CWA WORKERS FACE NEW CUT COMING WEEK

Payroll Here Today Near Normal Despite Laying Off Of 342 Men this Week

Pitt county CWA employes today were to receive $11,500 for their week's work, but it is the last pay check three hundred and forty-two of them will receive because that number was laid off by order from Washington in the middle of the week.

The suspension of workers did not affect the payroll to any extent this week, but a marked decrease will be evident next pay day.

K. T. Furrill, CWA administrator here, said today that another reduction of workers was scheduled for the latter part of next week. He stated that he expected a telegram the first of the week advising how many are to be laid off. Although the cut is not expected to be as large as that of this week, it probably will involve around two hundred men.

The administrator said a telegram was received this morning asking for complete information regarding the number of projects already under way in this county, materials on hand and other facts in connection with the work. He was informed that no other projects would be approved until the information was in the hands of the department at Washington.

It is an effort on the part of the government to check up on what has been accomplished so that further activities in this connection may be pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

His funeral was held yesterday from Lebanon church.

NAVY PLANS TO SCRAP FORTS IN PHILIPPINES

Abandonment Of All Fortifications To Be Made in Case of Independence

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The navy department is quietly studying plans for abandonment of all naval and military fortifications and bases in the Philippines in event of the independence for the islands.

The withdrawal would place Carl Barber in Hawaii as the naval spearhead in the Pacific and would radically alter the American operations in the Far East. At the present the navy maintains a major fortification at the naval base at Carrizosa island in the entrance to Manila bay which is the headquarters for the Asiatic fleet.

In addition to this and other small naval stations, the government owns a dozen forts and army camps at which 5,000 regular army troops and 6,000 Philippine scouts are now stationed.

Government Considers Buying Back Territory Too Poor For Farming

By CARL C. CRAMER
Washington—(AP)—Uncle Sam, who gave away or sold for a song millions of acres from out of his apparently limitless frontier to get the land into cultivation by sturdy homesteaders, is preparing to buy part of it back to get it out of production.

But land economists in the Department of Agriculture who have laid the groundwork for the land purchase program, for which an initial allotment of $25,000,000 has been made, do not figure that the government will be "gypped" in the deal.

Millions of acres were sold years ago to swell public revenues, although the prices were so low the revenue was a disappointment. In buying it back Uncle Sam probably will not pay on the average, much more than the price at which he sold although, theoretically, the land has been "improved" these many years. Moreover, hundreds of thousands of acres were granted in payment of wages and pensions due ex-soldiers.

One of the reasons Uncle Sam is so willing to buy some of it back is that he has decided it was expensive, even as a gift, to those who received it. It is so poor that it is impossible for anyone, under ordinary conditions, to make a living from it by farming.

It is being wasted and lost because unsuited for cultivation, and it is proposed to put it under public ownership so that it can be used for other purposes and conserved. This land the government proposes to buy is called "submarginal"—that is, it is so unproductive that more effort is put into the land than the resulting crop is worth.

SEEKS TO TAX GOODS SENT TO THIS STATE

Governor Appeals for Legislation to Tax Interstate Merchandise Sales

Raleigh, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Governor Ehringhaus today asked North Carolina's 13 members of congress to support legislation to allow sales tax levies on interstate shipments of merchandise.

The proposed legislation was drawn by the State Revenue department and has been endorsed by sales tax officials of a number of states at Indianapolis early this week.

Henry McMillan, director of assessment and collection has turned the measure over to Congressman Lindsay Warren.

The proposed law looks toward the protection of the state in connection with tax legislation adopted by the General Assembly. Governor Ehringhaus said in a letter to the two Senators and seven Representatives from North Carolina.

"The bill, as you will observe, applies the principle of the Webb-Kenyon bill to the sales by outside merchants on merchandise for use in North Carolina by making them subject to the sales tax adopted by the last General Assembly.

SEE MOVE TO PUT SANDERS ON THE SHELF

Republican Leaders Planning to Run the Next Campaign "on Their Own"

Washington, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A quiet effort to shove Everett Sanders as chairman of the Republican national committee was ready today by political observers in the unprecedented decision by senate house leaders to fight next fall's campaign "on their own."

Chairman of the House and Senate Republican campaign committee announced yesterday they would combine to conduct the campaign together with the help of the national committee.

In the decision many observers thought they could see the political finger of McNary, of Oregon, the Senate Republican leader.

For a month he has been trying to prevent bitter factional roars in the party over the national committee chairmanship.

