Negro Rapist Sentenced To Electric Chair

JIM GREEN TO BE EXECUTED ON APRIL 25

Criminal Assailant of Miss Marie House, 16-Year Old Greenville Girl, Found Guilty in Criminal Court Late Yesterday; Prisoner Carried to Raleigh Today To Begin Stay on Death Row

Jim Green, 25-year-old negro rapist, was taking his last ride today. It was a ride that he would not want to take. He was carried to a lonely cell on "Death Row" in State Prison at Raleigh where on Wednesday, April 25, he is scheduled to die in the electric chair for criminally attacking Miss Marie House, 16-year-old Greenville young woman. The execution is scheduled to take place between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

The stocky negro was found guilty of the crime in the criminal term of Superior Court late yesterday afternoon and sentence was passed by Judge Frank A. Daniels, of Goldsboro.

Green, powerfully built and unusually black, received the sentence unemotionally and walked stolidly from the courthouse to the county jail with as little interest as if he were going to pay a visit.

The case was begun shortly before the noon hour yesterday, the jury being selected from the special venire. The jury began deliberating about 4:30 o'clock and returned a decision shortly before 6 o'clock.

The courtroom, which had been packed to overflowing most of the day, was still well filled when the jury filed in to announce its findings. The corridors were also crowded with people awaiting the verdict, but there was no demonstration of any kind, and the law took its course, smoothly and inexorably.

A true bill was returned against the negro by the grand jury Monday and he was immediately arraigned, with Attorney John Denton, of Ayden, being named to defend him.

Only Mrs. House, Sheriff Whitehurst, and Patrolman Jackson went to the trial. The courtroom was cleared of all but those connected with the case while Miss House was testified. She gave a graphic description of the two criminal attacks. Steve Edwards, Miss House's escort, who was hit in the head by the negro, did not take the stand.

About twenty minutes after the jury had received the case, Judge Daniels called the jurors back to the courtroom and told them they could find the negro guilty of rape or attempt to commit rape. The latter (Continued on Page Three)

LONG SILENT ON LOUISIANA ELECTION TILT

Kingfish Will Make No Statement Until All Sections Are Heard From

New Orleans, La., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Senator Huey Long, whose city ticket ran second to that headed by Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley in yesterday's Democratic primary, said today he would have no statement to make until he had heard from the last important contest as well as further returns on the majority race.

Mayor Walmesley was far out on the face of returns from all but twenty-two of the city's 262 precincts. Long's candidate, John Klorer, was running in second place with Francis Williams, independent candidate, in third.

The New Orleans State said today that 119 of 240 precincts gave Walmesley 41,068; Klorer, 26,854; Williams, 23,682. This gave Walmesley a lead over Klorer of 14,202.

Success at clerical work at the age of twenty-one is predicted relatively much better than success at mechanical work or mixed work reports Irving Lorge of Columbia University.

JUDGE JAMES APPEALS FOR BALL JAN. 30

Calls on Public to Rally to Roosevelt Birthday Ball at The College

Judge Dink James, of County Court, today issued an appeal for support of the Roosevelt Birthday Ball to be given in the Campus Building of East Carolina Teachers College on the night of January 30. In the appeal Judge James sets forth some of the things that have taken place since the election of Mr. Roosevelt, and also the fine purpose for which the ball is being given—to raise funds for the Roosevelt Foundation for cripples at Warm Springs, Ga.

The appeal follows: "On the night of January 30, 1934, citizens of the United States have been invited to participate in a celebration in honor of the 52nd birthday of our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"This celebration will take the form of balls, some five thousand in number, to be held in hundreds of cities and towns in the United States, and each will be called 'The President's Ball.' Those who attend these balls will have an opportunity to honor the President in a way that will be very pleasing and gratifying to his great heart. The proceeds from the ball will be used in creating an endowment fund for the maintenance and enlargement of the Warm Springs Foundation for the treatment of infantile paralysis. This wonderful humanitarian work was conceived by President Roosevelt out of his own terrible experience with this dread disease, and is meeting a most important need in our country, especially among children.

