SEE FAILURE OF BONUS BILL

Democratic Leaders Predict the Measure Will Never Reach the President.

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—Democratic leaders expressed confidence today that the $2,000,000,000 greenback bonus bill will never reach President Roosevelt's desk.

Although the house passed the measure late yesterday by a margin of 295 to 125, the administration chieftains said the senate will kill it.

TO TALK ROAD SAFETY HERE

Highway Committees to be Named at Meeting Here Next Monday Afternoon.

Highway safety committees for each township of this county will be named at a meeting here next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, and safety committee director, said today.

The meeting will be held in Dr. McGeachy's office at the court house and prominent men from all sections of the county are expected to attend.

Dr. McGeachy, who was asked to serve as safety director sometime ago, said he was mailing out letters to representative citizens in every township, inviting them to be present and help devise ways and means for cutting down the awful toll of life taken on the highways of the county each year.

The school bus-automobile crash near Belvoir yesterday afternoon, Dr. McGeachy said, is a keen reminder of the danger constantly lurking on the public highways, and of the need of action to cut down wrecks and loss of lives.

Although nobody was killed in the bus-auto wreck, it is considered short of miraculous how the occupants of the two machines escaped alive or without more serious injuries.

What the nation needs is more care in the operation of motor driven vehicles, the safety director said, and the only way the public can be impressed with this fact is to keep it constantly before their minds.

Dr. McGeachy said that active safety committees in each township should be able to arouse a higher regard for safety of human lives and eventually bring about more caution in the operation of machines.

RURAL AREAS INTERESTED IN PARK HERE

Many Expressions of Pleasure Greet Announcement of Public Park for City.

Greenville's public park, which is to be located on college property adjoining the swimming pool on Fifth street, will not only be a source of pleasure for town people but for those from the rural districts.

Since announcement of the plan at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen last Friday night, Mayor R. C. Flanagan has received numbers of expressions of satisfaction and pleasure from people living in surrounding rural districts.

One man, described as a leader in his community, congratulated the mayor on the forward step taken by the city and declared he would be one of the thousands expected to take advantage of the recreation center during the summer months.

The park will be located on a strip of college property running from Fifth street back to the curb market. Although the boundary lines have not yet been decided upon, it was to be settled at a meeting of Mayor Flanagan and Dr. R. H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers college, sometime this week.

When the college trustees decided to turn the piece of property over to the city for the park, it was stipulated that definite boundaries be determined by the college president, and that when the site was no longer used as a park it should be turned back to the college.

The park site is on the side of a knoll at the beginning of the college campus and one of the most desirable places in the city for a center of recreation, and especially since it adjoins the swimming pool site. In fact, citizens may sit in the park during hot summer days and watch swimmers take cooling plunges in the modern $29,000 swimming pool now under construction.

The college trustees, members of the Woman's club, who with the mayor appeared before the trustees with the park petition, have been highly commended for the fine action and it is believed the city will derive great benefit from the step.

Mayor Flanagan told the aldermen Friday night he expected the swimming pool and park to be completed and ready to receive the citizenship by May 1. Work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible and when the weather man begins offering sizzling temperatures everything will be ready to receive those seeking recreation.

ASK TOBACCO GROWERS TO REDUCE AGAIN

Revised Contracts Must Be Filed By 90 Per Cent of Former Signers Here

Pitt county farmers, like those in other parts of the state placed their tobacco yield too high and the government has called upon them to bring the figure down some if they want to take part in the more favorable prices promised the next selling season.

E. F. Arnold, director of the Farm Department here, said today that 90 per cent of the 2,500 contracts signed in the sign-up waged here sometime ago had been returned and that growers would be required to make out revised contracts. It was likewise stated that growers will be asked to take off some 12,000,000 pounds of bright leaf from the former figures. A reduction of 7,000 acres will be involved.

Mr. Arnold said committeemen had been assigned to their old posts in the various townships and that (Continued on Page Three)

FOUR INJURED AS SCHOOL BUS AND CAR CRASH

Three Belvoir School Children Among the Injured Four Miles from City.

Three school children and a man were injured yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock when the Belvoir school truck and an automobile collided at the intersection at Mayo's store, about four miles north of Greenville, according to information given out this morning at the office of the State highway patrol.

Those injured were: Joseph Clark, 8, lacerations about the face; Paul Knox, 8, broken collar bone; Pernie Clark, 7, badly bruised back; William May, lacerations about the face and body.

Lieut. Lester Jones, head of this highway patrol division, who investigated the crash, said that both the truck and car were being operated at a high rate of speed and that each tried to make the intersection without stopping down.

