SEC. WALLACE SEEKS TO CURB GRAIN SPECULATION

Tells President Regulations For Grain Necessary

PREDICTS RISE OF PRICE FOR STOCK RAISERS

Secretary Stresses Need of Balanced Production and Demand in Annual Report to President; Blames Rise in Farm Prices Last Few Months to Speculation; Would Control Grain Speculation

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—A reiterated warning that currency inflation is not a "cure-all" for the farmers' troubles was issued today by Secretary Wallace in his annual report to President Roosevelt.

Of the administration's gold purchases, he said: "It may not have any great effect for sometime on the livestock and dairy prices. Eventually most of our raw material prices should rise to the extent to which gold in the dollar is reduced."

Wallace recommended regulation of grain exchanges and separation of savings from commercial banks in order to strengthen country banks.

He blamed the rise in farm prices from last March to July on inordinate speculation in commodity markets and told the President: "It is imperative for the government to supervise and, if necessary, to regulate grain speculation because such supervision is the only means of preventing abuses."

Balancing production with demand was the keynote of Wallace's report. He predicted a permanent program of control along the line with domestic markets.

INSULL GIVEN AN EXTENSION

Chicago Utilities Magnate to be Permitted To Stay in Greece Longer

Athens, Greece, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The Greek government today granted Samuel Insull an extension to January 31 in the length of time he will be allowed to remain in that country.

Previously in refusing to renew the former American utilities operator's police residence permit, the government announced he would be forced to leave the country January 1. His present permit expires December 31.

Mr. Insull requested and was granted the extension today after the Minister of the Interior had informed him that he would be expected to leave by the first of the year.

Strangled To Death

A comely young woman known as "Marian Smith," but tentatively identified by police as Mrs. Margie Pitasky Gricheok, formerly of Pottsville, Pa., was found strangled to death with an electric lamp cord in her New York apartment.

Police believed vengeance was the motive. (Associated Press Photo)

LEAF MARKET CLOSING TODAY FOR HOLIDAYS

Tobaccoists Begin Observance of Christmas; Market To Reopen Jan. 8

Following completion of sales today the Greenville tobacco market will close for the Christmas holidays. The market will re-open for resumption of business probably January 8.

Scores of tobaccoists who live in other sections of the country were expected to go home for the Yuletide and return in time for resumption of business.

Sales yesterday, the official report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, indicated today amount to 396,570 pounds for which farmers were paid $138,534.83, at an average of $14.79 per hundred pounds.

This brought total season sales to $7,386,042, for which the market paid out a total of $11,336,627.36.

Today's offerings were expected to carry the season's poundage to the 68,000,000-pound mark, and enable the market to reach the 72,000,000-pound record established several years ago when sales are resumed in January.

There yet remains a considerable amount of tobacco to be disposed of, and growers were expected to market this rapidly after the holidays.

J. P. Vandiford Dies At Home Near Walstonburg

John Paschal Vandiford, 46, died at his home near Walstonburg yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, after eight hours' illness.

FINAL RITES ARE HELD FOR MRS. HARVEY

Funeral Conducted From Presbyterian Church; Burial in Cherry Hill

Funeral services for Mrs. C. W. Harvey, who died at the local hospital Wednesday afternoon after several days' illness, were conducted from the Presbyterian Church this afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment was made in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

The final rites were in charge of Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church; Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Christian Church; Rev. J. S. McIver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church; Rev. G. R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church; Rev. R. F. Pittman, pastor of Free Will Baptist Church, and Rev. J. N. H. Summerell, retired Presbyterian minister.

Mrs. Harvey was one of the most beloved women of the city and community. She was active in Presbyterian Church work, being treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary. She was an active member of the King's Daughters and used her influence for improvement of the religious and civic life of the community.

She endeared herself to hundreds of friends by her generous, affable manner, and her influence was felt in practically every walk of life.

The final rites were largely attended, and an extensive floral tribute spoke in a mute way of the high esteem in which she was held in this and other parts of the country. The ministers spoke in eloquent terms of her faithful service to family and friends and declared her life was an inspiration to the community.

She was the daughter of the late Dr. DeWitt Clinton Day and Mrs. Lorraine Linberg Day, of Nashville, Tenn.

Surviving are her husband, two sons, a sister and half sister.

THREE MEN ARE HURT IN WRECK

Ahoskie Farmers Injured When Truck Crashes Into Pitt Street Barricade

Jon Casper, of Ahoskie, was painfully cut about the body when a truck on which he was riding crashed last night into the steel barricade on Tar River at the foot of Pitt Street. Two other occupants of the truck, whose names could not be determined, were also injured, but not as badly as Casper.

The men, farmers, who sold their tobacco on the local market yesterday, were returning home when they followed Pitt Street to the river instead of going down Greene Street on which the highway bridge is now located.

Although the barricade is lighted all hours of the night, the farmers did not see their danger until they had proceeded so far down the hill it was impossible for them to stop in time to prevent crashing into the steel obstruction erected across the road several years ago when the bridge was torn down and a new one erected on Greene Street.

The truck was badly damaged by the impact. Casper and his two companions received medical aid, and today left for their homes in Ahoskie.

Several wrecks have occurred at this same place in the last few years. As a result of last night's wreck, Chief of Police George Clark stated today that the barricade would be moved up to the First Street intersection in an effort to prevent further accidents of the kind.

KILLED BY HIT-AND-RUN AUTOMOBILE DRIVER

Forest City, Dec. 15.—Funeral services for James Z. Long, 47, of Dufferin, La., who was killed Saturday by a hit-and-run automobile driver, were held at the Golden Valley Methodist church, this county, which he joined a number of years ago. Mr. Long was born and reared in this section of the county.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Approve Mortgage Plans. Washington, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The President today approved a plan for loans by the R. F. C. to relieve holders of deflated guaranteed mortgages.

