HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS CLAIM 180 LIVES IN THE U. S.

Twenty-Six Violent Deaths Reported In The Carolinas; Cold Also Takes Heavy Toll

MANY DIE FROM EXPOSURE IN THE MID-WEST

Cold Blast From The Canadian Northwest Causes Loss of Five Lives Other Deaths Reported From Chicago; Automobile Accidents Responsible For Large Number of Deaths; No Section Escapes Tragedy

(By The Associated Press) Yule and over the week-end holiday accidents and weather combined to cause heavy loss of life in the United States, a survey revealed today.

More than 180 deaths were reported most of them from automobile mishaps. No section of the country escaped.

A cold blast from the Canadian northwest sent temperatures tumbling to below zero in many sections in the mid-west and was blamed for at least 5 deaths due to exposure.

Five persons were killed and a sixth was not expected to recover. Six deaths were reported from Columbia, S. C., and its environs.

The slain body of Herbert Harris, Jr., 15-year-old school boy was found in an abandoned house 47 miles after he disappeared.

Officers said Robert Wilds 29-year-old automobile mechanic had confessed he lured the schoolboy from his home and beat him to death with an iron bar at the deserted house.

ESCAPED CONVICT CAPTURED

Late News Flashes From Over World

Urges France To Pay U. S. Paris, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Former Premier Edouard Herriot resumed today his campaign for reversal of the French attitude on the war debt with the assertion that "the position we have taken has isolated us."

In a communique M. Herriot, champion of payments, declared "I am for as close contact as possible with the United States of America. I cannot cease," he said, "to denounce the danger of the attitude France has assumed toward payment of the American debt."

He urged Frenchmen to reflect upon what might happen in case of another European war. While England was making her total payment on her debt to the United States December 15, France defaulted for the third time.

Tells Story Of Abduction. Syria, Dec. 25.—(AP)—A story of being abducted by 250 masked men Friday night, driven about over the mountain, North Carolina and Georgia for two days, in an automobile and threatened with death, was told today by Frank Rhineheart, 37, principal of the Battle school in Sampson county.

Rhineheart who appeared in Syria, braided and suffering from shock, said he was released on the highway (Continued on Page Four)

DEFER SITTING COUNTY COURT BIG WEDDING RUSH STILL ON This Week's Session Postponed on Account of Celebration Of Holidays. Twenty-Two Couples Obtained Licenses To Wed in Pitt County Last Saturday

EIGHT LIQUOR MEN NABBED DURING RAIDS

Big Supply of Liquor Seized by County Officers During The Holidays

Eight violators of the prohibition law were rounded up during the Christmas holidays in a raid staged under the direction of Sheriff Sam Whitehurst, it was made known today.

Two of the raids were made in the Fountain community, one at Sharp Point, one at Ballard's Cross Roads and the other on the New Bern highway near Greenville.

A considerable amount of liquor fell into the hands of the law, and the defendants were released under bond of $200 each for hearing in the next sitting of County Court.

Only one failed to produce bond and was held in jail.

All of the violators were filling station operators and the liquor was found either at the stations or at the homes of the defendants.

Sheriff Whitehurst said the seizures brought the total amount of whiskey captured the last three weeks to 499 gallons with 15 violators being involved.

Those arrested were: Preston Gardner and Larry Moore (the latter colored), at a filling station near Fountain, case of whiskey.

A man named Mosely at a filling station near Fountain, half gallon. Thomas Jones, Sharp Point, filling station, nine gallons.

J. L. Diddy and Jim Boyd, the latter colored, near Ballard's Cross Roads.

Jasper House and Blaney Saunders, the latter colored, near Greenville. Forty-nine pints of liquor were taken in this raid.

Saunders was unable to provide bond and was held in jail to await trial.

