Officers Seek Solution In The Lindbergh Kidnaping

VERNE SANKY QUESTIONED AT CHICAGO

Man Sought in Connection With Slaying of Charles Lindbergh, Jr., Quizzed By Police; Public Enemy Seized by Police Yesterday; Confesses to Two Other Kidnapings

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 1.—(AP)—A solution of the long-standing mystery of the kidnaping and slaying of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was sought today through questioning of Verne Sankey, 42, one-time gangster who turned to the "snatch" racket.

Sankey, described by authorities as America's public enemy No. 1, was seized late yesterday afternoon by Federal agents and city detectives in a barbershop on information provided by an anonymous source and confessed, Melvin Purvis of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said, that he had participated in the kidnaping of Haskell Bohn, of St. Paul, and Charles Bohn, Denver capitalist.

The former Gann, S. D. rancher, and one-time railroad engineer, denied he had any connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping or the abduction of Ed. Bremer, of St. Paul, and William Hamm, Jr., also of St. Paul, but authorities pushed their grilling of him in the hope of uncovering some new light on these problems, particularly in the Lindbergh case.

In his confession of the St. Paul and Denver kidnapings, Sankey told Purvis he had collected the $60,000 ransom for releasing Soeticher and $12,000 for freeing Bohn.

NOTIFIED TO WATCH FOR BANK ROBBERS

Durham, N. C., Feb. 1.—City and county officers here were on the watch for three or more white men, two of whom made an unsuccessful break at a Virginia, Va., bank early this morning, who were reported to have escaped in a direction toward Durham.

The three or more men left with nothing when surprised by the night-watchman at the bank. He fired several times and said he shot one of the men. A thorough check has been made at the local hospitals to determine if a wounded man has been admitted.

THREE ARE INJURED AS CAR OVERTURNS

Burlington, N. C., Feb. 1.—Three persons were injured, one seriously, today when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on a curve on North Main Street.

Clem Bradshaw and his brother, Gales, and Mrs. Effie Davis were carried to Rainey Hospital.

Clem Bradshaw had a fractured leg and other injuries, and Mrs. Davis had lacerations about the head and face. Gales Bradshaw, the driver, escaped with only minor hurts.

TWO HOMES BURNS ON YEAR'S COLDEST DAY

Fayetteville, N. C., Feb. 1.—On the coldest day of the year, Fayetteville experienced two blazes which cause a loss of $12,500, the largest fire loss in one day in more than twelve months. The home of A. E. Dixon, president of the Chamber of Commerce and active vice-president of the Calceonian Savings and Trust Company, was virtually destroyed with a loss of $10,000, and the residence of Lon Jones on Broad Street was burned with a loss of $2,500.

YEGG CRACK SAFE BUT GET NO MONEY

Wilson, N. C., Feb. 1.—Yeggs cracked the safe in the Bardin Coal Company office on Mercer Street sometime Monday night but failed to get anything for their efforts as the safe contained only books and records.

The safe-crackers mashed a window to gain entrance to the office, then blew the door off the safe, which was unlocked. The attempted robbery was discovered about six o'clock Tuesday morning by Officer P. A. Harris, who investigated to report that the office door was open.

Detective J. C. Fulgham also investigated, but found no fingerprints or clues upon which to work.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Today in Congress. Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Committee action overshadowed those in the Senate and House proper today with approval for immediate restoration of one-third of the 15 per cent cut in federal pay and a change voted to attach veterans' compensation legislation to the same bill in returning it to the Senate.

A bill to extend crop production loans to 1934 to a total of $35,000,000 was approved by the House agriculture committee.

On the House side further progress was made on the bill, a clause being inserted to provide an expert board of ten to assist in manipulation of the $2,000,000 stabilization fund.

All of these propositions favored in committee are subject to the strict procedure of debate and vote later by Congress as a whole.

EXTEND PITT COTTON DRIVE

Pitt County growers, like those in other cotton producing States of the nation, have been given the remainder of the week in which to sign the government cotton acreage reduction contract.

E. F. Arnold made this announcement today. He said committees would be at their usual places the remainder of the week, and hope was expressed that all those who have not signed will do so immediately.

Mr. Arnold said 500 contracts had been signed up to the present and that 300 more were expected to roll into his office during the rest of the week.

He impressed growers with the fact it would be necessary for them to report their acreage this year regardless of whether they sign the government contract by reason of legislation now before Congress that would penalize non-co-operating farmers.

In other words, the farm agent said, growers who show a spirit of co-operation in the government's effort to reduce next year's crop of the staple will not be subject to the legislation if it should be passed, and there is a strong likelihood that it will be.

Pitt County went over the top in the tobacco reduction drive in fine form, Mr. Arnold stated, and it was hoped the same will be the case in the cotton campaign.

Mr. Arnold this morning received the following ruling in regard to the cotton campaign:

"Administration ruling No. 1 amended to provide for admitting farms with less than 100 pounds but not less than 25 pounds acre average yield.

