TROOPS MOVE THROUGHOUT AUSTRIA TODAY

Rumors Fly Thick and Fast As Troops Movement Begins In Civil War Area

(Copyright By The Associated Press Vienna, Feb. 26—Troops of the Fascist Heimwehr were marching to all sections of Austria today—and the increase in rumors was tremendous. The most sensational of these was that they were preparing to meet Arch Duke Otto, claimant to the Austrian throne, at the Swiss border and escort him triumphantly to Vienna. Another equally unsubstantiated said that 40,000 members of the Heimwehr were being concentrated along the Austro-German border.

Both foreign office and Heimwehr headquarters vigorously and indignantly denied these tales. They stated that there was no concentration of armed men on either side of the Austro-German border.

A government spokesman said all this troop movement was really propaganda marches. The Socialists have been crushed and now the Heimwehr is following its victory parading its forces in all provinces. He said it was hoped that in this way the Heimwehr would win popular support especially from those groups that have been in sympathy with the Nazis.

At the same time from Heimwehr sources came the explanation that the Fascist military units were being shifted away from their homes for psychological reasons. It was said the troops from other provinces would command more respect than troops known to the townspeople by their first names. The troops had reached Brenau and Wells and were running the border patrol abandoned during the civil war.

150 Students At University Aided By Federal Funds

Chapel Hill, Feb. 26—About 150 students at the University of North Carolina who would have been compelled to drop out of college because of lack of funds have been given jobs through federal aid and will be able to earn sufficient money to finish the year.

This relief came as a result of a grant from the government of 3,000 monthly to create jobs for students who could give an affidavit stating that they would positively have to drop out of college unless they received a self-help job.

The grant provides for aid to be given to one-tenth of the students body, and there is an additional provision that 25 per cent of the workers must be students who have dropped out and could not return next quarter without some help. Approximately 241 students will receive aid under this plan.

Regulations prohibits a student from working more than eight hours a day, more than thirty hours a week, or more than fifty hours a month. The pay will range from thirty cents an hour upward, and the maximum pay to one student will be 20 a month.

Edwin S. Lanier, director of the Self-Help Bureau at the University has charge of the job assignments. He has placed a large number of students on jobs, and will assign others as their applications have been approved.

The work is of almost every conceivable type, except actual teaching. Some workers are typing and doing general stenographic work, others are doing research or statistical work, while others are employed at the library or in other University departments.

SAYS SWANSON FOUR INJURED MAY RESIGN IN COLLISION

Ill Health of Navy Secretary May Cause Withdrawal From Post

Washington, Feb. 26—(AP)—Possibility that Claude A. Swanson may resign as Secretary of the Navy because of ill health was discussed in political circles today. The secretary who is 71 has spent a considerable part of his time in hospitals recently. He has given no indication of his intention. Although responsible political circles said today that any talk of his successor would be premature.

One name that has been mentioned is that of Rear-Admiral Cary T. Grayson.

Washington, Feb. 26—(AP)—Reports that Secretary Swanson might resign because of ill health produced a statement today from Walter Moore, assistant Secretary of State that the Navy Secretary would not relinquish his post.

One-Tone Noise Can Hurt Hearing in Every Range

Jrinceton, N. J.—(AP)—Beware the loud noise which hurts the ears even though it is confined to a single tone.

For, it has been discovered in the Princeton university psychology department, such a noise impairs the hearing for all tones, if too long continued.

Formerly scientists believed that damage was confined to sensitivity to only one tone, or frequency, and that this was the frequency of the offending noise. The discovery has practical implications in industry.

Risk in Excessive Noise "Boiler-makers' deafness was one of the first of these auditory injuries coming to medical attention. Any noise as loud as an unshielded airplane close by exposes human ears to the deafness risk provided it continues to excess.

The Princeton studies were made on guinea pigs by George F. Horton research associate in psychology. They were preceded by experiments showing that the ears of guinea pigs react to noise like human hearing.

In the deafening tests, the animals lived in an air-conditioned sound proof chamber, containing a loud-speaker. For 10 hours daily the animals listened to a very loud tone.