The President approved extending small loans in cases of actual distress, after conferences with Jesse Jones, chairman of the R. F. C., and Gerald Van Schaick, New York state superintendent of insurance. "We can work out something," said Jones, "and provide loans in needy cases."

Jones estimated that perhaps $50,000,000 would be involved in the relief effort. He estimated that loans up to about 25 per cent of the value of the mortgage certificate would be allowed.

Seeks Early Decision. Washington, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The government today sought early decision by the Supreme Court on cases to shape the federal policy in handling prohibition litigation.

Solicitor General James Biggs asking the court to review on January 15 cases from North Carolina in which two men were discharged on grounds that the 18th Amendment had been repealed.

The decision was delivered by Judge Johnson Hayes in the middle district of North Carolina. The decision was on page six.

LEGION HOLDS MEETING HERE

Local Post Passes All Time Record For Membership, Report Shows

The local Post of the American Legion has now passed its all-time record for membership with 211 members. The report of the successful termination of the membership campaign was one of the highlights of last night's meeting of the Legion held at the Third Street School house.

The Legion and the local unite of the National Guard last night held their joint meeting and oyster roast. The county and city officials were invited to last night's meeting and several of them attended.

Commander Julius H. Rose presided over the meeting. A letter was read from the State Commander of the Legion showing that the Greenville Post has outstripped all other Posts of the State in the membership campaign. The local Post now has membership percentage of nearly two hundred, while the other Posts of the State are struggling to secure one hundred per cent. In a few days the Greenville Post will receive the "D. S. C." from the National Headquarters of the Legion.

It was decided last night to have a joint meeting of the Legion and Auxiliary some time during the month of February. At that time the State Commander of the Legion, Capt. Thomas C. Daniels, will be present, and the affair will consist of an elaborate dinner followed by a dance with music furnished by an outstanding orchestra. A committee was appointed by the Commander to make full arrangements for the affair.

There was also an informal discussion of the Legion building a Hut under the C. W. A. program with the Legion furnishing the material. A committee has been appointed to work on the matter also.

Mass Burial Proposed For Ten Children Killed in Florida Accident

Crescent City, Fla., Dec. 15.—(AP)—An inquest into the school bus-train accident near here yesterday which ten children and injured 30 others, was postponed today until tomorrow pending the outcome of the injuries of some of the most seriously hurt.

Plans for funeral services for the dead remained undetermined today, with decision centering on a memorial service at the school auditorium Sunday and mass burial, except for Bertha Gorton, 15, whose funeral service was set for this afternoon.

State Theatre To Give Food Matinee Sat.

Get ready boys and girls, tomorrow morning at ten o'clock the State theatre is having its annual food and toy matinee. Besides having lots of fun yourself you will be helping to bring happiness to some other boys and girls when Christmas time rolls around for all the food stuff and toys taken up at the door are going to be turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution.

Lets make it a big success, by every one bringing food or toys valued at least 10c which is the regular price you pay for a ticket. Just remember that it's all going to help make somebody else happy, and so if you want to bring a bigger toy or a bigger bag of groceries that will be all right too.

TWO NEW WORK PROJECTS ARE GIVEN 'OKAY'

Additional Public Works Improvements For Pitt County to Cost $51,000

Two new projects, carrying Federal appropriations of $51,000, have been approved for Pitt County by the State Civil Works Committee, it was announced today by K. T. Futrell, Civil Works Administrator for Pitt.

The largest project calls for a health program under direction of the County Department of Health. Mr. Futrell said $40,000 had been provided for this work, which will be confined largely to sanitation, or the building of 4,000 privies wherever necessary.

The second project, calling for expenditure of $11,000, will affect Green's Mill run back of East Carolina Teachers College. The run will be properly drained and will play an important part in reducing mosquito nuisance. The ditch extends from the Winterville road to Tar River.

Mr. Futrell said work would begin on both projects probably next Monday morning and will be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible. It was stated that five hundred men at present employed in relief work would receive checks Saturday. The number of workmen is gradually being increased, and the next month or so will find the entire county quota of 1,023 on the job.

Forty projects have been approved for the county, Mr. Futrell said, and these will be sufficient to absorb the entire quota of workmen.

LINDBERGH'S OFF TO MIAMI

Colonel and His Wife Plan to Stop For Short Time in Santo Domingo

San Juan, Porto Rico, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from the harbor here in their big red hydro-monoplane at 8:50 (E. S. T.) on their flight toward Miami.

They had stayed here overnight as the guests of Acting Governor Benjamin Horton and Mrs. Horton after flying 753 miles from the Port of Spain to San Juan in five hours and forty minutes.

Before their take-off, Col. Lindbergh did not specify his immediate destination, although it was indicated he and Mrs. Lindbergh might stop en route to Miami at Santo Domingo, about 300 miles away.

The Lindberghs yesterday obtained permission to enter the Dominican Republic.

At 10 a. m. the Lindberghs reported their position as ten miles south of Cape Engano, which is on the northern tip of the Dominican Republic. They were about forty-five miles from San Juan and apparently headed for Santo Domingo.

Three Arrested For Hunting Without License

Cecil Jones, Pitt County Game Warden, announced today that three arrests had been made recently on charges of hunting without licenses.

Walter Ellis, of Farmville, and Andrew Robinson and Roosevelt Robinson, of Greenville, the latter two colored, were arrested the first of the week and required to obtain licenses.

Jones said several other alleged violations of hunting laws were being investigated at this time with indications that further arrests would be made in the next several days.

N. Y. EXPERT SEES NEED OF A SALES TAX

Mark Graves Proposes Two Per Cent Federal Sales Tax to Help Make Budget Balance; Would Collect Gas Taxes on a National Scope; Predicts Big Cut in Expenses Through National System

Albany, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Tax Commissioner Mark Graves, who has helped States from Maine to California with their tax problems, outlined for The Associated Press today the "ideal tax plan" he laid before the United States Treasury.

