SAMUEL INSULL GOES ON A "HUNGER STRIKE"

Wife Says He Will Kill Self If Sent To U. S.

MARTIN INSULL MUST RETURN TO AMERICA

Aged Chicago Utilities Magnate Administered Hypodermic Injection Aboard Greek Tramp Steamer; Official of Ministry of Interior Says Insull Must Leave Greece Within 24 Hours.

Athens, March 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Samuel Insull today was reported saying that her husband would commit suicide if delivered to United States authorities.

Athens, March 17.—(AP)—Samuel Insull was reported on a "hunger strike" today and so weak and depressed that attendants resorted to hypodermic injections aboard the little freighter which is returning the 74-year-old fugitive to Greece.

The captain of the vessel himself administered the injection, it was said, in an effort to brace the former Chicagoan.

Apparently the strike was determined upon in a final desperate effort of the former American utility czar to stave off extradition and trial as the vessel bore him slowly nearer Athens and the grasp of the United States officials.

The tramp steamer Malotis on which the fallen power king fled secretly seeking refuge in some obscure corner of the globe was due to return with Insull late this afternoon.

When Insull gets back he will be handed over to police custody and compelled to leave Greece within 24 hours, said M. Moundjouridis, of the ministry of the interior who stated:

"Insull on his arrival will be remanded to his home in police custody and will be expelled in 24 hours."

Toronto, March 17.—(AP)—Martin Insull, his last recourse gone, waited in a common cell today for American police to come and get him.

The brother and associate of Samuel Insull in a vast utilities network lost an appeal to the supreme court yesterday.

Chief Justice Sir William Muloch ruled that he must be extradited to the United States to face trial in Chicago for embezzlement and larceny.

S. S. CLASS HAS BANQUET

Members C. J. Ellen Bible Class Memorial Baptist Church In Fine Program

Members of the C. J. Ellen Bible Class of Memorial Baptist church enjoyed a delightful banquet in the basement of the church last night.

About fifty persons were in attendance and thoroughly enjoyed the delightful meal served by ladies of the church in addition to inspirational talks made by Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of the church, and T. J. Swain, class teacher.

Both speakers told of the value of Sunday school and church work and declared it was a vital influence in the life of every community.

They urged the co-operation of the various class members not only in the building of membership but toward installing a deeper sense of spiritual responsibility throughout the community.

E. S. Wilson, president of the class was toastmaster, and a stunt-contest program was put on under the direction of the inimitable Vernon Parrish, who knows more jokes and can pull more darn fool tricks than any man in town. When Vernon got through with the boys they knew they had been entertained.

Short talks were made by various members of the class and each was pregnant with the desire for greater achievement in Sunday school work.

The gathering was described as one of the most enjoyable in the history of the class, which several years ago dedicated itself to the perpetuation of the high ideals of the late and lamented Dr. C. J. Ellen who for many years was class teacher.

They are: Ben Gwaltney, Carey Whitehurst and Elwood Gwaltney. Ben Gwaltney, badly slashed with a pocket knife by Whitehurst was carried to the local hospital for medical aid but was released shortly afterward. Police said the side of Gwaltney's face was severely cut.

Elwood Gwaltney, who police said entered the fight, hit Whitehurst on the head with a rifle barrel but the injury was not serious.

Officers said the row started on Washington street over a package of cigarettes and came to an abrupt ending when the Gwaltneys followed Whitehurst to the bicycle shop.

Charlie Harris and Bill Clark Held For Higher Court in Store Robbery

Charlie Harris and Bill Clark, colored, charged with the robbery of a store on Bonner's Lane Wednesday night, were bound over to the next sitting of Superior court under bond of $500 each in police court today.

They were unable to give bond and were remanded to jail. The two men are charged with entering the store of Ike McCoy and taking cigarettes and candy along with a cigar box partially filled, with sales tax money. Part of the loot was sold and police trailed the robbers through this. Most of the money, consisting mainly of pennies, was spent before they were captured.

Both men readily admitted the crime shortly after they were taken into custody. Chief of Police George Clark said, and were held in city jail awaiting preliminary hearing. They were to be transferred to the county jail today.

