HIGH POINT CHILD AMONG THE VICTIMS

Lukemia Claims Life of Mae Miller at Memphis and Mildred Davis at High Point; Disease Caused by White Corpuscles Crowding Out Red Corpuscles; Little Hope Held Out for Recovery of Several Other Victims.

Memphis, Tenn., April 14.—(AP)—Lillie Mae Miller, four-year-old victim of leukemia died at a hospital here today after a valiant but hopeless fight for life.

Her illness had attracted the sympathy of thousands and letters offering encouragement and hope came to her from all parts of the country.

Physicians said from the first that there was no hope of cure for the illness in which the red corpuscles are routed from the blood stream by an ever increasing excess of white corpuscles.

Too young to understand the seriousness of her predicament, she had laughed and played with toys almost to the time of her death. She sung little songs she made up as she went along.

POLICE COURT IS IDLE TODAY

Lack of Cases Causes Abandonment of the Regular Saturday A. M. Session.

Mean people may live in Greenville but they aren't as mean as they used to be.

Police court on Saturday in past years was glutted with cases of various kinds, but today the hall was silent and the sonorous voice of the mayor was confined to the walls of his office with business matters alone—for there was no court.

Chief of Police George Clark said he didn't have a single case docketed for hearing this morning and consequently there was no use holding court.

Court has been idle frequently of late because of lack of cases, and authorities attributed this to the fact that people are better than they used to be. There may be more of the so-called big crime than formerly, but petty cases are falling off and the wheels of justice in the lower courts are not called upon to grind as vigorously as formerly.

But anything lacking in the lower court will be made up for next week when criminal superior court begins a two week sitting. Hundreds of people are expected to mill about the court house during the court's sitting and the courtroom itself will be crowded to overflowing in the hearing of important cases.

Although the docket was conspicuous for its paucity of cases this morning, Chief Clark said he might be able to round up a few violators between now and Monday. These will consist of traffic law violators and drunk drivers who imbibe too freely during the week-end.

Mob Converts Funeral Into Regular Circus

Chicago, April 14.—(AP)—A frenzied mob of 15,000 sensation-seekers converted a baby's funeral into a circus.

As two-year-old Dorette Zietlow's body lay in the little white casket yesterday they shouted, pushed, fought, smashed police lines, threw the service into confusion and snatched pink sweet peas from the casket.

Outside the chapel they climbed atop automobiles, toppled two chimneys from the roof of the mortuary and milled in the streets defying forty policemen.

Inside they shouted "down in front," gossiped, and argued until finally a legionnaire helping to conduct the funeral arose, and shouted, "This isn't a boxing match—it's a funeral."

NO SHORTAGE OF WORKERS IN THIS AREA

Futrell Brands as Unjust Reports of Lack of Laborers in Pitt County.

Reports that strawberry pickers are not available in Pitt county today were branded as "unjust and unfair" by K. T. Futrell, director of the Pitt County Welfare Department.

Mr. Futrell said he received a letter from Mrs. Thomas O'Berry, Raleigh, director of the State Relief organization, that agents of strawberry pickers from Cuplin, Wayne and other strawberry producing counties said they were unable to obtain pickers in Grifton, Farmville, Ayden and Greenville areas of Pitt county because of relief projects.

Mr. Futrell immediately wrote Mrs. O'Berry that the statement was with out justification and that he could provide such agents with one thousand pickers in a comparatively short time. He said he had been informed from Farmville that 250 laborers could be hustled into strawberry fields from that place in an hour's time.

There is a plethora of unemployed men and women in Pitt county who would be delighted to receive an offer to go to the strawberry fields, Mr. Futrell said, and if agents should apply here they would have little time in getting enough persons to fill many a field.

He said he believed the reports were broadcast by labor heads who do not want workers from other counties carried into the strawberry zone.

But with the letter just dispatched to Mrs. O'Berry, Mr. Futrell said he believed new light would be thrown on the situation, enabling the relief director to trace the origin of the reports of labor shortage in this section.

MRS. INSULL PLANS TO JOIN HER HUSBAND

Chicago Utilities Man Cheered by Word of His Wife Joining Him Aboard Ship.

Steamship Edonia, bound for the United States from Smyrna, Turkey, April 14.—(AP)—Samuel Insull, Chicagoan, found in the custody of a United States official, was cheered today by the possibility he may be joined for most of the long journey by his wife.

