Daladier Seeks To Avert Civil War In France

NEW PREMIER CALLS MEET OF CABINET

Government Head Asserts "Fundamentals of Abdication Lie in Economic and Financial Situation Confronting the Nation"; Makes Plea Before Chamber of Deputies to Defend New Regime

Paris, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier summoned his radical Socialist party today to aid him to prevent civil war less the republic be forced to abdicate.

"The fundamentals of abdication," the Premier declared, "lie in the economic and financial crisis. The incident we are witnessing risks the crystallization of discontent."

He said he had taken up the government because a certain let-down was revealed by the operation of Serge Stavisky and the resultant collapse of the Bayonne municipal pawnshop.

Daladier declared he thought it "of remarkable that the swindler had slipped through the net could serve some betweentime with an attempt to overturn the regime."

The Premier pleaded with a tense Chamber of Deputies to "defend by voting."

He made ministerial declaration on which the cabinet asked a vote of confidence.

In a vibrant appeal to the united republicans to "support the firm measures of his young cabinet threatened by overthrow," Daladier said, "the Stavisky scandal paralyzed the chamber and demoralized the country, enabling adversaries to renew their attacks."

DR. SARGENT VISITS COUNTY

Federal Vocational Board Member Inspects Grimesland Vocational School

Dr. H. O. Sargent, of the Federal Vocational Department, Washington, D. C., spent several hours in Greenville today after making an inspection of the colored vocational school at Grimesland.

Dr. Sargent said he was highly gratified with the work being accomplished by the colored people of Grimesland area and that they were due to make much greater progress in the future. If the interest manifested at this time is to be taken as an index to the general situation.

Dr. Sargent, who was accompanied to Pitt County by Professor Simmons of A. & T. College for negroes in this State, viewed classes in the Grimesland school last night. One of the classes was composed of between forty and fifty men and another was comprised of women studying home economics problems.

Operation of the Grimesland school, Dr. Sargent said, has awakened interest in the production of hogs, corn and other products essential to a live-at-home program such as has been sponsored by State and Federal departments in recent years, and this has brought about quite an improvement in the economic life of the colored race.

Reduction of acreage of the principal money crops of this section, the Federal board member said, will give people more time for attention to production of food crops, and this should play an important part in making living at home easier than in recent years.

He especially expressed appreciation of interest exhibited in the cultivation of sorghum. The number of growers in that section alone, he said, has been increased from three to twenty-three during the last several months.

Dr. Sargent and Professor Simmons were to visit other vocational schools of the county before going to other sections.

SEEKS LARGE ATTENDANCE AT NEW BERN

District Kiwanis Governor Urges Local Clubmen to go to Inter-City Meet

D. R. S. McGeachy, president of the local Kiwanis Club, today received a letter from Ralph C. Barker, governor of the Seventh District of Kiwanis, urging large attendance of the Greenville club at the inter-city meeting to be held at New Bern Tuesday, February 13.

Several clubs in this part of the State also have been invited to attend the session, and indications are the meeting will be one of the best in years.

Owing to the unusual situation that has confronted most clubs the last two years, Governor Barker urged the local clubmen to attend the New Bern meeting in larger numbers and derive some of the inspiration of mingling with members from all over the district.

The club here, prior to receiving the letter from the district governor, accepted an invitation of the New Bern organization, and at the last meeting the chairman of the inter-city meeting, Dr. J. M. Barrett, was instructed to determine how many were planning to attend the gathering. Although this had not yet been accomplished, it was certain the club would be well represented.

Jonesboro, N. C., Feb. 6.—Miss Mary McPhail and Miss Ruth McPhail, members of a prominent family residing near Jones, were injured, the latter seriously, in an automobile collision which occurred early Sunday morning in Sanford.

The ladies were taken to the Lee Memorial Hospital, Sanford. Miss Mary was released after having received first-aid treatment for minor injuries she had sustained. Miss Ruth remained in the hospital with a badly hurt chest and other injuries all of the body.

George Richardson and Ernest Young, negroes, were occupants of the other car figuring in the collision. They were arrested by officers and placed in Lee County jail to await a hearing at the next term of Recorder's Court.