KIWANIS CLUB WILL SUPPORT RIVER DRIVE

Members Endorse Movement Here to Open Tar River to Navigation

It's a far cry from the snake-chasing days of Saint Patrick, benevolent spirit of Ireland, to the proposed Tar river waterway development project now being considered here, but members of the Kiwanis club last night spanned the period of time in a most commendable way without physical, spiritual, mental or financial casualty.

Although the program was confined to a consideration of the admirable qualities of the colossal figure of the Irish, Dr. R. H. Wright, president of Eastern North Carolina Association, Inc., at the outset told of the movement on foot here to deepen the channel of Tar river between Greenville and Washington with a view to opening the stream to navigation.

Dr. Wright told of the benefits which this territory would derive in the way of lower freight rates and asserted that the saving in this connection alone would be around a quarter of a million dollars annually. He declared benefits in years to come were inestimable.

He explained that congress recently ordered government engineers to re-examine reports on the river and that data was being compiled at this time showing the need of water transportation and what it would mean to the commercial and industrial development of this part of the state.

At the conclusion of the talk, the clubmen heartily endorsed the project and promised Dr. Wright they would do everything in their power to help put it across.

Dr. R. S. McGeachy presided over the session and the program was in charge of Ed Batchelor. Mr. Batchelor presented Mrs. Luther Herring, member of the high school faculty, who told of some of the achievements of Saint Patrick in particular and the idiosyncrasies of the Irish race in general.

She then called upon Rev. William A. Ryan, Lilliputian plenipotentiary of the Christian faith, to tell an Irish joke. Bill admitted he was Scotch-Irish although he look like anything else, and pulled a joke that produced considerable laughter.

Frank Harrington, whose bay window is one of his most redeeming features, also cracked a pretty good one on the Irish and was followed by Dr. McGeachy, who is always well stocked with levity.

Miss Helen Sawyer delighted the club with something strictly Irish in the way of solo, "My Wild Irish Rose." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. A. Tyson, Jr., club pianist.

John Pitts was elected a member of the board of directors succeeding Sidney Law, who said it would be impossible for him to serve the next few months because of business.

LEAF SIGN-UP ENDS TONIGHT

All Contracts Must be In Hands of Committeemen by Midnight Saturday

The time limit for signing revised tobacco contracts was scheduled to expire here tonight and committeemen in the various townships have been instructed to file all contracts by Monday morning when they will be forwarded to the federal government for final approval.

E. F. Arnold, head of the Pitt County Farm Department, called for the signing of all contracts by tonight in a statement issued on Thursday afternoon and asked the co-operation of growers in making this possible. He said it was imperative that contracts be completed and forwarded to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration as soon as possible and expressed the hope that Pitt county would be one of the first to do this.

About 90 per cent of the contracts signed in a recent sign-up here were declared "too high from the standpoint of production figures, and hence the demand for revised contracts. Virtually every tobacco producing county in the state was similarly affected.

As soon as the tobacco sign-up is completed, Mr. Arnold said, the corn-hog campaign announced sometime ago would get under way. This calls for a reduction in the amount of meat produced by hog-raisers of the county.

James Brown's leg was caught when the log rolled, but his injury was not serious.

With several batteries of machine guns manned by national guardsmen commanding all approaches, Makley and Pierpont now are prisoners in the jail as is Russell Clark, who will be brought to trial on the same charge later.

Judith Lane by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Judith Lane is asking Tom Bevin's physician about his health for the night before Bevin had asked Judy to carry on in case he died. Bevin is beginning a big dam project at Rio Diablo, and has found that Morton Lampere, member of the firm that handles his real business, is trying to double-cross him. To complicate matters, Judith is engaged to Norman Dale, Lampere's partner. And to complicate them still more, Judith Bevin Tom's daughter, hopes to win Norman in spite of Judy.

Chapter 12 HONEYMOON

THE physician laughed. "Bevin is a bull headed old rascal," he admitted; then, with concern, "Are you ill too?" "No, but I am worried, and what I'd like to ask you shouldn't be discussed over the telephone, only I'm afraid I won't sleep until I receive the answer." "Better ask then; he said he'd worked you pretty hard." "Doctor Kelly, I'm engaged to be married, and if Big Tom is in a serious condition I feel I should wait. He told me he was liable to die any minute."

"Well, aren't we all? Walk against a traffic light, work overtime in the hot sun, do any one of a number of foolish things and see what happens." "You mean?" "With proper caution, no more all night vigils and particularly with common sense where his emotions are concerned your friend may live to be a hundred. There is nothing in his present condition to warrant your putting off your wedding. Now go to sleep."

