Scotland. It was obvious that sooner or later someone would strike a balance between the difficult Scottish dialect of Robert Burns and English, and produce a novel about Scotland that an outsider could read without a glossary.

There have been several birthday parties in the neighborhood since our last write-up. Master John Wyatt, Tyson celebrated his seventh birthday by entertaining sixteen of his little playmates.

A lovely birthday cake with seven candles was the center of attraction. The little guests were served candies, sandwiches and an iced drink. John Wyatt received many nice presents.

Master Burney Warren Manning entertained a large number of boys and girls at a most enjoyable birthday party in honor of his eleventh birthday last Thursday night.

The Young People's Class of Piney Grove Church held their first meeting of the year at the home of their teacher, Mrs. R. P. Tyson, last Tuesday night.

Several interesting games and contests were enjoyed, after which chicken salad sandwiches and hot chocolate was served.

The members of the class and several invited guests enjoyed this occasion. The club house was the scene of much merriment last Friday night when eighteen members of the Junior Class of Red Oak Sunday School had their class party.

A cheery fire was made in the open fireplace and spread its glow and warmth to the furthest corners of "the little log cabin." It was bitter cold but that did not chill the ardor of those who were brave enough to venture out.

Games, contests and stunts were enjoyed, after which fruit and candy was served. There were 35 members in this class, which was taught by Miss Ella May, and since it was so large they decided to make two classes—a boys' class and a girls' class.

Miss May will continue to teach the girls' class, and the boys' class will have as their teacher Mr. Tom Manning. They have a class room of their own and we know that they are going to do good work from now on.

We are expecting a large crowd at Sunday school next Sunday, as it is the fourth Sunday and we will have Mr. Tyer to preach for us. Our superintendent has said that he couldn't be there, and so the Sunday school hour will be in charge of our assistant superintendent, Clifton Crawford.

Any young people, married or single, who are not members of any other Sunday school class, are given a hearty invitation to become members of this class.

Tips on CONTRACT

By TOM O'NEIL. Hidden Holes. There comes from the Marine and Field Club, Brooklyn, a hand which was the cause of a wordy argument between partners, of whom one opened with a suit bid of two and the other let the bidding die so that a slam contract could not be reached.

The declarer took all the tricks by a pseudo-squeeze, which illustrates that it is a good thing to have the weaker hand dummy, instead of the strong hand, so that holes cannot be detected by the opposition.

Here was the hand: South started with an offer of two hearts. The opposition naturally passed. North bid two no trump. South offered three hearts. Much to South's indignation, North passed, the alibi being that he had an erroneous idea there was a part score.

"Just for that," remarked South, "I'll take all the tricks." West opened the club three, which was covered by North's jack. West's queen and South's ace. Of course now the hand is a laydown for 12 tricks of the dummy should be entered via the heart queen, a spade discarded on the club ace and a diamond trick lost.

South, however, saw a way that might give him all the tricks. He led over to the heart queen and at the risk of inability to re-enter North's hand returned to his own via a heart. He played the ace of spades and then ran the rest of the trump.

West had to find five discards of the run of hearts, choosing from four clubs to the queen and two diamonds to the king. The spade knave was one discard. He felt he had to keep the king because South might be trying to make a low trumps. Three clubs were natural discards to shed, but he feared the ten must be protected by his fifth discard, therefore he kept a diamond.

That was all the declarer could do. He led the ace and king of diamonds, the queen dropping in. Then the North hand was entered with a diamond to take the last trick with a diamond and the king of clubs.

It was a hard guess for West what to hold, but had the contract been seven no trump with North playing the hand and the powerful South cards exposed the pseudo-squeeze never would have been effective, since the diamond situation would have been obvious.

The right gambling contract was seven hearts despite the lure of the 150 count for four aces at no trump contract.

Opposite a sound opening suit bid of two a bid of three no trump by North might have been justified. In that case South would bid four hearts and North could offer five hearts to show support for a strong trump suit. Then South could have bid six hearts in safety and seven on a chance since the raise in trumps would show the the hearts were not bunched against him and the three no trump over two hearts would show that North held approximately a quick trick plus.

Special Airmails. Special surcharge on four values each of Italy and Tripolitania airmails were issued for the first flight direct from Rome to Buenos Aires which ended with a crackup.

The surcharge in black, on the regular airmails, consists, in addition to a revaluation, of an airplane in flight and a brief description of the purpose of the stamps. Values on the two sets are identical, ranging from two to ten lire.