W. F. TUNSTALL BURIED SUNDAY

Final Rites For Young Man Who Died Suddenly at Belhaven Held Here

William Frisbee Tunstall, 23, who was found dead in bed in Belhaven Saturday morning, was laid to rest in Cherry Hill cemetery here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Funeral services were conducted from his late home in Belhaven Sunday at 12 o'clock by Rev. D. W. Arnold, pastor of the Washington Christian Church, assisted by Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, Greenville.

The body was then brought to Greenville for final rites at the grave which were conducted by Rev. W. A. Ryan.

Young Tunstall, who suffered from asthma practically all of his life, was found dead in bed Saturday morning. Heart trouble was believed responsible for the death.

He was a member of the Eighth Street Christian Church of this city, and attended Greenville and Belhaven schools.

COTTON-LEAF EXPORTS IN LARGE GAIN

Southern Products More in Demand this Fall Than a Year Ago, Figures Show

Washington, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Cotton and tobacco the south's largest money crops, were more in demand in foreign countries this fall than a year ago and these exports contributed in a large way to increase farm income.

Figures from the Commerce Department today showed that in September, October and November of this year 76,973 bales of cotton and 4,952,832 more pounds of tobacco were sent abroad than during the same months in 1932.

These leaf figures are in addition to those for various types of manufactured tobacco, such as cigarettes, chewing and smoking tobacco which also showed an increase in exports.

The bright blue cured tobacco grown in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and Florida led all other types in exports. Over ten year period the bright blue cured types have been exported at 61.52 per cent of the total tobacco exports from this country.

Japan, Germany and the United Kingdom took the lead in cotton exports for the three months for both years and while the United Kingdom and China were the largest importers of tobacco.

The largest amount of manufactured tobacco reported to any one country went to the Philippine Islands.

CHILD DIES FROM BURNS

Rommie Brickhouse Dies at Ayden After Falling Into Pot of Chitterlings

Forty-eight hours after he fell into a boiling pot of chitterlings, Rommie Austin Brickhouse, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Brickhouse of near Ayden, succumbed to the injuries Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The child was watching members of the family boil the chitterlings when he suddenly fell backwards and plunged into the boiling pot.

SANTA CLAUS LIBERAL TO THIS SECTION

Stockings Crammed to Overflowing in Greatest Celebration Of Recent Years

Christmas has come and gone but the thought of one of the greatest celebrations of years will linger for a long time in the memory of Greenville and Pitt county people.

Santa Claus, patron saint of millions of people throughout the world, was never more liberal to this section than he was this year.

Thousands of stockings hung up by the kiddies Sunday night were filled to bursting point and grown-ups, with an eye cocked hopefully in the direction of the cheery old gentleman, found themselves provided for in a way that carried gladness to their hearts.

Millions of dollars paid out by the local tobacco market this season, combined with large sums poured into the ranks of the unemployed by the federal government's civil works program, enabled Santa Claus to do a good part by everybody, and work of charity organizations was less than it has been in years because of the lack of such cases.

Stores which were jammed near to suffocation a week prior to Saturday, saw one of the most pronounced rushes in history the day preceding the coming of St. Nicholas.

Tremendous stocks of Christmas gifts were moved rapidly from shelves and counters and only a small carry-over was on hand today as merchants began tidying up their stores and arranging stocks in preparation for annual inventory.

Impressive programs in keeping with the spirit of the occasion were given by various churches of the city and all were reported to have been largely attended.

Children of the poor were remembered with gifts from Christmas trees given by various denominations and organizations and the brightness of Christmas cheer filled more homes than any year in the memory of the oldest inhabitants.

It was as many claimed "a new deal" Christmas and it will be many a day before the people of this section forget the rush and push in evidence and the final climax that brought them a liberal supply of gifts of every conceivable description.

While an order from the police department prohibiting the shooting of firecrackers on the streets probably reduced the number of such violations, there was plenty of shooting going on and many an ear-splitting blast sent nervous citizens scattering to places of safety, or out of reach of the detonations.

The use of fireworks as a celebratory feature was the most extensive of years, and hundreds of dollars went up in smoke as the citizens gave vent to their feelings in this manner.