BOY JAILED AT WILSON ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT

Stantonsburg, Feb. 6.—Deputy Sheriff Russell Page Saturday night arrested Benny May Barnes, 16-year-old boy, on the charge of criminal assault upon Dora Holloman, daughter of Charles Holloman. DISCLOSURES PROMISED IN SENATE PROBE

Air Mail Investigators Attempt to Bar Joe Silverman From Business

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—(AP)—The possibility that senatorial disclosures in connection with the government investigation air mail contracts was intimated today following a move by Harry Woodring, Assistant Secretary of War, to bar Joseph Silverman, described as a dealer in Army surpluses, from doing business with the War Department. The Department of Justice today prepared to place evidence of alleged activities of Silverman, who maintains offices in New York and Washington, before the District of Columbia grand jury.

Leslie Garnett, U. S. District Attorney here, was quoted today by the Washington Post as saying that in all probability an indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the government would be asked before the grand jury. Officials said all possible effort would be made to surround the reason back of their move with mystery.

Woodring declined emphatically to discuss the status beyond saying they had a conference with Department of Justice officials.

RYAN SPEAKS AT ROTEL CLUB

Christian Minister Tells of Benefits that Should Result From Recognition

Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club here last night, and he gave the clubmen something to think about in the way of current history.

The program, in charge of Dr. K. B. Pace, chairman of the International Relations Committee, was confined to a discussion of American relations abroad, but Mr. Ryan was the only speaker of the evening.

He used as his subject "General Current History" and covered the subject from the World War until the present period. The economic situation of the various nations of the world was presented in an interesting manner. He referred particularly to America's recognition of Soviet Russia and expressed belief the action would bring good returns to both countries. Recognition of Cuba also was viewed in a favorable light, and the speaker believed that a closer understanding between the nations involving should be a natural outgrowth of recognition.

The Rotarians discussed plans for the celebration of the birthday of the organization which will take place Monday week, and indications are the occasion will be one of the best in years. In fact, the committee in charge of the program has promised this and members expect them to live up to it.

WRECK CASES BEFORE COURT

Several Charges of Reckless Driving Mark Sitting of County Court Today

County Court was in the midst of its regular weekly session today with a comparatively heavy docket. Indications were that work would be completed during the late afternoon or early tomorrow. Featuring the docket were a number of wreck cases chalked up by the highway patrol over the week-end. At least four men charged with reckless driving as a result of wrecks in various sections of the county faced hearing.

Then, also, there were the usual run of minor charges, such as larceny and assault, but only minor time was expected to be consumed in the hearing.

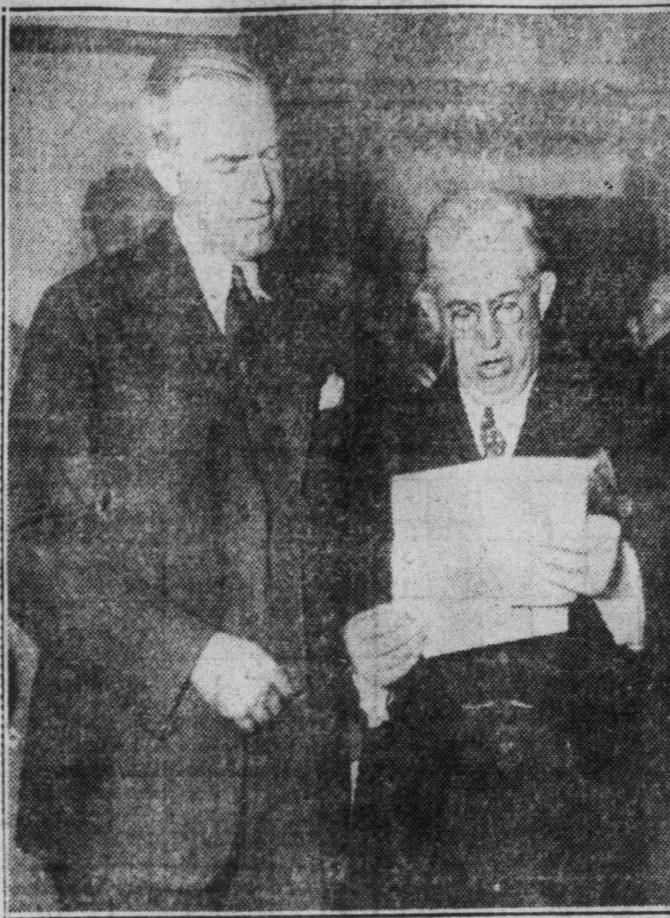

Court last week disposed of more than two dozen cases. The heavy docket resulted from a two-week sitting of Superior Court which prevented County Court from holding forth.

