OUR HIGHWAY DEATH TOLL

Figures showing a highway death toll in this state last year of 582 persons, or 178 over the previous year, should certainly be sufficient to shake our people from their apparent slumber and awaken them to the seriousness of the situation; North Carolina has every right to be proud of the fine system of highways it has built for its citizens and the citizens of other states who travel this way, but certainly we should not be proud of the fact that these highways are proving a death route for so many persons. If we are to overcome the present situation three things are necessary, more strict supervision of the highways, the licensing of drivers, not for revenue, but based strictly upon qualifications and ability to drive an automobile, and a determination on the part of every driver of a motor vehicle to use care at all times and see to it that he or she does his or her part to avoid accident and make the highways safer for travel.

WHAT ABOUT THESE OTHER CWA PROJECTS?

With Pitt County's full quota of unemployed already at work on various projects in the county, there are still other worthwhile projects approved that cannot be given attention unless the county's quota is increased or a portion of the workmen removed from present projects and placed upon the ones not now receiving attention.

Realizing the necessity of an increase in the quota if all projects are to be given attention, an effort is being made to get such action passed by the state or national governing boards but what will become of this move cannot be foretold and unless something is done there are several projects that must later be carried on out of the taxpayers' money unless they are taken care of under the present CWA program.

In Greenville and throughout the county projects for adding to present school buildings and making necessary repairs have been approved, but without the workers the jobs are standing still and later the burden will fall upon the local taxpayers to have this necessary work done. Pending final action on increasing the county's quota the local CWA board would do well to reassign the present workers

BLOND GODDESS A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

They had the motor chugging on its warm-up when the man came back. He said, "Jeff says it's all right. But he says don't wreck the ship unless you can kill each other doing it."

Winslow chuckled. The attendant said, "That prop don't balance right. We only been using her for short pay hops."

"Thanks for the tip, grandpa. Climb up, Frank. You want to peep-ot?"

Graham shook his head. He adjusted his "chute pack and got in the forward cockpit. He noticed that the plane was equipped with dual controls. Snapping on the safety belt, he folded his arms.

The motor roared. Behind him Winslow yelled, "The airman's day off... he goes flying."

Frank did not smile. He experienced a flash of envy for Winslow who could joke in any situation. Once—long ago—he was that way too. Humor was simple to understand in those days; you laughed because you felt like it, or to keep up your courage.

The motor thundered, the plane lurched, Graham strained against his belt as the wheels left the ground, and Winslow arched in a steep bank out of the field.

San Pedro below and to the right; Long Beach to the left and ahead. They were over the water; the air was less bumpy. Curious how at night the long line of surf stood out like broken white ribbons floating in an abyss of darkness.

Frank glanced at the illuminated instrument board. Although the plane vibrated excessively—the unbalanced prop—he estimated that they were doing considerably better than a hundred; they should be at Caliente field within the hour.

Reflectively he stared at the town lights that swung behind them on the left. He reconstructed the events that had culminated with Winslow and him in a plane headed for the Mexican border. He calculated the chances for and against their finding Janice Kent at the end of their journey. He discovered that his mind could not definitely arrange and clarify the facts that he knew. They did not make exact sense.

An automobile accident had been arranged, he was convinced, by the man Ortega. The fact that he had arrived at the scene of this accident almost simultaneously with its occurrence doubtlessly had prevented Ortega from bringing his plan to completion.

BUT what was that plan? Janice Kent's subsequent disappearance from her home threw no light on the matter. Her maid, Paula, had told them that it was because Ortega loved her mistress, convincing the present situation with a romantic objective. Miss Kent, she had said, had promised to marry Ortega, her contract would be broken if she married, therefore Ortega had accomplished an abduction.

Frank was assured that the maid believed this, but he was equally sure that Ortega—although he did not know the man—would have taken no such bold steps to accomplish his end. It was possible, of course, but rather incredible.

In the first place, Ortega was reputedly wealthy. Would he, then, take such elaborate and melodramatic measures to engineer an elopement which when consummated would relieve Janice Kent permanently of the necessity of making her own living? Why then, should there be any pretense of making it appear that Janice broke her contract with the Consolidated not of her own free will? Considering his own regard for her, this method of reasoning gave Frank a glow of satisfaction.