With the exception of a few arrests for drunkenness and violations of the dry law, law enforcement officers reported the quietest time in years. Calm pervaded the city from the beginning of Christmas to the end, and except for the noise of tooting horns, jingling bells and exploding fireworks, the city had community enjoyed complete quiet.

GANGSTERS ESCAPE FROM INSTITUTION

Lima, O., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Neal Glendon Bowman, 30, member of the Bowman Brothers gang, escaped from the State hospital for the criminal insane here today after locking an attendant and four other patients in a small room of the tuberculous section.

The fugitive was serving a term on a charge of robbery.

ELDER ROCKEFELLER HAS QUIET HOLIDAY

Tarrytown, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller yesterday spent his quietest Christmas at his home in Pocantico Hills. Complying with doctor's orders, there was no celebration, but during the day he was visited by his son and grandchildren. He refused to issue a special Christmas message.

The festivity was held at the lodge, the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. All the five children were present including the grandchildren. Presents were distributed from a tree cut from the estate. It was said today that Mr. Rockefeller's condition was just about the same and that he still has hopes of getting to Florida within a few weeks.

Pres. Roosevelt Seeks Report On Business In U. S.

ORDERS FULL REPORT FROM ALL AGENCIES

Reports Expected to Be Important Factor In Determining The Amount of Appropriations to be Asked From Congress; Personal Views Sought From All Officers; Facts Compiled at Meeting of Reserve Board

Washington, Dec. 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has ordered an up-to-the minute report on business and employment conditions from all federal agencies.

The reports when received are likely to be an important factor in determining finally the amount of appropriations to be asked of Congress and in guiding the administration's immediate economic plans.

The presidential command was understood to have exceeded the usual statistical data limitation by asking the officers for personal views on the national outlook.

There were reports which could not be verified officially that last Friday's secret meeting of the Federal Reserve Board was devoted to preparing business and industrial analysis for the chief executive. The Reserve System keeps an accurate indicator and issues monthly reports.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Branard Platt, 61, assistant to the vice-president of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, died suddenly today of apoplexy. He had just greeted some visitors at his home when stricken and died in a few minutes.

Mr. Platt, a native of Madison, Ind., had served the Courier-Journal and Times about 40 years as reporter, city editor and managing editor.

CHRISTMAS MISHAP MAY PROVE FATAL

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Thirteen year old Earline Hartman, surrounded by Christmas presents, played with a companion beneath the glittering tree in her home early today.

They were admiring the pistol clutched in the hand of the playmate. The gun roared. The accidental discharge entered Earline's right eye and went into her brain.

Physicians fear the Hartman home will be sorrowed by death.

CHILD NEAR DEATH FROM BAD WHISKEY

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 26.—(AP)—A five year old child is near death in a hospital here as a result of drinking half a glassful of moonshine liquor. The child, James Tourville, found the glass of liquor on the floor of his home and gulped it down, according to the report made to the police by the father, Gordon Tourville. At the hospital the child was said to be suffering from a severe case of alcoholic poisoning.

SEEK MODIFICATION OF VETERANS' BILL

Washington, Dec. 26.—(AP)—An aggressive drive for modification of the national economy act as it affects veterans' expenditures is taking shape for the coming session of Congress.

With most former service men's organizations working for repeal of the act, the American Legion is pushing a four-point modification program. Its amendments will be presented on the first day of the session by Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, chairman of the House Veterans' Committee.

Adoption of the program, according to Legion estimates, would cost $70,000,000. It would restore free hospitalization to improvident veterans, would substitute the word "compensation" for "pension" with reference to service-connected death and disability payments; would return the compensation for World War death and disability to persons who received it on March 20, 1933, on the old basis and would provide payments for World War orphans and widows.

Veterans' organizations other than the Legion are seeking its support for their efforts to repeal the act. These attempts so far have failed.

Legion officials take the view that by asking for less they will ultimately obtain more than those who ask for a lot. They predict adoption of their program.