CIVIL COURT TO END TODAY

Work To Be Concluded This Afternoon After Disposition Of Land Suit

After disposing of the Farmville gin suit yesterday afternoon, civil court delved into the case of William Moye vs. Henry Moye, both colored, and Henry Moye vs. North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank, involving suit over a tract of land in the Farmville section.

The suit probably will be completed sometime this afternoon, after which Judge Daniels was expected to adjourn court and return to his home in Goldsboro.

William Moye is suing Henry Moye for a tract of land of which the latter is now in possession. Both claim they bought the land from the North Carolina Joint Stock Land Bank.

When Henry Moye refused to give up the property William Moye filed suit to gain possession. Henry then instituted suit against the land bank.

The case was begun about the noon hour yesterday after a jury returned a verdict for $600 in favor of T. B. King of Farmville against W. G. Ward, operator of a gin near King's home. The jury said the gin was a nuisance in the residential section, and further litigation probably is in prospect.

Two and a half days were required in disposing of the case, one of the longest-drawn-out of the term, but numbers of actions were cleared from the calendar during the first of the week.

Hazardous Job Of Flying Air Mail Tackled By Army

By ALEXANDER K. GEORGE

Washington.—(AP)—Aviation experts, governmental as well as commercial, are convinced that the army air corps in taking over transportation of the mails is tackling what one of them described as "a very tough and highly hazardous job."

Most aeronautic observers here believe that the army flyers are capable of successfully meeting the emergency but many veteran aviators privately express the opinion that at the outset some pilots will lose their lives and that there may be a slowing up in the air mail service.

Army Airmen Elated Nevertheless army pilots—enthusiastic aviators who have chafed at being "tied down" to desks and papered work—are obviously elated at the prospect of getting more service in the air.

Many have had training in "blind flying" and they are eager to pit their knowledge and dexterity at the controls against fog, night and other perils that beset him who flies the mail.

Listed as the army's major handicap is the lack of pilot personnel trained in airline work or familiar with the air mail routes. The high efficiency and safety records of the present air mail pilots are attributed largely to familiarity with routes they have flown day after day and night after night in all kinds of weather.

These pilots can spot all the landmarks, are expert in utilizing the various radio aids to flying and are so familiar with atmospheric conditions in their territory they often can tell weather "symptoms" hours in advance of governmental forecasts or warnings.

Adapt At Handling Ships Trained in tactical maneuvers, army fliers are rated very adept in handling their planes in almost any contingency but lack the experience of scheduled direct cross-country flying, particularly at night, such as is required for transportation of the mails.

Army planes are built for military purposes and generally do not have cargo facilities like those of the commercial planes which are designed, primarily, to carry as much "payload" as practicable. Most army cargo and observation planes cannot attain the average speed maintained by the multi-motored ships of the mail service.

Some of the new bombers and pursuit planes, however, are said to be fully as fast as the commercial air lines. Since they will carry no passengers and express, the slow-down of the army cargo planes could be offset, it is pointed out, by shortening the times for stops.

Equipped Airports One handicap which the air corps is rapidly trying to overcome is the lack of radio facilities which synchronize with the communication and direction service provided for the federal airways by the department of commerce. All frequencies used by the radio-equipped army planes are higher than those employed by airway radio stations and commercial planes.

The army however, has a staff of expert aeronautical radio men and many pilots who are well versed in handling wireless. Another advantage which the army has now but did not have when it pioneered the air mail service in 1918 is well equipped airports and lighted airways in nearly every part of the country.

Virtually all of the landing fields used by the mail planes are available for the army's carriers since the vast majority are municipally owned airports. Major bases of the air corps also are strategically located for providing planes for the primary air routes.

Obtain More Evidence In Jones Murder Case

Trenton, Feb. 24.—Frank Craft, 38-year-old Jones county farmer, who was mortally wounded by Jim W. Green, 45-year-old Jones county farmer and merchant, late Tuesday afternoon, did not enter Green's store prior to the fatal shooting, as has been stated.

According to the testimony at the preliminary hearing held here in the county courthouse Wednesday night, Craft first was seen in the road in front of Green's store and Green was standing on the steps of his store, in which his residence is also. They were heard cursing each other, according to several witnesses. Craft, with his right hand in his front pants pocket, ordered Green from the steps of his store in order to settle their differences, and then the shooting occurred.

Attorney Ed W. Summersill of Jacksonville, retained by friends of Craft, obtained a review of the case here yesterday before Magistrate McDaniel. Jimmy Hill, George Shepherd and Wesley Rouse were put on by the state. Attorney J. D. Larkins of Trenton, represented the defendant.

Green again was ordered held without bond. His attorneys announced they would seek his release on a writ of habeas corpus. Court meets in April.

