Judge Webb Raps Gangsters and Lawyers at Charlotte For Effort to Handicap Officers in Their Work; Attorney for Defendant Declares His Client Feels Like He Was Given Bum Rap in Case

Charlotte, April 4.—(AP)—The heavy hand of the federal government's drive to clean up the nation's gangsters fell today on Isaac Costner, 38, year old Toulhy member who became to big for his Tennessee mountains.

Headless of the defendant's plea that he had been promised immunity for his testimony by which the state of Illinois convicted Basil Banzhart, of the kidnaping of John Factor, Judge E. Yates Webb imposed sentence with pronouncement that "these men must be stopped from their crime and will be some day if we have to make it a hanging offense."

The jury verdict reached and sealed after 40 minutes of deliberation yesterday was read after the opening of court today and sentence was passed immediately.

Costner not manacled as on the first day of his trial, sat emotionless through the judge's pronouncement. As the sentence was read, Marvin Ritch, defense counsel, arose and announced to the court that "the defendant Costner feels that he has been given a bum rap in this case."

Almost before he could finish his references to the purported promises of leniency he claimed federal and Illinois officials made to Costner, Milton Erwin, district attorney, was on his feet to take exceptions to the remark. His effort also was cut short, however as the judge launched his denunciation of gangsters and lawyers who attempt to handicap police officers in their work.

TO CONFER ON FARM RELIEF

R. L. Little Calls Conference of Assistants For Tomorrow Morning

R. L. Little, chairman of the farm relief program in this county, has called a conference for tomorrow morning for the purpose of conferring with his assistants relative to pushing the work as rapidly as possible. Nine assistants have been selected to aid Mr. Little in providing land for indigent people of the county. The chairman stated today that response so far was very encouraging and that indications pointed to hundreds of acres of relief gardens under cultivation in the near future.

Mr. Little has already conferred with numbers of landowners of the county relative to diverting surplus acreage to the farm relief program, and he said he was satisfied that sufficient land would be obtained to take care of most of the needs of the indigent.

It is the object of the plan to provide from four to six acres for the indigent, formerly on CWA or other relief payrolls. This will enable them to grow their own crops during the summer and become virtuous.

REBUILDING STREET WILL START SOON

Work of Resurfacing Dickinson Avenue Scheduled to Get Under Way April 6

Work of resurfacing and improving Dickinson Avenue will begin Friday, April 6, city officials were advised this first part of the week.

Immediately after completion of this job, construction forces, it is said, will widen Fifth street from Liberty street to the city limits.

Information that this work would be done through funds appropriated to the state through federal agencies was made known sometime ago, but contract for the resurfacing work was not let until about three weeks ago.

All work places along Dickinson Avenue from the A. C. L. passenger station to Five Points will be built up to the proper level. When this is done the entire street will be resurfaced in keeping with other streets of the city.

Opening way for the construction forces, crews of the Water and Light Commission were busy today laying new pipes on Dickinson Avenue. Several openings have been made where additional pipes are needed and it was said this work would be completed when the road forces arrive.

The long range gun will shoot a projectile several hundred feet, as it is used for dislodging criminals who have barricaded themselves.

THREE HELD FOR ROBBERY GAS STATION

Wilson Young Men Jailed Here Today For Robbery Last Monday Night

Three young white men of Wilson charged with robbing a filling station here Monday night, were arrested by police here this morning and held for hearing in mayor's court next Saturday morning.

They were Ben Simpson, Marvin Langley and Connie Lee Brantley. All of them are around 17 and 20 years of age.

In addition to the robbery of Smitty's Place, combination filling station-store, located near the intersection of the Ayden, Farmville and Greenville roads, the youth are charged with stealing an automobile from B. F. Eagles at Wilson Monday afternoon and robbery of a filling station at Rocky Mount.

They had the automobile in their possession when taken into custody here today. Part of the loot alleged to have been taken in Rocky Mount was recovered along with the car.

In the robbery here the defendants are alleged to have taken a quantity of cigarettes and an undetermined amount of money from a slot machine.

Chief of Police George Clark notified Wilson authorities of the arrests and expected them to come to Greenville probably this afternoon to claim the automobile. The prisoners will not be surrendered, however, until they are given hearing here, the police head said.

Officers were at first undecided whether to surrender the prisoners to Wilson authorities or hold them for trial here, but shortly after the arrest Chief Clark said they had decided to give the youths hearing Saturday and then turn them over to Wilson and Rocky Mount officers afterwards.

WILL COMMENT IN WIRT CASE

Several Members Agree to Express Viewpoint on Revolution Charges

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—Several members of the "brain trust" said privately today that they would gladly comment on the Wirt revolution charges if asked to do so by an investigating committee.

The membership of a House group to inquire into statement of Dr. William I. Wirt of Indiana, said he obtained from unnamed brain trusters, will be announced today by Speaker Rainey.

Berkford Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, whose recent book was assailed yesterday by Senator Dickinson of Iowa, told newsmen he would decline to reply but added:

"What I said in the book for anyone to read who wants to." The book dealing with socialism and communism as two approaches to economic planning in society to which Dickinson referred, said:

"So long as levels of living in Russia are much more than those in America the Soviet economist will offer no serious challenge to us. But if the level of living in Russia approaches our own, the challenge will be a serious one."

SEEKS POST OF CORONER

A. A. Ellwanger Tosses His Hat Into Ring For Re-election To County Office

The proberial political pot, which began sputtering, rather vociferously yesterday, put on renewed steam today with announcement of A. A. Ellwanger that he would seek re-election for the office of Coroner of Pitt county.