Mr. Graves proposes a 2 per cent Federal sales tax.

Mr. Graves is president of the New York State Tax Commission and a close personal friend of President Roosevelt. He helped New Jersey, California and Illinois overhaul their tax systems and most of the forty-eight States sought his advice.

When Mr. Roosevelt was governor Mr. Graves was his close financial advisor.

His ideal plan as presented to the public for the first time: "By Mark Graves, President of the New York Tax Commission: "It seems logical that the basis of tax collecting can best be run just as our most important businesses are run on a national scale. By this I do not mean that all taxes should be collected by the Federal government."

"There will always be a variety of minor taxes for States and communities to collect, but the major taxes can be simplified and unified by collecting them from the national standpoint."

"To sight one objection to the system: Every State has its gas tax collected at a tub-regular hospital from thousands of distributors, and in some from filling stations. With a Federal tax the same collections could be made from around 500 refiners having 800 plants."

TAKE BULLET FROM COX BODY

Remains of Murdered Man Exhumed by Coroner Yesterday Afternoon

The body of Floyd Cox, filling station employee, who was murdered on the old Stokes road Wednesday night of last week, was exhumed yesterday afternoon and a second bullet removed from his body to aid officers in compiling evidence in the case.

Two bullets were fired into the young man's body by his assailant, one penetrating the chest and the other the head. One bullet was taken from his chest before burial, but this was not sufficient for officers to carry on the investigation, and Coroner A. A. Ellwanger, ordered the body to be disinterred to permit the removal of the bullet from the head.

The second bullet was forwarded by Sheriff Whitehurst to the ballistic expert at Washington City, and a report was expected in the next few days. The first bullet was carried to Washington by the officer two days ago.

Heber Ayers, who lives a short distance from where Cox worked, is being held in the county jail in connection with the slaying. The first bullet was said by Sheriff Dudley to be of the same calibre as a revolver owned by Ayers. Ayers however, continues to deny any knowledge of the slaying.

D. R. BASNIGHT HEADS COUNTY MEDICAL MEN

Stokes Physician Elected President of Society at Monthly Meeting Here

Dr. T. G. Basnight, of Stokes, was elected president of Pitt County Medical Society at the regular monthly meeting of the organization at St. Paul's Episcopal parish house last night.

Other officers elected were Dr. E. B. Beasley of Fountain, vice-president and D. W. M. B. Brown, Greenville, secretary-treasurer. Dr. S. M. Crisp was elected as delegate to the State Medical Society convention and Dr. J. E. Nobles was named alternate.

The new president succeeds Dr. J. E. Nobles, of Greenville, who served for the usual term of one year. The society made considerable progress under his administration.

Dr. Basnight has been prominent in medical circles for a number of years and his election to the high office was received with general satisfaction.

The election of officers followed annual observance of Ladies' Night, an occasion always looked forward to with keen interest by members of the society as well as their wives and sweethearts.

Hosts were Drs. A. M. Schultz, James Morrill, T. G. Basnight and Cecil Garranton.

Dr. K. B. Pace and Dr. Tom Watson, of the entertainment committee, were in charge of the program.

Dr. M. T. Frizzelle, of Ayden, delivered the address of welcome, and Mrs. E. B. Beasley, of Fountain responded.

Mrs. William Webb delighted the assemblage with several guitar numbers, and Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Christian church, delivered the principal address. He spoke on the subject, "Things in Common Between Doctors and Ministers." The minister, who has been right much "under the weather" recently impressed the doctors with the fact that he had many things in common with them, and the wit he injected into his subject produced considerable merriment.

The ladies were remembered with gifts and favors in keeping with the holidays were distributed.

ARMY OFFICER ON VISIT HERE

Col. Godfrey Cheshire Views Drill of Local Military Unit Last Night

Colonel Godfrey Cheshire, commanding officer of the 11th Field Artillery, North Carolina National Guards, was in Greenville last night as a guest of J. H. Waldrop, commander of Battery A, local artillery unit.

Colonel Godfrey attended the oyster roast given by the battery and also the meeting of the American Legion. He later was present at a drill of local artillerymen.

He expressed satisfaction at the splendid personnel of the battery, and praised the high type of training which the youngsters are receiving under direction of Commander Waldrop and his staff of officers.

The battery here has won high honors at annual encampment in recent years, and is considered among the best trained organizations in the State.

AUSTRALIAN 'PHONE GIRLS' JOG HUSBY'S MEMORY

Melbourne.—(AP)—Here's help for absent-minded husbands who forget their wives' birthday and other anniversaries.

The Australian postal authorities have announced that a telephone subscriber may arrange to be reminded of any engagement or anniversary for a fee of ten cents.

A prospective bridegroom thus may call "information" weeks in advance and book a reminder call.

"Information" will duly come through at the appointed time with "Good morning, this is your wedding day."

NAIS PLAN FREE SHOWS TO FILL MASSES' LEISURE

Berlin.—(AP)—Artists and actors have been asked to give one month's time yearly without pay to the committee in charge of building up leisure time programs for the German masses.

This request was made by the reich's "Kultur Chamber" and will in all probability be granted by the majority of artists or actors expected to continue work in Germany.

The chamber plans free entertainment for the masses consisting of concerts, vaudeville and films. It is expected that employed talented persons will take advantage of the government's offer to regiment their spare time in the way other activities have been regulated.

Christina, the Christmas Doll

SYNOPSIS: Christina, a doll made by Mrs. Santa, is stolen from Toyland by a chimney witch. The ice and snow fairies set out to find her.