New York Cotton

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—Cotton futures opened unchanged to two higher on steady Liverpool cables. The demand was slow and long and moderately.

May sold up to 12.21 and October 12.49 early or about unchanged to 3 points higher, but buyers were supplied by realizing liquidation and some Wall Street selling on the eastern stock market.

Offerings were not heavy but most of the trade buying was on the scale down order and prices sagged.

Futures closed unchanged to six lower; middling 12.40.

Table with columns: Open, Close, Prv. Cl. for various months (Mar, May, July, Oct, Dec, Jan).

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 24 (AP)—Stocks generally pointed down today although the selling was orderly in the face of considerable pessimistic sentiment in Wall Street.

A few scattered issues including the aircrafts showed resistance but the close on the whole was heavy.

The turnover for the session was 1,300,000 shares.

Market commentators attributed the reaction to the growing belief that rather drastic laws will be enacted by congress for control of speculation, to the report of labor difficulties in some of the motor plants and to the fear that governmental probes of various industries may follow and inquiry into alleged price fixing agreements by the packers.

Equities had little hope from commodities although wheat and cotton held steady. Silver and rubber eased a bit. Bonds particularly those of the secondary classification were inclined to follow stock in a reduction of prices. International dollar rates held to a narrow rule.

Must Reimburse Army.

Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—The house today adopted an amendment to the Mead-emergency Air Mail bill to provide for reimbursement to the army air corps by the postoffice department for planes and equipment destroyed while flying the air mail.

Preliminary to passage of the bill for transfer of funds and the like for the temporary army carriage of the mail arguments echoed against and in favor of the administration course.

Rep. Mott of Oregon said "arm flyers never should have been expected to do something for which they have not been trained."

Brown and Farley in Denials.

