FOUR MEN ARRESTED IN $50,000 BANK ROBBERY

Alleged Slayer Denied Bond At Hearing Friday

HARRINGTON MUST FACE GRAND JURY

Alleged Slayer of His Stepfather, John Gurganus, Ordered Remanded to Jail at Habeas Corpus Hearing Yesterday; Seven Witnesses Put On Stand; Judge Declares Evidence Not Sufficient to Convict

Mathew Harrington, 23-year-old Pitt county young man, charged with the slaying of his stepfather, John Gurganus, on the night of February 17, was being held in jail here today awaiting grand jury action at the next sitting of criminal Superior Court.

Harrington was denied bond by Judge Frank A. Daniels, of Goldsboro. In a habeas corpus hearing held at Snow Hill yesterday afternoon and was remanded to jail to await trial.

At conclusion of the evidence by the State, Judge Daniels said he was ordering Harrington held for investigation by the grand jury but that in his opinion the evidence was not sufficient to convict.

He also indicated that one of the main reasons he was holding the young man on the purely circumstantial evidence was because Harrington refused to say what he did with the car and to account for his whereabouts the night of the slaying.

Gurganus' body with three bullet wounds in the face was found in the Tar river causeway fill Sunday afternoon about 2 o'clock by three negro youths walking along the highway. A coroner's jury several days later came to the conclusion that Gurganus met death at the hands of a person or persons unknown to the jury.

The decision was made the middle of last week. A day later Harrington who told officers he had been to New York, surrendered to Sheriff Rumley of Beaufort county at Washington and asked that he be brought to Greenville and turned over to the authorities. He was brought here at midnight and lodged in jail pending investigation of the case.

When county officers showed a disinclination to grant immediate hearing Judge Albion Cunn, who with Rodman and Rodman of Washington, are counsel for the defendant, appeared before Judge Daniels and obtained the writ of habeas corpus. Judge Dunn said it was imperative that they know the nature of the evidence against Harrington before they would be able to arrange for his defense.

Seven witnesses were examined in the hearing yesterday afternoon but all of the evidence was of a circumstantial nature and, in the words of the presiding jurist, "not sufficient to convict."

The first witness was J. Knott Proctor, who loaned Harrington an automobile the day the slaying occurred. The car was never returned. Harrington was said to have told officers the machine was stolen from him during his absence.

Proctor merely related loaning the machine to Harrington and that it was not returned.

CWA WORKERS FACE NEW CUT COMING WEEK

Additional Men to be Taken off the Payroll Here Sometime Next Week

Another reduction of CWA workers in this county is in prospect for next week. K. T. Futrell, Pitt county CWA administrator, announced today.

Although the total number of employees affected by the cut is not known, Mr. Futrell said he expected to be advised of this the first of the week.

Only about 430 men were on the payroll today as result of a reduction order last week and the payroll next week will be about $4,800. The payroll the past Thursday was $5,500 but that included 75 employees dropped after they received their pay.

The total number of workmen employed on various projects in this county when the program was at its peak was around 1,100. Three cuts since that time have brought about the great reduction evident in the number of men to take the field next week.

All necessary projects are being continued as rapidly as possible. These include swimming pools, school work and community building. The entire program is scheduled to end May 1.

SEEK TO GET TROOPS OUT OF STRIKE AREA

Petition Asks Governor Miller to withdraw All Soldiers At Once.

Birmingham, Ala., March 10.—(AP)—National guard troops and airplanes patrolled troubled Walker county hills today as citizens of the district circulated a petition to Governor B. M. Miller asking removal of three companies of soldiers sent to preserve order in the Alabama mine strike and denying their sheriff's statement that troops were needed to prevent bloodshed.

Meanwhile the United Mine Workers of America here continued efforts to reach an agreement with mine operators in order that the estimated 9,000 men in 24 shafts might return to their tasks.

DETECTIVES WITH GRAND JUROR HELD

Hugh White, Bookkeeper of S. C. Bank Held on Charge of Embezzling Bank; Bond For Each Fixed at $50,000; White Makes Statement Which is Not Disclosed

Greenville, S. C., March 10.—(AP)—Hugh White, South Carolina National Bank clerk here, two detectives and a member of the Greenville county grand jury were arrested today on a charge growing out of the $50,000 bank holdup here Thursday.