CHAPTER V
CHRISTINA MEETS A GIANT
But while all this was happening in Toyland, where do you suppose Christina and the witch were? They were riding off in the night, on the back of a huge, black bat. "Hee, hee" cackled the witch to the bat. "We have the nicest doll in Toyland. We'll take her home and she can tell us stories in the evening. The little doll sat silently behind the witch. Big tears fell from her blue bead eyes. She was so frightened and the sky was so cold as they rushed along. After a while the witch exclaimed, "There we are. That's our home." And Christina saw a huge castle on a rocky mountain with at least a dozen chimneys outlined against the sky.

"That's the home of the One-Legged Giant of the Mountain," said the witch. "We help him and in return he keeps several chimneys clear where we live. It's a fine place. Why in the world are you crying?" The bat whisked right up to the main door of the castle, and the witch tapped on it with her tiny

Chile OK's Subway To Solve Traffic Snarls In Capital

Santiago, Chile.—(AP)—Chile's first subway has been authorized by the government. It will be "the Metropolitan Subterranean Railroad," and will run from the Alameda or Southern Railroad station at the west end of the Boulevard Alameda, across the city under the boulevard for three miles to the Plaza Italia, where the east side suburbs begin.

Six Months Limit
Preliminary authorization stipulates that the engineer and originator of the project, Luis Legarrigue, must present final plans within six months. Unless these plans are satisfactory, construction cannot be started. Tentative plans call for the organization of a company with $5,000,000 capital to build and operate the subway. Should the scheme prove feasible the government will permit a north-south subway and perhaps a belt line to serve the suburbs, it is announced by officials.

Narrow Streets Jammed
Subways are becoming a necessity in Santiago, because of increase in street traffic following rapid growth of the capital. With conditions in the provinces uncertain, thousands of people have come to Santiago to live, giving Santiago province an estimated population of more than a million.

Streets are narrow, traffic tie-ups are numerous and danger of accidents is increasing. Subways would

ANOTHER ONE

Another automobile accident at the barricade at the foot of Pitt Street last night brings this dangerous spot to the attention of our people. While already the courts have declared that the city is not liable for accidents at this spot, it seems to us that in view of the number of accidents that happen there something in the way of better warning signals are necessary for the safety of motorists. The number of accidents at that dangerous spot should be decreased if it is necessary to place red lights every few feet in the block to do it.

WE NEED IT NOW

A committee of local citizens was recently appointed here to go into the matter of the establishment of a county tubercular hospital for this county or for a group of counties in this immediate section. The inroad that this dreaded disease is making in this section is reaching an appalling stage and some action is necessary if the present spread of the disease is to be checked. The relief of present sufferers and the prevention of the spread of the disease to other persons is a matter that every person in our county should be vitally interested in and it is to be hoped that some definite plan will be outlined at an early date by the committee and the campaign for such an institution rushed to an early completion.

WILLIAM B. SMITH, JR., DIES FROM INJURIES

New Bern, Dec. 15.—William B. Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Smith of this city, and an employee of the Standard Oil Company died early Thursday afternoon in a Tarboro hospital, where he had been since late Friday receiving treatment for a skull fracture sustained in an automobile accident near Pinepines. The other occupant of the car K. O. Patterson of Rocky Mount, also an employee of the Standard Oil Company, escaped uninjured when the car he was driving turned over after swerving from the highway in an attempt to pass another automobile that entered the road suddenly from the side. Mr. Smith had been getting along satisfactorily until an infection set in Wednesday, following an operation to remove bone pressing against the brain. The body will be brought here for interment. The young man was popularly known through the section, and was highly regarded.

TURKISH CO-ED ENTERS MICHIGAN

Istanbul.—(AP)—America has a striking example of Mustafa Kemal's emancipation of Turkish women in twenty-year-old Faize Shervan.

This is the only co-ed in the freshman class of the engineering school of the University of Michigan and plans to become Turkey's first woman chemical engineer.

Her uncle, Bedi Bey, was formerly ambassador of the Turkish Embassy at Washington. Her sister, Fazile Shervan, is an assistant professor at Istanbul University. Their father was formerly governor of Baghdad.

FORBIDDEN VALLEY by William Byron Mowery

SYNOPSIS: Curt Tennyson has left his party in the wilderness of Northwest Canada, and has flown to British Columbia to learn what he can of Sonya and Ralph Nichols, whom he has picked up in the wilds while trailing Igor Kerkon, wealthy crook. Sonya is, he finds, a Russian princess, but he cannot learn her reason for making so dangerous a trip, although Curt's associate in Vancouver suggests it is to meet Kerkon, a proposition Curt indignantly rejects.

Chapter 29

SONYA'S WELCOME

THE next morning Curt and Smash started north once more in the plane.

On that long trip up across the latitudes, Baldwin's suggestion in the car the night before haunted him like a nightmare. He fought against it but stray thoughts kept getting past his guard.

There was Sonya's passionate determination to go into the Lilluars. Her secrecy Her mention, once, of a week-end trip to Juneau LeNoir's order that she must not be harmed. The woman's description of the tall Russian who'd been so frequent a caller at the Volkov home.

In the hush of twilight they sailed over a spearhead range and saw the Eskitimah lake nesting in its mountain cradle. They cut off ignition, made a long fourteen-mile glide, and drifted down toward the water.

Curt's canoe was there near the cabin, where he had left it. He floated the craft, shook hands with Smash, gave him final instructions, and set out down the Eskitimah.

It was a little before midnight when he threaded the river delta and pointed his canoe out across the lake toward camp. After three days of freedom from ambushes and ramhorn bows, he was oppressed by the feeling of danger closing around him again. With Siam-Klaie's main bang whipping south and LeNoir probably suspecting who Paul and he really were, something drastic was bound to happen, and quickly too.

The island loomed up ahead, dark, and silent. Everything seemed peaceful there. Presently he distinguished the outlines of the two tents. Thank God, nothing bad gone very wrong while he'd been away!

From the upper tip of the island a hawk-owl's caw challenged him, so sharp and peremptory that he had to smile. Trust Paul to spot any canoe approaching that island!