"If a sufficient amount of money can be raised from the money received from this celebration, the facilities for effectively treating and studying infantile paralysis can be increased so that no child in the United States who is deformed or in any way affected with infantile paralysis will have to suffer for want (Continued on Page Three)

SEES PASSAGE OF SEED BILL

Congressman Warren Confident of Passage of Loan Legislation by Congress

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—Representative Lindsay Warren said today that he felt confident that a seed loan bill would be passed by Congress and signed by President Roosevelt. Senator Smith of South Carolina, and Representative Warren were the authors of the seed loan act in 1933 and on the opening day of the present session they introduced the same measure. Mr. Warren said that $57,000,000 was loaned to farmers last year. He thinks that the new measure will carry about $30,000,000 and that there is a probability that the maximum loan to individuals will be reduced and thinks it is a case of getting this or nothing. The First District member says that the seed loan and the tobacco agreement saved Eastern Carolina last year and that the loan is just as necessary this year. The administration has set up Crop Production Credit Corporations to take the place of the seed loan, but Mr. Warren has impressed upon the Department of Agriculture that this will not take care of the man most in need. It is thought here that if the seed loan bill goes through this year it will be the last that will be passed by Congress.

Late News Flashes From Over World

House Passes Navy Bill

Washington, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The House today passed the $284,747,000 navy department appropriations bill, which the Senate pressed toward a vote on the Roosevelt dollar devaluation legislation.

Without a record vote the House sent the supply bill to the Senate after plans had been abandoned for attaching it to the legislation and construction program to bring the United States navy to treaty limits. It then started a general debate on the treasury-postoffice bill, just as it was reported from the committee.

Administration spokesmen in the Senate, after receiving word from President Roosevelt, agreed to accept a time limit on dollar devaluation. (Continued on page six)

SHARP FIGHTS TAKE PLACE IN PARIS STREETS

Royalists and Communists Clash With Police Forces During the Night

Paris, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Streets of Paris resembled a battlefield at sunrise today, strewn with debris from several, sharp clashes between police, Royalist and Communist demonstrators.

Street fighting in the vicinity of the Chamber of Deputies continued far into the night while the chamber endorsed Premier Camille Chautemps' protest against a campaign of mud-slinging in the Stavisky Bank scandal.

Five thousand Communists fought police on the Boulevard Montparnasse and eight manifestants were taken to hospitals.

Royal elements laid waste streets in the aristocratic Faubourg St. Germaine district and extended their operations on to the last quarter. On the Boulevard St. Michael rioters demolished florist stands, showered them with gasoline and set them afire.

PLENTY FARM LABOR HERE

Reemployment Office Has Plethora of Applications For All Kinds of Work

The local Re-employment Office reported today that it has plenty of farm laborers for those desirous of obtaining such.

J. T. Bland, in charge of the office, said the laborers represented every line of work on the farm and could be had by communicating with his office.

The re-employment director several days ago asked those who had registered for work at the office to renew their cards between now and the first of next month so that their names might be kept intact.

The bureau has been instrumental in finding work for hundreds of people since it opened here last year, and it is earnestly requested that anybody needing labor of any kind notify the office of it.

HEBER AYERS GOES ON TRIAL FOR LIFE HERE

Thirty-Year Old Man Faces Murder Charge in Slaying of Floyd Cox

Heber Ayers, 30-year-old man of Greenville Township, went on trial for his life in Superior Court today for the alleged slaying of Floyd Cox, filling station employee, on the old Stokes road, several miles north of Greenville, during the early part of December.

Ayers, who has consistently denied knowledge of the slaying since his arrest about two days after Cox's body was found in the woods near the road, pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned before the court Monday.

The entire morning was consumed in an effort to obtain a jury and this was actually accomplished about noon. Thirty-six of the venire of sixty were used before the jury was finally empaneled.

Scores of witnesses are scheduled to take the stand for both the State and the defense, and it was hardly likely examinations would be completed before sometime tomorrow.

One of the main witnesses for the State is Lieutenant Fowler, of Washington, D. C., noted ballistic expert, who examined two bullets taken from the body of Cox, and reported that they corresponded with the pistol which officers said they found in the possession of Ayers when he was taken into custody.

Another important witness for the State is Sam Whitehurst, who directed the investigation of the slaying, and who told a coroner's jury that footprints found at the scene of the crime were similar to those of the defendant.

The first witnesses to take the stand before noon recess was T. J. Moore, Jr., who resides a short distance from the scene of the slaying. He said he was going along the old road that morning about 7 o'clock when he noticed an automobile standing in the road. He investigated and a short distance away found Cox's body. He then related going back home, informing his mother of what he had discovered, and came to Greenville and reported his discovery to Sheriff Sam Whitehurst.

Sheriff Whitehurst expressed belief at the beginning of the investigation that robbery was the motive back of the slaying, it having been reported that Cox had around $100 in cash on his person when he left the filling station at midnight before his body was found next morning.

One of the bullets was taken from Cox's body before he was buried but the body was exhumed sometime later to obtain the second one. The bullets were sent to Lieutenant Fowler at Washington who reported to the sheriff that both bullets apparently came from the pistol found in Ayers' possession.