Announcement of the Coroner came on the heels of a "hat-flinging" spree yesterday in which J. Vance Perkins stated he would bid for the office of County Treasurer now held by A. T. Moore, and another statement by Senator A. B. Coffey that he would seek his post in the General Assembly of North Carolina. He is opposed by Mrs. J. B. Spilman.

The announcement by Coroner Ellwanger was received with interest by his friends today. He was named to the post to fill an unexpired term in 1932 and was later elected to serve the regular term.

He has been in Greenville for the last several years and has been prominently connected with the funeral home business.

At the Institute of Government held at Chapel Hill last summer he was named vice president of the North Carolina Association of Coroners. This was a recognition of which he is justly proud giving him as it does a prominent place in investigation of crime.

of committee amendments that have raised the House income tax strength bill to $330,000,000.

The House meanwhile accepted the Norris-Rankin resolutions for investigation of public utility rates by the Federal Power Commission.

One tax clause winning sanction was to levy a big surtax on improperly accumulated surplus of corporations. The additional tax would be 5 per cent on adjusted net incomes under $100,000 and 35 per cent on that in excess of $100,000.

The first test vote was upon a vote to retain a provision subjecting to taxation the anticipated annuities. The proposal would require annuities as soon as payments begin and to report as income an amount equal to 3 per cent of the aggregate paid on the annuity.

The House after approving a number of less private bills got down to real work on the revised Jones-Cos-

COUNTY COURT DELVES INTO HEAVY DOCKET

Fifty-Odd Cases Face Consideration In First Sitting in Two Weeks

After being idle a couple of weeks because of the two-week term of civil Superior court which closed here yesterday morning, County court delved away energetically in the docket of thirty-odd cases today with indications that work would be completed late today or early tomorrow.

A dozen or more cases were completed following adjournment of Superior court yesterday. They consisted mainly of charges of assault with a deadly weapon carrying concealed weapons, and violation of the state prohibition laws.

The most important cases considered yesterday was the reckless driving charge against Phillip Sullivan, former driver of the Belvoir school bus. He was found guilty of the charge, fined $25 and cost and had his license revoked for 12 months. Notice of appeal was filed to Superior court.

The case grew out of a crash of the Belvoir school bus with an automobile at Mayo's store road intersection several weeks ago. Several occupants of the bus were injured and Sullivan was arrested and held for court action. It being declared that he failed to stop at the intersection.

Other cases heard yesterday were: Walter Smith, colored, assault with a deadly weapon; judgment suspended upon payment of cost and payment of doctor's bill of the prosecuting witness.

Utilities Czar Munches Peanuts While Lawyers Try to Stall Extradition

Istanbul, April 4.—(AP)—Reduced to munching peanuts in a Turkish house of detention—unable to even obtain his personal baggage from the vessel upon which he was seized—Samuel Insull awaited today efforts of newly acquired British lawyers to delay his extradition to the United States.

The aged fugitive sent one of his wardens out today for a bag of peanuts. Then while hundreds of curious pedestrians gazed up at his room he walked up and down before the window eating the gofers.

He was in good health and appeared less depressed after talking with the lawyers trying to find some loophole in the Turkish government's ruling that he must be handed over to the United States for trial on larceny and fraud charges.

HOLDUP MEN SENT TO PEN

Greenville, S. C., April 4.—(AP)—Three of five men who robbed a South Carolina bank messenger March 8 of $50,000 were enroute to federal prison at Atlanta today; another will be sent to Chillicothe, Ohio, tomorrow and the fifth will be sentenced Monday.

All pleaded guilty before Federal Judge H. H. Watkins here yesterday and were sentenced to six years and a day.

The fifth, Robert Willamon, was told that his sentence would be the same when he was formally sentenced. He was given a few days to wind up the sale of his 13 filling stations here.

DR. MILLER SPEAKS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Dean of Duke Law School Honored at Dinner in Episcopal Parish House

"Find out what every person is interested in doing and teach him to do it well enough to win the respect of his fellow men, and there will be no more crime," said Dr. Justin Miller, Dean of the Law School of Duke University, in a speech before a large and interested audience in the high school auditorium here last night on "The Child Today: The Child Tomorrow."

"And what other agency" inquired the speaker "can give such training to the schools?"

Going back to the past, Dean Miller showed that the home had once done the major part of training young people to live in society as the child, following in the footsteps of his father, acquired training within the family for his life work; that the community had once developed in its people their own resources in work and entertainment.

Now, these agencies are in varying degree breaking down and shifting their responsibility to the schools. The father can not train his son for the specialized jobs of today, and the community offers him the movies and radio programs instead of developing his ability to entertain himself.

Not only, the speaker pointed out, must the schools lay the basis for special training for earning a living but they must help the child turn his impulses of delinquency to constructive rather than destructive ends, must help him turn his mistakes to account in real learning.

"All the children are delinquent," said the Dean. "The child who raids the family ice-box is perhaps disciplined for it at home enough that he learns it will not work to violate the property rights of others; but the child who, lacking a family ice-box steals food from a grocery needs some agency to help him turn his mistakes to good account instead of letting them throw him into the criminal group."

So it is the chief purpose of the schools "to develop self-reliant individuals who can take their place in society."

"Do the schools do that?" asked Dean Miller and answered his own question by saying "No, and they can not, until they are more adequately provided for." They cannot attain that goal by cutting out the so-called "fads and frills", subjects which are designed to help students find their real interests, nor by putting on a wage level below that of manual labor the teachers who must guide the child's social adjustment—so important to society.