He answered back, landed at the lower end, beached his canoe and hurried up to camp. Beside the boulder "fort" François and Jocku were rolled up in their elder pokes, sleeping soundly while Paul stood guard. On a spruce mattress under his tent My Ralph was tossing restlessly in a dream. The Indian, Tenn-Og, was not around.

Beyond the tents Sonya was sitting on a canoe near the water edge, looking out toward the willow island.

"Sonya—"

She sprang up from the canoe and whirled around.

"Oh-oh! Curt! It's you! I wasn't expecting—Curt, where have you been all these days? Why did you leave us that night?"

"I've been prospecting a creek that old John told me about," he lied. "Everything went all right here, didn't it?"

"Yes, but you were gone so long and Paul wouldn't tell me a thing, and I—I worried about you."

IN THE ghostly light her face was white and ethereal as she confronted him, and her bosom still was heaving from the start he'd given her. She appeared so afraid and alone that all the stern things he meant to tell her dropped away, as once before in the canoe at Russian Lake.

"I worried about you too, dear. Are you glad I'm back?"

"Awfully glad! Paul is dependable, but he's—he's not you."

Her fingers lightened upon his as though asking him not to go away again. Impulsively Curt swept her into his arms.

"Sonya"—his hand caressed her hair, he was bitingly conscious of that small automatic beneath her blouse as he held her close to him—"you seemed so glad—when you saw me... Can't I hope you do care a little bit, sweetheart?"

Sonya did not look up or answer his question. For a few moments she lay in his arms, not resisting, with the velvety softness of her cheek against his own.

"Sonya, listen," he urged, not knowing how to interpret her passiveness. "I know it's wrong to force myself on you when you feel under obligations, but I can't go on not knowing—"

She stopped him. "Don't say that, dear; you'd never take advantage of obligations." But even as she said it, she tried to draw her hand away, and Curt felt her stiffen against him. "Dear, please," she insisted, as his arm tightened about her. "I asked you not to, once."

He allowed her to free herself. When she looked up and saw the bitter disappointment on his face, she kissed his cheek, a brief formal caress which meant no more than her assurance that she forgave his impulsiveness.

"Sonya, look here," he demanded, "is there somebody else?"

She turned his question aside. "Curt, I wish you didn't idealize me so much. You have, ever since we met. You know so terribly little, about the actual me. Our codes are so different. Something that I consider right in my deepest heart might seem to you an unthinkable wrong."

"Are you meaning this trip of yours?"

She debated a moment. "Yes." "You're making a mountain out of some molehill. The idea of you doing an 'unthinkable wrong' is ridiculous."

"We won't argue it, Curt. You just wouldn't approve, you'd violently disapprove, of my trip."

"But you told Ralph, and he evidently doesn't oppose—"

"Ralph's too gentle to oppose anybody. This has to be a matter of my own choice and conscience. Afterward, after it's all over, I'll write you or let you know somehow—I'll answer every question you've ever asked me."

"You say you'll write me—won't I see you afterward? Can't I come to see you?"

She laughed, bitterly. "You may, if you still want to. But you won't want to."

Before he could stop her she turned away from him and disappeared in the darkness toward her tent.

CURT started after her, torn by the desire to follow and find out what she meant. He thought it ominous that she had not answered his question, "Is it somebody else?" She seemed to be at war with herself, doing something which violated a part of her instincts, yet driven to it by a passion she could not resist.

In a tortured mood he started up the island to join his partner. That ugly suggestion of Arnold Baldwin's was jiggling through his brain again, and for once he could not fight it away.

Paul came a little way to meet him. "Any luck in Vancouver?" he asked in guarded voice.

"Nothing that I hoped for."

"You still don't know what she's doing in this country?"

"D'you mean you found out something?"

Paul changed the subject abruptly. "Our Indian friend has disappeared."

"Tenn-Og? When?"

"Last night. I knew he was going, but I didn't try to stop him. We don't need a prisoner to guard; our party is clumsy enough now."

"So he pitched off? Well, you did the wise thing; if he wouldn't stay voluntarily he'd only have been a bother. Did he steal one of our canoes?"

"No, he swam it. A little matter like a bullet through his shoulder bothered him not at all."

"Humph! If he ever gets the chance, I suppose he'll show his gratitude to us by sticking us full of arrows. What else happened around here?"

Paul fidgeted and looked out across the dark water. His reluctance and the somber pain on his face struck a chill into Curt.

"What's worrying you, Paul? It's something about Sonya, isn't it?"

Sweden's Money Program Wins Confidence Of Public

By ELMER W. PETERSON

Clockhol m.—(AP)—Sweden after two year's experience with a program of managed currency, now watches the monetary experiments of the Roosevelt administration with great interest.

Swedish financial leaders and government officials firmly decline to draw any parallels between their efforts and the situation in the United States.

The Swedish program, they insist, is so influenced by factors and circumstances more or less peculiar to Sweden that it is impossible to gauge the success or failure, advantages or shortcomings of a similar program in any other country.

In the squat stone building of the Central Bank of Sweden, which directs the Swedish monetary policy, responsible only to the parliament and not to the government proper, and the impression to be gained is that there is no exact formula, no clear methods that can be deduced from Sweden's experience and applied elsewhere.

People Keeps Cool

"To understand the Swedish monetary policy," explains a government official, "one first must give due consideration to the Swedish temperament."

"The Swedish public has a marked disinclination to become panicky, is not inclined to hoard, is usually compact and homogeneous and will be inclined to co-operate and has undeniably confidence in the banking system and credit structure of the nation."

Moreover, it is pointed out, the Swedish monetary program never has been involved in political hue and cry.

Against this background, government officials explain, is has been possible for Sweden to develop a monetary policy which has had the maintenance of a general level of commodity prices as the standard for regarding the value of the currency—as a substitute for gold which Sweden dropped in September 1931, following the lead of England.

