Rebel Reign Over Foochow Halted Today

GOVERNMENT TROOPS TAKE CHARGE CITY

New Panic Develops As Chinese Forces Begin Firing From Gunboats, But Invaders Appear Friendly and Allay Fears; American Sailors Continue to Guard United States Consulate

Foochow, China, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Three regiments of Nationalist government marines ended the rebel reign in Foochow today.

A new panic in the native quarter and great anxiety among foreigners developed as forces began heavy firing from Chinese gunboats, but the marines appeared friendly and fears of further disorders were allayed. Firing in the air to herald their control over the capital of revolt in the Fukien province, the marines entered the city and began wide control of foreign quarters.

Twenty sailors from the American gunboat Tubo remained on guard around the U. S. Consulate with British and Japanese sailors and marines also on duty to protect their nations.

LEGION HEAD SPEAKS HERE

Tom C. Daniels Of New Bern Outlines Legion Program In Talk Last Night

The conference of the Seventh District of the American Legion convened in Greenville last night at the Sheppard Memorial Library. The main event of the conference was the presence of State Commander Tom C. Daniels, of New Bern, and his inspiring address to the Legion dealing with Child Welfare, Americanism, grave's registration, athletic programs for children, and the formation of the new organization of the Sons of the Legion.

The meeting was called to order by Julius H. Rose, Pitt County Post Commander, No. 39. Following the formal opening of the program, Commander Rose presented Commander Daniels. Commander Daniels and the American Legion in North Carolina are standing solidly by a program of physical instruction in the public schools of the State. Commander Daniels says that health and physical education are the first essentials of education, and that we should not allow the depression to take out of our schools those things which are alive and essential. He also urged the mapping and correct location of every grave of the distinguished service men in this county—that a map be made, and the map filed in the office of the Registrar of Deeds.

Commander Daniels also took a rap at the policies of some counties in the handling of their Civil Works Administration activities. He stated, however, that it was the duty of the American Legion Post in every county to investigate the S. W. A. programs and see that the law, and the intent of the law, is being carried out.

Following the address of Commander Daniels, motion was made from the floor that our Senators and Representatives in Congress be urged to use their influence to see to it that the appropriation for the C. W. A. be increased, and that the C. W. A. be continued. There was considerable discussion of this proposed resolution. Finally a vote was taken and the motion carried overwhelmingly. The chair then appointed A. O. Dickens, of Wilson; W. G. Sutter, of Weldon, and the North Carolina Representatives in Congress.

Distinguished service certificates were awarded to the Tarboro Post, Waldon Post, and the Greenville Post for having equaled their former

FINAL RITES AT FARMVILLE FOR J. R. DAVIS

Prominent Banker and Business Man Laid To Rest At 3 P. M. This Afternoon

Final rites for John R. Davis, for years one of the most prominent and influential bankers and business men of Farmville, were conducted from the home of his brother, F. M. Davis, at Farmville, this afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. J. B. Roberts, pastor of the Farmville Primitive Baptist Church. Interment was made in Forest Hill cemetery.

Mr. Davis died in Pitt County Hospital here yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock from pneumonia. He had been critically ill for two weeks and in declining health for several months.

The service was attended by hundreds of people from Farmville and surrounding communities and a tremendous floral tribute told in a silent way of the high esteem in which Mr. Davis was held.

He was a native of Farmville, the son of the late Mary Lang and Benjamin A. Davis. He was a partner in the firm of R. L. Davis and Brothers over a period of forty years and was active manager of the firm for many years.

He was unmarried and devoted his attention to business and financial development of Farmville. He served as vice-president of the Bank of Farmville since its organization in 1904.

Mr. Davis was considered a man of keen business judgment and this was used in the civic, educational and religious development of the community as well as in business and banking circles.

He was a member of the Farmville school board for many years and served in many other capacities in the various organizations of the town.

A man of dignity and refinement, Mr. Davis endeared himself to people in all parts of the county, and his death was received with pronounced sorrow.

Surviving are two brothers, R. L. and F. M. Davis, both of Farmville, in addition to several nieces and nephews.

SIX DIVORCES MARK OPENING OF COURT HREE

Mrs. B. G. Albritton Granted $45 Month Alimony In Superior Court

Pitt county, which sometime ago established a new record in the issuance of marriage licenses, today apparently was on its way toward setting a new record in the divorce field, judging from records in the opening day's session of the two-week term of Superior court which convened here yesterday morning with Judge Frank A. Daniels of Goldsboro, presiding.