It brought him moreover, with equal logic, to the conclusion that she had been taken against her will. But for what purpose? There could be but three reasons why a girl would be abducted who was beautiful, rich, and a public personage. A man might love her insanely; be greedy for a ransom, or he could hate her savagely. The last motive seemed remote, and the second illogical; the first as he had proved to himself was impractical. These were not medieval days, when abductions were fashionable.

Frank muttered impatiently. It was a merry-go-round of reasoning that brought him powders. There was but one fact glaringly important. Janice must be found.

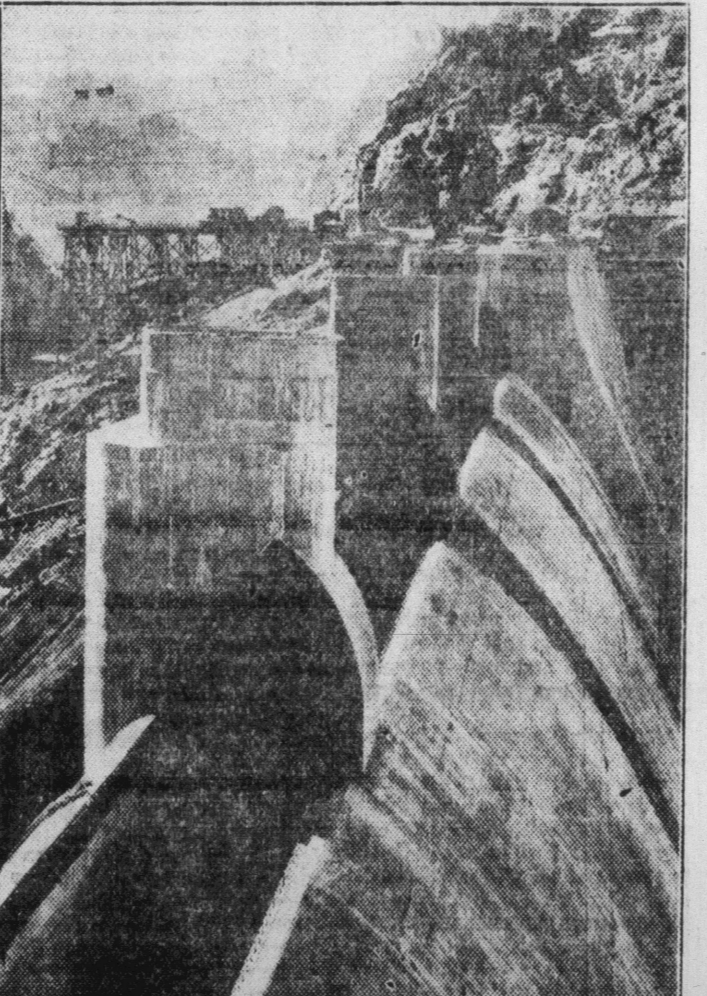

They roared over a crescent of light that was San Diego. Tia Juana appeared below whereupon the engine's crescendo broke into a staccato of backfires and tempered explosions that told Frank that they were gliding to a landing.

SPORT SLANTS By ALAN GOULD

Frank Butterworth, a legendary figure in Yale's football history, pleads for a return of the old Yale, inspiring conditions and atmosphere of football. Meanwhile the ranks of Old Eli's alumni have been split wide open by controversy over the coaching situation and the ancient citadel of learning at New Haven, whence have sprung some of the finest of gridiron traditions, is faced by the alternative of clinging to its last stronghold of sentiment or the yielding to the clamor for a "New Deal." Shall Yale, although going outside its own ranks for baseball and rowing coaches, still sustain the tradition of graduate coaching or concede the march of events by bidding for the best talent in the market regardless of previous collegiate allegiance?

HIGHS MEET PORTSMOUTH HERE TONIGHT

Greenville High School will meet the strong Woodrow Wilson High team tonight at the High School auditorium. The game will begin at 7:30. Woodrow Wilson is the high school in Portsmouth, Va. Each year they or Maury High from Norfolk win the State title in football and basketball. They usually take turns in doing this. In other words, they represent the very best in high school athletics in Virginia. This year their team is no exception to the brilliant teams that they have had in the past years. Coached by L. J. Kibler, a former William and Mary star, they have almost a veteran team from last year, and those who witness this game will see one of the best teams in action that has ever appeared in Greenville. They are in Virginia what Charlotte is in North Carolina, which usually sets pace for teams in this state.