The Edonia is holding a cabin accommodations so that Mrs. Insull may embark at Catania, Sicily, if she can make arrangements. She is now in Athens.

It was understood Mrs. Insull's party will number six. The booking, however, was indefinite.

The Edonia, nosing through the Aegean island at 12 knots an hour is expected to reach Catania late on April 16.

Insull, back under the Stars and Stripes despite his efforts to prevent it, was shown every courtesy despite the fact that he is a prisoner.

The downhearted captain, who sought to put aside his worries by exchanging anecdotes with the American diplomat in whose custody he is being returned was assigned to the captain's table today.

CLUB RAISES BOOKS FOR THE LIBRARY

Kiwanians Start Definite Campaign To Place More Books in Local Library.

A concerted movement to provide more books for Sheppard Memorial library was definitely inaugurated by the Kiwanis club here last night in observance of "Library Night."

In addition to hearing a discussion of the history and needs of the library by Rev. G. R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church and the Kiwanians contributed a number of books to the cause and then called on the public to do likewise.

Presented by Dr. M. B. Massey, who was in charge of the program, Mr. Combs gave a brief resume of the history of the library movement from its inception in 1893 to the beautiful building its now occupies in the heart of the city.

The city government, he said, contribute $2,500 annually to the upkeep of the library, but this is insufficient to meet the growing needs of the community. He called attention to the depleted stock of children's books and said the circulation of the library this year would be greatly decreased because of this shortage.

Although the library has a capacity for 20,000 volumes, the present stock consists of only 5,000 books. The circulation has increased from year to year, he stated, and if the demands of the public are to be met it is necessary that additional books be provided by people interested in the cultural and intellectual life of the community.

Dr. Combs said he had been in several states but that he had never seen such a splendid library building in any town the size of Greenville. When he came here he said he went into the library to see how the inside checked up with the outside and was keenly disappointed by the lack of books.

He pointed out that the greatest problem of the present age is that of leisure time. To offset the evils which leisure oftentimes engenders he declared the community should be made "library conscious" so that the citizenship may have something to take care of the spare time.

He appealed to the clubmen to use their influence in seeing that the depleted stock of children's books be replenished so that the juvenile reading clubs may have something to occupy their spare time during the summer months.

Agree To Conference Report.

Washington, April 14.—(AP)—The Senate today agreed to the conference report on the Bankhead cotton bill, sending it to the House for final action.

The report represented an adjustment of differences between the two branches of this controversial legislation. The vote was 39 to 28.

Despite warnings of a political revolution in the south in resistance to the measure it received the Senate endorsement for the second time. Quick House approval of the bill was expected to speed it to the White House to President Roosevelt next week.

THREE BOUND OVER IN HAM THEFT 'RING'

Pitt County Men Given preliminary Hearing in Snow Hill yesterday.

Three members of a "ham theft ring" rounded up here the first of the week by city and county officers, were given preliminary hearing in Greene county yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing meat in that section and bound over to the June term of Greene County Superior court.

Bond was placed at $3,000 but they were unable to provide it and two of them, Johnnie Moye and Robert Jones were remanded to the Greene county jail. The third, Joe Jones, was returned to Greenville to face the grand jury next week.

Moye and Robert Jones, police said, were not connected with thefts in Pitt county, and were turned over to Greene county authorities for disposition. Joe Jones is involved in both counties. The other members of the gang are William Ballings and Albert Harris. They will face the grand jury here next week.

The five are alleged to have conducted a widespread ham-theft ring in both Greene and Pitt counties, and hundreds of pounds of meat are believed to have been stolen from growers of the two counties.

Ballinger was arrested in Goldsboro with hams several days ago and a short time later Joe Jones was taken into custody. They admitted the charges and implicated the three others who were soon rounded up and placed in jail.

N. C. SCHOOL TEACHERS IN CONFAB HERE

Forward-Looking Analysis of The Public School Status Marks Conference Here.

The State-wide Educational Conference in session at East Carolina Teachers College yesterday afternoon and this morning was marked by an intelligent, sane, forward-looking analysis of the present status of the public schools, with a clear understanding that the program of today, which was made to fit conditions that are past and gone, be reorganized and adjusted to the changed conditions in order to fit in the society of the future. The group was representative of the best leadership in the public schools in the state, presenting a cross section of the system.

Time and again discussions veered around to the meeting in Raleigh some weeks ago when the various organizations met and made suggestions for the changed course of study showing that the suggestions were being seriously considered.