MEMBERS OF BRAIN TRUST SEE 'ACTION'

Strength of Opposition, Members of Senate Declare, Affords Alterations in Control Measure; Action to be taken in Spite of President Roosevelt's Okay

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—Despite President Roosevelt's okay on the bill to control the stock market, members of the Senate banking committee predicted today it would be modified again.

They said the strength of the opposition to it would assure many alterations. Backers of the measure entitled the Fletcher-Ryburn bill, hoped the committee will report "without weakening it."

Several Democratic members are among those seeking changes. The only Republicans on the committee to support the legislation substantially in its present form are Senators Couzens of Michigan, and Norbeck of South Dakota. The first test of committee sentiment occurred yesterday. Opponents indicated a desire to rewrite it from beginning to end by seeking to eliminate the vital introductory section without waiting for the more controversial provision.

HEAVY DAMAGE FROM FLOOD

Waters Recede in Western Wisconsin and Southeastern Minnesota

St. Paul, April 4.—(AP)—Floods that took time to recede today, giving residents of Western Wisconsin and Southeastern Minnesota their first opportunity to survey the heavy damage to property.

Torrents of rain that fell Monday in Wisconsin communities hardened into ice, precipitation there ranged from two to four inches.

Three trappers were crushed to death at Hudson, Wis., when a freight train was derailed. Three persons were drowned near White Hall, Wis., when a heavy carrying seven persons was washed into a stream and two men and a woman were drowned in other mishaps near Elcarr and Spring Valley Wis.

Twenty persons trapped all day in wooden mill at Chippewa Falls, Wis., were rescued late last night when Duncan creek receded about three feet. Ninety other employes fled the building in time yesterday morning.

A Good Job

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"Please come along," urged Willy Nilly. "I'll give you something to eat."

"Oh, but you can't give me anything I'm getting here. I've had the most delicious food and now I'm looking over all the tins and cans and scraps and trying to get them so as not to be wasteful," Jelly Bear answered.

"If you're not careful," scolded Willy Nilly. "they'll take you and put you in a cage and then you won't have any freedom at all. You're not used to doing tricks and traveling around the country. You wouldn't like it. And do you want to leave Honey Bear and the cubs behind? That's what will happen to you if you don't come with me now."

"I'm not being greedy," answered Jelly Bear. "I've taken lots of food up to the cave, and Honey Bear is as pleased as can be. By the way, did you know that the cubs' eyes were open now? Oh, they are very sweet."

"Don't change the subject, Jelly Bear. Come with me. In another moment they'll discover you and they'll decide that if you eat their food you might as well work for them."

"I'm working for them now," growled Jelly Bear. "I have a job, and a very good job it is."

"Oh, Jelly Bear," cried Willy Nilly, "you're not going to leave us, are you? You haven't decided to go with the circus when it starts off? Oh, Jelly Bear, I thought nothing would make you go away from Puddle Muddle." Willy Nilly's eyes filled with tears.

New Books

By JOHN SELBY
It is one thing to write scurrilously of public characters anonymously, and quite another to deliver considered estimates of their personalities and their accomplishments.

There has been a flood of the first sort of book; there is at least one of the latter. It is called "The New Dealers," and it is written by someone who signs himself "The Unofficial Observer."

The contents include some 50 character sketches of those in the New Deal. President and Mrs. Roosevelt at the top of the list, of course. There are especially good ones of Rexford Guy Tugwell, Secretary Wallace and General Hugh Johnson, and there is none of them which seems motivated by spite or the desire to "dish muck."

The book is, in other words, apparently a sincere effort to present the New Dealers as they exist, without prejudice either way. As such it has its value.

Thumbs Up

"The Choice Before Us," by Norman Thomas, in which the sometime socialist candidate for the presidency elaborates his plan for bringing calm to our economic and political waters; the plan is reminiscent of Stuart Chase's and Dr. Tugwell's, in spots.

"I Was a German," by Ernst Toller; the autobiography of a conscientious left-wing German who tries to tell the truth even about the Nazis—and that is a rare thing these days.

"Beyond The Street," by Edgar Calmer; a novel about the goings-on in a New York high school, full of somewhat neurotic teachers and almost as neurotic students.

"Adventures in Nakedness," by Julian Strang; a novelist here tells his own experiences with nudism, with the usual illustrations and with the emphasis on what nudism has done for him personally.

Miss Bottome.

"Private Worlds," by Phyllis Bottome (pronounced as if the last syllable had to go with a heavy book); a novel about an institute for mental diseases in which the characters are not the patients but the doctors; it moves slowly, but surely.

"Napoleon and His Marshals," by A. G. Maddonell; in which the Napoleonic saga is redone (effectively) in terms of the men who sat on those curbside stools they show the tourists at Fontainebleau.

Washington Daybook

Washington—Perhaps the 44-millionth letter that President Roosevelt included felt the blow delivered by the veto on overriding the veto on additional veterans and federal employes' compensation more than the public senator from South Carolina.

On James Francis Byrnes was thrust the task of engineering the piece of legislation through the senate. Under ordinary circumstance, Chief Justice of Virginia would have had charge of the bill. Glass not only is chairman of the appropriations committee, but heads the subcommittee which considered this particular bill.

Chief Justice Byrnes, however, has done the heavy lifting during all of the session. For weeks he has been flitting around the capitol with one foot in a carpet slipper.

Physically unable to assume leadership in a fight of such proportions, he called in Byrnes, ranking democrat on the subcommittee, and gave the difficult work to him.

President's Confidant.

Although Byrnes has been in the senate only since 1930 (he defeated South Carolina's James "Coley" Mann for the seat) he is no novice

The World of Stamps

By QUINTON JAMES
The name of Ivan Fedorof, the Russian, who died in 1883, has lived through the years as that country's first printer. Now, in commemoration of the 50th anniversary of his death, the Soviet republic is paying tribute to him in a special two-stamp issue.

