CUBAN GOVERNMENT PREPARES FOR DISORDERS

Three Prisoners Shot In Attempted Prison Escape

FIVE MEN IN HUNTSVILLE DISORDERS

Unarmed Guard Is Overpowered by the Prisoners and Knife placed at his Throat; Call for Help Attracts Attention of Another Guard Who Opened Fire.

Huntsville, Tex., March 7—(AP)—Three of five prisoners attempting a break from the State penitentiary were critically wounded by guards when their escape was frustrated early today.

The five convicts escaped from a cell row by means of a key they had made in the prison blacksmith shop. They descended the fire escape in the vicinity of the death chamber to the prison yards. They overpowered an unarmed guard, Howard Bass.

With one of the convicts pressing a knife against his throat, Bass called for help and attracted the attention of another guard who shot the prisoner holding the knife. The other four men ran to a ladder and began to scale the wall and two of them were shot by guards before the ascent was halted.

Two men had inquired for him at 1 o'clock but were told he had not registered. A maid passing the room supplied said she heard a woman shout "Don't do that."

The maid, terrified, fled without watching for the killer and reported to the police.

Pope may have fought for his life. Two revolvers were found on the floor near his body—both of them fired.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Make Move For More Employment Washington, March 7—(AP)—If industry gives the support to be asked of it tonight the administration plans to reduce NRA code working hours ten per cent in an attempt to create more employment.

Sue industries as could not stand it would be exempted.

General Hugh S. Johnson will advocate the plan in his windup address to the assembled code authorities who also learned today that President Roosevelt expects Congress to extend his licensing powers beyond June 16. The NRA itself has another year from then to go but the power provision was limited to a single year.

These NRA developments coincided this afternoon with Senate plans to expedite the already approved navy reinforcement plan back to the House while the latter chamber worked on the War Department bill.

In a Senate speech Robinson (R., Indiana), sighted testimony that J. P. Morgan and Company sold 4,500 shares of United Aircraft stock shortly before the air mail contract cancellation case on evidence that the bankers had advanced information of the action.

Administration forces claimed enough Senate votes for ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty with reservations probably to be conceded to their position to do it. A poll showed the pro-treaty ranks far short of the necessary two-thirds for ratification in its present form.

SEEK FACTS ON CAPITAL NEEDS

Survey Being Made Here to Determine Needs of Local Industries.

Existing needs for working capital of established in dustrial and commercial enterprises were being determined today in rapid survey of this territory by R. L. Powell, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce. The survey is being made at the request of George J. Seay, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

Governor Seay stipulated that only enterprises with sufficient unencumbered assets and prospects to justify loans of not more than five years' maturity be included and that the credit could not be applied to liquidation of existing debts.

The Reserve Bank officials also asked for an estimate as to what extent extension of such credit would continue present employment as well as increase payrolls.

Secretary Powell said today that he would welcome information and suggestions from business men in this Greenville trade territory immediately, as he desires to supply the information within 24 hours.

HARRINGTON HEARING SET FOR FRIDAY

Habeas Corpus Air-ing Changed From Today Until Friday Noon.

The habeas corpus hearing for Matthew Harrington, held in jail for the alleged slaying of his stepfather, John Gurganus, on the night of February 17, has been postponed from today until Friday. It was announced today by Sheriff Sam Whitehurst.

The hearing was originally set for Snow Hill this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, but owing to the inability of the state to provide witnesses in time, the date was changed until Friday at 12 o'clock. The hearing will be before Judge Frank A. Daniels, of Goldsboro, presiding over Greene County Superior court at Snow Hill.

The writ of habeas corpus was issued yesterday morning by Judge Daniels upon application of Judge Albion Lunn, of Greenville, member of counsel for the defendant.

Harrington, who surrendered at Washington last Thursday night was brought to Greenville and turned over to Pitt county authorities. He was held in jail here that night but was later transferred to Farmville.