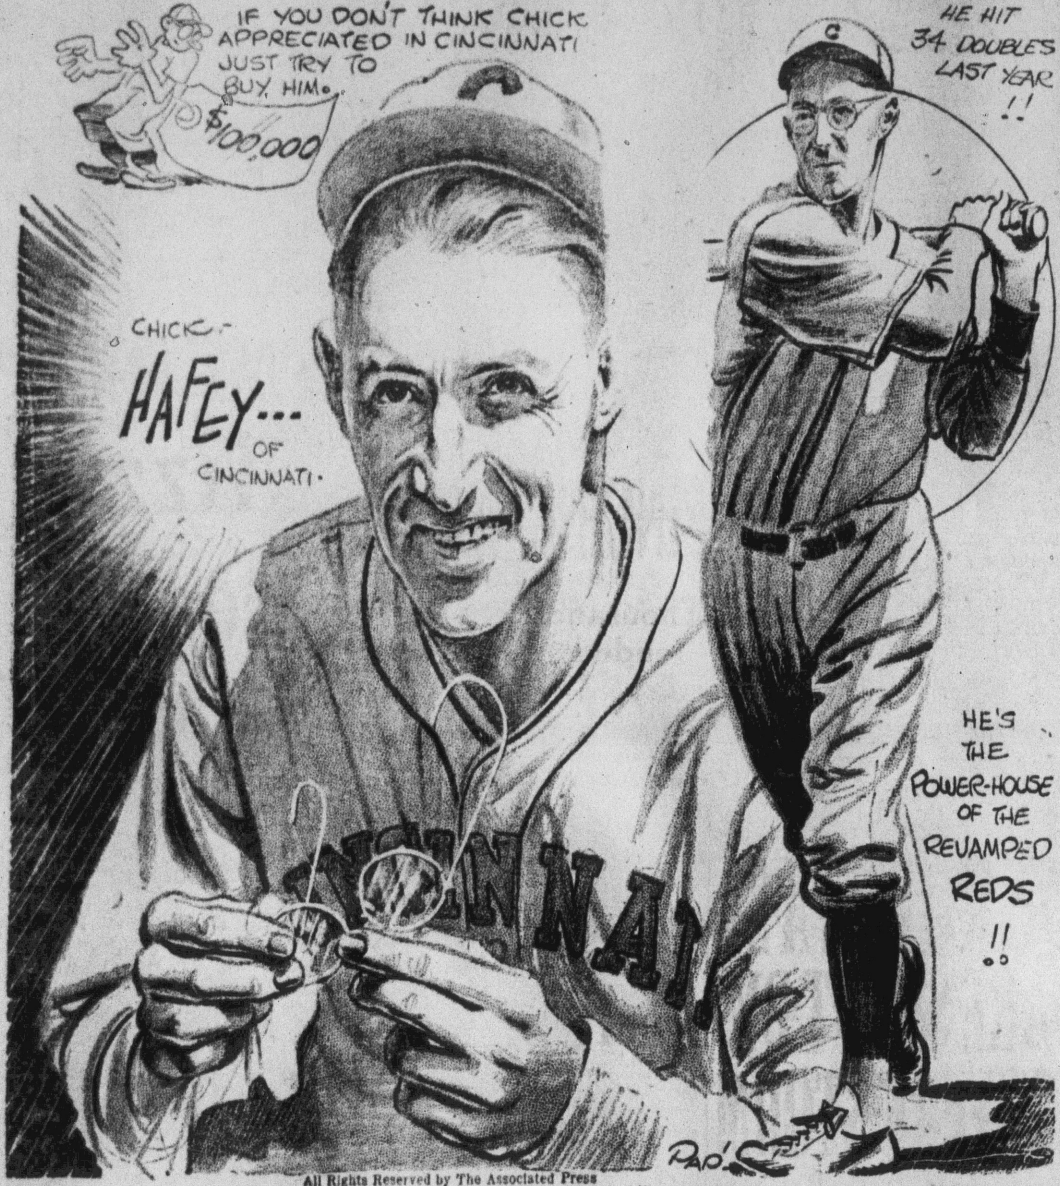

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—Denials were the order of the day today as the Senate air mail committee continued its hearings.

First, Walter Brown, postmaster general under Hoover, denied he had told the committee yesterday that James A. Farley, present postmaster general, recently had made a personal remark about Senator Black of Alabama, chairman of the committee.

Then Farley denied the same thing.

Farley further denied he had made a statement of a personal nature about any member of the committee.

He went on to deny there had been any collusion in the air mail contracts affairs since he took office, that there had been any talk of hitting below the belt at his conference with Brown or that he had made a statement he had no sympathy with political probes.

WANT TO MAKE JELLY? HERE ARE A FEW HINTS

If your jelly supply is running low, here are a few hints to be remembered. Large fruits such as apples, should be washed, cut in pieces, water added in sufficient quantity to cover the fruit and cooked until soft. Small fruit such as grapes and currants should be washed, stems and seeds picked out and put in a kettle. Break up by mashing with the potato masher and cook until soft.

MAKE YOUR FRUIT SALAD DIFFERENT THIS WAY

Candied fruits added to salad dressing combined with whipped cream makes a delicious topping for fruit or fruit gelatin salads. Try this at your next party.

Tri-Party Pact Gains Support In Scandinavia

Copenhagen (AP)—Anti-parliamentary moves in Europe and proposals for reforming the League of Nations have brought new thoughts of a Swedish-Norwegian-Danish entente.

The most concrete proposal has been advanced by Prof. Bertil Ohlin, Swedish economist and one-time lecturer at Yale University, who urges a tariff union and a defensive military alliance.

While his proposal has opened a widespread discussion, official comment has been guarded. "I always have wished the greatest economic cooperation between the Scandinavian nations," said Theodore Stauning, the Danish prime minister, "but am skeptical regarding a military alliance."

Per Albin Hansson, Swedish premier, said: "Time invites extended cooperation between the northern peoples. I agree with Stauning's comments on economic cooperation, though a defensive military pact, in my opinion, is inexpedient."

It is to the continued existence of the League of Nations with a change towards increased strength that most Scandinavians look.

Denmark strategically located for commercial life but in a bad position in any conflict between European powers, sees the league as the one bulwark against foreign aggression.

Germany's resignation from the League was looked upon here as little short of a catastrophe. Acceptance by Denmark of the northern part of Schleswig-Holstein after the world war created a situation now seen as dangerous.

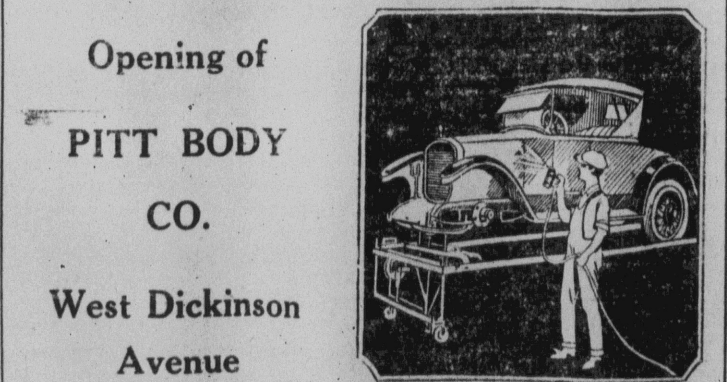

Many influential Danes harbor the opinion that economic and political developments may some day put before Denmark the choice of becoming either a member of the British empire or a part of the Reich.