Ayers was reported to have told officers that the bullets missing from the revolver had been fired at a dog.

PAYROLL OF CWA REDUCED

Twenty-Five Per Cent Reduction Caused by Curtailment Working Hours

TWO ROBBERS GO TO ROADS

Several Others Draw Road Sentences In Criminal Court Here Yesterday

The payroll of workers employed on Civil Works Administration projects in Pitt County will be cut approximately 25 per cent this week as result of the recent ruling reducing the number of hours of workers employed each week. It was made known today from the office of K. T. Futrell, local CWA administrator.

Working hours in the rural district have been reduced from 24 to 15 but in Greenville and Farmville Townships the 24-hour schedule will still be followed. The ruling applying to Greenville and Farmville was received by the administrator yesterday.

Around 1,100 persons are employed on the scores of projects underway in the county at this time. Mr. Futrell said, and they will be paid a total of $12,000 Saturday. The payroll last week was around $15,000.

Mr. Futrell said workmen were being held to the quota strength and that men were being shifted daily to projects where sufficient material had been received to enable the beginning of work.

P. F. BEACHAM SPEAKS HERE

Minister Charges Shortness in Religion At Pentecostal Holiness Church

In his sermon last night at the Pentecostal Holiness Church the Rev. Paul F. Beacham said: "There is more cheapness and shortness in religion than anything else."

"If we were as disinterested in secular affairs as we are in spiritual things, many of us would soon be on the poverty list. When we contrast, I will not say compare, our spiritual attainment with the possibilities and possessions in Christ, the difference is amazing."

The minister based his message on the words of Josh. 21:43-45. The experiences and history of the Israelites were used as an illustration of the spiritual blessings provided in the Gospel of Christ. "The four magnificent and mighty ALLS in the text, said the minister, show us what we may and should possess as Christians. God gave His ancient people all the inheritance, all the rest, all the victory, and all the promises which belonged to them by virtue of their relationship to Him." The most of us today, Mr. Beacham observed, allow circumstances to deprive us of full inheritance. We have rest of mind and heart with respect to some things but not perfect rest, and we are not realizing all the good things God has spoken concerning His people.

These special services will continue each evening at 7:30 o'clock for a week, and the general public and Christians of all churches are cordially invited to all services, said the Rev. J. W. Berry, pastor of the church.

Two colossal idols found on the island of Raevavae, south of Tahiti, were used as ballast for the ship Denise, wrecked on the island and re-floated.

PLANS TO ASK OVER BILLION DOLLAR FUND

President Seeks $1,116,000,000 to Carry on CWA and Other Emergency Work; Effort Seen To Raise the CWA Ante; Regulation For Stock Exchanges Also in the Offing at White House

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today had before him for transmission to Congress a $1,116,000,000 request for Civil Works and other emergency funds, the first of the series of recommendations due to trek their way to Capitol Hill.

Although foreseeing some possibility of congressional attempt to raise the $350,000,000 CWA ante, administration advisors believed the intimations from the President that this would continue beyond May 11 there was sufficient need might quiet the major storm.

Also upon the Presidential desk about ready for a ticket to Congress were a formulae for permanent regulations of the stock exchanges and for the nation's communications system.

A Commerce Department study of the stock exchange handed to Mr. Roosevelt late yesterday was still today to suggest no immediate drastic legislation but rather to arrange practices slowly.

Watchful the progress of Congress, the Chief Executive also was known to be preparing for early dispatch a message asking a thrifty to deal with foreign nations on tariff and war debts.

A couple of bills for this session are now in formulation. One would modify the new securities act to permit administration changes as required in investment banking interests. The other would give authority for loans to permit widespread modernization of homes.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Life" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 21.

The golden text was from Matthew 19:17: "If thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments."

Among the citations which composed the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Cease yet, from man, whose breath is in his nostrils; for wherein is he to be accounted of?" (Isa. 2:22).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Material, erroneous belief reverses understanding and truth. It declares mind to be in and of matter, so-called mortal life to be Life, infinity to enter man's nostrils so that matter becomes spiritual. Error begins with corporeality as the producer instead of divine Principle, and explains Deity through mortal and finite conceptions."

NEGRO RAPIST SENTENCED TO THE ELECTRIC CHAIR

Green pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned. He had made a written confession to Sheriff Whitehurst shortly after being captured and confined in jail at Winston.

The crime took place several miles east of Greenville when the negro came upon Edwards and Miss House in an automobile parked on a side road. After hitting Edwards in the head with a club, he forced Miss House to remain in the car, drove several miles, attacked her twice and finally left her on the highway in Pateville Township. He abandoned the car and was captured in Black Jack the next day.