"Also if base acreage is five acres or any whole number of acres not in excess of the total of 5 receiving rental payments on acreage rented and parity payments on 40 per cent of average production during the base period."

HENDERSON TELEPHONES ARE CUT OUT

Carolina Telephone Company Discontinues Service as Result Of Dispute

Henderson, N. C., Feb. 1.—(AP)—All telephone service in Henderson was discontinued today to remain so indefinitely following an impasse between the city and communication officials.

The service went off at midnight as the city council and officials of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company failed to come to an agreement over a renewal of the telephone franchise.

Yesterday the telephone company submitted a proposal offering continuation of at least temporary service, but the council merely received and filed the papers.

It was proposed that the city council would appeal the ordinance placing a penalty of $50 a day on the company for failure to remove its poles and wires from Henderson streets preparatory to construction of paving projects the company would continue service until an agreement could be reached, or until it could find someone to purchase the present Carolina properties, or until a new exchange could be built by someone else.

TWO FIRES ARE HANDLED HERE

Blazes In Business and Residential Districts Last Night and Early Today

Two fires in the business and residential districts of the city last night and early today did damage which firemen estimated at around $40.

Last night at 8:30 o'clock the department was called to the National Bank building in Five Points to handle a slight blaze caused by a short circuit in a motor to one of the dental appliances in Dr. Shultz's office. Only a motor was damaged. The loss was given at approximately $25.

This morning at 2:17 o'clock a mattress caught fire from a cigarette stub at the home of a Mr. Beppard on Ninth Street entailing loss which firemen estimated at $15.

It was stated that somebody had been smoking in bed and dropped off to sleep, letting the cigarette fall on the clothing, quickly igniting the mattress.

UNINJURED BY STOVE BLAST

Mrs. Sully Jones Has Narrow Escape As Range Explodes at Her Home

Mrs. Sully Jones had a narrow escape from death or serious injury Tuesday morning when a cook stove at her home on Cotanche Street exploded, tearing away one end of the kitchen.

Mrs. Jones had just started a fire in the stove preparatory to cooking breakfast when the explosion occurred. Although escaping injury, she was said to have suffered from shock.

Water in the stove was believed to have been frozen by the cold wave which swept over this part of the State Monday night, and when the fire was started the pipes became hot and burst. Mrs. Jones, it was said, was standing on the other side of the stove and was not hit by the shattered section driven through a part of the kitchen wall.

FARM COLONY PLAN BOOSTED

Goldsboro Chamber Of Commerce Secretary Seeks Colonies For This Section

A movement to establish farm colonies for unemployed industrial workers in this part of the State has been started by W. C. Denmark, secretary of the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce.

In a letter mailed to the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations of the kind Mr. Denmark proposed a meeting of interested parties at some centrally located point so that some definite action might be planned.

Mr. Denmark said plans were now being considered by the Civil Works Administration looking to the establishment of farm colonies in farm territories where thousands of industrial workers are without employment.

"You, of course, realizing that the government has already taken over a lot of land in Pender County for the purpose of establishing a farm colony, but I don't think that this fact would further consideration on the part of the government towards Eastern North Carolina projects," Mr. Denmark said.

It was noted that thousands of acres of unutilized farm lands in this section offer a splendid opportunity for a proposition of this kind, and business men were urged to all a meeting and perfect plans for bringing this section of the State to the attention of government officials having this work in charge.

CIVIL COURT HERE FEB. 19

Judge Frank A. Daniels, of Goldsboro, to Preside Over One Week Term

A one-week term of Pitt County Superior Court for the trial of civil cases will be held in this city the week of February 19, it was made known at the courthouse.

The calendar for the term was expected to be arranged by members of the bar probably next week and will then be sent to the press. This was expected to consist of some forty or more cases of more or less interest to the people of this section, and the week will be one of the busiest in some time.

Judge Frank A. Daniels, of Goldsboro, who presided over the criminal term here last week, is scheduled to return for the civil session. Members of the bar and the public generally were greatly impressed with Judge Daniels' work here last week and are looking forward to his return with interest.

In spite of the fact that three days of last week's term were confined to the hearing of two cases, court disposed of over forty cases. This was due to Judge Daniels' ability to push things along and make every minute count for something.

Remember, donations must be in by Saturday, February 3.

WELL KNOWN LADY BURIED

Final Rites For Miss Adelaide Williams Held at Episcopal Church Today

Final rites were conducted from St. Paul's Episcopal Church this morning at 11 o'clock for Miss Adelaide Williams, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Long, at the corner of Fourth and Cotanche Streets, early yesterday after an illness of only a few days.

The service was in charge of Rev. W. A. Lilliver, rector of the church, and burial was made in the Episcopal Churchyard on Pitt Street.