He has stoutly denied his innocence, although admitting officers said, that he was riding with his stepfather the day the crime was committed.

He was reported to have left here in a borrowed automobile. The car was stolen shortly after he left Greenville, Harrington stated.

Officers have declined to state the nature of the evidence which they have against the young man, and the habeas corpus writ was obtained by counsel for the purpose of obtaining this information along with bond.

MRS. MURPHY FOUNDERS DAY SPEAKER HERE

Snow Hill Club Leader Paints Bright Outlook at College Observance.

Mrs. W. B. Murphy, head of the Woman's Work of the NRA in North Carolina, a member of the board of trustees, and a prominent member in clubs and patriotic organizations, made a stirring, enthusiastic speech at East Carolina Teachers college this morning in the celebration of Founders Day. She said more or less in fifteen minutes that most orators or speakers say in an hour, emphasizing the importance of keeping alive the past so that the present may understand the purpose of initiative and build upon the solid foundations she vitalized the past by tying up the present with it and giving an optimistic outlook on the future.

Her illustrations were aptly drawn, some from personal records of ancestors, others from humorous experiences, and still others from literary sources, giving quotations from poets. She had her audience in gales of laughter.

ORGANIZATION HEADS CALLED FOR MEETING

Far m Colonization Movement to be Discussed at Courthouse Thursday Night.

J. T. Bland, director of the local Reemployment Bureau today called a meeting of heads of all public organizations of the city at the courthouse tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the plan of the federal government for the colonization of down-and-out farmers.

Mr. Bland said the meeting was being held at a suggestion from Homer B. Mask of Raleigh, head of the farm placement movement in North Carolina. Mr. Mask will be present to outline the program and obtain the aid of the various organizations in putting it over in this community.

Mr. Bland today was mailing out letters to the leaders of the various organizations of the community, requesting that they be present and obtain information on the movement.

It is the purpose of the federal government to provide land and money for farmers who have no place to go this year. The growers will be financed through a special fund set aside for the purpose.

A certain amount of money has been allotted North Carolina for this purpose and land owners who have land not in cultivation will be asked to turn it over for the colonization movement.

Mr. Bland expressed hope that as many organization leaders as possible would be present and aid in the placement of homeless farmers so that they will be self-sustaining and capable of providing for their families.

BOY KIDNAPPED, ROBBED, FREED

Salma, March 7—Theodore Hendricks, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Hendricks, of Rocky Mount, was kidnapped around 3 o'clock a mile north of that city this afternoon and released two miles south of Selma.

The boy, who is very small for his age, walked to town and told Chief of Police John Jeffreys, of Selma, that two men riding in a V-8 Ford picked him up one mile north of Rocky Mount as he was returning to his home in Rocky Mount telling him they would put him out when they reached home.

As they did not stop in Rocky Mount the boy began to scream. He was gagged and blindfolded. He says he had 2.75 in his pocket. This was taken from him by the kidnapers. He says his kidnapers were white men about 30 to 35 years of age. The police here telephoned the officer at Rocky Mount to inform the boy's parents where he was. He was placed on an A. C. L. train at 10:30 tonight for Rocky Mount.

SEES LOWER FREIGHT RATE IN RIVER PLAN

Samuel Dickenson, of Eastern Carolina Association, Gives Out Facts on Project.

Information relative to the development of Greenville as an inland waterway port was set forth today by Samuel F. Dickenson, secretary-traffic manager of the Eastern North Carolina Association of this city.

The facts set forth by Mr. Dickenson pertain to freight rate discrimination in the south which is hoped to be improved by deepening Tar river and opening the stream to navigation.

The information follows: The transportation or commercial map of the country is divided into three sections or territories. In other words, so far as transportation or commerce is concerned, we have three separate countries within the United States. These sections are known as Official, Southern and Western classification territories.