New Haiti Set. New stamps for regular postage as well as air mail are announced by the republic of Haiti. The airmails, two thirds longer than the regular postage stamps, are for 50 centimes and one gourde. The regular postage pictures President Vincent on the three-centimes and various scenes on the others, consisting of five, ten, 25, 50 and 62 1/2 centimes and one gourde.

DIES FROM INJURIES IN MOTOR ACCIDENT. Greensboro, Feb. 20—(AP)—James Silvester Edwards, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Edwards, died in a hospital here last night from injuries sustained when struck by an automobile on the Winston-Salem highway west of Greensboro.

W. M. B. BROWN, M. D. Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Examination For Glasses. 319-325 National Bank Bldg. Office Hours: 9-12:30; 2-4 Wednesday 9-1

(whose real name is Leslie Mitchell) has done it. "Cloud Howe" is the book, and it is the story of a young minister struggling against the effect of an industrial depression on one hand and against recurring periods of doubt on the other. It also is the story of the minister's wife, who has buried young love with her first husband, and now tries to make something fine and lasting of her second love.

Many will feel that "Cloud Howe," the second volume of a trilogy, is the most important novel out of Scotland in a decade.

More Books. Mary Cavendish Gore has put the one-side life and nasty gossip of a small California artist's colony on paper in her "Mad Hatter's Village" in a quite effective way.

The book depends upon making an essentially unreal person seem possible, but it has moments of barncness—but not many of them.

And there are two books of adventure very much worth looking into, the first being "First Over Everest," the story of the two flights over the world's highest mountains as told by a number of the men concerned with the feat.

Although one should not speak of it as a feat; the writers are very anxious that their exploit be valued as a scientific achievement rather than as a "stunt." The book is illustrated by a remarkable series of air photographs.

Jane Harvey Houlson's "Blue Blazes" is the other adventure book and Mrs. Houlson writes about the group of islands off Honduras. There are battles with sharks and caves full of bats and curious people galore, although there is not much that will raise the hair of those readers who insist on escaping death on every page.

The hold that stamp collecting has on boys and girls of every age—even 75—has been demonstrated by the crowds flocking to the National Stamp exposition in New York's Rockefeller Center.

Reports of a daily attendance average close to 18,000 indicated the interest among collectors and would-be collectors.

A big attraction to the visitors who come from as far west as Minnesota—was the demonstration of stamp printing by the U. S. government, coupled with the fact that special un gummed imperforates of the Byrd three-cent stamp in sheets of six were on sale.

In addition there was a private display of stamp making and stamp machinery.

Many Fine Collections. Collections of all sorts were on hand, including that of Alfred Litch-tensen of New York made up primarily of Cape of Good Hope triangles. In this group is what experts rate as the "world's finest philatelic piece," an envelope containing a block of four triangles of 1861, consisting of three one-penny red stamps and a four-penny red error.

Slightly the one-penny is valued at $8 and the four-penny red at $12.50, but in view of the fact that the group is in an unreserved block and on a cover besides its value is close to $50,000.

Also there was the U. S. collection of Edward S. Knapp of New York consisting of fine copies of rare early issues and covers as well as the group of civil war patriotic covers displayed by H. M. Clark of New York.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS. By ROBBIN COONS. Hollywood—(AP)—The multiplying audience that awaits any Katharine Hepburn picture nowadays will find her new vehicle "Spitfire" far removed in theme from "Little Women."

"Spitfire" set in the hill backwoods of Dixie, is like the star's previous success, "Morning Glory," in one respect—it is a character study more than a story. But where "Morning Glory" revealed the heart of a girl with acting ambitions, "Spitfire" shows a mountain girl whose spirit shines through superstition and ignorance.

In her portrait Miss Hepburn makes no compromise with customary cinematic vanities. Whatever she has of beauty is there, but the only glamor is that of an actress submerged in an unusual role.

The girl is Trigger, who swears with childlike faith, the next. She is a combination of healthy wild animal and proper after truth. She steals as innocently as she prays. By her code it is all right to steal a baby if its parents are letting it die.

HIGH POINT HOSPITALS ASK FOR PWA LOANS. High Point, Feb. 20—Applications for PWA loans totaling $75,000 have been filed by the two local hospitals which propose to finance plant expansions which will enhance considerably the city's hospitalization facilities.

The Burrus Memorial hospital trustees are asking a loan of $47,000 with which to complete the west wing of the hospital and increase the bed capacity 20 per cent as well as providing new administrative offices for the institution and hydrotherapy department.