Results, it is held here, and as shown by statistical evidence, have been good. The Swedish krona has practically the same purchasing power as two years ago. Individual commodity prices have fluctuated, especially in agriculture, but in the general level of prices, proponents of the policy assert, stabilization has been obtained.

The standard of living has been maintained, wages have been cut only moderately and in her economic life as a whole Sweden can, of late claim a distinct improvement.

In contrast to the present program of the Roosevelt administration, financial writers here observe, Sweden has consecrated, largely by necessity, on price control through amount and turnover of credit, rather than by devaluation of the krona or the manipulation of gold.

Limited in size, Sweden has had to pursue a strictly domestic policy on the theory that prices as a group could be made to react favorably, and be kept at a desired level, if the internal purchasing power of the krona could be maintained. The program this has been against any depreciation of the foreign exchange value of the krona with a view to international trade advantages.

Since June of this year, moreover, the policy has been, formally, if not actually, the securing of a moderate rise in price level.

A survey shows that in August, 1931, before Sweden left the gold standard, in the official price index was 109 taking 1913 as a base of 100. In September this dropped to 107. In August and September, 1932, the figures were 108 and 110.

Prices then began to fall and in March of this year touched 104. A committee of experts then was formed and in June decided that the policy would, if necessary, include an effort to force a restricted rise in prices. So far, however, no active measures have been taken in this direction, this being entirely at the discretion of the Central Bank. For September just past the index was 109.

ATTEMPT TO SPEED LEAF SIGNUP HERE

Farm Director Urges Farmers to Get Busy And Sign Tobacco Contracts Now

Tobacco contract campaign forces were making an effort today to close the campaign during this holidays and farmers who have not yet signed contracts were urged to do so at once.

E. F. Arnold, director of the Pitt County Farm Department, who is directing the campaign, said today that committeemen placed in various townships at the beginning of the drive would remain on the job the remainder of the week, and next week to help farmers with their contracts.

He said approximately 1,300 preliminary contracts had been filed in his office, but with the county total standing at around 3,000 it was stated rapid work would have to be done to complete work by December 22, the date set for the closing of the drive.

Mr. Arnold said all farmers who had signed the contracts would be able to file applications for benefit payments on the 1933 crop by the first of the year, but he indicated that only those who had actually signed would be allowed the advantage.

To file applications for the benefit payments, the Farm Director said it would be necessary for growers to obtain blanks from their local committeemen and then go to warehouses for certified copies of bills of sale. The forms must then be presented at the farm office for final completion being filed with the Federal Government for payment.

SENTENCED TO DIE FOR KILLING HIS WIFE

Winston-Salem, N. C., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Willie Crockett, convicted negro wife-slayer, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair on February 15 by Superior Court Judge John H. Clement. An appeal was noted following Crockett's conviction.

CHIANG QUIZZES GENERALS IN ARMY EMERGENCY TEST

Shanghai.—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek, Nationalist China's generalissimo, in an attempt to raise the efficiency of his armies has announced examinations in military science for all officers.

These below the rank of colonel are to be tested at stated intervals. Higher officers are subject to examination without notice, and Chiang himself will quiz the colonels and generals.

Satisfied with progress of the campaign against Communists in Kiangsi province, Chiang also ruled that any soldier guilty of negligence would be subject to any penalty the generalissimo might see fit to inflict.

WANTS $105,000 FOR AIRPORT AT WINSTON

Winston Salem, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The local airport may be improved to the extent of $105,000 instead of $55,000 it was revealed here today. The Public Works Administration has already awarded $55,000 for the job, but an additional $50,000 is being requested of R. B. Page, airport project supervisor for the state.

TYSON TO GO TO COLUMBIA

Chief Clerk of House Committee on Accounts Accepts Job With Farm Body

W. S. Tyson who for the last two years has been chief clerk of the committee of accounts of the U. S. House of Representatives, has resigned and accepted a position on the legal staff of the Farm Credit Administration at Columbia, S. C. This announcement was made yesterday afternoon following Mr. Tyson's return from a brief visit to Washington where he conferred with government officials regarding his new work. He left today for Columbia to confer with Farm Administration officials before taking over his duties the first of the year.

Mr. Tyson, former Greenville lawyer, has been in Washington the last two years, and during his stay there made numbers of friends from various parts of the country, who are connected with the official life of the capital. His services with the House Committee were described as very satisfactory.

Wombats Raid Australian Farms

Melbourne.—(AP)—Hordes of wombats, the little nocturnal marsupials which look like "teddy bears" are devouring crops in eastern Gippsland, Victoria. Farmers report that the animals take holes in wire mesh and tunnel 18 inches under fences to get at the crops.

BIGGER ARMY FOR U. S. SEEN AT CAPITAL

Discussions at Washington Also Gives Thought to Greater Power on High Seas

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

A new military and naval policy, based on greater strength at sea and army realignments to limitate port heaviness, is emerging from discussions now in progress in Washington.

There is little doubt in official circles that President Roosevelt will back up wholeheartedly, as a major tenet of his appropriations program, Secretary Swanson's request that Congress build up toward naval treaty limits.

A former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Roosevelt has an abiding conviction the nation's first line of defense must be kept strong under present world conditions. He has been told his overture of last May to the powers to join in mutual arms reductions is not likely to have real results.

It is not so generally accepted that General MacArthur's plea for a larger army will be pressed by the White House.

Some high in the administration might well be strengthened, a great saving in that direction could be made by simplifying and reducing the general staff set-up in the War Department.

Then the Reports Flew

There was a special reason why the President came under such strong pressure to clarify his money policy immediately on his return to Washington from Warm Springs.

In his absence, Acting Secretary Morgenthau's "Don't-talk" order to Treasury officials had been followed by the circulation of many strange reports regarding administration plans.