The official classification territory, roughly speaking, is that section lying north of the Norfolk and Western Railroad from Norfolk, Va., to the Ohio River and east of the Mississippi river. The Southern classification territory lies north of that line and east of the Mississippi river. The western classification territory is all of the country west of the Mississippi river.

In each of the above named territories, separate scales of rate and classification rating of commerce apply. Official classification territory, generally speaking, enjoys lower scales and classification ratings than either of the other two territories. Rates and classification ratings apply generally within Southern classification territory average approximately 34 per cent higher than those applying within Official classification territory. Eastern North Carolina's great disadvantage can readily be seen, due to its proximity to the lower rated Official classification territory. In other words, commodities are brought to Virginia cities at lower rates and distributed in eastern North Carolina cheaper than the commodities can be brought to eastern North Carolina. Also, due to the excessive and discriminatory rates forced upon the section, industries are unable to locate in the section, in spite of all the advantages that may be offered. The final result is that our industries are very few.

Due to the fact that the south has no representatives on the Interstate Commerce Commission and possibly will not have for some years to come the section as a whole will have to continue to suffer from high and discriminatory freight rates. However, eastern North Carolina has a sufficient number of weapons with which to fight.

JOHNSON WILL GET LAST WORD ON NRA AIRING

Administrator is Expected to spring Surprise Before Industrialists.

Washington, March 7—(AP)—General Hugh S. Johnson will have the last word tonight in NRA's grand roundup of criticism and suggestion.

Something important is looked for when the NRA chief takes the floor before the big convocation of industrialists. There is an expectation at the conference it may possibly be an announcement of a presidential order cutting working hours and increasing wage rates.

The administrator, it is felt, may spring a detailed program of action designed to put more men to work. His immediate goal is a million.

Johnson is not saying anything about his plans. He let it be known that he is revising provisions on methods for the last minute.

It is clear that many of the arguments against the Roosevelt suggestion that working hours be shorted have left the NRA chief unconvinced.

Exclusive of the good industry he regarded a ten per cent cut in hours accompanied by a proportionate boosting of wage rates as feasible.

New Rumors Of Revolt Fly In All Parts City

Dr. Alice L. Wynekoop, 63-year-old physician, was convicted in Chicago yesterday for the operating table murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, and sentenced to 25 years in prison.

COMMUNISTS SAID TO BE ON WARPATH

Machine Guns Placed Atop the Presidential Palace; Guards Doubled; Autoists and Pedestrians are Searched by Police; Seven Men Arrested Last Night in Connection with Trouble.

Havana, March 7—(AP)—Machine guns were placed hastily atop the palace roof today and guards were redoubled as new rumors of revolt flew.

Part of the army and communists the rumors ran; plan to join the followers of former president Grau San Martin in an attack on the palace.

Soldiers and police guards were doubled throughout the city. Automobiles loaded with sailors and soldiers moved through the streets. Autoists and pedestrians were searched.

Seven men were arrested during the night in suburban Lorasmo. All were charged with conspiring against the government of President Carlos Mendieta.

It was 2 o'clock this morning before the weary Mendieta cabinet which set up most of Monday night ended a session in which stringent measures against the growing unrest taken by the president late yesterday afternoon were approved.

Facing perhaps the most critical situation since he came into power, President Mendieta assumed wide powers by suspending ten of the most important personal guarantees in the provisional constitution.

He also signed the "law of national defense" which an aide said would "divide and break up communist activities." In addition the president ordered the immediate deportation of all alien agitators.

DR. WYNEKOOP IS SENT TO PEN

Woman Physician Is Sentenced to 25 Yrs. in Slaying of Daughter-in-Law.

Chicago, March 7—(AP)—Only a higher court or death itself can save Dr. Alice Wynekoop from the penitentiary now.

A jury convicted her last night of the slaying of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, in the operating table murder that horrified the nation.

It fixed a sentence of 25 years in state penitentiary. Only two ballots were taken.