Three different tones were used. All had the same effect, permanent injury to hearing in all ranges.

Minimum Strain Unproved. No investigation has been made of the minimum period ears can stand without damage, as the experiments were designed to learn whether single notes affected the entire auditory range.

The permanent loss in hearing was 20 decibels. This is equivalent to the drop in loudness of an orchestra as it moves from a point 10 feet away to 100 feet from a listener. Ten hours a day was the limit of noise for the guinea pigs, because with longer continuation the animals would not eat, but they quickly became accustomed to the 10-hour periods and appeared to live normal pig lives.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Communication Board. Washington, Feb. 26—(AP)—President Roosevelt in a special message to Congress today recommended the creation of a federal communication commission to take authority over wires, cables and radio.

"It is my thought" the president said, "that the new commission such as I have suggested might well be organized this year by transferring present authority and control over communications from the Radio Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The new body should in addition be given full power to investigate and study the business of existing companies and make recommendations to congress for additional legislation at the next session."

The Senate and House Interstate Commerce Commission have been studying this problem for several weeks and early action is expected by the leaders.

545 MEN ARE CAROLINAS FACING DEATH ON ICE FLOES

Moscow, Feb. 26—(AP)—Facing death from drowning or exposure, 545 fishermen and 330 horses were drifting helplessly on two separate ice floes in the Caspian sea today when airplanes from Moscow sped to their assistance.

A sudden rise in the temperature yesterday caused the ice to break up catching 400 men and 190 horses in the vicinity of Dolgry Island and 145 men and 140 horses near Kula Island on ice packs and swept out toward the open sea. Their plight was described as perilous because of their lack of food supplies and the fact that the ice upon which they were marooned is soft.

Local Young Woman Among Those Injured In Wreck Here Yesterday

Four persons, one of them a Greenville young woman, were injured in an automobile accident in this city late yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred at the intersection of highway 43 and Fourteenth street when the car driven by Carl Winders, of Warsaw, skidded on the wet pavement at the turn and crashed into a telephone pole. Two ambulances were rushed to the scene to take the injured to Pitt Community hospital where they were given medical attention. The injured were later released from the hospital after their injuries had been treated.

ACQUIT PHYSICIAN OF MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Kinston, Feb. 26—A Snow Hill report today said Dr. W. E. Dawson of Hookerton, was acquitted of manslaughter and reckless driving charges at a hearing before a magistrate at the former place.

Dr. Dawson, a prominent physician, had been prosecuted for the recent death of J. G. Spurrier, of Charlotte, form injuries suffered in an automobile collision near here. One of the cars was driven by the doctor. The crash occurred at a dangerous intersection.

Spurrier, at first thought slightly hurt, succumbed to his injuries several days after returning to his home up-state.

LARGE CROWD AT COMMUNITY SINGING HERE

Thousand Persons Attended Sing Yesterday Despite Bad Weather

At least a thousand people attended the Community Sing in the Campus Building Auditorium yesterday afternoon in spite of the bad weather. All sang and enjoyed singing. R. C. Deal, who presided over the meeting, soon had the crowd in a good humor by his clever announcements and running comments.

Pat Alderman is an excellent leader using just enough stage business to get interest, then not letting a song go until it is sung to his satisfaction.

"Carolina" was the first song. President Wright then spoke a few words of welcome. He referred to days in the past when Pitt county people met to sing and he had wondered what had stopped the singing, if it were possible it was the audience perhaps recalled the "Sing" held during and just after the war.

Rev. G. R. Combes, pastor of Jarvis Memorial church, led in prayer. Old favorite sentimental songs, patriotic songs, hymns, popular tunes, were sung by the audience. Among them were: "America the Beautiful," "Old Black Joe," "Masses in the Cold, Cold Ground," "O Come All Ye Faithful," "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "John Brown's Body."