Most of the morning session was devoted to the hearing of six divorce actions and absolute divorce was granted in each one on the grounds of two years separation, as provided by state law.

All of those obtaining divorces were colored except one. They were: Mrs. Inez Wilkes vs. Leon Wilkes, Henry Harris vs. Bessie Harris, Willie C. Staton vs. Louise Staton, Ashley Gay vs. Esther Gay, Leroy Wilson vs. Cindy Wilson, A. W. Williams vs. Clara Williams.

The afternoon session was consumed in the hearing of the alimony suit of Mrs. B. G. Albritton against B. G. Albritton, rural mail carrier, who several weeks ago attempted to take his life by firing several bullets into his head. He has virtually recovered from his injuries and was able to appear in court.

Mrs. Albritton was seeking $75 a month but Judge Daniels decided that she was entitled to only $45 a month and ruled accordingly. The decision becomes effective last November 6. Mrs. Albritton who has been estranged from her husband since last November, claimed she left him because he made her leave. He denied the allegation.

On November 12, Mrs. Albritton filed suit for alimony and the next day Albritton attempted to take his life at his home here. Although his injuries were painful, he was able to be out and attended court yesterday.

GOVERNMENT FILES SUIT IN OIL CODE

Injunction Is Asked Against Standard Oil Co., To Prevent Giving Premiums

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Federal Government filed suit in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, charging violation of the oil code and asking an injunction against the company to prevent it from giving premiums.

The action was filed on behalf of Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator. Hearing of the suit was set for January 30.

The suit was the first filed against a major oil company for alleged violation of the code.

The specific charge was that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and its subsidiaries had inaugurated a boys' club contest and had refused to accede to request by the oil administrator that they discontinue the practice.

In the contest, the complaint alleges, that coupons have been given to children who, in turn, distributed them to friends, relatives and neighbors to be presented one at a time to Standard Oil stations and dealers.

Prizes were to be given to the boy or girl credited with the greatest number of coupons in his or her name, it was claimed.

LEAF PRICES PUSH HIGHER

Better Grades Sold As High As 46 Cents On Local Market Yesterday

Prices pushed higher on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday and established the highest mark since the market re-opened after the Christmas holidays.

Although there were no fancy grades offered for sale during the day, it was said that some of the better quality leaf sold as high as 46 cents a pound.

The official report of sales made public this morning by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sale, showed the market sold 189,612 pounds of leaf for $27,551.58 for an average of 14.53 per hundred pounds. This brought the season's total poundage to 69,319,072.

Offerings continued light here today, but with fair weather prevailing, farmers were expected to market the remainder of their crop more rapidly than last week.

They have been advised by tobacco men to carefully go over the rest of the crop, get it in good condition and then market rapidly. Attention to the condition of the tobacco when it is offered for sale should result in improved prices.

The local market was expected to be beyond the 70,000,000 pound the end of the week, with hope of passing the 72,000,000 mark established several years ago.

ROTES HOSTS TO MINISTERS

Pulpit Oratory Marks Regular Weekly Meeting of Clubmen Here Last Night

Ministers of the city were guests of the Rotary Club last night and the clubmen were afforded an opportunity to listen to some of the best pulpit oratory they had heard in some time.

Although all ministers were invited to be present, one, Rev. W. A. Lillycrop, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, was absent, he having been called to Wilmington in connection with work of his denomination.

So it was left to Dr. G. R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, Rev. J. A. McIver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, and Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, to provide the fireworks. Needless to say, they did it in a highly commendable way and the things they said and the things they did elicited much commendation.

Both Dr. Combs and Mr. McIver spoke on the work of civic clubs and the fine part which they are playing in community development. Dr. Combs said they were a wonderful asset to a community, and Mr. McIver declared they were rendering splendid service in every field of activity.

Bill Ryan, who is always doing the unexpected, turned iconoclast after listening to his two brethren of the pulpit and attempted to shatter some of the arguments they brought to bear. His remarks were full of wit and the Rotarians roared in appreciation of the unique way he got a few things off his chest.

J. B. Kittrell informed the Rotes of the ball to be given in the campus building of the college January 30 in honor of the birthday of President Roosevelt and called on his hearers to support the cause in the best way possible. He said the funds derived from the dance would go to furthering the work of the Warm Springs Foundation for the treatment of infantile paralysis, a movement started by the President for the alleviation of human suffering.