HAS PEACE PLAN TO END CHACO WARFARE

Montevideo, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Reliable reports to have a plan of peace ready to lay before Bolivia and Paraguay, the League of Nations Chaco Commission met yesterday and decided to call formal conferences with the belligerents. The commission held a two-hour conference with Jeronimo Zubizarreta, Paraguayan minister of foreign relations, who said later they had discussed preliminaries but did not touch on questions of forts in the Chaco Boreal, or the armistice. Afterward Castro Rojas, Bolivian delegate to the Pan-American conference, conferred briefly with the commission. The Paraguayan delegate was not present.

Today's conferences with special representatives of Bolivia and Paraguay were scheduled to start at 3 p. m. They will be held separately.

The League of Nations commission was specially delegated at the suggestion of the Pan-American conference to attempt a settlement of the dispute arising since the 11-day armistice began, with Bolivian charges that Paraguay violated the truce.

BOUNDARY TROUBLES MAY CROP UP AGAIN

Para, Brazil, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A Colombian transport with 400 soldiers arrived here yesterday on its way to the waters of the Amazon river, leading to a marked resurgence of activity in Colombia's boundary dispute with Peru. It came a week after the departure of three Peruvian destroyers or Iquitoes and will soon follow in their wake 1500 miles up the broad internationalized stream, probably pausing to refuel at the Brazilian river port of Manaus.

The Colombian vessel, the Boyaca, came around the northern coast of South America by way of Trinidad, where its stop December 12 coincided with that of Col. apt. Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh when they hopped from Manaus in finding up their round-the-Atlantic flight.

The latest movement is described by representatives of the two governments conferring at Rio de Janeiro as "routine." Their conversations for settlement of the Leticia boundary controversy, under way for the last two months, were officially said to be proceeding normally and "in good spirit."

During the third quarter of this year, 55,100 pounds of air-mail letters were carried from England, compared with 38,646 pounds in the same period of 1932.

FORBIDDEN VALLEY by William Byron Mowery

SYNOPSIS: Deserting Curt Tenson, who has not only met and befriended her in the Canadian wilds but has fallen in love with her, Sonja Velkov has slipped away from camp to join the international crook, Tom Karakhan. Curt is trying to capture Karakhan. Curt, with his partner, Paul, and Ralph Nichols, Sonja's former aid, are left stranded on an island in the middle of a lake with neither canoe nor provisions after an attack by the Kioshoes Indians that has been inspired by Karakhan. Ralph is desperately wounded.

Chapter 37 TENNOG AGAIN

OVER and over again Curt swore to himself, "I'm going to get off this island! If he could not walk or fly or paddle away, he at least could swim away. But they could not abandon Ralph. To take Ralph with them they would have to get a boat, and the only chance of doing that was for one of them to swim over to the mainland camp after dark and try to steal a canoe.

He himself would have to go. Paul could not; like most men born beside the cold waters of the north, he could hardly swim at all.

"Besides our own lives," he added, "there's Ralph to be considered. If we have a canoe, we can drop down to the Iskitimwah mouth in up on the sand. Thoroughly mystified, he swam in, struck bottom and waded ashore.

Paul came running to meet him, bringing his clothes.

"Partner! It's Tenn-Og! He fetched us a canoe!"

"Wha-a-t!"

"He came just as soon as it was dark enough that the others wouldn't see him. If you don't believe me, there's the boat and there he is!"

"What's the idea?"

"He says he met Sonja over at their camp just after the fight last night, and she told him to bring us a boat."

"Humph! LeNoir's using him to bait some deadfall for us. Let's find out what his game is." He dressed quickly, walked over to Tenn-Og, nodded to him. "It's a surprise to see you, friend. So you brought us a canoe. That's fine! But why?"

Tenn-Og pointed to his forehead and shoulder wounds, as a reminder that the white strangers had once helped him.

"Is the white girl over there at the camp?" Curt asked.

She had left last night, Tenn-Og said. LeNoir had started her north to the white man in charge of three dependable guides.