A large crowd of sorrowing friends and relatives attended the funeral and a splendid floral tribute told in a quiet way of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Miss Williams was a native of Pitt County and had always made her home here. She was a member of an old and socially prominent family, being the daughter of the late Dr. Richard Williams and Mrs. Henrietta Greene Williams.

For the last eighteen years she had made her home with her sister, Mrs. Long. She was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Surviving are three sisters, a brother, and several other relatives.

FIRE DESTROYS 4,000 CHICKENS IN SANFORD

Sanford, N. C., Feb. 1.—A fire this morning shortly before 6 o'clock totally destroyed a chicken house and more than $4,000 chickens owned by D. F. W. Hunter, and located in the rear of his home on Ender Street. The blaze originated near a furnace in the building, and was discovered by a colored employee, who was in the building feeding the chickens. About 1,500 of the chickens were one week old.

The building, about 75 by 30 feet, was two stories in height and of frame construction. The firemen responded quickly to the alarm, but were handicapped by the extreme cold—the thermometer registering at eight above at the time. By good work the flames were confined to the one building.

DEVALUATION OPENS WAY TO GREAT TRADE

Wall Street Sees in Devaluation of Dollar a Way to Huge Foreign Credit Expansion; How Treasury will Use Over Two Million Dollar Fund Not Yet Plain; Stabilization Fund is Created

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's proclamation devaluing the dollar approximately 41 per cent as understood by Wall Street monetary authorities has virtually restored the dollar to the international gold standard and opened a way to a huge foreign credit expansion.

It is believed that stabilization of the dollar in terms of principal foreign currencies has probably been largely accomplished.

How rapidly credit expansion will work will depend on the manner in which the Treasury uses the increase in the country's gold supply and upon the face of improvements in business.

Credit expansion, bankers say, requires confidence on the part of business men that they can use credit profitably, and this confidence should grow as recovery progresses.

As bank credits expand, deposits grow, and as the turnover of bank deposits occur, that is as check settlement accelerates, prices normally rise. The more recent boom-time credit growth of 1928-1929 was reflected throughout the jump of real estate and security prices rather than in staple goods.

How the Treasury will use the more than $2,700,000,000 gold profit resulting from the decrease in the gold dollar remains to be seen.

Its first move has been to create a two billion dollar stabilization fund to stabilize the dollar in foreign exchange markets and to stabilize the price of gold securities.

The potentialities of this big addition to the monetary gold stock, it is estimated, may be seen in the fact that an increase in the country's gold of nearly $2,400,000,000 from 1914 to 1929 was accomplished by the jump in bank credits of more than $36,000,000,000. Furthermore, bank authorities explained, such an increase in gold would support a theoretical maximum increase according to the working out of the banking system of several times that.

The action of the President in authorizing the Treasury duty to buy and sell gold at $35 an ounce, in the opinion of the foreign exchange experts, may largely solve the problem of stabilizing the dollar, particularly insofar as the gold countries are concerned. It is possible that the stabilization fund may not have to devote much attention to the international money market and may concentrate on domestic problems.

FATHER-SON BANQUET HELD LAST NIGHT

Appealing to the fathers and sons to be true to God and to each other, the Hon. John Bragaw made a stirring address to the large crowd of men and boys present last night at the Father and Son Banquet held at St. Paul Episcopal Church. Other features of the banquet were the boxing match staged by Edward Clark and Billy Hyde, and the talks of Sam Dees and J. J. Summerell. Mayor Roy Flanagan, president of St. Paul's Men's Club, presided at the meeting, while the program was under F. C. Harding, chairman of the program committee. The meeting was declared to have been one of the finest ever held in Greenville.

While the fund derived from the President's Birthday Ball here is approximately $500, the same will not be sent in to national headquarters until Saturday of this week in order to give opportunity to those who did not attend the dance to add to the fund if they so desire.

If you did not attend the ball and would like to give to this fund your contribution will be most welcome, but there is no desire to high-pressure anybody into giving to this fund. It is the nation's birthday gift to its President and such gifts, of course, should be voluntary.

LET'S DIG TO BED ROCK

In constructing a great building something like half the work has to be done below the ground level. People stand on the scene open-mouthed and keep wondering why so much time and work are "wasted."

So Mr. Myberg decided to go on with the picture: It is good, I shall be delighted to help you. It has been a great regret of mine that I was forced to leave Hollywood so suddenly. I was planning to return when I met Mr. McGrath. I decided, then, to await your arrival.

JANICE wished the man did not make her feel so uneasy. Was this the suave, well-mannered Ortega that had sent her daily flowers in Hollywood? He seemed the same but with a subtle difference.

Nothing can take the place of plain honesty. "And riches of all is the man who still has friends and his faith." Blackness has turned into dawn and dawn into day. As the clouds part the sun bursts through, unchanged and unconcerned, still stand the eternal verities.

BLOND GODDESS A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS: Frank Graham, explorer, bound into the coils of Yucatan to look for traces of his missing sister, Bessie. He is narrowly escaped death at the hands of a man named Ortega.