K. W. Cobb presided and the program was in charge of Dr. Herbert ReBarker. A delightful musical program was provided under the direction of Mrs. R. A. Tyson, Jr., club pianist.

TIGHTEN UP ON INCOME TAX IN N. C.

Department Prepares To Make Complete Check of Collections This Year

Raleigh, Jan. 16.—The Department of Revenue is getting ready to tighten up on the collection of state income tax, it was learned today from Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell. For while the income tax is not due until March 15, district meetings of the field deputy collectors are already being held in which detailed instructions in the income tax law and how to collect it and check up on collections, are being given. This is understood to be the first step under the new law of reorganization for tightening up on all tax collections.

The first meeting or "school" for field deputies was held here last week when the field men in Wake and 25 adjacent counties met here in an all-day meeting and in which Commissioner Maxwell, Director McMullan of the Division of Assessments and Collections and Alex Beddingfield, head of the Income Tax Division, acted as instructors. It is planned to hold a similar meeting for deputy collectors in the eastern part of the state in Greenville the latter part of the week.

Next week one of these district "schools" for deputy collectors, in which particular attention will be given to the income tax law and how to collect income taxes, will be held in Charlotte. Later on similar meetings will be held in Asheville, Winston-Salem and other centrally located cities, until all of the 62 field deputies have attended one of these schools.

From now until February 1, the field deputies are concentrating on the collection of the sales tax and the inheritance taxes. Mr. Maxwell said, and a complete check of all the merchants in the state will be made during the present month. Under the sales tax law, all of the 28,600 registered merchants in the state are required to make a return of their sales tax collections either for December, for the quarter ending December 31, or for their entire collections since July 1, if they have not yet made any returns. It was pointed out. All these returns are due as of January 15. So those merchants whose returns are not in within the next few days will be checked upon at once.

Loss Estimated At $8,000 With $3,000 Insurance: Origin Of Blaze Undetermined

The clubhouse at the Country Club, two miles southwest of Greenville, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock. The building was valued at about $8,000 and was said to have been insured for $3,000.

Personal effects of golfers contained in lockers in the basement, as well as considerable golfing equipment were reported lost in the blaze, which had gained such headway when discovered that all chance of saving it was hopeless.

The building, constructed of wood was built when the club was organized several years ago. It consisted of a ballroom, cloak rooms, refreshment room and basement where lockers of individual members were located.

Additions had been made to the clubhouse from time to time and it had been the scene of many important social functions in past years. Various organizations of the city used the dance floor frequently, and the building became one of the most widely used in the city for social gatherings.

In view of the fact that the building is a considerable distance from the fire zone, no facilities for fighting the flames were available and the blaze had made such headway when discovered that the use of a bucket brigade would have been futile.

McDaniel left word at the hotel desk last night to be called at 7:30 o'clock this morning, and when he did not answer, a clerk investigated. A note was found in which McDaniel said he had failed to obtain authority on paper, authorizing the men under him to begin work on the survey, and he believed the negligence would cause him to lose his position.

Asheville, N. C., Jan. 16.—(AP)—V. E. McDaniel, 60, of Shelby, district supervisor of the Federal business survey begun here yesterday, committed suicide in his hotel room today, Coroner L. Carroll announced after an investigation.

The body was found in the bathroom with a pistol bullet in the head and the coroner said no inquest was necessary.

CLYDE BARROW KIDNAPS HIS OLD PARTNER

Southwestern Desperado Takes Raymond Hamilton, His Former Accomplice, From Guards at Huntsville, Texas; Two Guards Either Killed or Seriously Wounded; Woman Aids In Escape

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Sheriff Robert Schmid said today he had received a telephone call from the Huntsville penitentiary today that Clyde Barrow, southwestern desperado, had either killed or seriously wounded two guards and kidnapped Raymond Hamilton, his former partner in crime, from an Eastern prison farm.

Sheriff Schmid said he talked with an official named Whiteside at the penitentiary, and was told three guards were shot down as they were en route from the prison barracks at Eastman to nearby work fields.

A police broadcast said a woman, presumably Bonnie Parker, Clyde's companion in his sorties through the Southwest, was with him in a coupe. Barrow and his partner waylaid the guards en route to the prison farm with prisoners to start the day's work.