Green was tried here about a year ago on a charge of criminally attacking a colored girl, but was acquitted.

The prisoner was held in Martin county jail for a short time and then was spirited to State Prison at Raleigh as a safeguard. He was returned here Monday, but no demonstration of any kind was in evidence throughout his stay here, and officers carried him to Raleigh today to await execution.

The death sentence as pronounced by Judge Daniels follows:

"This action coming on to be tried upon the bill of indictment charging the defendant, Jim Green, with rape on the person of Marie House, and the jury having been chosen, sworn, empaneled and charged, and having returned into open court their verdict that the defendant, Jim Green, is guilty of rape upon the person of Marie House as charged in the bill of indictment, and having convicted the prisoner of rape, and the solicitor for the State praying judgment of the court."

"It is thereupon considered and adjudged by the court that the prisoner, Jim Green, be remanded to the custody of the sheriff of Pitt county, confined in the county jail of said county, and conveyed therefrom by the said sheriff in accordance with the statute to the State Prison at Raleigh, and that the said Jim Green, be delivered by him to the warden of the said State Prison at Raleigh, and that he, the said Jim Green, be held in the custody of the said warden until Wednesday, April 25, 1934, and that on the said day, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. the said warden shall put the prisoner, the said Jim Green, to death by causing to be thrust through the body of the said Jim Green, a current of electricity of sufficient intensity to cause his death and to make such application of such current until the said Jim Green is dead."

JUDGE JAMES APPEALS FOR BALL JANUARY 30

(Continued from Page One) of expert attention. It is proposed to enlarge the buildings at Warm Springs and to create a staff of medical experts who can devote their entire time to treatment, experimentation and research in trying to effectively combat and control infantile paralysis.

For many years President Roosevelt personally sponsored the raising of funds for carrying on this splendid work, but with the growing demand for treatment by so many patients, most of whom are children of tender age, and the enlarged opportunity for service along this line, there has come an urgent need for outside help.

"The people of Pitt County are always ready and anxious to respond to any truly patriotic and worthwhile cause, and I am sure that they will gladly make every possible effort to see that the celebration which we are holding here in Pitt County will be a genuine success."

"The great improvement in business conditions in Pitt County since Mr. Roosevelt became President which is largely attributable to his brave and intelligent leadership, causes us to owe him a tremendous debt of gratitude. We shall be proud to honor him for things which he has done for us alone, but in addition to showing our appreciation and admiration for President Roosevelt, we shall be rendering a most worthy and significant contribution in contributing to the public service in the state which he started at Warm Springs, Ga."

"In order that the ball here in Pitt County may be a success and in keeping with the high purpose for which it has been called, a committee of leading citizens has agreed to sponsor the celebration and arrange an attractive and enjoyable program. Dr. Robert H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College, has graciously consented to let the ball be held in the beautiful Campus Building on the campus of our local college. A splendid orchestra has been obtained and the auditorium will be elaborately decorated. There will be many special features, and radios will be installed to receive the speech to be broadcast by President Roosevelt especially addressed to those attending these balls-throughout the country. The dance will be formal, and it is hoped by the committee that the affair will be on a plane as refined and proper as if it were being held in the White House in the very presence of President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Surely the purpose for which it is being held justifies its being conducted on such a high plane, and I am sure that the citizens of Pitt County will tolerate nothing less."

"Remember the time, the night of January 30, 1934, in the Campus Building of East Carolina Teachers College, at 9 o'clock. The proceeds to go to the Warm Springs Foundation for the treatment of infantile paralysis."

OBSTINATE NEGRO IS DROPPED FROM ROLLS

Kinston, N. C., Jan. 23.—Ernest Patrick, negro, was dropped from the relief rolls there because he tried to take liberties with the provisions of a relief order. He got arrested, besides.

Patrick secured an order for a pair of shoes for a child. At a dealer's he demanded shoes for a woman instead. A clerk said the terms of the order had to be complied with to the letter. Patrick walked out, abusing the clerk, and was arrested by a policeman who overheard the abuse.

At the relief office his name was marked off the rolls, but officials said the child in need of the shoes would get them.

Lost In Snow

My MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"I've come to see you about something," began Grandpa Grouchy Galump, the cross little man who lived with his almost-as-cross little wife in a small house not far from Puddle Muddle.

The Puddle Muddlers were afraid of him, Willy Nilly knew, and yet there was something about Grandpa that made them want to tease him.

"What is it?" asked Willy Nilly nervously.

"Will you call for your Crow?" asked Grandpa.