The usual crowd attending court was on hand this morning when work was started.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Call Adams For Questioning

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—A House naval affairs sub-committee today decided to call Charles Adams, former secretary of the navy, and two of his assistants to find out what they know about airplane contracts of which it had been told profits of as much as 50 per cent were made.

The assistants are David Ingalls, assistant secretary for aeronautics from 1929 to 1932, and Edward Warner, who held the same post from 1932 to 1929.

The decision was reached after Chairman Delaney of the group probing navy plane and engine contracts concluded that present officials of the navy had no direct knowledge of contracts awarded before last March.

SEED MEASURE PASSES HOUSE

$35,000,000 Appropriation For Loans To Growers of Nation This Year

Washington, O. C., Feb. 6.—The Seed Loan Bill carrying an appropriation for $35,000,000 for growers of the nation has been passed by the House.

The Seed Loan Bill was introduced by Representative Lindsey C. Warren, who, together with Senator Smith, of South Carolina, has sponsored the measure for the past three years. Both Representatives Warren and John H. Kerr of the Second District, spoke in advocacy of the bill which differed in two important particulars from the measure passed by the Senate last week.

The House bill appropriates $35,000,000 instead of the $45,000,000 carried in the Senate bill and the former amount is expected to prevail as it is the amount approved by the administration. The Senate bill also carried a limitation of fifty cents on all fees to be paid by farmers.

"The bill is less liberal than the one last year, but it is absolutely the best that could be secured," declared Mr. Warren. Judge Kerr, in his speech, regretted inability under the rule to offer amendments to make the House bill conform to the Senate measure.

The House bill contains one other provision not in the Senate bill which is also expected to be regained when the measure goes to conference this week. That provision restricts loans to farmers who have signed reduction agreements. Final passage is expected this week.

Mr. Warren had a sharp tilt with Representative Spell, the Republican leader, but most of the Republicans supported the measure. Last year the bill carried $85,000,000 and $57,000,000 was actually loaned with North Carolina receiving $6,000,000, the second highest amount for any State. Of that amount less than $500,000 remains unpaid.

DELAY MAKING UP LOST TIME ON CWA WORK

Director Here Informed That Lost Time Cannot be Made up Until Later

Workmen employed on CWA projects in this county who lost time recently on account of the bad weather will not be allowed to make up the lost time until later. K. T. Futrell, director of the CWA in this county, was informed today.

Mr. Futrell said that workmen lost considerable time because of the cold snap last week and that the payroll was short approximately $750 last week because of this.

Indications now are that the payroll was short approximately $700 against around $15,000 when workmen were employed under the original CWA schedule.

It was at first thought employees would be able to make up their lost time immediately, but the message received from the CWA head today means that this will have to wait until later before this can be done. How long this will be a matter of conjecture in view of the fact that some phases of the relief work have been held up pending action by Congress.

PUSH HIGHWAY AT BALTIMORE

North Carolina Seeks Scenic Highway Before CWA Conference Today

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 6.—(AP)—A delegation of North Carolinians headed by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus today described to Public Works Administration officials and Federal landscape architects and engineers the great scenic highway route that would be built in America.

The North Carolinians were giving their proposed location of the Federal highway to be built between Shenandoah and the Smoky Mountain National Park.

In brief, the argument is whether the 500-mile road shall run from the peaks of the Otter in Bedford County, Va., or the Great Smoky Mountain Park.

Yesterday Virginians who were agreed that the route should go from the Shenandoah to the peak of the other were both on the question of the route from the south. One wanted the route connected with the proposed North Carolina route, another the route connecting in North Carolina with the proposed ten routes to be presented tomorrow.

Both North Carolina and Tennessee want the main entrance to the park to be built in their States and the scenic highway to be built through their mountains.

NEW COTTON AMENDMENT IS FAVORED

Senate Agricultural Committee Agrees On Favorable Report On Gin License

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—(AP)—The Senate Agricultural Committee agreed today to report favorably an amendment to the Bankhead bill to control cotton production by eliminating the gin bill licensing provision and placing a tax of 12 cents a pound on cotton ginned in 1934 in excess of 9,000,000 bales.

Chairman Smith, of South Carolina, upon the motion of Senator Bankhead, D., of Alabama, referred the amended measure to a sub-committee of Senators from the cotton-producing States and delegated to the committee authority to report the bill to the Senate after some minor details had been arranged.