"Wasn't it you last evening," Curt inquired sardonically, "who led

The water was numbing cold at first.

twenty-four hours, and in six more we'll be up at old John's lake. If Smash is waiting there, as he ought to be, we can have Ralph over on the Pacific Coast, in the hospital at Rupert, in thirty-six hours."

Paul glanced across that mile of icy slapping water. "You'd stand one chance in twenty-five of getting over to that camp and one in a hundred of stealing a canoe without getting killed."

"But if I don't go, we don't stand any chance at all. As soon as it gets dark enough I'm going. It had better be tonight; tomorrow night will only find us weaker."

The slight hope of getting away or at least of doing something besides waiting helplessly heartened them a little. Curt happened to remember about Ralph's hand-line the previous evening and went looking for it. A small chub was on the line when Curt pulled it in. He cut the chub into bait, threw the line out, caught a gray trout and half a dozen minnows. They scorched the fish over a little wisp of fire and had their first meal in thirty hours.

TWILIGHT came earlier than usual, for the sky was still clouded. They walked up to the north tip, and Curt, stripped for his swim. The lake still ran wild with whitecaps.

He shook hands with Paul, waded out and started for the near island.

The water was numbing cold at first, but he struck up a vigorous pace that kept the chill out of his blood. In twenty minutes he raised his head and saw a spruce islet, his first stop, not far in front of him.

At about that same time he heard a distant guarded shout. It sounded like Paul calling to him. He halted, listened, heard nothing more, and swam on. A minute later four shots came rattling across the lake. The peculiar sequence of them stopped him short. It was a signal between him and Paul; they had used it a dozen times to summon each other.

He turned around and headed back for the camp island.

Seventy-five yards off the lower tip, he made out two men standing at the wave edge. Nearer, he recognized Paul, and saw a canoe drawn those three canoes down at the north tip of this island?"

TENNOG admitted leading the canoes. But, he added, at the right moment he had pulled his men out of the fight by shouting to them that the whites were killing the other Kioshoes. When he backed off, it had broken up those plans.

Curt studied the dusky face sharply. It was the most impressive face he had ever met with, as unreadable as a granite mask. Tenn-Og's explanation did fit the circumstance, the whole story sounded plausible enough; but still he did not quite believe it.

"Slam-Kiale and LeNoir have cooked up something for us," he told Paul. "They want to get it over with in a hurry, so they're using this fellow to trap us with. Well, they've got another guess coming! And in the meantime we've got 'em!"

Curt inspected the craft. It was a twenty-foot birchbark, large enough for five or six people. The Indian had also brought three extra paddles, sleeping robes for the four of them, and food—several pounds of caribou jerky and two large roasted fish wrapped in leaves. That tempting food made Curt suspicious.

"We'd better stay away from it, Paul. LeNoir is an artist with poison, and it'd be like him to salt grub with strychnine and send it to us."

All thoughts of going on after Karakhan had dropped out of his mind. Sonja could go on, if she wanted to, and Karakhan could get away. It had to be. Ralph's life came first.

They picked up the canoe, took it nearer the barricade, and floated it. After making a bed of the sleeping robes, they carried Ralph over and laid him in. Curt shoved away, unworriedly thankful to see the last of that unucky island.

"Have your friends got canoes out on the lake tonight, watching for us?" he asked Tenn-Og.

"Go that way," Tenn-Og pointed west. "No canoes there." He did not argue or try to persuade, but merely pointed and stated facts.

(Copyright, 1933, William B. Mowery)

Tomorrow, Curt decides to trust Tenn-Og.

