Richmond Bank Guard Robbed of $60,000

SIX BANDITS OBJECT OF A WIDE SEARCH

Guard Held up at Entrance to Alley and Robbed of Money Just Drawn From Federal Reserve Bank For State Bank; Traffic Police Nearby Unaware of Holdup; Bandits Speed Away in Car

Richmond, March 2—(AP)—Six armed bandits today held up a guard of the State Bank and Trust Company and robbed him of $60,000 in currency.

Officials said the robbery occurred presumably while the guard, William H. Coghill, was on his way from the Federal Reserve Bank. He was stopped at the entrance to an alley.

Traffic police on duty on the busy street nearby were unaware of the robbery until the bandit car sped out of the alley.

Nearby police stations and highway patrolmen were notified immediately and a widespread hunt was begun.

Police were told that the robbery was committed by six men in a black sedan.

Bankers said the entire amount of currency was covered by insurance. Coghill, about 55 years of age, a long time employe of the bank as a watchman, was returning from the Federal Reserve bank accompanied by two negro porters.

Home Loan Body Aids Collection of Property Tax

Salisbury, N. C., March 2—Calling attention to the assistance which is being rendered tax collecting agencies of municipalities and counties by the Home Owners Loan Corporation, Alan S. O'Neal, state manager of the organization with headquarters here, today stated that thus far the corporation has paid taxes and assessments and cost of making loans totaling $240,825.29. This has been done in taking up mortgages on homes throughout the state and the major portion of the money has been paid out in taxes and assessments to the counties, cities, and towns. Only a small portion has been paid for costs of loans in the cases where applicants have been unable to bear this expense themselves.

"In every case," said Mr. O'Neal, "where the corporation has taken up a mortgage with its bonds or cash it has been necessary, of course, to see that all taxes and assessments are paid up to date and the law provides that these shall be paid in cash for the home owner by the corporation if they are not up to date. "The payment of these back taxes by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, we have been told, is proving a great aid to many cities and counties in handling their current obligations and in this way the work of the corporation is helping home owners has been extended to divisions of government in need of funds."

WHITE WOMAN HELD ON RUM CHARGE HERE

Mrs. Mollie Stepp Arrested in Raid on her Home This Morning.

Mrs. Millie Stepp, about 45 years of age, the mother of several children, was jailed today on a charge of possession of whiskey for the purpose of sale.

She was taken into custody when police raided her home on the northern end of Summit street and said they found seven half gallon jars of whiskey.

Mrs. Stepp, whose husband was killed on the county road some years ago, was carried before Chief of Police George Clark who asked her what she was doing with so much whiskey.

"I had it for the asthma," she told the police head. "The doctors told me it was the best thing I could use to run up my blood pressure."

Chief Clark observed that it was a mighty big supply of liquor to have for sickness and ordered the woman locked up to await hearing tomorrow morning in police court.

Officials said the woman has been on charity here for several years, and had been a constant source of trouble to relief workers. She was also said to have been in court some time ago on a charge of larceny.

SPAIN ASKED TO DISSOLVE LAWMAKERS

Socialists Hurl Challenge at the Present Government of the Nation

Madrid, March 2—(AP)—Socialists issued a challenge to the president government of Spain or any similar cabinet as President Niceto Alcalá Zamora sought today to curb the crisis created by the resignation of the ministry of Premier Alexandre Lerroux. In a note enumerating party complaints against recent political developments, Socialist leaders declared congress should be immediately dissolved. The challenge was issued while President Zamora was in conference with political leaders in an attempt to form a new cabinet.

POMP TO MARK ROOSEVELT'S NRA APPEAL

Array of Officers to Attend Code Hearing in Washington Monday

Washington, March 2—(AP)—President Roosevelt will recognize NRA as a permanent force in the national life next Monday by investing his address to huge assembly of code authorities with all the solemnity of a state occasion.

Quite an array of officers expected only by that gathered for the opening of congress, has been summoned to hear the chief executive.

From the platform of Constitution Hall he will propound NRA ideas to more than 3,000 business men elected by their fellows to rule over code controlled industries.

The entire cabinet was called along with the chief government emergency director, leaders of congress, Democrats and Republicans and independents.

The boxes of the big hall have been set aside for cabinet wives and official families; women members of congress have been given special seats.

The president's speech will be partly in the nature of a report on the first year of his regime but close associates expected him to talk of future plans. The open forum for public criticism of the NRA to all intents was bound up by a couple of meetings carried on today for late comers, but the complaint forum already has gathered enough information to confirm administration opinion on the shortcomings of the present program.

Out of it emerged more clearly the program of reform to be laid down by Hugh S. Johnson next week.