Chapter 21 AT MERIDA GREENE rubbed at a lump over his temple. Thoughtfully he adjusted his coat upon his shoulders and studied a ragged rent in his side through which some papers in the pocket had been blown by the bullet.

They explained as much as they knew. While they talked the train began to move, halting at first then with gathering speed. Lights began to slip past the car windows; then the trucks of the cars screeched around a turn. They were passing through a lane lined with shadowy buildings.

They jerked into a dimly lighted station. The men began to arrange the boxes so as to be ready for their departure. The train stopped.

The other passengers crowded through the door. Outside they could see dozens of armed soldiers patrolling the platforms. There was a commotion at the doorway. A huge man shouldered himself through the press and approached down the aisle.

His face was blue-jawed and dark, smoke from his black cigar dribbled through thick nostrils. He wore the bleached linen suit of the hacendado, with the tunic buttoning up to the neck. His arm was carried in a black silken sling.

He loomed above the seated Americans. For an instant Janice did not recognize him, then she caught her breath. It was Ortega, the man whom Frank Graham had suspected as being involved in her abduction in Hollywood a month ago.

While she had told them all in Myberg's office that she did not believe that Ortega was implicated; nevertheless she admitted that she was unsure. Janice looking at him now, was conscious of a sense of uneasiness as his glance met hers—a tiny ringing of some subconscious bell of unrest as those flinty eyes were turned down to her.

"Miss Kent," he began. "How are you Mr. Greene, and Mr. Hogarth. It is a pleasure to see you all again. I am delighted." His somber stare made his statement sound contradictory. "I have a message for you from Mr. McGrath, your advance man."

Greene stirred irritably. "Where is he?" The big man's glance flickered over Mr. Greene and paused at the torn and stained shirt front. He allowed the question to remain unanswered and addressed himself to Janice.

"So Mr. Myberg decided to go on with the picture: It is good, I shall be delighted to help you. It has been a great regret of mine that I was forced to leave Hollywood so suddenly. I was planning to return when I met Mr. McGrath. I decided, then, to await your arrival."

JANICE wished the man did not make her feel so uneasy. Was this the suave, well-mannered Ortega that had sent her daily flowers in Hollywood? He seemed the same but with a subtle difference.

Once, two years before she had met an industrial executive and had been taken through one of his factories. She had admired him for his power, decisiveness, and shrewd command of his organization; later she met him at a masquerade costume as an eighteenth century beau and he had been clumsy and ridiculous.

She thought of him now, looking at Ortega. In a sort of reverse way this had happened to him. The polished latin aristocrat in Hollywood had become somewhat gross—he was more effective this way Janice admitted—but there was a shade of incongruity in it—like a fop turned rowdy.

"So you wanted," said Mr. Greene. "Fah. That's fine. But where in the hell is McGrath? He should have been at Progresso. He didn't show up. Instead we come here and get stuck. What is it? A revolution? What's the matter with you guys here? Don't you know this is a lawless country? Now if I was running this country—" the American people—you behind the counter, you policemen on the beat, unpaid teachers, tax-bled patriots all of you who, disregarding self and creed, have upheld his hands. And now, as we pass from the year that has taught us much into a year that we know not of, let us cling to these immutable truths: "No nation can ever spend its way back to prosperity; it's got to WORK its way back—there is no substitute for work."

"Please!" interrupted Janice. "You were about to say..." There was a shadow of annoyance in the smile Ortega gave Greene. "I was about to say that Mr. McGrath asked me to meet you. I would have been at the dock when your steamer arrived but we have had a little trouble here."

His glance roved about the damaged car. "I am sorry you were attacked on the way in from the coast, but the revolutionists were marching on Merida and the troops on your train were federal soldiers. The revolutionary party have captured Merida. The federalists have retreated and are encamped, we think, a few kilometers from the city. They await reinforcements from Campeche."

"What effect will that have on us?" asked Janice. "Mr. Myberg planned for us to take the location shots at Chichen Itza, instead of at the place you spoke of."

"Impossible," Ortega shrugged his shoulders. "That is why I am here. A week ago McGrath was going to Chichen Itza to make arrangements for a camp there where you could stay while you took your pictures. However, he was unable to get permission from the authorities. They had word that the revolution was about to begin and the ruins at Chichen would probably be within the zone of war."

"Then what did he do?" asked Mr. Greene disconsolately. "He met me," replied Ortega with the slightest of bows. "All the ruins in Yucatan are not at Chichen Itza, nor yet at Uxmal. Back along the trail of the Caribbean coast are others, bigger ones, and in better condition, too, for your work. McGrath has gone ahead. I will guide you there."

"THANK you no," snapped Mr. Greene. Something in the tropic air had made the little man as aggressive as a fighting cock. "Not any at all, thank you. Yours very truly, accompanied by Miss Kent and these three sons, will take the next train back to the coast, and thence to these or those—take your choice—United States."