The truck was driven by Phillip Sullivan, 17, student of the Belvoir school. The automobile, carrying three persons, was operated by Joseph Harris. Both drivers escaped uninjured. May was the only one injured in the automobile.

The truck was returning from school and had unloaded part of its human cargo. Both machines overturned and were practically demolished by the impact.

The investigating officer said it was short of miraculous how the occupants of the two machines escaped alive. The crash was attributed to too much speed on the part of the automobile and truck and carelessness of both drivers.

The injured were rushed to the local hospital for medical attention but none were reported seriously hurt. Although no court action was taken in the crash, it was understood that school authorities were looking into the case.

NEW CWA CUT IS MADE HERE

Sixty-Five Men to Be Dropped from Payroll Here Thursday Night.

An order for a fourth cut in CWA forces in Pitt county was received today at the office of K. T. Futrell, local CWA director. Sixty-five men will be involved in the new reduction, bringing the total to 739. This will leave 361 persons to take the field here next week.

The new curtailment order will become effective Thursday night of this week, Mr. Futrell said, but it will not be reflected in the payroll until next week.

The men to be dropped from the payroll will be taken off rural school and sanitation projects with some probably coming from drainage projects.

Mr. Futrell said that work was being pushed forward rapidly in all parts of the county under the man-hour plan and that it was indicated that more actual work was being produced to the hour. In fact under this plan there is no chance to loaf and laborers who cannot stand the pace do not hold jobs long.

Work at this time is being confined largely to competition of swimming pools, community buildings and school work. Some of the swimming pools and community buildings are pools and completion and as soon as they are completed the workmen will be transferred to other projects.

Late News Flashes From Over World

Today In Congress.

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—Conciliation rather than a knock-down drag-out combat between the President and Congress over veterans' benefits was urged on the House today.

It came up with the question of accepting the multi-million Senate liberalization of the economy act. The Democratic leadership doesn't want this done but settlement will have to wait until tomorrow.

The Bankhead cotton control bill was taken up this afternoon in the House while opponents of the waterway pact with Canada held sway in the Senate.

On this the sunny 13th of the month the House as reminded that the disputed Senate economy bill amendments totaled 23.

"Results can be obtained by specific means," exhorted Rep. Woodrum of Virginia, without apparent effect on the veterans advocates.

"We have every reason to believe the President will meet the legislative branch in a spirit of conciliation," Woodrum continued, sighting that since the economy act had passed "something over $150,000,000 a year has been restored to the veterans through revisions of executive orders.

Three Men Rescued from Sub gives Hope that Other Lives May Be Saved.

Sasebo, Japan, March 13.—(AP)—With three men rescued out of the 113 trapped in the hull of the captured torpedo boat Tomotaru, workers kept doggedly at the steel wall late tonight in the hope that eight more men might be found alive.

Officers said that 40 hours after the heavily armed little ship turned over in maneuvers that it would be impossible to cut through the hull and find what lay inside before mid night.

They were spurred on in the work by a story from the rescued men that eight of their companions were still alive in the engine room when they escaped through the hatch under water to reach the surface.

Laurinburg, March 13.—(AP)—James Rayner Benson attorney, and former Johnson county legislator, and Isham B. McLamb, merchant and former Benson commissioner, went on trial here today charged with bribing witnesses.

The charge grew out of the looting here in 1932 of a wholesale warehouse when 13 men were arrested in Fayetteville and Benson sections and were given long prison sentences for the crime.

McLamb was tried three times on charges of receiving stolen goods in connection with the theft. Today's trial resulted from the charge that witnesses were bribed to testify favorably for McLamb in his second trial.

Harry Hopkins in Conference With Leaders of South in Effort to Work Out Plan of Attack; Says He is Pleased With Interest Manifested By Those Capable of Helping

Atlanta, March 13.—(AP)—The new federal rehabilitation program for rural areas in the county will have $250,000,000 and possibly a $100,000,000 more available in the administration effort to put the farmer on a self-supporting basis.

This Harry L. Hopkins, national relief administrator said, is a plan developed by President Roosevelt and although a sort of an expedition, it is believed to be humanely sound and the only salvation of the man who is down and out.

Hopkins today was told state directors of twelve southern states in a two day conference here that the program as suggested in yesterday's conference was the result of months of thought and study.

He said he was pleased with the number of persons, about 1,000, attending the conference.

"This shows," he added, "that the kind of people are interested in getting the farmer on a self-supporting basis and the success of the program seems certain."

EXTRAVAGANT PROPAGANDA

(Rocky Mount Herald) The gross sales tax advocates are making claims which are absolutely without foundation and without facts to back these claims up. They are undertaking to mislead the land owners by stating that it is the gross sales tax on either the tax must go back on land. Now let's in frankness and candor look into this and see what the real facts are.