It was clear that as a number one point he would ask that the average working week for American labor be brought down to 36 hours with un-reduced pay.

BIG DIAMOND WINDFALL FOR AFRICAN TREASURY

Pretoria, South Africa—(AP)—The newly discovered Jonker diamond, fourth largest in the world, brought a windfall of $133,500 to the state.

This figure represents super-tax and poll tax amounting to more than one-third of the sum which was paid for the stone by Sir Ernest Oppenheimer.

Discovery of the stone brought an influx of diggers to Elandfontein, but they were all disappointed for claims were allotted only to residents.

WHITNEY ATTACKS STOCK BILL

Late News Flashes From Over World

Another Fire At Wake Forest. Wake Forest, March 2—(AP)—Chief of Police Taylor this afternoon said that bloodhounds used in an effort to ascertain if a fire here early today was of incendiary origin have followed a trail straight into a college dormitory. The fire destroyed the clubhouse of the Wake Forest golf course. Chief Taylor said no arrest had been made.

"We are investigating further before we arrest anyone," he said. "The dogs took a trail from the clubhouse into Alumni Hall at the college, out again, and up a hill from where you could see the clubhouse and then ran straight back to a room on the third floor of the dormitory," the chief explained. The blaze came close on the heels of the burning of Wingate Hall, the Wake Forest college chapel, and discovery of what officials said was an attempt to set fire to Hunter dormitory.

CITY FATHERS IN BUSY MEET

Order Erection of Sign Here For Guidance Of Fliers Passing Over Area

A sign for the guidance of aviators flying over this community will be erected atop the John Flanagan Buggy Company building at the corner of Fourth and Cotanch streets, it was decided at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Aldermen at the city hall last night.

The sign will be erected at the suggestion of the Civil Works Administration in keeping with the program to make flying safer in all parts of the nation.

The request of the CWA was reported by Mayor Flanagan after he had stated that nothing definite had been accomplished in the proposed erection of an airport in this city. He stated, however, that the committee had been working on the proposal and probably would reach a decision sometime in the near future.

At the request of Clerk J. O. Duval the aldermen gave him permission to extend the time allowing a deduction of interest on pavement contracts until April 5, the date of the next board meeting.

At a recent meeting the board passed a resolution allowing a fifty per cent discount of interest on cash payment of such assessments, and in view of the fine response, the clerk asked that the extension be granted.

Groups of women representing the Woman's club and the San Souci club appeared before the board. The Woman's Club asked aid in raising $7,500 to liquidate the debt on the club building. The board named a committee composed of N. O. Warren, Mrs. J. L. Hassell and Joe Taft to confer with the ladies and report at the next meeting.

NEW TARIFF ISSUES FACE HARD BATTLE

Republicans Ready to Carry Roosevelt Proposals Into Next Campaign

Washington, March 2—(AP)—A fight "to the bitter end" today confronted President Roosevelt's tariff proposal.

Embattled Republicans apparently were ready to carry the issue into the fall campaign.

The plan which would give the president wide power to lower lower tariffs in negotiating reciprocal treaties with foreign nations was ready for submission to congress.

There was some doubt whether Mr. Roosevelt would send it there today because the senate was in recess.

Republican forces did not await arrival to open fire. The great minority in the senate and house are against the proposal.

CIVIL COURT TO MEET HERE ON MARCH 19

Judge Frank A. Daniels to Preside Over Two Week - Term of Superior Court

A two-week civil term of Pitt County Superior court will convene in this city Monday, March 19, with Judge Frank A. Daniels, of Goldsboro, presiding.

The local Bar Association was scheduled to meet this afternoon to arrange the calendar and copies of same were expected to be off the press sometime next week.

Clerk of Superior Court J. F. Harrington said this morning there are around two hundred cases awaiting hearing, and it was believed probably half that number would be completed during the term.

From fifty to sixty cases probably will be set for hearing during each week of the two week term.

Between thirty and forty cases were disposed of in the one week term of court held here last week. The majority were compromised outside of court, but quite a number were actually given hearing in spite of the fact that four days of the week were consumed in the hearing of two actions.

RESERVE BANK REPORTS IMPROVED BUSINESS

Richmond, Va., March 2—(AP)—The seasonal decline of January business in the fifth Federal Reserve District, including North Carolina, was "less this year than normally, and some lines reported an unusual improvement in comparison with January last year."

The federal Reserve Bank here today reported that wholesale business in the Carolinas, Virginia West Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia, made the best comparative showing from January 1 to the middle of February it had made in four years.

Retail trade exceeded January, 1933, by 13 per cent and showed less than a normal decrease in comparison with preceding months.

