Soldiers Move To Paris In Face Of More Serious Riots

OPPOSITION TO DALADIER STILL GAINS

Apprehension Spreads That Police Will Not Be Able to Cope With Situation When Parliament Reopens; Royalists And War Veterans Organization in Manifestations

Paris, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Fear of more serious rioting brought heavy reinforcements of soldiers into Paris today.

Four separate demonstrations scheduled against the cabinet of Premier Edouard Daladier aroused apprehension the police would be overtaxed when the minister is presented to Parliament tomorrow.

Royalists, organizations of war veterans and young patriots, were all planning manifestations with the reconvening of Parliament.

Authorities, fearing police defections as a result of M. Daladier's opposition to Jean-Chippe, Police head began filling Paris with provincial troops.

Among the soldiers drawn in as a precautionary measure was a company of North American cavalry called Spahis. Many of the cavalrymen are negroes.

M. Chippe's popularity was demonstrated when a huge throng which hid him as he finally quit the prefecture at noon today, clearing the way for the Premier's appointee, Bonneyf Sibour.

Subordinates massed on the grand salon of the prefecture and received a kiss on the cheek by the deposed prefect.

NEGRO IS SHOT BUT ESCAPES POSSE

Windsor, N. C., Feb. 5.—W. B. Cooper, negro, of the Sans Souci section of Bertie County, was shot on Friday night by a member of a posse that was trying to recapture him after he escaped from the county jail here on Wednesday night.

Cooper had been jailed on a charge of beating his wife and was waiting for trial when he made his getaway on Wednesday night.

On Friday night Sheriff J. W. Cooper organized a posse to go search for the negro in his home community. He was found by one of the posse members, Charlie Phelps, and when Phelps approached the negro to arrest him, he ran, whereupon Phelps fired three shots at him from some distance. Phelps reported that the negro fell to the ground and appeared to be wounded, but that he got back on his feet and again made his escape.

Kinston, N. C., Feb. 5.—State police announced today that a manslaughter charge would be lodged against Dr. W. E. Dawson, Hookerton physician, in connection with the death of J. G. The former suffered injuries that appeared to be superficial. Dawson administered first aid. Sergeant Arthur Moore, of the highway patrol, said evidence indicated the physician was to blame for the collision. It was the third fatal accident at the point in recent years.

PLAN TO MAKE LIFE HARDER FOR CRIMINAL

Justice Department Has Assurance That Congress is Going to Back it

Washington, D. C., Feb. 5.—(AP)—The Justice Department today had virtual assurance that Congress would accede to a request by Attorney General Cummings that life be made harder for criminals.

The House tomorrow will pass the regular annual Justice Department appropriations bill.

In going through section by section, approval already is given to a $2,880,000 sum with which Federal agents will carry on an anti-kidnaping, anti-racketeering, finger-print identification and criminal laboratory work. Senate approval is expected.

In addition, the House Judiciary Committee will have the opportunity of approving two bills for which Cummings made a direct appeal to Chairman Sumners of the committee in a Justice Department letter.

Already favorably ticketed by the Judiciary Committee, the committee bill would make it a death offense to resist a Federal officer.

The bills would also declare an indictment valid if twelve grand jurors were qualified, even if one or more had been disqualified.

ALTAR DRIVE SLOWS DOWN

Issuance of Marriage Licenses Falls of Perceptibly Here This Month

The issuance of marriage licenses here set a record here for four successive months, reflected a pronounced drop during the first three days of this month and indications are that Cupid has done the most of his damage to the community.

Records in the office of Register of Deeds J. C. Gaskins today showed that only eight licenses were issued during the first three days of the month, five of those coming the past Saturday.

Records also indicated that one hundred couples obtained permission to wed during January, which is something of a record for that month. The figure was smaller than the two previous months when all former marks for the period were completely shattered. In December 169 couples marched to the altar as Christmas presents to one another, and in November the figure was 134.

Colored people continued to lead the race to the altar during January, records giving them about a three to one advantage for the honor. The same was true of the previous months, although white people forged into the lead on several occasions during the period only to lose it by an unexpected spurt on the part of the color race.

Two of the couples obtaining licenses to wed here Saturday were white and the remainder colored. They were: Sherman Rouse to Miss Virginia Clark, both of the Winterville community.

James Brite to Miss Blanche Norman, both of Greenville.