"And so they lived happily ever after," quoted Judith Lane Dale, as she lay on the sand, staring at the blue of a late September sky. "Norm" member how fairy tales always used to stop with the marriage of the mysterious prince or Cinderella? Clio says they stopped there because fairy tales had to have happy endings, and if they'd gone on any further there wouldn't have been..." Judith found her mouth gagged with a rubber cap. "Don't start preaching Clioisms on your honeymoon," admonished Norman. "Aside from being poor taste it disturbs my reading these..."

He had been going through a handful of mail brought to the beach by Lige from the honeymoon cottage where Delphinium presided and persisted in her efforts to "fatten that skinny chille." "Here's a note from the contractor, Judy, he says we can move into Hillendale by October 15th, that's three weeks away... and Will Mrs. Dale be contented with white picket fences? The stones won't be available for two months and Farmer January's cows came in and ate the evergreens Jimson planted and now January wants us to pay the damages." "To our evergreens?" demanded Judith.

"No, his cows." "Drat January, Norm, our living room drapes are exactly the color of the Gulf out there at the horizon line, aren't they?" "And here's a note from Mathlie, says Big Tom is feeling fine, they're going on up the coast." Judith sat up—"So Tilly writes my man does she? Look here," she showed Norman an envelope across which her name was scrawled in heavy masculine writing. "Your woman gets written to by Slim Sanford." "Nice chap, I like him," observed Norman, then with a quick laugh, "no need to return the compliment, come on Judy, I'll beat you to the third breaker with a two minute handicap."

JUDITH came up through the third breaker even with Norman and together they swam beyond the surf to float lazily. "Norman," Judith rolled over and began to tread water, "how's your mother enjoying the cruise?" "Well," observed that young man, "she said they put on a Havana to Miami tournament of contract and she won seventy-five dollars. Need I say more?" Judith laughed. They swam on until another question came to her mind. "Norm, it certainly was generous of her to give us Lige and Delphy, I feel like I'd always known them." "Generous, my eye," he retorted. "Mother's suite isn't big enough for our full-blossomed Delphinium to turn around without knocking over card tables."

what made you think of us in the first place?" asked Willy Nilly. "The Ducks, Jelly Bear, Top Notch, Rip, and Christopher Columbus. Just what do you plan to do and how are you going to live here and how were standing back of Willy Nilly, feeling very excited but a little frightened. "You've asked three questions," said the owner of the circus. "Ah, but I, Signor Grandlogorgousouperine Kentorabotalora, can answer them all. "In the first place we plan to make this our headquarters and practice, as I said before, I also said we had plenty of food. We have our wagons, in which we can sleep at night, and those of us who do not need to sleep in wagons, such as the elephants and the horses, will sleep out on your lovely hills and along your delightfully soft, muddy roads.

"How did we come here in the first place? Ah, my friend, your fame has spread far and wide." The Signor spread his arms out as he said this. "We knew that you were far enough away from towns, so that we would not be bothered by too many free onlookers. We knew that you had a pond in which the elephants could bathe." The Ducks trembled as they heard this. "Ah, I will tell you more in good time. We must get settled a bit now, light is coming on." And soon Puddle Muddle could hardly recognize itself with a big circus in its midst.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, being a farm paper publisher himself, thought of the idea of inviting the editors of the agricultural press to come to Washington and air their views. While of course there is nothing particularly new that can be said on the agricultural situation, it was a good plan to let these editors get together and exchange experiences and sentiments. A number of recommendations were made to the government by the editors, but the most important was this: "The supreme effort should be for the preservation of the American farm home and the elevation of its living standards. In all cases of conflict between commercialized agriculture and the family farm, the benefit should be given to the latter. The weakening of the farm home would be too high a price to pay for the lowered food costs of the American nation." The editors went on to urge various other purposes which should be kept in view. Among these are: Land utilization should be considered as less important than the best interests of the people who live on that land. Soil improvement and crop efficiency should still be encouraged, and not penalized. But efforts should be confined, as they have been too much in the past, to getting the farmers to raise more and more crops, only to find that there is no market for them. "The agricultural editors approved the principle which the Pathfinder has so long proclaimed, that more attention should be given to marketing farm products, and not so much to raising them when there is no way to unload them. They declared that farmers in the past have had altogether too much drudgery and too little leisure; that working hours on the farms must be shortened, while still supplying the needs of the market, and that time must be left for the farm family to enjoy a richer social, intellectual and community life. Means should be provided so that the farm homes can put in modern equipment, at a cost which will not be prohibitive. The farm editors expressed opposition to any plan by which the federal government would regiment the agricultural industry and take from the individual farmer his spirit of independence.