REFUSE PERMISSION TO OPERATE RAILROAD

Washington, March 2—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission refused today to authorize the Wilkes and Western Railway Company to take over and operate 26 miles of railroad from North Wilkesboro to Darby, North Carolina.

The company sought authority to acquire the line which is a part of the old Watuga and Yadkin River Railroad.

The railroad has not been used since 1918 when a flood washed out bridges and damaged a tunnel and the commission's report says the ties have rotted away and the track has been washed out in 38 places.

The road when in operation, the commission said, never was able to provide interest on its bonded debt.

CONSTITUTION OF AUSTRIA IS SCRAPPED

Government to Rule by Natural Law, Greater than Constitution.

Vienna, March 2—(AP)—The first time since Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss shelved parliament one year ago the government today frankly cast the constitution in the political waste basket and let it be known that it is ruling by natural law which stands above the constitution.

The new basis of the government was explained in the official Gazette by Robert Hecht, an expert in constitutional law.

He has advised Dollfuss on the legal aspect of each step taken since the emergency decree began.

One of the cabinet's first steps after the recent civil war was to declare null and void the position and the prerogatives of any one elected on the Socialist ticket.

TWO DIE IN BOAT FIRE

Women Fatally Burned as Blast Starts A Fire on Florida Pleasure Craft.

Symrna, Fla., March 2—(AP)—Death today of Mrs. Dorothy Crisp brought to two the fatalities in the gasoline tank explosion aboard a pleasure craft on the Indian river here.

Mrs. M. T. Hutto was in the cabin as flames swept the 75-foot-speed boat late yesterday. Her daughter, Mrs. Mary Hutto Britton, was badly burned and was in a serious condition at the hospital today. Mrs. Hutto's body, burned into several pieces was recovered.

Mrs. Crisp was fatally burned while fighting her way from the boat.

The blast followed the grounding of the boat, owned by Winston Smith of Raleigh, during an evening's pleasure cruise.

CHARGED WITH THE MURDER OF STEP-FATHER

Former Pitt County Man Brought Here Last Night After Surrendering to Sheriff of Beaufort County; Says he Came From New York to Give Up; Refuses to Talk; Relatives Make Effort To Secure Hearing

Matthew Harrington, 23, wanted by local authorities in connection with the slaying of his step-father, John Gurganus, on the night of February 17, surrendered in Washington, N. C., last night and was immediately brought to Greenville and confined in jail.

Harrington, who disappeared from Greenville the night of the murder, surrendered to Sheriff Runley of Beaufort county and asked that he be brought to Greenville and be turned over to county authorities. He was delivered to Sheriff Sam Whitehurst shortly after midnight. Harrington was arrested at the home of his brother, Jesse Harrington, on a warrant issued here shortly after the slaying charging him with murder.

He refused to talk when taken into custody here last night, saying he preferred to wait until he had conferred with his attorneys. It was understood that relatives were attempting to arrange preliminary hearing here this morning.

Officers said Harrington told them the first information that he was wanted came to him in New York when he was told by a friend that detectives were seeking him in connection with the crime here. He was said to have stated that he immediately left by bus for Washington to surrender.

Asked what he did with the borrowed automobile he was reported to have left Greenville in Harrington, officers stated, told them the machine was stolen from him. The car was borrowed from J. Knott Proctor Saturday morning before the body of John Gurganus, with bullet wounds in the face, was found in the Tar river highway bridge fill Sunday afternoon about 2 o'clock.

A coroner's jury completed investigation of the case here two days ago with a verdict that Gurganus came to his death by a pistol in the hands of a party or parties unknown.

Although officers declined to say upon what evidence they were holding the former Pitt county young man, it was intimated that there had been some ill-feeling between Harrington and Gurganus growing out of domestic relations between Gurganus and his wife. It was said they had been separated for some time before Gurganus was slain.

Harrington, officers said, sent a telegram from Washington sometime before he left here advising a girl that he would return. This message was seized by court order, and authorities in the metropolis were advised to be on the lookout for Harrington.

Scott, has issued a proclamation calling upon ministers, business firms and citizens to observe the week-end as a period of special attention as a period of special attention to the first anniversary of the new deal and President Roosevelt's administration. Rift Seen In G. O. P. Ranks In Congress

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Washington (AP)—A rift in the political clouds that have darkened Republican skies since November, 1932, seems to have been detected by party strategists in Congress. For the first time something like cohesion toward vesting a pattern of issues for the congressional balloting this year is discernible in minority ranks.

The concrete evidence of this lies in the steps taken to consolidate 1934 Republican management in a joint campaign committee of House and Senate, divorced or at least separated from the national committee. That is something new in organization for either party.