And in keeping with the great progress that the printing art has made in the comparatively few centuries it has existed the stamps are an ideal example of the ultimate in both the printing and the engraving art. They are steel engraved by the Moscow engraver Troitzky in keeping with the design of the artist W. Sawjaloff.

The two stamps, the 20 kopek carmine, and the 30 kopek dark

Belgium Mourns

Jelly black is used for the mourning stamp of Belgium in paying its respects to the late King Albert. The particular stamp so printed is the 75 centime of 1932, showing Albert in military uniform.

Not only is the stamp itself black, but the border around the stamp between the frame lines and the perforations also is in black. In addition there is a black border around the printed sheets, measuring about a quarter of an inch wide.

More On Maryland

For the first time since the issue of 1887, the United States has a three-cent stamp printed in a shade of red in the new Maryland centenary commemorative. Most of the time since that date the three-centers have been either violet or purple.

The first three-cent stamp of Uncle Sam was rose and dull red in the issue of 1857-60, pink and rose in the second issue of 1891, and continued to be a shade of red until 1929, when the color was changed to ultramarine. It became green in 1930. After the 1887 vermilion stamp, purple was adopted for the 1890 issue, followed by another green in the Columbian issue of 1893. Purple continued to be the shade in the next issues, being changed to violet for the first time in 1902. Violet it has remained until the present.

Stamp experts explain that the universal postal union regulations now govern the colors used in the lower value stamps, each shade being based on the value of the stamp in gold.

Topical Trends

Two years of research and five months of steady labor in compiling the information gathered are making themselves known in a new book by Prescott H. Thorp, New York stamp author and expert, under the title of "Commemorative Stamps of the World." It has 2,000 illustrations and lists and gives an explanation of every commemorative ever issued.

Because of the rise in foreign exchange since the standard catalogue for 1934 was printed last fall, the compilers have announced a 25 per cent advance in its listings of all current and recent issues of foreign stamps, except those of Great Britain. U. S. listings and those of stamps now of general postal use are not affected.

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Kinston, April 4.—E. H. Nobles, in a hospital here with serious injuries suffered in an automobile accident at the week-end, may succumb. His condition has been critical since his admission. Nobles and Mrs. Henry Leary were injured, the latter less seriously, when the car in which they were riding side-swiped another, then crashed into a bridge abutment. The accident occurred a short distance out of the city. Nobles' car was wrecked, the other car escaping serious damage.

CALL FOR QUASHING OF SCALES INDICTMENT

Winston-Salem, April 4.—(AP)—Motion to quash the indictment against Wallace Scales, scion of a prominent Greensboro family, who is charged with robbery with firearms was made by his attorney in Forsyth court yesterday. Judge Hill set a hearing for today before a special jury, at which time defense counsel will enter a plea of "double jeopardy" on the grounds Scales was once acquitted of the robbery charge.

BURGLARS GET LITTLE FROM STORE AT BOWDEN

Faison, April 4.—The Postoffice at Bowden was feloniously entered early Sunday morning for the fourth time in 13 months. An ineffectual effort was made to break the safe open. The only articles missing were some cigars and cigarettes from H. A. Parker's store, operated in connection with the Postoffice. Scales indicated that the burglars had fastened on soft drinks and cakes during their sojourn in the building.

The only low-priced car with fully-enclosed Knee-Action Wheels and what a difference that makes in performance and dependability

Simple as a Shock Absorber!

Chevrolet's "fully-enclosed" Knee-Action mechanism is in reality a gigantic shock absorber, built solidly on to Chevrolet's big, heavy frame, with the front wheel anchored to the "shock absorber" arm. The result: When the front wheel comes in contact with a bump or hole, it rises or falls to absorb the shock.

In a 1934 Chevrolet, you not only get the gliding ride at its best, you also get several other Knee-Action advantages not found in any other low-priced car! The reason: Chevrolet's Knee-Action is of a very special kind—and the patents on it are held exclusively by General Motors. In this construction, the coil spring is safely and solidly enclosed in a heavy steel housing—to keep out dirt and flying stones. What's more, the design of this type is such that the steering mechanism is completely divorced from the spring action, the result being a new type of shock-proof steering.

Admittedly, these "fully-enclosed" Knee-Action wheels are more expensive to produce than other types. But Chevrolet feels that the extra satisfaction thus assured for Chevrolet owners is well worth the extra manufacturing cost. And this same attitude is responsible for the presence of many other "fine-car" features in the new Chevrolet: the large, roomy Fisher body. The new Y-K frame. The cable-controlled brakes. Genuine Synchro-Mesh transmission. In fact, everything about this automobile reflects Chevrolet's policy: to build the most cars, by building the best cars of low price!

ASK THE CANDIDATES WHERE THEY STAND

With sales tax collections for the year far below the anticipated figure no doubt there will be some in the coming legislature who will want to boost the sales tax rate in order to derive even greater revenues from this source for the next biennium. On the other hand there will no doubt be a fight by opponents of the sales tax for the legislature to do away with this obnoxious form of taxation and get the money, as it should, from the sources most able to carry the tax burden.

We have been from the start and still are opposed to the sales tax and naturally our hopes and efforts will be with those who would do away with the sales tax. from the start it was our contention that the sales tax would be shifting the tax burdens to the backs of those least able to pay and recent Department of Revenue figures bear out this contention. Department figures show that the counties of the Piedmont section of the state reflect great tax savings under the sales tax plan, some of them nearly as high as half a million dollars, while under the same plan the taxpayers of the agricultural counties of the east are showing little if any savings and in the case of our own county of Pitt our taxpayers are paying $10,000 to $15,000 more taxes under the present plan than under the old system.