Bankhead pointed out the bill as amended was a revenue-raising measure and must originate in the House unless offered in the Senate amendment to the House revenue bill.

He said his brother, Representative Bankhead, of Alabama, would introduce the Smith bill in the House, but that the sub-committee also would report it to the Senate so that it could be offered as an amendment to the first revenue bill that comes over.

COTTON POOL LOANS HERE

Checks For $20,000 Await Pitt Growers In Office of Farm Director

Farmers who agreed to pool their cotton with the government this year were notified today that checks totalling $20,000 awaited them in the office of E. F. Arnold, director of the Pitt County Farm Department.

The checks, Mr. Arnold said, represent loans made by the government to growers who agreed to sign the government cotton reduction contracts this year. They carry four cents a pound on the staple.

Farmers who have failed to sign the acreage reduction contracts will not be able to obtain the loans unless they do sign. It will be necessary for all who signed the pool agreement to obtain a statement from their committeemen to show that they signed the acreage cut contract before they can draw this money, the farm director said.

Tenants, Mr. Arnold said, will be required to bring to his office their landlords before they will be able to obtain their checks.

The checks range all the way from $10 to $1,000, the farm director stated, and are expected to play an important part in work on the farm this year, especially among those who usually find it difficult to get planting under way before assistance comes from the outside.

Already Informed of One Manufacturer Making a 50 Per Cent Profit, Naval Affairs Committee Push Probe; Admiral King Shows Navy's Usual Procedure in Awarding Contracts

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—(AP)—A determination to explore every one of the many naval airplane and engine contracts awarded with competitive bidding spread today among members of the House Naval Affairs Committee.

Already informed that under one of the competitive bidding contracts for engines the manufacturer needed 50 per cent profit on a $10,000,000 order, committee members swung ahead with the investigation today to see if other such disclosures would be forthcoming.

Rear Admiral Ernest King, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, submitted a memorandum to the committee expressing the Navy's usual procedure, but Chairman Delaney, D., New York, of the sub-committee handling the probe, said: "More light is being brought on the whole subject."

King explained that before a naval plane is built manufacturers enter a design captain. If enough funds are available, the three best bids are chosen and experimental planes built. After these are tried the Navy awards a production contract to the builder of the most satisfactory plane.

Prices paid for both the experimental and production planes, King said, are negotiated with the successful contractor on the basis of labor, material and overhead.

"From past experience we can estimate the actual cost of producing planes and therefore know what is a fair price."

NO HELP FOR CHISELERS

The seed loan bill sponsored by Congressman Lindsay C. Warren was passed by Congress yesterday, making loans for production of crops again available to farmers this year. These loans will make it possible for farmers who could not otherwise borrow, to get funds with which to plant their crops and will be of great benefit to many. One of the features of the measure prohibits the making of loans to farmers who have declined to enter into the acreage reduction contracts, which is as it should be. No person who displays an unwillingness to co-operate with the government in its efforts to bring about recovery is entitled to government aid. There should be no help for those who will not play ball.

IT SHOULD BE WHOLE HOG OR NONE

Yesterday the Supreme Court handed down a decision invalidating all pending cases for violation of the federal dry laws and all convictions in which appeals are pending. This decision was rendered upon the grounds that the repeal of the national prohibition laws rendered the laws inoperative, but as we see it, the repeal should have no effect upon pending cases for violation of the law while it remained upon the statute books. If the Supreme Court could quash indictments for violation of a law before the law was repealed the same body should likewise free persons now serving sentences and return fines collected from other offenders. The latter action is just as sensible as the former, as we see it, but it is our opinion that neither is the right course. If persons violated the prohibition law while the law was in effect and the violators knew they were breaking the law we see no reason why they should now go free because since the date of their violation the law has been changed.

BLOND GODDESS A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grahame, explorer and Juan, a Mexican boy, are seeking their way into the Mexican jungle on a search for the lost city of Cortez. They find a strange, advanced civilization for a movie camera, anxious to make a picture of some old Mexican ruins, and before he dies of a wound inflicted by a native he says a large party is following. Frank fears Juan is a traitor, whom he later, may be the star of the picture and in the night, he and Juan crawl up a hill, behind which they hear suspicious noises.