The others named in the warrant were Detective Henry Lindsay, 34, and Detective John Cores, 39, of the city police force and Robert William, 39, member of the grand jury and a Greenville service station operator.

White, a bookkeeper at the bank, was one of the two bank employees heldup within the shadow of the morning, but the two bandits who took the $50,000 which was being transferred from the postoffice to the institution less than two blocks away.

White is charged in federal warrant issued by U. S. Commissioner H. C. Willom and sworn to by L. B. Reed, of Charlotte, special investigator for the government, with embezzlement.

A second warrant charged that Cores, Lindsay and Willom did unlawfully aid and abet one Hugh White in the embezzling, and abstracting and willfully misapplying the monies of the South Carolina National bank at Greenville in the sum of $50,000.

Bond for each of the four arrested was set at $25,000 each shortly after their arrest.

Cores, Lindsay and Willom denied the holdup. Officials said White made a statement in the case but did not release it immediately. Officials announced today they had not located the loot.

NEW BERN MAN HANGS SELF WITH NECKTIE

New Bern, March 10.—Melbourne H. Sutton, 26, committed suicide yesterday morning around seven o'clock by hanging himself with his necktie to the door between the dining room and kitchen at his home here. No motive could be ascribed by relatives or friends.

Mr. Sutton was dressed at the time, and his wife thought he had gone to work. Apparently he was in good health and spirits. When she started to the kitchen shortly afterwards to obtain the baby's morning milk, she saw the body dangling from the top of the door, which had been closed. Quickly she seized a butcher knife and cut the tie, the body immediately falling to the floor.

A physician was summoned, and he pronounced the man dead. Coroner G. M. Henderson viewed the body but did not think an inquest necessary. The deceased was well known through the region. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sutton. For some time he had been manager of the Shell City Service Station.

The vessel was bound to the Swift fertilizer plant's docks to discharge fertilizer materials when it grounded. Efforts to float it failed, and it was necessary to unload a part of the cargo before it was dragged into deep water yesterday.

Madrid.—(AP)—Disorders in Spain last year are credited by insurance companies for a boom in the sale of fire insurance. The "take" totalled $9,000,000, a peak for Spain. It compares with $8,200,000 in 1932.

NEARLY SEVEN INCHES OF SNOW VISITS SECTION

Blanket of White Disappearing Rapidly Under Impetus Of Rainfall

The first real snow of the winter visited Greenville last night and early today but was rapidly disappearing under a drizzle which started about 8 o'clock and promised to continue the greater part of the day.

B. T. Clark, local government weather observer, said the precipitation today was the heaviest since the snowfall March 1, 1927, when a record of 20 inches was recorded here. The fall today was given as 6 1-2 inches. The mercury this morning at 8 o'clock, the hour when readings are made, stood at 31 degrees.

The temperature yesterday was 70 degrees, Mr. Clark said, and had tumbled to 31 this morning.

Slush along the streets made walking rather uncomfortable for the hundreds of people who were forced out of their beds to attend to Saturday's business. It also made automobile traffic decidedly precarious during the early morning, although later in the day much of the snow had disappeared under the influence of the continued drizzle.

The cold was not sufficient to cause bursting of pipes and radiators as recorded during other severe frigid spells of the winter, but the citizenship was taking usual precautions along this line, and coal dealers were filling orders as people, caught unaware by frigid blasts in January and February, decided they wouldn't be victims of the weather again.

No accidents of any consequence as result of the weather had been reported by traffic officers today.

W. E. FRENCH FILES ACTION FOR DIVORCE

High Point, March 10.—W. E. French, of Greensboro, has filed here a suite for divorce from his wife Pearl Kivett French, who is now serving a long sentence in state prison for complicity in an assault with intent to kill her husband on the outskirts of Greensboro in February, 1932. Mrs. French was convicted with B. B. Ows, former local insurance man, on the assault charge after French had charged his wife hired him to a loney spot and that Owens shot him. He was in the hospital in a serious condition for several weeks. He had implicated Owens in the shooting in a note scrawled on a match book.