The murder drama that began when Rheta's body was found with a bullet in the back on Dr. Wynekoop's operating table last November 21 kept its interest in a rushing crescendo until its last.

With the jury in its place ready to report its verdict, Judge Harry B. Miller summoned the jail physician to stand by the 63-year-old woman and be ready to administer to her a strong heart stimulant less the shock of the verdict strike her dead.

She did not need his ministrations. She heard the verdict as she sat in her wheel chair without the sign of a quiver. She turned to her children, Walker and Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, and said: "Go home now, children, and sleep your mother is not guilty. No, no."

Mrs. Stepp was taken into custody along with seven half gallon jars of whiskey when police raided her home on the northern end of Summit street last week. She denied that she had the whiskey for sale, but said she used it for the asthma.

The court permitted the younger of the woman's several children to accompany the mother to the county home.

Several other cases were disposed of the major part consisting of charges of violating the prohibition law and larceny. Work was completed about 4 o'clock.

THOSE AWNINGS, AGAIN

Keep right after them about these low awnings, said one of our tall friends this week but it is not only the tall ones that some of the awnings are bothering. Really some of the awnings in our business section are so low that not even a person of average height can pass under one without doing the low bridge act.

LOCAL LABOR SHOULD COME FIRST

This matter of bringing in outside workers on public jobs instead of procuring the laborers in the communities in which the work is being done should be stopped. The CWA and PWA programs were put into effect by the government to relieve the unemployment situation in the various communities and when outsiders are brought in from other counties and given preference over local workers one of the main purposes of the whole plan is being defeated. There should be a complete investigation of the report that such a practice has been put into effect on road work in his county and steps should be taken to see that it is not repeated.

A GOOD INVESTMENT

In addressing a gathering of business men yesterday called together to discuss plans for aiding in the project seeking water transportation on Tar River to Greenville, Mayor R. C. Flanagan declared, "You will never get any more out of a project than you are willing to put into it and unless the people of our community are willing to aid in this movement to procure water transportation facilities they cannot hope for its success."

Of course Mayor Flanagan was absolutely correct in his statement and if our citizens want in the future to reap the benefits of lower freight rates they must be willing now to give their aid to the Eastern Carolina Association in its efforts to get the government to deepen the channel between here and Washington.

"The new scenery," he says, "is all of rubber. It results in great economy in transport. All road companies will have to have it. The scenery can assume a num-

Judith Lane

by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Cla Sanford is interviewing Judith Lane, Tom Bevin's secretary, as the "perfect stenographer." But Judith is more than interested in the fact that Norman Dale, junior partner of the firm from which handles Bevin's business, has driven her to the hotel. Norman asks for another appointment. Judith tells him that she and Bevin are leaving soon for the Rio Diablo dam in west Texas, one of her employer's big engineering projects.

Chapter Three

THE INTERVIEW

Cla's quick laugh caused several diners to look at the two girls—"you would remind me I was supposed to be working, instead of enjoying myself. Wait until I finish this salad and I'll begin on you."
"There . . . now this is the idea. Someone at the Engineers' luncheon, today, said that the average stenographer thinks that all she needs to hold down a job is a Hollywood face and a Follies figure."
"Fellow named Kline said if his office ornament worked half as hard on the typewriter as she did on her face, both her face and his letters would look better. He said there couldn't be a perfect stenographer because—"
"Yes, I know the rest," interrupted Judith. "Big Tom confessed his part also. I'm willing to admit I haven't the brains of an Einstein.

made ready to carry every movable thing to the one high spot within reach before the storm struck, seemed oppressed.

the patience of Job nor the endurance of a Robot, but I must have considerable talent as an actress to make him think so." She laughed at the expression on Cla's face and added, "What else would you like to know?"
"How can a girl become a perfect stenographer?"
"By following a simple, seven-worded rule."
"What is it?"
"Find an employer like Big Tom Bevin."