The Campbell College Choir, composed of about thirty members, led by A. C. Lynch, made a distinct contribution to the program by singing three excellent sacred numbers. The male quartette, composed of Pat Alderman and John Armet, of Goldsboro, Horace Jones, of Blue's Cross, and Carl Dellinger, of Franklin, assisted by Miss Nellie Farfour, of Goldsboro, sang the "Rosary." Mr. Alderman and Miss Farfour sang two duets. John Armet, who has a bass voice, sang two songs, "Sailor Beware" and "The Lonesome Road." All of these special numbers were well received by the audience.

At the end of the program Mr. Joe Johnson sketched in, with colored crayons, on canvas, two scenes, a moonlight scene, while Miss Stephenson played Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata," and the Caravan scene.

Miss Stephenson was at the piano all afternoon. The closing song was "Bless Be The Tie That Binds." A collection was taken up to help defray the expenses of the people who came and for the sheets of songs.

Mr. Alderman made a gracious speech of thanks for all who had helped in any way, and explained the plan for having people from all five towns in which he has held these sings to meet in Raleigh for a combined sing. The fifth in the series will be held in Rocky Mount next Sunday afternoon.

STRIKE STILL ON AT SHELBY

Shelby, Feb. 26—(AP)—Pickets at the Cleveland Cloth Mills were "singing in the rain" today as the plant put open shop policy into effect following last week's strike. Last Thursday and Friday the operators struck in protest to the discharge of a worker and today more than 100 laughing, shouting and singing men and women picketed the mill owned jointly by Ochs M. Myll and former governor O. Max Gardner.

There was no trouble in evidence but deputies and police officers were stationed around the plant. The day shift was operating but from all appearance it was not complete.

SPEAKER RAINEY TO HAVE AN OPPONENT

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 26—(AP)—Speaker Henry T. Rainey, who represents the Twentieth Illinois Congressional District, is opposed for re-nomination on the Democratic ticket by a candidate who is demanding withdrawal of diplomatic recognition from France for its failure to pay war debts.

He is James E. Kirby, a Petersburg, Ill. farmer, whose platform also calls for nationalization of rail roads.

Kirby who is the Speaker's lone opponent for the nomination, has been a colorful figure in downstate politics for many years.

Several years ago, while a member of the State House of Representatives, Kirby introduced a bill making it illegal for women to wear high heels. He was serious in his advocacy of the measure, claiming high heels were "ruining the health of women." The bill was passed by the House but fell by the wayside in the Senate.

Since then the candidate has been known as "High Heels" Kirby.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10:00 A. M. at St. Patrick's Cathedral, the great grey stone church on Fifth Avenue.

LOUISIANA BERRY BELT UTILIZES WAST CROP

Baton Rouge, La.—(AP)—Strawberry and orange wines—made by receipts of Hungarian immigrants and often mistaken for imported vintage—may bring the Louisiana berry and citrus belts a prosperity they haven't known in years.

More than eighteen thousand gallons have been sold since repeal and Harry D. Wilson, state commissioner of agriculture, says that's just the beginning.

He figures money derived from the wines is clear profit for they are made of strawberries and oranges formerly left to waste because they did not come up to market standards.

He estimates the cull berries and oranges abandoned each year would make enough wine to pay for the fertilizer the truckers and fruit growers use on their crops. The heavy expense provided for Wilson figures, the net profits on fruit production would soar to new peaks.

23 Dead From Southern Tornadoes, Eight In Airplane Crash and Six In North Atlantic Coast Blizzard

(By The Associated Press)

Death riding a southern tornado, an Atlantic Coast blizzard and an ill-fated passenger air liner accounted for 37 victims today.

In the deep south authorities rushed aid to communities in three states where tornadoes ripped and tore yesterday. 13 were known dead in Alabama, eight in Mississippi and two in Georgia. Many were injured as the storm wrecked their homes.

A two days search for a missing air liner ended last night when five passengers and the crew of three were found dead near a snow bound canyon not far from Salt Lake City. The giant craft crashed to earth in a blinding blizzard Friday.

Whirling snow enveloped a part of the nation from the northwest as far west as Nebraska and as far south as Washington and beyond. This storm caused six deaths including a woman who died at Chicago from exposure and an engineer whose train was wrecked by a snow bank near Mapleton, Main.