Ortega shook his head and smiled. He appealed to Janice with a gesture of his unhurt arm.

"I am afraid he does not understand. There will be no steamers away from Progresso. None will come to go away. The revolutionists control Progresso. When steamers come their supplies will be seized, so none will come. It is always so."

"Well, I don't like this ruin business of yours," persisted Mr. Greene. "What's more, I don't like you, Ortega. I think you're up to some monkey business. You're had copy, if you want the truth—"

"Mr. Greene!" exclaimed Janice with some sharpness. For Greene to call a person bad copy was, for him, highly insulting—almost a curse.

"Well, anyway," continued Greene in a quieter tone, "we'll stay right here in Merida until you settle who's who and what of it. You can tell McGrath to come back and make an occasional fourth at bridge until we can get to the only legitimate ruins I know of in this country."

"He means," chuckled Hogarth who had been listening interestedly, "that he's plagiarized a lot of copy out of the Encyclopedia on Chichen Itza. Any other ruins would cramp his style."

"Who says so, you... Sreball!" Hogarth flushed; Greene knew the director's weakness. Ortega looked at Greene speculatively.

"Merida," he said, "will be under fire continually. It will be safer where I will take you."

"Oh," said Mr. Greene after a reflective pause. "Again," continued Ortega. "Mr. McGrath told me to say that he was in complete charge of arrangements, and that if Mr. Greene wanted to stay and be killed, by all means I was not to discourage him."

Greene bristled. Hogarth chuckled. Wallace, the older of the camera men said, "Go ahead and stay, Greene."

But Mr. Greene looked pensive. His glance shifted from the face of Ortega to that of Janice, and back to Ortega's again. "I don't like this layout," he said. "It seems to me that the best thing we can do would be to get out of this country as soon as we can. You never can tell about these revolutions." He turned to Ortega "You say we can't get out the way we came? Is there any other way..."

SANS SOUCI BOOK CLUB CELEBRATES PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S BIRTHDAY

Outstanding among the many Greenville events held on President Roosevelt's birthday was the meeting of the Sans Souci Book Club Tuesday afternoon at the spacious home of Mrs. S. T. White.

The program for the afternoon was in the capable hands of Mrs. C. S. Forbes.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tolson, which were enjoyed immensely.

And it is only fitting that today, we, as women, join in celebrating the birthday of our great President.

Our current events topic for the afternoon was Spring Fashions.

Mrs. White asked her guests to scatter through the rooms and hall in order that she might depart from the usual current event procedure and give them a surprise.

The surprise proved to be a real spring fashion festival with living models—Mrs. Ray Tyson at the piano and Mrs. J. H. Waldrop singing "My Alice Blue Gown"—the fashion parade began.

Mesdames Walter Harrington, J. Knott Proctor, S. M. Crisp, Marvin Sugg, Ed Batchelor, Louis Gaylord, J. B. Cummings and Ed Williams, gowned in the loveliest of C. Heber Forbes spring sport and morning frocks, each in their turn was carefully viewed and applauded.

The second group of clothes shown was afternoon apparel which brought forth many exciting comments about their beauty and wearableness.

When these women appeared in the third group, again, our thoughts turned to Roosevelt and the ball for before our very eyes was an array of the most brilliant and gorgeous evening gowns—just the very dress to do honor to our President on the night of his 52nd birthday celebration.

Another solo, the ever beautiful "Amour Toujours," was sung by Mrs. Waldrop and the fashion show ended. The club feels greatly indebted to Mrs. White and to C. Heber Forbes for this rare fashion treat.

Assisted by her daughter, Miss Helen White, and sisters, Mesdames C. S. Forbes, F. J. Forbes and W. L. Best, Mrs. White served a most delicious salad course with after-dinner coffee.

The many guests of the afternoon the excellent program, the soft glow of the candles, the beauty of the spring flowers, and the tempting refreshments combined with the charming hospitality of our hostesses, made this club meeting a never-to-be-forgotten one for each club member.—Reported.

SERIES OF TALKS ON "DANGER ZONES OF THE SOCIAL ORDER"

A series of talks on the theme, "Danger Zones of the Social Order" will form the study course of the Y. W. C. S., at East Carolina Teachers College this year.

The first and second talks have already been delivered. The first, "Economic Danger," was given by Rev. John Barclay of the First Christian Church of Wilson.

The remaining discussions are scheduled as follows: Feb. 2—"Racial Dangers," by Dr. L. R. Meadows; Feb. 9—"Political Danger," by Mrs. J. B. Spilman; Feb. 16—"Moral Dangers," and, in conclusion, on Feb. 23—"What the Individual Can Do About It."

Speakers for the last two talks have not been announced.

HOW TO AVOID COMMON ERRORS IN INCOME RETURNS

The period for the filing of income tax returns covering the calendar year 1933 begins January 1 and ends at midnight of March 15.