From a partly covered pit they began firing on the guards, shooting two of the four and escaped with Hamilton, who fled with Barrow in a coupe.

This Big Brown Bear Said 'Woof' Essad Agha Answerd Pouff!

Mouche, Turkey.—(AP)—Anatolia famous for the intelligent antics of its bears, cedes the palm to Mouche for the best bruin story on record.

Essad Agha, a villager, lost his bull. He sought it in a forest beyond the village and found it dead and mangled.

Near by was an enormous sleeping bear, at which in an excess of anger for the loss of his bull the villager threw a stone.

That woke the bear and with a "Woof!" the animal attacked the man. The latter, getting the worst of the fight, decided to play "possum and fopped in pretended death.

The bear waited for the man to get up, but when he continued to lie motionless, the animal cautiously approached and put its ear to the man's heart.

As Essad Agha, like all Anatolian peasants, was padded with four or five shirts and coats, one on top of the other, the bear heard no heart beat.

The animal then proceeded to dig a grave, rolled the man into it, covered him up loosely with earth, and went away.

At nightfall Agha popped out of his grave and ran safely home.

"Bears? Pouff!" says he.

BLIND MAN VICTIM OF HIT-RUN DRIVER

Statesville, N. C., Jan. 16.—Robert Moore, 69, a blind man of Scotts, was found dead this morning by the side of No. 90 Highway nine miles from Statesville, investigation revealing that he was the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

Mr. Moore, a bachelor, living with his brother and three maiden sisters near Scotts, had been visiting at a neighbor's house and was last seen about 7:30 o'clock, walking along the paved highway returning home from the neighbor's residence a mile away.

He was walking on the right side of the road when he was met by a south-bound motorist on a curve, the automobile being on the left side of the road coming toward Statesville.

Broken glass on the highway indicated where the car struck the blind man, who was thrown fifteen feet or more in a shallow ditch between the highway and the railway.

A newspaper representative discovered the body and called neighbors to give the alarm. The fatal blow had apparently been inflicted eight hours before the body was found with fractured skull, broken left arm and left leg. His death was thought he have been instantaneous, resulting from the fractured skull.

BLOND GODDESS A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grahame finds himself involved in a tangled web of intrigue. He meets a girl who is the daughter of a man named Ortega, a Central American nation. He has the most beautiful girl in the world. Grahame suggests it may be because of her beauty that she is Ortega's daughter. Frank is attracted to her, and she is attracted to him. They are married. Frank is a man of letters, and she is a woman of letters. They are both of noble birth. They are both of noble birth.

Chapter Seven DISAPPEARANCE

GRAHAME strode toward the phone. As he seated himself, he pushed his fingers through his hair. He made an unconscious gesture about his necktie. He dialed a number that was scrawled upon the telephone pad.

A maid answered the call. No, Miss Kent wasn't at home. Oh, Mr. Grahame! Would he wait a moment, please?

He watched the little clock upon the table across the room tick away the minutes. He listened intently, wondering if the connection had been broken—but, no, there was no dial buzz.

He smiled a little ruefully, thinking

IT WAS a small room; row upon row of clothes stretched across it on hangers. Winslow pointed to the end of a hanger that stuck out from one of the nearer rows. "What was on that?"

"I don't—A coat, I think. They're all coats on that rack."

A bell rang faintly. Footsteps sounded. They looked toward the doorway of the room. A dapper little man entered. He wore a pearl gray suit, a gray shirt and tie. There was a pearl set in the ring he wore. Only the tips of his shoes showed black under gray spats.

He said, in clipped syllables, "Hullo, Winslow. Hullo, Mr. Grahame."

Grahame nodded. Winslow said, "Hullo, Greene. How'd you get here? This isn't one of your damned publicity stunts, is it?"

Greene looked aggrieved. "Certainly not, Spin. Paula phoned me. He nodded toward the maid.

"Phone anybody else?" Winslow turned to the girl.

"Mr. Myberg. He should be here any time."

"Have you phoned anybody else?" repeated Winslow.

"No."

"Did anybody phone this number?"

Almost the girl hesitated. "No," she said.

"You wouldn't lie to me, would you?" Winslow smiled sardonically. "Who phoned, Paula?"

"Quit it, Spin," said Grahame impatiently. "You won't get anywhere that way. I think we'd better notify the police. . . right now."

"Not!" Both Winslow and Greene spoke together. Even the maid's lips formed the word.