The large eastern cities sought to clear away the snow to prevent a tie up like that of last week which paralyzed traffic. Despite these efforts many trains were late, highway traffic was halted and airplanes were held to the ground.

44 Students Get Help In College Here

Forty-four students are to be given self-help positions in East Carolina Teachers College under the provision of the Federal Aid Bill granted to help needy college students. One-fourth of the number must be students who were not in college in January, 1934. The proportion given girls and boys must be the same as that composing the present student body. In accordance with these instructions, forty girls and four boys have been given jobs. Of these, thirty-three are now in college and eleven will enter for the spring quarter, which begins March 13. The last have been selected from the list of applications on file for self-help positions, and all of these students are unable to enter college unless they can get help. A number who would have been obliged to drop out next term or abandon their college work are now able to remain in college.

The work is for the most part the same kind as that done by self-help students in the past. In some places there has been congestion of work so that help was needed. The students will give relief where it is most needed. The assignment of the students has been distributed among the administrative offices, the departments and teachers, in special need of help, the dining room, and wherever help was most needed. The special qualifications of each student and requirements of the position have been carefully studied.

The amount allotted to the college is $875 a month for the next three months. The students may receive an average of $15.00 a month for fifty hours of work which means about two hours a day or a little over twelve hours a week. In the instructions sent out from headquarters emphasis was placed on the careful selection of students. The work is to be "awarded to students who give evidence of ability to do a high grade of work in college. The records of the applicants have been carefully examined so as to meet this requirement in all cases.

ISOLATE ROCK FROM FISH ALBERT FILL

Brussels, Belgium, Feb. 26—(AP)—The rock in the Mache des Dames from which the late King Albert fell to his death was surrounded by barbed wire today to protect it from the depredations of thousands of curious visitors.

So great a focus has the place become for the curious from all parts of the realm that it had begun to be picked bare of stones, leaves, branches, everything movable, by souvenir-hunters.

It was reported that King Leopold III and Queen Astrid, together with Queen Mother, visited the spot in cognito on Saturday.

ADMITTING FAILURE OF THE SALES TAX

Before the sales tax law was passed we opposed such a form of taxation for North Carolina and since the passage of the law and revelation that such a law was just the shifting of the tax burden to the backs of the poor as we had anticipated, we are more opposed to the sales tax than ever.

The News and Observer in its lead editorial sets forth the complete folly of such an attempt and we reprint it below, urging you to read every word of it and join us in adding our "Amen" to what has been said therein.

North Carolina's borders have not suddenly become lines across which taxpayers escape. The pennies, nickels and dimes which the State fails to collect on merchandise sent across the borders are not the first pennies, nickels and dimes the State has lost by border running to escape taxation.

The girl put the palm of her hand to her mouth. Her eyes widened. The coils of fiber over her slim shoulder fell to the ground.

Now, however, the State is concerned because in addition to its obvious failure to collect the sales tax at home, it is also failing to collect it on merchandise which comes across State borders in interstate commerce.

In order to correct this fault in the law, the friends and advocates of sales taxes would scrap the entire system of American free trade between the States. They would make every State border a frontier where tax collectors and tax snappers would rifle the mails and baggage of Americans in order to see to it that no nickels failed to reach the State treasury.

If, however, the tax gatherers of North Carolina and other States are determined to prevent the escape of taxes even at such a cost, then at least they should make some effort to prevent the escape of corporate taxes to Delaware and inheritance taxes to the District of Columbia and other States where there are no inheritance taxes, or very low ones. BLOND GODDESS A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

SYNOPSIS: Frank Grinhame, Bill Langton, Janice Kent and their most cunning high priest of the savage Amazon jungle tribe that has tried to kill all of them, are trapped in a remote valley. The high priest is badly wounded and helpless. But the rainy season is beginning, and soon the valley will be filled with water. Frank plans to float in a balsam-wood tacket down an underground river to the sea, and being aid - if he is not drowned.

Chapter 42 THE START

"WITH luck," repeated Langton. "I can be back here and get you out. With a ship I could fly from the coast to here in twenty minutes."