Within this period are filed annually billions of individual income tax returns, a large proportion of which reports income subject to the tax.

The latter contain a considerable percentage of errors, which if uncorrected by the audit would result to the disadvantage of the taxpayer.

Many are errors of computation easily discovered on the face of the returns, which usually is accompanied by a payment of more than the amount of tax due.

In other returns it is readily discernible that the taxpayers have failed to take advantage of the personal exemption credit allowed for dependents, or deductions from gross income to which he is entitled.

To avoid these and other errors, the Bureau of Internal Revenue urges careful reading of the instructions on the forms for filing the returns. Additional information, if needed, may be obtained at the office of a Collector of Internal Revenue, Deputy Collector, or an Internal Revenue Agent in charge.

Also, as a further aid in the preparation of a correct income tax return for the year 1933, the Bureau has prepared a series of short newspaper articles, of which this is the first, advising the salaried man, wage-earner, professional and business man—in fact, every class of individual taxpayer—of his requirements and privileges of interpreted under the latest regulations, ruling and decisions relating to the income-tax law.

RED OAK NEWS

Entertains Sunday School Class. Miss Genevieve Jenkins and Mrs. Sam Pollard were hostesses to the Young People's Class of Mount Pleasant Sunday school at their January meeting.

They met at the home of Miss Jenkins, where a cheer, welcome awaited them. Piano and violin music were interspersed with exciting games, contests and stunts which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Mr. Highsmith, accompanied by the piano by Mrs. Pollard, was another enjoyable feature of the evening. Mr. Highsmith also gave an interesting talk concerning his class.

There were about 33 young people who were present and also several other invited guests.

A delicious pizza and green fruit jello with lovely little cakes was served—also home-made candies.

This class hasn't been organized so long yet it is a wide-awake class. They will be glad to welcome any young person to their class who is not already attending Sunday school elsewhere.

UNABLE TO RISE. SEES ROOM CEILING ON FIRE. Goldsboro, N. C., Feb. 1.—Mrs. Ed Bivins was in a dangerous predicament at her home on East Holly Street Tuesday morning when she saw the ceiling around the stovepipe in her bedroom burning, and she was too ill and weak to arise from her bed.

She was alone in the home, her husband having left for a short time to attend to some business and having built a roaring fire in the stove just before leaving.

Mrs. Bivins screamed for help, and neighbors turned in the fire alarm. The fire department extinguished the fire and it was not necessary to move Mrs. Bivins.

Brave Christopher

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER "Do go on with your story," Willy Nilly urged Top Notch.

"There isn't any story," cawed Christopher. "All he can tell us is that he saw two wicked-looking yellow eyes. Well, he didn't see lots and lots of wicked-looking yellow eyes. What is one pair of eyes? He probably saw a cat."

"This wasn't a cat!" cawed Top Notch. "I guess I'm able to know a cat when I see one. I didn't even hear this creature. It made no noise at all."

"Maybe it was a wild cat," shivered Rip. "No, it had wings," said Top Notch.

"It had wings!" cawed Christopher Columbus Crow. "Well, why didn't you tell us that at first?" "I didn't get a chance," complained Top Notch.

"Now, Top Notch," said Willy Nilly, "tell us all you can about the owner of this pair of wicked-looking yellow eyes. We're getting somewhere when we know that he has wings."

"Maybe it was a chicken hawk," barked Rip, unweasly. He remembered how he had been accused of killing chickens a long, long time ago.

before and that a wicked chicken hawk had really been the guilty one. "Oh, no," said Top Notch, "this creature was different. It was too dark to see him well—besides, I didn't want to stay and find out. His eyes were terrible and I thought he was going to pounce on me. I tell you I didn't even hear his wings as he came near me—he was so stealthy."

"I'm not afraid," said Christopher. "Let me out into the night!"

Tips on CONTRACT

BRILLIANT BY Tom O'N. One of Ted Lightner's greatest is his failure to make in the United States Bridge Association championship tournament what Ely Culbertson says would have been one of the most important bids in bridge history.

He and Culbertson stopped at five hearts, when he had an easy grand slam. Had Lightner made a certain bid Culbertson would have gone the limit. This was the hand:

Bridge hand diagram showing North and South cards: NORTH: ♠ 8 5 3, ♥ A K 7, ♦ A Q J 4, ♣ 4; SOUTH: ♠ A K J 10 6 5 3, ♥ K 2, ♦ A 10 7 5 4.

This was the actual bidding: W-P: N-1H: E-1S: S-2S. W-P: N-3D: E-P: S-3H. W-P: N-3NT: E-P: S-4C. W-P: N-4H: E-P: S-5H. W-P: N-P: E-P.

And this is what might have been: W-P: N-1H: E-1S: S-2S. W-P: N-3D: E-P: S-3H. W-P: N-4NT: E-P: S-5C. W-P: N-6C: E-P: S-7H. W-P: N-P: E-P.

The six club bid by North would have scintillated, in Culbertson's opinion.