Cla was delighted with the answer. "Anything you'd like me to say?" she asked. "I know nearly every detail of your checkered career. I know how you wanted to become an engineer and why you took up stenography. I know how you took a shabby three-room attic that looked like a turret with an underslung jaw and made it look like an up-to-date pent house."

"Think I'll use that picture Cal took of your place last August . . . and then a close-up he took when he was testing out his new studio light."

"Cla," interposed Judith eagerly, "why not have your staff artist sketch a figure of a Robot with Einstein hair sitting under a gourd vine, that's what Job sat under, wouldn't it? I'd much rather you wouldn't use my picture."

JUDITH'S wish was granted. Next morning with Big Tom chuckling, they read Cla's story and clipped the cartoon from the newspaper to be framed, then they turned to business.

"Notify the expedition personnel to meet us at the Turning Basin, Pier 24, June 1st at six a.m. Better buy yourself a new pith helmet; its going to be hotter than Hades. How about the cook's wife, will she go along? Fine. That will protect your reputation from the biddies . . . catch that telephone, Judy."

"Bevin Construction Company . . . Oh good morning Mr. Dale, Mr. Bevin's Yes, indeed . . . I'm fine . . ."

She handed the telephone to her employer then turned to her typewriter—"ratatata ratatata!" went the typewriter and ratatata went Judith's heart—

"That was Norman Dale, Judy," interrupted Bevin, "he phoned to say he'd make the trip to Rio Diablo with us, representing his firm, you know—"

"Norman Dale telephoned to say he was making the trip to Rio Diablo with us."

Three months, nearly four had passed since Tom Bevin had looked across his desk to where his stenographer sat typing, and relayed the telephone message.

ber of different combinations, depending on the amount of air pumped in. With phosphorus, variable colors, varnishes and a alabaster for brief showings which can then be sponged off the rubber shapes on being blow up give remarkable effects.
"For instance, I have succeeded in connecting a tree which begins to bud, flowers and bears fruit according to the amount of the air pressure."
Theatrical critics say the new scenery means the end of spear-carrying on the stage.

Judith, a sun bronzed girl in khaki shirt and breeches, high boots and broad brimmed campaign hat, thought of that moment many times as the red gold days which followed winged along.

The trip was worse than Big Tom had anticipated. The Rio Diablo valley had been held for two years in the tenacious grip of an unrelenting sun. The Devil River had dwindled in size until it wound through its rock ribbed channel like a red hot wire. The plains cupped up like a copper brazier, bound by a far circle of red-gold hills.

THE native families were starving and the expedition, sharing rations brought in by occasional mule trains from the Gulf coast, grew bone-thin and taciturn. And as though the heat had burned the dress of artificial living from each, Judith watched a new Norman Dale emerge.

She sat on the hillside now, watching him in the valley below. The fearful drouth was about to be broken by a storm which might equal the drouth in its intensity.

Fear hung over the natives like a visible cloud, their cattle were lowered uneasily, the pack mules were fretful, even the expedition men, moving with swift efficiency as they made ready to carry every movable thing to the one high spot within reach before the storm struck, seemed oppressed.

Through it all Dale's voice could be heard, calm, cheerful . . .
"Miss Lane," a small hand tugged at her sleeve. "You've been sittin' there and a thinkin' and you haven't told the rest of the story. Y'said the prince and Cinderella were married and then you stopped . . . what comes after?"
"I'm sorry," Judith's voice softened as she looked down into the circle of eager faces peering up at her. "The prince and Cinderella were married and lived happily ever after."

"Ever after?" piped the small one who had snuggled close as the black pall of clouds spread over them.
"Ever after!" repeated Judith firmly and smiled at the tall figure below, who had started plodding up hill behind a pack train carrying household goods.

Last night, when a white moon had turned the valley to old gold, she had promised to spend her ever-after with him.

She had wanted to work at his side now, but Big Tom had pointed out the necessity of keeping up the native children's morale and she had kept their eyes from the approaching danger by keeping them focused on herself as she told them stories.