Chapter 25

WHAT GRAHAME SAW

AS good a place as any to look upon what was happening on the other side, Frank thought, barring possible snakes under the loose rocks,—for vaguely he remembered having heard that the natives avoided these places usually. He rested against some piled slabs at the top. Their careful detour and ascent had taken the better part of an hour. Cautiously he adjusted his body so that he might peer over the top.

He stared with growing amazement. He lifted his head over the natural parapet, but, at a whispered word of caution from Juan, sank back.

The morning's mists were dissipating, but still they made a hazy background for a number of recangular stone buildings and puttees of civilization, their heads covered with sun-helmets. While their limbs were unhampered in any manner, the American noticed that the armed men that followed pressed them closely, with guns held at the alert.

The small column began the ascent of the pyramid. About a third of the way up one of the putteed figures seemed to lag. A guard, reversing his rifle, put the butt of the weapon against the prisoner's back and pushed with rough insistence.

The man turned, and Grahame saw him lash out with his fist with Anglo-Saxon abruptness. The guard fell, and rolled toward the bottom steps. A confusion followed. A rifle barrel glinted in the sun, and thwacked against the helmet of the aggressor. The head-covering spun like a white ball in the air as the man who was struck collapsed to the steps.

The other figure turned and struggled through the confusion to reach the comrade who had fallen. The guards closed about.

ABRUPTLY they separated. Raising his binoculars Grahame saw, descending from the house atop the pyramid, a tall figure, clad in sandals and breech-clout. The head angular stone buildings some distance ahead of them. For an instant Grahame thought that the jungle vapor was playing pranks with his sight.

People were moving about, clad in the traditional costume of the ancient Mayas. The men were naked except for short, tightly wound cloths about their middles. The women were covered by long loose gowns, of white material, cut square at the neck, and bordered with bright embroidery.

Both sexes wore sandals. The men's hair was worn long, cut squarely at the neck, and bound by a cloth around their foreheads; the women's hair fell down their backs in one long braid.

The amazing fact was that the skin of some of the inhabitants of this strange city was light,—brunze to be sure, but yet undoubtedly Caucasian.

The mists parted. The buildings, irregularly spaced, stretched ahead of Grahame for more than a mile,—they made an impressive approach to a huge pyramid that centered all the edifices like a gigantic triangular hub.

Its top was truncated and surmounted by a low squat building from which a thin column of smoke spiraled upward. Figures made tiny by distance crawled upon the side of the monument.

FOCUSING his gaze at the base of the pyramid, Grahame made out a large concourse of people. They had divided, and through the main they made, a smaller group of people were passing. From this group he glimpsed the glimmer of cartridge belts and rifles.

He saw a man at his side for his binoculars. He dragged them from their case, and as he looked through the powerful lenses the base of the pyramid leaped at him with startling distinctness.

Through a lens made by the narrow opening of a native's eyes, their belts were crisscrossed with cartridge belts. Each carried a rifle.

While the moving group there were the figures of two men, clad in was covered with an elaborate dress of feathers and plumes.

The guard had fallen back until it ringed the two foreign figures, one standing, the other prone. The tableau seemed to await a command from the descending native.

One of the guards stepped forward and with a gesture pulled the sun-helmet from the head of the standing prisoner.

Like streamers of light reflected from a golden mirror the hair fell from the head down past the shoulders. A woman! Grahame's eyes blurred with the intensity of his gaze, and with fingers that were moist with excitement, he adjusted the focus of his glasses.

"Juan!" he whispered hoarsely.

"Juan! It's a white woman!"

She half turned away from the semi-circle of guards. She seemed, almost, to be looking directly at Grahame. The American gasped. He felt a curious chill speed across his shoulders. He held his breath, and felt his skin tighten.

To some remote cave-living ancestor of it, the same sensation would have brought erect the coarse hair upon his body. To Grahame, the civilized, that fleeting sense of fear gave way immediately to hot anger,—and a great anxiety.

"Janice," he whispered. "Janice Kent!"

It was odd that he felt no curiosity about how she had come here. The distance between Hollywood and this remote spot in Yucatan, had been brushed away the instant he realized that it was she.

Indeed his concern for her had wiped away every thought except that she was in dire need, and that he, by the happiest stroke of luck in his lifetime, was there to supply that aid if it were humanly possible to do so.

He watched Janice bend and pick up her headgear, although she did not replace it. He saw them pick up the body of her fallen companion, and watched the group pass up the steps of the pyramid, and disappear into a doorway.

He waited an hour or two for their reappearance, but without result. (Copyright, 1934, by Herbert Jensen)

Tomorrow, Grahame and Juan ran into an ambush.