The local high school team will arrive in cars this afternoon at 4 o'clock. They will be entertained in the various homes in town. Greenville has a great opportunity to show some real sportsmanship, and everyone should be at the high school tonight to give the "Greensies" a helping hand in turning back an out of state team. The admission price will remain the same for this game. Coach Hewitt stated that we have some less prominent teams to play here, and why raise the price for this game when we are not going to reduce prices for these other games. Therefore, adults will be admitted for twenty-five cents and all school students for ten cents. Portsmouth's line-up was unknown at this writing. Greenville will most likely start Carroll and Capt. Warren at guards, Dunn at center, and two forwards to be chosen from Staton, Pierce, Forbes, Hardee, and Vincent. Don't forget the game will start at 7:30.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Sundown Stories

The Knocking

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER "I'm very glad you were not hurt," began Willy Nilly. "But you must be getting very homesick."

"Oh, no," said the cow. "I find it very comfortable here."

"Where is your home, Mrs. Cow?" continued Willy Nilly. "I suppose you have a fine meadow in which to graze. If course, it may not be so nice now but soon it will be lovely again, and you probably have a warm, cosy barn in which to stay when it's cold."

"Besides you like fresh air most of the time, don't you? Do tell us about your lovely home."

"It's a very nice home," said Mrs. Cow, "but I am certainly not homesick yet. You've been so kind to me. My hoof feels quite well once more."

"Good!" exclaimed Willy Nilly. "You'll have to exercise soon or it will be stiff. Maybe you'd better get up and come downstairs—stretching out and breathing in as you did before in order to get through the little hall."

"I'll have to do that before long," agreed the cow lazily, without making any effort to get up.

At times she gave them milk to drink, but Willy Nilly was in despair. He didn't dare try to force her to go home as sometimes, he knew, even a quiet cow could become very angry, and his place was too small for an angry cow.

All of a sudden he heard loud knocking on the door downstairs and a gruff voice called: "Let me in!"

PARKER—WRIGHT

The marriage of Miss Mary Wright to Josephus Derward Parker took place at the home of the bride's parents on East Fifth street at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. It was marked by dignity and beauty. Rev. E. L. Hillman, former pastor of the bride, now pastor of Trinity Methodist Church of Durham, officiated.

Those present were members of the families of the bride and groom, relatives from many parts of the state, a few guests from out of town and close friends of the families.

The decorations were in green and white. The improvised altar was placed under the archway between the music room and the solarium, which was decorated with ferns and ivy against a background of white, with standards of white tapers among the green.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Guy V. Smith played several piano selections and Mrs. Herbert Waldrop sang "Until," by Sanderson; "Sweetheart," by Lynes, and "At Dawning," by Cadman. The ushers, William A. Wright, brother of the bride, and Tom D. Meares of Wilson, brother-in-law of the groom, entered the room as the music started, and lighted the tapers.

With the first strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Mrs. Smith, the two junior attendants, little Miss Mary Murphy of Snow Hill, cousin of the bride, dressed in pink chiffon and wearing a shoulder spray of dainty flowers, and Master William Young of Wilson, nephew of the groom, entered the door from the hall and with ribbons formed an aisle to the improvised altar. The dame of honor, Mrs. M. Donald Cadman, of Chappaqua, New York, the only sister of the bride, dressed in parrot green crepe and carrying premiere roses, entered from the hall.

The bride, attired in a dress of white Roman crepe, made on simple lines, wearing a white velvet turban, and carrying calla lilies, descended the stairway and was joined by her father who awaited her at the foot of the stairs and escorted her to the altar. The groom and his best man, Dr. W. C. Hunter of Wilson, who had entered from a side door, met them at the altar where the vows were spoken. The ring ceremony was used.

Immediately after the ceremony, while Mendelssohn's wedding march was being played, the bride couple turned and the receiving line was formed for the reception following. Between the hours of four and six, a large number of guests called.

The order of the receiving line was as follows: Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Wright, father and mother of the bride; Mrs. Marianna Murphy, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Parker, father and mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Meares, sister and brother-in-law of the groom; William Wright, brother of the bride; Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Wright, Jr., brother and sister-in-law of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. M. Donald Cadman, sister and brother-in-law of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Derward Parker, bride and groom; Dr. W. C. Hunter, Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Hillman.