If you want to continue to pay more taxes and let other counties profit by it and show great savings, then of course you will not be opposing the sales tax plan, but if you agree with us that under the sales tax plan our county is getting the little end of the deal, then in the coming primary do not cast your vote for any member of the General Assembly who does not pledge to vote against and use his best efforts against the sales tax plan.

SEARCH FOR BODIES OF TWO DROWNED MEN Durham, April 3.—(AP)—Search was begun yesterday for the bodies of Jack Winston, 36, and J. Glennie Cook, 39, who were drowned Monday in Flat River Lake, after their outboard motorboat had capsized.

Walter H. Green and Edwin L. Harris, who were also in the boat, swam to safety. They said the accident was caused by the boat striking a log.

When Green and Harris made their way back to the landing from which the party had set out, they found Cook's seven year old son awaiting his father's return. The boy's mother died six weeks ago of pneumonia. It was after dark when the tragedy was reported, and no effort was made to grapple for the bodies Monday night.

Judith Lane by JEANNEY BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: Judith Dale has gone to the Rio Diablo dam to supervise the work begun by her former employer, Big Tom Bevins, in accordance with the terms of his will. She has left Judith Evans and Judge Moscov in Houston to fight Morton Langner, who is trying to recover for the dam. Above the money left Judith by Big Tom for the completion of the dam. But she also has left behind her husband, Norman Dale, Langner's partner. Norman does not approve Judith's course. The dam workers await Judith's speech.

Chapter 27 STRAIGHT TALK AS Judith Dale raised her hand, silence fell on the crowd of dam workers who had come to greet her. They had asked for a speech.

"Tell me what you would like to know she asked. "Our jobs... how about our jobs? "Who gets Mason's place? "How long you goin' to keep operatin'?"

Again her uplifted hand—"Big Tom would have had the man next in line fill Mason's place. We'll follow the same plan. Max Larson is next in line."

A roar of approval greeted this. "Your jobs are safe. The new company has money to carry on the work and keep your salaries going during the will contest."

She stopped. Somewhere on the outer fringe an argument was going on. "What's the trouble?" she demanded.

"Aw," came a voice, "there's a bird back here says we ought to beat it while beatin' the goo' and get ourselves a real job. He says the Bevins women are goin' to let this dam go as soon as the will's broke and they get the money."

"What'll we do with 'em, Miss Judy?" asked a young voice, "shall we ride 'em out on a rail?" This emergency was one Big Tom could not have foreseen. Judith knew her dam workers. She had known them all of her life. They could be quickened to mutiny as quickly as they could be quickened to loyalty and upon the turn of a word this decision might rest.

"Ride 'em out on a rail?" echoed Judith in derision, "why give 'em transportation, let 'em walk." The quick answer won. Roars of laughter, scuffling on the fringe, then silence.

Judith spoke again—"naturally you are interested in your jobs. Whether you keep these jobs or not is up to you. It will depend upon one thing, your loyalty to Big Tom Bevins."

"As you work, remember you are working for him, just as I am working for him. He earned the five million dollars it will take for the erection and maintenance of this dam and he had a right to say how it should be spent. He left it to me with the orders to spend it as he would have spent it had he lived, not for my personal use. I am working as his secretary; his stenographer, at a salary less than many of you are receiving."

"Big Tom knew there would be an attempt to break his will and he prepared for it. There will be no danger from that source... but the same influence which will try to break the will, will try to send spies into camp here to cause dissension, distrust, anything to hinder the work on the dam."

"If you listen to these spies, you will be hurting yourself worse than anyone else. "Big Tom had foresight enough to protect your interests against our common enemy. Have you loyalty enough to protect his memory and carry out the desire of his life, the building of this dam?"

To Judith, it seemed the shout of assent was unanimous and shortly afterwards the crowd began dispersing and she found herself surrounded by a group of foremen, engineers and construction men, many of whom she had worked with before.

"You said the right thing, Mrs. Dale," said Larson, "they were worried about working for a millionaire stenographer. You put them straight on that." "And what you said about loyalty," added another.

"Say, Judy," interposed Clark Goodwin, with whom she had attended college, "did you mean that about working for a salary?" "I certainly did," she answered, then with a boyish grin, "where do I pitch my tent? And say, could you rustle a second one for my girl friend? This is Delphy, boys, she decided she wasn't going to let me come down here and eat mantillas and holy beans, so I found her on the train, spending her last nickel to take care of me."

"Good for Delphy, you bet we can find a tent for her." They had been walking uphill and Judy saw they were fast coming to him. McLeod fired his third shot and brought down the third man. The testimony revealed little else except McLeod's deadly shooting eye moonlight. The killer escaped for the time but was captured without resistance in western Cumberland Sunday night by a band of county officers and a military policeman.

"My Car Rolled over 5 times with ME inside!"