So that was it, Willy Nilly thought to himself. Christopher had been playing some prank again.

"Why do you want him?" Willy Nilly asked, trying to hide his trembling as he spoke.

"Well," began Grandpa Grouchy Galump, "just before the big blizzard I was out in my garden, and I dropped a ring off my little finger. It's a beautiful gold ring and I'm very fond of it."

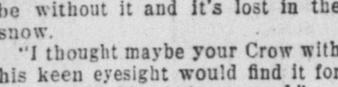

"Oh, how Willy Nilly did wish Christopher would not do such things. He was surprised Grandpa was not angrier. Usually he was in a very bad temper."

"I meant to go right back and look for it as I missed it so soon I was sure just about where it was lost. But then came the blizzard and I did not go out of doors. I can't be without it and it's lost in the snow."

"I thought maybe your Crow with his keen eyesight would find it for me. I'll give him a nice reward."

Willy Nilly breathed a long, long sigh of relief. Grandpa's ring had not been taken by Christopher. He wanted the Crow's help instead!

ROOSEVELT STROKE AT COMMITTEEMEN SETS PRECEDENT

(Ch) BYRON PRICE
Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington

Nothing about President Roosevelt's stroke at the active suggestion of a Democratic National Committee was the public and some of the most spectacular manner in which the deed was done.

The mere fact that the President objected to these activities was news to no one who had followed the course of events during recent weeks. But Washington does not yet understand why the blow was struck in the full spotlight of a presidential press conference at the White House.

Not a Generality Consider the circumstances. What the President said to the newspapermen was that he didn't consider it in keeping with the spirit of the administration that men in high party office should use their influence in Washington to earn a livelihood.

He declined to expand on that, but it scarcely was necessary. The purpose of most such arrangements is to handle cases arising before the government departments, where clients assume that political influence counts for a lot.

Small But Important The group very definitely limited by him was comparatively small, and it contained certain important

Egyptian Commemorates

In commemoration of the international aviation congress in Cairo, Egypt, late in 1933, a group of five stamps was printed by that country. On the five, ten, thirteen and fifteen millieme are pictured two modern types of cabin planes, while on the twenty millieme is the Graf Zeppelin.

Here and There

The issue of France showing peace with an olive branch has been augmented by a 65-centime stamp, dark lilac in color.

A cancellation mark of unusual design was used by the Japanese post-office December 29, date of the birth of an heir to the throne. It consists of a crane hovering over the double bridge marking the entrance to the imperial palace in Tokyo, with the inscription, "In commemoration of the celebration of the birth of his imperial highness, the crown prince—Tokyo, December 19, 1933."

Various scenes, showing the people, the animals and the activities of the Italian colony of Eritrea are depicted in a new set of ten stamps from that division of the world.

Astor-Gillespie Engagement Off

Giving no reason, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie of New York, parents of Eileen Gillespie (above), announced that her engagement to John Jack Astor, 3rd (below), had been broken. Her marriage to the $10,000,000 heir was to have been a brilliant social affair. (Associated Press Photo from Irving Childnoff)

Now, it is not customary for political friendships to break up in the open atmosphere of a press conference.

If Mr. Roosevelt was displeased with Messrs. Jackson and Mullen for having Washington law offices, why didn't he call in his two old friends and intimate to them that they were embarrassing him? Ordinarily, such a warning from the White House would have been effective.

And What Else? Jackson apparently did have some advance information, but the fact that he already had resigned from the committee did not stop Mr. Roosevelt from speaking out. Mullen expressed great surprise.

While it puzzled over the meaning of all of this, Washington also wondered what other implications might figures in high Democratic circles. One was Robert Jackson, of New Hampshire, an original Roosevelt-President man, elected secretary of the national committee by Roosevelt votes, one of the five or six men who counted most in Democratic headquarters in 1932.

Another was Arthur Mullen, of Nebraska, Roosevelt floor leader at the Chicago convention, also a member of the inner circle in the last campaign.

Washington wants to know: Is it Mr. Roosevelt's real idea that party officials should have no direct association at all with the government?

And if Mr. Walker got out on that theory, what about James A. Farley, who is Democratic National Chairman and also Postmaster-General?

DEATH ON THE HIGHWAY

Early in 1933, there were very automobile accidents occurring during the same period 1932.

During the last half of 1933, however, the trend changed. In the year, 30,500 persons were killed—a 3 1-2 per cent advance over 1932.

The automobile accident follows the amount of gasoline used in the country...

During the first half of 1933, for example, when a consumption was 3 per cent below the same period 1932, there were fewer accidents.

The discussion had been concluded early in the afternoon. Janice had gone home and rested.