"Pop says this storm's goin' to be a hum-dinger and we'll be lucky if any of us gits out alive," offered a tousled haired boy on the outskirts of the circle.
"You've lived here through other storms haven't you, Tommy?" inquired Judith, calmly.

Tomorrow, the storm breaks.

Grandpa's Dreadful Idea

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The Ducks all hurriedly waddled down to their pond, with Willy Nilly following after. Rip ran along, too, after the little man, and Christopher flew overhead, while Top Notch strutted down as quickly as he could.

The Bears were still making up for the time they had been asleep—by eating and eating and eating, while Honey Bear was watching the little cubs, noticing, as only a mother Bear could notice, how they grew a very little each day.

"Good day," said Grandpa Grouchy Galump as Willy Nilly and the other approached.
"Good day," answered Willy Nilly.
"It's very pleasant weather," said Grandpa Grouchy Galump.
"Indeed, that is so," agreed Willy Nilly. He wished that Grandpa would leave.

"Good weather makes people feel better," continued Grandpa Grouchy Galump. Willy Nilly nodded his head.
"I suppose you are out taking a walk?" Willy Nilly asked. "The woods are nice on a day like this, I always think." Willy Nilly did so want Grandpa Grouchy Galump to move on.

Confidential advices reach Washington from the far East indicate that a Russian-Japanese war may easily be in the cards for this spring although the situation has not yet reached the stage of certainty.

Government officials refuse to discuss the subject at all, but they are receiving interesting reports about it. The general impression around the capital is that the United States will take no hand.

The Japanese objective, if war should come, is said in private reports to be occupation of that strip of Russian territory lying along the coast, including Vladivostok, and that portion of Sakhalin island which now belong to Russia. A look at the map will show.

At least one well-informed military expert thinks it all would be over in 90 days. Russia has a nest of airplanes at Vladivostok, which can do much damage to the Japanese cities, but it is the infantry which takes and holds territory, and Russia's lines of communication across Siberia are long and difficult.

Unless a new policy is adopted by Washington, the extent of action would be a protest plus non-recognition of any war occupation. Even at that the subject might provide a political campaign controversy, especially in the far west.

Lenin Embalmers Find Body Perfect After Full Decade

Moscow —(AP)—The two soviet scientists who for ten years have been responsible for the preservation of Lenin's body, are hopeful that the embalming methods they employed will be effective indefinitely.

The body, which lies in a glass enclosed catafalque in a great granite tomb in Red Square, recently was examined by a special commission of scientists and pronounced in perfect condition.

"We had to use unprecedented methods in the performance of our task," said a statement from Professors V. P. Vorobiev and B. I. Zabrsky, the biologists who regularly attend the body. "Embalmed Egyptian bodies turned dark and became mummified but Lenin's body has remained intact, kept its natural color and even the facial expression has not changed."

With out revealing the secret of their process, the two men who recently were awarded the Order of Lenin for their work, predicted that the body will last "many tens of years" longer. Lenin died January 21, 1924.

Civil Works Difficulties
No politician thinks it was accident that republican attacks and democratic revolt in congress increased just as the Civil Works program began to taper off.

Other subjects are more talked about in debate, but underneath is the reaction from local communities where workers are being laid off, creating new and most unwelcome local problems.

Members of Congress were not the only ones who have heard from home about that. Mr. Roosevelt's own investigators in the field sensed quickly what was happening.

The new relief plan was intended reassure pinched and worried localities. At first glance, the new proposal would seem to perpetuate, on a limited scale and under a new name, various of the features of Civil Works. Details however must await a further administration study.

Having committed himself definitely to end Civil Works, the President now is faced with the problem long foreseen by the political-minded: Can he cut off these payments without a large-scale sacrifice of popularity.

The administration's political opponents are disposed to wait and see about that, meantime talking about other things.