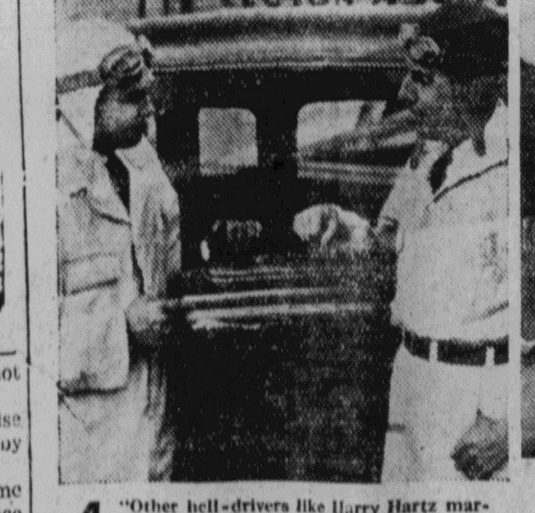

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH HELL-DRIVER BILLY ARNOLD

"It took more than Luck to save my Life—it took a Safety-Steel Body" IT HAPPENED on the Bakersfield highway. Billy Arnold was making time for Los Angeles. Road clear... rising curve ahead. Suddenly... but let him tell it in his own words: "Suddenly another car swept around the curve... coming right at me... on the wrong side. I had my choice. A head-on crash... or the gully on the right. I took the gully. "I wouldn't give a plugged nickel," says Arnold, "for my chances in any low-priced car but a Plymouth. Its Safety-Steel Body was undoubtedly the thing that saved my life."

1. "I've been what people call a 'hell-driver' for years. I've done all kinds of daredevil stunts—testing cars. I've even wrecked them on purpose. But this unexpected accident was by far the most hair-raising experience of my life!"

2. "There's where it happened. The diagram shows how my Plymouth struck the side, bounced up in the air and rolled over five times before I was rescued."

3. "I couldn't avoid it. I had only a split second to see what was happening. The other car was in my path. I swerved to save him. Down I plunged... turning over and over!"

4. "Other hell-drivers like Harry Hartz marveled that I came through it all unharmed. They thought I was kidding when I told them how I tried the motor, found it worked and drove on."

PLYMOUTH DOES GIVE YOU the protection you want... not only in its body, but in its brakes. They're Hydraulic Brakes... the safest, surest brakes you'll find on any car. And there's something else you want. Comfort! Floating Power engine mountings keep engine vibration in the motor. Individual Wheel Springing ends all bouncing and jars. CONOCO INTRODUCES A Remarkable new MOTOR OIL

Its lower consumption and greater protection to motors proved by the most convincing test ever made!

The process which gives these exclusive new features is protected by recent U.S. patents. Conoco refines a high quality paraffin base oil and then adds the extra oiliness that is absolutely necessary to obtain the protection and low consumption every motorist should demand.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil excels in the most convincing test ever made, under the supervision of the AAA Contest Board!

IN presenting New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil you are furnished facts of performance. You will at once be convinced of the direct value of this new oil. A test so dramatic, so honest, that it will go down in history!

This test was held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. The Contest Board of the American Automobile Association supervised all details, thus assuring an unbiased opinion. Six new regular stock cars were delivered direct to them. They tested and measured each to obtain an equal condition in all.

Six brands of motor oil, of the same S. A. E. grade, were used. Five of them, all purchased by the AAA on the open market, were nationally known, widely recognized leaders. The other one was New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. All cars were then carefully broken in for 2500 miles.

Five quarts, a new and complete fill, were put in each car and the cranks sealed. Then the real battle for supremacy began. The cars were driven for as long as the motors continued to operate. Started equally, they were driven as far as they would go—completely ruined—run dry and cracked up.

Here are the results: Oil No. 4 quit at 1713.2 miles; Oil No. 6 quit at 1764.4 miles; Oil No. 5 wrecked the motor at 1815.9; Oil No. 1 ceased its lubricative protection at 2266.8 miles; and Oil No. 3 at 3318.8 miles.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil carried on to total 4729 miles! Over three thousand miles farther than the first oil to go out, and over fourteen hundred miles farther than the final oil of the five!

It is the Germ Processing principle, only used by Conoco, that won the test. This "Hidden Quart" that lubricates all parts at all times—that stays up in your motor and never drains away. Here then is proof of motor protection and proof of low consumption. Here is the oil that will make your motor last longer and cost less for the oil it uses.

Drive into a Conoco Station or Dealer for a fill. You are getting the most in lubrication value that money can buy.

Warning TO NEW CAR OWNERS... THE HIDDEN QUART STAYS UP IN YOUR MOTOR AND NEVER DRAINS AWAY. CONOCO RADIO PROGRAM N. B. C. Network Wednesday, 10:30 P. M., E. S. T. 9:30 C. S. T.—8:30 M. S. T. TAR HEELS HITTING AT FAST CLIP

Chapel Hill, April 4.—The first compilation of batting averages reveals that the Carolina baseball team hit the apple at a dizzy 420 clip for its first three games.

Coach Bunn Hearn, who has been much worried about the Tar Heels' young and green outfield and pitching staff, is much encouraged as a result.

If the boys kept hitting like that, Carolina wouldn't need pitchers. It could get by with chumpers.

Discounting for the fact that it is early season and that the opposing pitchers hadn't gotten going good, 50 hits and a team average of 420 still looks pretty good.

The Tar Heels who have the difficult task of defending the State and Conference championships won by the great 1933 club, defeated Washington and Lee 9-3 and Davidson 15-4 and 13-5.

Fred Crouch, lone veteran mound man, pitched the first and third innings, and Ernest McKethan, a sophomore, hurled the other one.

Captain George Brandt, who plays first, led the attack with the stick, getting seven hits in 11 trips for a .636 average.

Ed Shapiro was second high man, but he played in only one game, hitting safely three time out of five for a mark of .600.

Other averages include: Tommy Irwin, shortstop, .571; Dutch Leonard, third baseman .500; Virgil Weathers, second baseman .487; Thurman Vilk, center fielder, .461; and Gus McIver, left fielder .364.

The Tar Heels will see their next action on a stiff northern trip which starts this weekend and which will carry them against V. P. I. Friday, V. M. I. Saturday, Washington and Lee Monday and Virginia Tuesday.