One story was that the whole policy was to be reversed, and the currency returned to the gold basis as it existed under Hoover. Actually, nothing was further from the expectations of those on intimate terms with the White House.

Another report was that the President intended to go to other extreme, and begin issuing "greenback" currency with no backing. The report had told his friends he would not do so.

The truth is the administration is trying to change the basis of the currency, and the question is, "What sort of basis should be adopted?" Some want a modified gold basis, some silver and gold, some a selected group of commodities, some all commodities.

The best bet seems to be some form of "commodity dollars."

Strange Bed Fellows

Recent signs of restlessness in the "brain trust" came as no surprise to the practical politicians.

Professors are noted for having their own ideas, usually different from those of other professors, and for sticking to their theses to the bitter end. Politicians are used to "strange bed fellows, but they knew all along that economists were not—and have been counting on it.

Efforts are continuing to bring President Roosevelt and Henry Ford together for a talk which many believe might wipe out all difficulties between Ford and NRA. The present trouble is that neither side seems willing to make the overture in a form acceptable to the other.

In formulating his national defense policy, the President will insist on closer co-ordination between Army and Navy, to insure better union in case of war.

COWBOY GOVERNOR IN ROUNDUP

Pierre, S. D. —(AP)—Tom Berry, the "cowboy governor" who took the saddle nine months ago to "ride herd" on the state of South Dakota is now, in true cattleman fashion looking seriously into the problem of "wintering" for his dogs.

It's going to be a tough winter for the state, the governor admits, but he has every hope of "seeing" the herd through with not to exceed a 1 per cent loss from the storm.

Round Up a Hard One

The storm of course is economic and seldom has a "round-up" than Berry, owner of a 30,000 acre ranch and himself a hard-riding bronzed western cowboy, Berry's irrepressible cowboy humor, however, prevails.

Commenting on South Dakota's severe drought and grasshopper plague—the cause of much of the worry here this winter—Berry said, "Why, if South Dakota was apportioned funds on the basis of its production curtailment, it ought to get a million. We ain't raised nothing in three years."

"Fight's For His 'Herd'"
By there is more to Tom Berry than humor.

U. S. STEPS CAUTIOUSLY ON LIQUOR

Regulation of Intoxicants Prove Big Problem For Administration

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Caution is the distinctive note of the administration's approach to its new task of liquor regulation. Everything that is done is of tentative character. Headlong decisions or experiments are discovered from higher up.

Very definitely, the brakes were applied to the repeal bandwagon the moment it passed over the crest of the hill.

Now it is the wet organization rather than the dry which complains of administration policy.

The problem seems certain to figure in politics for a long time to come, and the administration will take pains not to associate itself exclusively with one side or the other for the present.

Under the surface, forces are at work to eradicate, on both sides, that extreme bitterness which was so common during the prohibition era.

Many leading churchmen who battled for prohibition have indicated to the White House they are willing to meet the administration half way.

It was not announced, but the Federal Council of Churches moved its December meeting from New York to Washington especially to make the President's attendance possible.

A Central Bank?

Talk of a central United States Bank recently has been revived.

Such an institution, owned entirely by the government, would take over the preferred bank stock and other collateral held by the RFC, handle the gold-buying campaign and discharge many other functions, such as a central government bank in foreign countries now perform.

Some important business men would not be surprised if legislation for such a bank were included in class. He has fought for and won reduced rate for feed shipments, and many credit South Dakota's share of public works money in large measure to his rangeland tactics.

On his return from Washington the governor found himself facing a farm strike. But Berry was against it.

"Though entirely sympathetic to the things the farmer is trying to accomplish by a strike," Berry "cannot see how a strike will accomplish the desired purpose."

He looks at his job much as any good cattleman would look after his thousands of head. Big stockmen—and Berry is one of the few left today—except to take about 5 per cent loss each winter on their herd. He hopes to lower that figure for his human herd this winter.

Mr. Roosevelt's January message to Congress.

Special interesting reports from administration investigators preceded establishment of the new National Emergency Council, which is to have a branch in every county, co-ordinating recovery activities and giving out information.

Some weeks ago a member of the "brain trust" came back from a Western tour complaining that the recovery program was not understood at all and suggesting that a comprehensive publicity system be set up to reach rural communities.

More recently General Johnson and others have been arguing for a central authority in each locality to speak for all of the recovery agencies.

Just how the new nation-wide network will be handled constitutes one of the most fascinating questions in the Washington picture today. Any such far-reaching system has highly interesting possibilities.

After It's Billed Down

There is little essentially new in the latest differences among farm relief officials.

In this and other recovery agencies Mr. Roosevelt had had all along two types of officials—the college professors, who act as advisers and "idea" men, and the non-professors who are the practical administrators. In few cases has the President entrusted administrative authority to a member of the brain trust.

Some of the professors have been growing impatient with the way their ideas are created.

Who would have suspected, a few years back, that the time ever would come when an attack by Al Smith on a Democratic administration would be followed by an appeal from Charles G. Dawes that the country stand by the President.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

While all the baseball clubs are scrambling to reorganize or strengthen for 1934, it is interesting to note that no American League itcher during the past season succeeded in capturing his series from each of the seven rival clubs. Probably this is the tip-off on a somewhat general decline in the pitching power of the entire circuit, a fact that was emphasized when the curving c.p.s. of the Giants emerged with the honor in the world series duel with the best staff the American League was able to muster.

Lefty Bob Grove and the equally left-handed Earl Whitehill of the Senators, both veterans, same the closest to getting the upper hand over all rivals in 1933. The unique feature of their records, as tabulated by Henry P. Edwards, is that the two left-end clubs were toughest for them to beat. Grove compiled a margin over every club except the Red Sox, who broke even with the ace of the A's in six games. Whitehill was likewise held to an even break in six games against the Browns.

Grove was not defeated by the Browns, White Sox or Indians while Whitehill scored a clean sweep in four games with his old Detroit teammates.