BLOND GODDESS

Chapter 14 FRANK'S CALL

"When Paula, my maid, said that he had phoned and asked if I were home, you construed that to mean that Ortega wanted to be sure that I was available for abduction—

"When those two men came in, he wasn't with them. They—" She responded an involuntary shudder.

"Did he have a beakish nose?" asked Frank.

"What a story! What a story! I've got most of it here." He held up a sheet of paper.

"Giff them here," said Myberg, looking coldly at Greene with his oblique eyes.

Greene passed them over. Myberg, grasped them with his pudgy hands and ripped the sheet across.

"So was Munchausen," grunted Myberg. "But the newspapers get nothing of this. The public wouldn't believe it. They would laugh at it for a lie. It's my mind if they laugh at you, Greene, but Miss Kent isn't so joke."

Greene looked miserable. Frank said kindly, "Don't take it so hard, old man. You'll get other chances. You're a good publicity man. Miss Kent told me so herself.

"I work hard," he said. "In order to go to considerable time and expense to develop these stories."

Janice interrupted him with a swift look. "He gets a perfectly stupendous salary for developing these stories, and I couldn't do without him, really. That is, he would be most difficult to replace. Wouldn't you, Mr. Greene?" She smiled at him engagingly.

At the fleeting expression of discontent that arrived and vanished on Greene's face, Winslow laughed aloud.

Myberg drummed his knuckles impatiently on the desk. "There is nothing to do now except to get on production. We will not try to find out any more whys and wherefors. With the police in it, the newspaper fellers would come out with stories. I will get some men from an agency to watch out for Janice. That... iss all."

The discussion had been concluded early in the afternoon. Janice had gone home and rested. She had eaten a light dinner, and thought once in a little flurry of agitation that she might run over to a friend's house, and not be at home—actually—when Frank Graham called.

But this device, she realized, would be useless. Sooner or later she must talk with Frank. She suspected also that it would be a little cowardly. She'd see him tonight, since he wanted it and... Her compressed lips relaxed. What would she tell him?

It was nine-fifteen when she entered the drawing room on the lower floor. Frank stood before the log fire that burned cheerily in the grate. His wide shoulders bulged against the glow. He held a newspaper clenched in his hands; he seemed to be hypnotized by the crackling logs, so intense was his concentration.

She spoke his name twice before he seemed to hear her. He turned the fixed, absent stare of the thinker upon her. It was apparently an effort for him to bring his thoughts back to this room.

"Janice, have you read the evening papers?" "No. What is it, Frank? Is it something about last night?... Tell me—"

He shook his head impatiently. "It's about Bill Langton. The dead flyer. My friend. But perhaps he is auto death rate—Illinois, Michigan, Virginia and Wisconsin. Other states should strive to follow them.

Winborne Means Business In His Utilities Order

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 16.—After reading the order of Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne in which he calls upon all of the electricity, gas, street, railway, telephone and water utility companies in the State to submit itemized inventories of their property and equipment within North Carolina, there is no doubt that he means business, according to current opinion here.

As soon as these inventories are obtained and checked, it will be possible for the commission to proceed with definite steps for a revision of rates. Commissioner Winborne said today. But without this definite and accurate data showing the value of properties and equipment, it is patently impossible to make any move toward rate determination or revision, he pointed out. He also indicated that all the inventories submitted by these utilities companies will be carefully checked by experts to see that they have not been padded.

"It should be apparent to everyone that we cannot proceed to find a fair rate basis either for the utilities companies or the public until we have the definite information we have called for in asking for these inventories," Commissioner Winborne said. "For while we have on file the reports of the utilities companies covering fixed capital accounts, these figures are not broken down, so that it is not possible to determine just how much these companies have invested in property and equipment and how much is capitalization. But when these new inventories are filed, we will be able to know this definitely and accurately."

"Another thing we have not been able to know accurately so far is the actual value of the properties of companies in this State that also own property and do business in other States, since this information has never before been segregated in their general reports. This we do not know the actual value of the physical properties of the Carolina Power and Light Company, the Southern Public Utilities Company, the Virginia Power and Electric Company or others who have properties in other States, that are located here in North Carolina. But we are going to know it before we are through however. And then we will be able to determine whether the rates being charged by these

Clear Up, Like New, By Taking Black-Draught

"I have used Black-Draught off and on for about three years," writes Mrs. Maud Van Deussen, of Collinsville, Okla. "I have had dizzy spells and bad taste in my mouth. My complexion would get muddy, and I would be 'all down and out.' In such cases, I take a dose of Black-Draught every other night for about a week and it seems to clear me up and make me feel better in every way."

a little farther to the south and east than the last one, is described by Edward H. Bowie of the Weather Bureau. The storm centers are low pressure areas called "cyclones," large areas of below-normal pressure traveling around 500 miles per day.