Greenville Highs Win Over Washington 15-4

Greenville High School baseball team opened its season yesterday by defeating Washington High, 15-4. The locals made seven runs in the third inning. The locals made 11 hits off the hurling of Downs, Wells and Garvin. Vinson and Ed Wells, Greenville hurlers, gave right scattered hits. Jack Poppe, Greenville, and Downs, Washington, each made four hits to lead the batting.

that it was not his work to suggest higher taxes or greater appropriations, but to show the vital importance of the work of the schools in the training of people in intelligent living so that they will be developed enough to know how to use what modern civilization thrust upon them.

"Once we see that truth, we shall have no trouble in getting enough tax money," said Dr. Miller.

Dr. Lucile Turner, president of the organization responsible for Dr. Miller's appearance in Greenville, the local branch of the American Association of University Women presided at the meeting.

She introduced Superintendent J. H. Rose of the Greenville schools who spoke of his pleasure in cooperating in the program; and Mayor R. C. Flanagan, who spoke for the citizens of the town in welcoming Dean Miller, and introduced him in a highly complimentary sentence.

Preceding the general meeting Dr. Miller spoke briefly at a dinner in the parish house, to a group of forty or fifty people on the fact that there is no one general agency for the improvement of the administration of criminal law, pointing out that intelligent people of every community must come together to face present problems and find methods of solving them, and interpret these methods to the community as a whole.

Superintendent Rose presided at the dinner. Officials of all organized groups in Greenville, a representative of the Greenville press, the home demonstration agent of the county superintendent of schools, and leaders from neighboring communities were present.

The dinner and the two programs were in charge of Miss Mary York, of the high school, chairman of the Education Committee of the A. A. U. W.

At the beginning of the night program, glee clubs from Arden, Farmville, and Winterville gave some very well sung choruses.

The program scheduled for the afternoon had to be given up because of the sudden illness of Mrs. J. L. Henderson, State P. T. A. President, who was to have spoken and the failure of Dr. Miller to appear on account of car trouble.

The Greenville high school glee club sang three beautiful numbers in the afternoon.

Dr. Miller's speech is in line with programs of previous years of community wide interest which the A. A. U. W. has sponsored.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Lester Stoefer threatens to go back to college if he doesn't make the Davis cup team this year, which may or may not be the tipoff on how our amateur athletes regard an education.

Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati's golfing pride has given up his studies for the spring in order to be in first class playing condition for his first trip abroad with the American Walker cup team.

These are isolated instances, you will say, but what about the example they furnish to the rest of our athletic youth? On the other hand what is a month or two of missed or delayed schooling, as compared with the broadening influences of traveling and the experience of international competition?

Why, in short, shouldn't our star young athletes capitalize such opportunities while they are at their best, provided they do not sacrifice altogether the advantages of completing their education.

Vines Is Still Out
It may be recalled a few years ago, that the epithet of "tennis bum" first was tossed at our Davis cup youngsters because a number of them left school to participate in spring training at Augusta, Ga. The uproar was so great that this rather top ostentatious bit of preparation was discarded in subsequent seasons. So far as I know all the boys then involved are now doing pretty well.

When Ellsworth Vines first rose to the top of American amateur tennis in 1931 and was selected automatically for the following year's Davis cup team, he promptly left college in order to concentrate on his game. The United States Lawn Tennis association remonstrated with him on academic grounds, but Ellsworth insisted he could not do justice to both education and top-notch tennis at the same time.

Other averages include: Tommy Irwin, shortstop, .571; Dutch Leonard, third baseman .500; Virgil Weathers, second baseman .487; Thurman Vilk, center fielder, .461; and Gus McIver, left fielder .364.

The Tar Heels will see their next action on a stiff northern trip which starts this weekend and which will carry them against V. P. I. Friday, V. M. I. Saturday, Washington and Lee Monday and Virginia Tuesday.

Greenville Highs Win Over Washington 15-4

Greenville High School baseball team opened its season yesterday by defeating Washington High, 15-4. The locals made seven runs in the third inning. The locals made 11 hits off the hurling of Downs, Wells and Garvin. Vinson and Ed Wells, Greenville hurlers, gave right scattered hits. Jack Poppe, Greenville, and Downs, Washington, each made four hits to lead the batting.

that it was not his work to suggest higher taxes or greater appropriations, but to show the vital importance of the work of the schools in the training of people in intelligent living so that they will be developed enough to know how to use what modern civilization thrust upon them.

"Once we see that truth, we shall have no trouble in getting enough tax money," said Dr. Miller.

Dr. Lucile Turner, president of the organization responsible for Dr. Miller's appearance in Greenville, the local branch of the American Association of University Women presided at the meeting.

She introduced Superintendent J. H. Rose of the Greenville schools who spoke of his pleasure in cooperating in the program; and Mayor R. C. Flanagan, who spoke for the citizens of the town in welcoming Dean Miller, and introduced him in a highly complimentary sentence.

Preceding the general meeting Dr. Miller spoke briefly at a dinner in the parish house, to a group of forty or fifty people on the fact that there is no one general agency for the improvement of the administration of criminal law, pointing out that intelligent people of every community must come together to face present problems and find methods of solving them, and interpret these methods to the community as a whole.

Superintendent Rose presided at the dinner. Officials of all organized groups in Greenville, a representative of the Greenville press, the home demonstration agent of the county superintendent of schools, and leaders from neighboring communities were present.

The dinner and the two programs were in charge of Miss Mary York, of the high school, chairman of the Education Committee of the A. A. U. W.