Stalin's Epithet For Foreign Enemies Becomes Slogan

Moscow —(AP)—In the midst of Far Eastern war talk, a new slogan has been popularized here, designed to hurl defiance at potential enemies and to symbolize the confidence of Kremlin leaders in the outcome of any possible conflict.

"We will teach the (the enemy) to keep their swinish snouts out of our soviet potato patch," is the catch-phrase, first given to the public by Joseph Stalin, number one man of the proletarian dictatorship in his report to the All-Union congress of the communist party.

Thus labeling all nations cherishing aggressive designs against the Soviet Union as "swine," Stalin emphasized the country's readiness to defend its borders although reiterating its desire for peace.

After he uttered it, the phrase was echoed by Kliment Voroshilov commissar for war; V. Molotov, president of the council of peoples commissars and others.

It has been blazoned in daily prints and on speaker's rostrums throughout the country and has been used as the theme for numerous cartoons.

Scotland Neck, N. C., March 7.—A cyclone of great intensity, but of small extent, struck two miles south of this place Sunday afternoon, completely destroying all buildings on "The Oaks," formerly a dairy farm. Despite the havoc, no persons in the house were injured and no animal hurt.

CLOSED BANK ROBBED OF $200 IN CURRENCY

High-Point, March 7.—A closed bank was robbed here Sunday. Approximately $200 in currency was taken from the desk of John D. Biggs, receiver for the Commercial National Bank, and no trace of the missing funds has been found as yet.

Office employed at work in an adjoining room were inclined to blame the crime on two small negro boys who visited Mr. Biggs' office earlier in the day and in his absence waited a few minutes for his return. They did not wait until his arrival however, and when he did come in the money was found to be missing. A quantity of silver was untouched but a batch of bills ranging from five to 20 dollars each was taken.

claiming he was drunk when making the statement. His testimony involved himself, and implicated Willie Jones, better known as "Bull rider." Negro ex-convict, now in jail awaiting trial on the other charge.

The brutal attack-slaying of 19-year-old Marvel Cullom, whose mutilated body was found in the woods near her home one Sunday morning, October 8, two days after her disappearance, remains unsolved.

RELEASE SUSPECT IN MYSTERIOUS MURDER

Roanoke Rapids, March 7.—G. T. Pierce, arrested in connection with the Colom murder case, was freed after a thorough questioning in Halifax, by Solicitor W. H. S. Burgwyn. Prife gave incriminating evidence to the coroner, then went back to him and denied the statement,

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 4.

The golden text was from 1 Cor. 3:11: "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, Thou son of David, have mercy on us. And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yes, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened: and Jesus straitly charged them saying, See that no man know it." (Matt. 9:28-30)

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus established in the Christian era the precedent for all Christianity, theology, and healing. Christians are under as direct orders now, as they were then, to be Christlike, to possess the Christ-spirit, to follow the Christ-example, and to heal the sick as well as the sinning. The Christian can prove this today as readily as it was proved centuries ago."

National Defense One Object Of Subsidies For Ocean Mail

By CARY C. CRANMER
Washington—(AP)—Delivering the mail is not the only job of the post office department.

Under present laws it has undertaken also to foster a merchant marine and to pioneer in air transportation.

In common with most large countries, the United States subsidizes its merchant marine, and in this country governmental aid has taken the form of liberal terms for transportation of international mails.

These ocean mail contracts, let under the merchant marine act of 1928, are now under fire, along with airmail contracts already annulled as a result of a Senate committee investigation.

This law authorizes rates not exceeding $150 a mile of outbound voyage for mail on seventh class vessels, or $12 a mile on vessels of first class, with a sliding scale for intermediate class vessels, regardless of whether one bag or one ton of mail is carried on the trip.

Under this system the post office department has paid to ocean mail carriers during the five fiscal years since enactment of the law a total of $89,645,634. On a weight basis the carriers would have received $12,935,546, according to department calculations.