Judith Lane by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Judith Lane, Tom Bevin's secretary, and Norman Dale return from Rio Diablo engaged. Bevin is about to build a dam at Rio Diablo to reclaim a huge quantity of land. They are met at Celebration by the Bevin yacht, on which is Clio Sanford, Judith's reporter friend. Clio tells Judith that Mathie Bevin will try to make trouble between her and her newly acquired fiance, and that Norman Lampere, senior partner of Norman's Houston law firm, is out to queer Bevin's dam project.

Chapter Eight LAMPERE'S PLOT JUDITH LANE, slightly astonished at the change Clio Sanford had evoked in her appearance with ruffles, peach powder and rouge, stared into the stateroom mirror and digested the fact that the girl who practically owned this yacht (Big Tom's interest was merely paying maintenance bills) hoped to marry Norman Dale.

And then her attention was rudely switched from her own personal feelings to concern over her chief. "It happened this way," Clio settled into a deep chair and lighted a cigarette with a deliberation which Judith recognized as a forerunner of something important.

"Lettie Canfield decided to take a post graduate course in matrimony, and I was sent over to the court house to check on her first mistake. It was closing time, but I slipped in and promised to latch the door when I left. You know how those files are, don't you? If ever I want to commit murder I'll hide the victim in there and go free the rest of my days.

"I was back of one tending to Letty's business when I heard voices. I peeked around and found that Morty Lampere and Judge Martellan had shinned in through the crack of the door and were doing a confidential.

"They looked so guilty I felt duty bound to find out what they were talking about. This was it. Lampere was trying to force Martellan to get some friend of his in Rio Mar county to issue an injunction against the sale of any additional dam property to your boss."

"Oh . . ." Judith had forgotten Norman, the yacht, her lovely frock. She was the stenographer ready to act as a medium between Big Tom and a danger which threatened his dam.

"But, Clio, I'm sure he bought all that was necessary; bought the dam site from the State for delinquent taxes last winter, and the limitation date has already passed, so they can't question his ownership of that.

"At the same time he bought all land deserted by the homeseeking owners, for delinquent taxes, in order to protect those very homeseekers. After the irrigation is available they may have their land back, providing they will live on it and cultivate it, by simply paying what Big Tom paid the State."

"Wouldn't Lampere know all of that?" "Of course . . . I have it," Judith, who had sat down opposite her friend, arose. "It's the new dam . . . the upper one. Clio, I trust you implicitly or I wouldn't think out loud. For some reason Lampere is trying to check Big Tom's control of the upper flood basin . . . I remember sending a wire to the Company Board telling of the new plans. . . Lampere read it . . . he was probably called to the board meeting.

"BUT, Clio," she stood before her friend, "why should he fight the firm retaining him?" "You're asking me," commented Clio. "However, Jude, he didn't intend that Bevin should find out he was behind the injunction. He threatened the judge with some kind of an expose if Big Tom learned of it through him."

"I don't understand why he's doing this," mused Judith. "The dam is only a hobby of Mr. Bevin's. Of course it will make money in time, everything Big Tom touches does and for that reason he has complete support of our board of directors. He's ready to build it with his own cash, if there is any dissonance . . . Clio," she asked suddenly, "why should Lampere and the judge discuss such a thing in a public file room?"

"Afraid if they went to either office, some smart reporter like Clio Sanford would see them and smell a political mouse . . . you remember my estimate news-sheet nearly put both of them on the scandal spot after the last election."

"I must get hold of Big Tom. He should know about Lampere before he reaches Houston. Wait . . . there's someone at the door."

"Well, girls," Mrs. Dale stood in the doorway. "Aren't you coming up?"

on getting more favorable freight rates for Eastern Carolina and getting Tar River made navigable for freight boats. It will require a lot of financial and moral support. Realization of the aims of this project will react to the benefit of every one in this section of the state. The association, Dr. Wright went on to explain represents no particular community but the whole of Eastern Carolina and will serve as a "clearing house" for all those who might become interested in finding information about our section of the state. In an enthusiastic manner Dr. Wright spoke of the wonderful natural resources of our section—rainfall, rich soil, game, resorts, and fish. In closing he bespoke the financial and moral support of the business men of Greenville and their hearty cooperation with C. E. Wilkins, Field Director of the Eastern Carolina Association who would soon be calling on them. Dr. Wright further stated that Wilson and Kingston has had representatives at meetings of the Association and stood ready to cooperate for they saw success in the projects would help them too.