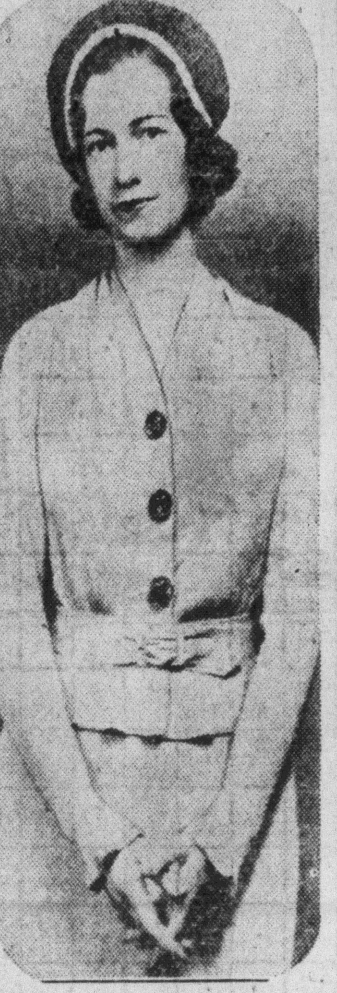

Moses Jones to Victoria Edwards, Greene County.

Joe Daniels to Beatrice Worthington, Winterville.

Wiley Glover to Carrie Sprull, Greenville.

COURT RULES AGAINST LONG IN CIVIL SUIT

Louisiana Kingfish Must Defend Himself Against $500,000 Libel Action

Washington, D. C. Feb. 5.—(AP)—The District of Columbia Court of Appeals ruled today that Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana must defend a $500,000 civil action for libel brought by Samuel T. Ansell, former counsel for the Senate Committee which investigated the election of Senator Overton, Democrat, of Louisiana.

The libel suit is one of two civil actions brought against Long by the former judge advocate of the army.

When the suits were filed Long moved to quash service of the civil summons on the grounds of immunity from prosecution while in Washington.

This right is given by the Constitution to members of the Senate and House while Congress is in session, Long claimed.

The Court of Appeals ruled that the constitutional protection against arrest of members of Congress does not cover service of processes in civil suits so long as the service does not involve actual detention on the person.

Earlier in the day Prince Ernst Von Starbmer, member of the triumvirate governing Austria defied Chancellor Dollfuss and established a Fascist government in the Tyrol.

TWO HELD IN AUTO THEFT

Elwood Gwaltney and Eddie James Nabbed by Police Over Week-End

Charged with stealing an automobile here last Thanksgiving, Elwood Gwaltney and Eddie James, young men of this community, were rounded up by police over the week-end and given preliminary hearing in police court here this morning. They were bound over to the next session of Superior Court.

The prisoners were charged with stealing a car belonging to Ira Peed which was parked in the business district, and then driving it to several sections of the State, finally abandoning it in Rocky Mount about two weeks later.

Nothing was heard of the couple until they appeared in the community several days ago. When police got wind of their presence, they immediately got busy and rounded them up. Gwaltney was captured near Greenville and James in town.

Officers reported the men as saying they drove as far as Winston-Salem, later returning to Rocky Mount where lack of funds to purchase gas and other necessities caused them to abandon the machine.

TOTAL BALL FUND $505.66

Contribution of $1.00 Saturday Gives Roosevelt Fund Slight Boost

When J. B. Tucker contributed $1 last Saturday, the Roosevelt Birthday Ball Fund raised in this city was swelled to $505.66, it was reported by W. W. Lee, committee treasurer.

Mr. Lee reported Saturday morning that he was preparing to mail the Warm Springs Foundation check for $505.66 as the total contribution from this city. Before he sealed the envelope containing the check, however, Mr. Tucker came along and turned over a dollar bill to the fund. The bill was pinned to the check and both were placed in the mails to be speeded on to Warm Springs, Ga., where they will do their bit toward the alleviation of human sufferings.

The contribution was raised through the Roosevelt Birthday Ball in the Campus Building at the college last Tuesday night, and several persons who could not attend the dance sent in contributions to the committee in appreciation of what the President has done for the nation and the fine cause to which the fund is devoted.

Greenville's contribution was one of the largest raised by any town in this party of the State, and as reports of the various balls rolled in the latter part of the week, members of the committee were more than gratified over the success of their effort.