Dr. W. O. Hampson, principal of the New Hanover high school of Wilmington, who was the chief spokesman for the whole group, in his address on the theme: "Education for the New Social, Political and Economic Order" struck the keynote of the spirit of the meeting when he said "A brief survey (Continued on Page Four)

FARM LOANS MOVING HERE

Greenville Credit Association reports the Granting Numerous Loans to Farmers.

The movement of loans to farmers through the Greenville Production Credit Association continued rapidly today with indications that the majority of growers seeking loans would be taken care of in short order.

J. C. Galloway, secretary-treasurer of the organization set up here by the government to aid production, said today approximately four hundred loan applications had been made through his office and that about two hundred and twenty-five of the number had been approved.

He said the largest amount sought by any individual grower was $7,000. The association has placed no limit on the amount of money growers may obtain providing they produce the necessary collateral and other demands made of them.

Several loans have been accepted and checks have been mailed out to the growers.

Mr. Galloway said the organization is doing everything in its power to aid farmers in handling their financial problems this year, and that indications pointed to a considerable amount of money being loaned in this cause.

MURDER CASE BEFORE JURY

Two Richmond County Men are Charged with Slaying Wife of George Robbins.

Rocky Mount, (AP)—(AP)—The case of George Robbins and James Sanders, charged with first degree murder for the slaying of Robbins' wife, went to the jury in Richmond County Superior Court at 11 a. m. today.

Arguments which began yesterday and continued through night sessions, were completed this morning and the judge charged the jury immediately. Robbins claimed he and Sanders found his wife beaten to death and lying in the yard of the home when they returned from a party the night of March 18.

Billy Robbins, the couple's eight-year-old son, testified at the inquest and that a negro attacked his mother and then him. The state contends that Robbins slew his wife in a drunken rage. He denied it from the witness stand.

Many Threats Of Walkouts Are Reported

MANY CASES ON CRIMINAL COURT BOOKS

Matthew Harrington to Face Grand Jury on Murder Charge Here Next Week.

The stage was all set today for the opening of a two week term of criminal Superior court here Monday morning. Judge Frank A. Daniels of Goldsboro, will preside, and the docket will be prosecuted by Solicitor D. M. Clark.

As usual, scores of cases, some of them important and many unimportant, are docketed for hearing, but just how any will be reached is problematical.

Probably the most important action to face the grand jury is that against Matthew Harrington, Pitt county young man, charged with the slaying of his step-father, John Gurganus, last February. He has been held in jail here following his surrender several days after the crime was committed, having been denied bond in a habeas corpus hearing before Judge Daniels at Snow Hill.

The body of Gurganus was found in the Tar river bridge fill Sunday afternoon. He was seen riding with Harrington Saturday afternoon. Harrington disappeared Saturday night and a borrowed automobile in which he was riding was never returned to the owner here. He said it was stolen. He denied killing Gurganus.

The second case is a murder charge against Allan Carson, filling station owner of Bethel, charged with shooting to death Ebb Carson last December over a small amount of money Carson was said to have owed. Carson has been out under bond. The grand jury returned a true bill at the last term of criminal court.

Claude Clemmons, colored will face the court for the alleged firing of a negro house in the Stokes community several months ago that resulted in the death of three children.

SCHOOLS TO CLOSE MAY 7

Pitt County System to Hold Finals; Ayden and Chicod Closing Delayed.

County schools will close May 7 with appropriate exercises. It was made known today by Donald Conley, director of the system.

The closing of two schools, Ayden and Chicod, will be delayed on account of time lost from bursted heating plants during the cold spell last January. Mr. Conley said, and each will close about a week later than the others.

School closing is always a big event in the various communities of the county and this year will be no exception, Mr. Conley said.

Elaborate commencement exercises are being planned by virtually all schools and leaders in the educational field have been asked to make final addresses. Some schools already have chosen their speakers, but others have not and complete particulars in this connection will not be made known until later.

In spite of reorganization caused by passage of the new school legislation, school work has been highly successful in all parts of the county, it was stated, and while some have suffered by congestion, education of the youth of the land has proceeded in fairly good order.

Patrons in all communities have been called upon to attend the closings in large numbers and take advantage of the opportunity of seeing an hearing of what has been accomplished.