Whether any scandals of magnitude will be disclosed remains to be seen. If not, all will be well. If so, the administration will claim credit for making the exposure.

No politician doubts that Ogden Mills was flirting with 1936 when he made his keynote speech at Topeka. That means, so far as the politicians are concerned, that he is out in front, a fair target for rival fire from all quarters.

No man in such a position can expect to escape a bombardment, but in Mills' case the shooting may be half-hearted for the moment. Most party men believe it is far

Probably the first real cannonading will take place in New York State, where both Representative Snell and Representative Wadsworth are mentioned along with Mills as favorite sons. It might turn into a four-cornered battle if Mayor LaGuardia decided to build up his own Republican state organization.

Underneath, Mills' opening salvo will mean a lot of Republican activity which the public won't hear about. Every republican who has presidential aspirations—and there are many varieties of such Republicans scattered from coast to coast—will be gin looking around.

The general agreement, privately, is that it is too early for a public start, but that doesn't stop candidates from making underground preparations once they begin to fear another fellow will be ahead of them.

All Republican plans are being made on the assumption that Mr. Roosevelt will be the man to beat in 1936.

Not only custom, but the fact of his present domination of his party, are accepted by the politicians as forecasting his renomination.

Republican aspirants, therefore, will be measured according to their supposed ability to hold the eastern states where Hoover was strongest in 1932 and at the same time have sufficient appeal to the west to indicate a winning combination of electoral votes.

TO HOLD HEARING SOON FOR MRS. RUBY GRICE

Goldensboro, N. C., Feb. 6.—A habeas corpus hearing for Mrs. Ruby Grice, widow of Herbert Grice, will be held probably on Wednesday, her attorney, Senator Hugh Dortch, stated on Monday. Mr. Dortch said that he would take out papers for this hearing not later than Tuesday, but that he would not decide on a place for the hearing until Attorney N. W. Outlaw, his associate in the defense of Mrs. Grice, returns to Goldensboro, after having been on a business trip out of the city.

Mrs. Grice had been out on bond since some time in November on a charge of complicity in the murder of her husband. On Friday night, following the conviction of Rufus Satterfield for murder in the first degree of Mr. Grice, the charge against Mrs. Grice was changed to a charge of murder, and she was re-arrested and placed in the Wayne County jail without privilege of bond.

TEAKETTLE SOOT KEEPS STOVE'S NICKEL GLEAMING

When you clean the stove, first wipe it off with a cloth dipped in vinegar, following with the polish. A very thrifty and effective way to keep the nickel parts of the stove shining is to use the soot that collects on the bottom of the teakettle as cleaning material.

Statistics Show Halt In Series Of Declines

New York.—(AP)—Trade and production increases as shown in the monthly report of the National Industrial Conference Board marked the end of a five-month series of declines.

Automobile production in the United States and Canada advanced sharply in December over November, the board reported, but not so much as in corresponding periods of the two years.

Building and engineering construction in December showed continued advances started in August, and additional advances appeared in the first two weeks of January. The November to December gain of 27.6 per cent brought dollar value of awards to a level 155 per cent above a year ago. Factory construction increased sharply in December.

Awards for public works and utilities construction advanced 20 per cent over November, bringing dollar value of contract awards to a level almost ten times as high as April and more than three times as high as the December, 1932, total.

Steel production advanced in December over November after four months of decline. The rise of 22.8 per cent brought the average daily production to a level 124 per cent above a year ago.

Electric power production advanced 1 per cent in December over the previous month. Freight shipments showed a December loss of 10.4 per cent against a seasonal loss expectation of 13 per cent.

The dollar volume of department store turn-over increased 56 per cent against a normal seasonal advance of 40 per cent. Prices of department store items were off 0.2 per cent, the first decline since April, the price level averaging 19.2 per cent over December, 1932.

CWA TENANT PLAN IS LITTLE USED IN LEE

Sanford, Feb. 6.—The local CWA office reports that comparatively few Lee county farmers are making applications for farm labor under the government plan for furnishing help for making crops.

Under this plan the tenant is given seed, clothes, food and medicine by the relief agency, and is required to plant a garden of sufficient size to supply his family with vegetables during the spring and summer, and to can enough for next winter's supply. The canning to be done under supervision of competent advisers, supplied by the home demonstration department. The tenant is to work under the usual rules of division of the crop with his landlord, but cannot place a mortgage on it.