Frank smiled remotely. Turning on his heel he walked back to the shack. His movements thereafter were methodical. He brought out the balsam-wood jacket, and for the time being set it aside. He brought out two coconut shells, split and put together again and sealed with pitch.

Within them was a quantity of dried meat, matches, and - he smiled at the apparent incongruity of it - the matted pad of his book of traveler's checks. They could be used at the coast - if ever he got there.

The two coconut shells he slipped into a bit of fiber netting he had made for them. This arrangement could be tied to the jacket float.

He put on the crude device that was to keep him afloat - with luck - for the eight or ten hours he would be swept through the unknown cavern. Although the morning was not warm beads of perspiration gathered upon his face.

It was with a straining effort of will that he banished thoughts of the accidents that might happen to him in the darkness.

Would the river be like the surface ones? Would there be waterfalls, rapids, or jagged submerged rocks to 'car' at him as he passed? Might not eddies sweep him into blind pockets where he would thrash his way about until exhaustion claimed him?

He walked down the trail to the stream's edge. Langton, straining at the tying of the last timbers of the raft, looked up startled. Janice, coils of fiber in her hands, approached from upstream. Puzzled, she looked at the crude girth of the balsam-wood jacket.

She said in a curious voice, "Frank, what is that? What do you intend?"

"Nothing doing, Frank - that's my job," said Langton quietly.

Frank's voice as he replied was level and brittle. "Nothing you can say - or do, for that matter - will alter the plan, Billy. This is just a job I can do better than you can under the circumstances. We'll say no more about it!"

Janice made a gesture of appeal to Langton. Her face was pale beneath its tanned silkiness. "What is it, Billy? What is he going to do?"

"He's going to float down the cavern to the sea and get help. If a pop bottle made it, so can he, he thinks."

The girl put the palm of her hand to her mouth. Her eyes widened. The coils of fiber over her slim shoulder fell to the ground.

"No!" she whispered. "Oh, no... please!"

Frank stepped into the water. His face was set. "Billy," he began, turning to his friend, "before I start, I have a few suggestions -"

JANICE splashed into the water beside him. Her hands caught him by the shoulders and she pulled at him until he faced her.

"You're not going!" she exclaimed breathlessly. "You can't! You shouldn't!" She tugged at him with little desperate jerks.

"Either Billy or I must. Please, Janice. Billy will explain. We haven't much time now, since the rain. I've -"

"You mustn't... either you or Billy. What do you think I am! What do you think I'd be if I let you?" Her voice broke on a little note of hysteria. "The raft is nearly ready. We'll go together. Why should one of us take risks for the others? The raft will support us all!"

Gently Frank put up his arms and disengaged the girl's hands from his shoulders. He turned his face toward Langton. "Bill, it would be a good idea, I think, to make more of these jackets to wear on the raft when the water rises. Provide yourself with a stout rope and a rock for an anchor. And a long rope with a stone to throw to the bank. You might get close enough and high enough to reach the cliff tops. I'll be back. I'll be all right!"

Rush Of World's Gold To New York Marked By Deft Maneuvers

By RADER WINGET

New York.-(AP)—The great gold race of 1934 is on. Speed and secrecy are the watchwords... millions are at stake.

Plodding sourdoughs back in '49 were just pickers with picks scratching for comparative pennies after the big strike at Sutter's mill.

The modern gold race scene changes from sleepy burros to sleek transatlantic liners and airplanes. The modern prospectors use pens instead of picks.

It is simply a case of buying gold at a low price in London or other foreign centers and selling at a higher price in New York.

Just as simple as that... but the new gold diggers must know their exchange rates better than the forty-niners knew their sluice boxes.

How It Is Done Here is the technique of digging wealth from gold. A. D. 1934: A banker wants to buy 1,000,000 pounds sterling in gold. He seeks his dollars to buy pounds, perhaps paying $5,000,000.00 for the 1,000,000 in New York to the government assay office on the tip of Manhattan. Armed guards hold guns as the gold is jerked into the assay office vaults.