When a series of cyclones comes along, says Bowie, it's usually a safe bet the first one will make its appearance somewhere in the north-west around Pudget Sound. The next one may break out farther down the west coast.

So far, Catawba has had a very successful season, having been beaten only by the strong Lenoir-Rhyne quint and will probably make fine contestants for the E. C. T. C. boys who have gained a nice slice since their victory over A. C. C. Ridenhour, forward, has been shifted to guard and Waldrop and Barrett are fighting it out for the first string position. Troy Burnett, local boy, and former high school star, has been elected captain of the team. Last game he shot as many points, alone, as the visiting quint and Bostic, alternate captain, showed up well in the last contest. (Huge reflectors, recently ordered) to help illuminate the playing court, will probably be installed in readiness for the Friday contest.

Greenville vs. Elizabeth City
The Greenville High School girls basketball team will play Elizabeth City Friday night in the High School gym at 7:30 o'clock. This being their first home game, they would greatly appreciate a large crowd. If you are looking for excitement, come.

tion powers and the proposed two billion dollar stabilization fund. All was not so serene inasmuch as the Senate simultaneously learned of adverse opposition to having a body of five—instead of the treasury-secretary to operate the stabilization fund. "Obnoxious and impracticable," Robinson of Arkansas called it. Vice-president Garner gave the monetary measure right of way as soon as the Senate met and the Forensic forays were begun. It was hoped the spirit of compromise would make a vote possible this week, but there were doubters. The Senate is expected to accede with little question later to the bigger navy proposal, receiving much commendation in the House these days. Of the other problems facing the nation another $850,000,000 for relief, $350,000,000 being required to carry on the CWA at least until May, was advocated by the President. Congress probably will soon grant it. Should need arise the government would use some of the direct relief fund—even though it is intended principally for use text fall-financing the CWA past the May deadline. It became known that President Roosevelt expects Congress to legislate with regards to the stock exchange but it was indicated that official recommendations will not be made as stringent as had been expected heretofore.

Sullivan Law Unconstitutional.
Raleigh, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The late Supreme Court today held that the so-called Sullivan law to blow the sale and transfer of deposits on closed banks in 54 counties is unconstitutional. One of the 40 opinions handed down, written by associate Justice Connor disregarded whether or not he law contravened the United States Constitution, but held that in view of the fact that it was nearly in contravention of section of article one of the constitution of North Carolina in it for that reason is unconstitutional and void. The Connor decision decided the suit of J. H. Egerton, Mrs. F. R. Morgan and G. E. Morgan versus Burney P. Hood, the bank commissioner and Rutherford county Bank and Trust Company. Appeal by the defendants from ruling of Judge Michael Shenck that he would accept deposits in the defunct bank which G. E. Morgan had purchased an offer in settlement of notes he had in the bank.

Increase in Public Debt Service
Washington, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The House appropriations committee today recommended $820,694,270 for operating the treasury and post-office departments during the next fiscal year. Representing a $403,232,727 decrease from current allotments and $6,683,830 cut in the budget estimate. The report submitted to the House also showed an increase in annual public debt service requirements of $185,428,629 in view of the increase of the public debt to $23,440,000,000 as of 1933.

Dollar Moves Narrowly.
The dollar moved narrowly in foreign exchange markets today apparently uninfluenced by announcement of the new billion dollar government financing. In terms of franc the dollar was valued at about 62.61 percent of parity.

Continue Murder Case.
Kinston, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The trial of Fred Wade, Tom Williams and on Williams charged with murdering Bennie Moxingo, alleged otlogger, near LaGrange, was continued until April. Eddie Moxingo, relative of the slain man, is charged with being accessory to the slaying.

New York Cotton

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, four to seven cents higher on commission house trade buying. Prices sagged a few points in the early trading, but the tone was fairly steady with March holding around 16 and July 11.48, or two to four points higher at the end of the first half hour. The market remained quiet late in the morning and prices fluctuated in a narrow range. March sagged off to 11.15 and July to 11.45 under small offerings, and the market at midday was dull in a point or two of the these figures, or two to four points above yesterday's closing quotations.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Stocks again basked under bright skies today and prices looked toward higher levels. Trading activity in equities expanded under a renewed demand for those equities which are supposed to benefit by dollar revaluation, government spending and recovery of business and industry over broad front. While gains were moderate in most cases and profit-taking was evident in some groups, the undertone was firm throughout the early hours during which the ticker lagged behind floor transactions. The dollar showed no erratic inclination in foreign exchange dealings. Grains, cotton and the commodities also followed a narrow rule. Bonds were fairly steady, the government billion dollar financing terms being in line with expectations. Rails proved the favorite in the share trading. The late tone was firm. Transfers were 3,350,000 shares.