Following Dr. Wright, J. B. Kittrell told about the similar project of eleven years ago. How the movement did not get far enough though considerable data was compiled. He said that at a large gathering of representatives from neighboring interested towns in the Pitt County Court House much enthusiasm was evidenced but the situation got out of hand and "exploded." He insisted, as did Dr. Wright, that this movement was not intended to hurt the railroads for their prosperity is inextricably involved with the welfare of our section but the idea is to get a revision of rates so that a great portion of the money now going to Virginia due to unjust freight rates might be kept here. "There will be no immediate return evident but great profit will come from the success of this movement."

He also urged everyone to support Mr. Wilkins who is Field Director for this new movement which will take up where the old one stopped. Upon the motion of Howard McGinnis the Greenville Rotary club went on record as favoring support of the Eastern Carolina Association in its present projects of better freight rates and water transportation.

"Doc" Horne was inducted into the local Rotary club by Herbert ReBarker in pointed remarks about history, significance and purpose of Rotary. PRESIDENT'S PROGRAM TO BE PRESENTED BY THOMAS DIXON

Farmville is to have the signal honor of having a visitor within her gates tonight, the nationally known orator, novelist and playwright Thomas Dixon, who has just completed a four months tour of the Continent, speaking as a special representative of the National Recovery Administration.

Although patriotic speeches, delivered by eminent men, are to be heard daily over radio, no power can replace the living voice of the human personality, and the local committee states that a ready response to plans for sponsoring the lecture is being received from the various organizations and citizens of Farmville and nearby towns and communities.

Intense interest in the President's program will be the chief factor of the compelling magnet, which will draw the people of this section to hear the lecture, together with the splendid opportunity of hearing Dixon himself, a distinguished orator who stands at the head of a list of a thousand chosen speakers as a worthy mouthpiece for the administration.

We hope they will visit us again soon. Our club play "A Wild Flower of the Hills" which will be given at the Winterville High School auditorium on Friday night, March 23, was discussed and committees were appointed.

Another favorite superstition is rubbing ringworms with silver money to cure them.

There are many superstitions which are supposed to cure rheumatism. The most common of these is to carry a lodestone or double cedar knot.

Long ago, after a fall from a horse, a man was cured of a rheumatism by carrying a live catfish. If a child coughed into the face of the fish the disease was supposed to leave him.

The old superstition of carrying a piece of eyeglass to prevent eye diseases, and walnuts to prevent diseases of the brain are seldom used. However, rabbit tobacco is still used to stop nosebleeds.

Quite a while ago people believed that the touch of certain persons had the power to cure disease.

The question arises whether or not superstition is declining in modern civilization. The statement that it is rapidly disappearing is often and confidently made; but on examination of the instances given in support of these assertions it will be found that what are really disappearing are certain old and traditional beliefs which have gone out of fashion rather than being overcome by reason.

Superstition must be driven out since ignorance is the foundation of superstition and education and scientific thinking must be the remedy. The ignorant masses must be reached by education, thereby reducing the deaths from minor accidents.

SUPERSTITIONS IN USE TODAY

By BERTHA ARNOLD (Greenville High School Student) Superstition represents a phase in the history of thinking. The most difficult art that man has had to learn is the art of reasoning. Primitive habits of thought and child-like inclinations to believe still exist. Such tendencies are responsible for the continuance of superstition. We may define superstition as "the acceptance of beliefs or practices groundless in themselves and inconsistent with the degree of enlightenment reached by the community to which one belongs."

The field of superstition is very large. While some of them are harmless those dealing with illness usually do more harm than good.

Modern surgery is based on keeping the wound absolutely clean. Yet some people still put spider-webs, cuds of tobacco, soot or mud on fresh cuts to stop the bleeding. One High School student believes in some magic words which will instantly stop the flow of blood. They have passed them down from generation to generation. Raw oysters, salt pork or boiled onions are even in this day placed on infected wounds "to get the poison out."

The old superstition prevails in some parts that you should put into a dog-bite some of the hair of the animal to prevent rabies.

Another open type of wound we have to deal with is the snake-bite. Drinking whiskey or placing freshly killed chicken on the wound are ancient remedies.

In England people thought at one time that a child with rickets could be cured by passing it through the split trunk of an Ash tree, head first. Then the trunk of the tree was bound up and as it healed, so would the child.

Today in some sections scorched feathers are held under the nose of a person who has fainted to revive them.

It is not unusual to see in this time people wearing pierced nutmages around their necks, which they believe will prevent boils, group and neuralgia.

A common superstition, not only among the negroes, is that of wearing a match in the hair to ward off headaches.

Every one has heard of rubbing with snow to cure frost-bite. This was proved to be positively the worst method by the Byrd Expedition.