COMPARATIVE COSTS

(Ostons Gazette) Seeking of the relative cost of roads and schools, here are some startling facts that the last issue of the University News Letter carried about the school situation in North Carolina: Did you know— That each 181-2 feet of new concrete highway in 1931 cost North Carolina $35.36? That each school child costs the State of North Carolina only $35.10 for one year? (Much less for 1933-34). That the nation spent $7120 on the average for each child in school for one year? That the 30-cent tax reduction secured on county tax rates for this year throughout the State was entirely on the school rate? That the tax rate for other purposes in our schools remained the same? That of the total State debt for all purposes in North Carolina of approximately $540,000,000 only 13.4 per cent is for schools, including public education and all higher institutions of learning? That retarded pupils constitute the greatest waste in North Carolina education? That pupils are retarded because of (1) low mental ability of the child; (2) bad home conditions; (3) overcrowded class rooms; (4) poorly trained teachers; (5) short school terms? That the average promotion in large cities where conditions described in 3, 4 and 5 are best is 80.6 per cent, while in the rural schools it is 65 per cent or a difference of 15.6 per cent? From the above you will see that it cost just about as much to build a rod of concrete road as to educate one child a whole year in North Carolina. That looks as if it might be evaluating the roads pretty high. The schools suffered at the last

MEMORIAL BAPTIST T. E. L. CLASS MEETS

The T. E. L. Class of Memorial Baptist Church met Thursday evening with Mrs. Jane Hall for the monthly business and social hour with the president, Mrs. E. T. Wilson, presiding. Mrs. R. E. Pittman led the devotional.

During the business session matters of importance to the class were discussed after which the program took charge of the entertainment for the evening.

Mrs. Hall read a paper on "Middle Aged Philosophy," and then sang "I'm Contented," which fitted so well with the reading. Other vocal selections were rendered and finally the class membership was invited to join in singing old familiar songs and later our most embarrassing experience. This proved to be quite amusing.

Master H. R. Goodall sang two selections, "Shadows On The Wall" and "Gypsy Fiddles." His sweet childish voice captivated his audience.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Hall served tempting refreshments, assisted by her daughter and Mrs. Goodall. The evening was greatly enjoyed and each left feeling that such fellowship binds us closer together and should enable us to make our lives count for more.

Keen Interest Manifested In Passion Play

As the time draws near for the presentation of the Passion Play the interest in the production is rapidly increasing and it is expected that the players will perform before capacity houses at both performances.