If Blocks Hit You Look Out! Its a Neutron Ray

By W. A. WELLS
Berkeley, Calif.—(AP)—The ray that is made of blocks but goes through lead like light through glass—this describes the remarkable range of powers of the new neutron ray at the University of California.

The ray was probed by two young physicists, Prof. E. D. Lawrence and Dr. M. Stanley Livingston. It is a sly ray of neutrons, 10,000,000 of them a second, produced in quantity for the first time. Neutrons are material particles, variously likened by scientists to "billiard balls" and "building blocks."

They are among the recently discovered "ultimate particles" out of which the mysterious nuclei of atoms are made. Although no neutron, or no neutron ray, has ever been visible, their presence is revealed by the atomic "fireworks" they cause.

They can disrupt the nucleus of an atom more easily than any other form of energy known to science. But, by contrast, they sometimes join up with an atom to build it into something heavier than before the neutron hit it. Strangest of all, although they have a known weight 1,800 times that of an electron, they pierce the heaviest shields, such as lead.

Made in Vacuum Tube

They are made penetrating than either X-rays or radium. The new ray here, although only the first tiny stream of these particles to be brought outside a vacuum tube, has energy equivalent to that of about a milligram of radium.

It is produced in a metal vacuum tube, shaped like a pill-box, and set between the two poles of an 85-ton magnet. In this magnetic field the nuclei of deuterium atoms, or heavy hydrogen, are set to whirling with speeds equal to 3,000,000 volts. These speeding particles smash against a metal barrier, and in the resulting debris appear countless numbers of neutrons. A lead shield confines all these particles, except the neutrons, which pass through like bullets in cardboard.

Pass Through Lead Window

Through a lead window in the metal vacuum tube the new rays sprays out into the laboratory. One of the first problems will be screening it for safety. It spreads like the light of a lantern. Shields which would confine X-rays to a beam in one direction fail to imprison the neutrons.

That they are dangerous to the human body is shown by their disruptive action on hydrogen, which constitutes a large part of the body being one of the two constituents of water.

It has been calculated that a neutron ray will penetrate the body more easily than X-rays, and that it may possess therapeutic possibilities like both X-rays and radium. Aluminum and lithium bombarded with neutrons at the University of California, have come out with increased atomic weight, due to neutrons joining up with atomic nuclei.

Suburbs Cooler? Of Course Their Radiation, Better

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)
Plainfield, N. J.—(AP)—When the evening in the country is pleasantly "degrees under the sweltering city near by, it is all due to two big weather words getting in their work.

"Radiation temperature"—those the words. How they do it is explained by S. K. Pearson, co-operative observer of the U. S. Weather Bureau here.

How It Works
"As the word radiation is usually associated with heat, emanating from a body," he says, "it is, of course, difficult for the average person to understand why radiation has anything to do with the attendant cold.

"We all know that the earth's surface during the day absorbs heat from the sun. We also may be familiar with the fact that clouds at night act as a blanket and do not permit this heat to radiate so freely as into a clear sky. Smoke has a similar effect.

"We must also realize that heated air is lighter than cooled air and that it must necessarily rise. Therefore, after sunset when the atmosphere is calm and the sky is clear, the ground in the suburbs, where the city smoke does not accumulate, readily loses the heat it has taken up during the day.

Cooler At Sunrise

"This heat continues to rise very freely as the night advances and the cool air from up above settles rapidly to seek the lowest levels. If a breeze does not spring up and if cloudiness does not develop during the night the lowest temperature will be reached just about sunrise." The cities, however, are filled with almost everything except unlettered ground. Buildings, pavements and other objects blanket the earth's surface.

Smoke Aids Heat

So all day long they absorb heat from the sun. At night they do lose heat as freely. The result is that they are giving off heat nearly all night, and the cool air from aloft does not come down to city levels. "The smoke screen over most large cities," Mr. Pearson continues, "which always accumulates when there is no wind, also prevents rapid radiation and does not permit the temperature to drop as fast as in the open country.

"When conditions are favorable for a radiation temperature the average difference between the maximum temperatures of Plainfield and New York is about eight degrees. On extreme occasions the minimum at Plainfield has been 18 to 20 degrees lower than at New York and Jersey City."

Nearly 5,000 residents of New Orleans and the immediate vicinity make their living by fishing.