LET'S KEEP AFTER IT

When CWA funds first became available there was talk here of efforts to get some government aid toward the erection of a tubercular hospital for this county, or for this county and several other surrounding counties.

We presume that the committee appointed to look into this matter is still on the job and certainly we hope so, for nowhere is an adequate tubercular sanatorium more needed than in Eastern North Carolina. Deaths from tuberculosis in this county for the past year were 48 which based upon the government average of eight active cases of the disease for every death indicates that there are over 300 cases in this county. Tuberculosis is a disease that cannot be checked successfully by home treatment because of the inability under the average living conditions to isolate the patient from other members of the family, which means that from year to year this disease will become more prevalent in this county unless some action is taken now.

The matter is one that every citizen in the county is or should be vitally interested in, and we repeat our hope that this effort to procure a sanatorium will be pushed to a successful conclusion.

A Washington Day Book

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—Opinion is strong in Washington that Senator Huey Long probably will find it difficult to persuade the Senate to undertake an investigation of those he charges with trying to discredit him and remove him from office.

The Louisiana "kingfish" has served notice he has such a purpose in mind and will call up "at the proper time" a resolution to that effect.

Reason advanced why the Senate might refuse such a course procedure are:

There's too much Long and Louisiana political linen already laid out before the Senate. Two committees have before them now questions involving Long and his activities. Why take on more?

Indications are that neither the Senate as a whole nor members of the sub-committee, which has just concluded an investigation of Louisiana's last senatorial election, are particularly happy over the sensations that marked its progress. Charges have been made that it rivaled a circus.

Senators fear the investigation sought by Long might turn out the same way.

What About McAdoo?

Politicians are speculating as to where Jim Farley's blessings on Hiram Johnson, progressive Republican from California, for re-election to the Senate this fall leaves William G. McAdoo.

Rumor has it that Senator McAdoo already is grooming a candidate of his own choosing for the California governorship. The term of the present governor—James Rolph, Jr.—expires next January.

McAdoo, it is said, had been counting on Johnson's support for his

BLOND GODDESS by Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS: The treacherous Ortega is leading Justice Kent, who has just been captured by the Mexican bandits, into a trap. Grahame's aviator friend, Bill Langton, signals across the jungle, and the words "Grahame" are heard. Grahame had been with Ortega, but had been released and had been rescued. Ortega calls to Grahame, and gets no answer.

Chapter 24 THE SUBLEVADOS

JUAN glanced at the figure at his feet. He crossed himself. Grahame took off his khaki sun-helmet and set it beside the overturned water pan. McGrath's eyes stared glassily at nothing.

"Poor devil," said Grahame. "I wish he had let me give him the hypo."

They buried McGrath in the swamp. Returning, they re-lighted their fire. Although there was plenty of game about, they dared not risk a shot, so ate a meal of cold beans and meat.

They slept for several hours. Grahame decided that for comfort's sake the troupe ahead of them would travel all night. Juan agreed that this was probably true, and if they began to follow about midnight, they could comfortably and safely follow the trail for at least six hours.

They awoke at eleven. Juan slipped off into the darkness and in a little while returned with a large bush turkey dangling by his side. He grinned when Grahame questioned him.

"You heard this one this afternoon. He sleeps in a tree not far from here. Tonight—" he chuckled. "—he sleeps with us."

The boy dressed and cooked the bird — tropic refrigeration. The cooked meat would last them through the next day.

They ate, and began their march southward along the trail. Grahame pondered upon what McGrath had told him. The taking of moving pictures in this cruel country seemed a little incredible.

If it were authentic ruins they wanted, there were several within a day's train ride of Merida, the capital of Yucatan, and a civilized place. There was no reason for striking south of Merida into this unknown country.

The wounded man had mentioned the name Ortega. While the name was a common enough one, nevertheless Frank began to have a presentiment that the name was recurring too often to be entirely coincidence. It was an Ortega whom he had never seen that had been involved — he still thought — in Justice's abduction in Hollywood.

It was Ortega who had landed the arms at the hacienda on the east coast. While that had happened two weeks before, still, Ortega in the launch, could have been back at Merida in three days.

And it had been from Merida that still another Ortega had guided the man McGrath in a southeasterly direction to this spot. That is, if it had been another of the same name. Frank shook his head in puzzlement.

The dying man had said others were to follow. Probably a whole group of actors and technical men. Women, too, most probably. He was struck with a sudden chill. Justice Kent might be among them!