BRIGHT SPOT SEEN TODAY IN VIRGINIA

Expansion Program at Newell to Result in Employment of 350 Men; Most Serious Threat Exists in the Oil Fields; 100,000 Men to be Called Out if Wage Differential Planned for Code is Adopted.

(By The Associated Press)

Strike and threats of strikes continued to dot the industrial map today.

A bright spot was an announcement that a $300,000 expansion program of the Homer Laughlin China Company at Newell, W. Va., will result in employment of 350 men.

The most serious threat was in the oil industry. The head of the Oil Workers Union, announced in Washington that 100,000 men would be called out in 48 hours if wage differentials planned for the code were adopted.

A strike of 69 soda workers at the Cisco factory at Lewiston, Pa., against extension of the relay system of lunch period occurred throughout the plant. Union leaders estimated 3,000 are out.

From Potteryville, Pa., a call to strike Monday went out to the miners in four collieries to the Philadelphia Coal and Iron Company. A union spokesman said the company had failed to keep a wage agreement. He estimated 2,700 miners would be affected.

All fires in a shipyard at Camden were ordered put out when settlement of differences between 3,000 striking workers and employers became remote.

FOUR OTHER HATS IN RING

J. H. Paylor Out For House; McLawhorn and Smith for Board Commissioners

Four additional candidates marched nonchalantly to the political ring this morning and tossed their hats in.

John Hill Paylor, Farmville lawyer, announced he would be a candidate for a seat in the House of Representatives of the State Legislature. He is the first to announce for this important office although Dame Rumor says there are more in the woods who are waiting for their hats into the ring.

Mr. Paylor is not only well known in the Farmville community but known by numbers of people in Greenville where he attends from time to time.

The other candidates—members of the Board of County Commissioners—are seeking to be re-elected. They are R. Herman of Winterville, chairman of the board, and W. J. AN ESSENTIAL PROVISIO

Governor Ehringhaus is measuring up consistently with his earlier leadership of the tobacco growers in their crusade for fair prices when he conditions his support of a forty per cent reduction in federal tobacco taxes upon the requirement that the growers receive a material share of the benefit.

But the conference of growers and their advisers in the Governor's office yesterday, launching a movement which they hope will extend through the tobacco growing put their case rightly upon supports—Congress and the Natural Adjustment Administration.

Judith Lane

SYNOPSIS: Judith Dale's effort to complete the Rio Diablo dam according to the plan of Big Tom Bevin, her former employer, is complicated by Morton Lampere's effort to recover for the $100,000 he left Judith by Big Tom for the dam.

Chapter 36 SCOUTING TRIP JUDITH awaited the return of Geologist Kane, and the town of Big Tom seemed to wait with her; sensitive to the feeling of this mass thought, she knew they were waiting for her to make a move.

"This fellow who's dealing with Scoggins must have told them something," said Slim Sanford, as he sat on the step of Judith's shack.

"If we only knew what it was," said Larson, "we might know how to deal with it. Work has actually slackened off; oh, not the hours of labor, but the efficiency."

"He's probably spread the rumor that we're going to abandon the dam so Scoggins can drill for oil," interposed Judith wearily.

"But Judith," Slim interrupted, "isn't the dam more important than an oil well?"

"We think so, but the rights of the individual are always important, and it would be up to the courts to decide that. They'd probably have to set a precedent with their decision because I'm sure such a problem never before has come up."

"And meanwhile," said Slim thoughtfully, "the dam work would be lying idle and that wouldn't look so good for you in court, would it, at the time of the will contest?"

"She could prove it wasn't her fault couldn't she?" asked Larson. "Yes," agreed Slim, "but Lampere could use the point against her case. He could say that had Big Tom been in his usual mental health, he wouldn't have overlooked protecting such a salient piece of land, from such possible danger."

"And," added Judith, "he could say that of course one could not expect a mere stenographer to foresee and handle such an oversight, therefore proving her to be unworthy of her trust."

"What do you say we hop into my ship and fly up to Scathorne's field? It won't be as trying as sitting here waiting for Kane."

"They followed the course of the Rio Diablo up to the point where it forked, one fork working its way into the low lying hills, the other curving aimlessly through a section of brown plain."

"Kane was waiting for them when they landed, Judith spied him first and set the rapid pace for the others. Eagerly the trio faced the geologist and waited for his verdict."

"Now of course," he parried, "I'm not psychic enough to tell whether there is oil any place, but I can tell you this much. There is every evidence of Scathorne's having struck a lucky pool."