FRANK SNYDER DIES AS AIRPLANE FALLS

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Frank M. Snyder, 36, former stunt and racing pilot, and Frank Dixon Smith, 35, chief electrician of the Virginian Railway coal piers and an air enthusiast and pilot, were killed instantly yesterday afternoon about 5:20 o'clock when their light monoplane in which they had been stunting crashed into a plowed field several hundred yards from the Tidewater airport, of which Snyder was manager.

Eye-witnesses of the accident said the right wing of the plane crumpled at about 1,000 feet, just as the fliers were completing their third loop, and that the plane went into a tailspin and smashed nose-first into the soft earth of the field. Among those at the flying field when the accident occurred were Smith's wife, Mrs. Theresa Lawson Smith, and their five children, all of whom witnessed the tragedy.

Stabilization Test Held Inconclusive

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)
New York.—(AP)—Sixteen thousand Americans, sterilized legally in the last twenty-five years, have failed to give science the key to social uplift now sought anew in Germany's laws.

Some Hold 25,000,000 Unit

Dr. Landman is on the faculty of the College of the City of New York. An author of books on sterilization, he makes his latest report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Sees 'Glaring Discrepancy'

"The execution of the various human sterilization laws reveals a glaring discrepancy between science and fact," Dr. Landman states. "In fifteen States of the United States reporting, 6,246 compulsory sterilization operations were performed on insane persons, 2,938 on feeble-minded persons, fifty-five on persons suffering from epilepsy, sixteen on criminals and five on those suffering from nervous disorders."

Mental Deficiencies Inherited

"Certainly, individuals classed as criminals with no hereditary mental ailment should not be sterilized. Most eugenists are in agreement that psychoses or mental diseases are acquired rather than inherited, but the preponderance of opinion is in favor of the theory that the mental deficiencies are inherited."

GIRL IS WOUNDED BY DRUNK NEGRO

Roanoke Rapids, N. C., Feb. 6.—Mary Elizabeth Parker, 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. James Parker, of Roanoke Junction, is in a local hospital seriously wounded by a bullet meant for someone else. The shot was fired at Dock Pinder, young white man, by Willie Jones, negro, in Piner's kitchen, where the child was standing at the time. Jones was said to have been under the influence of whiskey.

What the shooting was about no one knows, but the negro has a very bad reputation, having served several road terms and in the penitentiary. Piner stated that the negro came to his house and asked for him. His mother told the negro her son just had stepped out. When Piner walked in a few minutes later Jones pulled out a revolver and fired at him. The bullet taking effect in the Parker girl's shoulder, passing through and hitting the wall, then dropped to the floor.

"SELLING CALLS FOR HEALTHY NERVES, TOO—MR. MARKSMAN" Kenneth B. Logan, Salesman, of Scarsdale, N. Y., says: "The selling game calls for healthy nerves just as much as being a wonderful marksman. Meeting people all day long... trying to turn prospects into customers... the life of a salesman certainly tells on the nerves! I smoke most of the time—but I smoke only Camels, and I'll tell you why I say only Camels! Camels don't upset my nerves—and no cigarette can match Camels on flavor, either." Virgil Richard, Champion Sharpshooter, says: "I've been smoking for years and had no trouble in keeping my nerves in shape for making record scores. That's because I have long been a Camel smoker. Camels are much milder, and never interfere with my nerves." CAMEL'S COSTLIEST TOBACCOS NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES... NEVER TIRE YOUR TASTE TUNE IN! CAMEL CARAVAN featuring Glen Gray's CASA LOMA Orchestra and other Headliners Every Tuesday and Thursday at 10 P. M., E.S.T.—9 P. M., C.S.T.—8 P. M., M.S.T.—7 P. How Are YOUR Nerves? Does your job sometimes get you down? Do you feel tired? Irritable? Ready to "blow up" any minute... because of raw nerves? Try to get enough sleep. Eat sensibly. And get a fresh slant on your smoking by turning to Camels. Much has been said on the subject of tobacco quality. But Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand. That statement is conclusive. And it represents an important benefit that nervous people should not overlook! Begin to smoke Camels. Taste those finer tobaccos. Notice their mildness. You will be delighted to find that Camels do not upset your nerves... or tire your taste. A MATCHLESS BLEND. TURKISH & DOMESTIC GIGARETTES. A MATCHLESS BLEND.