Another favorite superstition is rubbing ringworms with silver money to cure them.

There are many superstitions which are supposed to cure rheumatism. The most common of these is to carry a lodestone or double cedar knot.

Passion Play Plans Well Under Way; Enacted in 1264 in Baden Germany

Machinery has been in motion this week for the presentation of the world-famous Passion Play next Monday at East Carolina Teachers College. The college is jointly sponsoring the event with the Greenville Junior Womens club and the Choral club will furnish the music, which plays a very important part in the production.

There will be one hundred local people assisting the Passion Players in the various scenes. Reserve seats are now on sale at Passion Play headquarters in Hill Home Drug Co. It is advisable to secure your seats as early as possible as there will be a heavy demand for tickets and the best seats will go first.

The presentation will be given on the same elaborate scheme as was given at the New York Hippodrome. The Passion Play is a visualization of the life and works of our Savior Jesus Christ, first presented in the German village of Freiburg, in Baden, Germany in the year 1264 and has since that time been a part of the life of the people of that region.

Monday, April 12, 1934 the following described real estate, to-wit:

Strengthened By Cardui "Just after the birth of my son, I was weak and nervous," writes Mrs. W. H. Hammon, of Tulsa, Okla. "My back ached. I didn't get my strength back until I had taken Cardui. It seemed to build me up and give me strength. I was less nervous. Since that time, I was irregular. Not knowing anything better than Cardui, that is what I took, with good results. It soothed my nerves, built up my strength. I have a good color, do all my work and feel fine thanks to Cardui."

CAGE TOURNEY IS UNDER WAY

The annual Pitt County Basketball Tournament got under way at East Carolina Teachers College Monday night at seven o'clock. Three games were run off Monday night instead of Tuesday afternoon, according to former plans, since the games scheduled for Tuesday afternoon conflicted with spring quarter registrations at the college.

The schedule for play Tuesday: 7:00—Belvoir vs. Arthur (Boys). 7:00—Chicod vs. Fountain (Girls). 8:00—Winterville vs. Belvoir (Girls). 9:00—Grimesland vs. Bethel (Boys). 10:00—Pactolus vs. Farmville (Boys).

Winterville opened the tournament by winning over Stokes by a score of 16-12. The first half was a very slow affair with neither team finding the basket. Only two field goals were scored during the first half. James of Winterville, made one field goal and one foul shot. Cox, his teammate, did the same. Overton of Stokes, scored the only point scored by his team during the first half on a free throw. The score stood 6-1 in favor of Winterville.

The second half was a different story. Stokes started a comeback by rolling up four points at the start. Evans of Winterville found the basket and James did likewise. Then Stokes almost won a ball game, only being checked by the final whistle. Overton and Parker played a nice game for Stokes.

counted for the low score. The first half of play was very tight. The score standing 6-5 in Chicod's credit. The game was full of fouls and rough play. Eighteen fouls were called and only one point was scored on free throws. Scoring for the Chicod team was well divided, whereas Holloman and Tugwell shared the points for Fountain.

New York Cotton

New York, March 13—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady five to eight advance of higher Liverpool cables and decline in dollar exchange.

After the early buying orders had been executed the market became quiet and prices gained 4 to 6 points. May after selling at 12.37 eased to 12.32 and the market at the end of the first half hour was steady at gains of about 3 to 5 points.

The market remained quiet later in the morning with price movements narrow. May sold off to 12.31 and at around midday the general market was ruling 2 to 4 points net higher.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 13—(AP)—A steady but rather stagnated stock market today offered little encouragement to speculative enthusiasts.

As in the previous session both buyers and sellers of equities were timid in the early hours and prices generally yielded to fractional range. A few stocks including the utilities pushed up moderately but the turnover was small.

Although yesterday's advances were fairly well held there was no disposition shown to follow through on the rally.

Grains and silver were a trifle easier at times but cotton was steady and rubber again firmed.

Bonds held their upward trend a number of lots recorded new 1933-34 highs.

International dollar rates were with notable change. The motors were a trifle hesitant in the face of labor hearings beginning tomorrow but involved works in a number of the more important plants.

that wind through blossoming flower gardens will greet motorists who drive along many Illinois roads this summer if plans of farm boys and girls in many communities materialize.

It is a 4-H club project and had its origin last year with the Blossom Club of Adams county. Under the leadership of Mrs. R. D. Hereleman, an intersection most of the members passed each time they drove to Quincy was beautified.

Then the idea spread. This year G. S. Randall, boys' club specialist of the College of Agriculture at the University of Illinois, says many unsightly road intersections may be "dressed up" with attractive plantings.