One advantage would be to keep questions of the presidential ticket for 1936 in the background. The move defers the problem of reorganizing the national committee or supplanting Chairman Everett Sanders. If the national committee is to remain inactive leaving the 1934 job to the new joint congressional campaign committee it makes little difference whether the national committee continues under Hoover-picked leadership or not.

That has been a vexing problem to party leaders. Revamping of the national committee for this year's campaigning would involve serious splits between the Hoover and anti-Hoover factions, to say nothing of the other rivalries that look to the 1936 presidential ticket which would be stirred up.

There is evidence also that House and Senate Republicans see a definite opportunity in the two-way Roosevelt administration problem on veterans' benefits. Whether it is the impending Democratic House revolt on the new bonus bill or the Republican-engineered moves in the Senate to restore all or part of the veterans' cuts, made by the administration economy bill, the Republican old guard minority has seen party irregulars rejoining them on these preliminary votes for the first time since the Roosevelt administration came in.

It is also recognized that first-term House Democrats are in a specially tight spot. If they bolt administration leadership on veterans bills, it will impair their appeal to a "support the President" re-election slogan and probably also invite opposition in the Democratic primaries.

Who is now in the wind among administration leaders in Congress is an attempt to work out a compromise on the economy cuts for veterans which might avert the necessity of a presidential veto of the bonus payment bill. There is no uncertainty that there will be a veto if that bill passes. When and if its passage is assured in the face of that, the further strategy taking shape is to load the bill with riders to such an extent as to afford the President several good grounds for a veto.

Just what form those additions would take is not indicated. The purpose, however, would be to divert attention from the bonus matter and give Democrats who felt compelled to vote for the bill originally an opportunity to get back aboard the Roosevelt bandwagon by voting to sustain a veto.

persons within 10 years. The interest cost on an initial scheme affecting 40,000 settlers who with their wives and dependents would number some 160,000 persons, he said, would not exceed the annual cost of unemployed benefits paid to an equivalent number of persons in this country.

Besides the economic advantages urged for an empire settlement policy, proponents of revived emigration argue that unless undeveloped space in the dominions are filled with Britishers, other overcrowded countries will look to them for getting rid of their surplus people.

Judith Lane

by JEANNE BOWMAN

"The last will and testament of Tom Bevins"—Judith dimly heard the words by which her former employer made her the heiress to five million dollars, gave her control of his far-flung enterprises and threw on her slim shoulders a cruel burden.

Her hand held Tom Bevins' last request, private instructions for administering his affairs. Judith knew it meant strife, heartbreak and perhaps an end to the romance with Norman Dale. For somehow, Judith sensed that her husband would not be at her side in the bitter finish-fight with the Bevins family, a widow and daughter grasping for a dead man's dollars and willing to let his ideals crumble to dust.

Around this situation, JEANNE BOWMAN has written a dramatic story of the girl who was willing to sacrifice home, husband and friends, risk disgrace and failure—because she was loyal to a trust.

Teeming Britain Seeks Room For Idle Workers

London.—(AP)—Cramped Britain is cycling her far-flung empire for room in which to stretch herself. Backers of the movement for population redistribution have carried their cause to the house of commons and exacted a promise that the dominions will be approached in an effort to work out a scheme. How soon action will be taken depends, however, on the speed with which a committee that has been studying the problem for a year completes its task. Its work is now 80 per cent complete.

Outflow At Standstill
Armed with this committee's report, it is the government's intention to contact the dominions and build up a plan intended to relieve the mother country of her population troubles and at the same time develop the empire for the common good.

Workers for a voluntary but state sponsored scheme of empire settlement point out that the problem has become acute because emigration, which acted as the safety valve for home population difficulties and attendant unemployment in the past, has been virtually at a standstill.

Special Charter Plan
A concrete scheme for reviving emigration was presented to the commons by Sir Henry Page Croft, speaking for an unofficial committee which studied the problem and recommended creation of a chartered company.

"We want the dominions to let us build up entirely new colonies of British settlers in their undeveloped areas," he said.

"In return for grants of land we propose that Britain, through a corporation or company of unimpeachable integrity and authority, should give the dominions at no cost to themselves hosts of new taxpayers and consumers to the great benefit of both sides."

Dole Equals Expense
"We propose to move a large population overseas. The first scheme contemplates the removal of 250,000

READ MR. GRAY'S LETTER ENDORSING THIS SUPERIOR FERTILIZER

Stokes, N. C. February 7, 1934.

Mr. R. V. Keel,
Greenville, N. C.
Dear Mr. Keel:

I want to say a word or two in regard to fertilizer in the year of 1932. I bought my fertilizer all at one time excepting for one crop. When I was ready for that, the people that I bought from did not have the same brand on hand. They did have some Camp's Premium 8-3-3, and asked me if I would use that. I did, and have never regretted it at all. I made one of the best crops I have ever made in the ten years I have been farming. I shall use Camp's again this year.