"And our land here, Scoggins' land?" interposed Judith. "There isn't any reason, geological or otherwise, to allow anyone to believe there is oil there."

The Recovery

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER "That will be all right, we can make more paste and it will all be taken away before the Bear wants to try it again," the Signor said.

"I'll never want to eat anything again," moaned Jelly-Bear. "I'm sure I won't be on the job today and I'm afraid I'll never be able to clean the tins any more."

"Poor Jelly Bear, you must be feeling very sick," said Willy Nilly. "You'd better come back to the house and rest."

"So Jelly Bear trudged slowly after Willy Nilly, moaning and groaning all the time."

"I can be very brave about some things," said Jelly Bear, "but I just can't be brave when I feel so sick."

"There, there," said Willy Nilly. "You'll feel better after a while. I'll give you some medicine and maybe you can take a nap."

"I'll never be able to sleep," moaned Jelly Bear. "They were at Willy Nilly's house, and Willy Nilly filled a big spoon with medicine and gave it to Jelly Bear."

"It won't make me any better," complained Jelly Bear. "Now take it," said Willy Nilly, "and be a good bear."

So Jelly Bear took the medicine, but he didn't even want the piece of candy Willy Nilly offered him afterward.

But after a while Jelly Bear fell asleep, and Willy Nilly went out to try to get a little work done on his garden. When it became dark Willy Nilly went back indoors. Jelly Bear was sitting up, looking much better.

"Maybe I'd better have something to eat," Jelly Bear said.

POINTERS ON POISE

This is a graceful way to sit while talking. SITTING AND TALKING (By Laura Townsend Davies)

If you are sitting and talking with a friend, you naturally will turn slightly toward that person. It is not necessary to place yourself in an awkward position. You can be comfortable, polite and correct. Place a chair sideways to a mirror so that you sit with your right side parallel with it. Place the left foot flat on the floor, in line with the center of your body. Draw the right foot back of the left foot, and allow the right limb to relax. Your entire right side is now relaxed. Now turn your head and shoulders to the mirror, as though to talk to a person on your right. You will see how easy and right this position looks. If the chair has arms, rest your left arm on the chair arm. By way of contrast, put your right foot forward, relax the left, and turn toward the mirror. The picture will be wrong. You will feel and look awkward.

Mary Jo Jones prophesied for the Seniors in 49. Also Miss Dilda awarded each with a dress which was characteristic of the person. Such degrees as this were awarded: "Full of Fun." We were also awarded diplomas for completing courses in "laziness, bashfulness and dislike of boys." Lillian Jackson gave a farewell to the Juniors. During these toasts and various amusements a delicious dinner was served, which with its inimitable added much to every speaker. Following the banquet the guests of honor were entertained at a theatre party at the State Theatre. This enjoyable affair consisted of the Seniors as guests of honor and the debating team which won unanimously in this county. Also the committeemen of the school board and the faculty enjoyed the banquet with us.

4-H Club Activities. Health Examinations—Six of the nineteen 4-H clubs have held their annual health examinations this week. Those receiving highest scores in each club will be invited to Greenville later this spring to compete in the county elimination. There are thirteen other clubs to have the examination. Song Contest—The second annual song contest was held Thursday night at the Greenville high school. The singing was good last year. It was twice as good this year. There were four groups of songs to select from and each club sang in any two groups it preferred. Eight schools and twelve clubs were present for the contest. Those singing in the sacred group were Stokes, Fountain, and Bethel. Stokes won first place. Belvoir was the only club to sing in the patriotic contest. In the southern song group the following competed: Falkland, Pactolus, Winterville and Farmville. Pactolus and Farmville tied for first place. And in the group of everyday songs all eight clubs competed: Stokes, Pactolus, Winterville, Falkland, Fountain, Farmville, Bethel and Belvoir. Fountain made the best score in this group and also of the entire contest. A large audience was present to hear these folks sing. Chioch Clubs Exhibit—Both the senior and junior clubs at Chioch held exhibits Friday afternoon in connection with the "Education Day" program put on by the entire school. The senior exhibit was in the nature of a style show. Each girl modeled her dress she had made in a part of her club work. The juniors wore their dresses and entertained their mothers at a party given in their class room. Both clubs had other pieces they had made on exhibit in the library. Much credit is due Miss Eloise Scott, leader of the senior club, and to Miss Mamie Edwards, leader of the juniors. They have helped the girls through the difficult places. 4-H Camp—The 4-H camp will be held at Neuse Forrest the last week of June. All girls who turn in their reports signed by their leaders are eligible to go to camp. Of course we hope every one is going to be able to go. 4-H Short Course—The State Short Course for 4-H girls and boys