The project will not interfere with plans of the Duke Foundation to erect a large new plant here in the next few years it was stated by Dr. J. T. Burrus.

The Guilford General Hospital is asking a loan of $35,000 with which it is proposed to double the present capacity of the institution by the erection of a modern, fireproof unit at the front of the present building and modernization throughout of the older part of the plant.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE DOES $10,000 DAMAGE. Raeford, Feb. 20—Fire was discovered in the Johnson-Sewell building on Main Street here Sunday morning about 4 o'clock and damage conservatively estimated at $10,000 was done.

The fire started in Raeford barber shop, from a defective flue. It is thought, and spread to the next two store rooms, one unoccupied and the other occupied by Sam Epstein's department store. The Kiwanis Hall on the second floor was destroyed and this was the greatest individual loss, perhaps, as it was well equipped with new furnishings.

Epstein kept a small stock lately, and the barber shop's furnishings was partly destroyed. Both Fayetteville and Red Springs fire departments were called, and both responded promptly, and rendered assistance in preventing a further spread of the flames.

SECRETARY WALLACE IS CHEROKEE VISITOR. Cherokee, Feb. 20—(AP)—Holly A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, spent part of Saturday and Sunday at Cherokee, capital of the eastern band of Cherokee Indians, as the guest of Superintendent E. L. Spalsbury.

While here Mr. Wallace and members of his party, accompanied by Superintendent Spalsbury, motored to a number of places in the reservation. He also visited Smokemont in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

But where "Morning Glory" revealed the heart of a girl with acting ambitions, "Spitfire" shows a mountain girl whose spirit shines through superstition and ignorance.

In her portrait Miss Hepburn makes no compromise with customary cinematic vanities. Whatever she has of beauty is there, but the only glamor is that of an actress submerged in an unusual role.

The girl is Trigger, who swears with childlike faith, the next. She is a combination of healthy wild animal and proper after truth. She steals as innocently as she prays. By her code it is all right to steal a baby if its parents are letting it die.

When she does, the trouble starts. Two engineers from the big city (Ralph Bellamy and Robert Young) supply contrast with the mountain natives, and love interest. They give effective portrayals, but the picture is all Hepburn.

Lionel Barrymore's fondness for napping between scenes inspired a "gag" in which a whole set took part—but Lionel topped the "gag."

While making "Carolina" with Janet Gaynor, Barrymore delayed the company for some time while showing a friend some etchings. When he finally reported on the set, a strange sight met his eyes.

Prostrate on the floor, curling over benches, slumped into chairs, or leaning at tables, every man and woman on the set was stretched out in profound "slumber."

Lionel gazed around thoughtfully. Then without a word he selected a spot, reclined comfortably and joined the party.

Col. Roscoe Turner, the speed flier, saw Ben Lyon, who is an air reserve officer, at the Busby Berkeley-Merna Kennedy wedding.

"I see where you're going to fly the air mail now," he twitted Ben. "Yeah, you're going to start me on postal cards. If I make good on that they'll let me carry letters," was Lyon's comeback.

Felt Much Better By Taking Cardui. "I took Cardui at two different times for a run-down condition," writes Mrs. P. M. Deason, of Tyler, Texas. "I would get nervous and could not sleep well. This would make me feel badly in daytime. I read about Cardui and thought it would be a good idea to take it. I took eight bottles one time and six another. I felt much better after taking it and was able to sleep. If you are weak, run-down, nervous, take Cardui, for women."

New York Cotton

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened fairly steady 8 to 12 decline on lower Liverpool cables and undetermined liquidation.

There was also further scattered liquidation in the dealings and selling to houses with both Liverpool and new orders connections on the initial decline of 11.12 for May and 12.42 for October.

Later prices showed rallies of 3 to 4 points from the lowest at the end of the first half hour.

Offerings from abroad tapered off after the close of Liverpool which remained open until 11.30 owing to the delay in the opening here.

Prices held late in the morning. At midday May was selling around 12.18 and October 12.50 or four to five points net lower.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The stock market was literally snow bound today and prices tended to breeze in a narrow groove as trading struggled in through one of the first storms of the year.

With most suburban trains delayed by an unusually heavy overnight snow fall and a subsequent cold wave the exchange governors postponed the opening of the market from 10 a. m. to 11 in order that many beleaguered members living out of the metropolitan district could reach the city.

There was only scattering of specialists on the floor when trading did start.

There was a moderate rally in the aircraft and rails.

Sterling reacted rather sharply in terms of the dollar but there was little change in the gold securities. Bonds were listless.