Last year the contractors received $26,000,000, compared with $3,000,000 they would have received if paid on a weight basis.

In one case an ocean carrier would have received $10.40 for mail on a weight basis, but received $211,985 under its contract.

However, creation of a merchant marine, augmenting national defense and extending the American flag on the high seas were other purposes of the act.

The law provides contracts can be awarded only to the lowest responsible bidder, who must be an American citizen. Ships used must be either American built or American registry prior to 1928 and during the term of the contract.

The ships must be officered by American citizens and manned by a crew of which half are Americans for the first four years of the contract. For the next six years of the contract the crew must be two-thirds American.

The law also requires the ships be built according to specifications approved by the secretary of the navy, or otherwise be suited for prompt and economical conversion into auxiliary naval vessels.

The postmaster general in his contract can stipulate that a certain number of new vessels be built or old ones reconstructed. Under such conditions 54 new vessels are required in the 43 contracts now in force. 12 others are conditionally required and 61 old ships are required to be reconstructed. By last July 32 of the new ships had been built and 46 of the old ones had been reconstructed.

The total cost of construction and reconstruction under the contracts is estimated at $160,000,000.

The merchant marine act of 1920 also created a $25,000,000 fund with the United States Shipping Board to be used for loans to encourage ship building.

Prior to 1891 ocean carriers were paid only the postage earned for carrying the mails.

But the formation of the Universal Postal Union in 1874 provided reciprocal agreements by which each nation was to deliver mail of foreign origin free of charge in its own territory and retain all postage receipts for mail to be delivered in foreign countries.

As a result the United States reduced its foreign postage rate from 25 to 5 cents, and the receipts of the ocean carriers were less.

The law of 1891 was the first subsidy of general application. It permitted mail contracts on a mileage basis of from $4 to 66 cents a mile.

But the postmaster general in 1891 even then considered these rates too low for an effective subsidy and when the world war came on the United States was short of shipping for its war supplies and armies, with the result that the government entered into a wholesale shipbuilding program.

As the best way to apply ketaoin "Winking on" mascara is my choice as the best way to apply it to the lashes. Put less mascara on the lower lashes, as that emphasizes the length of the upper ones.

OFFERS $100 REWARD IN HUNEYCUTT DEATH

Shortly after Huneycutt's body was found Ted Blalock and Joe Lent were arrested and charged with murder. Both are out now under bond of $2000. It is understood that new evidence has been discovered which indicates definitely that Huneycutt was murdered.

New York March 7—(AP)—Financial markets sidestepped slowly again today and most of the time there was only a faint murmur of the speculative pulse. The activity in stocks was around the low level of yesterday. Trading circles apparent were waiting for an impulse from Washington or elsewhere.

Late News Flashes

(Continued from Page One) The Dickstein resolution for a probe of alleged Nazi propaganda was approved by the House rules committee, meaning that the House soon will get a change to pass on it.
Banghart Goes On Trial. Chicago, March 7—(AP)—Basil "The Wolf" Banghart, gunman, robber and member of Roger Touhy gang went on trial today for the $70,000 kidnaping of John Factor.
Three of Banghart's mates, Roger Touhy, Gustav Schaffer and Albert Kator, already are serving 99-year sentences for kidnaping the wealthy stock broker.
To the surprise of Defense Attorney William Stuart, Judge Walter Steffen of the criminal court, today overruled all defense motions and ordered Banghart on trial immediately. Stuart had asked for a change of venue from Cook county. Banghart was a witness for Touhy, Schaffer and Kator in their trial, telling a fantastic story of Factor having kidnaped himself to make friends with leaders in the federal government and to create sympathy in England where he is wanted on stock fraud charges.
Denies Testimony. Washington, March 7—(AP)—Testimony he previously had given that Harry Woodring, assistant secretary of war, had changed specifications for airplanes was denied today before the House military committee by Major General Benjamin Foulois.