A communique issued here by the Saudi Arabian Legation charges the Imam with "obstinately persisting in his aggressive policy" by occupying territory from which Ibn Saud's troops had withdrawn in the hope of concluding a peace. Yemen, a state the size of Nebraska, tucked away in the southwest corner of Arabia, is one of the few districts of the peninsula that have not felt the weight of Ibn Saud's steel. One of the most fertile parts of the peninsula, it is ruled by the 65-year-old Imam Yahya who came into power 30 years ago, soon after Ibn Saud had started upon his rise from poverty and exile. Ibn Saud, who is 54, has been called the mightiest Arab since the Prophet Mahomet. A powerful man, towering 6 feet and 4 inches, and a daring fighter, he commenced his career of conquest as a youth of 20 by leading a party that successfully wrested the historic home of his ancestors from a rival dynasty. He organized the unsettled Bedouins into civic communities under cover of a great Wahabi revival, the Wahabis being a fundamentalist sect of Mohammedans, and in 1913 drove the Turks out of Eastern Arabia. By 1925 he had swept over Hejaz and in 1926 was proclaimed King of the Hajaz and Sultan of Nejd. In 1927 he changed the title of sultan to king and on September 22, 1932 the name of his territory was changed to the kingdom of Saudi Arabia.

Senate Confers Honor On White

The following clipping was taken from a Pennsylvania newspaper, concerning Prof. Johnathan White, brother of Mrs. D. D. Overton, of Greenville:

Prof. Johnathan W. White, of the department of agronomy, has been named as the outstanding research worker on the campus in a report recently released by the Senate committee on research. This is the first year that such an honor has been conferred on a member of the faculty, according to Dr. Charles C. Peters, chairman of the Senate research committee.

Professor White, an international authority on soil research, will speak on "The Scope and Significance of Our Soil Research Program" in an open lecture in the Schwab auditorium on May 11. The selection of the outstanding man in research and a lecture by the person chosen are expected to be an annual feature.

Over sixty articles and bulletins on subjects relating to soil science have been published by Professor White. His research data has been widely quoted in American and European textbooks.

In 1929 he was honored by being chosen as a representative of the land grant college to visit Chiloic nitrate fields as the guest of the Educational Bureau of the Chilean nitrate producers. Professor White has done much of his work on the Jordan fertility plot of the College, which are the oldest field plot in America. His research has won him membership in five honorary societies.

Polish-German Good Will Pact Stifles Discord

Berlin — (AP) — Making good neighbors out of the Polish and German peoples is the object of a "gentlemen's agreement" which has followed signing of the non-aggression pact by the Berlin and Warsaw governments.

Waclaw Przesmycki, chief of the press bureau of the Polish foreign office, came here for a visit with Nazi officials and agreed with them upon measures to stifle the discordant factors which used to irritate the two nations.

As a starter, plans for unveiling a statue in the Oder district, inscribed "The Blazing Frontier" and designed to symbolize Germany's sorrow for lost territory, were abandoned.

Poland responded by cancelling her ban on a number of German publications, some of which had been barred since 1928. She also seized a Polish satirical journal which had caricatured Hitler.

The National Zeitung, journal of Herman Goering, militant lieutenant of Hitler, sent a special correspondent to Poland. He is sending back amiable and gracious articles on the country and its people. One story upheld Poland's right to the Wilno territory, noted home of contention between Poland and Lithuania. Russia recognizes Lithuania's claims there.

Poland returned the compliment by accepting without question the excuses of a German aviator who had inadvertently landed across the border. In former times such an incident would have raked a fuss.

A Pole at Bydgoszcz (formerly Bromberg) who attempted to snatch a swastika emblem from a German soldier's grave was seized by a Polish officer who told him in forcible language that the German had died for his country the same as Poles had died for theirs, and that he would not tolerate desecration of the grave. Moreover, a Polish post office official who had returned as "unknown" a letter addressed to Bromberg, informed that the letter had been delivered to the grave.

AAA Recommends 'Back To Grass' Move For Farm

Washington — (AP) — What are farmers going to do with the more than 40,000,000 acres, an area larger than Illinois, withdrawn from crop production this year?