Yours truly,
JOHN I. GRAY

MRS. SKINNER HOSTESS TO SANS SOUCI CLUB

The Sans Souci Book Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. L. C. Skinner on Wednesday, February 28. After the routine business the club voted to go before the aldermen on Thursday night to ask that some plan might be worked out by which the pruning of the trees of Greenville could be more carefully done.

Mrs. W. L. Hall had the paper for the afternoon. Her subject was "Philosophy of Middle Age." She treated the subject from a woman's standpoint and in her original manner might have given some hints to Walter Jitkin who wrote "Life Begins At 40." At the conclusion of the program which included "Beauty Hints" from our favorite movie stars, Mrs. Skinner served a delicious salad course.—Reported.

ASKS EFFORTS FOR A TARIFF ON OILS

Greensboro, March 2—(AP)—Addressing the State Grange Deputy Masters' Association here Wednesday, Frederick Benckman of Washington, legislative representative of the National Grange, urged his hearers to communicate with members of Congress from this State and ask for support of the proposed tax of five cents per pound on all imports of coconut and sesame oils. Such a tax will be of great benefit to American agriculture, he maintained particularly to cotton, peanut and dairy farmers and beef cattle raisers.

Harry B. Caldwell of Greensboro State lecturer, Miss Pearl Thomason of Salisbury, State secretary, and W. K. Scott of Haw River, past State master, also spoke.

TRIES TO CATCH RIDE RUN OVER AND KILLED

Washington, N. C., March 2—James Roberson, age 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Roberson, of Beaufort County, was run over and killed Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 when he was attempting to catch a ride on a moving school bus at Leggett's school. He slipped while attempting to catch hold and the rear wheel passed over the middle of his body.

Robert Satterthwaite, CWA driver did not see the child when he was attempting to get on. A passing motorist saw the child and hurriedly brought him to a local hospital but he died on the way to town.

Satterthwaite stated that although the child lived within the two-mile radius he frequently let him ride when the bus was not crowded.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from the home and were conducted by Rev. Pollard. Interment was in the family burying ground.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)

News from Washington to the effect that North Carolina is to get at least a partial adjustment in its freight rates is gratifying but it is to be hoped that those who are waging this fight for just freight rates for North Carolina will continue their efforts until the state gets a square deal from a rate standpoint.

Attention is again called to the tendency on the part of a great many motorists here to disregard the stop signs at some of the street intersections. Recently there have been some accidents in this city as a result of this failure to obey the stop signs and officers have declared that in the future every violator of this traffic law will be hailed into court. Obedience to traffic laws means greater safety for you and others who use the streets and highways.

FOR RELIEF THROUGH WORK (Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch) Necessarily broad and sweeping in outline, the President's new relief program to be substituted for CWA, now in process of demobilization, does not go into detail as yet. It contemplates, as is set out in the news, relief:

For distressed families in rural areas; For "stranded" populations in communities where industries have died; and

For unemployed in large cities. It is apparently inevitable, if somewhat startling, that many of those grouped as "stranded" populations must be actually and physically transplanted, because, as the text of the program points out, the areas in which they are now offer neither future employment at wages nor opportunity for self-support through agriculture.

From this, and, indeed, from the entire program, it is obvious that the President is firm in his purpose that relief shall be extended where it is imperatively needed, but that anything even approaching a dole shall be avoided. Those who would be wage-earners in normal times, as well as those who would earn their living by the practice of their profession or art, shall give work in return for relief.

Some of our people complain bitterly of the hundreds of millions being expended in unnecessary work and upon unnecessary works by the government. There has been and is and will be waste, of course. There has been and is and will be waste, equally of course, but what would the protestants have the nation do through its government? Would they have the government let hundreds of thousands, millions, of American men and women and children die of starvation and exposure? Of course not. It is insisted that a dole would cost less. Perhaps it would. But a dole would pauperize millions, and in the end that pauperization would cost the nation, would cost these very protestants, vastly more than all the expenditures the government has made or altruists have dreamed of.

Relief must be extended, and it must be paid for in work.

Chapter 46 TEMPLE DRUMS

SCANNING the sky she saw that yesterday's occasional cloud patches had disappeared. It would be a clear day—a day without rain. She made a gesture about her shoulders, as if to draw an invisible scarf about flesh that was suddenly chill.

The sun rose in a sudden upburst of purple, gold and crimson. A jaguar snarled in the mist. Janice left the roof and retired to the sumptuous room that was hers—hers until the rain stopped for a day.