Supposing this was Myberg's company of people come to Yucatan for location. He remembered now that Spin Winslow had said that Myberg liked authentic backgrounds and that this man, Ortega, was to have guided them to where bigger and better ones were.

This would be a beastly place for women if the plan was to come here. He uttered an exclamation that was half irritation, half fear. Juan paused but at Grahame's gruff word continued on.

McGRATH had said that his Ortega had been captured by the Indians who had assaulted them. Supposing, then, that he was one and the same with the man who had handed the guns. Because of that he would have some sinister understanding with these jungle people and would not be harmed. He might even be allowed to return to Merida where he could make plans to bring the remainder of the motion picture people into this place — and to their destruction!

He speculated upon the motive, then dismissed the train of thought as being unimportant. Plenty of motive for a criminal robbery for one, ransom — perhaps, although the latter seemed improbable since McGrath had been murdered without a chance to buy himself out of his difficulty. Were there women along, there would be another possibility.

Although the night was cool, the candidate for governor in return for his influence in throwing the support of the Democratic party in California to Johnson.

Farley's recent statement in behalf of Johnson, implying approval of the administration, it is argued, deprives Senator McAdoo of what might have been a powerful weapon for bargaining.

It is significant, perhaps, that thus far McAdoo has not commented publicly on the Farley statement.

The WORLD of STAMPS

By QUINTON JAMES
For the first time the swastika, official emblem of the nazo movement, is being used as the central design for a series of German stamps. The particular issue comprises a set of twelve officials service stamps ranging from three to fifty pennings.

The swastika is enclosed in a circle of white, with the value of the stamp placed in the upper corners. Beneath the swastika in two rows are the words "Dienstmarken" (official stamps) and "Deutsches Reich" (German empire). On all but the 50-pennig stamp the swastika is of the same color as that of the stamp. On the 50 it is black.

Road to Health
The road to health, leading toward the east and its brilliant sunrise, it is shown on this year's issue of New Zealand as an aid to the campaign for good health. Besides the one penny for postage, an additional penny charge is assessed as a contribution to good health benefits.

The stamp, carmine in color, is the fourth, in the series that has been issued annually since 1929. Last year's stamps depicted Hygieia, the goddess of health.

New French Stamps
Nine pictorial stamps, intended to vary the figure of Marianne, symbolizing the republic, will comprise a new issue by France. They include symbols of peace as well as designs for domestic inspiration.

The 1.50-franc stamp for use on foreign mail will have a peace dove trailing an olive branch from its beak, while the 50-centime stamp for domestic letters will bear a gallic cock.

Other stamps will picture seven scenes of France, with the Eiffel Tower on the 40-centime, the Invalides dome of Paris on the 1.75-franc, Brenton River on the two-franc, Saint Trophime cloister at Arles on the three-franc, the towers of Carcasonne on the five-franc, City Island in the Seine, with Notre Dame cathedral, on the ten-franc and the ancient relics of Saint Remy on the twenty-franc.

This change in French stamps began recently with the appearance of the heads of Briand, Victor Hugo and Doumer on new issues.

Bi-Lingual Stamps
Observant collectors soon discovered that there are a number of stamps which bear inscriptions in two or more languages, known as "bi-linguals" or "quadri-linguals," depending upon the number of languages used.

About the only bi-lingual stamps that I, where an issue is put out in two languages, are those of South Africa. One set is in English and the other in Afrikaans.

The quadri-lingual stamps come from the Transcaucasian republic, each stamp bearing information in Russian, Armenian, Georgian and Azerbaïen. Stamps of Belgium always have the name of the country in both French and Flemish, while Canada prints "postage" in English and French.

Colonial Trade Frances Hope For Prosperity

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Paris. —(AP)— France, gloomily adding up her shrunken trade balances abroad, is looking to her colonies, in area the second greatest, to help lift her out of the depression.

Feeling herself more or less isolated economically while other nations try to recapture elusive prosperity for their own, France is endeavoring to become more self-reliant with aid of her 100,000,000 inhabitants in both hemispheres and her 4,700,000 square miles of territory.

acts to the black, yellow and brown men who populate her vast African and Asiatic possessions is her principal problem, for hard times seem to have penetrated jungles, deserts and Oriental rice swamps.