"Back to grass" is the answer of the agriculture department. A picture of the new national plan for agriculture, slowly evolving at the department, might be drawn from remarks of agricultural officials, and it might be titled "Pastoral America" with a pleasanter farm life, more leisure, less drudgery and lower operating costs pictured as its chief advantages.

Joseph F. Cox, chief of the replacement crops section of the AAA says that the only "logical adjustment" in farm production is to "shift to grass" if the high-gear, commercial farming machine is to be slowed down without a jar.

While the replacement crops section is investigating plants producing drugs, insecticides, oils, perfumes, fibres and other products in an effort to find new crops for the abandoned acreage, Cox believes not more than 1,000,000 acres will be used in that way in the next few years.

Chester Davis, farm administrator, has pointed out that sowing more grass is a return from intensive commercial farming to a less intensive system, to the days before the war when farmers had not yet plowed up their blue grass pastures and meadows to plant corn and wheat.

Grassland farming takes less work than high-pressure plowland farming; it provides, speaking generally, a pleasanter farm life, with lower operating costs, less man-killing and woman-killing drudgery and more leisure, says H. R. Tolley, assistant administrator.

The practical effects of grassland farming are explained by Cox. It reduces the production of crops and yet does not necessarily increase the surplus of livestock products because each cultivated acre produces "cut twice as much animal sustenance" as does an acre of pasture. About 70 per cent of the present cultivated acreage, he estimates, is used to produce animal feed.

Other uses of various grasses are to prevent erosion by wind or water, choke weed growth, restore soil fertility, and to aid in controlling plant diseases harbored in the soil as a result of long devotion to one crop. That farmers are turning to grass generally is reflected in an increase in grass seed sales this spring.

 us to see something of the attitude of alarmists but rather the attitudes arising out of them will enable the social and economic changes that have taken place and the probability of cool and deliberate reflections with the purpose of defining some of our major problems and seeking solutions of them.

Those in attendance were a number from the State Department of Education, the president of the N. C. Educational Association, Superintendent G. B. Phillips, of Greensboro, and the president who has just retired, Clyde Erwin, of Rutherfordton. Superintendents, principals and classroom teachers from a number of the cities, towns, and consolidated schools. Representatives of all these appeared on the program and joined in the discussions.

In his address Dr. Hampton gave a scathing criticism of much of the secondary school program as it is now, but for every fault, he presented a remedy. He gave a keen and searching analysis of the program, first tracing briefly the historical development of the curriculum so his audience could compare the present educational status with the problems of the past and the reorganized educational program that we need. He took up subject by subject, covering the entire curriculum, showing how each could be reorganized with new direction, so as to function in the lives of the students and better fit them for taking part in the new order of society.

"Our educational program must make provision for the influence of these studies and teach people to enjoy and appreciate the things of life that contribute to the highest and noblest qualities of human beings. A new and enlarged program of fine arts together with enlargement of the physical education work must be made the basis for a large part of our education for leisure."

The first step in the reorganization of secondary education he believes, must be in the rationalization and assimilation of a new philosophy of secondary education built upon the civic, social, economic and industrial needs of the period in which we are living and dedicated to the task of aiding our students to participate in the reconstruction of the social order. Despite the efforts of educators to revitalize the secondary education through the development of a more functional, philosophy of education and through the extension of the curriculum offerings, the secondary school program has remained formal and disciplinary in content and teaching practices. New and old subjects alike tend to remain uncorrelated and there is little relationship existing between what goes on in the classrooms and the concepts of the philosophy of education, and the intangibles in education such as culture, appreciation and other vague generalities remain sufficient excuses and justifications for our practices.

The principal objective of secondary education, he said, should perhaps be the promotion of growth in the power of social understanding and adjustment. The accomplishment of such an objective would require a study of the evolution and present status of social institutions and customs and the immediate problems of civilization involved in them. Replacement of survey courses in history and social science by courses organized around significant movements and developments in history, government and other phases of social life and the replacement of recitation procedures by active use and interpretation of this data in the study of present social problems will be of value to the students and increase their interest and efforts in school work.

He said it was not his purpose to give the impression that the work of the high school has not been of sufficient value to justify it. To the contrary, the work of the high school he knew full well has been and is still of great value to society and it is worth much more than its costs. On the other hand, it can be greatly improved, he is confident, and much more valuable as a social institution by revision of its guiding philosophy and a reorganization of its curriculum and teaching practices. His paper was an attempt to bring a few indications of the attitude and manner of approach to these problems of reorganization.