On the first round of bidding Culbertson's offer of two spades over an opponent's one spade was a slam invitation, guaranteeing a fit in hearts with control in spades.

On the second round Culbertson emphasized his fit with North's hearts by assisting him.

On the third round, in Culbertson's view, Lightner erred by a stop bid of three no trump when he had additional values. Then when Culbertson showed his club suit and Lightner bid only four hearts, Culbertson feared his partner had opened a spiche and therefore stopped at five hearts.

Notwithstanding the four-card weak heart suit in Lightner's hand, his diamond strength would have made a justified on the third round of bidding.

This bid would have told Culbertson that Lightner held two aces and the king of either hearts or diamonds or three aces.

Since Culbertson held the diamond king himself, if the four no trump bid was based on two aces and a king, Lightner must hold the king of hearts. He probably had the heart ace also because of the great heart strength South. Culbertson could not bid five no trump over four no trump because he had only one ace, and so he would have offered five clubs, meaning a biddable suit with the probability of the ace.

Now what would worry Culbertson would be the possibility that Lightner had clubs which could not be disposed of. If Lightner had the king of clubs, he should bid six clubs to show support with Culbertson's secondary suit.

The singleton club in the North hand, however, was as good as a club bid by Lightner would have told Culbertson: "We are O. K. in clubs."

Then South, with his great fit in hearts, void in spades and fit with North's diamonds, would have gone to seven hearts.

French Red Tape Screens Theft Says Chautemps

By ALEXANDER H. UHL Paris.—(AP)—France's notorious red tape is largely blamed by Camille Chautemps for the Stavisky pawnshop scandal which shook his cabinet and caused the French republic to be replaced by a fascist government.

Chautemps, who is a member of the cabinet, said that the French administrative system never was able to catch up with him.

He explained there are three agencies charged with inspecting financial matters. The first is in the hands of the courts, the second is controlled by the "sacred general" or secretaries, while the third is controlled by the local police.

Departments Pass Back "It happens that when a case comes up, each one of these agencies writes a report," said Chautemps. "These reports are translated from one to another of the investigating agencies, each one counting on the other to do something, but frequently nothing is done."

Stavisky, working upon the mayor of Bayonne, gained control of the municipal pawnshop, an institution empowered to issue bonds guaranteed by pawned jewels and other valuables. His system was to sell bonds of much higher face value than shown by the office stubs.

There were annual inspections by governmental agencies, but the fraud was not detected until December. Then it was discovered that bonds for $1,500,000 more than the pawnshop record showed had been presented for redemption.

It has been estimated that the Stavisky operations brought Stavisky more than $30,000,000. He had in the background a deal for marketing depreciated bonds issued to Hungarians whose lands were ex-

Sale will be made because of default.

It is doubtful if the success already achieved by administration policies or that expected during the coming months will silence such an argument.

President Replies Debate in the House on the drastic rule proposed to safeguard the President's economy program clearly indicated that Republicans are thinking along this line.

More than one Republican Representative directly or by inference called for a restoration of a tripartite its own say-so over legislation once more.

The President, however, is not unmindful of such criticism at the present or that perhaps more of the same kind is to come. Already he has made his defense—that:

Tells How Cardui Stopped Cramping "Several years ago, when I was younger, I was advised to take Cardui for cramping and irregular trouble," writes Mrs. Esther L. Dodson, of Lowry City, Mo. New York Cotton

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, seven to nine points higher in response to better Liverpool cables and the monetary situation offset by quite heavy realization. The more or less general realizing encountered on the opening was quite readily absorbed by a broadening demand which seemed to be coming from both trade and speculative sources.

The market sold up to 11.70 for May with the general list selling about 15 to 17 points above yesterday's closing quotations. Realizing increased at these figures and there were reactions of six or seven points from the best at the end of the first half hour. The market met further liquidation later in the morning, and after the early advance to 11.70 for May, prices slowly reacted. Volume tapered off to the decline and the market at mid-day was quiet with prices holding steady at advances of six to seven points.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Stocks greeted the new American dollar with a jubilant cheer today and intermittent buying rushes sent prices to the best levels of the past year or more. All categories drew some of their best following since the 1933 spring-summer boom and gains of one to three or more points were scattered over a broad front.

Late News Flashes

(Continued from Page One) The Senate elections committee decided the positions of Senators Long and Overton, Louisiana Democrats, prevents no issues the Senate can take cognizance of. Now that the country is on what Secretary Morgenthau calls "a 1934 model" of gold bullion standard, and the administration evidently intends to refrain from recommending further legislation of major controversy, Speaker Rainey envisions an early wind-up of the Congressional session.

Reduce Processing Tax

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The processing tax on flue cured tobacco used in the manufacture of plug and twist tobacco products, was reduced today by order of Secretary Wallace from 4-10 cents per pound to 3-10 cents.