A remote thumping, vibrating sound chord in the recesses of her mind, came to her. For a moment she lay relaxed staring at the varched ceiling. Soon she was conscious that about her silent figures were moving.

She propped herself upon an elbow and watched them. They were her servants—women garbed in the ankle-length robes square-cut and embroidered at the neck.

The thumping continued. Suddenly she realized it was the flat sound of the temple drum sounding out its dread summons from the pyramid top.

The women were preparing a costume. For a brief instant of panic she thought of screaming, of fight-

Ahead she saw a curious cage of wood upheld upon the shoulders of half a hundred men clad only in loin cloths. Above the murmur of the crowd she heard the snarls of the jaguars imprisoned within the huge cage.

The beasts, evidently, were to be part of the ceremony. Desperately she shaded her eyes against the new sun whose rays were beginning to pierce the sky over the eastern jungle. Where was Billy Langton? Could it be that he had been done away with—that he had not been held to participate in this ghastly rite?

She saw him, finally, heading the approaching procession. It was little wonder that she had not been able to pick him out of the column. It was his limp that betrayed him to her.

He was stripped to loin cloth and sandals. Some garment—a skin of some sort—was hung from his shoulders. His head-dress of feathers was like her own but fuller and more elaborate.

THE two columns joined one another on either side of the cage of jaguars. She saw the deep lines on Langton's face—his blond beard could not hide those engravings of suffering. His eyes were shadowed with pain and despair.

The drums increased their tempo.

ing, of making a great difficulty as she could anything to delay the inevitable procession that she realized was now scheduled for today.

But reason told her that she must conserve her strength. Some remote opportunity might occur that would give Billy and her a chance for living, or at worst a chance not to die on that horrible altar stone that to Janice seemed an animate thing crouched in the shadow of the priest's house awaiting the slanting rays of the morning sun.

She struggled, and succeeded in retaining her poise. She allowed the women to dress her, passive under their ministrations. A sleeveless robe, such as the one she wore yesterday, but more sheer of material, more lovely as to embroidery, was put upon her. Jeweled sandals were slid upon her feet.

HER minted-gold hair—that the demands of her profession had kept long—was combed in a vivid cascade down her back. A jeweled diadem was placed over the crown of her head, a band that served as a base for a multitude of brilliant feathers.

Food was brought to her, a veritable cornucopia of abundance, but she did not touch it. Her throat was dry, her eyes felt hot and tired. Her heart seemed a pulsing machine that hurt as it throbbed.

The thudding of the temple drum continued. She was scarcely conscious that she was led out into the open. She noticed curiously as she passed through the small door cut in the other wall that the jaguars were no longer there.

People were hurrying across the great open central plaza toward the pyramid. She saw a procession of priests and guards approaching from the eastern end of the plaza. Her own retinue of women was augmented by male guards.

to tell them that it's a good bill, but it is irritating to many of them to hear him add that if members get a chance to amend certain provisions "it won't be as good when passed as it now is."

As one of the members put it: "What's the use of throttling us when everybody knows this bill will go to the Senate and return to us unrecognizable. In this way we admit our own inferiority."

The House generally since the beginning of the present administration has submitted in more or less docile fashion to all of the restrictions imposed upon it by the leadership. There have been rumblings of discontent, but in the end it has yielded.

In the special session and thus far in the present one they have consented with some graciousness to being stifled by special rules.

Members, many of them able and

He flashed toward her a brief smile, a smile of encouragement she thought, but piteous in its impotence. She returned his smile; and thought she saw his eyes mist with a film of tears.

A jaguar screamed and threw its sinewy weight against the wooden bars. Instinctively she shrank away. The bars gave slightly but held. She noted in that instant that the gate to the cage was held by tied thongs.

It seemed a flimsy prison for such ferocity. She turned her attention to a litter, upheld by four men, that was approaching from the base of the pyramid.

Reclining upon it was the figure of the high priest. She had not seen him since she had been brought to the city. His face was pale—if a shade lighter than the usual mahogany color could be called pallor.

His lips were grim under the beaked nose. Only his eyes lived. They examined the grouped cavaliers impassively; his glance bearing upon Langton and the girl caused his eyes to gleam in fanatic approval at what they observed.

He raised his hand. As if the signal had been awaited the flat thud of the drum increased its tempo. The columns stirred into action. A murmur, like that of spreading fire in a sun-dried savannah, arose in the steamy air.

The throngs about the pyramid and the cenote cliffs were anticipating their performance. The stage was set;—the drama ready to be played. The prologue was done with; now the ceremony of the sacrifice was about to begin.

