you know you're liable to be killed?"

or the attack has been postponed by Judge W. W. Callahan pending an appeal in the case of Patterson and Norris.

The jury received the Norris case Monday night and spent more than 15 hours before reaching a verdict. Norris was in the courtroom when the verdict was returned.

APPOINTED DIRECTOR OF U. S. GOOD ROADS BODY

Smithfield, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Senator Paul D. Grady of Johnston County, has been elected unani-

Sonya shook her head as though saying, "Well, aren't the rest of you?" An instant later a vicious arrow whizzed over her, so low that she dodged and gasped. Another splintered the thwart she was sitting against. A third hit the sleeping pole which Curt had placed at her side. If the pole had not been there, that third arrow would have shot her through the breast.

Francois shipped paddle and grabbed for his rifle.

"Drop that!" Curt snapped at him. "You can't touch 'em. They're in cover, we're on open water. That paddle will get you out of danger quicker than a gun!"

Bent low, they clipped on up stream, trusting to sheer luck.

Slowly the arrows tailed off, began falling behind, and finally stopped altogether as the range became too great.

Curt let the other two canoes catch up and looked their way. Nineteen arrows in the three craft—it was a miracle that none of his party had been killed or wounded. Ralph flicked the sweat from his face and stared across at the forbidding woods, with fright in his eyes. Francois and Jocku were ready to turn in their tracks and whip back south. Sonya was the coolest of the lot.

He picked the arrow out of the sleeping pole and examined it curiously. A superb piece of workmanship, its obsidian head was pointed to needle sharpness and its shaft was neatly feathered with split hawk quills.

Paul touched his arm and pointed to the rocky ravine across the river.

"THEY'RE leaving the ravine. Watch. There by the four birches goes one now!"

Curt glimpsed a shadowy figure slipping into a buck-brush thicket. Another and another followed. Eight of them. To be only eight, they certainly had let loose a flock of arrows!

He knew why they were hurrying up stream. Their first ambush had failed but they still had time to lay another one before his party could get through the pass. No use to race them; they were loping along a game trail while his canoes were fighting a ten-mile current. There was nothing to do but go ahead, keep a sharp lookout, and try to get by them again.

He gave the word, and his party went on.

Near the upper end of the narrows a long granite rock jutted out into the river, extending fully a third of the way across; and at its tip a big pile of break-up debris had lodged quite sufficient to hide eight men.

Curt looked at it sharply as the canoes approached. If the Kioshoes were hiding there, it was suicide to try to get past.

On above it lay a big river-widening, the end of the pass. It tempted him, that broad sun-glisten water. In ten minutes his party could be skimming out upon it.

He reached his binoculars, drew the granite rock up close, studied the pile of debris, but saw nothing suspicious. He had almost made up his mind to take the risk, when a magpie with a stolen egg in its bill came tapping down stream. Directly above the rock it suddenly breast up high, nearly tumbled over itself in the air, dropped the egg, and veered abruptly out across the river.

Curt and Paul looked knowingly at each other. That magpie was a dead giveaway. There were men lying behind that drift.

The three canoes pulled in to shore and landed.

Sonya spoke up. "I know how you can do it! We're not stopped! We can't pass them on the river, but why can't we portage around them? Just as we would at a rapids or falls!"

The move was so simple and self-evident that Curt felt ashamed for not thinking of it himself. If his party kept three hundred feet back from the water edge, they would be entirely safe. They could portage their stuff at one hitch and be up at that widening in ten minutes.

Paul and Francois shouldered one canoe, load and all, and headed for the bank above. Jocku and Ralph staggered after them with the second. Curt handed the paddles and his rifle to Sonya, swung up the third canoe and followed.

At the bank he put down his load, told the others to wait there, and started back along the beach.

Directly opposite the ambush he walked out on the sand to the river edge, palms out! the sign for peace. It was a risky act; at so short a range he was completely at their mercy.

Tomorrow, Curt faces death.

ADDITIONAL TEACHERS TO MEET DEC. 9

Hundred Additional Men Put to Work on Civil Works Program Here Today

A meeting of county teachers will be held at the high school building in Farmville Saturday, December 9, it was announced today by the Pitt County Department of Education.

Scores of teachers from all sections of the county were expected to attend the session and take part in a program which promises to be one of the most interesting of the year.

The principal addresses of the session will be delivered by Dr. Seemons of Duke University, and Mrs. J. M. Hobgood of Farmville, president of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs.

Although the subject of the speakers had not been announced, it was known that they would deal with some topic affecting school life at this time.

The last session of county teachers was held at Ayden a month ago and all but three members of the entire county faculty were present. It was indicated that attendance equally as good, barring bad weather, would be expected at the Farmville meeting.

Farmville was making plans to give the visiting teachers a cordial welcome, and it was believed the day would be one of the most enjoyable and helpful in years.

SAFE TRUCKED AWAY, BLOWN OPEN, LOOTED

Wilson, Dec. 6.—Early Monday morning the general store of L. A. Gardner—the largest store in the town of Saratoga near Stantonsburg—was broken into, and the safe carried off on a truck and dynamited.

A party passing through the town about 2 o'clock Monday morning saw a truck standing in front of the Gardner store but paid no attention to the fact until hearing of the robbery.

UNLIMITED CREDIT ON HAND FOR WAKE COUNTY

Washington, Dec. 6.—Wake county will get all the credit it needs from the Production Credit Corporation, it was announced today at the office of S. M. Garwood, production credit commissioner for the Farm Credit Administration.

A tentative allotment for Wake County has been made from the $7,500,000 capital available for purchasing preferred stock of associations, but the credit commission refuses to make public the amount asserting that the allotment is merely an arbitrary one and can be raised or lowered as developments require.

"Every county will get adequate credit," it was said. "If the sum allocated is not sufficient we will give more wherever it is needed. No county need fear that credit will be exhausted."

The tentative share of each county is the percentage of the $7,500,000 which the value of the crop and livestock of the county bears to the value of the total crop and livestock of the production credit district.