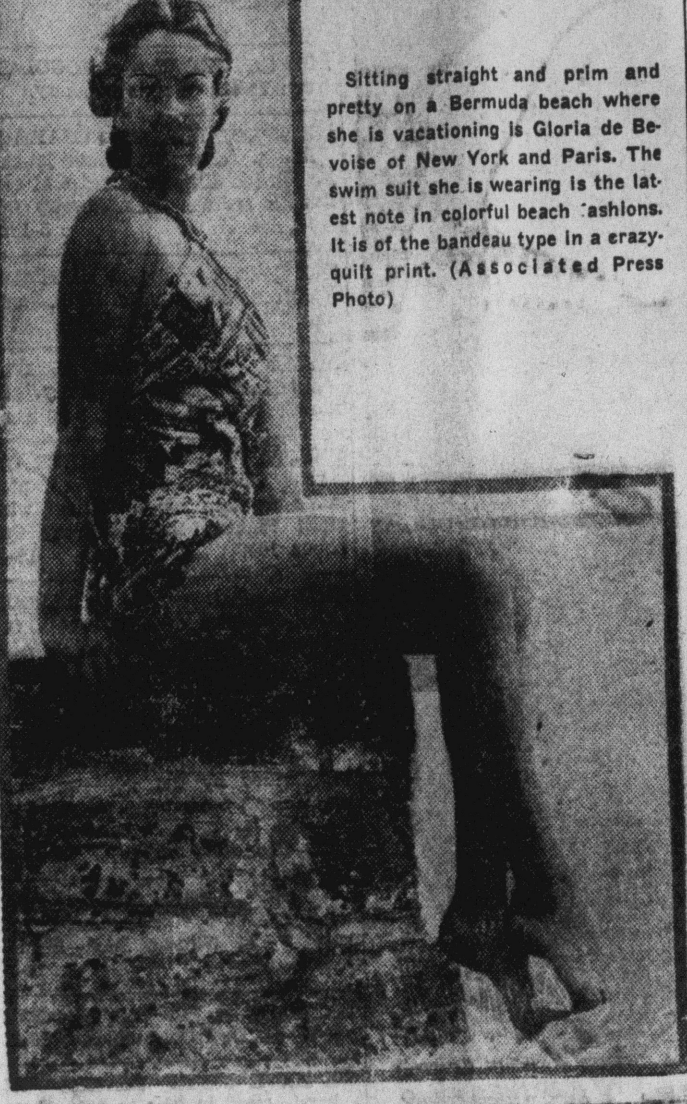

Dr. Alfred Wolff and the principal members of the technical staff have arrived in Greenville and the meeting tonight of the 100 local people who will take the extra parts will complete all plans. The Choral club is nightly practicing and will furnish the musical background for the play. Two performances will be given. The matinee at 2:30 and the night performance at 8:00. Reserved seats are on sale at Hill Home Drug Co. and the ticket sale will continue tonight until 9:00. It is advisable that you secure your seats as early as possible and insure yourself of good ones. This is the first time the Passion Play has ever been to Greenville and as this is the final tour of the players in America it will be the last time that such a magnificent production will be available in this section of the country.

Following closely the Biblical story of the life of Christ, the characters are portrayed with a deep feeling and reverence, by and understanding. The play unfolding a moving narrative is marked by a dramatic simplicity and is effective in its repression of any tendency to elaborate the great tragedy.

The pageantry in the life of Christ has been handled with effect. The entry into Jerusalem, the plotting of the priests, the Last Supper, the night in Gethsemane, the Crucifixion and the Resurrection are high spots in the production.

The Passion Play differs to popular conception of the events in the life of Christ, with the Last Supper, for instance, staged as a faithful copy of the Da Vinci painting.

Seeing Through My Windshield

(By ETHEL NICE, H. D. A.)
Home Demonstration Clubs.

Home Demonstration women this month are studying the convenient arrangement of small kitchen equipment. They are urged to plan their kitchens in units; for example, working centers for receiving and storing, preparing, cooking and serving foods, and for clearing away and washing dishes. All small equipment should be accumulated according to its use if you would save steps. Later in the year we hope to visit several of the best to see the changes and for the benefit of those who would like to improve their kitchens, but have perhaps not known just where to begin. The kitchen is the homemaker's workshop. Don't be satisfied until it is as nearly perfect as you can make it. It is not always money that is needed so much as a keen interest and ideas. The following clubs have met this week: Hollywood, with Miss Annie Carroll; Mrs. John Carroll was assistant hostess. Twenty-one women were present. This club is near the new Chiscol club which has been recently organized and will attend their meeting next Thursday afternoon. They will suggest merging the two clubs.

The Simpson Club met with Mrs. Heber Porter and her daughter, Effie Mae, hostesses were Mrs. Mrs. Harvey Pate and Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker. They had 22 in attendance.

Pierce met at the Community Club building. Mrs. Jerome McGlohen and Mrs. George Dail, hostesses, invited the women into the club kitchen to "pull candy." There were no long faces there.

The Falkland Club met with Mrs. G. H. Pittman Tuesday night. Twelve were present. Miss Lucille Stokes of Greenville, was a visitor.

4-H Clubs.

The Bell Arthur 4-H Club met Tuesday morning. Both clubs are planning to plant flowers "down town" in Bell Arthur. If they carry out their plans a "beauty spot" will be the result.

The Bethel 4-H girls met Wednesday morning. These girls will meet again Saturday afternoon, March 24, to do some planning around the new community building.

The Grifton 4-H Clubs met in a joint session Thursday morning to plan an exhibition and party for their mothers on April 6.