Tests are made on the gold to determine whether it comes up to specifications, and the owner is paid $35 an ounce, the legal price set by the President.

But there is a deduction by the government of 1-4 of 1 per cent for handling, and other charges which vary with each shipment.

Determining Profits All prices quoted for the various services are subject to change and also vary with the size of the shipment.

Gold coming from the other end of the earth could be handled in the same manner in Seattle, Wash., the only other U. S. assay office, but most of the gold now being raced to America comes to New York.

The Secretary of the Treasury purchases the gold according to law, and from the assay offices it is sent to whatever point the Treasury desires.

The trader in gold deducts the cost of bringing it from London to New York and determines his profit, usually in fractions of one per cent. He also must deduct interest lost in shipping.

a better FERTILIZER for better times

CHARLIE GRAVES, of Kinston, is one of the leading bright tobacco growers of North Carolina. He was reared at Snow Hill and is well-known all over this section. Mr. Graves selects his tobacco fertilizer with great care. He has a lot of tobacco under his supervision and therefore has a thorough knowledge of the latest and best methods of producing the best yields of the highest-quality leaf.

Mr. Graves says: "On 596 acres of tobacco under my supervision last year an extra 100 pounds of NV Sulphate of Potash per acre was used as a top-dresser. This brought the potash in our total fertilizer up to 8% and gave us approximately a 3-8-8 analysis. It improved the quality and materially increased the yields, giving the best crops we have ever known."

"With the light, thin leaf, the potash added the grain and velvety feel that always brings the 'high dollar'. Of course there are many factors involved in the production of high-quality tobacco but extra potash helps. We intend to use this fertilizer on every acre of our crop this year and I personally believe that the average farmer in this section can use considerably more potash in his fertilizer at a profit."

Mr. Graves is just one of many leading bright tobacco growers who have found that it pays to give their tobacco two to three times as much potash as the average fertilizer contains. They know that potash is the quality-producing element in tobacco fertilizer—that tobacco is a potash-loving crop, removing from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined.

Your fertilizer man recognizes the importance of furnishing you with the mixture which will pay you best under present conditions. He now has 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER on sale. Tell him you want to produce "high-dollar" tobacco in 1934. Tell him you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER.

"the best crops we have ever known" — says Mr. GRAVES

- Bright tobacco growers will bend every effort to produce a better quality, higher-priced crop on a reduced acreage this year. Most low-grade tobacco will probably never reach the floor. The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the North Carolina State College of Agriculture recommend a fertilizer containing 6 to 10% potash for bright tobacco. Chemical analysis of high-quality tobacco plants proves that a 1,000-pound crop contains more than three times as much potash as 800 pounds of 3-potash fertilizer contains. According to the new North Carolina fertilizer laws the nitrogen in a fertilizer analysis will now be expressed as nitrogen instead of ammonia as in the past. This means that this year's fertilizer as compared with last year's fertilizer of the same analysis will contain about 21% more actual nitrogen. Fertilizer containing too much nitrogen produces rough, bony tobacco. Avoid this by selecting a fertilizer mixture in which the nitrogen has been well-balanced with plenty of potash. 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER has proven its value in tests conducted throughout the entire bright tobacco belt. Many leading farmers in this section use 3-8-8 or increase the potash in their regular fertilizer to 8% or even more by using extra applications of potash. 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER gives best results with closer rows, closer spacing, ridge cultivation and late topping. Set more plants per acre and top after about half the crop is gathered. 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER holds the tobacco on the hill after it matures, without burning, producing a thin, gray leaf with "high-dollar" quality. Remember that 800 pounds of 3-8-8 usually costs less than 1,000 pounds of 3-8-8. 3-8-8 contains more actual plant food and is a much better balanced fertilizer. The New Deal Demands Quality! The growers who produce the best tobacco will benefit most from better times. Plan now to produce a thin leaf on the bright side. Use the best cultural methods, correct spacing, high topping and the proper amount of 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER. The extra potash in this fertilizer adds the extra quality that brings more on the floor.