Janice thought of the bravery of Horatio Greene in a similar situation not long before. Would she be equal to the ordeal, she wondered? Would Billy?

ambitious, faced with stiff election contests later on in the year, have remained in obscurity, so the administration's legislative program could be enacted.

The appropriation continuing CWA was passed in 4 minutes, with no amendments and with only one dissenting vote. Here would have been an excellent opportunity for the members to manufacture political material for home consumption.

And the $258,000,000 income tax and revenue bill offered a rare opportunity. Tax measures always have been regarded by members of Congress as something in which all should have a share.

It was but natural that objections should be raised when the leaders shut them off with 16 hours of debate and deprived them of the right to offer amendments.

Safeguards Held Vital Experience has taught the administration leaders, however, of the dangers of throwing such a measure to the House without safeguards. They fear that otherwise the labor and care which the ways and means committee has lavished on the bill since last June probably might be wasted.

The committee wouldn't be able to recognize its bill after the House got through with it.

The Senate may, and in all probability will return it to the House in unrecognizable shape. But the administration will still hold the whip hand.

Nazis Limit Shops As Small Owners Decry Big Stores

Berlin—(AP)—About 1,250,000 of the German "mittelstand," the middle class store proprietors, have made a joint effort to sway the Nazi government to measure calculated to relieve their economic condition.

They were successful in getting the government to ban all new enterprises of this class until July 1, 1934, but they were defeated in trying to obtain a government order dissolving the huge co-operative societies which operate stores.

Co-ops Serve Millions.
Against the 1,250,000 estimated members of the "mittelstand" were ranged almost 14,000,000 people directly interested in the co-operative business through 3,700,000 members trading at 1,200 stores controlled by these organizations.

The shopkeepers complained, that like the department stores, which have not been banned although their volume has been reduced, the co-operative stores took business from the small store owners. The huge organization also acted to depress prices they charged.

Some went further, saying the co-ops are socialist at heart. The co-ops rejoined that they were interested only in keeping the food and clothing bills of the working man as low as possible.

Shops Given Sop
As a sop to the "mittelstand," the co-ops were ordered to join a national organization and plans may be pushed to lease the co-ops stores direct to the small store keepers.
In the case of department stores increased taxes, amounting to 20 per cent in Prussia during 1933, resulted only in a one per cent increase in the turnover tax paid by the small storekeepers.

Wrist watches, which really are tiny cameras, and fountain pens used to pump up surreptitiously a few drops of a new chemical in a war-gas laboratory also have been seized.

Here are some of the major offenses of espionage-punishable under the new French code:
Obtaining, divulging or inducing others to obtain or divulge secret objects, plans, maps, documents of information of a military, diplomatic or economic nature which affect the national defense or safety. Making photographs or drawings within six miles of a fortification or other military establishment to which access is forbidden strangers. Scaling walls or otherwise forcing way into such places.

Secret trial is provided for, if the authorities think the country's welfare would be endangered by publicity, and courts martial are given jurisdiction over all spies in time of war or a state of siege.

Mexico Uses CCC Plus Wage Fixing In Recovery Drive

Mexico, D. F.—(AP)—Two new leaves from President Roosevelt's recovery book were borrowed recently by the Mexican government, which already had followed several of the steps taken by the United States since last March.

The latest action calls for formation of a reforestation corps, similar to that in the United States. It will plant fruit and lumber trees in areas devastated by fires or other causes and in new areas suitable for growing. The corps will be organized and its members will be employed in the work.

To control the minimum salary law, another of the projects copied from the United States, more than 10,000 new government inspectors will tour the country and see that employers are meeting the wage requirements.

In line with the minimum salary law, the government is considering introducing codes of fair competition modeled on those of the NRA.

France Stiffens Spying Penalties

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Paris—(AP)—Stiffer punishment for spies has been voted by the French Parliament, impelled to speedy action by revelation of alleged espionage rings involving a young American couple, Robert Gordon Swift and his wife, in one and Serge Stavisky, arch swindler, in another.
A bill raising the minimum prison bought and sold, the authorities declared the spy scare has been great- est in the neighborhood of France's new $3,000,000,000 fortifications on the German frontier.

Women, always glamorous figures in the mysterious shadows of espionage, have figured in the French cases. Half of the 10 suspects caught in the drama that enveloped the Switzes are women.
The mysterious "Marie Louise" of the famous Ballico-Stewart case of the Tower of London, lurks in the background, with French police suspecting a connection between her and some of those arrested in Paris.

a better FERTILIZER for better times

"BUCK" CURRIN, of Angier, is a busy man. When he is not farming or trading at the warehouse he is traveling over the country getting acquainted with farmers and learning more about bright tobacco.