Mr. French asks a divorce on grounds of two years' separation.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Orders Curtailment of Air Mail Washington, March 10.—(AP)—Because of the loss of ten lives since the army started carrying the air mail President Roosevelt today ordered immediate curtailment of the service.

To Secretary Dern he directed stopping of carrying of the air mail except on such routes and under such weather conditions as equipment and personnel conditions as will assure insofar as the utmost care in providing against recurrence of fatal accidents.

He recognized the adverse weather conditions but said "nevertheless, the continuance of death in the army air corps must stop."

The text: "My Dear Mr. Secretary: "On Feb. 9 the army air corps was given the temporary assignment of carrying the air mail and commenced the actual carrying Feb. 20. This action was taken on the definite assurance given me that the army air corps could carry the mail.

"Since that time ten army fliers have lost their lives. I appreciate that only four of these were actually flying the mail, but others were training or proceeding to the mail routes.

"I appreciate also that almost every part of the country had been visited during this period by fog, snow and storms and that serious accidents had taken even more lives.

JAPS AGAIN BUSY IN CHINA

American Legation Takes Hand to Stall Work of Jap Agents in China

Peiping, March 10.—(AP)—The United States Legation took a hand today in Japanese inquiries concerning American missionary operations in North China which have aroused apprehension concerning the safety of Peiping.

Americans in North China were informed by the legation that if Japanese agents come asking details about missions properties the missionaries were to send the inquiries to the legation where the situation would be handled.

The mysterious action of Japanese agents have startled both China and foreign circles with fear that North China is the scene of new ventures of the Japanese war machine.

Former Utilities Magnate Applies for Papers to Go Through Germany.

Athens, Greece, March 10.—(AP)—Agents for Samuel Insull, Chicago fugitive applied today to the American legation for transit visas on his Greek passport.

Dr. Vladimir Bensis, official physician, said the report that Insull could travel with precaution was almost true.

THINKS BAD CHECK LAW IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Fayetteville, March 10.—Declaring the "bad check" law unconstitutional Spencer, rector of St. Mary's Chapel in superior court here yesterday dismissed charges against David W. Brooks of passing worthless check in payment of an account with a local grocer. In throwing the case out of court, Judge Sinclair stated that such a law as this virtually makes the court a debt-collecting agency.

Brooks had appealed to the superior court from the tribunal Magistrate M. McN. Ray, where he had been convicted. The check had been given to J. H. Croom.

Two Deaths of Mail Pilots Last Night Adds to Seriousness of Situation.

Of the ten only three were actually killed carrying mail. Six were on errands with the mail service and one perished on a visit home before taking up his air mail duties.

President Roosevelt's request that postal funds be transferred to the war department to finance army air mail service was due for debate in the Senate today. An outburst in the House yesterday was averted when Democratic leaders brought about adjournment.

SNOW, SLEET, RAIN SWEEP TWO STATES

Lower Temperatures Predicted For the Two Carolinas Tonight

(By The Associated Press) Snow, sleet and rain swept the Carolinas today except in the mid-Piedmont and an army air mail plane was forced down at Hartsville, S. C. after a night lost in snow and rain squalls.

Central North Carolina, in the Raleigh, Rocky Mount and Henderson areas, was visited by a four inch fall of fine snow.

Columbia and other South Carolina points report snow to a lesser degree and Sumpter suffered sleet which later turned to rain. Temperatures were not exceptionally low and the snow melted rapidly except in Central North Carolina where it continued to fall.

The Raleigh weather bureau reported four inches of snow there with the prospect of a let-up in the fall. The temperature there was exactly at the freezing point. Traffic was only slightly impeded as the flakes melted on the pavement. A similar report came from Rocky Mount while Henderson had three inches of snow and the fall continued.

It was cloudy at Raleigh where the lowest temperature was 39 but no rain or snow had fallen at 10:30. Durham was visited by the snow but it did not stick.

The coastal area of the two states escaped all save the lightest flurries of the early morning but was visited by cold rain.

The temperature was just beyond freezing in that area.