Buying was spotty, the general rank and file holding to a narrow fluctuations. Transfers were 1,250,000 shares.

Late News Flashes

Continued from Page One—principle could be applied to tobacco by allotting poundage of farmers on the same system that the cotton bill contemplates allotting baleage. A heavy tax would be placed on all tobacco sold up to the red legislation.

Under the voluntary acreage cut plan, Hall said it is possible for new growers and non-cooperatives to desert efforts to limit this year's crop to 500,000,000 pounds of fine cured tobacco.

He pointed out the voluntary plan included a poundage allotment based on the three years' average production of the and included in the program.

In addition to Hall, other members of the advisory board here are J. Winslow, of Greenville; Lionel Veil, Goldsboro; E. G. Moss, O. O. Ford and Hunter Pope, Enfield; E. Bullock, Oxford warehouseman, who also accompanied the members.

Seek Vote On Bonus Issue. Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Any man that the Roosevelt wish is law with the national legislators snapped today beneath the weight of 15 signatures to force a vote March 10 on cash redemption of the bonus. Desultory debate on the tax bill and the representatives eyeing a sentiment on Speaker Rainey's desk with eyebrows being raised now and then as one and then another member would sign.

Finally the requisite number of names was affixed, despite the fact as not lost sight of that fall will bring another election. Undisturbed the bonus agitation for the moment the Senate supported the administration in referring to committee the Ny resolution for data on the financial interest of NRA officials. The vote was 41 to 31. Amid reports of business better-

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

There is an engaging frankness about Mr. William Harold Terry, the field boss of the world champion Giants. He may not always consider the diplomatic import of his words, perhaps, but he says what he thinks, fairly and squarely. He does not hedge if a proposition is put to him point blank. What he does not like baseball with the sort of deadly seriousness that is sometimes fatal to the disposition of those connected with it.

Curious a fanfest, Memphis Bill was outlining his views of rival clubs, their strength and weakness of one forthcoming National League pennant race. He was not giving the Giants any the worst of it of course, but Terry's is the sort of copiousness that is contagious. It is easy to see how and why players on Terry's club go at their jobs with a little extra enthusiasm, a little more confidence than usual in the man leading them.

Speaking of one of the players who has been added to the roster this winter, for instance, Terry said: "He will do us a lot of good if he catches the spirit of our club. Otherwise he probably won't be around long."

For want of another definition, it's known as the "Blondie Ryan Spirit." The effervescent shortstop of the Giants, already famous for his use of the telegraph wires, gave his manager a laugh during an episode in which Bill's car was picked up by the Memphis police this winter. Ryan wired: "Why don't you buy your license plates?"

Not Afraid of Klein. "The three clubs that figure to give us the most trouble again are the Cubs, the Pirates and Cardinals," declared Terry. "The Cubs got the best of the winter deals by acquiring Chuck Klein, but I do not think he will go quite so well in Wrigley Field as he did over in Philadelphia."

Why? Because that Cub park is the toughest spot for left-handed pull hitters in the big leagues. The bleacher background makes it almost impossible sometimes to see the pitcher's delivery of the ball. That's why Babe Herman hasn't hit so well there and I look for Klein's batting average to do a lot of shrinking, even with the livelier ball to wallop.

"I'm not so sure, either, that the Pirates will find Red Lucas worth as much as they gave to Cincinnati for him. The Redhead is a real work-horse, but the livelier ball is not going to improve his pitching effectiveness. Also, the Pirates parted with a pretty good young second baseman in Tony Piet."

The Cardinals have some real ball players. They should get better hitting, with fellows like Davis, Medwick and Martz all taking a toe-hold, and they have at least two fine pitchers. But they are all going to take pitching lessons again from the Giants. Hubbell, Schumacher, Parmelee and Fitzsimmons will be the class of the league, with any kind of ball."

Arkansas Curb On Bank's Cash Cuts Bandit Toll

Little Rock, Ark.—(AP)—It looks as though the profit has been taken out of bank robbing in Arkansas as the result of a drastic order of Marion Wasson, state bank commissioner, which has been in force seven months.

Last August an order was issued prohibiting a bank from having on hand more than 1 per cent of its total deposits in cash, of which only 20 per cent could be kept in tellers' cages.

Statistics furnished by Robert E. Wait, secretary of the Arkansas Bankers Association, show that since the order was promulgated there have been only six bank robberies in Arkansas, in which the banks' lost $5,258.06.

Three were state banks, and the others were national banks, which have generally complied with the order, although not required to do so.