Max Noah, director of the choir, led this fine body of college students in a most extraordinary program of music and received hearty applause from those who heard it. Many Greenville people missed a fine opportunity, but it is sincerely hoped that this musical organization can be brought to our city again, and that more will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear them. Every selection presented displayed a type of work that called for diligent training. The maintenance of superb tonal quality throughout the varied numbers sung was marvellous. This organization presents music that is not to be compared with that of the usual lighter forms of the college glee clubs, but which may be most favorably compared with the excellent work of such organizations as the famed Westminster Choir.

Kitchen
There is no room in the house that is used so much as the kitchen—yet is so often neglected. The attention of all club women is focused this season on the kitchen. If you don't belong to a club, why not come to one of them and lend your help. Perhaps there is something you can do to your kitchen to make it more step-saving—and more attractive—or perhaps you have a kitchen that is satisfactory that club women would like to see.

White House Taboos In Discard

Washington—(AP)—First President's wife to ride in an airplane—first to see herself satirized—So might one, with another March 4 meeting, start to record Anna Eleanor Roosevelt's trail-blazing first years in the White House.

7:30 p. m. — The choir of the Presbyterian Church will meet with Mrs. R. S. McGeachy.

Those two "firsts" happened last March. Tallie are being added almost hourly. She now plans a flight to Puerto Rico, only first lady ever to contemplate ocean flying. A gasping public has heard that she had a shooting range installed in the executive mansion.

7:30 p. m. — The choir of the Presbyterian Church will meet with Mrs. R. S. McGeachy.

Surprise visits to "sore spots," such as those in the coal mining regions; frequent pilgrimages to historic shrines, and a myriad of personal and public quests have added to her mileage, her practical information, her memories.

7:30 p. m. — The choir of the Presbyterian Church will meet with Mrs. R. S. McGeachy.

Three utterances of this President's wife, who has broken the shell of silence traditionally associated with the mistresses of the executive mansion, cut through formality.

7:30 p. m. — The choir of the Presbyterian Church will meet with Mrs. R. S. McGeachy.

They were:
"Everyone must live his own life in his own way and not according to anybody else's standards." (In the White House.)

7:30 p. m. — The choir of the Presbyterian Church will meet with Mrs. R. S. McGeachy.

"I'm afraid never did anyone any good. I know it is a time when many of us are afraid for the future. I cannot understand it very well because I think this is one of the most exciting times to be alive in." (At Chicago in October.)

7:30 p. m. — The choir of the Presbyterian Church will meet with Mrs. R. S. McGeachy.

On March 6 she knitted in the House gallery. On March 10 the Associated Press chronicled: "Mrs. Roosevelt, informal beyond words, turns up with her dog at the signing of a vital bank bill in a semi-occasional occasion. The terrace barks instead of hushing it, Mrs. Roosevelt laughs and the President smiles."

'Babyland' Opens.
Mrs. Dow Lassiter has opened a baby shop to be known as "Babyland" and will carry a complete line of wearing apparel for babies. The shop is located on Evans street opposite Flanagan-Meeks.

Greetings
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"Quack, quack, we're glad to see you again," quacked the ducks. "Did you have a good sleep?"
"Wonderful," growled Jelly Bear. "Cock-a-doodle-do, we certainly do greet you!" crowed Top Notch, the Rooster.
"Caw, caw, caw," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow. "I give you my best cawing greetings."
"We'll certainly have to have a feast to celebrate the fact that

"I've been a long time without food. I certainly would appreciate a feast. But I did find some little candy animals in the cave."
"Santa Claus left those for you," Willy Nilly explained.
"It was nice to have something to eat the minute we awoke," Jelly Bear said happily. "Oh, it is nice to feel the air again and to sniff the breezes. You'll have to tell me the news when we're having the banquet. But before we have that, I have the most wonderful surprise for you."
"It must be wonderful," agreed Willy Nilly. "If you put anything before a banquet. I know you're hungry, too. Yes, as hungry as a bear."
"What's the surprise?" they all asked.
"Come and see," growled Jelly Bear proudly, and they followed him in the direction of the cave.
"What could the Bears' big surprise be? What could they be hiding in their cave?"
And how curious all the creatures of Puddle Middle were to find out!