Out-of-town relatives formed a second receiving line in the living room: Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Murphy, Snow Hill; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Murphy, Greensboro; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Murphy, Tomahawk; Mrs. Lee Simpson, Atkinson; Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Smith, New Bern; Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Wright, Raleigh; Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Wright, Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Witherington, Goldsboro; Miss Annabel Sloan, Garland, and Mrs. W. S. Carr.

Those assisting in receiving were: At the front door Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Little, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. White, Mrs. W. E. Hooker, Mrs. C. O. H. Laughinghouse; Living room: Mrs. J. L. Fleming, Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Deal, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Fort, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Combs, Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, Mrs. Annie Colvin, Mrs. Rebecca Deal, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Crow, Misses Betsy and Rachel Wright; In the dining room: Mrs. Bloxton, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Winslow, Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Meadows, Mrs. H. E. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Henderson, Misses Sue Barrett, Hulda Nobles, Clara Moye, Agnes Waddington, Frances Norman, Frances Moseley, Mrs. W. E. Padgett, Elizabeth Deal, Helen White, Mary Lou White, Rosalie Smith, Elizabeth Smith; In the gift room: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sugg, Mrs. Annie Morton, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Moseley, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer, Mr. and Mrs. William Tait, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Proctor, Miss Graham and Miss Wilson; At the punch bowl: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pendergraft, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Sugg, Miss Mary Langston; At the register: Dr. and Mrs. H. R. ReBarber, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Wynstead, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bowen, Miss Lewis and Miss Davis; In the front hall: Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McGinnis, Mrs. J. B. Spilman, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. James, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Blount, Miss Ross and Miss Jenkins.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. Robert Herring Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College, and Mrs. Wright. She was educated at East Carolina Teachers College. She is a descendant of two Lower Cape Fear families reaching back to Colonial days and prominent in North Carolina today. She is a popular member of the younger set and has a wide circle of friends throughout the state. She has been the honoree at a number of bridge parties, luncheons, breakfasts, and teas during the three weeks since her engagement was announced.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Parker of Elm City. He is a prominent young business man of Wilson and Elm City. He was educated at the University of North Carolina and Tulane University.

They will live in Wilson in the Merita Court apartments. The bridal couple immediately after the reception for a motor trip to Southern points.

MOORE—MAYO

Bethel, Jan. 17.—A beautiful wedding was solemnized at the parsonage here Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, the Reverend Leslie Newman, pastor of the Baptist Church, officiating.

The contracting parties were Miss Ida M. Mayo, the attractive and accomplished daughter of Mrs. Sallie Mayo, of this place, and William M. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Moore, prominent farmer of Stokes.

The bride was dressed in a very attractive blue traveling suit. They left immediately by motor for a trip through Western North Carolina and later will make their home at Stokes.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore have a host of friends in Eastern North Carolina.

Entertain Wedding Party. Following the rehearsal for the wedding last evening, Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace were charming hosts at an informal affair honoring Miss Mary Wright and Derward Parker. Guests included members of the wedding party and out of town guests.

Japanese quince, japonicas and evergreens were effectively used for decorating the home.

On arrival the guests were welcomed by the hosts and requested to write their best advice for the bride and groom. Hors-d'oeuvres, sandwiches and fruit punch was served throughout the evening. The table decorations were in

How Cardui Helped Lady Get Stronger

"I was in a weak condition when I started to using Cardui," writes Mrs. Oscar West, of Dayton, Texas. "I found it helped me greatly. My appetite was poor and I had lost weight. It was an effort for me to do my work. I felt tired all the time. I read that other women took Cardui as a tonic, so I decided it would help me. It strengthened me and increased my appetite, and I felt better than I had in a long time. I think it is a great medicine for weak women."

MRS. WINSLOW HOSTESS AT BRIDGE LUNCHEON

Mrs. Norman Winslow entertained at a lovely bridge luncheon Wednesday morning to her Shirley Court apartment home in Washington honoring Miss Mary Wright, bride-elect. Sharing honors were Mrs. John L. Winstead, a recent bride.

The rooms were attractive with vases of snapdragons and potted plants. The honor guests' places were marked with miniature coronas of roses. A luncheon was served at the conclusion of the program, by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Bradsher.