The two Stokes 4-H Clubs met Friday morning. They are also planning an exhibition for April 20th at the chapel hour.

4-H Camp.

Plans are being discussed for the annual 4-H camp, to be announced at an early date. Any working 4-H girls are eligible to attend camp. It is not too late to speed up a bit if your work has not been completed. All reports should come to this office by April 30th. They will be accepted by each club secretary.

Council to Meet.

Next Tuesday the Home Demonstration Council will meet in the auditorium of Sheppard Memorial Library at 2:30 p. m. Please be on time in order that we may close the meeting early. Several items of business will be discussed, and the following clubs have short programs: Hoppewell, Red Oak, Stokes, Falkland.

Schedule For Next Week.

Tuesday morning—Belvoir 4-H Club, 11:15 a. m.

Tuesday afternoon—Winterville 4-H Club, 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Manning.

Wednesday afternoon—Home Demonstration Women's Council at 2:30 p. m., at the Library.

Thursday morning—Farmville 4-H Club, 10:30 a. m.

Thursday morning—Winterville 4-H Club exhibit.

Thursday afternoon—Chiscol H. D. Club, 6:30, at Chiscol school.

Friday morning—Grimesland 4-H Club 10 a. m.

Friday afternoon—Grifton H. D. Club at the home of Mrs. Chauncey.

Friday night—Red Oak play at Winterville.

Saturday afternoon—Bethel 4-H girls, 2:00 p. m., at the community building.

Housing Survey.

In making the recent housing survey throughout the country attention was noted of the need for blue prints for efficient farm homes. Few plans are adapted to the real needs of the farm home in various sections. Home Demonstration women are being asked to fill out questionnaires specifying their need for storage space. Five women of this county will help in this movement and we hope to be able to forward these questionnaires to the state office in a few days.

State Controls Big Industries Of Manchukuo

By JAMES A. HILL.

Hanking, Manchukuo—(AP)—A policy of government control of all the principal industries of Manchukuo is being worked out by the government of the erstwhile Henry Pu-Yi, now Emperor Kang-Teh.

It is not a new policy, for it has been in process of evolution ever since the Japanese began to consolidate their foster state in what formerly was Manchuria.

Iron, gold, petroleum, timber, opium, liquor, the livestock markets and slaughter houses, posts, telegraphs, telephones, railroads, air lines, munitions, match, battery systems and even horse racing are subject to the plan.

State monopolies have been formed or projected in virtually all these lines.

Ostensibly the business is managed by the civic authorities, but actually, say those who have come in contact with the system, the real power is to be found in Japanese military headquarters.

The army authorities explain that they must control these activities "in order to rationalize industry" and because of strategic reasons, both economic and military.

Foreign business men, including several Americans, have complained that only Japanese and Manchukuan are benefiting under the system. It is virtually impossible, they say, for any Chinese or Caucasian business organization to obtain permission to establish any major enterprise in the new empire.

This "open door," one sarcastic American observed, is being kept ajar only enough to enable foreign concerns to make a graceful exit.

One example of the state-fostered monopolies is a comparatively new vodka combine. Capitalized at $2,000,000, it embraces all the important distilleries in Harbin and other cities and has an annual output of 2,000,000 gallons.

The vodka sells for 25 cents (gold) a quart.

In addition the combine has undertaken to distill "shaoxingchun," a popular liquor hitherto produced only in southern China. A subsidiary company is to have a plant at Fushun, 40 miles from Mukden, capable of producing 250,000 gallons of the beverage annually.

Similarly there is a new corporation for marketing petroleum products. The Japanese-owned South Manchuria Railway Company and allied commercial interests formed it with a capital of 5,000,000 yen.