N. C. Leads Tobacco Tax

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—North Carolina's position as the state which paid the most tax on tobacco was maintained in 1933 by a wide margin with collections in that state totalling more than those for the remainder of the country. The Internal Revenue Bureau reported today that N. C. manufacturers paid $208,840,794 of the $409,308,921 collected in 1933, or $7,372,667 more than the combined collection in all other states.

Japanese Hold To Fabulous Views Of U. S.

By GLENN BABB Tokyo.—(AP)—America is a land of great wealth, vast economic experiments and enterprises, huge naval programs, far-flung imperialist ambitions, glittering movie stars. This is the picture, carried across the Pacific by radio and cable, that is firmly imprinted in the minds of scores of millions of common Japanese men and women by their newspapers.

"Mr. Ru" Tops Headlines

He makes the headlines, queer, vertical lines of black ideographs, probably more often than all the rest of his compatriots together. These headlines sometimes call him Belkoku Daitoryo, President of America, but more often they shorten it to Ru-shi, Mr. Ru. This is achieved by using only the first of the five characters of the clumsy Japanese syllabary required to spell out his name—Ru-zu-be-ru-to.

America Serious Matter

America is a serious proposition to the average Japanese; he knows little of its lighter side and leans to heaviness in his daily diet of news from across the Pacific. First comes economics, which scores about four headlines to one for any other subject. The NRA, currency policies, commodity prices—these to him are a matter of bread and butter, or rather rice and soy sauce.

Domestic Sports Dominate

These days the sporting giants of the United States are foreshortened in the Japanese impression of America. As athletics have developed in this country the Japanese have ceased to look across the Pacific for idols. This has been particularly true in the last five years, so that the newer headlines of the American sporting page are comparatively unknown, while Dempsey, Ruth and Tilden are still household words.

Books Flown To Island School

Sandusky, Ohio.—(AP)—An airplane delivery of library books has filled a long-felt want at high school on Kelly's Island, near here, in Lake Erie. The books, supplied by the Ohio State traveling library, were flown to the island from Sandusky.

To Dedicate Clark Monument

Harrodsburg, Ky.—(AP)—Kentuckians are hopeful President Roosevelt will come here May 6 to dedicate a $100,000 Federal monument to the memory of George Rogers Clark, "pathfinder of the West."

Monument To Lee's Secretary

Sylva, N. C.—(AP)—A monument will be erected in historic Cullowhee cemetery to the memory of Roland Painter, private secretary to General Robert E. Lee during the Civil War. The confidant of the Confederate leader died at his home here about a year ago at the age of ninety-four.

INFLATE-AS-YOU-ROLL PUMP MAY KILL FLAT-TIRE ALBIS

Minneapolis.—(AP)—Minneapolis inventors have evolved a gadget that may junk the old flat-tire alibi of the late home-comer. It's an automatic, inflate-as-you-roll, tire pump, attached to the wheel of an auto.

Cold Jumps 'Gas' Consumption

Ames, Ia.—(AP)—Your car requires more gasoline per mile in cold weather than in warm, reports Ray G. Paustian of the Iowa State College engineering experiment station. A test car, he found, averaged 12.2 miles per gallon with the temperature above zero. At 57 above the same car at the same rate of speed—45 miles an hour—traveled 13.3 miles on a gallon.

Campaign Against Air Rifles

Alliance, O.—(AP)—Alliance police are on the warpath against youths shooting air rifles inside the city limits, a practice which has resulted in several broken store windows. At the end of the first half neither side had been able to secure an advantage, the score standing at 14-11. At the beginning of the second half, however, High Point took the lead and held it throughout except for one time when the score was tied.

WASHINGTON GIRLS PLAY HERE FRIDAY

The Greenville High School girls' basketball team will play Washington girl cagers here Friday night. Although beaten by Washington one time this season, Miss Langston, the girls coach, promises to give Washington a tough time. There has been much improvement, and the team is stronger than when it played Washington before. Come out and give the G. H. S. girls some support. Game will be called at 7:30 o'clock.

OFFICIALS SAY INSTITUTION IS TOO ATTRACTIVE

Hopkinsville, Ky.—(AP)—Those who go "over the hills to the poorhouse" in Christian County, Kentucky, are doing it joyfully—and the line forms on the right. County officials say they have made the place too attractive, resulting in almost a stampede of applicants for admittance. Registrars lost count of the applicants long ago. The waiting list grew so long that it was discarded, and now those who beg for a place are told there's no chance. County Judge W. O. Soyars described the poorhouse as more inviting than many of the homes.

INDIANS PROVED TO BE PARTICULARLY EFFICIENT CONSERVATIVE WORKERS

Indians proved to be particularly efficient conservative workers last year in eliminating the blister rust which attacks white pine in forest areas. Registrars lost count of the applicants long ago. The waiting list grew so long that it was discarded, and now those who beg for a place are told there's no chance. County Judge W. O. Soyars described the poorhouse as more inviting than many of the homes.