The last meeting of the Sans Souci Book Club for the year 1933 was held with Mrs. J. K. Brown Tuesday, December 19th, and was a delightful one in every way. The home was lovely with its festive Christmas decorations, the lighted tree, nativity set, poinsettias and red candles everywhere filled it with the spirit of Christmas. The program consisted of a paper on "Carillons" by Mrs. J. H. Waldrop which included a vivid description of the Edwin Bok tower in Florida, and an unusually good paper on "What People Want in Music," prepared by Mrs. Charles White and given by Mrs. B. B. Sugg. Then two Christmas songs were sung by Mrs. W. L. Hall. This program being a little different from the usual one at this time of the year, was very much enjoyed. Mrs. Brown, assisted by her sister, Miss Lillian Purvis served a salad course, the plates of which were lovely with burning tapers. A number of visitors gave added pleasure to this most happy meeting.—Reported. Birth Announcement. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boston, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Santa Claus came today to 70 lonely light houses and coast guard stations strung along the New England coast from Boston to Monhegan Island—off the coast of Northeastern Maine. This particular Santa Claus other name is Captain "Bill" Wincecap widely-known New England aviator He, and four others, flew in a big seaplane hundreds of miles through frigid, howling winds, to bring a bit of cheer to those who spend their lives safeguarding others. At each station was dropped a package containing newspapers, magazines, and a pound of fresh coffee—the gift of Adriel Bird, of Boston. MAN KILLED WHEN HIS AUTO IS OVERTURNED. High Point, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Grover Addison Hunsucker, 20-year old High Point man, was killed today in the wreck of an automobile about four miles north of High Point. The companions escaped serious injury. The trio said Hunsucker was driving the automobile when it overturned catching him under it and causing death, apparently from strangulation. A 38-pound mudhook anchor and fourteen feet of chain were stolen from the yacht of E. R. Jones when he left it for a short time at a dock in Seattle, Wash.

Petticoat Politics Assailed by Foes of Woman Mayor

Issaquah, Wash.—(AP)—This Western hamlet looks forward to a battle as exciting as its annual rodeo when Mayor Stella Alexander—"Madame Mussolini" to her foes—meets the "old guard" in a recall election. What are the issues in the turmoil of wrangling that has gripped the town since she took office? It depends on who's talking. "Illegal feminine dictatorship," says the "old guard"—members and former members of the town council. "The issue is not one of personalities, but of good government," says the mayor. "I have saved the town money." Recall Test Seen. As the arguments rage, both sides await the recall vote scheduled for December 30th, after a series of wrangles in Superior Court, and after the mayor had defeated the first attempt. Things began to happen shortly after Mrs. Alexander took office last June. She slashed budgets, fired the town marshal, snubbed the "old guard," probed expenses and announced that she had paid off Issaquah's outstanding debts of $893. Three members of the council quit, charging "dictatorship and petticoat politics." The treasurer locked up the town hall and refused to approve her expenses, and the fire chief quit, saying she must operate the "one-lung" fire department herself. Council Retaliated. She appointed a marshal and the council cut his salary to $10 a month. She moved to expel one councilman and refused to permit a councilman-elect to take the oath of office. Then the council began proceedings. The first recall move was blocked in Superior Court and Mrs. Alexander filed suit for $30,000 against those who had instituted it, but she lost the Superior Court battle when the judge ruled that the charges of malfeasance, misfeasance and embezzlement were grounds for removal, if true. Their truth, he said, was a matter for the voters to pass on. "Men Too Smart," She Says. Meanwhile the mayor is wearying of the legal battles. "Men are too smart in this political business for women," she says, but insists that she won't quit until her term is up. John Alexander, her blacksmith husband, can't vote for his wife, because he is a British subject, but he has his own opinion. "I think she's given them a good administration," he says.

DISCOVER BODY OF BOY ON ROADSIDE

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Discovery of the body of Herbert H. Harris, Jr., Columbia boy, missing since his 15th birthday Saturday, on a roadside near here was reported late today by police headquarters. Officers said the youth had apparently been slain by a blow on the head. Harris, a high school junior, disappeared after telling his parents he had obtained a six hour job on a relief project. He was last reported seen late that day when witnesses told officers they saw him in an automobile with a middle-aged man. Department of Justice agents participated in the widespread search that was launched upon the theory that the boy was possibly the victim of kidnapers. His father is a chain-store executive here.