of the absence of so many members finally obtained consent of the House for the vote Monday. The bill limits cotton production to 10,000,000 bales and levies a tax of 50 per cent of the market value of cotton produced in excess of quotas. Indications are the measure will be strongly opposed by most Republicans and a large number of conservative Democrats because of its compulsory provisions.
Woman Held In Mail Robbery. Asheville, March 17.—(AP)—Mae Blalock charged with participation in the $105,000 mail truck holdup at Charlotte last November, was returned here today from Chicago to await trial. She is expected to go on trial in federal district court at Charlotte in April, or here in May. Federal officers had announced Isaac Costner who confessed the Charlotte robbery while on the witness stand for the state in the Jake Factor kidnaping trial in Chicago, would also be returned for trial with her. Mae Blalock was brought here by federal agents from Chicago, whose movements were kept secret, less troubled by encountered with members of the Touhy gang who are still at large.
Army To Resume Mail Flying Washington, March 17.—(AP)—The army will resume transporting the air mail over 9 routes at 12:01 a. m. Monday. The route will include the New York to Atlanta and Jacksonville. It was announced today at the War Department, after Eddie Rick-enbacker, war ace had demanded before a Senate committee that Pres Roosevelt purge his official family of those traitorous elements who miss advise him on the air mail situation. Army transportation of the mail had been suspended for a week in response to Pres. Roosevelt's instructions that the entire air mail set up be radically overhauled to provide greater safety. Ten army pilots have been killed since the government started carrying the mail only four of them were actually engaged in mail flying at the time.

SPORT SLANTS

H. Densmore Shute, the slim man of the links, has given a blistering reply this winter to the critics who viewed this British Open golf championship in 1933 as a flash in the pan or a big cunk of luck. Shute has been playing some of the finest and most consistent golf of the southern campaign. He hasn't been on top so much—outside of the Gasparilla open at Tampa, where he took the playoff from Morton Smith—but he has been well up in the money in all the major events and repeatedly demonstrated his hot-making skill under pressure. "He's the man to watch in the open this year," declares Gene Sarazen. "From tee to green, there's no player now more straight and reliable than Denny."

'The Hag' Can Take It Walter Hagan's name should be added to the list of veterans, like Bill Tilden and Babe Ruth, who refuse to fly the white flag in competition merely because they have passed the 40th milestone of life. "The Hag" is 42 now and he has yielded the mastery of the mashie niblick to youngsters like Paul Runyan, but he can still flash scoring streaks that have the opposition nervous and the galleries wild with delight. The tragic part of the picture is that in common with a few thousand others who were sitting on top, financially, Hagan has been hit hard by the depression. It's no exaggeration to say that Sir Walter has made close to a million during his golfing career in 20 years—since he first won the American open back in 1914—but he has little to show for it. He plays for a $100 guarantee now because he has to, but you won't find "The Hag" any the less optimistic or carefree, as a consequence of existing circumstances.

Some Golfing 'Best' One of the more inquisitive of golf's war correspondents, in answer to a flock of questions put to him, professionals this winter comes up with some interesting stuff on the specialties of the stars. He learned, for instance, that Tommy Armour is considered a better wood shot than an iron player, despite a long-standing belief to the contrary; that Paul Runyan is regarded as the best "short shot" in the game, within 100 yards of the green; that Johnny Revolta is by far the best putter now in the pro ranks, from long range; and that Craig Wood is the deadliest in getting down those tricky 8 to 10-footers on the green.

World War Prison Plot Garb Adopted By Irish Army Dublin.—(AP)—A gray-green uniform that made its first appearance among the huddled inmates of a German prison camp in 1916, has been adopted by the Free State's new "territorial army." The uniform was designed by Sir Roger Casement when he planned to recruit, from the hundreds of Irish prisoners at the camp, a special Irish brigade with which to harry England. Few of the prisoners enlisted, however, and the project already was a failure when Sir Roger boarded the German submarine that took him to Ireland—and eventual death on the scaffold as a traitor. The government hopes the new organization, by bringing together old comrades-in-arms, will do much to assuage the bitterness that has, it is pointed out, retarded national progress the past few years. The Irish republican army, on the other hand, condemns the new force with vehemence. The blue-shirts of General Eoin O'Duffy also regard it with disfavor, on the ground that money is being spent to teach the use of arms in a country struggling to banish weapons. Plans for the new force were evolved by Defense Minister Aiken and military experts after almost two years of study. They contemplate a volunteer "slaugh" or troop in every town and village. These companies will be organized into areas under local committees. The areas in turn will be grouped into military districts under regular army officers.

SAMUEL INSULL GOES ON A "HUNGER STRIKE" (Continued from page one) lished pleasure a blackened pipe Insull was lodged in a cell. Last night the once powerful utilities man slept on a prison camp, rough blanket covering metal springs. In Washington the justice department indicated it is waiting the result of an appellate court issue in Illinois before pressing extradition against Insull.