Miss Wright and Mrs. Winstead were presented with dainty pieces of linen. High score prize for the morning went to Miss Charlotte Greer, and low score prize to Mrs. A. S. Roberts.

TEA AT HOME OF MRS. J. B. JAMES

In the lovely, spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. James B. James on last Saturday afternoon the Woman's Missionary Society of Jarvis Memorial Church gave a tea honoring Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Combs and the Methodist faculty and students of the college.

On arrival guests were welcomed by Mrs. Andrew Moore and Miss Isa Coston Grant, and directed to the drawing room where they were presented to the receiving line by Mrs. J. Key Brown. In the receiving line with Mr. and Mrs. James B. James were Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Dr. G. R. Combs, Mrs. G. R. Combs, Mrs. Kenneth Clark, guest of Mrs. Combs, J. H. Rose and Mrs. J. H. Rose.

Fifty members of the Missionary Society graciously assisted in the welcome, the serving, and in the directing of the guests through the entire lower floor of the home, which was thrown en suite for the tea.

Mrs. J. L. Kilgo, Mrs. S. T. White, Mrs. Edward Batchelor and Mrs. Wm. Moore poured tea, seated at two well-appointed tables in the dining room and rear hall. Assisting in serving the delicious tea and sandwiches were Misses Helen White, Nina James, Laura Fleming, Ruth Horne, Janice McGowan, Emma Frances Hardee, Elizabeth Overton, Lula Mae Barker, Verda Wilson and Margaret Hassell. The table in the dining room was lovely, covered with an imported Italian cutwork cloth with a large silver bowl filled with pink and white hyacinths in the center, flanked by tall burning pink tapers in silver holders. The table in the rear hall was also lovely, covered with an imported cloth of Irish lace with orange candelabras in the center flanked by tall burning yellow tapers in silver holders.

Guests were directed to the music room by Mrs. Fred Forbes and Mrs. Frank Wilson, where Miss Annie Morton, dean of college women, presented them in turn to the other members of the faculty.

In the sun room Mrs. K. W. Cobb and Mrs. Hill Horne presided over the register.

An elaborate profusion of gorgeous flowers and potted plants through the house, the soft music, the shaded lights and burning tapers added much to this charming occasion.

Several hundred guests enjoyed the hospitality of this beautiful home and their appreciation was expressed along with the good-byes.

Emergency Nursery School. A visitor at the Emergency Nursery School being conducted at East Carolina Teachers College as a part of the training for unemployed teachers will find that the school does not coincide with the ordinary kindergarten or first grade. The children of the nursery school are not taught; they are allowed to learn through their own experiences in handling materials and by their activity. The most important thing they learn is to play with other children and share materials so they will be fitted for beginning school.

Ten children of pre-school age have been selected in Greenville to attend the nursery school set up at the college. Rooms have been equipped in the campus building for their use. All of the equipment is very simple and has been constructed at little expense by using material already at hand, such as orange crates, boxes, wood blocks and kegs.

Unveil 'Hidden Face' In Contest Of Will

For the first time in 20 years the features of Margaret Keith, wealthy eccentric, were revealed to other humans during a Los Angeles court contest over the provisions of her will disposing of an estimated $1,000,000 estate. Miss Keith, who constantly wore a heavy veil, committed suicide and left the bulk of her estate to a nephew, Albert C. Allen, Jr., of Medford, Ore. This is one of the few photos of her known to exist and was taken more than 20 years ago. (Associated Press Photo) which could be obtained without cost.

The children come at 9 o'clock in the morning and are inspected by the college nurse. This has a twofold purpose—one, to teach health habits, and the other, to discover possible defects and prevent the spreading of contagious disease. A period of work and play follows, when the children, in or out of doors, play in the doll house, build with their blocks, paint at the easels, draw, or take part in some such helpful activity. At 10:20 each child is given a glass of orange juice and a graham cracker. They acquire habits of regularity and cleanliness by going to the toilet by schedule, and always washing their hands afterwards, and before eating.

At 10:30 they are given an hour of outdoor play. After coming back inside, preparations are made for lunch. Stories are told and there is a ten-minute rest period. A light, wholesome lunch is served at 12:00. This is prepared by two C. W. A. students from a menu given by Mrs.