SANTA CLAUS PUTS ON PARACHUTE SHOW

San Jose, Cal., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Santa Claus today dropped a parachute from a Navy plane onto Moffett Field, home of the U. S. S. Macon, as 85 children of the officers and men of the United States Navy Air Station watched. The station ambulance speeded to the scene and brought Santa to the station recreation hall, where Capt. Harry P. Schnecker, commanding officer, assisted him in distribution of presents. Two flying bluejackets doubled in the role of Santa Claus. C. E. Lundquist, making the parachute drop and Doc Gerki, donning Santa's wig, red coat and bag of toys.

TWO ARE ARRESTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Lexington, Dec. 25.—Will Faulkner, aged about 30 was brought to a hospital here today with a gunshot wound in the thigh and a broken collar bone. Betty Byrd and her sister, Louise Byrd, were brought to jail and Ed Perdue, Healing Springs township farmer, was placed under bond while officers continued their investigation. Betty Byrd was quoted as telling officers she shot Faulkner when he tried to forcibly enter the house the two women occupied, 15 miles south of here about 3 o'clock this morning. However, Faulkner is alleged also to have been clubbed with the gun, and Perdue, at whose home the two women recently stayed is charged with participating in the assault. Faulkner's wounds are not considered dangerous. A new trash guide shaped like a funnel for plowing under tall weeds, corn stalks and other debris has been invented.

POMONA WRECK GETS ITS FIFTH VICTIM

Greensboro, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Death early yesterday took a fifth member of the party of six joyriders whose automobile was struck by a north bound passenger train on the main line of the Southern Railway just southwest of Pomona. Greensboro suburb, around 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Only M. H. Harding of Pomona remains alive, a patient at a local hospital, where his condition is still described as serious. Four members of the party were killed outright. Hubert Vickers, 23, of Pomona, lived until 1 o'clock Monday morning, dying at St. Leo's hospital without regaining consciousness. Those who met almost instant death were Fletcher Vickers, 28, of Pomona; John Troy Edwards, of Pomona; Roy H. Petty, 2, of Pinocraft community, and Miss Viney Stover, 21, of Roanoke, Va. Dr. W. W. Harvey, county coroner, viewed the bodies of five of the victims. He stated that he will call no inquest unless some incriminating circumstances comes to light.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED DURING GUN BATTLE

Asheville, Dec. 26.—(AP)—William Norton of Madison county, is in Mission Hospital here seriously wounded as the result of a gun battle said to have taken place Saturday night in the Sodom Laurel section, about 30 miles from Marshall. Robert S. Thomas is being held in the Madison jail at Marshall charged with being a participant in the fight. Sheriff Guy English of Madison county, said he had been informed that Thomas and Norton both had been drinking and that Norton was the instigator of the trouble. He said his information came from Everett Gosnell, alleged to have been a companion of Thomas when the shooting is said to have taken place on the highway. Gosnell told the sheriff that he was in the car with Thomas when Norton approached with a shotgun. He said Norton walked up to the car and pointed the gun in Thomas' face and that Thomas pushed the barrel away just as Norton pulled the trigger. The charge, it is said, went between Thomas and Gosnell and tore through the back of the car. Gosnell claims he leaped from the car and ran and that he heard further shots as he fled down the road. He said he didn't know who shot Norton.

county, said he had been informed that Thomas and Norton both had been drinking and that Norton was the instigator of the trouble. He said his information came from Everett Gosnell, alleged to have been a companion of Thomas when the shooting is said to have taken place on the highway. Gosnell told the sheriff that he was in the car with Thomas when Norton approached with a shotgun. He said Norton walked up to the car and pointed the gun in Thomas' face and that Thomas pushed the barrel away just as Norton pulled the trigger. The charge, it is said, went between Thomas and Gosnell and tore through the back of the car. Gosnell claims he leaped from the car and ran and that he heard further shots as he fled down the road. He said he didn't know who shot Norton.