Grahame said, surprised, "Well, what—"

"No—" A strange voice spoke from the doorway. "We will not notify the police. . . not yet."

They turned. A man stood at the door. His head was round and bald, and sat upon his shoulders like an orange on a box; there seemed to be no neck. His figure was short and burly, and clad in black.

Greene called effusively, "Mister Myberg. How glad I am you're here. Now we may—"

PORTSMOUTH CAGERS WILL APPEAR HERE HIGH CAGERS WILL VISIT WASHINGTON

The local high school basketball tossers will meet the Woodrow Wilson high school basketball quint of Portsmouth, Va., Thursday night at the high school auditorium. The game will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

Woodrow Wilson starts a swing in this section of the State, and Greenville is fortunate in getting the game here for Thursday night. Friday night they play in New Bern, and Saturday night they are in Wilmington.

In case there are some who are not acquainted with this high school in Virginia, this is a bit of dope concerning them: In 1932 they were State champs of Virginia. Last year they were runners-up to Maury High of Norfolk, Va. They have always had outstanding athletic teams in all sports, winning the State championship of Virginia in football twice out of the past four years. One of their basketball stars of last year was Parker, who starred for the Duke varsity next year. They have turned out numerous other high school stars, and as has been stated, always produced outstanding teams. Therefore the fans in Greenville will see in action a team that rates in this State along with Charlotte and Durham.

While Greenville is doped to lose to this aggregation by a large size score, the locals are expected to give a good account of themselves, as they have a very good defensive team. All they need is a better offense, and it might be a bit interesting for this high touted team to fall before the small but fast aggregation that represents Greenville.

This should be the outstanding game of the year. Whether or not the locals can match the game played the visitors is problematical, but the fans will see in action one of the finest high school teams to ever play here when Woodrow Wilson swings into action. We believe that this is the most prominent team to ever play in Greenville in the history of high school sports, and a capacity crowd is expected to witness this battle Thursday night.

GERMANY BUILDS STATUE TO SHORT HAIR HEROINE Bartenstein, Germany.—(AP)—Ferdinand von Schmettau, who lived a hundred years ago, was the first German girl with bobbed hair, so this city has erected a monument to her.

Not fashion but war induced her to cut her long braids. In 1813 the then 15-year-old Ferdinand sold her blonde plaits and contributed the $4 she received to help the "war of liberation" against Napoleon I.

At the celebration of the 50th anniversary in 1863 of the establishment of the Iron Cross she was the guest of the King and Queen of Prussia.

The Meal

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Bow-wow," barked Rip. "I hope you will be pleased with the meal I have brought you."

Mrs. Cow turned her mild, soft eyes on Rip, and then on the tray of food.

"Moo-moo, this is a wonderful meal," she said gratefully. "And what do my cow eyes see? No, it can't be possible!"

"But it is!" barked Rip happily as he wagged his tail.

"Never did I believe you'd bring me some fresh grass in the middle of winter and after a snowstorm, too," said Mrs. Cow.

"Where did you get it?" asked Christopher Crow in surprise.

"You think you are the only one who discovers things," returned Rip, who was very proud of what he had done. "I was looking around for something especially nice for Mrs. Cow and I saw that old flower pot in the pantry. Someone must have dropped some grass seeds in the dirt, and you know it's warm in there, so the seeds became this grass!"

"I'll have to admit that that is almost as fine as something I could have done," cawed Christopher.

There was very much of the grass and Mrs. Cow had finished her meal, but she lay back on the bed, and chewed her cud contentedly.

Christopher, Top Notch, Rip, Willy Nilly and the Ducks stood all around, but now Willy Nilly was worrying how he would ever be able to get the cow out of here when there was a creak, a great groan, and then a tremendous thud.

DOE WATCHES MONEY MART

Experts Agree Monetary Change Will Bring Temporary Rise In Prices

Washington, D. C., Jan. 16.—(AP)—What would happen to the $10 in John L. Doe's pocket under President Roosevelt's plan for revaluing the dollar?

The answer, most experts agree, is virtually nothing at all for the present. But any number of things in the future.

As to the present, the $10 bill in Mr. Doe's pocket has been worth its weight in gold, but since abandonment of the gold standard he had not been able to get that gold. The President's plans would make it worth less gold and formally prohibit its exchange for gold.

But altogether the pile of gold behind Mr. Doe's $10 might be reduced