Judith Lane by JEANNE BOWMAN

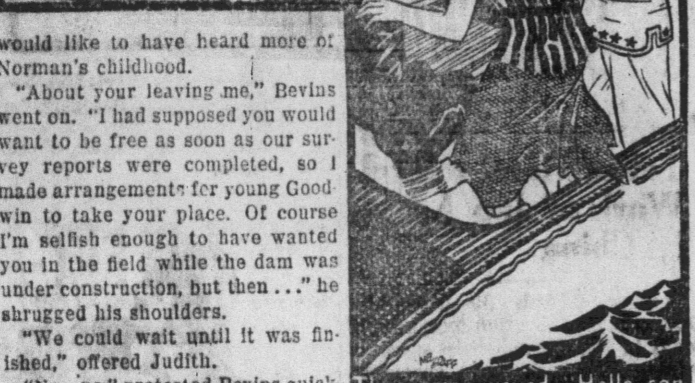

SYNOPSIS: Judith Lane and her fiancé, Norman Dale, are returning on a trailer from the Rio Diablo, where Judith's employer, Big Tom Bevins, has completed surveys for a dam that will reclaim the Rio Diablo valley and end his impoverished activities. Now Judith finds that Norman, who is junior partner in the Houston Lane firm that handles the legal business of Bevins' big engineering and contracting firm, insists that she give up her position when they are married. Judith agrees to speak to Bevins, and finds that he is not surprised.

Chapter Six ORDEAL FOR JUDY TOM BEVINS went on: "You forget I've known Norman all of his life. I've lived in the same block with him since the day he was born. He is as generous as can be with things he likes, but he won't share anything he loves with anyone."

"I remember a woolly lamb he had when he was a little tike. He loved that thing, wouldn't put it in his play box for fear my daughter Mathilda would get it. And of course that was the very thing she wanted. . . but this isn't getting to work is it, Judy?" Judith shook her head. She had almost forgotten Big Tom had a daughter, she spent so much of her time away at school, or abroad. She would like to have heard more of Norman's childhood. "About your leaving me," Bevins went on. "I had supposed you would want to be free as soon as our survey reports were completed, so I made arrangements for young Goodwin to take your place. Of course I'm selfish enough to have wanted you in the field while the dam was under construction, but then..." he shrugged his shoulders. "We could wait until it was finished," offered Judith.

"No—no," protested Bevins quickly. "I want to see you married to the boy. I couldn't have wanted a finer lad for my own son—" he stopped as though startled by an idea, then went on—"sort of feel I'll be doing Emil's favor seeing his daughter safe..." his voice dwindled off and he looked out across the intense blue of the Gulf as though he were seeing far beyond Judith's physical vision. Judith watched him, grey eyes tender. Next to her father's memory she loved Big Tom. They spent so much time together. Unhappy at home, he would wait until his wife and daughter started one of their innumerable trips, then would visit Judith's apartment, content to mingle with her friends.

She was heartened by the thought that he might use her home, hers and Norman's, as a retreat from his loneliness. "SUPPOSE we get after these reports," suggested Bevins, and the two bent their heads over maps and note books filled with figures. Twilight was sweeping up from the east when Judith and Norman found time to be alone together again. Galveston, still bathed in the last rays of the sun, but showing twinkling jetty lights, lay to the starboard.

"Did I tell you I sent a wire to mother from Rio Mar?" Norman inquired as they stood on deck. "Oh," it was a quick breathed reply. Of course he had a mother, but she'd forgotten Mrs. J. Anthony Dale must play an important part in their life. "Hope she'll like me."

"She will. She's been wanting me to marry and move into a house of my own for a long time." Judith winced. Mothers of only sons usually had the girl chosen when they admitted a desire for them to marry.

"What makes you think she does?" "Wants to sell our home. The city has grown up around it until it's like living in a boiler factory. Then of course you know, mother is a bridge fan and I'm tempted to believe she'd like to move into some residential hotel where she would have enough partners to play from dawn to dawn."

"Oh," Judith's tone was less skeptical, "but you have such a lovely home. Clia pointed it out to me one day." She was silent a moment and Norman, turning, saw her brow furrowed. "Now what's worrying you?" he asked. "Just this," she turned towards him, booted feet braced to the sway of the deck, as they turned into the channel, hands in breeches pockets, khaki shirt open at the throat. "Norman, you're everything I shouldn't marry all rolled up into one man. You're an indoor man and I should marry an out-of-door man. You'll approach a problem from the ethical side and I'll approach it from the scientific. You have a social background and I haven't any at all."