President Wright in his address of welcome, stressed the necessity of an enlightened, intelligent citizenship in a democracy, which he fully believes is now moving forward, coming to its full growth. The public schools, he believes, should be twenty-five years in advance of the times because the boys and girls will have to take their place as leaders in the years ahead.

It has been difficult to forecast what life is going to be, but it seems to be moving toward collectivism. He contrasted with this the individualism that was for so long the leading characteristic of this country. He gave a picture of the future program of one's life, divided a man's day in two parts, one serving society through shortened working hours, and the other in which he will have the freedom to follow his own inclinations during his leisure hours. The highest type of character it is humanly possible to build will be required for living in the new order ahead, he believes, and the school must do their part in developing character.

The laboratory method now used by the government and found necessary in science and in business, he thinks should be followed in everything. The best methods can be found only by research and experimentation. He closed with a happy application to the present conference as one using the laboratory method.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 14 (AP)—The stock market was almost at a standstill in today's brief session.

Trading was the dullest since the early part of January. The more active issues held to narrow grooves and prices changes generally were unimportant. The close was fairly steady.

Transfers were 500,000 shares.

Both professional and public were inclined to hug the safety zone while waiting for developments on the domestic.

Congressional activity was still indecisive and the president's attitude toward disputed legislation was a matter of conjecture.

Equities received little encouragement from commodities cost which milled about in a rangeless range. Grains were a bit reactionary at one time and rubber and cotton were hesitant.

Silver futures were not buoyant although the bar metal was at 3-8 of a cent an ounce to 46 3-8 cents. Bonds were mixed. U. S. Government were firm. International dollar rates were stagnant.

Late News Flashes

Bailey joined with Thomas of Oklahoma in asking for rejection of the conference report on the bill.

The North Carolina senator said the bill would destroy the small producer. "If you are ever going to strike a blow in behalf of the humble man and assert the right of the little man to live, here is the best opportunity the Senate will have this session," Bailey added.

To Probe Passenger Rates.
 Washington, April 14 (AP)—A probe of passenger fare rates in the south and west was ordered today by the I. C. C. as result of the difference between the Southern Railway and other railroads as to rates that should be charged. The commission set a hearing before Division Two on April 23.

The railroads which have filed application for permission to cut existing rates after June 1 and all other parties wishing to be heard were asked to appear.

To Guarantee Principal.
 Washington, April 14 (AP)—Senate and House conferees today agreed on the bill to guarantee the principal of Home Owner Loan Corporation bonds after striking out the Norris amendment to bring politics into the selection of employees of the corporation.

The amendment by Senator Norris was advocated by President Roosevelt. It was approved by the Senate but eliminated by the House committee. The House refused to instruct its conferees to insist on its retention. The House receded on an amendment which would have made the bonds eligible for a discount at Federal Reserve banks.

Clubs Raise Books For The Library

 heart and called on the clubmen to do their best to provide additional books for the library. The public was asked to aid the Kiwanians in the movement.

Dr. Massey presented Miss Bessie Brown who delighted the audience with two solos. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. A. Tyson, Jr.

At the suggestion of Herman Duncan, the club decided to change the meeting hour from 6:30 to 7 o'clock during the summer months. Dr. McGeachy stated that delegates to the international convention to be held in Toronto, Canada, would be selected at the next meeting.

My Beauty Hint

By PEGGY TERRY
 (Screen Actress)

Sleeping out-of-doors, or on a sleeping porch, is an excellent tonic to keep one's appearance at its best. If one has no sleeping porch it is an excellent idea to sleep with all windows open, letting it all the fresh air possible. But be careful of drafts and beware of exposure to dampness.

Local Highs Trim Beaufort

Greenville defeated Beaufort, 2-1 here yesterday afternoon in a high school baseball game.

Greenville was held to two hits by Brooks of the visitors, but the two safeties were mixed with a walk in the second inning for the home team's base of runs. Bill Clark came through with the hit to bat in the runs. Moore's triple paved the way for Beaufort's run an unearned tally, in the fifth.

Ed Wells pitched for the home team and kept the visitors' five hits well scattered. Wells fanned 11 and Brooks struck out seven. Dunn caught for Greenville; Hassell caught for Beaufort.