By turns, the experienced administrators of the far-flung territories, such as Jules Carde, governor general of Algeria, have been called into "Little Cabinet" meetings of ministers intimately concerned with the problems of making the empire pay the mother country's business out of the red-ink column. The results of these sessions have not been announced.

Complicating the problem is the nature of the colonial population. The saucer-lipped Ubangi women of French Equatorial Africa, familiar to American circus audiences, are hardly potential customers for gowns of Parisian dressmakers. Neither are the bare-skinned natives of West Africa, the nomadic Arabs and Bedouins of Algeria and Morocco nor the yellow and brown skinned laborer in the rice fields of Indo-China in the market for much except essential clothing and what food they do not themselves raise.

DUKE CAGERS OFF FOR TILTS IN VIRGINIA

Durham, N. C., Feb. 5.—Duke's cagers open a three-day trip into Virginia by meeting the Generals of Washington and Lee in Lynchburg tonight. The Blue Devils left here this morning.

Tonight's contest should be a great battle. In their meeting here last week, the Blue Devils and the Generals gave fans the closest game seen on the local floor this season, the lead changing ten times before the Blue Devils shot ahead and held a four-point margin at the end of the game.

On this week's journey into the neighboring State, the Blue Devils also face V. M. I., Tuesday night at Lexington, and V. P. I., Wednesday night at Blacksburg. They return home Thursday to prepare for a Big Five game with Wake Forest in Raleigh Saturday night.

The last week of heavy play in conference ranks, the Blue Devils see each of these games as a most important one. Coach Cameron and his boys are most anxious to finish among the first four in the pre-tournament conference race so as to have the extra advantage of being one of the "seeded" teams when pairings are made.

After this week only four games remain on the Duke regular season schedule. They meet Davidson and North Carolina next week, South Carolina and N. C. State the week following. All four of the final games will be played on the Duke floor. A great amount of interest has already been shown in the invasion of South Carolina, Tuesday night, February 20.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Professional football, as unveiled to the Pacific Coast by the champion Chicago Bears of the National League, has given the far west a live mid-winter topic at a time when the mid-west is all steamed up over its basketball races, the east busy speculating on Yale's coaching situation and the South, among other matters, giving the golfers a running start on the new year's trail.

With the exception of a few critics, such as Stanford's one-man opposition party—Robert L. (Dink) Templeton—the coast has given an enthusiastic reception to the pro footballers. A crowd of 35,000 turned out for the game in San Francisco. Around 22,000 watched the Bears trim a collection of ex-Southern California stars at Los Angeles. There is already talk of forming a winter professional league, to pick up the sport where its eastern campaign and the college season leave off.

College football already is so well established on the Pacific Coast that it has nothing to fear from an invasion by the professionals. Nevertheless there was considerable antagonism and skepticism before the Bears moved in to give onlookers a typically entertaining gridiron show. This may have been natural enough, under the circumstances, but no conflict is likely to last, for the good reason that none really exists.

Passing Impressive
The deceptive and effective passing attack of the Bears has impressed all who have seen it. Laterals and forwards spring from the pro formations like sparks from a grindstone. Descending some of the features and giving his conclusions, Tommy Fitzpatrick, who referred the Bears' game in San Francisco, wrote:

"The final touchdown play was especially interesting. The Bear quarterback, Brumbaugh, said in the huddle: 'Hewitt is going to be right in the left-hand corner of the end zone. Now you Red (indicating the famous Grange), fake a line buck and then toss it over there. Bill will get it.'

"And he did, from about two or three yards behind the line of scrimmage."

"I have always been opposed to the dead ball rule in football and I think yesterday's game showed the grid sport is much more interesting without it. The rule allowing passing from anywhere behind the line, too, keeps the defense on the alert and increases the offensive team's chances to score. There was not more open play yesterday because the game was too close and the Bears had a wholesome respect for the ability of Glenn Presnell."

Dividing Line
The college football rules-makers soon will discuss the passing regulations, possibly with a view to giving the offense more leeway, but the dead ball provisions are in the code to stay, for the sake of safety.

Bill Langford, secretary of the National Collegiate A. A. committee which controls the rules, has already made that much clear. He

Christopher Alone

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
Christopher Columbus Crow went back to the house and gave a tap with his right wing so that Willy Nilly would let him in.