At the beginning of the night program, glee clubs from Arden, Farmville, and Winterville gave some very well sung choruses.

The program scheduled for the afternoon had to be given up because of the sudden illness of Mrs. J. L. Henderson, State P. T. A. President, who was to have spoken and the failure of Dr. Miller to appear on account of car trouble.

The Greenville high school glee club sang three beautiful numbers in the afternoon.

Dr. Miller's speech is in line with programs of previous years of community wide interest which the A. A. U. W. has sponsored.

Vines has not yet gone back to college, has no intention of doing so and that's that. The answer, of course, is that he is now in the tennis business and doing very well at it, despite the handicap of not having his diploma from Southern California.

No Good To Threaten
This brings us back to Stoefer and the question of whether or not Southern California's latest gift to the tennis heights will get the place he demands on our Cup outfit.

If he does, it will not be due to any threatening move on his part. The U. S. L. T. A. is just the kind of an organization that might let Lester Rollo Stoefer to go right back to school and forget all about the Davis cup, since he chooses to make an issue between the two.

Otherwise there is no doubt Stoefer's winter performances make him a much bigger factor than he appeared after the turf tournaments ended in 1933. He seemed at least a year off, as Davis cup timber but somewhere in the past few months he has picked up more aggressiveness and shotmaking skill.

In a year already filled with doubt as to just what our best Davis cup combination may be, Stoefer joins a lineup of eligibles already including Frank Shields, Sidney Wood, Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn, George martin Lett and Cliff Sutter.

usually self-sustaining during the fall and winter months.

The plan was announced by the federal government sometime ago and is being pushed forward rapidly in virtually all agricultural areas where thousands of people have been taken care of during the winter and spring. Thousands of acres of land have been taken out of cultivation through reduction of cotton and tobacco and if part of this is planted on food crops by those who have been on relief rolls it is believed that much of the emergency which has existed in recent years will be relieved.

Mr. Little described himself as highly gratified with the splendid way landowners are receiving the proposal to aid indigent people, and expressed the hope that the movement would gain sufficient momentum to be completed by the time planting season actually reaches its

RICKS BROS.

Mount Olive North Carolina

T. N. RICKS and E. N. RICKS, Jr., of Mount Olive, N. C., say: "Some of our best farmers like L. W. Outlaw, E. F. Nunn, Claud Dale, Walter Dale, Mack Williams and T. G. Kilpatrick have been using twice as much potash in their tobacco fertilizers as the average farmers in our section and they find it profitable under our conditions. "Some have used extra potash now for five years and they figure that the gain has been about $30.00 per acre on the average. Some years it seems to pay more than others, depending on seasons. The extra potash improves the quality and makes larger yields. You can always tell the potash tobacco on the floor."

EXTRA POTASH FOR COTTON

3-8-8 COTTON FERTILIZER is just as fine a mixture for cotton as 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER is for tobacco. 3-8-8 COTTON FERTILIZER contains the extra potash needed to help your cotton prevent rust, control wilt and produce vigorous, healthy plants with less shedding, larger bolls that are easier to pick and better yields of uniform, high-quality lint. 3-8-8 is a better fertilizer for better times. Use it for both tobacco and cotton. IT PAYS!

SECRETS of some of the most successful bright tobacco growers..

CLOSE SPACING Many leading growers who have found that it pays to use closer rows, closer spacing, ridge cultivation and late topping. They see more plants per acre and allow them to make full growth.

These farmers know, however, that closer spacing may result in this leaf, lacking in texture unless plenty of potash is supplied. The potash adds the grain and finish to the leaf. Some farmers fail to get full benefits from extra potash because they produce a type of leaf that is rough and red. Extra potash does not make the crop red.

LATE TOPPING The successful growers who practice close spacing and late topping do not top in dry weather. Under average conditions they wait until about 75% of the plants are in bloom and the field looks like a flower garden. Then they pinch out the bud only.

When the lugs are gathered and about one to two croppings made on the middle, they carefully consider the weather and top the plant down to where they think it should be. This system cuts down the expense of suckering.

More definite information on topping cannot be given because of varying weather conditions. Every farmer must carefully judge his own crop.

New York Cotton

New York, April 4.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened fairly steady one to five lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and under moderate liquidation.

Trading was small proportions but prices sagged a little. Prices moved over a narrow range at the end of the first half hour and the market was about three to five points lower.

Huey Cursed. Washington, April 4.—(AP)—Senator Huey Long of Louisiana was cursed today at a Senate hearing and said, "Let it go into the record."

The official reporter for the committee said he heard John P. Sullivan, New Orleans sportsman, mumble but did not hear the profanity and that it would not be a part of the official record of the hearing.

Spectators thronged the Senate rooms and lines stood on the outside. Quick were the questions and retorts during the hearing.

Long opposed E. D. Moore as internal revenue collector in Louisiana with charges that since the appointment of Moore that the revenue official had been dominated by Sullivan and that Sullivan and Col. E. R. Bradley, Kentucky sportsman, were partners in operation of a string of southern gambling houses.

—what it means

—to keep on hand 350,000 bales of Turkish tobacco to add something to the taste

So important is Turkish tobacco in the Chesterfield blend that we maintain a modern up-to-date tobacco factory in the far-off city of Smyrna. Turkish tobacco adds something to the taste and aroma of a cigarette that no other tobacco can give. It means something that Chesterfield always has in storage upwards of 350,000 bales of this aromatic Turkish leaf. This Turkish tobacco is blended and cross-blended with ripe mild home-grown tobaccos to give Chesterfields a taste and aroma that is not like other cigarettes. Everything that money can buy is used to make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.