Zupke's Melange

Ohio State observers insist the Illinois is the toughest football team to scout in what Clark Daniel Shaughnessy describes as "the toughest league in football."

The answer seems to be that Bob Zupke, the artistic and resourceful head coach of the Illini, uses a little of nearly every known "system," with a few dashes of his own ingenuity. His team has run from five formations this year: the famed "Z" or Grange; the short punt, similar to Michigan's; the close double-wing back, characteristic of the Warner plan of attack; the open double wing-back; and the long punt formation, which used to be popular when Harvard was on top under the late Percy D. Houghton.

Zupke also uses three different line shifts, plays his ends close or wide and resorts to either the balanced and unbalanced line, as a final measure calculated to baffie the opposition.

Mid-West Marksmen

The Mid-Western arguments as to whether Doug Nott, of Detroit, or Jack Beynon, of Lincoln, is the better passer continue to range. It probably will get nowhere, like most football arguments, but that doesn't seem to stop the adherents and admirers of each from presenting their views.

Nott has achieved more spectacular results, measured by touchdowns resulting from passes, but Beynon's hearing has featured the attack of the Illini all year.

Eight of the first downs gained by Illinois against Army were on passes, of which twelve out of seventeen were completed, and it wasn't Beynon's fault that his team didn't score. Against Michigan, Beynon's passes accounted for five of the six first-downs registered by the Illini and twice, say our reports, "perfect passes" were dropped by receivers on the Wolverine goal line.

It would seem that a little more glue on the fingers might have carried Illinois through the season on a non-stop victory flight.

PITT COUNTY PICKED FOR BIG SURVEY

Federal Government Studying Social and Economic Life in This County

It was announced today from the office of K. T. Puttrell, Director of the Civil Works Administration in this county, that the Federal Government had selected Pitt County for a special survey of the social, economic and health conditions of families receiving relief aid at this time.

Only one other county in North Carolina, Anson, was picked for this signal honor. Mr. Puttrell said, as he told of the advantages to be derived from the survey.

Dr. Hamilton, of State College, will have charge of the survey, which got under way last Monday morning with three field men on the job. It will probably be completed in thirty days or more, it was said.

The object of the movement is to obtain definite data concerning the social and economic condition of people on the relief rolls as well as the general health situation. Several hundred families, equally divided between white and colored people, will be interviewed by the workers.

Similar surveys are being made in every State of the Union in an effort to check up on the family history of relief workers so the government may direct relief work more intelligently in years to come.

LADYBIRDS SEEK FLIGHT MARK

E. B. HIGGS FAVORS PLANS FOR HOSPITAL

(Continued from Page One) This loved one knowing every day of life could bring only more suffering to that loved one and who help to relieve their suffering? If not then you have missed the acutest agony; you have missed the very acme of suffering.

"Let us build a tubercular hospital in honor and in memory of a man who loved Pitt county and in whose great heart there was a burning passion to serve her people the late Dr. C. O. H. Laughinghouse."

Late News Flashes

Defendants were charged with conspiracy to violate and with actual violation of the national prohibition laws.

Judge Hayes took the position that repeal of the statute pending prosecution for an offense which it created, stopped a prosecution and power of the court of authority to impose sentence, even though the defendants were convicted.

Byrum Gibson and Claude Chambers, Guilford county men, were the defendants.

Chambers pleaded guilty to the indictment, but when brought to trial on December 6 filed a plea of abatement in which he objected to the court entering judgment against him on the ground that the 18th Amendment had been repealed.

Lindberghs Land at San Pedro

San Pedro, Dominican Republic Dec. 15.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at 10:40 A. M. (EST) today after a flight from San Juan Porto Rico, Pan American Airway announced.

San Pedro is on the southern coast of the Dominican Republic. Officials said because of good airport facilities. They plan to stay here today and resume their journey toward Miami and New York tomorrow.

To Plug Income Loophole

Washington, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Declaring the administration's intention to plug any loophole but hamper business as little as possible, acting Secretary Morgenthau today recommended drastic revision of income tax laws before the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

The treasury head appearing for the first time before a congressional committee in that capacity withheld his recommendation on specific income tax rate. The budget must be completed, he indicated before a rate is named. At the same time he approved in principle the committee plan.

The house group suggested that instead of the present 4 per cent on first the $4,000 of net income and 8 per cent on the balance there be a single 4 per cent rate.

Increased surtax believed on large incomes. Reading only high spots of his suggestion before turning over the position of details to Prof. Roosevelt McGill, Treasury tax expert, Morgenthau made no estimate of how much the government might gain from rewriting the income tax law.

Aides indicated the treasury felt the return would be near $100,000,000 than committee estimate of $270,000,000.

In his comparatively brief reading before taking his seat in audience at House office building Morgenthau revealed the treasury had started a survey of whole relations offered and steady taxation.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—New York cotton futures opened steady to seven higher on steady Liverpool cables and lower dollar exchange.

Moderate buying was supplied by a little southern selling combined with liquidation and selling from local sources. This was difficult to cause reactions of few points, March easing from 10.19 to 19.16. Business tapered off on old stock and the market at the end of the first half hour was quiet at advances to two or three points.

The market was quiet later in the morning. The market at mid-day was around 10.15 for March or about unchanged to three higher.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Timid traders generally hovered around the outskirts of speculative markets today apparently waiting for something to revive their waning enthusiasm.

Actual news of an especial stimulating character was lacking. There was no change in gold notes and the dollar after sagging in early exchange came back around closing quotations of yesterday.

Grains and cotton moved with narrow limits. Bonds were full and mixed. Stocks were almost at a standstill during the greater part of the session and the ticker tapes spurted lazily. Stocks dropped in the last hour following steadiness. Losses of one to two were registered before the list breaks. Transfers were 1,050,000 shares.