Mr. Currin is progressive. If something new comes along that will produce bigger yields of better quality tobacco, he wants to know about it and he finds out. Here is what he says about fertilizer:

"I have carefully observed the fertilization of tobacco for a number of years and have noted that extra potash applied to the crop either at planting or as a top-dressing, just after the tobacco is set, improves both the quality and yields under average conditions.
"I have seen this happen in different sections of North Carolina and also in Georgia. Several large growers here in Harnett County have used as much as 8 and 10% potash in their tobacco fertilizers at a profit."

Mr. Currin continues: "Buck" Blockley told me that he used sulphate of potash around part of his tobacco last year and it made enough extra to pay his whole fertilizer bill where he used it. W. A. Dupree, of Johnson County, has used an extra 100 pounds of sulphate of potash per acre around his tobacco for four years and he leads sales in his territory.

Of course, conditions vary in different sections and even on different farms, but from my experience as a farmer and warehouseman I can honestly recommend extra potash for tobacco. Some years it pays better than others."

"BUCK" CURRIN says
"I CAN HONESTLY RECOMMEND EXTRA POTASH for TOBACCO"

Your fertilizer man is familiar with the outstanding results obtained by many leading bright tobacco growers from the use of extra potash. That is why he now has 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER on sale. This mixture contains the extra potash your tobacco needs to produce increased yields of improved quality.
Quality is more important this year than ever before. The growers who produce the best quality tobacco will benefit most from better times. Use better fertilizer this year and produce "high-dollar" tobacco. Tell your fertilizer man you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER.

Bright tobacco growers will bend every effort to produce a better quality, higher-priced crop on a reduced acreage this year. Most low-grade tobacco will probably never reach the floor.
The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the North Carolina State College of Agriculture recommend a fertilizer containing 6 to 10% potash for bright tobacco.
Chemical analysis of high-quality tobacco plants proves that a 1,000-pound crop contains more than three times as much potash as 800 pounds of 3% potash fertilizer contains.
According to the new North Carolina fertilizer laws the nitrogen in a fertilizer analysis will now be expressed as nitrogen instead of ammonia as in the past. This means that this year's fertilizer as compared with last year's fertilizer of the same analysis will contain about 21% more actual nitrogen.
Fertilizer containing too much nitrogen produces rough, bony tobacco. Avoid this by selecting a fertilizer mixture in which the nitrogen has been well-balanced with plenty of potash.
3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER has proven its value in tests conducted throughout the entire bright tobacco belt. Many leading farmers in this section use 3-8-8 or increase the potash in their regular fertilizer to 8% or even more by using extra applications of potash.
3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER gives best results with closer rows, closer spacing, ridge cultivation and late topping. Set more plants per acre and top after about half the crop is gathered.
3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER holds the tobacco on the hill after it matures, without burning, producing a thin, grainy leaf with "high-dollar" quality.
Remember that 800 pounds of 3-8-8 usually costs less than 1,000 pounds of 3-8-3, yet 800 pounds of 3-8-8 contains more actual plant food and is a much better balanced fertilizer.
The New Deal Demands Quality! The growers who produce the best tobacco will benefit most from better times. Plan now to produce a this year on the correct spacing, high topping and the proper amounts of 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER. The extra potash in this fertilizer adds the extra quality that brings more on the floor.

The Fascinating Cave

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER No one could do anything around Puddle Muddle but go up to the cave. Now that they knew that the little cubs would have fur later on, and would look more like cubs, and that their eyes would open in about a month, Rip and Top Notch and Christopher were overjoyed at these two additions to Puddle Muddle life.

Then Christopher Crow arrived with a few small, young roots.

And then Willy Nilly arrived and he had brought a honey-comb to Honey Bear. Oh, the cave was the most fascinating place in the world, and in Puddle Muddle.

ONLY THE CENTER LEAVES FOR Luckies

1 Luckies do not use the top leaves... because top leaves are underdeveloped... they are not ripe... They would give a harsh smoke.

2 Luckies use only the center leaves of the finest tobacco plants... because the center leaves are the mildest, tenderest, smoothest.

3 Luckies do not use the bottom leaves, because bottom leaves are inferior in quality. They grow close to the ground, and are tough, coarse and always sandy.

This picture tells better than words the merit of your Lucky Strike. Luckies use only the center leaves. Not the top leaves, because those are underdeveloped—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves, because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground and are tough, coarse and always sandy. The center leaves are the mildest leaves, the finest in quality. These center leaves are cut into long, even strands and are fully packed into each and every Lucky—giving you a cigarette that is always round, firm, completely filled—no loose ends. Is it any wonder that Luckies are so truly mild and smooth? And in addition, you know, "It's toasted"—for throat protection, for finer taste.