"I just came back for a second to tell you all to go to bed and sleep in comfort," Christopher said. "I'll take care of this little matter. I won't let any creature harm any of us here in Puddle Muddle."
"And I'm sorry, too, Top Notch, that I called you a 'fraid cat. I didn't know at first what you meant, but I understand now that you weren't just thinking things."
"Is it an—?" began Willy Nilly, but Christopher interrupted:
"Now I don't want any of you to be nervous. I'll be perfectly all right. You may think he is stronger than I, but you are mistaken. At least, I know I will drive him away. Crow can do it in numbers and I will be able to do it single-handed, or single-winged you might say if you wanted to speak very correctly."
"Please, Christopher, if he is what I think," began Willy Nilly, "you need other Crows to help you."
"Nonsense," said Christopher, "I'll be all right."
Suddenly Christopher's keen ears heard a sound in the distance.

"There he is!" Christopher cawed. "I just heard him speak. Please let me out again, Willy Nilly. Open the door and let me see what is outside."
Oh, how they all admired Christopher's bravery, but Willy Nilly was afraid that Christopher might have trouble by himself.
"Caw, caw," shouted Christopher, as he got outside, "the battle has begun!"

Monday—"The Battle"

The Battle

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"To-wit, to-woo," sounded the voice through the dark night. Christopher boldly and bravely flew in the direction from which it came.
"He's a crow, caw," he shouted as he flew along. "Didn't you hear what I had to say to you when I was out here before?"
"Well, I'll say it again. You had no business, old Owl, to be frightening our Top Notch, the Rooster, and you know perfectly well that an Owl is not allowed around where there are Crows."
"I'm the only Crow in Puddle Muddle, but I, Christopher Columbus Crow, will not permit you to remain here."
"To-wit, to-woo," answered the Owl, "do you not rob birds' nests of their eggs in the early spring? How can you talk as if you were so good?"

"Sometimes," admitted Christopher, "I have not been as good as I should have been. My family has a liking for all kinds of eggs. But what we have done has been nothing to what you have done. You're always an enemy in the woods."
Now Christopher had reached the big hole in the tree trunk where the Owl was perched, wondering whether he dared remain with only one Crow in the neighborhood.
But Christopher gave him a mighty blow with his strong wings. Then another, and another and another. The Owl, for all his power against the creatures of the woods was almost helpless before Christopher. Besides, he had the fear that most owls have of Crows. But he made up his Owl mind that he would not give in!

Tomorrow—"Victorious Christopher."

sees a sharp dividing line between the pro and college game, so far as rules are concerned, and he is undoubtedly quite correct. But that doesn't mean the boys on either side can't argue about it.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 5.—(AP)—The spring buying tide continued to sweep through the stock market today carrying a high grade of optimism. With the exception of the alcohol and metal equities pushed up one to two or more points and the activity was at a rate of 5,000,000 shares in early hours. The ticker tape was frequently behind the floor.

Speculative enthusiasm seemingly ignored rumblings from Paris where the French government securities broke sharply the franc on the New York market, dropped .13 of a cent. The decline in both rent and francs was attributed not so much to the drain of gold from the French bank as to political disturbances.

Cuba's New President Veteran at Fighting His Country's Battles

By NELSON J. RILEY
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Carlos Mendieta, upon whom the United States Department has pinned its hopes for stability in Cuba, has been fighting his country's battles ever since he interrupted his studies to serve in the war for "free Cuba."

His selection as president is the culmination of nearly a decade's opposition to former President Gerardo Machado who, largely through the efforts of Mendieta and his partisans, was thrown out of office and the country last summer.

Dr. Mendieta fought Machado's dictatorship from Washington, New York and Miami before his plans finally carried.

Life Has Been Active
The new president is a physician, statesman and military strategist. He attained the rank of colonel in the war for independence.

Carlos Mendieta was born November 4, 1873, at La Matilde, near San Antonio de las Clara. He began studying medicine at the University of Havana when twenty years old, but in 1896 the struggle for freedom was renewed and young Carlos left the university.

Bravery Recognized
He entered the rebel army as a private, but while fighting in and around the province of Pinar del Rio he soon won recognition for personal bravery and military ability.

Returning to the university, Mendieta was graduated in 1901 as doctor of medicine. He was appointed inspector of health for the whole island during the American occupation of Cuba, immediately preceding the organization of an independent government.

He served in the First and Second Cuban Congresses as representative from Santa Clara province. In 1908 he was re-elected to Congress and served until 1916.