CAROLINA AT STATE IS VIVID FILM PLAY

Paul Green, Fox Films, Lionel Barrymore, Janet Gaynor and a whole galaxy of stars have combined to produce "Carolina" which is playing at the State Theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday.
The screen play was adapted by Reginald Berkeley from Green's play, "The House of Connelly." Berkeley was the man who adapted Noel Coward's "Cavalcade" into one of the screen hits of last year.
Green, native of Harnett County, North Carolina, writes about the subject close to his heart—his native South. Since gaining national recognition as the Pulitzer Prize winner with his play "In Abraham's Bosom," he has done a number of screen plays for Hollywood producers, the latest appearing here being Dr. Bull featuring Will Rogers.

New York Cotton

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Cot-futures opened steady 9 to 12 decline under relatively lower Liverpool cables and liquidation. Business was moderately active at the start. May went off to 12.02 and October to 12.30 and the end of the first half hour when active months generally showed net losses of 12 to 17 points.

Trade buying was encountered in the early declines, but seemed to run its course during the first hour. Prices sagged off on comparatively moderate offerings, and the decline carried May to 11.99, October to 12.28, the market showing a net loss of 14 to 18 points at midday.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Mild pessimism based on doubt rather than definite developments dominated the financial market today, prices being a point or so down.

Equity dropped from the start, although selling was orderly, the ticker never being pressed by the volume. There were few issues that moved up even moderately. Declines ranged from a fraction to around a point. Trading timidity was blamed partly on the belief that federal regulation of the stock exchange was imminent, that curtailment of CWA spending may affect industry, and that business unrest might follow new Washington investigations. Scattered strikes also entered into the picture.

Commodities including wheat, cotton, silver, and rubber were lower, while bonds sagged with stocks.

Late tone showed heavy losses of one to two points predominating. Case, N. Y. Central and U. S. Smelting declined two points each, while U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Santa Fe and Chrysler lost more than a point.

Transfers approximated 2,200,000 shares.

a few hours unless electric service was restored.

Newspaper men reaching Greensboro from Winston-Salem said there was hope that the city would be provided with electric service by tonight but that not a wheel had turned in that city's great industries all day. The same condition prevailed at High Point.

Communication between Henderson and the outside world was restored over a single wire this afternoon when it was learned that the city had been without power or telephone service for 12 hours. Schools were not operated and the streets were littered with ice covered debris. A negro woman apparently dead from exposure was found in a field near Middleburg near there.

State Forester Fred Merrill of Mississippi says more than a million acres of land in that state have been devastated by erosion resulting from improper agricultural practices and forest fires.

READ MR. GRAY'S LETTER ENDORSING THIS SUPERIOR FERTILIZER

Stokes, N. C., February 7, 1934.
Mr. R. V. Keel, Greenville, N. C.
Dear Mr. Keel:
I want to say a word or two in regards to fertilizer in the year of 1932. I bought my fertilizer all at one time excepting for one crop. When I was ready for that, the people that I bought from did not have the same brand on hand. They did have some Camp's Premium 3-3-3, and asked me if I would use that. I did, and have never regretted it at all. I made one of the best crops I have ever made in the ten years I have been farming. I shall use Camp's again this year.
Yours truly,
JOHN I. GRAY.

NO LOOSE ENDS

Round

Firm

the tobacco does not spill out

Every Lucky Strike is made from the finest tobacco and only the center leaves—because those are under-developed—not ripe. They would give a harsh smoke. Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. They grow close to the ground, and are tough, coarse and always sandy. The center leaves are the mildest leaves, for which farmers are paid higher prices. Only these center leaves are used in making Luckies the fully packed cigarette—so round, so firm—free from loose ends. That's why Luckies draw easily, burn evenly. And remember—"It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.

Direct from the Metropolitan Opera House

Saturday at 1:50 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, over Red and Blue Networks of NBC, Lucky Strike will broadcast the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York in the complete Opera, "Lucia di Lammermoor."