During the seven months prior to the August order, 26 robberies occurred, in which $92,595 was taken.

Under provisions of the 1933 "dictatorial" banking act of the legislature cashiers who violated orders for restricting cash on hand were discharged.

Insurance companies, which had virtually withdrawn protection for bank cash, came to terms, and now this form of protection has been accorded.

FELLAHEEN GOLDEN HOARD BROUGHT OUT OF HIDING

Cairo — (AP) — Because of the world demand for gold, the "Fellaheen"—Egyptian laborers — have been bringing out their ornaments and hoarded coin.

The movement swelled so rapidly says a report of the British department of overseas trade, that the Egyptian government fixed a rate of purchase and bought the gold.

Gold to the value of $24,323,845 at par has been bought, of which $9,026,916 was exported, mostly to the United Kingdom.

GRUESOME SULTANIC JAILS DOOMED BY TURKISH PLAN

Ankara—(AP)—Prison reform is taking a tardy but firm place on Mustapha Kemal's program for Turkey. Modern prisons and the country's first penitentiary are to replace the gruesome medieval jails left over from the dark regime of the sultans.

Of the 193,000 prisoners in Turkey, only a small minority are incarcerated in decent buildings. The others lie in ramshackle disease-ridden jails with no food except that which is sent in by friends.

Still Search For Stepson In Slaying

(Continued From Page One) Harrington was said to have been seen with his stepfather Saturday afternoon and attempted to buy a pint of whiskey on the north side of Tar river Saturday night about 1 o'clock. He was believed to have headed for New York at the time.

Gurganus' body was discovered resting against the highway dam. Three bullets had been fired into his head producing what was believed to have been instantaneous death.

Officers were reticent concerning any alleged connection which Harrington may have had with the crime, but admitted they wanted him for questioning. No motive has been advanced for the slaying.

Birthday Party Given By Rotes

He said: "Rotary has shown a marked advance since its beginning in Greenville. The programs have improved immensely; the standards of conduct have improved in an effective manner."

"Rotary has proven itself to be one of the greatest organizations of the world and wherever you find it there is brought together in finest fellowship a cross section of the community where it lives. It succeeds in producing a more intimate knowledge of each other's life and work, and brings the individual members closer to each other. It is truly a democratic organization since everyone in it finds themselves upon an equal footing. To all members, whether professional or business men, it is a god-send many times and makes possible the realization of the worthwhileness of fellowmen. That is a valuable contribution to our lives."

"Another thing Rotary does for us, and therefore, gives it meaning to us, is the establishment of friendships. How keenly the world suffers for lack of it today. It produces cooperation, such as the business and professional men of the world need. The world waits patiently for full demonstration of Rotary's motto: "Service Above Self." Washington, our first President of these United States, once said, "Honesty is the best policy." So, even if no higher motive than that of policy may actuate the pursuance of "honesty" in one's life that is to be commended. However, a higher and fuller demonstration of that policy can be found in an inner spirit that sustains it in action. Just so with Rotary's fine motto: "It is a spirit, indefinable, but real, that thrusts this uplifting policy out into our everyday business of living.

"Through the medium of the 'Boys' Work' Rotary seeks to reach out into the life of today's youth and to implant the seeds that will bring forth a harvest of future Rotarians, young men imbued with Rotary's spirit, whether they ever become affiliated with the actual organization or not. Here is one of the greatest opportunities to accomplish a real service. Many say let the school, the home, the church do these things. Truly they are doing the very best then can in each field and yet they are not touching the youth in their complete life. There is another side when the boy is out of the school, and home, and church, when he is on the street. Education is a continuous process, and it behooves Rotary to so arrange the community environment that it will help the youth to plant his feet firmly in a path that leads to an ennobled life. We must throw around them the right kind of community life.

"Rotary is not confined to Greenville, to Pitt county, to North Carolina, or the United States. It is world-wide in its scope and influence. Yet we see a terribly confused and baffled world today. Nations striving to arm and who are bowed down with debt burdens that stagger the mind to grasp their magnitude. Consequently, they are unable to utilize wealth for constructive purposes. What is Rotary's part here? We must use every honorable means to bring about a better understanding of nations until war shall cease; until it is removed as a menace. With a rest from such accumulating staggering burdens, nations can recover their equilibrium and with their feet planted upon a solid foundation march on together toward constructive peace and prosperity. Rotary owes it to the world to give this spirit of peace and good-will so desperately needed today. May we be ever true to this high and noble ideal."