Bloxton of the Home Economics department, and consists of a thick vegetable soup, rolls, milk and a dessert, such as jello or baked apples. After lunch the children go into an adjoining room where they go to bed and rest for an hour. At first the children found it difficult to go to sleep in a strange place, but they soon became accustomed to the new situation and practically all of the group now sleep during this period. After they get up, they play together for a while and at 2:30 they leave for home.

Besides the two students who prepare the lunch, there are five who assist Miss Coates, who is in charge of the school, in looking after the children throughout the day, giving actual experience to seven students each day. The remainder of the class, which numbers 116, observe the nursery school for at least one hour a day.

New York Cotton

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady 8 to 13 lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and decline in foreign exchanges. Initial offerings were absorbed on the decline to 11.06 for March and 11.38 for July. The market steadied after the call on trade buying. There was also some covering and some local buying on the partial rally that carried March up to 11.15 and July to 11.45 with the general market showing net losses of three to eight points at the end of the first half hour. The rally from the early decline carried March to 11.17 and July to 11.48 during the middle of the morning or about 8 to 11 points net higher. This advance met renewed liquidation and prices at midday showed net losses of 5 to 7 points.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Recently advancing financial market hesitated today as the dollar spurted in terms of the British pound sterling. With the pound falling more than seven cents to below 49 for the first time since early last November, many bullish speculators stood aside to consider whether a currency conflict was in the making or capital repatriation was responsible.

Stocks maintained a steady and firm trend, but trading volume dwindled considerably. Grains, cotton and some other commodities were a bit easier at one time. Copper, however, pushed up a quarter of a cent a pound. Bonds were moderately higher. Business and industrial news was still bright with the more optimistic steel makers predicting a production rate of more than 50 per cent capacity by the end of the current quarter. The late tone was a trifle irregular. Transfers approximated 2,150,000 shares.

Brimmer yesterday morning. The 37-year-old president of the Commercial State Bank was picked up by several men between 8.15 and 9 o'clock Wednesday upon his return from Chicago.

Police said they had received no official notification of the abduction. Otto Brimmer, chairman of the board of directors of the American National Bank and Minnesota Home Owners' Loan Corporation is the uncle of the missing man.

To day in Congress

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Ignoring committee quarrels and jurisdictional attempts to get hearings, the might Roosevelt trustees in the House were put behind an attempt today to get the monetary bill to the Senate this week. The Senate won't begin debate until next week, however.

The coteries of regular Democratic leaders in the House decided to call the bill up tomorrow. The coinage committee had just voted favorable to the bill but with an amendment requiring a report on the operation of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and with hearings to be held later. In its formal report of approval of the administration money measure the committee said that Great Britain forced the United States off the gold standard and proposed the two billion stabilizing fund intended to prevent a repetition of this experience.

Meanwhile Secretary Morgenthau told reporters that the Federal Reserve of New York, representing the Treasury, was purchasing gold abroad as well as domestically. He declined to give the amount. Before returning to the St. Lawrence treaty debate in the Senate and consideration of the Interior

A. C. L. Adds Music On Fast Trains

Something new in the way of train travel comes with the Atlantic Coast Line announcement that on its Florida Special it has added an orchestra and recreation car for bridge, other games and dancing. Describing it as a ballroom on wheels, the railroad has gone musical to the extent that even the time table carries words and music to the song, "Florida Special," composed by Professor Fanciulli, former director of the U. S. Marine Band.

LOTS OF SOAP IMPORTANT WHEN CLEANING ICE BOX

Quantities of hot water and soaps are required for cleaning the ice box. Wash well in hot water to which soda has been added, using 1 tablespoon of soda for each quart of water required. Wipe dry with a soft cloth and let the box air for half an hour before adding the ice or turning on the power, if you have a mechanical refrigerator.

CIGARETTE ASHES GOOD FOR CLEANING RINGS

Don't let the man of the house drop his cigarette ashes on the floor. Instead, have a container handy for them, and when gold or silver rings need cleaning a wet rag dipped in the ashes will do the trick.

My Beauty Hint

By GERTRUDE MICHAEL (Screen Actress)

As an aid to beauty I know of no simpler exercises than rope-skipping, which keeps the body trim and makes it more graceful. Ten minutes in the morning and ten at night is sufficient, supplemented occasionally by bending and setting-up exercises.