"Judy, listen. If we married our prototypes the world would go to seed. Suppose the tall men married tall girls, the short ones short girls, the doctors doctors—" "And lawyers lawyers?" "Mother nature has to shuffle them up to give each generation a fresh deal. All that's needed to make a success of marriage is enough love."

DILLINGER BREAKS FROM 'ESCAPE-PROOF' JAIL

Making good his boast that he could escape any jail, John Dillinger, notorious badman, broke out of the "escape-proof" Lake county jail at Crown Point, Ind. Using a wooden pistol which he had carved in spare moments, he disarmed a guard, stole machine guns from the armory and made a successful break in an auto. Shown above is the jail with one of the numerous armed guard details thrown about it especially to prevent his escape. (Associated Press Photo)

Dr. George W. Truett who is delivering a series of sermons in Raleigh this week and next, is one of the nation's greatest ministers of the Gospel. Those who have a opportunity to hear him should certainly take advantage of it. With a new municipal swimming pool, a city park and a political campaign for the coming summer persons of all ages in this city should find ample sources for recreation. Automobile sales in this state last month were 800 ahead of the previous month and then too many dealers were unable to get enough cars to take care of the demand. These figures should be sufficient to convince some of those who think the depression is still with us that they are wrong. Greenville will never get water transportation and the lower freight rate benefits it will bring unless our people really go after it. Get behind the movement now and don't let up on it until we have a boat line operating to Greenville.

Every time a church organization holds some kind of a social affair—such as a turkey dinner, a bazaar or some similar event—it advertises to the world that its members are too stingy to pay their church dues. And that, it might be added, is extremely poor advertising. Not only that, but in staging these dinners, or in selling various articles, the churches are engaging in unjust and unfair competition with the merchants of the communities in which they are located. Any church, which is forced to resort to these methods in order to raise sufficient money with which to operate, should do so with a feeling of shame for the slackers in its congregation.

ALLEGED SLAYER DENIED BOND AT HEARING FRIDAY (Continued From Page One) of whiskey. A full pint of whiskey was found nearby also. The sheriff described the three bullet wounds in Gurganus' face and his notification of the coroner. He also described the relationship between Gurganus and the defendant's mother, and told of Harrington having been in Greenville about four days on a vacation prior to the slaying. He related Harrington's surrender and the statement by the prisoner that he was with his stepfather Saturday afternoon and until 11 o'clock the night of the slaying. The sheriff said Harrington told him he and Gurganus had been to see an aunt and that he later left Gurganus at some filling station unknown to him. He admitted stopping at Hatem's filling station on the north side of Tar river. The sheriff said he asked Harrington where he spent the night but he declined to say. He also asked the prisoner if there had been any trouble between him and his stepfather and he replied not recently, but ad-

JOHNSON MEETS WITH CRITICS OF THE NRA

H. B. Langley, who works at a filling station about a mile from Washington on the east side, told of seeing Harrington Saturday night at 3:30 o'clock and that he remained there until about 5 o'clock. He said Harrington asked for some rags, that he wanted to dust the seat of his car, which was headed toward the highway. He obtained the rags, went out for about 10 minutes and then returned and asked for a blanket. Guy Evans, operator of the filling station where Langley is employed said he saw a fellow who said his name was Harrington, but that the man was larger than the defendant. He said the man got there about 3:30 o'clock and left about 5. Evans said that when the man got ready to leave he said he wanted something with which to clean the seat of his car. He then asked Evans if he had a blanket and one was sold him for 50 cents. He then left the station, Evans said. E. D. Lamb, said he saw Harrington about 3:30 and that he asked for rags, saying he wanted to dust his seat. The rags were obtained and Harrington went out. He came back in a few minutes and wanted a blanket and left in 10 or 15 minutes. He said he did not know what Harrington did with either the rags or blanket. Recalled to the stand Sheriff Whitehurst told about insurance on Gurganus' life. He said the policy, payable to the wife was for $1,600.

TWO ARE INDICTED IN GUILFORD MURDER Sweden Urges 'Buy Swedish'

Greensboro, March 10.—(AP)—James Sledge, 19-year-old grandson of the deceased, and Mrs. Emma R. Pulliam, 58-year-old boarding house keeper of High Point, were indicted by the Guilford grand jury Thursday afternoon for the first degree murder of Lee H. Harvell, whose charred body was found in the ruins of his home near High Point on the Greensboro highway the morning of December 22. Young Sledge was detained by county officers immediately after he had walked from the grand jury room where he was examined as a witness. Mrs. Pulliam had been in custody since February 6 on a charge of murdering her suitor, Harvell, and it had been generally anticipated that the grand jury would indict her. Belief that the woman, if guilty, had been aided in the crime led to speculation that the grand jury's investigation might involve others in the case. Stockholm.—(AP)—As part of a 'buy Swedish' campaign all goods brought into the country after April 1 must be stamped 'imported' so consumers may know the products are of foreign origin.

Sundown Stories

Jelly Bear's Gift

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER "Why are you all down here?" asked Jelly Bear as he came lumbering down to the pond.

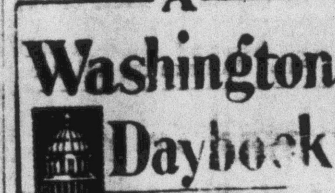

"Oh, we've been having a dreadful time," quacked the Ducks, and they told Jelly Bear what had happened.

"Then you'll be ready for my gift, Willy Nilly. Certainly you deserve it. I had been finding maple sap everywhere and it was indeed delicious. Then I thought I would wash my sticky paws in a stream, and not only did I do that! I found many good fish and had a fine meal and took some back to Honey Bear who was in the cave with little Jupiter and Blacky Bear.

"But I brought along a great, big fish as a present for you!" "Well, well," exclaimed Willy Nilly, "if this isn't a surprise! And I do believe I am hungry too. He made a bonfire and cooked the fish. It was simply delicious. Then Jelly Bear sat down and told stories his grandmother Bear had told him—stories she had heard from her grandmother who had heard them from another grandmother—of the days when the Indians lived in the land.

It grew dark as they sat around the bonfire by the pond, and soon they pretended they were Indians too, whooping and shouting and running. But then they sat down by the fire again and Mrs. Quacko Duck handed a stick around that was very much like a pipe in shape.

"The pipe of peace, the pipe of happiness, quack, quack," she quacked, and all took it in turn. Then they all went to sleep and the embers of the fire kept them warm. Once again Puddle Muddle was peaceful.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER Washington — There is strong opinion on Capitol Hill that the petition bearing the signature of 145 members of the house, forcing the bonus issue to a vote will result in little more than a gesture.

Many veteran congressional observers can see nothing else in store for the Patman bill calling for the expenditure of $2,400,000,000 to pay off the remainder due ex-soldiers on their adjusted service certificates.

In the first place President Roosevelt, speaking through Speaker Rainey, has removed all doubt whether he will veto the measure if it reaches him.

And, secondly, mustering the required two-thirds votes in either house or senate to over-ride a veto would be something that few predict as likely.

'It's My Turn Now'

He has figured it out that if all the republicans, plus all the democrats in the senate who come up for re-election this fall, were to vote for passage of the bonus bill there still would be lacking a majority to put it over in that body.

It is admitted generally that many of the 145 who affixed their names to the petition did so with any eye to winning as many veterans' votes in the fall elections as possible. One of them stated privately: "Why shouldn't I do something for myself? I have gone along with the administration without complaint ever since March 4. I'm facing a fight for my political existence this fall. What if it does fall of passage? I can still tell my veterans I voted to pay them their bonus."

An Eye On The Legion

There's another thing which must be kept in mind. The vote in the house to discharge the ways and means committee from further consideration of the bonus will not be taken until March 12.

The senate has now before it for consideration the four-point program of the American Legion for liberalizing the economy act as regards veterans. The administration has a powerful weapon in that. It can say that it will not stand for increasing the benefits paid to disabled veterans and at the same time pay the amount necessary to meet the adjusted service certificates.

Members of both houses will think twice before risking demotion of the American Legion plan by their vote on the bonus.

The Mexican government plans an extensive public works program this year, with highway development receiving special attention.
